Takes His Wife Out to Sunday Dinner

There is a certain lady in Eastland who has made a declaration of independence. She refuses to cook on Sunday.

So the man of the house has adjusted himself very gracefully to the situation and takes his wife out to dine each Sunday at one of our local cafes.

No dishes to wash, no fussing over a hot stove, no planning of menus.

Sunday is HER day—a rest day that gives her a chance to recuperate from the household activities of the week.

The point of our story is simply this: We have good cafes in Eastland that specialize on Sunday dinners . Every thoughtful husband in Eastland will appreciate the suggestion, no doubt, that a trip to one of these cafes next Sunday would appeal very strongly to the wife. No charge for the suggestion! Wives may forward their expressions of thanks direct to-

Here are the principals and some of the mystic symbols in the "witch murder" case at York, Pa. In the center is John Blymer, who has been sentenced to life imprisonment for killing Neison Rehmeyer, who he believed had put a spell, or "hex," upon him. John Curry (left), 14, an alleged accomplice in the murder, is now on trial, and Wilbert Hess, 18 (right), will be tried next. Above are a circular diagram containing Latin, Greeg and Hebrew incantations, and the "omnipotent star," with which the witchcraft dupes believed spells could be performed. The western ranges may get a new breed of sheep if experiments now being conducted with the Australian Merino "Wanganella" in Wyoming prove successful. Above are shown two of the rams recently imported from Sydney, Australia, in an effort to get a longer staple wool. They are the first of their breed to come to the United States.
