Farm Boys' Projects Planned

Farmers Lead Movement For Coming Crop

Pure Maize And Cotton Seed Arranged For Boys 10 To 18 Years

Operation of a plan having as its object promotion of better cropping methods, lower production costs and improved markets for agricultural products is being started by a group of Howard county farmers and the agriculture committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, headed by Fred K. Staling with assistance of C. T. Watson, manager.

At a recent meeting of the farmers' committee and the Chamber of Commerce details of the plan were worked out.

A letter is being sent one farmer in each school district by the farmers' committee. These men are asked to go to their home schools and inform boys 10 to 18 years of age how they may obtain pure seed maize and cotton. Cards are being sent these farmers for distribution to the boys.

The program calls for the boys to plant five acres of maize or cotton, using pure seed.

Donates Seed

Mr. Keating, superintendent of the federal experiment farm, has agreed to furnish pure seed maize free of charge. Jim Black, of the Planters Gin company, will supply one bushel of pure Mebane cotton seed for three bushels of gin-run seed.

This fall a number of prizes will be awarded to the boys making the best records, based on money invested and production obtained from their cotton or maize plots.

Contact Men

Men who are being asked to continue on page 9.

Friend of ours told a good one yesterday that so fittingly illustrates the sentiment of a great portion of people after two or three years of "this here depression" that we can not refrain from passing it on:

An Irishman moved to West Texas years ago.

"Pat, are you a Democrat or a Republican?" he was asked.

"Which party is in power?" asked Pat.

"The Republicans," he was told.

"Then, be gorry, I'm a Democrat," Pat replied.

The following editorial, from the San Angelo Standard, also is very timely:

"The narrow margin of victory by which San Angelo's present city commission is retained for another two years is significant of the temper of the electorate of the country over. There is a great demand for change that likely will express itself in the general elections of this year. It is significant of the trend everywhere—one that carries warning to the Republican administration at Washington and giving Democracy assurance that its big moment has come.

"While the victors in Tuesday's balloting here can not figure this a big moment because of the slight margin of winning, they do have the opportunity to give great consideration to those who expressed a desire for change, to study the causes of this opposition and to enlarge their service to meet the demands of those who were in such slight minority.

"There were 2,869 voters sufficiently interested in the outcome to express themselves at the polls. That leaves 1,548 of the city's total strength—a large question mark in the public attitude toward civic affairs. Were they satisfied, what did they want? Those who hold office don't know. They only know they have been called to serve again. They are seasoned in the service of the city and the call received should challenge them the more to render the greatest good for the greatest number.

"San Angelo has, we learn from the above, experienced an election quite similar to that held Tuesday in Big Spring. If one lays aside all extraneous matters, and cleanses himself of prejudice, envy and malice, he can readily understand that the city commission in truth must wonder what a good portion of the people really want. And if they try to determine those wants it is our prediction that they will learn that many of those who by their votes showed they want some

BUSTER AFTER HIS 'WATERLOO'

Endeavoring to convince reporters and photographers that his airplane "retreat" with his two sons after an argument with his wife, Natalie Talmadge, was all in fun, Buster Keaton of the films struck this "dead pan" Napoleonic pose when grounded at San Diego, Cal. The boys are Joseph, 11 (left), and Robert, 10. "I just wanted to see who's boss," said Keaton.

VETERANS PRESENT PETITION TO CONGRESSIONAL LEADERS ASKING PAYMENT ON BONUS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several hundred veterans today presented congressional leaders with a petition for full cash payment of the bonus, claiming 2,900,000 signatures and delivered in twenty packing cases.

Queen Cotton Is Supreme In Local Store

J. & W. Fisher's Models Show Many Charming Cotton Frocks

All Big Spring tried to crowd itself into J. & W. Fisher's department store last night and almost succeeded. A large crowd of men and women enjoyed the open houses tendered by the management of the store, commemorating the announcement and display of spring styles in Virginia Hart dresses.

The Big Spring band, under the direction of G. A. Hartman, furnished many merry tunes and the lovely models made summertime appear on a stage where fluffy, ash-tinted frocks and lovely bare shoulders gleamed under the lights.

The models were Mrs. J. E. Briggs; Misses Claudine Miller, Martha Louise Robertson, Frances Wheeler, Maurine Leatherwood, Eva Todd and Mrs. Geo. Oldham.

They displayed every kind of cotton frock in the wardrobe; from sporty sports dresses to party frocks. The clock went around last night in cotton frocks every one of which was made in Texas, from Texas-grown cotton, and goods spun on Texas looms.

Emil Fehnenkamp made a speech of welcome and at the close of the evening, Gertrude McIntyre graciously thanked the guests for their presence.

The store was draped in all kinds of soft cotton dress goods and the general effect was enough to make even the least clothes-conscious man wonder that it would be a cotton summer.

All Former Service Men Urged To Attend Meet Monday Night

We will take into consideration National Commander Steven's statement relative to the bonus, and some action will be taken on this matter that night."

Corrections In School Tax Levies Made

Property Assessed In Wrong Districts, Audit Discloses

Recent audit of the county tax rolls disclosed instances where pieces of property in Howard county had been subjected to school district tax levies in the wrong district, with the result that the tax rolls showed credits for benefit of certain districts which belonged to other school districts. On account of the differences in the school tax rates between various districts certain taxpayers have been assessed in greater amounts than should have been assessed and others were assessed in lesser amounts than should have been assessed.

These facts are brought out in the minutes of the county commissioners court, which entered an order rectifying these mistakes in assessment of taxes.

Result of these changes was a net credit of $498.39 to common school district No. 18, the Forsan district, and total charges to district nine, the Chalk district of $1,505.39.

Orders

The following orders were made by the court to correct these mistakes:

Amerada-Dora Roberts lease, east half, southwest quarter, section 128, block 29, W&NW survey, with one producing oil well, transferred from district 18 to district nine.

Gulf-Gallagher non-producing lease, section 20, block 32, township 1 south, W&NW survey, transferred from district nine to district 18.

Dora Roberts, one-eighth royalty interest on Merrick and Bristol and Ward lease, southwest quarter, section 137, block 29, W&NW survey, transferred from district 18 to district 9.

California Company-Dora Roberts lease, southwest quarter, section 131, and north half, northeast quarter, section 156, all in block 29, W&NW survey, transferred from district 18 to district 9.

Humble-Clay lease, west half of section 138, block 29, W&NW survey, transferred from district 9 to district 18.

Humble-Douthitt lease, sections 115, 116, 117, 120, 121, 122 and 123, block 29, W&NW survey, transferred from district 9 to district 18.

Coden-Dora Roberts 'C' lease, north half of northeast quarter of section 128, block 29, W&NW survey, transferred from district 9 to district 18.

Prairie-Hyman non-producing lease, southeast half of section 85, block 29, W&NW survey, transferred from district 9 to district 18.

Dora Roberts' one-eighth royalty interest on California lease, southeast quarter, section 137, and north half of northeast quarter of section 156, and north half of northeast quarter of section 156, block 29, W&NW survey, credited all to district 18 instead of being allotted on the tax rolls.

Dora Roberts' one-eighth royalty interest on California lease, southeast quarter, section 137, and north half of northeast quarter of section 156, and north half of northeast quarter of section 156, block 29, W&NW survey, credited all to district 18 instead of being allotted on the tax rolls.

Autogiro Flight Gives Passenger Feeling Of 'Hanging' In Mid-Air; 'Dutch Windmill' Craft Seen Here

You've very likely wondered how it would feel to just 'hang' in the air.

I want you really to experience that sensation hop a ride in an autogiro.

With Don Walker at the controls and Lorin McDowell at his side in the front cockpit the writer experienced that new sensation at a point 1800 feet above the Big Spring airport Thursday afternoon.

Walker, who was here through courtesy of Harry Lester, dealer in auto supplies, who is distributor for super-dragon motor oil and Quality Brand piston rings, thoroughly demonstrated the maneuverability of the autogiro.

The flight showed that one really can fall 'straight down' in complete safety.

The rotors, that Dutch windmill contraption that whirrs above the craft, does the work.

The judge said he would try the case strictly on legal issues, without regarding political aspects.

Mr. Love claims the committee exceeded its authority under the state election laws.

Chief of counsel in the case is Murrell Buckner, Dallas county democratic chairman.

Developments In Lindbergh Kidnap Case Near Climax

HOPEWELL, N. J. (UP)—Developments in the search for the kidnaped baby of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh indicated today that police and private investigators for the infant's return believe a climax in the mystery is near.

Gov. Harry Moore of New Jersey repeated his statement made several weeks ago that the Lindbergh baby "is alive and well and will be returned." This statement followed a conference with H. Norman Schwartzkopf, superintendent of the state police in charge of the police search. Moore declined to explain the reason for his statement.

From Norfolk came an equally optimistic statement from the three men who are confident they have established contact with persons who have knowledge of the baby's whereabouts. John Hughes Curtis, one of the triumvirate, returning from a mysterious four-day journey, announced that the baby was "well."

"On my trip," Curtis said, "I made contact, and was informed by my contact that Charles was well. I saw Col. Lindbergh personally, but am not at liberty to say where. I regret my inability to say more at this time."

The Humid Mr. Hoover

THE DAPPER and dynamic Pat Hurley of Oklahoma, secretary of war, has become the Hoover spoken of in recent months.

Mr. Hurley's latest pronouncement covered the subject of prohibition. He let it be known that the administration favored, or at least was not averse to, leaving the question up to determination of the states.

Tom Blanton, so dry he squeaked said recently the president was as wet as the next one.

The question naturally arises: What is the dry voter going to do about it? Will he prefer the wet, or at least the moist, Hoover, to some wet or moist democrat?

The only potential candidate who does not seem bent on hedging is John Garner, if the dries curse him as a wet, he is silent; if the dries curse him as a dry, he says nothing.

the MAN HUNTERS BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY: SUSAN CAREY, an orphan, lives with her AUNT JESSIE on Chicago's west side and studies stenography at a downtown business school.

There was no denying that Susan was in the black books of that autocrat, Mr. Claude Block. The owner and president of Chicago's "most modern school of business" had not deigned to notice the girl since the unfortunate afternoon when she had had to repulse the unwelcome attentions of the loathsome manager of the Melo Iron Manufacturing Company.

Susan felt decidedly aggrieved. It was certainly not fair of Mr. Block to behave as though the girl had been hers. Decidedly it had not been Mr. Block who had been responsible for what had happened.

So she sat, forlorn and ignored while other less promising young women were dispatched to answer calls for stenographers.

His biting tone suggested that Susan could do nothing at all and she flurried at the implication. However, as she took the card bearing the address and turned to go, Mr. Block relented and called after her, "Good luck to you."

Susan, surprised, stammered her thanks and fled. She was relieved to find that the office she sought was on the twelfth floor of a new and shining building.

She walked to the street car that evening on this air. She thought: "I must wash my pink linen and clean my white shoes and give myself a manicure tonight." She remembered suddenly that she had promised to go to choir practice with Rose Milton and resolved to stop and confide the great news.

Her heart sang over and over "I've got a job. I've got a job!" She thought she should tell the street man who knew it. She tried not to smile to herself as she danced along. She thought she must look different to everyone. Even that conductor who took her money must notice. Rose Milton was not home yet her mother told Susan. Rose was working at one of the big Statist stores now. She was selling blouses and her ambition was to become a buyer. Mrs. Milton, fat and comfortable in a gay summer dress sat on the front porch fanning herself.

"Come in and sit down," she wheezed cordially, pushing some pillows back on the swing to make room for Susan. "I've got some lemonade on the ice so you're just in time."

Susan said really she couldn't, but found herself presently sipping the cool refreshing beverage from the tall green glass. Mrs. Milton made delicious lemonade. Good and not too sweet. No wonder the Milton girls had had such good times. Everyone liked to come to their house. Their mother was jolly and friendly and seemed to like young people. Susan sighed, thinking of Amy. Then she smiled. Anytime, remembering her heavenly wonderful news. Even Aunt Jessie would be pleased! How could she help it?

"Been seeing your young man lately?" Mrs. Milton asked, breaking into Susan's reverie. "The girl's name," "I don't know who you mean."

Mrs. Milton rocked with delighted laughter. "Oh, I hear it's a real killing!" He stopped in here one night and came to Rose for an hour. Said you didn't know much but that he would change his mind. Honestly, Sue," she continued in more serious vein, "you'd do well to encourage that young man. He has a future, mark my words!"

What did she care about Ben Lampman's future, Susan thought. He was a fine fellow, a real fellow, that was what! Not that she didn't feel, deep down, a glow of pleasure at the implied compliment. After all, he was the first young man to take a serious interest in her.

But she tossed her head. "I've got a job," she said, changing the subject. Her great news simply must be heard!

Mrs. Milton was instantly diverted, flatteringly interested. "No," Susan said, smiling incredulously. "Susan! I don't see how you can go with Rose tonight. Honestly, Susan, that's a million things to do at home getting ready."

Mrs. Milton clucked in sympathy, but when Susan rose to go she began to grumble a bit in good-natured fashion. "You girls, nowadays," she said. "I don't know what's got into you. When I was your age nothing on earth would have induced me to break a date or pass up a bit of fun. Now you're all business women, if you please, and none of you are thinking about getting married at all. It isn't natural. Look at Rose's Terry Sullivan after her all the time to name the day. He has a good little business out in Oak Park. She could have a nice apartment and maybe a little car but she'll not go. No, if you please, she must work up to the head of the department and get sent to Paris and I don't know what all!" Mrs. Milton sniffed. "You're all alike," she finished plaintively.

Susan patted her plump shoulder. "You don't really mind. You're just like to grumble," she laughed. "You're as proud as you can be of the way Rose is getting on."

Lola Price passed away Wednesday evening at a local hospital. Funeral services were held this afternoon in the Eberley Funeral Chapel with Rev. D. R. Lindley in charge. The burial occurred in the new Mt. Olive cemetery.

Vacant Dwelling Fires Increase; Agents Instructed

Due to unusual number of vacant dwellings destroyed by fire in Texas last year the state fire insurance commissioner, Raymond S. Mauk has recently sent fire insurance agents an 'agent's vacant dwelling inspection report' blank which they are asked to fill in after a personal inspection of all dwellings insured which are now vacant.

A copy of this report, Mr. Mauk writes, should accompany the vacant permit to the insurance company and also a copy should be sent to the local fire marshal.

"Naturally, if after an inspection you find the insurance too high, we shall expect you to reduce it accordingly or if any undue hazard exists it should be corrected," says Commissioner Mauk's letter to agents.

The fire marshals also have been asked to inspect insured vacant dwellings.

Mr. Mauk points out that in 1931 769 vacant dwelling fires in Texas caused loss amounting to $662,000 during January of this year of 45 fires in dwellings 71 were vacant. Twenty-two of the 71 blazes in vacant dwellings were reported to have been of incendiary origin. Eight of the 22 were over-insured. Approximately one-sixth of the dwelling fires are in vacant buildings "while one out of every six dwellings in Texas are not vacant," the commissioner points out.

Texas Topics

BY RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN—Should Rep. Leo Satterwhite of Ector former speaker, get into the railroad commission race, which he is considering. It would take one of the distinctive figures of the house out of the running for its membership next year. Mr. Satterwhite is the only man who after serving a term as speaker, felt he "hadn't had enough" and came back again to sit in the house. He is one of the outstanding representatives of the west in the law-making body.

First of the sheriff's appeals from fees which will be argued before criminal appeals court at Austin Wednesday of next week. This case will be Woody Townsend's appeal from the two-year sentence given the Bastrop sheriff on a $40 fee charge.

It will involve an issue that is in vogue of the free convicts, whether the prosecutors had the right to offer testimony about other assertedly unlawful fees besides that named in the indictment, and to build up the theory of "system" in the making of charges the prosecution claimed to be illegal.

After 21 months of clear record, Texas has had another lynching. Conditions are much better than when lynchings ran from three to six a year; and law enforcement now is such that the deeds of violence which so badly tear down law enforcement should no longer be possible.

Juries are administering penalties now in cases of violence and criminality that afford no ground for citizen to claim they have to break the law in order to bring its penalties upon criminals.

Cotton farmers will put in no extra acreage this year because of the discovery that another fuel can be made from cottonseed at around 40 cents a gallon. . . . But the importance of the discovery is not minimized by the fact.

The oil industry now sees an adequate supply of petroleum 40 years ahead. That is the longest period it has even felt assured of and oil men are coming to believe that when it is necessary to find more oil they can find it. . . .

But in time, there will be uses to which the cottonseed product may be applied under the new scientific development. And the costs may be brought down.

Texas this year has slightly under a million qualified voters—about 960,000. This does not mean it will cast over 900,000 votes in any election. Many do not use the franchise, though they would fight in a minute any effort to take it away from them.

Heaviest vote in history have run above 800,000. It will take unexpected zest in this year's races to exceed 700,000 votes, in view of the fact that the republican party will hold no primary, and the general election never runs as high as the primaries.

. . . And there is the man who suggested laying a good supply of two-cent stamps before congress raised the postage charge.

Aerial Travel On American Airways Lines Is Growing

If aerial travel is any indication of the trend of general business, the bottom not only has been reached, but prosperity is almost here, according to Jesse Maxwell, local representative of American Airways, who reports that during March the southern division of American Airways enjoyed the greatest business of its history.

March of this year showed an approximate eighty per cent gain in traffic over the same month of last year, and a sixty-six per cent gain over the month of February. During the last month 1,324 passengers were handled by the division as against 793 in February and 740 during March a year ago.

Not only were full ships reported on a considerable number of days during the period, but prior reservations forced the turning down of 11 passengers on one day and eighteen on another. From general indications, the month of April is expected to exceed that of March, since business during the first five days of the present month exceeded that of the previous one.

The reduction in fares, which were placed in effect over the entire American Airways system, more frequent schedules on some lines, and new Mexico City service are believed by J. K. Lyles, general traffic manager, to be partly responsible for the growth of the business.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Barlow, 1203 Fifth street, Friday morning, a baby girl.

New Tips On What To Serve With Various Salad Courses

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON

Deciding what to serve with salad is often a more perplexing problem than choosing the salad. This is a matter that always confronts the hostess, whether the occasion is luncheon, dinner, afternoon or evening party. The accompaniment varies with the type of salad, and the time at which served. Below are listed—according to type of salad—simple, easily prepared, attractive and flavorful salad accompaniments. The less substantial should be chosen for luncheon or dinner menu and the heartier for party meals in which salad is the main course.

1. Vegetable Salad Accompaniments
 - a. Very crisp crackers, spread with Peanut Butter and bordered with Fresh Cucumber Pickle Relish.
 - b. rounds of bread, toasted on one side and the untoasted side spread with Sandwich Relish and garnished with strips of pimiento.
 - c. Sandwiches spread with cream cheese combined with Evaporated Horseradish and French dressing. Use white or whole-wheat bread.
 - d. Toasted Cheese Rolls*
2. Meat or Fish Salad Accompaniments
 - a. Sandwich Relish in White Wheat bread sandwiches.
 - b. Lettuce, sliced Stuffed Spanish Olives and Mayonnaise Sandwiches.
 - c. Lettuce chopped Preserved Sweet Gherkin and Mayonnaise Sandwiches.
 - 3. Fruit Salad Accompaniments
 - a. Sandwiches of Peanut Butter and thinly sliced banana in white bread.
 - b. Sandwiches of Peanut Butter and chopped Dates in white bread.
 - c. Ipe Mission Olive Sandwiches*
 - d. Chopped nut, celery and Mayonnaise sandwiches.
 - e. Peanut Straws*

Toasted Cheese Rolls: Slice fresh bread thinly, trim crusts and place in a damp tea towel for 2-3 hours. Spread American cheese blended with tablespoons Tomato Ketchup. Form into rolls, toast and serve hot.

Ripe Olive Sandwiches: To one cup minced Ripe Mission Olives, add 1 cup diced celery and 1-2 cup chopped nut meats. Moisten with Salad Cream—spread between slices of buttered bread and cut into small fancy shapes.

Peanut Straws: Roll pie crust to 1-8 inch thickness. Spread with layer of Peanut Butter, having Peanut Butter about 1-1/2 inch thick. Fold all four of outside edges into the center, roll to 1-8 inch thickness again and cut into strips 1-2 inch wide and from 4 to 6 inches long. Place in a hot oven (425 F) and bake until delicately brown.

Man Charged In Mail-Order Deal Is Returned Here

Sheriff Jess Slaughter was to return Friday from Fort Worth with a man charged here in connection with activities as a mail order salesman of men's suits.

Officers said fifteen persons in Big Spring had dealings with the man. It is alleged that he hired a local man to assist him, the helper not knowing the "nature" of his game. He is charged with taking orders for suits, requiring a "down payment" of several dollars.

The house he is supposed to have represented informed officers the suits he took orders for are sold for five times the amount he charges and those who ordered from him are expecting the received C. O. D. parcel packages for $75 instead of $12, as he was offering the suits at two for $15, with a $4 down payment.

S. P. Jones is able to be at his office at the Jones Lumber company, following a minor injury to his back several days ago.

One secret of getting ahead

You need good health to succeed. Many a man has seen his chances go because he was too sick to keep pace with competition. Often his poor health was due to constipation.

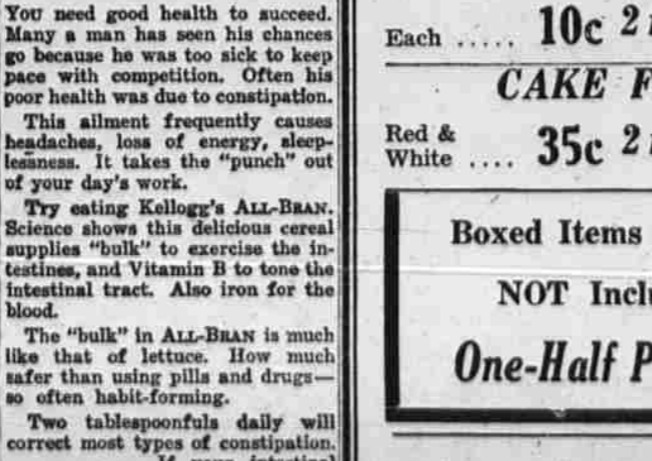

This ailment frequently causes headaches, loss of energy, sleeplessness. It takes the "punch" out of your day's work.

Try eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Science shows this delicious cereal supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN
The Underworld

The great emotions aroused by kidnapping of the Lindbergh child seem to remain a feeling of dull defeat. Men women continue to hope that show the kidnapers will be led to relent and restore the child, but in regard to the condition of general insecurity which feed is a heart-breaking symbol is a kind of despairing in-the authority of the government impaired by the humiliating exhibition it had given of starting something which it could not finish.

We may quite pertinently ask ourselves what there is in our national life which paralyzes our efforts to deal with this problem. We can not expect, I think, that a nation of pioneers and immigrants, who have lost touch with the established habits of the past and are still restless and unsettled in their constantly changing environment, should have attained the degree of order and discipline that exists among some of the reasonably hope that we would not sink into a defeatist attitude before the barbarism in our midst. There must be some reason why we are so continually frustrated when we seek to arouse ourselves into action.

My own notion is that we are constantly frustrated by two traditions which we deeply cherish. The first is our almost instinctive belief that the laws must represent not merely a reasonable adjustment of human interests but what the majority of the voters regard as the highest and noblest ideals. Thus American lawmaking makes no concession to the weakness of human nature. Our laws are written by men who have pledged their constituents by writing into law innumerable declarations of moral faith, and taken as a body the American statute books are an encyclopedia of moral perfection. They outlaw not only all crimes and frauds but also all the vices and peccadillos and impure thoughts of man.

So thoroughly imbued are the American people with the idea that the law must express moral perfection that a proposal to modify prohibition is widely regarded as propaganda for drunkenness, a proposal to modify the laws against other sins is regarded as an invitation to a carnival of immorality. As a result, the American people have insisted upon outlawing human propensities in which they rather generally indulge. They have pushed into the underworld activities which in all other civilized countries are regulated by custom and law. And by their moral fervor as lawmakers they have made a large part of the people allies and clients of law-breakers.

But not only do the American people insist that the written law shall be uncompromising with unrighteousness they insist at the same time that the government which executes these laws shall be weak. The same voters and the same lawmakers who enact laws that no despotism has ever been able to enforce are jealous to the point of absurdity at intrusting the executive and judiciary with power.

It is fair to say I think, that we have the strongest laws and the weakest government of any highly civilized people. Nowhere else, I think, are the police of a great city like New York under the control of politicians who are locally elected. Nowhere else, I think, are judges so tied to fluctuating political majorities and nowhere else are they so ignominiously entangled with legislative rules.

The American distrust of the executive and of the judiciary, which expresses itself in a refusal to give them authority and dignity, is, I suppose, an inheritance from the struggle of the colonies against the crown. Whatever its origin, there can be little doubt that Americans unconsciously think that the preservation of their liberty is bound up with the weakness of the executive and the judiciary.

These two ingredients of our national mind account in large measure, I think, for the rise of the underworld and for our impotence in combating it. By passing excessive laws we put a premium on lawlessness; by refusing power to the government we stultify the execution of the laws. These, too, are the reasons why our efforts at reform expire so quickly. Any reform that amounts to anything requires modification of laws which embody exorbitant moral aspirations and a grant of power which must look like an infringement of liberty.

The American people are as yet unprepared to give up their right to have laws which express their faith in moral perfection. They are unprepared to establish governments which have authority and power if that means giving up a measure of liberty and democracy. But until they are prepared to alter their basic prepossessions in these respects they will continue to have majestic laws and immense lawlessness.

Baptists Hold Conference At Mexican Church

The Workers' Conference of the Baptist W. M. U. of this association met with the Mexican Baptist Church Thursday for an afternoon session, following a general session in the morning and luncheon served by the hostess church at noon. Mrs. K. S. Beckett presided and Mrs. W. H. Arnett, of Greenwood gave the devotional. The meeting opened with a song service led by the Rev. Winston Eorum, of Midland, with Mrs. R. C. Hatch at the piano. The first part of the program was devoted to drills and songs by 18 Mexican children, in the church kindergarten who rendered choruses, pantomimes, hymns, health songs under direction of Mrs. Scott Cotten, wife of the pastor of the church. During the business session, a report was made by Mrs. Coffee regarding periodicals, which was followed by a general discussion; then a report on the young people's work by Mrs. I. A. Fuller and one on personal service by Mrs. Austin Walker, of Knott. Mrs. Walker reported that in cooperation with Rev. Mr. Reddock she had sent in 30 gallons of sweet milk and 15 dozen eggs to be distributed to the needy; and that other rural women had done the same things. Mrs. R. V. Harv gave the secretary's report. Mrs. S. H. Morrison reported on stewardship and Mrs. Hatch on appointment. The following churches were represented: First Baptist, Coahoma East Fourth Street Baptist, Greenwood, Courtney, Knott and Robinson Chapels, in addition to members of the hostess church. The next workers' conference will be held at the Greenwood Baptist church near Midland.

Autogiro

This cuts the engine power completely from the rotors but throws all of it into the propeller and at the same time allows the ship to be propelled forward. The craft would be wrecked if the rotors were opened while power still was being to the rotors.

Because of the added buoyancy of the rotors, which are revolved more rapidly after the ship gains forward speed—even though they receive no power from the motor—the ship may be made to gain altitude much more rapidly than most air planes and at less air speed.

The autogiro has a cruising speed of only 85 miles per hour. It can be looped but cannot be flown upside down. In making the steepest climb possible the passenger gets the sensation of riding in an automobile up a very steep hill and feeling the car slowly stalling just as it reaches the summit. You almost unconsciously want to "push it along a little."

Hanging Walker banked the craft several times and then "pulled up" directly over the landing field. Then he throttled her down and felt the ship "hang" in the air. The descent is straight downward or less abrupt as the pilot chooses. Walker set the "girs" directly downward for 1,200 feet, then "angled off" until it was less than 90 feet from the earth. Then it settled to the ground, landing so lightly that one would have thought it was a giant feather.

At the stage of the flight when the craft seemed to stand completely still in the air the writer's partner in the front cockpit yelled "I believe we're going to have to shoot that guy back there before we can ever get back to the ground."

Representing the manufacturers of Quality Brand piston rings, the "reared power" rings, Walker has been flying from town to town making demonstration flights, for several months. He started from Muskogee, Mich., and his itinerary calls for two full years of hopping each morning to a new town, making numerous short demonstration flights every afternoon.

sort of change will be found unable themselves to tell what changes they desire, or how they would bring them about.

Human weakness makes it easy to carry a chip on your shoulder, to offer destructive criticism of anything or any person. But moral courage is necessary for men to sacrifice their time and energy in the fact of what must often times appear to them to be ingratitude.

The nation owes no man a living unless that man is willing to put forth his own efforts to earn it. At the same time, the nation owes to all its citizens an opportunity to work for a living.

However, there is nothing to be gained for anyone by attempting to attach responsibility for lack of opportunities for employment upon those not wholly responsible for creating such opportunities.

For this reason one can easily understand their attitude if public officials who have put forth their best efforts to provide employment and relieve want feel discouraged in the face of unmistakably strong vote-disapproval of what they have done.

No public official can grab jobs and cash out of the thin air. He has only the means at hand created by public revenues, the volume of which is not determined by himself. When he has provided as much employment as possible from what he is given to work with he has done his best. And that is all that can be expected.

City Manager Plan Urged For Abilene

ABILENE—Petitions for a general mass meeting of citizens and taxpayers to decide whether or not the city commission will be asked to order an election to establish the city manager form of government in Abilene will be circulated in the next day or two, as the result of a meeting by a group of business men.

C. W. Bacon was elected temporary chairman of this morning's meeting, held in the director's room of the Citizens National Bank, and appointed a committee composed of Omar E. Radford, W. J. Fulwiler, S. M. Jay, George L. Paxton Jr. and H. O. Wooten to get signatures to the mass meeting call. The time and place of the proposed meeting is to be decided by this committee.

It was the unanimous opinion of the gathering that the city manager form of government is applicable to a city the size of Abilene and that it should result in effecting economies and increasing efficiency in the management of the city's business. Most of those who informally discussed the matter agreed that now is a good time to start definite action.

As pointed out that the first step, in case the commission is asked to call an election and does call it, will be to set up by formal election a charter commission to study and revise the city charter, without which it will not be possible to adopt the manager form. The revised charter would then be submitted to the voters for their approval or rejection. The proposal to set up a charter commission was defeated by a small vote two years ago.

Among those who expressed opinions in this morning's meeting besides those mentioned were R. M. Wagstaff, E. L. Thornton, J. O. Shelton, Russell Stephens, J. E. Grissom and G. B. Tittle.

Voting Strength In Counties Of West Texas Legislative, Judicial Districts Shows But Slight Losses

Howard County's Strength Among Others Of Judicial, Senatorial, Civil Appeals Court Districts

REV. D. R. LINDLEY

Rev. D. R. Lindley, pastor of the First Christian church, who began his third years ministry with the local church last Sunday. During the two years of Rev. Lindley's ministry here, the church of which he is pastor has shown a marked activity in both evangelism and religious education, 153 new members having been received into the fellowship of the church, and 160 leadership training credits having been issued to the leaders of the local church work. Despite the fact that Rev. Lindley took the work here just in time to feel full effect of unsettled business conditions, fifty per cent of the total indebtedness of the local church has been paid off since his ministry began.

Since becoming a citizen of Big Spring, Rev. Lindley has not only assumed a level of leadership in the religious activities of the city, but has also entered aggressively into the civic activities of the community. He is a member of the chamber of commerce, a director of the Lion's club, chairman of the Boy Scout committee for troupe No. 2, a member of the adult advisory committee of the H-I-L, is serving for the second year as a member of the central committee of the Community Chest, represented the churches of Big Spring in the unemployment drive sponsored by the American Legion, and has recently been elected to serve his third year as chairman of the Big Spring Pastor's association. He has made numerous addresses before the various civic organizations of the city in the interests of various improvement projects which have been undertaken here.

Rev. Lindley has a keen interest in the activities of the Young People. The church of which he is pastor sponsors three Christian Endeavor societies, a Boy Scout troupe and a Young People's Conference club. He is a regular attendant at the athletic contests of the local high school, is called on frequently to serve as a judge in debate or declamation contests, and was privileged to deliver the Macaulaurean sermon to the largest class ever to graduate from Big Spring high school last year.

In addition to his local work, Rev. Lindley is active in the work of his church in this area. Last year he served as president of the fourth district of Texas Christian churches and is now a member of the Texas Board of Religious Education, a member of the Future Work committee of Texas Disciples, is serving his third year as a member of the Young People's Summer Conference faculty at Center Point, Tex., and is an accredited study here, he transferred to Phillips University, at Enid, Oklahoma, where he received his A. B. degree in the spring of 1926. On March 17 of that year he was married to Miss Maybon Torrey, an Enid girl who was at that time enrolled in the university. During his senior year he was awarded first place in a sermon contest and was declared the preaching champion of Phillips university for that year.

During the last two years of his school work there, he was employed by the First Christian church at Chickasha, Okla., as the Grady county evangelist.

Upon graduation, Rev. Lindley rejected a call to become pastor of a strong church in Missouri in order to return to his native state of Texas, taking the work at Roysse City. After a year of work here, he yielded once more to the educational urge and entered the graduate Bible college at Texas Christian university, at Fort Worth, where he was granted a scholarship in Bible for two consecutive years. In order to be nearer school he accepted a call to the Central Christian church at Weatherford, Tex., where he served until he accepted the call to the local work. Upon resigning the work at Weatherford, Rev. Lindley was presented with a petition signed by a long list of members of the Weatherford church and of prominent Weatherford business men urging him to reconsider his decision and to continue on here. Rev. Lindley even went so far as to let some of the Weatherford men accompany him to Big Spring to consult with the pulp committee of the local church, with which Rev. Lindley had accepted a contract. After studying the opportunities presented by "the greatest city in West Texas," as he calls Big Spring, Rev. Lindley stayed with his original decision and began his work here April 1, 1930.

Rev. Lindley's family consists of himself, his wife and two boys,

In Trouble

That West Texas rapidly is coming to the place where its voting strength will be great enough to force numerous equalizations of authority and benefits from legislation procured directly or indirectly through the ballot is shown by poll tax receipts figures from Texas' 254 counties for this year.

Poll tax receipts issued in Texas for the current voting year total 1,043,418. This is a decrease of 7,014 or 6.5 per cent from the number issued in the last election year, 1930, and a decrease of 146,168 or 12.3 per cent from the number issued in 1929, the last presidential election year.

Contrary to the state-wide trend, however, the number of poll tax receipts issued in the 38 West Texas counties of the sixteenth congressional district increased from 65,312 in 1930 to 66,110 for this year, while the 1929 figure for the district was 63,419.

The 30th state senatorial district, composed of 24 counties in West Texas, has 46,102 poll tax holders this year compared with 51,635 in 1930 and 49,553 in 1929.

The thirty-second judicial district, in which Howard is located, this year has 11,051 poll tax receipts, compared with 13,807 in 1930 and 13,550 in 1929.

In the 91st state legislative district, including Howard, Glasscock, Sterling, Reagan, Tom Green and Irion counties there were issued for the current year 11,051 poll tax receipts compared with 13,380 in 1930 and 12,455 in 1929.

The eleventh supreme judicial district, with the civil appeals court sitting at Eastland, this year reports 56,909 poll tax receipts issued, compared with 17,669 in 1930 and 7,902 in 1927. It is noticeable, however, that the greater losses in number of poll taxes paid were in the eastern section of the district, rather than in the counties immediately east of Howard and including Howard.

Howard county's 3,634 poll tax receipts for this year represent 32.9 per cent of the voters in the 32nd judicial district, a gain of 4.5 per cent over 1930 and 12.4 per cent over 1928.

In 1930 there were 3,924 receipts issued in this county, while in 1928 there were only 2,803.

Howard county's strength among the 24 counties of the 30th state senatorial district also showed a slight gain this year. In 1928 Howard's 2,803 voters represented 5.6 per cent of the district's 49,553, and in 1930 Howard's 3,924 was 7.5 per cent of the district's 51,635.

This year, however, Howard's 3,634 is 7.8 per cent of the district's total, a gain for the county since 1930 of 3 per cent.

In the 91st state legislative district does this county show a loss in percentage of the total of poll tax receipts for the entire district. This year there are 12,771 in the district, of which Howard's voters represent 28 per cent. In 1930 there were 13,380 and Howard county had 29 per cent, a loss of one per cent. As compared with 1928, however, the county gained six per cent.

In the eleventh supreme judicial district this year 56,132 receipts were issued. Howard's total represents 6.4 per cent. In Howard's 3,924 was 5.4 per cent, a gain of one per cent. Compared with 1928 the county gained 2.8 per cent.

The county's strength among those of the sixteenth congressional district waned 6 per cent as compared with 1930. This year the 66,110 receipts are on record in the district, and Howard's total represents 5.4 per cent. In 1930 Howard's 3,924 was six per cent of the district's 65,312. Howard has gained 1.6 per cent as compared with 1929 when the district had 63,419 and the county 2,803.

"Alice: Come Home. All Is FORGIVEN" Few advertisements in your newspaper start that way. Yet most of them are just as personal, and almost as promising. Manufacturers and merchants must know your needs and wants, or go out of business. They must know, for instance, that about the first of next month you'll be very much interested in a new hat, or a new lamp, or new towels. They must foresee your wishes—and have what you'll want when you want it. And they do—constantly striving to suit, at the lowest possible prices. Then telling you in advertising of the gifts they have brought from the far corners of the earth, to please Your Royal Highness. Read the advertisements in this paper. They are addressed to you—personally. They bring you news of better things to have and easier ways to live. Intimate news, of immediate interest.
