DALLAS ASSAULT SUSPECT IS WOUNDED

Death Of Michigan Teacher Solved Taunting Message Leads To Shooting Of Man By Officer

Janitor's Son Tells Of Murdering Teacher

By United Press.
SHERIDAN, Mich., Dec. 10.—Sixteen year old Jimmie Deakin, son of the janitor in the Sheridan high school, today confessed he killed Miss Flossie Carter, school teacher whose body was found in her auto, on the lonely road near here Sunday afternoon.

The boy made a detailed confession to authorities this afternoon. He said he killed Miss Carter with a stone and then threw it in Sheridan lake, the officers said.

He was arrested early this morning. Deakin told officers he had harbored a grudge against Miss Carter for three years since she "cussed" him when he was her pupil in the fifth grade at Sheridan. He maintained throughout his confession that he did not assault the school teacher.

SHERIDAN, Mich., Dec. 10.—The romance of a college freshman and a pretty village school teacher was retraced by police today for a possible clue in the brutal murder of Miss Flossie Carter, 25-year old Sheridan school teacher.

Miss Carter's body, beaten and stripped of clothing, was found yesterday in a small coupe on a lonely roadside near here by Roy Collier, 14, a hiker.

Lee Bracey, a freshman at Olivet College, at Olivet, Mich., with whom Miss Carter was said to have had an engagement Friday night, was arrested at Olivet and returned here for questioning.

Contradictory statements made by the boy and his father, Dr. Lewis Bracey of Sheridan, caused police to detain the youth for further questioning. He admitted he had been in the village Friday night but denied any knowledge of the manner in which the girl met her death.

Captain Fred Armstrong, commenting on a suicide note found beside the woman's body, which read, "I did this myself, don't blame anyone else," who viewed the girl's body before it was removed from the auto, said it would have been impossible for the girl to have inflicted the injuries which caused her death.

Her head had been crushed, apparently with a hammer. Bruises on her throat indicated she had been choked. The floor of the coupe was blood-stained.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 10.—The Texas Christian University chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, will be host next spring to the other Texas chapters of the fraternity. Baylor University, Baylor College, Southwestern University and T. C. U. all have Eigma Tau Delta chapters.

Dr. H. L. Hughes, head of the T. C. U. English department and faculty sponsor for the local chapter has expressed the hope that the state meeting will concur with Thornton Wilder's visit to T. C. U. on April 23.

Dr. Townsend said today that not more than six cases had been reported to him, and that there was absolutely no ground for the rumor which indicated a spread of the disease.

With the exception of a few cases of influenza, the scarlet fever is the only contagious disease in Eastland at the present time.

Two Arrested for Attack Upon Three Dallas Girls Sunday Morning. Men Taken After Short Shooting Affray.

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 10.—A taunting message to the effect that Detective Captain Leonard Pazk was not smart enough to catch them today led to the shooting of Leroy Merriman and the arrest of Bennie Aldridge for the kidnapping and criminal assault of three Dallas girls early Sunday morning.

Merriman was shot in the forehead when he resisted arrest by Detective Bob Jones and was taken to a hospital where a guard was placed over him. The wound was said not to be serious.

Soon after arrest of the men, detective believed they had connected them with other crimes including a postoffice robbery in Oklahoma and another robbery at Cato, Oklahoma.

A note saying Captain Pazk was not smart enough to catch the two men gave him a clue which led him and Detective Jones to leave Dallas on the Greenville road to the north. Near Mockingbird, the detectives came upon a parked car and recognized one of the two occupants. Leaving their car, the officers ordered the men to get out and Merriman attempted to break away and was shot.

Two large Manila envelopes containing sheets of postal stamps and quantities of pennies are believed to have come from the Chaney, Okla., postoffice.

The three girl victims will be confronted with the two men later today to see whether they can identify them.

DALLAS, Dec. 10.—A man was arrested here early today by officers conducting a county-wide search for the two attackers of three 17-year old girls who were taken from their youthful escorts after midnight, criminally assaulted and left about 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning near the home of one of the girls.

The suspect was arrested in a small cafe by motorcycle officers when they noticed a physical characteristic described by the girls. Other details of the victims' description of their attacker talked with the man arrested.

The girls, after being left, made their way to the home of one of the girls where officers were notified. The three boys went to the home of a dairyman near the place where the girls were kidnapped and reported they had been held up and their girls taken from them.

The girls said the men carried them to a deserted lane in an auto and attacked them. One of the hijackers said he would "knock their d--- brains out" if they tried to get away, the girls said.

Parent Teacher Association: High School: Program: Dr. Roberts, speaker of the hour. Auditorium 3:30 p. m. Public invited. Breaking Ground for new Baptist church ceremonial. Program 4 to 5 p. m., in church edifice. Royal Neighbors of America 7:30 p. m., M. W. A. Hall.

SUNBEAM BAND WILL HAVE PART OF PROGRAM.

The ceremonial tomorrow afternoon of "breaking the ground" on which the new Baptist church will be built, is engrossing the hearts and minds of the church congregation, at the present moment, as well as the little folks, called the Sunbeam Band, which is as interested in its way, in the ceremony, as the more sedate faction.

The church program tomorrow afternoon from four to five p. m., will be concluded by a stirring song or chorus, "Sunbeams Helping Cherish," under the direction of Mrs. W. T. Turner.

Forty children will take part in this feature.

The first spadeful of ground will be turned by Ed T. Cox, chairman of the Building Committee.

The Sunbeam Band is busy rehearsing for its Xmas program, and with the Beginners Department of the Baptist school, will have their Xmas Tree in the Sunday School room on Saturday, December 22nd, in the church, when the program will be given.

Saturday of this week, the Sunbeam's will have a missionary tree at the church for their regular 9:30 p. m. meeting, and their sister offerings for missions will be hung on the tree.

The Xmas Story from St. Luke was beautifully told the children by Mrs. Turner, at the Sunbeam session last Saturday morning, when Mrs. Byron Hayes, was at the piano for the service.

LOVELY LUNCHEON PARTY FOR ELIZABETH ANN HARRELL'S BIRTHDAY.

Mrs. Tom Harrell tendered a beautifully appointed luncheon at one o'clock yesterday, at the family residence, when the guests were the more intimate friends of her small daughter, Elizabeth Ann Harrell, whose tenth birthday was celebrated on this happy occasion.

The square luncheon table, laid in Madeira, was centered with a gayly dressed little Xmas tree, hung with the plate favors for each small guest.

Ribbons from the favors rayed to the covers, where places were indicated by poinsettia cards or flower souvenirs.

The menu of bouillon with toasted wafers had second course of young chicken, peas, carrots, creamed potatoes, cranberry jelly, a vegetable salad, and celery, with dessert of fruit cake and ice cream, and hot chocolate.

The lovely white iced birthday cake, topped with green flower holders, filled with lighted red tapers, had a place of honor on a serving table, beautifully decorated with roses.

During the play hour, when the many lovely gifts which had been heaped about the Xmas tree, were opened, the little folks were served with generous portions of the birthday cake.

Mrs. Harrell took the party to the Comelle Theatre matinee where it greatly enjoyed, the picture offering.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

The program at that time will be, "Two Famous Medieval Stories." Preparatory reading, Mrs. J. B. Johnson; The Cid; Characteristic passage and incident of the Counts of Carrión, Mrs. W. A. Hart, The Cid Pawns His Coifers, Mrs. Ora B. Jones, The Cid Ballads, Mrs. A. J. Campbell. CHURCH OF CHRIST DEMONSTRATION: A vivid presentation of the dramatic and spectacular history of the Canaanites, was presented by Mrs. Anna Craig, on the occasion of the demonstration by the Church of Christ, Saturday afternoon.

In spite of the disruptions the Yuletide season brings, as well as much sickness in the city, there was an attendance of twenty children, and six mothers. The visitors assembled in the church, were led in song service by Rev. H. W. Wrye, and then conducted to the object room by Mrs. E. D. Hurley.

Mrs. Craig told the story of the location of the Canaanites, west of the River Jordan in the lowlands, and how they vaunted their belief that they were invincible, and would conquer by their own right and might in the coming battle with the Israelites.

The Canaanites worshipped neither gods nor idols, but were materialistic in their lives and practices, being a self seeking people. The Israelites crossed the River Jordan into the territory of the Canaanites, and "destroyed them and all their possessions."

The analogy was drawn by the speaker, between the physical and spiritual dependence of man. The land of Palestine was splendidly delineated and as the military bodies progressed, the grouping was shown with historical accuracy on the bas relief. The history of the Twelve Tribes of Israel is reaching a magnificent climax.

The next subject will be thy Terizites, a self pleasing nation. Mrs. Tom Harrell will lead the demonstration, Saturday this week.

HIGH SCHOOL P. T. A.: Eastland patrons are reminded of the high school parent teacher association meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the school auditorium. Some delightful music will be given on the program to be presented, which will be featured by Dr. Roberts, of Randolph College at Cisco. There will be short, snappy, talks by local parties, and the Parent Teacher Association will offer their hospitality in the cafeteria after the program. Very charming invitations have been issued by the association for this meeting, and one thought expressed in the invitation may be stressed, "We are taking this means of forwarding the work and interests of the High School P. T. A., rather than the old plan of working in various ways to raise money."

A CORRECTION: The Question Club will be entertained with one o'clock luncheon by Mrs. Alex Clarke on Wednesday. An incorrect announcement of the meeting was made in Sunday Telegram Calendar thru an accident.

Two important wells have started, and it is probable that two others will be started soon, in the Eastland County oil field. The Texas Fidelity Company has started the Massey No. 1, three miles north of the famous Hohertz lease of the Texas-Pacific Coal and Oil Company. It is expected to strike the shallow sand but if this is not found drilling will continue to the Ranger pay.

Close to the Hohertz is being started another well on the Stewart brother's ranch. This is two and a half miles south of the Massey.

A well that should be completed soon is Payne et al on the W. R. Jackson, south of the Nannie Walker, about 11 miles north of Ranger, the 2,000 foot level is the goal. It is thought likely that two wells will be started soon in the Sibley pool.

WHAT'S DOING IN WEST TEXAS Shamrock is considering the acquisition of a landing field for airplanes. A one hundred and twenty acre plot in either the regular L shape or a T shape one of similar size will probably be decided upon by the city manager and other city officials interested.

Myrtle went without her. Some- times she resented her roommate's aloofness with George and the boy friends she had begged him to introduce to Jerry. But she knew how Jerry felt tonight—that she hadn't the least desire to go out. And judging from the snatches of information she had been able to obtain from her, things hadn't gone so well between Jerry and Alester, either.
Jerry was thinking of Alester while she waited patiently for the small flatiron to heat on the gas plate. He certainly had been frosty because she had refused to "do" another roadhouse with him last night.
Suppose he remained angry? Jerry grimaced. After she had lost her job trying to impress him. And Dan was through with her, too, because she hadn't tried to play up to him. It looked as if she had been completely annihilated.
The telephone rang while she was pressing the dress she would wear the next morning. The door was partly open to provide air circulation. It was a warm night. She could hear the landlady take down the receiver and utter a curt, "hello."
"Miss Ray," she could hear the landlady announce upstairs. Jerry replaced the iron on the gas plate and turned the flame low. Her first thought strangely was that Dan was calling. No, she was sure he wouldn't—but it might be Alester.
She hurried down the stairs, her haste induced by nervousness rather than a desire to talk to Alester. She felt she was in no mood to be pleasant to him if he indicated a desire to prolong his ill humor of the night before.
"Hello," she said stiffly, and then barely suppressed an exclamation of pleasure when she recognized the voice at the other end.

It was Dan.
"I'm just around the corner, in a cigar store," he told her. "My car is already parked in front of your place. I'd think I was the luckiest man in New York if I found you in it when I get back there."
Jerry did not hesitate over her decision.
"I'll be down in 10 minutes," she said breathlessly.
She was true to her word, but in those 10 minutes she had found time to remind herself that Dan Harvey was a menace to her aspirations.
There was no denying it. Every time she saw him she thought she fell a little deeper in love with him—not enough yet to cause her to throw up all plans for the future she urgently desired but enough to rob that hoped-for future of much of its glamor.
Was she, at last, on the brink of the chasm that had swallowed Doris and the rest of her friends? No, no, she must remember, no matter how much she might love Dan Harvey, that love did not last. What was that immortal wisecrack about the diamond bracelet? Well, that was true. It did last forever! but a kiss—
Dan wanted to know why she had not waited for him in the garden. This was her opportunity, Jerry saw, to let him know that Alester came first in her thoughts. Yet surely Dan must suspect that Alester hadn't as yet asked her to marry him—he wouldn't be here if he hadn't guessed that such was the case—perhaps Alester had told him, Jerry reflected uncomfortably.
Dan might know more about Alester's intentions toward her than she knew. The thought robbed her of all power to speak of Alester's priority rights to her affections.

"You were gone a long time," she said truthfully. "I was cold in my wet dress. Alester came along. He took me there so he thought he ought to bring me home," she added lamely.
"I couldn't find your wrap," Dan explained. "I hope you didn't get chilled driving home."
Jerry wondered why he bent such a queer look upon her. It never occurred to her that Dan was seeking information. He wanted to know how and when she returned home. Knowing Alester as he did he half suspected he would try to make a tour of the roadhouses if Jerry insisted upon leaving the Rolling Stone Inn. He thought she had insisted last night.
It had been a terrible shock to Dan to see Jerry there. Her presence revealed to him that Alester's interest in her was deeper than he had at first assumed it to be. His hope that Alester would forget her when she left Long Island was shattered then.
He, himself, had gone to Leontine's place because he knew Alester would be present and because he had promised Carstairs, senior to keep an eye on his pleasure-loving son.
"Alester got my coat; it was upstairs in Leontine's room," Jerry answered his remark. "But I was a little cold coming home just the same."
The relief Dan felt upon hearing her words was not unmixed with a new apprehension.
What was she doing in Leontine's room? Leontine did not permit casual visitors up there.
"Good Lord," he thought. "This kid needs someone to look after her."

"Jerry," he said suddenly. "I've got something to say to you. I wish I didn't have to say it like this, in a car, but it means just as much to me here as any place else. Jerry, I want you to marry me. I want you to—more than I ever thought it possible to want anything like that."
Jerry turned her head to look at him. They were driving on Broadway and his eyes were fixed on the traffic ahead of him. Jerry could hardly believe that he had just proposed marriage to her. One hand was on the steering wheel, the other on the gear lever.
Could this be the same man who had held her in his arms last night and kissed her so fervently—this man who did not even look at her when he asked her the most important question that can ever be put to a girl? Nothing but the tenetness of his voice was in keeping with the significance of that tender scene; it alone betrayed emotion.
"Oh, why did I come out with him?" Jerry asked herself.
He had already told her he loved her. She might have known that he would want to widen the scope of those words. Dan was that kind of man. Why had she thought she could ignore what happened last night? Now she must put an end to their—friendship. And that she was reluctant to do—she didn't want Dan Harvey to leave her, never to come back.
But if she said yes! How could she know—Doris said Harry had promised her a nice little home. Dan hadn't promised anything. And she felt she didn't love him so much she couldn't live without him. He ought to ask her if she—

HARBIN, Manchuria.—A well-dressed Chinese and Japanese made their appearance at the local postoffice and took delivery of 30 parcels addressed to them from Hamburg. The parcels were carried out and placed into a taxicab—but here an altercation arose between the two as to the direction in which the car was to proceed. This quarrel drew the attention of a police officer—who ordered the car to be driven to the next police station. At this the two men took to their heels and disappeared.
When inspected the parcels were found to contain a large consignment of heroin, worth $35,000. Cleverly masked among miscellaneous goods. A further lot of similar parcels was then discovered undelivered at the postoffice, and yielded a further $50,000 haul of drugs.

—THESE ADVERTISING MERCHANTS BELIEVE IN TAKING SOME OF THEIR OWN MEDICINE, AND THEY DON'T MIND TELLING YOU WHY IT PAYS YOU, TOO, FOR THEM TO ADVERTISE.
Now and then a merchant seeks to convince his customers that he does not advertise extensively in the newspaper because, should he do so, he would be compelled to pass the cost of such advertising on to those who purchase his goods. He strives to cover up his short-comings or the faultiness of his merchandise. Only that merchandise which is worth the money asked will stand the test of newspaper advertising and the scrutiny it brings. Patronize the merchants who advertise. His merchandise is always fresher; you will find no old goods lying on his shelves, and he can sell you the latest that the market affords for less money.

Sports Matter

By United Press.
The National League, still staggering in prestige because of what the mighty New York Yankees did to its representatives in two successive World Series, has at least one thing on which to pride itself—the crop of second-year players who have made good.

The first year in the majors means not too much in the career of a ball player. A recruit is likely to swat at a .600 pace the first few weeks and then gradually slump to end up the season over .300. It is the next season that provides the test because by that time pitchers have learned his weaknesses if any and are better able to cope with him.

Thus the National League is particularly fortunate to have about a dozen players who have fared so well in their second year that in the recent voting for most valuable players all received some support.

Let us list Boyd Wanner, the little poison of Pittsburgh's famous brother act, Lance Richbourg of the Braves, Frank Hogan, Melvin Ott and Andy Reese of the Giants, Ethan Allen of the Reds, Fresno English of the Cubs, Fresno Thompson of the Phillies, Harvey Hendrick and Lefty Clark of the Robins and Carmen Hill of the Pirates.

Hill a Veteran.
Despite the fact that all of these are one year past the debutante stage in their big league careers not all of them are youngsters. Carmen Hill for instance, is 33 years old. He actually was signed to Pittsburgh 13 years ago and then set forth upon minor league experiences that seemed to lead nowhere until the Pirates called him back to be a big factor in the pennant drive of 1927. Last summer, starting with a poor arm, he didn't hit his stride until June and yet managed to win 16 out of 26 games.

seldom get their due because of the glamor that attaches to the stars of league leaders. Hence we do not hear as much of Lance Richbourg, Ethan Allen and Fresno Thompson as of some of the other "two-year men."

After a checkered minor league career of eight years that ranged from Grand Rapids to Dallas, to Nashville, and to Milwaukee, Richbourg finally got his chance in 1927 with Boston. He batted .309 that year and did pretty well in the outfield.

This year he came into his own. In 148 games he hit .339, made 24 two-baggers, 12 triples and scored 103 runs, a fine record for any second year man you might name. He is a graduate of the University of Florida. Here is a young man who had only ordinary baseball ability to begin with but whose courage and character have made him a star.

Ever since the Armistice day dedication of the big modern airport, Ranger has been recognized as a key city in air transportation in West Texas and the establishment of a training school for flyers further establishes this city as an air center.

TITLED WOMEN DEAL IN DOGS

Since the craze for dog racing has spread in England many women of title have taken up the rearing, buying and selling canines. At a recent large sale in London many women figured as buyers and sellers of greyhounds. Lady Chesham disposed of two dogs for $400, and another woman purchased three, including a puppy, for $365. At the Moorvale Kennels, in Buckinghamshire, girl students are proving in many ways more successful with the highly nervous greyhounds than men. One successful woman student has just opened boarding kennels where she will train racers for their owners.

What They Have On Their Chest

Fortune's Misfortunates.
Stanton Reporter: About twenty years ago this writer, then a small chap, passed through Stanton in a covered wagon. As all of our readers know, who have ever traveled in that leisurely manner, one has more time for a lasting impression of a region to be created than in these days of fast motor cars. At that time land here was cheap. The resources, other than grass, of this vast territory had never been touched. In fact, at that time we remember hearing older people say that this was not and never would be a farming country.

Do not repine, Editor Glaze. You are only one of a million Texans who might have become rich and indolent had their eyes of twenty years ago discerned what their optics gather in today. When you passed through Stanton two decades ago, housed and motivated by a covered wagon, you were fascinated by the prospect of endless plains and exalted by the surging aspirations of youth. Then, you little recked that those widespread acres, which you might have chosen a fortune from, would in a score of years be held at prices above your reach. Still less recked you that of all the wealth-producing activities at your command in those early days you should, under the tyranny of fate in its ceaseless turning, become not an agricultural magnate, not a cattle baron, not a capitalist with farms to sell to land-hungry newcomers, but, instead, an editor. Fortunate it is that in our buoyant boyhood our vision does not pierce the veil that conceals the future. Had you but glimpsed the prospect that you would not own great bodies of ground or great herds of steers or great blocks of business buildings—had you but a single intimation that you would become an editor, you might have sought the nearest water hole and drowned yourself. Lacking prevision, you are now an editor instead of a great man. But you are a good editor, and who knows but you are more useful to the people than you would have been in the capacity of industrial captain? Bad as it is for them, editors are necessary in the modern scheme of life.

Air Training School Opens At Ranger Airport

RANGER, Texas, Dec. 9 —Ranger is the home port of a beautiful biplane.

A training school for pilots will be conducted, further enhancing Ranger's position as an air center; passengers will be carried on Sundays and holidays, and cross country trips will be made.

La Pierre Cavendar, the pilot, has had 5,000 hours in the air and has had nine years' experience, including a year in the air mail service between Minneapolis and Chicago. Both plane and pilot are licensed by the Department of Commerce.

The ship is a Waco "9"—a new plane with a 90 horsepower Curtis OX5 motor and carries two passengers in addition to the pilot. It has dual control for student training. Its top speed is 100 miles an hour, or 90 for cruising. It has a radius of 350 miles.

Cavendar arrived in Ranger Saturday afternoon. He has been at Love field, Dallas, for some time but will make Ranger his home. The plane and pilot are here through the recent formation of the Ranger Air Transport company.

Beginning today, the plane will carry passengers and, as soon as students enroll, the training school course will begin.

Several Ranger men are planning to learn to fly and it is probable that others in this territory will take advantage of the oppor-
