RAF Blasts French Coast, Brest Harbor

Nazi Battleships
Believed Damaged
By Sky Raiders

LONDON, March 31 (AP)—RAF bombers and fighters blasted the French "invasion coast" and German channel shipping by daylight today in a fiery follow-up to a night raid on the Nazi battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau at Brest.

The air over the Dover Strait was declared "humming" throughout the morning and early afternoon with British planes, and the heavy clump of falling bombs could be heard plainly on this side of the channel.

Observers watching through glasses also saw water shooting into the air near the German-occupied shore. This was believed to be a continuation of attacks on German shipping which earlier in the day was reported by the air ministry to have left two German tankers afloat and sinking.

In last night's attack on Brest the air ministry said that no direct hits were observed on the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, but that their docks were "straddled from all directions by medium, large and very large bombs."

The 26,000-ton Nazi sisters ships are believed by the British to have been carried out by "a powerful force" of British bombers, was said to have left furious fires blazing.

Satisfaction

NEW YORK, March 31 (AP)—Frank Donadio, gatekeeper for the Staten Island ferry, slammed his gates in the face of commuter William Walsh.

Walsh stepped into a nearby bakery, purchased a lemon meringue pie while the ferry made the round trip and was first on line at Donadio's gates on his return.

Walsh is now serving a 10-day jail sentence, but he's happy.

He threw the pie in the gatekeeper's face.

Redistricting Bill Clears Big Hurdle

AUSTIN, March 31 (AP)—After only two hours of debate, the house today passed to final reading a bill redistricting the state house of representatives for the first time in 18 years. The vote was 87 to 50.

Foes of the measure offered a long string of amendments but all were voted down by comfortable majorities.

AUSTIN, March 31 (AP)—Proposed redistricting of the state house of representatives for the first time in 18 years comfortably cleared its initial hurdle today when the house refused, 78 to 53, to strike out the bill's enacting clause.

Rep. Dewitt Kinard of Port Arthur, floor leader for the measure, contended that the new districts would be much more in line with existing population than the present districts.

"At present," he said, "we have districts with as few as 19,000 people and as many as 150,000. That spread would be considerably narrowed by this bill."

The proposal generally would give additional representation to the big city counties and parts of West and South Texas and decrease representation of sections of North and East Texas.

Rep. Mark Halsey of Lubbock, co-sponsor of the bill, said it would give West Texas eight more representatives.

Several representatives protested against what they called "the abolition of my district." The bill's supporters replied that because of population changes, some districts had to be eliminated.

"The constitution," argued Kinard "says that the legislature shall redistrict the state after each federal census. That constitutional mandate has been ignored long enough."

Rep. Taylor White of Odessa asked the measure's critics if they didn't agree the more populous districts were entitled to additional representation.

"I represent 13 counties with a population of 80,000," he said, "which is about twice the average population. We in that district are heavy taxpayers."

For Reasons Of Defense --

TSES Urges Workers To Register

An appeal to workers in this area, as well as throughout the state, to register at once with the Texas State Employment Service office at 105 1/2 E. 2nd street was issued today by O. R. Rodden, local TSES manager.

Rodden's appeal was coincidental with one by J. H. Bond, state TSES director, who said that the registration of workers was being effected as a nation-wide program for national defense.

Rodden disclosed that the TSES hopes to find out by April 15 exactly how many workers in the state are available for jobs or

ROME, March 31 (AP)—Italy acknowledged today the loss of three cruisers and two destroyers in a naval battle with British warships and said that, while British losses were not determined, they "might have been serious."

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, March 31 (AP)—The British warships which won "the battle of the Ionian sea" returned to port today without an outward sign of damage.

LONDON, March 31 (AP)—Five fascist warships—and perhaps two more—were sunk by British naval forces in a great weekend sea battle in the Eastern Mediterranean and more than 1,000 Italian survivors have been picked up, the admiralty declared today.

About 1,500 Italian seamen were believed to have perished, since the normal complement of the vessels the British said were destroyed was about 2,500.

Except for attacks by German dive-bombers, a communique said, 200 or 300 more could have been rescued during the engagement—the biggest of the war—in which the British also claimed serious damage was inflicted on an Italian battleship of the 35,000-ton Littorio class by aerial torpedoes.

Athens dispatches said survivors of three destroyed cruisers, the 10,000-ton sisterships Flamma, Pola and Zara, had been landed at Piraeus, port of Athens, along with men from a destroyer which the British have not claimed.

At the other end of the Mediterranean, other British warships sought to halt a French convoy and exchanged shots with shore batteries on the Algerian coast, the admiralty said, in the fourth clash between Britain and her former ally since France capitulated last June.

Britain contended that the French opened fire to prevent the normal process of "visit and search" and an authoritative source declared she intends "fully to maintain" her belligerent rights of blockade despite French objections.

City, County Men Go To Stamp Plan Meeting In Ablene

Representatives from the city and county left early Monday for Abilene to participate in a survey hearing conducted by Dewayne Kreeger of the Federal Surplus Marketing Administration concerning applications for operation of the food stamp plan here.

Upon results of the hearing will depend the chances of Howard county to be included in a current expansion program for the stamp plan.

Other counties affected by the hearing are Coleman and Jones. Howard county has been seeking the plan for two years.

Unhappy Classroom Story Comes True

MANHATTAN, Kas., March 31 (AP)—Dr. W. E. Grimes, economics professor, told his Kansas State college class about profit and loss.

"If a man's garage burns down," he lectured, "he suffers loss."

At home hours later, the professor looked outside, received a practical lesson in economics. His garage was on fire.

The phenomenon, according to bureau attaches, was produced by refraction of the sun's rays through high clouds of ice crystals. This produces a circular effect, the inner color of the sky having a dark appearance.

The halo was classed as a 22 degree affair, a common variety, distinguished from the 46 degree type which plays such illusory tricks as a triple moon or sun.

Solar halos, although noticed by the average person less frequently than lunar halos (that old circle around the moon), are much more common since the sun shines everyday, whether we get a peek at it or not, whereas the moon's periods of brilliancy are limited.

Halos, reported the bureau, are distinguished from coronas in that they are produced by ice crystals whereas the latter are caused by water droplets.

Monday's halo occurred due to high clouds coming as a fore-runner from a low pressure area in the Pacific off the coast of Oregon. First of the secondary effects from the area was the "trough" which caused Sunday's wind. As conditions were shaping up Monday, there was little indication of radical change in the weather for a day or so.

Spirit— Edith Bell, 19, of San Diego has been chosen to typify the spirit of the aircraft industry. She is displaying an exhaust manifold made at San Diego. Miss Bell won 24 beauty and dramatic contests in Kansas where she was educated.

City Election Due Tuesday

Big Spring voters will elect two city commissioners for two year terms in balloting Tuesday.

Only two names are before the electorate—those of Grover C. Dunham and T. J. A. Robinson, incumbents.

Balloting will be in the city fire station and L. S. Patterson is election judge.

Any person qualified to vote under state election laws and who resides within the corporate limits is entitled to cast a vote in the election.

The vote Tuesday is the earliest in years, since city commission elections are fixed by law for the first Tuesday in April, which happens to fall on the first day of the month this year.

Despite the fact that there will be no opposing candidates, officials urged a representative vote. Polls open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Circle Around Sun Was Not So Rare Solar Halo

That circle around the sun Monday noon—in case you saw it and were interested—was a solar halo.

Not an unusual condition, said the U. S. weather bureau, but one not often noted by the lay observer. It might or might not be an indication of stormy weather.

The phenomenon, according to bureau attaches, was produced by refraction of the sun's rays through high clouds of ice crystals. This produces a circular effect, the inner color of the sky having a dark appearance.

The halo was classed as a 22 degree affair, a common variety, distinguished from the 46 degree type which plays such illusory tricks as a triple moon or sun.

Ship Sabotaging Spreads Widely

WASHINGTON, March 31 (AP)—The sabotaging of axis ships tied up in American waters spread to Central America today when their crews set fire to a German and an Italian vessel in Costa Rica.

This development followed yesterday's seizure by the United States coast guard and navy of some 300,000 tons of Italian, German and Danish shipping docked at widely scattered ports. More than 60 vessels were taken into "protective" custody after a discovery was made that at least 20 of the Italian ships had been badly damaged by their crews.

Official Reaction Show In Coming From Berlin And Rome Authorities

Official reaction was slow in coming from Berlin and Rome, but in New York, Italo E. Verrando, general manager of the Italian line in the United States, said that "everybody knew" that the United States government was going to seize the ships "for us as planned."

The "prearranged plan," he said, had been "in the offing for some time."

"They (American officials) have been talking about it for months," Verrando declared, "and all that remained was to find a legal way to do it."

The Italian embassy in Washington, he added, would study the legality of the action.

United States Likely To Take Over $60,000,000 Normandic In New York

Unnamed federal officials in New York were quoted as saying that although no order had been issued it was "quite possible" that the government would take over the $60,000,000 French liner Normandic and five French freighters tied up in New York. (In Berlin, it was said the German government's attitude probably would be made known later today.)

When the Danish ships were seized, two Icelandic vessels berthed in New York were not disturbed.

Italian Captain At Houston Says His Superior Told Him To Destroy Ship

Twenty of the Italian ships, officials said, had been put "completely out of business" and Captain Raute Ernesto of the Italian freighter Mongiolo taken over at Houston, Texas, said he had received orders from the Italian naval attaché at Washington to destroy the machinery of his ship.

The government here was believed to have acted primarily because of the reported discovery of sabotage but the decision may also have been influenced by the indications of a concerted German-Italian attempt to get as many axis ships as possible out of hemisphere ports.

Some axis ships put out to sea from South American ports during the week end to try to break through the British blockade, and others apparently were getting ready to depart.

World War Anti-Sabotage Act Made Seizure Of Foreign Ships Legal

The government acted under a World War anti-sabotage statute which authorizes the coast guard to assume custody of foreign ships and remove their crews when a captain permits willful damage to the vessel. This law also provides that any ship that actually has been damaged may be declared forfeited to the United States.

Samples of the damage reported: New Orleans—Propeller shafts of the hardest steel, 14 inches thick, cut through with hacksaws.

Newark, N. J.—Holes bored in bottom of boilers; pistons cut; generators chopped and hacked; bearings damaged beyond repair.

Wilmington, C.—Diesel engines smashed with sledgehammers.

Portland, Ore.—Navigation instruments, generators and engines damaged.

Galveston, Texas—Engine and auxiliary machinery completely destroyed.

Baltimore—Cylinder heads, pistons, steering apparatus and gears all smashed.

Children Take Over In Personality Event

The "youngest generation" took over at the Kelsey studio Monday.

It was the first day of photography for the "Personality Child" photo event, sponsored jointly by Kelsey and The Herald—a photo-judging affair which will be climaxed by presentation of ten engraved trophies to as many winners, and by publication of every child's picture in a special edition of The Herald.

Babies up to one year of age are being photographed this week, and there were enough on hand Monday afternoon to keep the studio people busy. Other portraits of youngsters in this age group will be made all this week, from 9 a. m. to 12 and from 1 to 4 p. m., and other parents may make appointments by calling the studio at once.

Local parents must have appointments, while out-of-town people may come at their convenience.

Children from one to three years of age will be photographed next week, and those from three to six the following week. Appointments are being taken for all age groups.

In addition to the winning "Personality Child," three winners will be chosen in each of the three age groups. An out-of-town board of photographers will do the judging, handling all pictures alike. There is only a $1 entrance cost, with no other sales or expense requirements.

Labor Board Settles First Four Strikes

Vanadium Plant Crews
Will Return To Work
As Fast As Possible

By The Associated Press
The new defense labor mediation board created by President Roosevelt to try to speed production in industry announced today that the first four strikes turned over to it had been terminated.

Dr. Frank P. Graham, who represented the public on the board's mediation panel, announced that 225 strikers would resume work as soon as their jobs became available at the Vanadium Corporation of America plant at Bridgeville, Pa.

The plant was expected to resume operations tonight or tomorrow morning.

The other three walkouts which the labor department asked the board to take over ended as follows:

Chicago—CIO union members voted to end strikes at four International Harvester plants and negotiators before the board their demands for elimination of piece work, wage increases and union recognition.

AFL workers agreed to go back to work at the Cornell Duplicator corporation, South Plainfield, N. J., tomorrow and continue negotiations for wage increases. If no agreement is reached, the mediation board will be asked to take up the case again.

CIO unionists ratified an agreement for settlement of a strike at the Cambria works of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation at Johnstown, Pa. They had walked out in protest over a scheduled election by the Employees Representation Plan which the CIO claims is a company union.

10 Community Farm Meetings Set By A. A. A.

Schedule for 10 community meetings to facilitate signing of 1941 farm plan sheets and declaration of intention to participate in the supplemental cotton program was announced Monday by W. Weaver, county AAA administrative assistant.

Representatives from the AAA office will be at the various community meetings, set for next week, and will explain the supplemental cotton program in brief sessions at 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. each day. The supplemental program permits farmers to qualify for additional payments by retiring slightly less cotton than the 1941 allotment or the 1940 planted acreage, which ever is the smaller.

Meetings have been scheduled for April 7 at Lemox, with C. Griffin in charge, at Elbow with Weaver in charge and at Vincent with Volle Sorrells in charge.

On April 8 the schedule is Garner (Griffin), Moore (Weaver) and Gay Hill, (Sorrells). The April 9 schedule is Center Point (Griffin), Coahoma (Weaver), and Vesimoor (Sorrells). Weaver will be in charge at Big Spring for a concluding session in the district courtroom on April 10. All meetings are due to start at 9 a. m. and end by 4:30 p. m. With the exception of Coahoma and Big Spring, sessions will be in the school buildings.

Weaver urged all producers to attend their community meetings in order to facilitate the sign up. Work is scheduled so that they might not be signed later on without causing serious disruption of the office program, he said.

Draft Group To Leave Wednesday

Bruce Fraser, Howard county selective service board clerk, announced Monday morning that the board office would be open at 7 a. m. Wednesday in order to meet selectees leaving for one year's military training and to give them papers needed for final induction into the army on their arrival at Fort Bliss.

Fourteen trainees are scheduled to leave by train at 7:55 a. m. Wednesday, April 2, instead of Tuesday morning as previously stated. This is the first time a Howard county quota has left for training via railroad, the others having been transported by bus.

As of date, the April 2 call, number 12 since the program started in October, 1940, is the last one on hand at the local board. Selective service expects to receive a second April call within a few days.

A selective service inspection officer is scheduled to be in Big Spring in a short while to make a first routine check on work being done here.

First Texas Army Plane Completed

DALLAS, March 31 (AP)—The first army training plane completed at the North American Aviation company's plant performed "smooth as honey" on test flight, company officials said today.

The plane was built by Texas labor, mostly recruited from farms and ranches.

WOMEN, here's 2-way relief!

Probably the help many women get from CARDUI comes from its use as a tonic to increase appetite, aid the flow of gastric juice, so assist digestion and help build strength. Thus, it often relieves periodic functional distress. But it may also help relieve such periodic distress if you start taking it as directed 3 days before "your time." Modern facts and 50 years' use invite confidence in CARDUI.

PERTAINING TO PEOPLE

British Make New Advance In Ethiopia

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, March 31 (AP)—Diredawa, on the Addis Ababa-Jibuti railroad, has been in British hands since Saturday, it was announced officially today.

This puts the British only 300 miles east by railroad from Addis Ababa, Ethiopia's capital, and in control of the only railroad link between that inland city and the coast.

(The Italians acknowledged yesterday that Diredawa had been abandoned.)

The British now have pushed about 500 miles into the newest colony in Italy's east African empire since the capture of Fer Fer, on the Ethiopian-Italian Somaliland line, March 6.

LOS ANGELES, March 31 (AP)—Streetcar Conductor G. W. Tammelin told police a bandit boarded his car today and robbed him of $10, then demanded a transfer, exclaiming "I want to catch another streetcar."

Farm Prices Show Gains

CHICAGO, March 31 (AP)—The farm commodities price picture is showing its brightest tinge since the fall of France.

Many important agricultural products, revived by hopes that Europe's demand for food eventually will be met in some way, now are selling at around the highest levels since the collapse last May when the German armies swept into western Europe.

Hopes that the American agricultural machine, reversed by elimination of foodstuffs, might again be thrown into high gear, as it was a quarter century ago, lay in growing lend-lease assistance to Britain and in the increasing scope of the war itself.

Government entrance into the market for such important farm commodities as eggs, dairy products, lard and large scale defense requirements for hides, wool and foods has increased demand. Of paramount importance also has been a growing demand from civilian consumers as national industry fattens payrolls and strengthens ability to buy.

Progress of farm legislation in congress, with talk of higher commodity loans, has been a factor.

Elevation of farm prices has occurred despite the excellent outlook for 1941 crops due to the greatly improved moisture situation.

Chicago wheat is near 95 cents a bushel for spot delivery, somewhat above the level to which it fell last summer. Corn is around 70 cents, about a dime a bushel higher than a year ago and the top price for this time of season since 1937.

Hogs, at better than 7 1/2 cents a pound, show an increase of more than 2 1/2 cents over a year ago and near the best levels since 1935.

Best cattle are more than 2 cents higher than a year ago; white lambs are the highest in 3 1/2 years. Wool, hides and lard prices have risen 15 to 30 per cent since the war began, most of the upturn coming in the past year.

Bible Courses Enroll Forty Students At Big Spring High

Under auspices of the local Ministerial association and cooperation of the state department of Public Education, Bible courses are being taught at the Big Spring high school. Forty students are enrolled at the present time and classes are composed of juniors and seniors.

The classes are taught by Mrs. H. W. Halslip who took the place of the Rev. Newton Starnes, now in Pampa.

The state authorizes the local school board to furnish a building and equipment for the Bible classes and standard credits are given for the courses. The local churches assume responsibility for the teacher's salary.

Mrs. Halslip who has an A. B. degree from Baylor university and an M. A. in religious education from Phillips university, has taken special work in the University of Colorado and has a life time teacher's certificate in Texas. She previously taught English in high schools for three years.

During the past few weeks the teacher and students have bought a large map of Bible lands which they are studying. Two courses are taught on the old and new Testament. Class periods are one hour a day, five days a week.

During each semester, various ministers of the city are invited to make talks to the group and special assignments are made to emphasize phases of Bible study such as the Bible, book by book, characters, general history, geography, moral values, and appreciation of old and new Testament literature. In the new Testament the life of Christ is especially emphasized.

The state department of education makes one rule—that the study of sectarian doctrines is forbidden. The latest assignment of the class has been a lesson requiring students to hear a sermon and then point out the most interesting, helpful parts and those points they remember best.

Federal Reserve Bank Says Business Outlook Excellent

DALLAS, March 31 (AP)—A high level of merchandise demand for February, increases in value of construction contracts and in petroleum output for the same month, and a generally satisfactory outlook for livestock and agriculture were recorded in the monthly business review of the Dallas Federal Reserve bank released today.

"On a seasonally adjusted basis, department store sales were at an all time peak for that month, and the distribution of commodities through wholesale channels exceeded that of a year ago by 14 per cent," the review said.

"In industrial fields the value of construction contracts awarded was at a much higher rate than a month earlier or a year ago, due to increased awards for publicly financed projects.

"Average petroleum output was the largest since May, 1940, and crude oil runs to refinery stills rose further to a new high level.

"The outlook for agriculture and livestock in this district is generally satisfactory, but warm, sunny weather is needed over a large portion of the district to stimulate the growth of plants and range vegetation and to permit farmers to proceed rapidly with plowing and seeding operations."

Representative firms in 17 retail lines, other than department stores, averaged about 16 per cent higher sales in the first two months of the year than in the same 1940 period, the report said.

The number of business failures in the district declined from 41 in January to 33 in February but the average liability of defaulting firms increased and their aggregate indebtedness rose 50 per cent to $415,000, more than double that in February, 1940, the review said.

Rains and snow in late February and early March relieved temporarily a deficiency in surface moisture in eastern New Mexico and the Texas panhandle and afforded some relief from dust storms which had damaged wheat in local areas, the report on agriculture and livestock showed.

February rains, high winds, and frosts, damaging truck crops in the South Texas vegetable area, delayed further harvesting and shipment of vegetables, the report said, and planting of spring vegetables through most of the Texas commercial producing areas was later than usual.

Pastors Hear Easter Plans

Reports on the Easter sunrise service to be held Easter Sunday at 6:45 o'clock at the amphitheatre were made to the Big Spring Pastor's association Monday morning at a meeting of the group at the First Christian church.

Final arrangements for the service were made and plans discussed for the pre-Easter noonday services beginning April 7 through April 12th at 12:15 o'clock to 12:55 o'clock at the Ritz theatre.

The summer city-wide cooperative revival to be held September 2-9 was announced and the Rev. Harry W. Vom Burch of California, evangelist, is to conduct the revival. A committee composed of the Rev. H. W. Halslip, chairman, the Rev. C. E. Lancaster, and the Rev. Homer Sheets was named to investigate a place to hold the revival.

A committee composed of the Rev. R. Elmer Dunham and the Rev. Robert E. Bowden was also named to be a fact-finding group to report to the association on temperance in the city and state.

The Rev. Sheets announced the West Texas convention of Assembly of God churches to be held here April 21-24 when over 1000 delegates are expected. He called on the association to assist in finding homes for delegates to stay in during the meeting.

Flag Posters Go To Local Schools

Supplied by the United States army recruiting service, attractive posters outlining respects due to the flag and methods of displaying it will be placed in all Big Spring schools.

The posters, lithographed in four colors, have illustrations showing all the proper ways of displaying flags, methods of saluting—both by the military and civilians—and miscellaneous information concerning respect for the star and stripes.

Germans Say Situation Hopeless In Yugoslavia

Hitler Due To Demand Serbs Disperse Army

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 31. (AP)—Relations between Germany and Yugoslavia grew worse by the hour today and the German legation secretary declared that only an "unexpected miracle" could save the situation.

The secretary announced that German Minister Viktor von Heesen was leaving for Berlin, and at the same time the Yugoslav minister to Germany, Dr. Ivo Andric, arrived unexpectedly from Germany.

An official German source declared Adolf Hitler intended to wait only until midnight to issue an ultimatum demanding demobilization of the 1,500,000-man Yugoslav army—the same demand which was reported to have touched off last week's upset of Yugoslavia's "axis" government and the catapulting of King Peter II to the throne.

Hitler was said by this source to be waiting only until all axis nationals could get out of the country, and then if the Yugoslavs failed to meet the expected ultimatum Germany would set her war machine to rolling.

A great exodus of axis nationals, on orders from Rome and Berlin, was proceeding. All trains leaving the city last night and early this morning for Germany and Italy were jammed, and many seeking to leave were left standing on the station platforms.

The deadline for completion of this exodus was reported set for midnight. The German legation secretary who yesterday described the situation as "serious but not hopeless" declared today it was "practically hopeless" and added: "A decisive turn for the better is not impossible; but it would be an unexpected miracle."

A special train ordered for tonight was expected to take the last of the axis nationals except legation members out of the country. Others had hurried out in excited crowds, jamming automobiles, river boats, and almost hourly trains last night.

The Belgrade press described Yugoslavia's two big factions, Serbs and Croats, as closer together than ever before since the formation of the new government.

German correspondents continued to report, however, that the Croat peasant leader, Vladimir Macek, who carried over into the new government as vice premier, still was awaiting clarification of the government's foreign policy before giving it his support.

Commercial truck registration has been extended through April 15 by action of the legislature to permit compliance with recently enacted laws.

Legislators Shove 'Fair Trade' Act Aside To Do Other Work

Herald Austin Bureau AUSTIN, March 31.—The press of more important legislative problems has had the effect of placing the so-called "fair trade act" on the shelf, with the prospects of its enactment at this session of the legislature growing slimmer with the passage of time. Realizing that an effort at this late date to push the measure might jeopardize other legislation, one of the co-authors of the "fair trade act" which is designed to legalize price-fixing on standard brand goods and merchandise has decided to withdraw his name from the bill.

Southland Life Official Points To Defense Work

DALLAS, March 31.—Texas is already beginning to feel the effects of money being poured into the state through the medium of national defense projects, in the opinion of President A. Morgan Duke of the Southland Life Insurance company in submitting the thirty-third annual statement of that company.

Duke pointed out that production records for the first three months of the year for the Southland Life would justify the belief that the state is entering one of its brightest economic periods. This, together with the company's record of a 5 percent increase for the year 1940, forms a basis for his conclusions.

"The Southland Life Insurance company, I am glad to say," said Mr. Duke, "has an outstanding record of accomplishment for the year 1940. Excellent gains have been registered in all departments; and our progress is evidenced by our balance sheet is manifest. Most gratifying to us, however, are the principal factors responsible for this achievement—the confidence and support of our thousands of policyholders and stockholders, without whose interest we could not continue to function as a service institution. For their many evidences of loyalty we are most grateful, and shall earnestly strive to merit continued cooperation."

Talking Flashlight—Ernest I. Foss, Director of the General Motors "Previews of Progress," is shown with the "talking flashlight," a flashlight that actually changes his voice into a beam of light. This is the first instrument of this nature, and it will be one of the many demonstrations presented free of charge at the "Previews of Progress" showing in the Municipal Auditorium Wednesday and Thursday nights at 8 o'clock.

Peeps At Wonders Of Future Offered In Free Show Here

Americans of the future may be living in houses made of cotton with windows made of coal; they will no doubt be cooking on a heatless stove, wearing clothing made of glass, and talking by means of a flashlight!

The General Motors "Previews of Progress," which is to be shown at the Municipal Auditorium on Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock will take the residents of Big Spring behind the scenes of an imaginary research laboratory and unveil for them some of the new developments and new processes that are daily employing thousands of research engineers and skilled technicians.

The lecturer will explain in non-technical terms how the research engineers are gravely concerned with the waste products that we have.

One of the displays will tell the story of new uses for cotton. From an ordinary bale of cotton, Director Ernest L. Foss, will show paving brick, bathroom tile, marble-like material for soda fountain counters, heels for women's shoes, and furniture—all of which are being made from cotton linters heretofore considered waste material.

The petroleum industry of today gives vent to an entirely new substance—a new transparent plastic that has all of the properties of glass, yet is absolutely non-breakable. This material is in many instances replacing glass. Another use for this plastic is in what is called a "light pipe," which permits light to be piped from a central source to various parts of the home as easily as water is now piped.

Even though the petroleum industry is now making such transparent plastic, it is not to be thought that the glass industry is

Hollywood—'Meet John Doe' Is Different And Effective

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — "Meet John Doe." Screenplay by Robert Riskin from story by Richard Connell and Robert Presnell. Directed by Frank Capra. Principals: Gary Cooper, Barbara Stanwyck, Edward Arnold, Walter Brennan, Spring Byington, James Gleason, Gene Lockhart, Rod LaRoque, Irving Bacon, Regis Toomey.

You don't have to take anybody's word that this is a good picture. All you have to do is listen to a few of the arguments advanced by (a) "I say he shoulda jumped," or (b) "I say he shoulda done just what he did." Any picture that starts such a fuss about the hero's ultimate fate has to have a lot to offer before the disputed climax arrives, and "Meet John Doe" has plenty.

Capra, with his knack for making a sermon more entertaining than a ten-twenty-thirty meller, is preaching brotherly love. When a powerful financier takes over a newspaper and chops off heads, the girl columnist (Stanwyck) angrily fakes a letter from one "Joe Doe" declaring that he will jump from the city hall tower on Christmas Eve as a protest against the evils of modern life. The hoax blossoms, forces the paper to produce John Doe in the flesh, and Long John Wilby, a hobo, is drafted.

With speeches written by the girl proclaiming "Love Thy Neighbor," the "Joe Doe" movement sweeps the country. When Long John discovers that the good-will clubs are being used to promote Boss Arnold's Fascistic designs on the country, he tries to expose the fake, is instead discredited. Then he feels that to restore faith in his followers he must carry out the promised suicide. The girls' frantic pleas—that the greatest of all John Does centuries ago had made the sacrifice unnecessary—wins him back.

It is a fantastic fable, kept so consistently close to the realities of the modern American scene as to be credible. As usual, Capra gets excellent performances from his players, gives them pungent dialogue. Samples: Toomey's scene explaining to John Doe what his message has meant; Gleason's bar-room dissertation on what the Star-Spangled Banner does to him; Stanwyck's climatic plea to John Doe; Brennan's discourse on "heats"—something rare.

"The Road to Zanzibar." Screenplay by Frank Butler and Don Hartman. Directed by Victor Schotsinger. Principals: Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour, Una Merkel, Eric Blore. There's no problem here—unless it's how the "Road to Zanzibar" crew is going to top this one for sassy, wacky spirit. Made purely for laughs, and very successful at it—with Crosby's promotion of Hope as the perennial stogie in his money-making schemes, and Lamour as an American gold-digger in the jungle. Of the usual songs, Crosby's "You Lucky People, You" is catchiest. Don't miss it.

"The Penalty." Edward Arnold. Lionel Barrymore, Martha Hunt, Robert Sterling, Gene Reynolds, Veda Ann Borg.

Bandit Arnold's son, reared to the profession, finds regeneration amid the simple joys of country life. Some clever twists and good performances, notably one by a trained goose, make it a good cup-and-sobbers thriller with tear-jerking extra.

Fast-moving in the city sequences, it bogs down somewhat when it goes bucolic, but picks up again for the son's final character test.

Second Glasscock Draftee Leaves
GARDEN CITY, March 31 (Sp) — Price Holden, Garden City's second draftee, left Friday night for Fort Bliss to begin a year's service in the army.

Friday afternoon a send-off program was sponsored by the Glasscock county draft board. N. P. Taylor, superintendent of schools, had charge of the program. The Rev. Brown Welch and the Rev. W. O'Kelly were speakers. The Garden City high school band played several military marches. T. J. Parker, chairman of the selective service board presented draft papers.

First Garden City draftee was T. D. Davis, who went to Fort Bliss sometimes ago.

Visit Herald Building
The Herald extends the invitation to groups and individuals to visit its plant at 2:30 p. m. on Mondays and Fridays. In the case of large groups, advance notice would be appreciated.

Alop and Kintner—Hopkins' Central Committee To Give Impetus To Defense

WASHINGTON, March 31 — While no governmental agency can be judged except by its works, it is at least certain that the "central staff" Harry L. Hopkins has been quietly gathering around him possesses great potential importance. For it may fill the aching void which has existed in the center of the administration ever since the American war effort began.

The nature of this void is simple. The creaking governmental machinery has been suddenly required to produce a tremendous, quite abnormal head of power. It has badly needed a super-charger, to keep it up to the mark. Because the President has been too pre-occupied with the endless routine of his office, no such super-charger has been created.

But now, if all goes well, Hopkins' central staff will be the super-charger, lacking of which problems as they arise instead of when they become too acute to be ignored, and in general pushing the effort forward on a broad front.

The central staff's history, to date, is brief. Having been the chief apostle of compromise in the President's immediate circle, Hopkins suffered a complete conversion during his three years in Britain with Winston Churchill. Returning to this country a burning advocate of all-out aid for Britain, he wanted to help. Accordingly, when the President made the Secretaries of State, Treasury, War and Navy a four-man War Cabinet to administer the lease-lend law, he named Hopkins the War Cabinet's secretary.

And even before the lease-lend law was enacted, Hopkins began to recruit assistants, borrowing a lawyer, Oscar Cox, an economist, George Haas, and an expert on British needs, Philip Young, all from the Treasury, and a military expert, Major General James H. Burns, from the War Department.

This quartet and Hopkins immediately started work with the "plus-four committee," as Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson nicknamed the War Cabinet. Together they drew up the rough schedule, arranged the transfers of war materials to Britain under the lease-lend law, and prepared the $7,000,000,000 aid-Britain appropriation bill. Meanwhile the President had conferred on them an even broader responsibility, asking them to serve as generators of long term war policy. For this purpose a permanent staff was obviously required.

"I want to keep everything field for a while," was Hopkins' slogan in the discussions of organization preceding his departure on the President's vacation cruise. Never the less, subject to radical change by him, a tentative outline of the permanent staff's organization had already emerged before he left. If the outline is followed, a small group of young officials—energetic, imaginative and experienced in war problems, as Cox is for example—will be the heart of the permanent staff. Relieved of routine duties, they will be the idea men, personal assistants and general secretariat of Hopkins and the plus-four committee.

Then, working with them, will be a somewhat larger number recruited from the various departments concerned in the defense effort, chosen for their closeness to the departments' heads, and charged with representing the departments on the central staff and the central staff in the departments. They will be the liaison men, trying the war effort together and pushing it forward everywhere. And finally, bringing the personnel of the central staff up to not more than fifty, there will be small legal and statistical divisions.

Man About Manhattan—New York Publisher Will Go On Manuscript Hunt
NEW YORK—A manuscript hunt that will take Ken McCormick from Manhattan to the Midwest wheat fields and from the Great Lakes to the Pacific is under way. This chief associate editor for Doubleday, Doran will spend the next six or eight weeks traveling about the country, indulging in leisurely discussions with authors, meeting new writers, chatting of publishing trends, and garnering new manuscripts—biographical, historical, fictional—for possible publication.

One of the ideas of this trip will be to meet those people who have stories to tell but can't write. There are people like that. Oscar Levant is one. A witty, glib young man in conversation, he became tongue-tied at a typewriter. It was only a question of bringing the right collaborator to him, and the result was "A Smattering of Ignorance," which enjoyed a phenomenal success.

Arguments For Racing Many But Unsound

From here on out there will be a great deal said, particularly by and to the legislature, on the subject of legalizing horse race betting in Texas.

Stockmen, those interested in raising thoroughbred animals, profess to see a great boon in horse racing. It would, they say, result in a booming market for horses, would attract thousands of tourists to the state.

Down in South Texas a ranchman declared that the legalization of race track betting in Texas would aid in national defense. And so it goes, ad infinitum.

It seems that horse racing and race track betting are tied up inseparably. Breeders, if they admit the truth, wouldn't care a rip for horse racing if betting were not legalized.

On any question of this sort the most adroit approach is to talk of tax benefits. In this case the popular tax figure quoted is $2,500,000 annually, which we are told, would go three-fourths to old age pensions and one-fourth to the schools. Very clever, this division, for it appeals to an elderly group grasping for security and to a bloc, currently one of the most powerful in the state, clamoring for more school money.

All of this sounds good, but the line of logic doesn't jibe. The history of betting is that those who can ill afford to lose their earnings are the ones who most frequently do.

Now if a man has $100, and he spends it on needed commodities, it goes back into the channels of trade just as surely as if he chumped $25 of it off to a race track. It probably would do more good through regular channels than through the devious and dubious track route. Through regular trade, the money would accumulate about as much taxes as it would through a mutual.

Never the less, the great potential importance of the central staff cannot be questioned. Hitherto, because of the press of petty daily business, basic war problems have been neglected until they became urgently acute. Even now, for example, the OMP has not received a really detailed breakdown of material requirements, with deadlines for delivery. The basic war problems are not insoluble. But the intelligence and energy to tackle them has simply not been available.

Now, however, if the central staff does its job properly, an impressive amount of intelligence and energy will be specially devoted to considering the big questions of war strategy. The President, through Hopkins, who has daily access to him, can be warned of what is coming long before the questions present themselves to him. The views of the various departments can be collected, and insofar as possible, reconciled. Careful memoranda can be prepared on alternative policies. And in short, decisions can be promptly and wisely reached, because the data behind the decisions will come to the President, not as a babble and clamor from competing department heads, but in organized, reasonably intelligible form.

ALONG CAME CINDERELLA

By VIVIEN GREY

Come Christmas
"This is, I suppose, what you asked me here for?" Roger demanded of Hugh. "To make a fool of me! To make a silly scene!" Hugh was too startled to reply immediately. Roger turned to Lovely with: "And you! What kind of a woman are you anyway? You ask about everything under the sun but your own daughter!" He was on his feet. "Come on, Emily. We're going!"

They were on their way before Lovely found the broken choked voice to say, "I didn't dare ask about her! I felt as if just speaking her name would kill me, I've wanted to see her so!" Hugh said, after they'd slipped their drinks for a space in silence: "I'm sorry, Lovely. I guess nobody can fix anyone else's life. You've got to do some things for yourself."

Lovely looked at him intently as if a new thought was taking shape in her mind.

"How much do you think he hates me, Hugh?" Lovely asked as they said an early good night.

"Only as much as he loves you."

And then Joe was hurrying from her door to the elevator and calling over his shoulder: "Merry Christmas, baby!"

It took Lovely some time to dress because she was thinking deeply. And as she progressed, she knew she wanted to be most carefully gotten up. She'd boasted to Emily that she was getting her husband back. If you had any stuff you made good on things like that. Besides there was that box of cookies with their funny little animal shapes and faces—currants for eyes and icing for the collar on a dog and the harness on a monkey. Just the sort of things Getta would love. And then after all the trouble Mrs. Fules had gone to to make them it wouldn't be fair—and you did have to fight for what you wanted.

It was crisp and cold but there was a bright sun shining down on the city as Lovely stepped out into the street. The organist at the Grand Central Station was playing as Lovely walked through. The haunting, tender beauty of Holy Night hung over the hurrying crowd like a gentle benediction. Lovely went directly to the train marked Poughkeepsie Local.

Home
The ride up the Hudson had never seemed so beautiful or so heart warming. Oceanway station seemed really beautiful in the clear winter light. The path toward the Cosgrave estate was inviting, and when the playhouse appeared around a curve Lovely wanted to hug it to her, like a person.

She paused to look into the playhouse window. There was the vase she had mended after that scene with Joe and Mar. There was the still sitting there thinking. He mixed her a drink while he told her. Marcia said, looking thoughtfully at the glass in her hand: "I'm glad Emily's going. It'll be good for her. She's never stopped possessing you in her own mind."

"Joe!" Notes of gladness in her voice.

"Look honey," he said, "this is for you from me." He gave her a bunch of mistletoe tied with red ribbon, and Lovely took it, misty eyed and held it against her cheek.

"And Ma made these," Joe continued. Lovely opened the box he had thrust into her hands and then turned to him in surprise.

"But animal cookies, Joe! They are for kids."

War Brings Headache—Legislature Worries Over New Anti-Strike Measures

Herald Austin Bureau
AUSTIN, March 1.—The people of Texas may not yet be feeling the effects of World War II, but the Texas legislature is getting a big headache from national defense efforts.

The headache comes from dealing with the problem of preventing costly strikes in national defense efforts.

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel offered an anti-strike bill which Attorney General Gerald Mann ruled unconstitutional. O'Daniel then came back with the proposal that the legislature pass a bill prohibiting violence in labor disputes and the house of representatives quickly complied with the request.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Mann is working on a strike-curbing bill which he feels will be constitutional.

The spotlight now turns, however, on a proposal by Rep. John Lyle of Corpus Christi and others to strengthen a 46-year-old arbitration law to provide for compulsory arbitration of all labor disputes.

The original law was passed in 1895 under the sponsorship of Senator Rogers of Palestine, called "a friend of labor but not a demagogue." At that time it was considered a pro-labor measure.

In brief, the present law required this: When a dispute arises, the workers shall appoint two men and the employer shall appoint two, and the four shall select a fifth, thus composing a five-man arbitration board.

The board will then outline the controversy to the district court which will establish it as a legal body whose findings will have weight.

While the arbitration board is at work, the workers and employers will not change their status.

When the board makes its decision, it then applies to the district court for an order making its award effective. If either party is dissatisfied, he may appeal.

If the workers do not like the award, they must give the employer 30 days notice before quitting. The award shall be in effect for a year and no new arbitration can be had on the same subject within that year.

Lyle proposes several changes in the law, the chief of which is to require a submission of the dispute to the arbitration board before any strike or lockout takes place. Then, he provides, after the district court has made its award, a strike or lockout can be held only if notice is given to the other party, and the dissatisfied party must wait ten days after the court decision before giving notice.

In effect, the bill provides for a cooling-off period before strikes or lockouts occur. To speed up the boards, Lyle proposes that the board decision must be made within 30 days after the case is submitted to them.

There are very grave doubts as to the constitutionality of the present statute and the Lyle amendments. The compulsory arbitration proposal and law has been held unconstitutional many times, and the cooling-off period would have the effect of making many employees stay on the job against their will which, the courts say, amounts to "involuntary servitude" which is prohibited by the constitution.

But the bill is significant of the great difficulty which legislators have had in trying to find a constitutional method of curbing strikes which are holding up many national defense efforts. There is no clear-cut answer to the problem; it is a matter of cautious, fearful groping for the light.

Flashes Of Life-

SAN JOSE, Calif., March 31 (AP)—A relative of a San Jose draftee put an ad in the newspaper today offering his car for $250.

He met a couple of Iowa farm boys at camp, and they are teaching him to play a new game called poker.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 31 (AP)—Members of a women's club had an unscheduled contest to determine how many articles each carried in her handbag.

YONKERS, N. Y., March 31 (AP)—"Ouch," said the passenger in a car damaged in an accident.

A patrolman noted the driver's name and turned to the injured passenger.

OMAHA, Neb., March 31 (AP)—The 23-year-old wife of a stockyard employe asked for a divorce because her husband "won't take a bath."

MILWAUKEE, March 31 (AP)—The Milwaukee city council is convinced automobiles are not a passing fancy and that horses are on the way out.

DUNCANVILLE, Tex., March 31 (AP)—Charles Clapper says that if his car had been stolen, he is glad it was taken by a considerate man.

It was unscratched. The radiator had been drained to prevent freezing—and the gas tank had been filled.

It is voted to remove the horse watering trough from in front of the city hall to make more room for auto traffic.

Here 'n There

Lewis Winters and Eehli R. Herren, who reside at Lamesa, covered quite a bit of territory in their marriage. They secured licenses in Taboka and then were wed here at 11:30 p. m. Saturday by Justice of Peace Walter Gries.

Douglas Perry and Mrs. Willard Sullivan were planning to leave Tuesday for Fort Worth to attend the joint session for the Texas Photographic association and the Southwest association.

Mr. and Mrs. James Horton, formerly of Big Spring, are the parents of a daughter born Friday. It was learned here Monday. They are residing in Mead, Okla.

John Winters, a much schooled man these days, has returned from a several weeks course of study held at Gulf Refining Co. for its service station operators at Dallas.

Those who attend the evening revival services at the First Baptist church at 7:45 o'clock this week will notice something different from most church services.

There will be no offering. An unidentified man is paying in what an offering normally amounts to because he once saw a friend, on whom he had worked for a long time to come to church, discouraged by three offerings in a morning. At any rate, there will be no plate passing before the Rev. John T. Kee brings his messages.

Long Lines Form At Car Tag Windows

Long lines were materializing at the office of Tax Collector J. F. Wolcott here Monday as procrastinating motorists made haste to register the automobiles for another year.

Most of Monday morning double lines were backed down the courthouse hall from the collector's office as clerks worked fast to handle around 300 registrations by noon time.

Passenger car totals were right at 2,300, leaving between 800 and 900 to be registered before Tuesday evening. In addition there were approximately 250 commercial and farm trucks to be registered before deadline time.

Wednesday all motor vehicles operated on public highways or streets must have 1941 tags. Those who register after that date must be able to swear that they have not used the car after April 1.

Easements Sought For Extension Of Co-op Power Lines

Line specifications and amount of material needed for completion are being handled by the Washington, D. C. office of REA, O. B. Bryan, manager of the Cap Rock Co-Op, said Monday.

Route to be followed by the system will be staked sometime this week, Bryan stated.
