Fliers Set New Coast-to-Coast Flight Record

In Making Round Trip in 30 Hours They Clip Six Hours From Captain Hawk's Record

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 18.—William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee completed their transcontinental round trip flight at 1:01:45 p. m. E. S. T. today, landing in Jacksonville from San Diego, Calif. The Lockheed plane roared over the finish line—the Atlantic shore—but because of the incoming tide did not land on the beach. After circling the crowd of several thousand, it sped away to the local airport, several miles inland, and landed.

From coast to coast and return in less than 31 hours was the record of the former globe-circling fliers set. They left here at 5:40 p. m. yesterday, spent more than 1 hour in San Diego, Calif., and were back in time for a late luncheon.

Their return flight failed, however, to meet expectations in speed. Crowds awaited arrival of the Lockheed monoplane throughout the morning, and fears increased toward noon they had been forced down. Shortly before one o'clock the yellow plane dove in sight.

The elapsed time for their flight from San Diego was 16:46:45. However, on their westward hop the plane was forced to make a detour for that direction, completing that leg in 13:55:30.

Their total elapsed time for the round trip was 30:42:15 compared with Hawk's 36:46:38.

Pete McKenzie Case Appeal Is Denied By Court

AUSTIN, Tex., June 18.—The Court of Criminal Appeals today refused to untangle the intricacies that the law itself has woven about John A. (Pete) McKenzie, convicted slayer of detective chief Sam Street of San Antonio.

The court dismissed McKenzie's appeal for a coram nobis decision in San Antonio, holding that it is without jurisdiction in such a case. The court formerly held that a direct application for such a writ could not be made to it.

Today's ruling leaves McKenzie in Bexar county jail. He cannot be executed as a jury ordered because a subsequent jury decided he was insane after his conviction. A state asylum superintendent still later declared him sane.

Apparently there is no legal procedure to again try the question of sanity. Meantime state asylum officials, backed by Governor Dan Moody, refuse to accept McKenzie as a patient. Twice he was put in the San Antonio asylum. After a pistol was found on him there and the superintendent threatened, state rangers took him to the Terrell asylum. His superintendent has declared him sane.

Attorneys for McKenzie resorted to a musty writ of common law—coram nobis. By it they sought to get an entirely new trial for McKenzie claiming he was insane at his original trial though that defense had not been offered then. Street, a veteran police officer, was killed Sept. 10, 1927. He had led his assistants to a San Antonio grocery whose manager had telephoned that he feared a hold-up. McKenzie was outside the store. In an exchange of shots Street was killed and McKenzie wounded. McKenzie was tried lying on a cot in court.

Democrats Again Control Florida

Now it is announced that Florida will go back to the democratic column in November. State primaries have been held. Florida landed in the Hoover column in 1928. Hoover's majority over Smith was 40,000, in a vote of 240,000. Recent primaries of the two parties were held. There were only 25,598 republicans registered against 265,663 democrats. Fewer than half of the 25,598 republicans who were qualified to vote exercised their right in the republican primary which took place simultaneously with that of the democrats.

According to Florida politicians, all of this proves conclusively that the carrying of Florida for Hoover in 1928 was not due to the efforts of or any appreciable increased strength of the republican party in the Everglades state, but to the bolting of democrats who were prejudiced against the democratic nominee who had returned to the party of their fathers.

This happened in Kentucky last year. It happened in Virginia last year. It happened in North Carolina, in the month of June, and it happened in the most populous state with Alabama the next on the list. Texas democrats who attended the Houston convention will recall Edgar W. Waybright of Jacksonville. He headed the anti-Smith delegates from Florida in the Houston convention where he was a leader of the anti-Smith forces.

After the convention he returned to Florida and was the state leader of the Hoover democrats, compelling the carrying of Florida for Hoover. This year he is a candidate for state senator on the democratic primary ticket. J. Turner Butler, a regular democrat, was his opponent. Butler won by a very large majority in the most populous district in the state and one that returned a large majority for Hoover and Curtis.

The Rev. Sidney J. Catts, wartime governor of Florida, another Hoover democrat leader, was a candidate for a congressional nomination against Cong. Thomas Yon, a regular. Yon was renominated by a very handsome majority. Indeed, he received a handsome margin over Catts and another opponent who was a contender for the place. Democrats of Florida, the regulars, invited all the Hoover democrats back and permitted them to participate both as voters and candidates in the June primary of this year, just as the Texas democrats who are regulars bowed to the decision of the supreme court and threw down the bars.

A noted newspaper correspondent of Florida reminds the readers of his newspaper that while the democratic party of Florida "welcomed the Hooverites back and permitted them to participate both as voters and candidates in this year's primary, (i.e.) voters took care of the situation, retiring the Hooverite candidates to private life by giving decisive majorities to their opponents who had not bolted." This happened in practically every section of the state for offices big and small.

It is significant that the democratic registration in Florida this year is 25,000 votes greater than the total vote cast in the presidential election of 1928, when Florida landed in the republican camp by a majority of 40,000. Alabama leaders predict a tremendous primary vote. A majority nomination is not necessary in the Yellow Hammer state. A plurality takes the prize. Hefflin has been barred from the regular democratic ballot; his name is on the ballot as an independent democrat. There are exciting times in Alabama these balmy June days.

it on herself to buy food and other necessities for her. Judy handed over her purse with a sigh of relief; but she was forced to realize, in a day or two, that the luxuries and delicacies that Clara provided could not possibly have come out of that slender store.
 She taxed Clara with it on the day after Chummy finally turned the corner and began to struggle back to life.
 "Clara, you're spending your own money on us! But, no, you haven't got any, I'm sure. Clara, where are you getting money from?" A suspicion made Judy flush and frown. "Is it Mr. Steyne?" she cried excitedly. "You're not taking money from him, Clara, are you?"
 Clara confessed that she was. "I thought it was all right," she said, with her quaint, blunt face screwed up into an expression of contrite surprise. "He said he was an old friend."
 "Where have you seen him?" asked Judy's accusing voice.
 "Why, he came to inquire—twice. I don't know where you were—oh, yesterday you were out for a walk with Bastien! He was awfully anxious about Chummy, and I didn't like to refuse."
 "How much, Clara?"

 Stornaway proved restless after her tyrannical genius. He talked to her kindly, and gave her tea. As she left his house—a large, low-many-windowed building of red brick, which suggested the country—the feet of her came back to her, who covered her flaming hair. He wore correct afternoon dress, which made him look old-fashioned. A shining top hat was on his big head.
 At sight of Judy his lips opened in a smile which chased the peevish look from his face, but brought out his coarseness.
 "Do you remember me, Miss Judy?" he asked, holding out his hand.
 Judy, glad of her new work, and still rejoicing in Chummy's escape from death, answered gladly.
 "Of course I remember you, Mr. Punch!"
 "And here comes dog Toby!" Gideon went on, as Stornaway's terror came trotting down the paved path. "Now we can give our show!" His little eye was on her glowing face with a covetous gaze that made her draw back into her shell.
 "And how is your friend who called me Mr. Punch—the beautiful girl with the sweet story?"
 "Who told you her story?" Judy asked.
 "Stornaway," replied Gideon. "He knew her, it seems."
 "She has nearly died," Judy said. "And her young man has come back."
 "Ah! Then I suppose there will be a happy ending?"
 In her heart she meant that there must be a happy ending. Alan Steyne would recover from his madness. All would be well with Chummy.
 "I wonder would you dine with me tonight?" Gideon went on.
 "No, thanks."
 "Will you lunch with me tomorrow?"
 "No, thanks."
 "When your friend is well again—then, perhaps?"
 "If it would amuse her," said Judy, with cool scorn.
 "I shall make it, my business, then, to amuse her."
 "You are ridiculous, Mr. Punch!" She glanced at him with the same feeling that had often made her lay her little hand like snowflake on Bastien Dumont's arm only there was less kindness in her eyes. A single drop of water would quench Bastien's generous ardor; this man needed a garden hose. "Please let me pass!" she added.
 "I'll revivify, Miss Judy," he said, his eyes traveling from her shabby hat to her perfect feet.
 "Goodby, Mr. Punch," she answered without a further look.
 When she got back, she went down into Chummy's room. The nurse had gone out for a while. Chummy was lying on her pillows in the soft luxury of convalescence. She smiled as Judy came up to her bed and bent over her.
 And Judy knew at once that something tremendous had happened.

 "Oh, Judy," said Chummy's low, lazy voice, "what do you think? I was dying to tell somebody. I dreamed that Alan had come back!"

Jim Crow Laws Felt And Obeyed Through South

By GUY HAMILTON
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 ATLANTA, June 17.—Sometimes it is merely an invisible line. In other instances it takes the form of a sign, "Colored passengers seat from rear." On the railroads it consists of a separate coach. But throughout the southern states, where white and negro travelers are given special accommodations on trains, buses and street cars, the force of the "Jim Crow" laws are felt and obeyed.

The term "Jim Crow," applied to all laws for race segregation on public carriers, but each state has its own method of handling the matter. Persons of African descent must ride apart from white people in the trains of Tennessee, Florida, Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana, Alabama, Kentucky, Arkansas, Georgia, South and North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and Oklahoma.
 In Georgia and Oklahoma segregation laws apply specifically to street cars also. Special statutes, separate from those applying to trains, are in force in Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

South Carolina and Alabama have no laws requiring race separation on street cars, but municipal laws deal with the subject of the street railway companies demand that separation of races must be maintained. Kentucky, Missouri and Maryland do not require the observance of "Jim Crow" laws on street railways.
 How the term "Jim Crow" originated is uncertain. There is a story of a coal-black negro, called Jim Crow, who served as a slave at a South Carolina hotel, and later went to England to achieve prominence. It is thought that this man's name might have been used as a designation for the laws.

P. D. Rice, first of the negro impersonators on the stage of a minstrel show, played the part of "Jim Crow" in Washington in the 1830's. Then it is believed that the term was formerly applied to a renegade or turncoat.
 The law is observed almost unconsciously south of the Mason-Dixon line by each race. No regulations govern the travel of negroes on southern Pullman cars of officials of the company say, "There is no demand for Pullmans on the part of southern negroes," they add.
 The officials are also non-committal on the subject of negroes traveling into the south after purchasing Pullman tickets in other sections, saying, "We abide by state laws, and if negroes are forbidden to ride in Pullmans with white people in certain states we accept it."
 Numerous test cases have been made of the laws. The United States supreme court held in a Kentucky hearing that such a law was not an unconstitutional bur-

Wisconsin Law Bans Fireworks On July Fourth

MADISON, Wis., June 18.—The day has passed in Wisconsin when father can give an exhibition with Roman candles and skyrocketers in front of the house on the Fourth of July.

A new fireworks law, designed to protect the small boy and the general public, will govern its first independence Day this year.

The statute appears destined to deprive both father and son of fun which has been a customary part of the day's celebration in the past. To offset that fact, legislators who enacted the law argued that it also would cut down the day's casualties.

A permit from the city mayor, village president, or town chairman is necessary before Roman candles may shoot their colored bursts of fire, or skyrocketers so sizzling through the air. Even then they must be discharged in an open field or on the water.

Failure to enforce the new law constitutes grounds for removal of officials charged with that duty. Such officials may require a $5,000 bond of the person or organization sponsoring the special fireworks display as insurance against personal or property damage.

Toy pistols, cannons, or other contrivances using explosive caps or cartridges, and any Chinese firecrackers more than two inches in length and three-eighths inch in diameter are banned from sale, manufacture, or importation into the state. Even the distance which pin wheels may throw their fire is restricted.

Captain Under Fire in Ship Crash

Official investigation of the collision between the passenger steamer Fairfax and the oil tanker Plinth off the Massachusetts coast, in which 46 lives were lost, has caused charges of gross negligence to be filed against Captain Archie H. Brooks, master of the Fairfax, by a federal inspector. Above, Captain Brooks (left) is shown with an official of the company, studying the wreckage.

Any person who sells unpermitted fireworks is held responsible by this law for any damage they may do. Likewise a father is personally liable for damage caused by his boy's fireworks if they are of the forbidden type.

Violation of any provision of the new law is subject to fine of $10 to $500, imprisonment from 30 days to six months in jail, or both.

The new publication is Comparative Strength Properties of Woods Grown in the United States, by J. Markwardt, senior engineer, United States Forest Products Laboratory, at Madison, Wis.

By means of the simplified data given, wood users can choose wood of greater or less strength in compression, bending, stiffness, hardness, or shock resistance, according to the particular requirements of the job to be done. In addition, by means of the shrinkage figures given, the different woods may be compared with respect to capacity for staying in place.

"We have gone too long using traditional methods of selecting wood for strength," the Forest Service says in announcing the new bulletin. "As a result, the demands on some of our favorite American woods have been far beyond their growth capacity, the supply has decreased, and prices have soared. A more scientific choice of woods on the basis of actual strength figures which everybody can understand has long been needed. Properly used, this bulletin should help to distribute the burden of use more equably on our remaining forest stands."

While the supply lasts, Technical Bulletin 158-T, Comparative Strength Properties of Woods Grown in the United States, can be obtained free from the Department of Agriculture, Office of Information, Washington, D. C.

Parents Who Humor Infants May Make Work For Courts Later On

TORONTO, Ont., June 18.—The baby who cries for petting, and gets it, is a potential burden on the juvenile courts, in the opinion of Dr. Alan Brown, professor of pediatrics at the University of Toronto.

Addressing the Ontario Medical Association recently, Doctor Brown said that two weeks old infants who stop crying when their parents take them in their arms have learned to put it over their parents like a tent.

Parents should be guided by the physician's advice concerning the details of early training in habits of obedience and habit formation, he said.

CHICAGO, June 17.—An interlude of two foodless days between two memorable swallows had Edwin Fischer, 13, thoroughly convinced today that, after all, sword swallowing is a man's game but playing jacks is only for girls.

Edwin, deaf and dumb since birth, lost his appetite two days ago. His inability to eat, which he couldn't explain, alarmed his parents and they took him to a doctor.

An x-ray picture of his stomach told the story, but it took an esophagoscope to relieve the situation. Edwin was disinclined

The Road to Glory

Several hundred strapping young men in various sections of the country walked into their respective gymnasiums and told "Ky" Ebright or Rich Glendon or Rusty Callow or some other fellow that they wanted to make the crew. From that day in January those young fellows have been blistering their hands and straining their backs daily in preparation for the big races coming off in a few days at Poughkeepsie on the Hudson.

It's all very peculiar, this desire to make some school's crew. They work like Trojans for half a year and then the big race is over in less than 20 minutes. It isn't like a football, basketball or baseball season where one to three contests weekly keep them on edge and eager to play the game.

While the snow is still on the ground and the ice is thick on the rivers and lakes, these young men sit in an anchored boat-like contraption in a gymnasium and row and row and row. It must be rather disheartening, it seems to me, to pull all that imaginary lake or river past you, and still have the realization that you are getting no place.

Row Your Blues Away

ROWING is the toughest and most exacting of all college sports. Often it is no more than a monotonous grind, although a coach does his best to prevent that feeling among his athletes.

They say that young Dick Glendon at Columbia makes rowing a happy, enjoyable pastime. Possibly that is a huge secret in Dick's success.

"No blues, keep smiling," Glendon tells his boys. "How to win and the devil take the hindmost. If you get beaten, hold your heads up and give 'em the very devil next time. After all, it's all in fun."

How They're Selected

MOST of the people who line the banks of the Hudson or Thames or Severn know absolutely nothing of how a coach chooses his men. They aren't always the eight strongest or tallest or heaviest men dumped into a shell with instructions to row.

Most of us have the notion

With The Majors

Only two Major League games were scheduled today and baseball fans paused to consider the results of the season's second inter-sectional competition and the prospects of pennant contenders in the two leagues.

The east won 60 of the 103 games played in the inter-sectional series which closed yesterday. Three eastern clubs—Philadelphia, New York and Washington are battling for American League honors with Cleveland the only western representative.

Brooklyn and New York are the east's candidates in the national league, with Chicago the long contender from the far side of the

A six-run assault on Ernie Marberry in the eighth inning gave the St. Louis Browns a 12 to 9 victory over Washington.

Boston made a clean sweep of its series with the Chicago White Sox, scoring six times in the first two innings and coasting to an 8 to 5 win, in the American League's only other scheduled game.

Rain kept the National League's four first division clubs idle.

The Boston Braves won a double header from Cincinnati, 6 to 4 and 10 to 5.

Lefty O'Doul's single, scoring Southern in the tenth, gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5 to 4 victory over Pittsburgh.

Major League Leaders

The following statistics, compiled by the United Press, include games of Tuesday, June 17:

Player and Club	Pct.
Klein, Phillies	.424
Hogan, Giants	.410
P. Wamer, Pirates	.398
Stephenson, Cubs	.398
Cochrane, Athletics	.397

Home Runs:
 Ruth, Yankees, 21.

Yesterday's Hero

Chet Nichols, 29 year old rookie who celebrated his debut as a Major League pitcher by hurling the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5 to 4 ten-inning victory over Pittsburgh.

STONE HOUSE IN FAMILY FOR OVER 220 YEARS

ROTTERDAM JUNCTION, N. Y., June 18.—A stone house bought more than 220 years ago in Rotterdam Junction by Jan Mable still is in the Mable family. The house was built in 1670 by Daniel Janse Van Antwerpen, a Dutch trader, who sold it to Mable in 1705. It is the oldest house in the Mohawk valley and one of the oldest in the country.

The house was built near Yantapooshabers mountain, which means "John-ear-of-corn mountain." It was so named because of its resemblance to a huge ear of corn. The house is near Kinmarionies, a rocky cliff atop which the Mohawk and the Mohican Indians waged a bloody battle.

Pioneer Texas Cowboys Will Organize At Stamford Meet

STAMFORD, Tex., June 17.—One of the features of the Texas Cowboy Reunion to be staged here June 26, 27 and 28 will be a roundup and get-together of the pioneer cattlemen of the State.

A permanent organization of the old-timers will be formed to hold annual meetings in Stamford. Only those who saw actual service in the saddle and on the ranges of the region prior to 1895 will be eligible for membership in the organization.

It is the plan of Col. R. L. Penick, chairman of the arrangements for the entertainment and reception of the early-day cowboys, and his committee, composed of R. E. McDonald, John Selman, W. P. McDonald and D. T. Perkins, to keep alive the history, traditions and associations that were formed during the early days of civilization in this area through having annual meetings of the pioneer cattlemen.

In addition to the active committee, Col. Penick and officials of the reunion association have selected a honorary committee made up of 50 pioneer cowboys who will assist in the program and the formation of the old-timers' organization. The committee includes: Wilson Connell, Fort Worth; Billy Moore, Wichita Falls; Cap Newman, Sweetwater; Baylor Crawford, Abilene; Vick Colbert, Stamford; George Boles, Lubbock; Ben Cullum, Stamford; Jim Moody, Truscott; John Bryan, Abilene; Bud Jones, Lubbock; and Geo. Barr, Cisco.

Each afternoon a western cowboy rodeo will be staged and an old-fashioned ranch dance will be given each evening.

All early-day citizens of West Texas will be given special invitations to attend the affair.

The rodeo will be held in a natural amphitheatre a mile west of the business district of Stamford.

Will Visit Scout Camp Next Month

RANGER, Texas, June 18.—Two Ranger men are planning to visit the Boy Scout camp next month. Eastland county scouts have a camp on the Llano river near Mason with a mess kitchen, running water and other permanent features.

Last year, Captain Wayne C. Hickey and J. E. Meroney visited the camp, the former serving as rifle instructor. This year, the two citizens plan to return about July 20 and will spend a day and a half in camp. Hickey will again be rifle instructor.

After the First Twenty-five Thousand Miles

THE VALUE of sound design, good materials and careful craftsmanship is especially apparent in the new Ford after the first twenty-five thousand miles. Long, continuous service emphasizes its mechanical reliability and economy of operation and up-keep.

As you drive the Ford through many months and years you will develop an increasing pride in its appearance and a growing respect for the substantial worth that has been built into it. From every standpoint—in everything that goes to make a good automobile—you will know that you have made a far-seeing, satisfactory purchase.

Wherever you go, you hear enthusiastic praise of the car and this significant, oft-repeated phrase—"I'm glad I bought a Ford."

A FORD owner in New York tells of a 13,000-mile trip across the United States and back in sixty days and says "the car was extremely economical to operate, comfortable and speedy." A grateful father tells how the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield saved his wife and children from serious injury in an automobile collision.

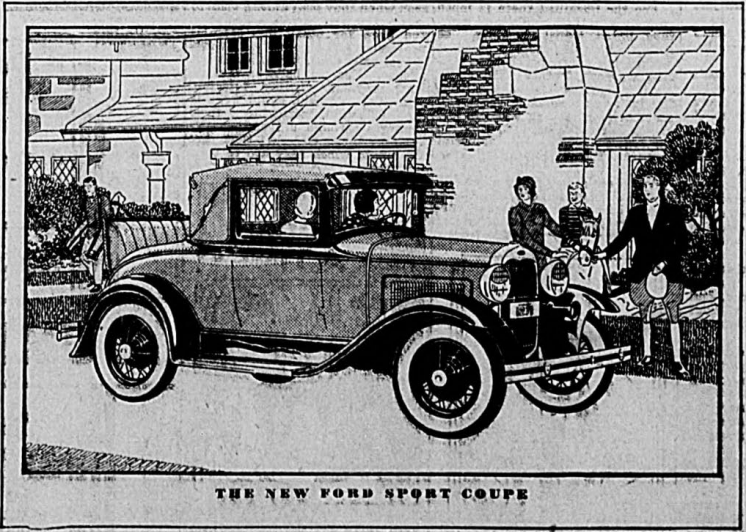

To test tires, a large company drove a new Ford day and night, for an average of 500 miles every twenty-four hours. It was still giving satisfactory service after 105,000 miles.

A Ford car that had fallen into Fernan Lake was submerged for twelve days before being raised. After a new battery and carburetor bowl were installed, it was driven back to Spokane under its own power.

Many police departments have written of the special advantages of the Ford in crowded traffic because of its alert speed, acceleration and ease of control. An increasing number of fleet owners are also purchasing the Ford because their cost figures have given conclusive proof of its economy of operation and up-keep.

In addition to important triumphs in Germany, France and Italy, the Ford won six out of seven leading places in a contest in Finland, first and second in the Rafaela races in Argentina, first and second in the run from Copenhagen-to-Paris-to-Copenhagen, three gold medals in England, first ranking in the durability test over the tortuous Amancaes road in Peru, and first place in the 1930 reliability run conducted by the Royal Automobile Club of Sweden.

This contest was an exceptionally severe test of endurance and sturdy construction because it was held in the dead of winter and covered 600 miles of steady running over snow-covered country roads and mountainous hills.

Journey's End At The Arcadia

The following few lines are but a few of the many wonderful things said about "Journey's End," the picture sensation at the Arcadia, at Ranger today and Thursday.

"It abounds with laughter even in the teeth of death." "Your eyes may stream, your nerves may break, your throat may have a catch in it, but you will be the better for it." "You realize how truly noble in spite of all his shortcomings, is this lump of clay called man..."

Prince Alfonso Makes Big Hit At Washington

By CARROLL KENWORTHY United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, June 18.—Prince Alfonso of Orleans, cousin of the King of Spain, made a striking impression as a very human person on his visit here during the Graf Zeppelin flight.

Although he was in the city only three days, his contacts won him the reputation of a man of wide experience and knowledge, or vigor, enthusiasm and a practical rather than princely view of life.

His cordial manner appealed to many, and on one occasion, at least, he was actually mistaken for a newspaperman. The very method of his arrival and departure in a crack naval plane, flown from Lakehurst to Washington in less than two hours marked the impressive but informal side of his life.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—This is the soda pop season and maybe you'd like to know what you've been drinking as you have the bottle at the umpire or some other convenient target. Things are not always what they seem, and neither is pop. Take, as that different. You might be able to find a little difference in the time in ads—orange, limeade, grapeade and ades like that—but not in pop.

They Do Use the Peel. It is true that some lime peel oil finds its way into lime soda, some orange peel oil into orange soda, and some lemon peel oil into lemon soda, but none of the pulp or juice is used. And the committee is trying to write standard definitions for the various pops, so that there will never be any misunderstanding about it all.

for the passengers on one occasion and spoke eight languages perfectly preceded him here and brought wide attention to his visit.

Washington noted that he was up for a brisk walk at 7 o'clock on the warm Sunday morning after his arrival that he did not hesitate when invited to broadcast about his trip to a nation-wide audience, and that he used American rather than English phrases in a number of his descriptions.

He was quoted as having had "a whale of a time on the voyage." He remarked that he had "a corking good time when in Washington last," and when he told newspapermen good-bye Le said in an off-hand manner: "Well, lots 'shoot' each other with machine guns carrying rolls of film instead of cartridges. The films are stamped each second by an automatic device so that when developed they show accurately which man 'hit' the other in a vital spot first."

"Aviation," the prince said, "has doubled its velocity in the last few years. To keep up with it one has to be very alert and physically fit. Too much weight is fatal. Turning, banking and maneuvering in camera fighting is a great strain in the internal organs and too much fat is a serious handicap. That's why I train to keep down weight."

Such confessions and such enthusiasm for sports and other activities as he showed surprised persons who met the prince. The Columbia Broadcasting officials who arranged his broadcast were amazed at his knowledge of radio.

One man, a reporter, was so far misled by the prince's "bummer side," that he mistook him for another newspaperman. Receiving an appointment to interview the prince, he called and was told to wait in a side room. Since it is the custom for celebrities here to receive the press in a group on first appearance, the writer sat and smoked awaiting the arrival of fellow journalists.

Suddenly the door opened and a vigorous, debonaire youth stepped in. "This is not the prince," the writer said, he thought, "Must be another newspaperman." So he sat in his corner and smoked, only saying a merry "Lello!" for the newcomer. Prince Alfonso, unembarrassed by the lack of interest or courtesy, however, met the situation and began by interviewing the reporter about himself. It was only a moment until the reporter discovered his mistake and with considerable chagrin, so he relates, reversed the role and got his interview.

cerned, inviting comment. Inasmuch as these definitions show just what is in virtually every bottle of pop being sold under these names this summer, here they are, verbatim: Root Beer is the carbonated beverage prepared from potable water, sugar (sucrose) sirup, and root beer flavor, with or without caramel color, and with or without harmless organic acid. Root Beer Flavor, Root Beer Concentrate, is the beverage flavor in which oil of sassafras and methyl salicylate (or oil of wintergreen or oil of sweet birch) are the principal flavoring constituents, and contains other flavoring substances, with or without caramel color.

Woman Gives Her Views After Visiting 30 Foreign Prisons

WOMAN GIVES VIEWS 36 de. By MRS. FANNIE SAN LONG Vice Chairman of Pennsylvania Commission on Penal Institutions (Written for the United Press) WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 18.—As a member of the Pennsylvania Penal Institutions Commission having singled out one of the greatest problems that confronts American prison, the question presented at the gate of each European institution was "How are your prison inmates employed?"

Work is an integral part of the European prison system, bettering the purposes learned here in America and known at the "Pennsylvania Plan." It is a system built on the propositions that 1. solitary confinement saves a man's self respect, drives home the lesson that he is unfit for society and gives opportunity for repentance; 2. Silence prevents the spread of vicious information and bad influence; 3. Work is a part of the punishment and part of the reformation, therefore compulsory.

In the long term prisons there are major trades and activities of every sort, and in short term institutions and for the unskilled, many of the simplest operations are provided. There are repair shops of all sorts and trade shops. For the unskilled there is much pasting of infinite variety of bags, tags, boxes, signs; bending of safety pins and carding of pins; hammering out paper doilies, cutting washers, leather, and cloth, sorting herbs, seed, grains, salvaging junk (old telephone boxes and automobiles), making whistles and vapor mirror cases, etc., etc. In surprising variety, artificial flowers. The work is all on contract.

And there are so many other differences between here and there. The height of their walls is surprising. Three and one-half meter

Woman Gives Her Views After Visiting 30 Foreign Prisons

(about 11 feet, four inches) is the usual measurement; the highest of the 30 seen was six meters (19 1/2 feet). Escapes are remarkably infrequent, though in contrast to ours, all cell windows open directly on a garden or court and few have bars. "Licht, Luft und Geistige Aufregung" (light, air and spiritual stimulation) are part of the philosophy of their program. Only in St. Lazare in Paris, built about 1650, were there inside cells, but there, fine new plans are in the making.

The size of cells is larger than is general in America and determined by law, requiring definite number of cubic feet for work by day as well as for sleep, smaller if only for sleep.

Now that the economic readjustment is made, over-crowding in prisons is unknown. All attendants have special training, are under civil service, with regular promotion, life tenure, if fit and pensionable. In women's institutions in Germany and Austria, special institution workers are in charge, in France and Belgium, church sisters. All women's prisons have women in charge.

Food is served in the cells. Only whole wheat any rye bread is given; from 600 to 800 grams daily, depending on the inmate's sort of work. The menu is made up either by weight or by calories. Three meals are served except in Paris. Grading is one method of discipline with three grades; by good behavior one rises to reward of a higher grade. Demoting and lessening privileges, the usual methods of punishment. Discipline cells are everywhere, but their use, and restricted fare, are regulated by law. Europe believes that solitary confinement prevents mental and physical contamination, saves self-respect (in fact marks are provided for prisoners who wish not to be seen when they pass among others) and gives time for contemplation and even for study and self-improvement and together with work is a good salation. Our policy is not silence. Europe believes that silence prevents villainy infection and villain-worship, again work is their salvation, increasing their comforts through diligence, developing thrift and skill that are the assets which they are to take the structure in cell size and outside windows; the value of farm and garden work and the spiritual influence of the sight of the outdoors; the conduct of schools and adequate libraries. And most important of all that each state of us emulate the European plan of having a Department of the Government vested with authority, having intelligent understanding of the problems of crime and correction and intelligent programs, definite procedure and reasonable funds for the conduct of penal institutions. And in particular contrast, American hit-or-miss methods with European purposefulness, compare our wide variations from excellence to shameful uniformity with the almost uniform merit of theirs according to their lights.

But tragically enough the list of occupations in European prisons holds little for America can translate. Imagine in America, a man with a little avian between his knees hammering thirty thicknesses of paper upon needles that perforate the thirty sheets in design and turn out the finished product of thirty little lace paper doilies. It's the European hand that keeps its work-cunning and the European respect for the craftsman and his handicraft that America's mass production has thrown into the discard. Nor can American prisons sell as do European prisons sell. But free-labor there, too, is turning a questioning eye. And the American market for their prison made goods is closing. But when their problems change there is little doubt but that they will think through to a competent solution.

Children Know New Testament Survey Shows

Northwestern P r o f e s s o r Gives Results of Questionnaire to Schools

By UNITED PRESS CHICAGO, Ill., June 18.—School children understand the meaning of the New Testament passages better than the old, according to a survey by Milton George Gell, of the school of education at Northwestern University. Specifically, the tests, which were conducted among 20,000 school children, show that the acts and the epistles are slightly more familiar to children than are the teachings of Jesus.

Children living in 70 communities in 19 states and embracing 43 religious denominations were solicited by Gell in conducting his tests, and were selected among pupils in grades ranging from the fifth to the twelfth. Each one was given a list of 60 selected scripture selections, with four alternative meanings placed after each one. The pupil taking the test marked the meaning which he thought correct.

Quoting a passage from Luke which reads: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me," Gell received varied answers. Five per cent who answered interpreted the quotation as meaning that a follower of Christ should wear a symbol of the cross, while only six per cent asserted that it meant that a Christian life was one of self denial.

Five per cent reported the passage referred to the daily life or affliction which is the lot of every Christian. The largest number, 76 per cent, understood the passage to mean that a follower of
