get up early," said he in the spirit of a true philosopher, "in order to have more time to loaf." Perhaps the most important reason why it's hard to get up in the morning is that sleep is a temporary death. It is no easy matter to pass from death to life in a moment. It takes some little time to just yourself to the conditions of life after you have been unconscious for hours. The process of waking and waking resembles dying coming into the world again. It is not to be wondered at if you experience a few pains at each re-birth. My bunk-mate at a summer camp was the clown of the establishment.

Warner Memorial Head Has Had Eventful Career

Founder of Eastland School Believes It Is His Greatest Undertaking and Believes It Is Destined to Become One of the Outstanding Educational Institutions in the Country.

Dr. J. T. Wilson, president of Warner Memorial University has had rather an eventful career. Born in Pennsylvania of Scotch-Irish parents, Dr. Wilson began his life work at the age of eleven by working eleven hours per day at a stove mill for which he received $5.00 per month and board.

For the next six years his time was mostly occupied with the interesting job of making a living, his parents having died in the meantime. At the age of seventeen, Mr. Wilson resolved to go to school and to become an educator. The next eight or nine years were consumed in an effort to gain that training which would fit him for his chosen profession. That period in the life of Dr. Wilson was characterized by hard work, deprivation and study. He smiles when he tells you of his first school where he taught for seven months for a salary of $30.00 per month. In the educational field, he has held the position of principal of an academy and at another time he was principal of a high school.

When converted at the age of thirty, he began to turn his attention to religious work and for several years has been devoting more or less of his time to the Christian ministry, a work he dearly loves. During his busy and eventful life he has been instrumental in erecting six church buildings. He was the founder and first president of the Anderson College and Theological Seminary at Anderson, Ind. He was instrumental in the organization of the Board of Church Extension of the Church of God. Dr. Wilson was president of the Gospel Trumpet Publishing company for a period of seven years and for two years acted in the capacity of president and general manager.

Dr. Wilson came to Dallas in the summer of 1914 and during the three years he lived there, he established a congregation in a new and rapidly growing section of the city. Warner Memorial University is the outgrowth of an ideal which Dr. Wilson has had in his mind for many years. He believes, too, that W. M. U. is the greatest work that he has ever undertaken and that this school is destined to be one of the outstanding institutions in the land.

When asked if he had other projects in mind which he hoped to put over, Dr. Wilson replied, "I have in mind many other projects which I should like to see put over but feel that my present job is big enough to occupy my time for many years to come and I am not expecting to promote any other organization."

All classes will meet Monday during the hours from 1 to 3 it was announced. Books will be issued at registration. Locks for the lockers will also be issued at registration periods.

All students registering for the first time will be required to present a certificate showing they have been vaccinated for smallpox. The new compulsory school law will also apply to students within the age limit.

On Stand In Strikers' Trial

Pictured here are four of the figures introduced by the prosecution in the trial at Charlotte, N. C., of sixteen strikers charged with the murder of Police Chief O. F. Aderholt, of Gastonia. Special Deputy A. J. Roach, left, told how he received 141 buckshot wounds in the affray in which the police officer was killed. Next is shown the wax model of the murdered man which created a stir and was ordered out of court when the state attempted to introduce it, clothed in Aderholt's uniform. At the right are Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mason, alleged eye-witnesses of the shooting. The case ended in a mistrial when a juror broke down.

Mavericks Take Friday's Game With Rising Star By 43-0 Score

By BOYCE HOUSE
The Eastland Mavericks were an irresistible machine that mowed the Rising Star Wildcats down, 43 to 0, Friday afternoon on the Eastland field. It was one of the biggest scores that has been rolled up in the last four or five seasons by an E. H. S. eleven and the several hundred present were impressed by the demonstration.

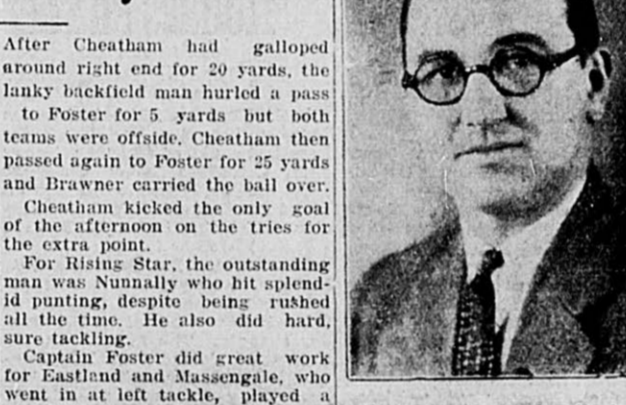

For Rising Star had a nice team and played hard throughout but as long as the regulars were on the field, Eastland could not be stopped. It was only after Coach Gibson had sent in a parade of substitutes until the third stringers were in action that the Mavericks ceased scoring.

Connie Smith returned the kick-off 40 yards and in six plays the Mavericks had a touchdown. A pretty run over the goal line by Smith ended the march.

As soon as Eastland obtained the ball again, they rushed down the field for another score. Smith struck deep into Wildcat territory. But with the starting lineup returning when the second half opened, the locals lost no time, the culminating play being a 25-yard run on a reverse by Watson. This touchdown was followed very shortly by another. When the Rising Star punter was rushed, Eastland obtained the ball well down in the visitors' end of the field and Allen went over.

In the final period, the Eastland fullback—who was having a great day—put the ball over again. Meanwhile, Smith was injured and Brawner took his place. Near the end of the game, with a liberal sprinkling of substitutes on the field, the Mavericks scored again.

W. M. U. President Issues Statement

Dr. J. T. Wilson, president of Warner Memorial University which is opening its doors in Eastland next Tuesday, has issued the following statement:
"In behalf of Warner Memorial University, I take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation for the loyal cooperation of the people of Eastland. We are indeed fortunate in being located here for it would be hard to find a city where an institution of this kind would receive more loyal cooperation from public officials. From the chamber of commerce, from luncheon clubs and other organizations as well as from the citizenship in general. We therefore count ourselves happy to be located in Eastland and any service we can render for the betterment of the community will be cheerfully given."
"J. T. WILSON,

Wilda Drago Caton Returns

After a Short Tour in Company With Her Husband of New York, Ohio and West Virginia, Will Return to Eastland.

Mrs. Wilda Drago Caton, Eastland violinist, who has been studying this summer under some of the masters in Europe, has sailed for home and will arrive in New York the 17th of this month. She will be met there by her husband, Norman Caton, and the pair will spend a short time in New York and from there will motor to Newark, Ohio and Weston, West Virginia, and to Fairmont, West Virginia, the former home of the Drago family. They expect to return to Eastland September 28th.

Mrs. Drago Caton, known throughout the United States, has added greatly to her reputation as a great violinist while in Europe, Utoker Sevek, recognized as one of the greatest if not the greatest violinist and teacher of the violin, in the world, under whom Mrs. Drago Caton has been studying at Salzburg, Austria, stated that the Eastland artist was the most talented American pupil he had ever had and was capable of being a concertist of the highest class.

Lillian Stroeberg, formerly of Austin, Texas, now studying voice in the Austro-American conservatory in Salzburg, in a letter to Mrs. Drago Caton's mother in Eastland, stated that she had been so greatly impressed with Mrs. Drago Caton and her ability that she was making her plans to visit Mrs. Drago Caton in Eastland for the purpose of surveying the local field with the view of locating here. "A town and citizenship that produces such an artist as Wilda Drago Caton certainly has possibilities for the teacher and lover of the arts," Miss Stroeberg wrote. Miss Stroeberg is a special pupil of Madame Schumann-Sheink.

In addition to her studies under Utoker, Mrs. Drago Caton has taken special courses in piano while abroad. She has also had some time for short tours over the country, visiting Vienna, Innsbruck, Switzerland, Venice, Milan, where she attended the grand opera Fidelio at the La Scala opera house; Mountrux on Lake Geneva; the famed Castle of Chillon; and Paris where she attended the Opera Comique.

As a pupil of Sevek, teacher of many noted artists including Kubelik, Erika Martina, Madame Juellig and Arthur Hartman, Mrs. Drago Caton will return to Eastland to take up her work of teaching the violin.

Local Church of God Has Grown

The local Church of God was organized about 1922, T. H. McNeil being instrumental in establishing the work in Eastland. The late A. Heardson was superintendent of the first Sunday school.

The church was first organized with 100 members. They had no regular meeting place. Within six months after the church was organized the congregation purchased a site and erected a church on it.

E. W. Barnett was pastor of the church 15 months, being followed by Rev. W. S. Hancock. The congregation of several hundred now has a modern church building.

Duncan, Okla., Officer Is Shot
DUNCAN, Okla., Sept. 14.—Within sight of theater crowds and only a few feet from a busy street intersection, a shotgun barked fire from a passing automobile last night and put thirty-nine slugs into the left shoulder of Jim Brown, veteran peace officer, as he walked down the street with his wife.

Brown was expected to recover. Officers sent word to authorities of adjoining counties to watch for a new Chevrolet which tore through Main street "wide open" about 9:30 o'clock last night, just five minutes before the crowds learned of the attempt to assassinate Brown.

Daniel S. Warner For Whom W. M. U. Here Was Named

It is customary in seeking a suitable name for an institution of learning to give it such a name as will indicate either the particular religious group which has sponsored it or in honor of some donor of a large sum of money.

But in adopting the name which designates Eastland's new University, the incorporators embodied an idea as represented in the life and work of Daniel S. Warner, who was indeed a pioneer in religious matters.

Like most pioneers Warner, in his teachings was far in advance of his day. He lived in a day when more than one denomination claimed to be the true church and that it was sinful to attend the services of another. D. S. Warner boldly took the position that division among Christians is condemned by the Holy Scriptures and taught that Christ's prayer for Unity must one day be fulfilled. In other words he advocated the idea of one church, that church to include all true Christians. Other doctrines such as physical healing of the body by Divine power, the baptism of the Holy Spirit, the Christian's Liberty to search the Scriptures for himself and to declare himself from the bondage of denominational creeds. The teaching of these doctrines brought Warner much persecution and hardship but today they are taught by almost all religious bodies. D. S. Warner has been dead for more than a quarter of a century but his teachings still live. The record of his life will always be an inspiration to those desiring to live the genuine Christian life.

His was a life above reproach. He was a life of courage, of loyalty to principle, a life of attainment and had he lived longer he would have established such an institution as that which bears his name. The men who have been pioneers have rarely lived long enough for their work to be appreciated. To this rule, Warner was no exception but I am glad to have lived long enough to see the ideas for which he labored, become widely accepted as expressed in the language of Bishop Harry T. More in a recent address when he said "There is coming a church of reconciliation. It is not your church nor is it your church nor is it any church of which I now know but there is coming a church of reconciliation."

Moody Sends the Rangers to Berger

AUSTIN, Sept. 14.—Five Texas rangers, headed by Ranger Captain Frank Hamer and Captain Tom Hickman, were enroute to Berger today to aid in the apprehension of the assassin of District Attorney John A. Holmes. Governor Moody ordered the rangers to the lawless oil town following notification of the crime, and later posted a $500 reward for the arrest and conviction of the "cowardly assassin," as he termed him.

District attorneys of adjoining district joined in a request to have aid from the state.

that he would do everything in his power to put law and order in the oil boom town.

Seek Clew In Holmes Murder

BY UNITED PRESS
BERGER, Sept. 14.—Authorities investigating the brutal murder here last night of district attorney John A. Holmes today examined legal documents in his office in an effort to find an alleged confession which implicates William J. (Whitey) Walker in the slaying of deputy sheriffs Pat Kennon and A. L. Terry here several years ago.

Walker is now held in jail at Stinnett to await trial on the murder charges. The alleged confession was obtained from Roy Harmon in April, 1928, after he had been shot and mortally wounded in an attempted hijacking at Wildorado, Texas.

Holmes was known to have had the confession in his possession several days ago and officers are seeking to learn the connection, if any, between Harmon's confession implicating Walker and the murder of Holmes.

Holmes was shot and killed by an unknown assassin in the yard of his home here last night.

Three of the five bullets fired from ambush struck Holmes as he was closing his garage door after putting his car up for the night.

After feeling his victim the assassin nimbly leaped a fence and escaped down a dark alley.

Both city and county officers immediately began an investigation but admitted they had few if any clues to work on.

Suspicious characters, such as are usually found in a booming oil town, were rounded up during the night but thus far no charges had been filed against anyone.

Colorado Slayers To Stick to Plea

BY UNITED PRESS
LAMAR, Colo., Sept. 14.—Legal tactics which the noted criminal attorney Clarence Darrow used in saving Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, Chicago slayers, from the gallows five years ago, are relied upon by the three bandits who on Thursday pleaded guilty in court here to murder, robbery and kidnapping in connection with the $200,000 holdup of the Lamar National bank in 1928. It was disclosed today.

The confessed murderers, Ralph Fleagle, George J. Abshier and Howard (Heavy) Royston stuck to their pleas of guilty in spite of warnings from the court that in so doing they were laying themselves open to the death penalty.

W. L. Cunningham of Colorado Springs is the attorney for the trio, but he took the case on the condition, it is learned, that his clients admit their guilt when brought into court. He has warned that if they do not follow his instructions he will withdraw from the case which comes to trial early in October.

Oratory is to be relied upon to save work for the hangmen and the strategy that got life sentences for the two young Chicago slayers is expected to be followed in detail in the cases of Abshier and Royston.

Pair Goes To Chair For Crime

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Sept. 14.—Two widows furnished drama today. One was girlish and grief-stricken. The other, tall and gaunt was satisfied that two "fiends" had been hanged for killing "my man."

state prison here, convicted of murdering Frank Bowens, filling station proprietor in the mountain town of Lees Creek, W. Va.

In Morrison's car they had set out with Jack's 15-year old bride, Violet, last May on a honeymoon tour. The car broke down near Charleston and Bowens gave them a ride. He was shot dead and allegedly robbed on the journey into town.

Willmott and Morrison each accused the other. Both were sentenced to hang.

Willmott's girl bride visited him in the prison yesterday for the first time since the trial in June. She kissed him through the cell bars, today she was preparing to take his body back to New Jersey.

The second widow had lived happily for 20 years with Bowens. She drove here from Lees Creek yesterday with two sons and a daughter and demanded to witness the executions.

Warden L. M. Robinson refused her demand, and so she waited near the prison until after the hangings. Then she took her children to two funeral homes, where the bodies lay and satisfied herself that they had paid the supreme penalty.

WHY WE DO IT Why We Want Thrills

By MEHRAN K. THOMPSON, Ph. D.
Author of "The Spring of Human Action"

IT IS HARD TO GET UP IN THE MORNING. It is nice to get up in the morning, but it's nicer to lie in bed. Harry Lauder makes a hit with his song because people understand what he is talking about. It is hard to get up in the morning, but it's nicer to lie in bed. We seldom get our full sleep. Everybody is so busy these days that going to bed is deferred, like paying a bill, until the very last minute. The prospect of a cold plunges us upon arising is reason enough to keep a fellow in bed all day.

It is hard to get up in the morning because you are getting up to work. Perhaps you enjoy work, but it doesn't look very much like it when you are viewed from a warm bed. You have no trouble about getting up on holidays—just the day would like to sleep. If you go on a picnic or an auto trip, you have been looking forward to with a great deal of pleasure. You are likely to get up readily enough.

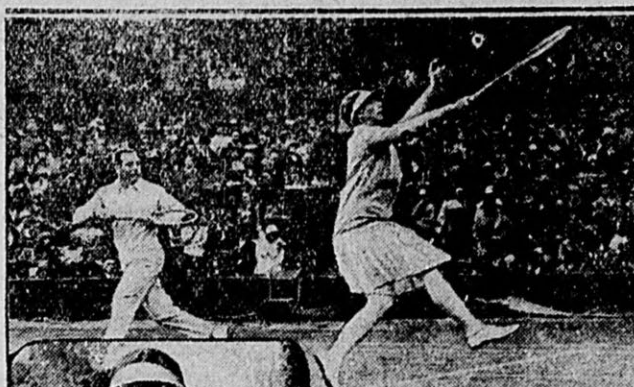

In my college days the story went the rounds that a certain sophomore in our dormitory, who had never been caught doing any work, always rose at least an hour earlier than the rest of us. Someone asked him why he got up so early since he loafed all day long. "I get up early," said he in the spirit of a true philosopher, "in order to have more time to loaf."

Perhaps the most important reason why it's hard to get up in the morning is that sleep is a temporary pass from death to life in a moment. It takes some little time to adjust yourself to the conditions of life after you have been unconscious for hours. The process of sleep and waking resembles dying and coming into the world again. It is not to be wondered at if you experience a few pains at each rebirth.

Helen Wills Scores Nutrition Diets, Advising Girls on Health and Charm

Proper Food, Exercise and Sunshine Best Guarantees of Happiness and Success, Says Champion.

THE fad for reducing diets for the sake of a boyish figure finds no friend in Helen Wills, America's premier woman tennis player, who holds that good health is the young girl's greatest asset, that without it she cannot hope to compete in life with her sturdier sisters, but that with it there are no limits to her possible achievements.

"To the young girl who is anxious to increase her charm and good appearance," Miss Wills says, "I would say, for health and beauty, and for getting the most out of life, stick to sensible habits of eating. Never run the risk of ruining your health by foolish food fads, and keep out in the open as much as possible."

"I most emphatically do not approve of eliminating nourishing foods from the diet, especially in the case of growing girls who need every ounce of reserve force. Lacking this important force, it is impossible to meet any crisis with success. In tennis, we players are under a strain more or less, of both a physical and mental nature, and we must maintain our energy by some method of refueling, especially during strenuous matches.

Helen Wills and Frank Hunter at Wimbledon. The constant physical and mental strain of international matches places heavy demands upon the players' stamina.

Sugar, Miss Wills says, is the world's greatest energizer, and here she appears with a lump of her energy food clutched in her good right hand.

several lumps dissolved in a cup of hot water. This is much more palatable, of course, with a dash of lemon."

For the girl who is obviously over-weight, Miss Wills has no admiration, but she believes that unless a girl is afflicted in some physical manner, she will never become over-weight to an alarming extent if she takes sufficient exercise. Weight charts have never appealed to Miss Wills as accurate evidence of one's physical fitness. She does not accord with the standard weight for her height by several pounds, yet she is strong and absolutely healthy in every respect.

Naturally, Miss Wills explains, he is a firm believer in outdoor exercise, and she feels that organizations which foster an interest in sports are contributing greatly to the development of the finest type of girlhood. Tennis leads in her estimation, but she believes that even tennis should be played in moderation. "It is a strenuous game and should be taken gradually," she says. "That is, one should not over-play. This applies to the seasoned player as well as to the beginner."

ishment. He was especially troubled with "getting-up pains." Every time the rising bugle sounded he would sit up, yawn, stretch a bit, wipe the departing sleep from his eyes and make some wise crack about how hard it was to get up. One day he soliloquized, "O-o-o-o! Here I've been sleeping only eight hours and it's so terribly hard to get up. What will it be on the day of judgment, after a sleep of a million years?"

HUSBAND'S HAIR TURNING GRAY—FULL OF DANDRUFF

Made Him Look Old and Untidy, the Wife Declares

TELLS HOW HE GOT RID OF GRAY HAIR "I wish you could see the marvelous change in the appearance of my husband's hair and scalp since I began giving him a massage each evening with Lea's Hair Tonic"

"I figured if women could stimulate the growth and rid themselves of dandruff and gray hairs a man could do the same and to encourage him to get started I gave him the first few treatments. His scalp thanks to Lea's is as clean and healthy as a newborn babe's"

Men like Lea's for the way it stimulates the growth of hair on the thin spots and the way it rids the scalp of dandruff and when their gray hairs start going back to a youthful color they are not sorry a bit. It positively will stimulate the growth of hair on a larger percentage of bald heads than any other known tonic.

Family Menu BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer SINCE many of the fruits generally used for preserves and jams have been high in price this year, a few recipes for quinces may not come amiss. Plain canned quinces are excellent in winter fruit salads. They have a tang which combines well with other fruits and their firm texture prevents them from crushing and becoming mushy. Quince honey is decidedly old-timey. It's delicious with hot rolls or baking-powder biscuits for "tea." A preserve used with a warm bread often makes a dessert unnecessary in an informal meal and saves a busy housekeeper the time and effort of making a cake or pudding. Quince Honey Six large quinces, 6 pounds sugar, 66 cups water. Pare, quarter and core quinces. Grate or put through the fine knife of food chopper. Put sugar and water into preserving kettle and cook ten minutes. Add quinces and cook 30 minutes longer. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffin when cold. Chopped Quince Pare, core and chop quinces. Measure. To three cups of fruit add one cup of water and cook until tender. Add four cups of sugar and cook for fifteen minutes longer. Pour into sterilized pint cans and seal. Quinces are also good as spiced sweet pickles. They are pared, quartered and cored and simmered in vinegar syrup until tender. A good rule for the spiced vinegar syrup is one pound of light brown sugar to each cup of elder vinegar and one teaspoon each of broken stick cinnamon, cloves and allspice tied in a bag. The spices of course can be varied to suit individual tastes. Ground spices can be used, but the pickled fruit will not be as clear and delicately colored.

na's 'Fighting Parson' to Battle With Cross and Sword

William Graham Everson, the new adjutant-general of Indiana, is shown here with the First Baptist Church of Muncie, of which he is pastor. He plans to retain his pastorate while commanding the state's military forces.

NAPOLIS. — Preaching the message of the Prince of Peace Sunday and managing the affairs of Mars on the six other days of the week is the new task of William Graham Everson, 50 years a Baptist minister.

Everson, already a general and of an infantry brigade, assuming the duties of adjutant-general of Indiana, head of the state's military forces. He has been assured by Governor G. Leslie that he can retain the command of the affairs of the Hoosiers while retaining his position as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Muncie.

Everson and preaching are incompatible so far as Everson is concerned. He is at both for more than a century and in each has attained distinction. His appointment as adjutant-general makes him the only minister to hold such a post at present in the history of the United States. Many of the clergymen, many of whom are in his own denomination, are in the war, may scoff at the idea of linking the profession and arms, but all Everson's friends pray for him. The pacifists pray that he will be able to do this and retain his pulpit in the

to make the Indiana National Guard an efficient war machine capable of handling the youth of the state in an emergency with the least possible loss of life. "That's social service in a big way and if war should come, which we all hope it will not, I'm sure my pacifist friends will agree with my ideas. "Nothing saves slaughter and sacrifice like properly trained and officered troops. I hope to make the Hoosier guardsmen the framework for such an organization. To do this I will try and bring home to the citizens the idea that the guard is of interest to every family in the state with males between the ages of 18 and 45." Just now the pastor-general feels that he will be able to do this and retain his pulpit in the new $345,000 church, which was erected through his efforts. Should the soldier's work prove a "greater challenge to service" than the church, he will surrender his pulpit, he asserts. The Rev. Mr. Everson is proud of that church. It is the culmination of almost nine years of pastoral duties in Muncie—the church and the congregation, which he has built to number 1,700 souls. "Here," he declares, "is an account of my stewardship — this church and the Norwood church in Cincinnati, which I built at a cost of $250,000. Let the pacifist preacher show me that he has done as much to make the church work in this world before he challenges my Christianity because of my patriotism."

Has World War Record The new adjutant general will retain command of the 76th Infantry brigade, Indiana National Guard, to which he was appointed following the World War. The appointment came as a result of his war record, which was not that of a chaplain, but as an infantry colonel commanding 6,000 troops in five foreign countries. His war service included command of the only American sector on the Italian front and placed him in charge of all troops east of the Adriatic Sea. It took him to France, Italy, Austria, Dalmatia, Serbia and Montenegro. During the hectic post-armistice days he conducted the American investigations into the trying situation at Fiume. So when he dons his general's uniform there are citations and decorations from England, France, Italy, Serbia and the United States including three battle clasps. The preacher-soldier is a huge fellow, with a golden crown of hair. Brown sparkling eyes flash the fire of the military commander. To tour his huge new church under his guidance is to take everything on the double-quick. When it is over the most casual observer is apt to comment that here is a man that will likely be able to handle both the cross and the sword. That's Indiana's "fighting parson."

WASHINGTON LETTER

ODNEY DUTCHER Service Writer WASHINGTON—Six states have prohibition enforcement laws of more features "less in character than the Act" and five have no codes at all, according to the new Anti-Saloon Year Book for 1929. They are Arizona, Connecticut, Louisiana, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The Maryland, Montana, New York and Wisconsin. The League's state reports "good," "very good" co-operation of public officials, 27 "passable," "improving" or "fair" and four "poor." Those which want to know how good they are from the Anti-Saloon League's viewpoint consult the following of League reports for 1928: Enforcement conditions improving. The making transportation of five or more gallons of liquor has had good results. Voted for Hoover and the League's state governor. Known as "dry" but hundreds of miles of national border and raggedly present serious and moonshine problem. Has a dry congress and various laws, including one prohibition of any liquor. Federal enforcement has been greatly hampered. Law openly violated and officials indifferent. Seem caused by production of wine tonics and drinks which are potable, and by federal permit. Dries have been winning the polls, including a referendum in 1928. Physicians are limited to four-ounce prescriptions. Connecticut—Enforcement conditions improving, with substantial increase in fines. Drastic prohibition legislation failed in 1925. Delaware—Reports failure of great drive to modify state enforcement code in 1926 and Hoover 1928 victories in home districts of John J. Haskob, Pierre S. du Pont and Captain W. H. Stanton. District of Columbia—Volstead Act is vigorously supported by officials and police are active and zealous, steadily improving conditions. Florida—More or less violation, but fair enforcement in most of the state. Hope for better conditions despite geographical opportunities for smuggling. Idaho—Prohibition efficiently enforced in some counties and laxly in others. State law holds possession unlawful. Illinois—Dry candidates elected last year despite wet referendum victory in 1926. State Anti-Saloon League distributed 10,000,000 pages of literature in 1928. Prohibition well enforced in most counties. Indiana—Elected full dry slate of candidates. Has an unusually drastic state enforcement code, results of which are not reported. Kansas—State prohibition law has been as well enforced as any other law for 20 years. All important daily and weekly newspapers support prohibition. Kentucky—Notable improvement in enforcement conditions since the election. Louisiana—Enforcement conditions far from perfect, but improving. Maryland—Dry candidates elected last year, but dry progress has to be made inch by inch. Massachusetts—Voted for Smith and wet won large majority in prohibition referendum last year. Legislature passed padlock law at last session.

Can You Can?

If you can, whatever it may be, here's your chance to make a name for yourself. Anne Williams, above, is directing a national canning contest over the air through station WLS, Chicago.
