Ranger Man Near Death From Gun Wound In Breast

'I made a Hard Fight and Was Tired,' W. B. Westgate, 65, Tells Partner Who Found Him Wounded.

"I made a hard fight and was tired," calmly said W. B. Westgate, 65, sarge owner of Ranger, to his partner, John Barnes, when the latter entered the office Monday afternoon and found Westgate had shot himself through the breast. The wounded man pointed to three letters—one to his daughters, another to his partner and the third to the public.

Several men in other parts of the garage had heard a report like a pistol shot but had thought it was a car backfiring and it was 10 minutes afterward that Barnes, going into the office, found that his partner was shot.

Before this discovery, Westgate had coolly asked a nearby mechanic about a car he was working on. The man was seated at his desk when Barnes entered. A pistol was near him. His face was pale and perspiration stood out on his forehead but his voice was steady. He was rushed to the hospital in an ambulance. His condition is critical.

Tourists Rescued From Top Mount Shasta, Calif.

McCLOUD, Calif., Sept. 10.—Lost on the treacherous slopes of lofty Mount Shasta, spurred to wakefulness by a nightmare like fear of slipping from a narrow ledge to death, five hikers were rescued today from their homes today from their nerve wracking adventure.

Saturday two men and three women—Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Bedwell, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bryson and Miss Rhoda Henry—started out to climb the high mountain. The group became separated. The two men started a search for the women and they too became lost.

Bedwell found the women on a narrow ledge and after assisting them to a less precarious position the four wandered about the forests in search of Bryson. Again the party was united, but because of their exhausted condition wandered about in circles until an airplane, piloted by John Wilbank circled overhead.

They signalled Wilbank who returned to McCloud for food to drop to the lost party. He dropped the food and then directed a searching party to the five hikers.

song they turned to me and said: "You got any statement you want to make?" "I started to say something and they ordered me to grasp a small American flag and denounce trade unionism."

"I told them that I, as a worker, came south to help the workers in the textile mills better their conditions. One of the men cut me and said 'That's enough. Let's go.'"

"They took Lell, Saylor and myself out to the automobiles and put us in one. 'Get that damned Beat (Fred Erwin Beat, southern district organizer of N. T. W. U. and one of the murder trial defendants) out of jail and lynch him, one man shouted."

"Another turned to me and said 'Beat is going to meet the same fate as you're going to get.' 'I said nothing. They planned to go to the offices of the International Labor defense union in Charlotte and several said 'We'll take every damn organizer and lynch them.'"

"The long string of cars started for Charlotte. When we got about half way there, I was pulled out of a car and into a filling station where I was told to telephone Hush Oehler, another organizer."

"They made me tell him to meet me in a secluded spot. He asked 'Are you alone?' Two men stood beside me pushing revolvers in my ribs as they forced me to say yes. 'Oehler became suspicious and before I could answer any more questions they cut the telephone wire. I was taken out of the filling station and placed in the different automobile alone.'"

After kidnapping the trio, the mob raided the offices of the International Labor Defense in Gastonia, seized quantities of propaganda and threw it into the street. The crowd shouting "Get the Reds," then sped to a union board- ing house in Gastonia in search of Hugo Oehler and William Dunn, organizers, and other communist leaders.

Unable to locate them, the mob moved on the strikers' tent colony at Bessemer City, two miles from Gastonia. Speeding in automobiles from the tent colony the crowd proceeded in the direction of Charlotte, 20 miles away.

It was said the crowd went to Jimison's office and later to his home and when they failed to find him the members of the mob scattered. "These five men in your car will look after you. Good-bye," one of the men said to me. "I asked where they were taking me and they said to Salisbury. While we were riding along the man asked me how much it cost the International Labor Defense to make J. C. Campbell, (the juror case yesterday) insane."

"I replied 'That's absurd and ridiculous,' and a moment later was smashed in the head with a black-jack. "All the time they were showing me the rope they intended to use to lynch me. "The next thing I knew our car had stopped on a lonely road and I again saw Leland Saylor. Nine miles from Concord, N. C. three cars pulled up and I was taken out of the one I was in. "We will beat him up first and then do the next job," the leader said. I was pushed out and they removed my trousers, handing Saylor for a belt. "They compelled me to stoop over and ordered Saylor to whip me with the strap. He refused. They beat me to the roadside and got branches and sticks and began whipping me. The legs will show you much of a beating it took. "The only one thing that saved my life was an approaching automobile. One of the leaders shouted 'It's the law' and they climbed in their car and drove away. "Meanwhile, half senseless, I crawled and stumbled up to the road where I collapsed. Saylor and Lell found me there and went to Concord for medical aid and came back to Charlotte this morning. "It was a hell of a night," Wells concluded. "Sitting on another bed in the same roof, C. D. Saylor, 41, organizer, who was 18 months in France with a southern regiment, corroborated Wells' story."

himself rewarded for his pains. An hour later he took his customary place in the hotel dining room and ordered a substantial breakfast, being in doubt as to when and where he would lunch. When the crisp bacon, the delicately cooked eggs and the thin brown toast were eaten, the second cup of crystal-clear coffee leisurely downed, he got up to set out on the task to which he meant to devote the day. He hesitated about using his own car but finally decided in favor of it. Driving helped him to think, made planning easier. It was a dangerous drive through the blinding rain to his destination, Yonkers. He could work from there and take a cab if it seemed wiser, he told himself.

The danger was never uppermost in Brent's thoughts. He was interweaving the threads of the story Charles Nellin had told him in his rational but disconnected phrases, making them fit the pattern that was developing in his own mind. He had already consulted a directory and learned that there lived in Yonkers a man named Cyril Kilmer Cunningham just as Nellin had said. But what he wanted now was more intimate information concerning Cunningham. His first move when he drove into the main section of the village was to inquire the way to Cunningham's address. With some little difficulty, owing to the storm and the strangeness of the locality, he found the street and presently the home. Again Nellin's veracity was confirmed. The house was, truly, rotting. Old and dismal, bleak and forlorn. It stood in the midst of stately trees that might have lent it grace another time, but now, whipped and bent with wind and rain, they were themselves deprived of dignity. Brent halted his car on the highway and surveyed the house with a feeling of disappointment. He'd been prepared to find it in decadence, but its present state hardly justified the belief that it was owned and occupied by a millionaire, he felt.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia. This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring foods in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases. A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book, "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write the Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. In buying be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years. Milk of Magnesia has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875. (adv)

Well, there remained the verification of neighborhood gossip. And certainly the grounds were extensive enough to make the place valuable, that is, if the far-reaching fields and wooded lots he saw belonged to the Cunningham estate. He drove on, looking ahead for a gas station or garage. A glance at the gasoline gauge on the instrument panel indicated that his fuel was getting low. That was just what he wanted. At the station he stopped again and asked for gas and water, and then decided he'd have a cup of coffee at the lunch stand. He was in no hurry about venturing forth in the rain once more. Over the coffee and a package of cigars he fell into conversation with the man behind the counter. Fortunately for Brent the young fellow was in a mood for talking. Business had been light all day and there had been little conversation in his small, steamy eating place. Brent said he represented a newspaper syndicate in New York. Out on a story about the old families of the east. Doing New York and vicinity at present. "Some day you picked," the other commented. "Best kind of weather," Brent explained. "Find people where you expect them. Ready to talk, too."

"Well, if you're looking for somebody to talk you go see old man Bruite at the Three Corners Drug Store. He'll tell you plenty. That old fellow's been here all his life. Worked in that same store since he was a kid. It's his boast that he knows everything of importance that's happened around here in the last 50 years. Let 'em give you the lowdown on the old families, all right."

"Thanks," Brent said gratefully. "That's a fine lead. Well, how much do I owe you? I'd better catch Bruite when he isn't likely to be busy."

He paid for his coffee with a dollar bill, and when the change was handed him he also received directions for finding the Three Corners Drug Store. As he expected, the place was all but deserted. Brent asked at once for Mr. Bruite and introduced himself, with a flattering play-up to the man's vanity. "I was sent to you, Mr. Bruite," he said, "because my people were told that your long association with the prominent families of this community has put you in a position to afford us information that we can get from no other source."

Mr. Bruite beamed a trifle. "Yes," he said, "I am an old resident here. I've seen families come and go. I guess I could tell you some things. Newspaper story, you say?" "Yes, quite a number of them. You see, America is losing its aristocracy, or rather, I should say, there are so many new people of wealth and influence that the old families who built the country are being forgotten by the masses. We are making an effort to recreate their lives in print for the public, make the real and... well, you understand. Intimate stories. The kind that draw people closer to those they're reading about. Anecdotes, things like that. Human interest."

Chamber of Commerce Chips

By the Secretary
DR. H. B. TANNER

One of the activities of the chamber of commerce that not much is known of locally is the correspondence that is addressed to the boards. We have made it a rule to answer every letter whether a stamp is enclosed or not, going on the theory that it is worth two cents to have the name Eastland Texas carried to any quarter of the country from which an inquiry comes. It is surprising how many individuals there are in the United States that want to know something about Eastland, its people, its business and its prospects. During the month of August two hundred and twenty-six letters were written or dictated by the secretary in answer in a large part to inquiries, or in connection with major and minor matters under consideration by the chamber of commerce. To name a few of the inquiries we have been asked to give a list of the painters and paper hangers in the city. The names of the garages and repair shops. List of oil companies. Attorneys. Dentists. Chain stores. Height of business buildings. To tell all about the horned toad and send pictures. A number of letters wanting to buy poultry. Parties wanting employment. Wanting to locate a garment factory. A potato chip factory. A brick factory, etc. In fact we could fill a column with the various things asked for. Probably 75 per cent will not amount to anything but if we nail one now and then it counts in the aggregate for the year's business.

Owing to the ten community fairs that are running in the county this week and the Eastland county fair to be held here soon afterward which will take up the time of the secretary to such a degree that it will not be convenient to continue this column for the time being. Consequently, "Chips" will be suspended for awhile.

Has the laxative in your home a family doctor's approval?

Most of us value our health too much to purposely neglect ourselves when we are warned of constipation by bad breath, feverishness, biliousness, a headache, lack of appetite, or that weak, helpless feeling. The continuation of our trouble is more often due to the things we do rather than the things we leave undone. Some things people do to help the bowels really weaken these organs. Only a doctor knows what things will cleanse the system without harm. That's why the laxative in your home should have a family doctor's approval. A wonderful product now known to millions of people as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a family doctor's prescription for sluggish bowels. It never varies from the original prescription which Dr. Caldwell wrote thousands of times in his many years of practice at Monticello, Illinois. He proved it safe and reliable for women and children; thoroughly effective for the most robust men. He showed it actually corrects constipation. It is made from fresh herbs and other pure ingredients. Since Dr. Caldwell first permitted his prescription to be put up in bottles and sold through drug stores, it has increased steadily in popularity until today it is the largest selling laxative in the world!

At the morning hour, she sang "When You Know Jesus, Too" and chose for her subject "The Greatest Thing in the World." Love is the centre and basis of all Christian life. EASTLAND WELL ADVERTISED INTERESTING STORY ABOUT ELIZABETH PERKINS AND HORNED TOADS.

From far-away Gleasondale, Mass., comes a newspaper, the Boston Globe of August 29, which carried a special dispatch from Hudson telling a story of horned toads and eleven years old Elizabeth Perkins, who makes her summer home in Gleasondale. The story tells that Elizabeth lives in Eastland, Texas and with her sister, brother and parents, goes there each year for the summer in their former home. And that Elizabeth brings horned toads with her, taking ten this summer. The story goes on to tell how she releases the toads in the gardens of her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Alther H. Gleason, who live next to her. The story tells of the horned toad and of Elizabeth bringing them into Massachusetts, the last three years. "When the writer called upon Miss Perkins she was enthusiastic about showing her pet," "wait," she said, "I will get one for you."

Running into the garden, she soon returned bearing two of the reptiles. She handled them as she would any kind of plaything. "Richard Berry does not need to be afraid to pick it up," she remarked pressing it against her cheek, "it won't hurt him."

She placed one of the toads on her shoulder, the other on her breast. They made no attempt to get away. Taking one in her hand, she showed its markings and explained its peculiarities, and even forced its mouth open that its tongue might be seen. It took considerable strength to pry open the jaws. When she stroked it on the head in a certain spot it appeared to lapse into sleep.

Elizabeth exhibited no fear of the horned claws or sharp horns on the head. "He won't stab you," she said, "but he can kill a snake, the snake coils itself around him, then he sticks his horns into the snake and kills him. I had a toad that laid 35 eggs, and another that laid only five. I love the toads," and she cuddled them up as though she meant it.

Just so long as she handled them or laid them on her person they remained perfectly still, but once put on the ground they sped away with amazing rapidity into the garden.

So far as the Waban-discovered toad being the first in this part of the country, Elizabeth declares that scores of them were brought North, and into Massachusetts, from the Houston convention last year.

Little Miss Perkins vouches for the authenticity of the Old Rip story—the toad that was said to have lived for 31 years sealed up in the cornerstone of the Eastland Courthouse. "My father was there when the stone was opened and saw Old Rip come out," she declared.

The horned toad is considered invaluable in Texas as a destroyer of insects that infest gardens. Elizabeth leaves for home next week but promise to return next summer with more toads.

BY THE WAY

(By Boyce House)

The football season has opened. Not one but two games are now history. The two "A" schools maintained the prestige of their higher classification by winning over their "B" opponents by impressive scores.

Ranger won from Gorman on Friday, 32 to 0. Eastland defeated Clyde on Saturday, 34 to 0. It is only natural that numerous fans who witnessed both games should try to compare the Bulldogs and the Mavericks. However such comparisons are largely colored by the desires and loyalties of those who do the comparing.

There was room for improvement by both teams. For instance, Gorman had the edge on Ranger in the first quarter. (This columnist may lose his popularity, if he has any, by making this statement but facts is facts.) However, the Bulldogs fully redeemed themselves in the last half for their sluggish start.

Eastland showed an inclination for fumbling. However, large allowances should be made. The Mavericks had been working out only five days. Ranger had been practicing almost three weeks before the Gorman game. Unquestionably, Gorman had a stronger, heavier and more experienced team than Clyde. Likewise, unquestionably Gorman had no plays whatever while Clyde had practiced enough to have some degree of teamwork on offense.

Those are some of the things that must be taken into consideration in trying to get a line on the relative strength of Eastland and Ranger.

There are several factors that everyone probably will agree to. One is that neither the Mavericks nor the Bulldogs have yet had a test as far as the line is concerned. Another is that Ranger seems to have a well-balanced backfield. Another is that Eastland appears to have a backfield what is a backfield. If "Arkansas," McCarty & Co. did passing, pass receiving and running, Connie Smith showed he could still hold the leather and he looked faster than a year ago and

Breckenridge Woman Is Doing Her Part

Takes Orzotone and All Her Miserable Feelings Vanish; Gains Daily Now.

"I have tried Orzotone and can recommend it because it has done so much for me," said Mrs. L. J. Turner, residing at 509 N. Shelton St., Breckenridge, Texas, a few days ago.

"When I began taking Orzotone," continued Mrs. Gurney, "I was suffering with stomach trouble and nervous indigestion. I had sharp pains also across my back and a stiffness in my joints and couldn't raise my arm from my side without suffering dreadfully. My stomach was weak and upset. My appetite was very poor and I suffered from loss of sleep. I lost 17 pounds in weight and had frequent headaches and felt sluggish and miserable nearly all the time. I got so I could hardly sleep and kept getting worse until I almost gave up.

"Orzotone was so highly advertised by local people I decided to try it and after using the first bottle I felt considerably better. My appetite returned and in a few weeks I gained several pounds and my miserable feelings all vanished. I eat hearty now and get more pleasure out of eating than I have in a long time. The stiffness in my joints is entirely gone. I have no more headaches and I sleep fine. I get up in the morning refreshed and fine, and can go about my work without any inconvenience. Orzotone has my hearty endorsement for what it has done for me and I believe it good for all people suffering from such troubles as I had.

Norton, who did not start, showed some running and pass-grabbing when he went in, while the other lads did good work.

But the big thing right now is that the conference season opens next Saturday. "One game at a time" is a good motto—and the Big Spring game is of overshadowing importance as far as Ranger is concerned. Of course, Eastland will be thinking of their next conflict, which will be played Friday against Rising Star, a non-conference game.

DEATH OF GRID STAR MOURNED

RANGER, Texas, September 10. The death of Jimmie Fields, former star football player of the Oil Belt district, caused sorrow in Ranger where the little athlete had many friends who admired his clean playing on the field and his smiling, sunny disposition in life.

Fields made a brave fight but blood transfusions given by his former teammates could not turn the tide of battle and he died Friday night in Cisco. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon.

He was the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wagner and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Moorman of Ranger. Jimmie was quarterback on the Cisco team in 1924 when the Big Dam team eliminated Abilene, the State champions of the preceding season. The Lobos won the championship of West Texas that year. Jimmie was probably the youngest and certainly the smallest player on the team, which was one of the biggest that was ever seen in high school circles. The quarterback was 17 years old and weighed around 140 pounds.

Twenty Years Troubles End

"When my friends see me now, they can hardly believe that any medicine could have done me as much good as Sargone."

"My case was not one of weeks or months, for twenty years with severe stomach trouble. I had very little appetite and nothing seemed to agree with me. I was always taking some kind of medicine for constipation and biliousness and became so nervous I could hardly sleep at night.

"The way Sargone took hold of my case was marvelous. My appetite came back, all the stomach trouble disappeared and every ache and pain went away. I've gained weight and sleep like a child. Sargone Soft Mass Pills ended my constipation and biliousness and I just can't find words to express how thankful I am for all this wonderful treatment has done for me."—Mrs. V. E. Spurlin, 3642 Ada street, For Worth. (adv)

was especially dangerous on re-turning punts. Three members of that team have already been claimed by death. "Chigger" Browne lost his life when a nitroglycerin truck exploded and "Bo" Speights met death in a highway accident.

WOMEN'S HAIR GETS THIN AND BAD FROM CONSTANT CURLING

Tinting, Waving, Marcelling Sometimes Cause Gray Streaked Hair

TOUCHING UP GRAY DISAPPOINTING TOO

If one's hair has become thin, streaked, gray or dull from frequent treatments or the gray hair has turned ugly shades ever darker with doctoring and dyeing it is time to quit and give the scalp, hair roots, and color glands a good vigorous daily massage with finger tips dipped in the stimulating, beneficial Lea's Hair Tonic.

Right away the scalp takes on a healthier tone—dandruff if any vanishes and between the massaging and the Lea's the hair grows cut thicker and stronger as they appear the Lea's Hair Tonic causes the gray hairs to begin turning from gray back to youthful shade—nature seems to get back on the job of putting pigment and color into the off-colored locks, dull faded patches and even locks that have been gray for years. Dyed hair as it grows out instead of coming out gray at the roots comes out nicely. It isn't a shocking change to astonish friends. Experts cannot detect the use of Lea's. Of course patience and the nightly use of Lea's is necessary for quite a while, but once the hair is back to its youthful, luxuriant and lustrous shade the result is worth hundred times the cost. From then on an occasional massaging with Lea's keeps the hair year after year just as you would wish it—seems to keep nature up on her toes indefinitely. Then wave, curl, marcel or get a permanent, and you too will say wonderful as thousands have in the past. To test apply to hidden spot the size of a silver dollar a couple weeks and watch results.

If reader desires to try Lea's Hair Tonic on guarantee of complete satisfaction they should get bottle at drug store or pin dollar bill to this advertisement and send to Lea's Tonic Co., Brentwood Md., for regular bottle, full directions and postage paid. Sent C. O. D. if desired—12c extra. (adv)
