The Darkness Deepens

It has been usual to think of the overflowing of the Nazi tide across Europe as a sort of blackout, a darkening of the spiritual lamps which cast light on many people.

The pattern has been followed in country after country. At first the universities and schools are allowed to carry on with their work, under close supervision of both teaching and student activities by Nazi functionaries.

The Czech universities were closed, and most of their students deported to forced labor in Germany. In Holland, Poland, Norway, and Belgium there has been turmoil and resistance, and such university life as remains is under the strictest Nazi supervision.

Why is this important? Not merely because of the individual tragedies to thousands directly affected. Because the science and learning fostered in their universities and institutions was of value to all the people; even those who never stepped on to a campus or through an academic door profited by free academic institutions.

What now? "Knowledge has never flowered in a subject people," says the report. "It is only free men who dare to think, and it is only through free thought that the soul of a people can be kept alive."

Claim Holders of Old Mines Sought

WASHINGTON—The Interior Department is conducting one of the largest and the most widespread manhunt in record in an effort to find approximately 50,000 holders of early mine claims in the west.

The hunt by the department's agents to find their men is being conducted in connection with more than 8,000,000 acres of public land for defense purposes.

It is unusually difficult to find a claimant, the department publishes its intent, and, if the claimant still cannot be found, seizure of the land for defense purposes follows.

SERIAL STORY

DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS

BY EDITH ELLINGTON

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: But Anthony doesn't want to face Sheldrake. He tries to argue Bee out of the idea, finally admits that he knows the man, that it might cause trouble. Bee cannot understand. But Fletcher calls Sheldrake. The man bustles in, faces Anthony, "So, it's you! Weeping has been spying on me." "Weeping?" Bee asks. "What has he to do with Mr. Bradley?"

"THAT MAN" AGAIN

CHAPTER XXIX BRUCE SHELDRAKE paid no attention to Beatrice.

"So Mr. Curtis Weeming finds it necessary to plant stool pigeons in my store, does he?" he shouted. "He finds it necessary to provoke insubordination and make me trouble. He is not satisfied with heckling, with criticizing everything I have ever done. He is not content with stirring up hornets' nests at the bank. I've got to have them at the store, too!"

"He's sabotaged every piece of real progress I've ever attempted. How many other spies has he spotted throughout this store? How many stool-pigeon reports have been going out to him every week?"

"I have not been a stool pigeon, Sheldrake!" Anthony retorted. "I happened to need a job, and I applied at this store and got the job. Mr. Weeming had nothing whatever to do with it! In fact, he didn't want me to work here. But I was fool enough to think I could build a career—I was fool enough to think Huntington's was still the honest, worthwhile organization it used to be."

Beatrice had never seen this Anthony before. "If Mr. Weeming happens to be investigating any angle of your activity, Mr. Sheldrake, I am of the opinion that it's a damn good thing. But he has not investigated through me!"

"If he's been investigating?" shouted Bruce Sheldrake. He was a goaded bull, seeing red. "You know damn well he's been investigating! That dried-up old skunk has been gunning for me since the day I became general superintendent."

"I haven't made a single move in this store without bucking Weeming's paid old-timers at every turn. Mr. Huntington didn't do this, Mr. Huntington didn't do that! Who's running this store now, Mike Huntington or me?"

"It's not my methods old man Weeming objects to. I've shown a profit at the end of every single year of my operation, and if he can find a better man for the job, I'd like to know where! I earn my bonus, and the hell with anyone who says I don't."

"Nobody, you hear me, nobody can find a damn thing wrong with my methods. They're not the sloppy, sentimental, outdated methods that used to run the roost around here, that's all."

"Weeming's a lawyer, he doesn't know a thing about department store managing, yet he sits there in his office and tries to dictate to me. If I ran this store the way he wants, we'd close up in no time!"

The angry torrent poured out so vehemently that Beatrice knew Mr. Sheldrake had said all this before. Often.

"SHE stepped between the two men. 'Just a minute,' her tone held a dangerous sweetness. 'That's all very interesting, Mr. Sheldrake, but I think we've had quite enough of it. I'd like to ask Mr. Bradley a question.'"

Mr. Sheldrake gaped. "Who are you?"

"I have been working in the Budget Fashions," she told him. "I have just resigned." She turned her back on him.

"Anthony Bradley, look at me. I want you to tell me exactly how it happened that you knew Beatrice Davenport had given her fiancé a string of polo ponies?" Her voice was very even, almost gentle.

"I asked you once before, remember? You evaded the question. Please don't evade now. How did you know?"

Anthony stared at her as if she had suddenly taken leave of her senses. "For God's sake, Bee, this is no time—"

"Answer me!" Sheldrake was sputtering, Fletcher whirled weakly into his chair. Anthony kept right on staring at the small girl with the blazing eyes. "I heard her say she'd bought him polo ponies!" he exploded. "That's how I knew. I happened to be in my guardian's office while she came in, and I got out of the way. But I couldn't help hearing it. Look here, Bee, none of that matters. I didn't want you to—"

"You didn't want me to know you and Beatrice Davenport shared the same guardian, that's why you didn't want me to know!"

"I didn't want anyone in the store to know!"

"So you were spying on me, you worthless—" Mr. Sheldrake was in it now.

man in the back office. It was you—you smug, self-satisfied, stupid brute—it was you who dared—who dared to say I ought to be quietly and competently re-chloroformed!" Her voice broke. She burst into a storm of weeping. "You d-despicable, d-d-detestable, a-a-bom-abominable, ob-obnoxious c-cad!"

ANTHONY BRADLEY looked like a man who was hit with an oversize orick.

He tried to touch her quivering shoulder. Bewilderment was written large all over his face. Beatrice jumped away from him as if he had burned her.

"Bee!" he implored desperately, a man at the end of his tether. "Bee, for heaven's sake, wait a minute. Let me get this straight! What in thunder are you talking about? I never said—I never in my life said you should be ch—"

His voice died. A horrible, gurgling death it was, too.

All at once, his hands were very strong and urgent on her shaking shoulders. "Look up here! How do you know what I said in Mr. Weeming's office? I remember now, I did say she ought to be chloroformed. But I said BEATRICE DAVENPORT—"

"Yes," admitted Beatrice savagely. "You said Beatrice Davenport. Yes, that's what you said. Oh, I hate you. I hate you! Take your hands off me. I'd rather die than have you touch me. You heartless, complacent, righteous, nasty b-brute. You didn't even wait until I got out decently before you dared—you d-d-dared—"

She pounded frantically against his chest, a fierce and primitive whirlwind. Suddenly, viciously, she pushed him. The attack was unexpected that Anthony staggered ignominiously back against the wall. His hands flew to his stomach. He doubled up with pain.

"Am I crazy?" muttered Mr. Fletcher. "Am I crazy, or are they?"

Beatrice Huntington Davenport, running wildly out of the office, had forgotten the existence of either of them. All she knew was that for six long weeks she had been cherishing a love for the man who turned out to be that snake in the grass, that unfeeling, revolting creature in Mr. Weeming's office.

Charging down the corridor, her eyes blinded by tears, she collided head-on with a fat man carrying a milk coat. There was a sudden grunt, a howl, a swift whirling sensation. Beatrice and the fat man hit the floor together.

Trip To School of Girl Costs State Dollar Each Day

PRUDENCE ISLAND, R. I.—Eight-year-old Janice Silva is going to school again, but it's costing the state $1 a day to keep her there. Last November, Janice's father and the school committee disagreed over responsibility for transporting the child from her home to the school on the other end of this island—a distance of five miles.

Janice didn't attend school until the problem was solved by having the father drive his daughter to school in the morning and back at night. The school committee of the town of Portsmouth, which supervises Prudence, combines with the state to pay 5 cent a mile for the service.

Silvia is paid for four trips daily: from home to school with Janice, from school to home without Janice; from home to school without Janice and from school to home with Janice.

British Utilize Assorted War Gifts From America, All But Prince Albert Coat, Boy Proud of Football Jersey

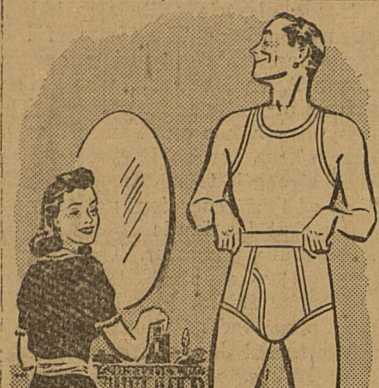

By WILLIAM DOWNS
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON.—A look at the list of gifts to Britain's evacuees, bomb victims and members of the army, navy and royal air force reveals that a lot of American articles have been cleared during the past year—all to the benefit of men and women who are fighting Britain's war.

Leaders of the English-Speaking Union, which has been cooperating with the American branch of its organization as well as with other United States charitable organizations in collecting clothing and materials of every description to aid the war effort, said that only very rarely have they been sent gifts which could not be used by someone somewhere.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pint a day.

lent garment, but no one seems to wear the things any more. I can't imagine what it was doing in America."
More than 65,000 garments and thousands of other gifts have been received from all over the United States.

Gifts have been received from Colorado mountain towns, from Chicago, Milwaukee, Roanoke, Va., New England, Cleveland, Cincinnati and California. Some of these are marked "To the men serving on the fifty United States destroyers" which were granted in the air base exchange.

Besides the gifts of garments, Americans have sent more than $5,000 in cash to the union as well as 14 American ambulances, money for first-aid mobile posts, one complete surgical unit, a mobile feeding post and mountains of Red Cross and hospital supplies.

"The American gifts have been more wonderful than it is possible to imagine," one organization official said. "The clothing is all freshly cleaned and the people in the United States seem to have a second sight when it comes to giving things."

"Whenever we need little girl's dresses, or sturdy trousers for boys, or shoes for bombed firemen or layettes for babies—in fact, about anything possible to imagine, we know we usually can count on them being in the next shipment. They usually are."

These gifts served immeasurably in brightening the lives of the fighting forces as well as the evacuees and persons who have lost their homes. Dolls, toys, magazines, books, ping pong sets, dart boards, tennis rackets, cricket bats all have been distributed from the American donations. Cigarettes, tobacco, candy cookies and even fruit-cakes and cookies which could be safely shipped without spoiling have been sent.

Universities Get Bad Breaks When Session Meets

AUSTIN, Tex.—The University of Texas gets some bad breaks. Things that give it bad publicity always seem to happen just when the legislators are considering the state appropriations to be made for the school.

When Dana X. Bible was engaged as athletic director and head football coach at a salary so large that the regents declined to make it public, the legislature heard complaints that the university was paying its coach more than its president.

Perhaps, like the Bible salary (incidentally Bible's salary now is disclosed to be $15,600 a year) the Texan's remarks about Dies and his book will work out to the university's benefit.

Then the Daily Texan, student-edited, bobbed up with a criticism of Cong. Martin Dies and an editorial that gave some of the legislators affront.

Perhaps, like the Bible salary (incidentally Bible's salary now is disclosed to be $15,600 a year) the Texan's remarks about Dies and his book will work out to the university's benefit.

EASTLAND RED CROSS QUOTA ANNOUNCED BY CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Edith E. Townsend, chairman War Relief Production, Eastland Chapter, American Red Cross, announces the quota accepted by the Eastland County Chapter to be completed June 1.

The chapter will devote its full time to sewing garments this quota and hopes to accept a large knitting assignment next request, Mrs. Townsend states, and the following list comprise the quota: 30 girls dresses, woolen; 16 girls dresses, cotton; 50 girls skirts, woolen; 25 women's dresses, woolen; 12 women's dresses, cotton; 37 women's skirts, woolen; 75 boys shirts; 20 boys shirts; 12 bed shirts; 17 operating gowns; 25 convalescent robes, and 10 hospital pajamas.

In nearly every home there is a large assortment of buttons, snaps, and thread, and we would appreciate it if you will contribute these articles to the chapter, Mrs. Townsend said, and that the articles may be left at the Chamber of Commerce office. Materials are sent from American Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D. C., but no patterns or bindings are issued.

MISSIONARY FROM BRAZIL HONORED IN EASTLAND

Miss May Bell Taylor, returned Missionary from Brazil, will be honor guest at a reception Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Pat Crawford, 606 S. Seaman, from 2 until 6 o'clock. Mrs. Crawford, Associational President of Woman's Missionary Unions of this association, will be assisted by the Eastland and Oiden Women's Missionary Societies.

The members of the two societies, and members of the R. A. G. A., Sunbeams, and Y. W. A., organizations, and friends are cordially invited to attend.

N. Y. A. GIRLS PLAN EASTER LUNCHEON

Group 2 of the N. Y. A. girls are planning to entertain the members of Group 1 with an Easter luncheon on Friday, April 11, it was announced today.

The members of Group 2 are now enrolled in their homemaking classes in which they are learning to plan, prepare, and serve different types of meals. They are planning to prepare the following menu for 38 N. Y. A. enrollees: pimento cheese sandwiches, potato salad, deviled eggs, sliced pickles, cookies, and iced tea.

Miss Fagg, the homemaking teacher, and Mrs. Satterwhite, project supervisor, will be honor guests.

PUBLIC LIBRARY LISTS NEW BOOKS

The Eastland Public Library, open each Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday afternoon from 2 o'clock until 5:30, has added the following best sellers and books of the month to its shelves:

Future Homemakers To Hold Four Day Meet Apr. 30, May 3

AUSTIN, Tex.—"The Voice of American Youth" will speak loud and lustily when 2500 Future Homemakers of Texas rally at the Gunter Hotel in San Antonio, on April 30th through May 3rd. Plans have been completed to center the four day program around youth problems as youth themselves express them.

Cooperating in this large gathering of high school girls and boys with the state staff of the Homemaking Division of the State Board for Vocational Education, of which Dr. L. A. Woods, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, is executive officer, are the University of Texas, Texas State College for Women, Texas Technological College, the state teachers colleges, Texas College of Arts and Industries, and Mary Hardin-Baylor College. Miss Ruth Huey, State Director of Homemaking Education, and Miss Josephine Pazzral, State Supervisor, are in charge.

Approximately 28,000 girls and boys enrolled in homemaking classes make up the organization represented by the 2500 outstanding students chosen as representatives from schools throughout Texas. The girls' organization has the following state officers: June Dameron of Hereford is president; Margaret Jackson of Big Spring is vice president; Hil-da Haynes, Athens, recording secretary; Margie Bell, corresponding secretary, from Spur; and Elizabeth Shaw of San Marcos, reporter. President and vice president of the boys organization are Perry Ball of Huntsville and Billy Seals of Belton. Cornet Mills, secretary, from Webster; Robert Wood from Bardwell, treasurer; and Melvin Crawford of Manor, reporter, make up the other officers of the homemaking organization for boys.

Fun nights, banquets, luncheons, sing-songs, pageant, and style show are to be among the entertainment features. Varied educational activities include exhibits of chapter accomplishments, amateur hour, panel discussions, broadcasts, contests of many phases of homemaking work, installation ceremony, and talks by youths prominent in state organizations.

Censorship likely will keep the German people from learning too much about the lend-lease bill. What they don't know may hurt them.

STARS OF HOLLYWOOD WILL BE HERE IN PERSON

Something entirely new comes to you, is the slogan of the Famous Dot Hackley and her Hollywood Cowgirls, a group of talented musically inclined girls, who did not make a success of climbing the stairs to stardom in the movies, so instead of giving up and going home they formed the Hollywood Cowgirls and became a success almost over night not only with their stage show, but their radio success was almost sensational, as they became popular favorites before they could realize that they were one of the most popular acts on the west coast and was being applauded and looked up to by about all the successful movie stars of Hollywood.

Their act is something very different, the girls being very good performers, and present lots of new novelties, among the Hollywood Cowgirls are included, Dot Hackley well known champion girl roper, as well as all around entertainer, then the Rodik Twins, two beautiful identical twins that Hollywood raved about, nothing short of sensational with their singing electric guitars and harmony singing. The bass fiddle takes an awful wrestling around from Aliva Hoskins, who plays about any other instrument she gets her hands on. You will wonder where Lenore Larson gets all her strength to squeeze the life out of that accordion, not to mention that St. Louis blues voice which she possesses. Then comes the girl who startled Hollywood with her fiddle, Lily Mark. Lily has a carload of tricks up her sleeve, and does much to make the Hollywood Cowgirls one of the outstanding radio and stage acts of today. Talk about stunts, Babs Bardo hasn't room up her sleeve for all of hers, but wait until Monday when the Hollywood Cowgirls appear in person at the Connellee theatre, see for yourself how Babs does that trick fancy roping and tap dancing at the same time.

In addition to the stage show, there will be a big screen show featuring Paramount's "A Night at Earl Carroll's" starring the Most Beautiful Girls in the world. The theatre will open at 6:45 with screen shows at 7 and 9 and stage shows at 8:15 and 9:45.
