Social Security Leaflet Explains Extended Care

A leaflet explaining what kind of care Medicare can—and cannot—help pay for in extended care facilities is available at social security offices.

The publication describes the conditions under which Medicare can help pay for care in an extended care facility participating in the program when the patient requires skilled nursing services on a continuing basis for a condition that was treated in the hospital.

Extended care under Medicare is sometimes confused with other kinds of nursing home care, according to social security officials here. The leaflet explains that Medicare cannot pay for care—even though it is provided in an extended care facility—when a patient's primary need is assistance in eating, dressing, getting around, and meeting similar personal care needs.

Single copies of the leaflet, called "Medicare Benefits in an Extended Care Facility," are free on request at any social security office.

The extended care benefit is only one of a number of Medicare benefits which help pay the health care bills of almost everyone 65 or over, a spokesman said. The program is administered by the Social Security Administration of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Scholarship Given To Ranger Junior College

It is always gratifying to have an idea received with approval, accepted by those who are actively involved in areas related to the new endeavor. So it is with the new Ranger Junior College Peanut Production program.

A number of peanut industry related organizations have responded favorably in support of this first-of-its-kind instructional curriculum scheduled to begin this fall. Ranger Junior College are invited to visit the college campus or write the Dean of Admissions or Mr. Weldon Wilson for additional information.

The most recent company to extend support in the form of a scholarship grant is the Olin Chemical Company, Agricultural Division.

The favorable response by the Olin Company and a number of other organizations indicate a need for specialized study in an area which has been generally overlooked for so many years.

Commissioners Grant Lone Star Gas Company 8 Per Cent Increase

John McGowan appeared before the Commission representing Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and stated that Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. would like to have an answer from the City Commission regarding the proposed Metro Dialing system. The system would allow Eastland residents to call both Ranger and Cisco on a toll free basis and would allow Cisco to Dial Eastland and Ranger to dial Eastland but would still be a toll call from Cisco to Ranger or Ranger to Cisco. An increase proposed to cover the cost would cost the average customer in Eastland 50¢ per month and the residents of Ranger and Cisco 25¢ per month. Mr. McGowan stated that Southwestern Bell was not trying to persuade anyone to accept the proposed system and that their position was that it was available if the people desired it. The Eastland City Commission decided that sufficient information was not available at that time to give Mr. McGowan a yes or no answer and decided to sponsor a telephone poll of a percentage of users to determine if the people are interested in the proposed Metro Dialing.

Lone Star Gas Co. was granted first reading on an ordinance granting an eight percent increase. Lone Star had originally asked for 10 percent and the City Commission had offered a six percent increase. The ordinance will require an additional reading before going into effect.

Passed an ordinance raising the price of gathering and disposing of garbage for residents using the garbage facilities of the City of Eastland. The new rates will go into effect with the first billing following passing the ordinance. The increase was the first change since 1959 and due primarily because the City has had to go into a sanitary landfill operation and cease burning to dispose of the garbage.

The city passed on its first reading an ordinance establishing procedures for the abatement and removal of junked vehicles or parts thereof, as public nuisances from private property or public property. The ordinance will require an additional reading before becoming effective. This is an attempt on the part of the city of Eastland to bring under control the vast number of discarded vehicles over town.

Senator Tom Creighton Named To Legislative Budget Board

AUSTIN -- Senator Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells has been named to the prestigious Legislative Budget Board by Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes.

He will join Senator A.M. Aikin, Jr., Paris; Senator William T. Moore, Bryan and Senator A.R. Schwartz, Galveston as Senate members.

Aikin and Moore serve by statute because of their positions as chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee and the Senate Finance Committee, respectively.

The LBB is comprised of the Lieutenant Governor, the Speaker and four members each of the Senate and House.

In announcing Creighton's appointment, Barnes praised him "for his dedication to duty and his expertise in state government in general."

"Senator Creighton is one of the most knowledgeable and hard-working members in the history of the Texas Senate," Barnes commented.

The Legislative Budget Board is the body which holds hearings on budgets with all state agencies and recommends a biennial budget to the full Legislature for its consideration.

Barnes pointed out members of the LBB "are considered legislative leaders and only those members who have gained the respect of their colleagues are named to this honored position."

"I know Senator Creighton will fulfill this new position in the best interests of the people of the entire state just as he has done for his own constituents in the Mineral Wells area," Barnes concluded.

CJC Data Processing Department Receives IBM

The Data Processing Department at Cisco Junior College has announced the recent installation of an IBM System - 3 Computer for use in data processing instruction. Bob Qualls, Data Processing Instructor, said that the new equipment had been delivered and set up at CJC during the past three weeks. The System - 3 replaces a now obsolete IBM 360 - 20 Computer which has been in use for the past two years. In addition to the computer, seven new Data Recorders have replaced the IBM 80 - column key punches formerly used for instruction at the college.

The new System - 3 features a 16,000 character memory with three disk drives having a storage capacity of 7.35 million characters and a card reader with the capacity for reading 500 96 - column cards per minute.

The System - 3 and similar computers of its size and capability are expected to satisfy a large portion of the computer users market heretofore untouched. The System - 3 is designed for the needs of small and medium-sized business firms at a reasonable cost, Mr. Qualls said.

Cisco Junior College offers eleven courses in data processing. A student interested in data processing may acquire an Associate of Arts degree upon completion of two years of data processing courses. Programs for key punch operators, machine operators, and persons wishing knowledge of specialized computer languages are of lesser lengths. Courses in RPG II, ASSEMBLER, COBOL AND FORTRAN will be taught on the new computer.

The new System - 3 will also be used in the high school contractual program serving several area high schools. Qualifying junior and senior high school students are offered the opportunity to learn elementary data processing under this program as a part of their regular curriculum.

Qualls and Ed Carter, the two instructors in data processing at the college, recently completed a 70 - hour workshop at San Antonio College. The workshop included a large phase of instruction in use of the System - 3 Computer. Mr. Qualls and Mr. Carter will welcome inquiries about the data processing courses or visits by the public at any time to examine the new equipment. They may be contacted by telephoning area 817, 442 - 2567, or writing to: Data Processing Department, Cisco Junior College, Cisco, Texas 76437.

WORLD'S RECORD PEANUT PRODUCER* USES LILLISTONS EXCLUSIVELY

J. Rudolph Sumner, Omega, Georgia, Tells Why:

"I've been using Lilliston Peanut Combines exclusively since 1956 and they've always done a good job. The one I have now is three years old and it's in excellent condition. I like the wide header and the easy way it handles in the field. It works well in a wide range of harvesting conditions and we've had no maintenance problems."

Would You Say The Pill Is Going To The Dogs?

"Birth control pills for coyotes may someday make a picture such as this a rarity. However, the 'pill' is still in the development stage and livestock being killed by varmints are a reality," says Joe Fambro, chairman of the Board of Directors for the Leon-Bosque Resource Conservation and Development Project.

These kid goats were killed by varmints within 50 yards of Jay Bishop's home in Erath County. The same night, a ewe had her throat slashed. Bishop feels the work was done by coyotes.

There has been some promising research work done on "birth control pills" for coyotes. Using baits treated with stilbestrol, reproduction has been significantly reduced in some study areas. More research is needed on this method to improve the technique.

President Nixon recently signed executive order number 11643 which prohibits federal employees from controlling predator populations by the use of chemicals. As a result, the only methods whereby predators can be controlled are by shooting, trapping, or finding a den and controlling the young by mechanical methods. The ban on chemicals also applies to public land. The predator control agents paid partly by federal and partly by state funds are also limited by these restrictions.

"With environmentalists and preservationists wanting to stop all control on coyote and other predators, the ranching industry has been put 'between a rock and a hard place,'" Fambro said. Already, antelope and deer herds in parts of Texas are having a reduced fawn survival rate. The planned restocking of the Desert Bighorn Sheep into some of the original range of the animal now faces some problems from predators.

Fambro said, "the loss of livestock is becoming an all too familiar problem to Texas livestock producers. Very few ranchers want the coyote exterminated. Producers want to reduce their population so that natural foods, rabbits, ground squirrels, rats, etc., can supply their needs." When there isn't enough food to go around, the coyote gets hungry. When hungry, he loses his natural fear of man. Sheep, goats, and baby calves are relatively defenseless animals and can be taken with ease. Game animals such as deer, turkey, and quail are also killed.

This is a major economic loss to the rancher and will eventually be felt by the city dweller and sportsmen as well. Increased meat prices and less game available for harvest by hunters and sportsmen will be two of the problems noticed.

Ranchers tell of controlling coyotes numbers and rarely if ever losing livestock to coyotes. When they would occasionally kill a coyote, the animal would be sleek and in excellent condition with no signs of mange or other diseases. The natural food of rabbits and other small animals provided all the necessary food. When coyote populations increase to large numbers, ranchers begin to lose livestock. The physical condition and appearance of the coyote gets worse. Coyotes can become mangy, shaggy, diseased, harbor parasites, etc. - all are symptoms of malnutrition and - or overpopulation.

A stomach study of over 8,300 coyotes showed domestic livestock to be contained in 13.5 percent of the animals. This readily effects the livestock producer. Deer are the most vulnerable as fawns, but after a few weeks of age, they have the ability to get away from the coyote. Livestock however, are more defenseless and are taken throughout most of the year. Coyotes also take large numbers of nesting game birds such as quail.

"We don't want to eliminate the coyote," says Fambro. "We want to reduce the excess numbers to a point where thenatural food supply will take care of their needs. This will in turn reduce our livestock losses. Predator control programs need to be developed that will benefit all segments of our society."

WASHINGTON, D.C. - - THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT has money to burn - - really it does!

OF TENTIMES VISITORS TO WASHINGTON are shown a small spiral of whitish smoke coming from a small stack in the center of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. They are told that it comes from the burning of old worn out bills. Actually, old currency is burned at each of the 12 Federal Reserve Banks and not returned to its source of printing for destruction as is usually supposed.

SINCE THE COUNTRY HAS become so environmentally conscious, other methods of doing away with unusable paper money are being investigated.

FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS are now beginning to grind up cash since the cities where they are located have anti-burning laws and, where enforced, are causing problems. Treasury officials say that grinding is the only way they know to dispose of old dollars. This, however, has its problems also. It is simply what to do with the fine, light green fluff left after it is pulverized.

ONE IDEA IS TO RECYCLE IT INTO stationery. This has been ruled out because of secret service regulations. They say someone might get the idea that because the special type of paper is fortified with the tiniest of filament it could possibly be used to reconstruct the bills for the benefit of counterfeiters.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANK in Dallas is reported to have come up with a customer for ground-up greenbacks for a price of $10 a ton. In that form, of course, it would make no difference whether it was a George Washington $1.00 bill or a Grover Cleveland $1,000.00 bill - - the intrinsic value would be the same.

THUS FAR ONLY ONE SALES outlet has been developed to buy the finely chopped up cash. This customer is a well - drilling company in Kansas.

THE DAVID MUD AND CHEMICAL COMPANY is experimenting with using the ground-up currency, turned into a thick slush, as mud in well - drilling process.

ANOTHER IDEA NOT YET TESTED to the extent of approval, is converting the old greenbacks into a roofing material. Offhand one would suppose that there would not be a supply adequate for commercial use but 2,500 tons a year could cover quite a few roofs and mud seal quite a few wells. Incidentally, this amount destroyed represents about two Billion Federal Reserve notes with a face value of about $12 Billion. This statistic doesn't particularly mean anything except that, to make a pun - - it could become quite a slush fund and go quite a way to putting money on the roof for over - head protection. THERE SEEM TO BE OTHER PROBLEMS connected with the disposal of old bills such as trying to get the ink out which affects other proposed uses. In the first place, it seems it is about impossible to wash it out and the color for whatever use remains money - green. There have been experiments in making ceramics. If this purpose were proved to be successful, the color might add to the value of the product.

THE DALLAS FEDERAL RESERVE BANK is the only one of the 12 Reserve Banks now grinding but in the next few months the banks at Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Minneapolis will shift from burning to this method of disposal.

IF OUR GOVERNMENT CONTINUES to crank out more money, there will probably be more to dispose of as time goes on. At most, the individual's worn out bills are replaced by new bills printed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing here in Washington located at 14th and Independence Avenue and on down the street at 12th and Constitution Avenue is the Internal Revenue Service. An old joke still stands - - "They issue it here and take it away down there."

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

To avoid the sun would be to exist without one of the great pleasures of life. But, as with most enjoyable things, indiscriminate exposure can result in unhappiness and even serious illnesses, according to the Texas State Department of Health.

Most sunlight-induced disorders and diseases are divided into two groups: (1) direct disorders, which are responses that follow an over-exposure to ultraviolet rays in any normal, healthy individual, and (2) indirect reactions, which require the presence of some other skin factor in combination with ultraviolet exposure.

The direct disorders include the immediate, acute sunburn reactions and the delayed reaction that is seen following chronic exposure to light (premature aging, premalignant and malignant lesions).

The acute sunburn reaction results from a single overexposure to sunburning ultraviolet rays. Reactions can range in severity from a mild, symptomless skin redness, which first appears about 6 to 12 hours after initial exposure and reaches its peak in about 24 hours, to a more intense skin response in which tenderness, pain, swelling, and blistering are seen.

While mild sunburn reactions generally end in an appealing tanned skin, severe reactions often lead not only to irregular sloughing of the epidermis with a resulting uneven distribution of pigment, but also to the signs and symptoms of toxic reaction ranging from fever, chills, and nausea to prostration.

The total amount of exposure to sunlight required to produce delayed reactions is unknown; however, it is known that irreversible damage to skin occurs with each prolonged exposure to the sun. Cumulative damage eventually results in the changes characteristic of "aged skin".

Since no system exists in human skin that could immediately alert an individual as to when an overdose of ultraviolet light is being received, it is theoretically possible to receive a lethal dose of such radiation without experiencing any significant degree of discomfort. Fortunately, visible and infrared radiation, perceived as brightness and heat, are present along with the ultraviolet and help to warn of this danger.

State Health authorities say that almost 40 different types of indirect reactions are known to exist. These may range from pimples to eczema, psoriasis, and other skin diseases. Many diseases are worsened by exposure sunlight. These include viral herpes simplex (cold sores or shingles) and lymphogranuloma venereum (one of the "minor" venereal diseases). There are biochemical and developmental disorders that give rise to defects in pigmentation of the skin, resulting in an increased susceptibility to ultraviolet damage. This type of sensitivity is seen in albinism and phenylketonuria.

Some skin reactions may be induced by internal administration or external contact with photosensitizing substances. An immediate reaction occurs upon exposure to intense sunlight following the oral administration of certain antibacterial drugs and oral antidiabetic drugs. A delayed type of reaction sometimes occurs following skin contact with certain cosmetic agents. Some of the most common causative chemicals are found in cosmetics, detergents, deodorant bar soaps, and industrial chemicals.

The severity of both acute sunburn and chronic damage to the skin is dependent upon individual susceptibility. For example, susceptibility is greater in light-complexioned, red-haired, freckled individuals and in blonde, blue-eyed, normally pigmented persons than in darker individuals of the same race. Negro or black-skinned individuals are least susceptible, regardless of skin tone. However, even black people are not exempt from harmful effects of prolonged sun exposure.

Radiant energy emanates from the sun due to its internal thermonuclear reactions. The energy that reaches the outer atmosphere of the earth is composed of wavelengths which range from the very short, highly energetic X-ray spectrum to the very long, low-energy radio wavelengths.

Outside the earth's atmosphere, direct exposure to sunlight would be fatal. Fortunately, we are protected by the filtering action of oxygen. Less than one percent of the solar radiation reaching the earth's surface lies in the ultraviolet spectrum, and under optimum conditions, only about two-tenths of one percent of this radiation will produce sunburn damage in human skin. The remaining 99 percent of radiation is composed of visible, infrared, and longer wavelengths.

The total amount of harmful ultraviolet radiation reaching the skin at any given time is influenced by such factors as season, time of day, latitude, and conditions of the immediate atmosphere, say state health officials. Latitude is the most important of these factors; the lower the latitude (30 degrees north latitude in Houston vs 40 degrees north latitude in Philadelphia), the greater will be the risk of harmful solar effects.

The hours of greatest risk at all latitudes are between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. solar time. Certain surfaces in the immediate surroundings, such as white sand, snow, concrete, and shiny metals, can increase the risk, mainly by reflecting the ultraviolet rays. Contrary to commonly held beliefs, a water surface does not greatly enhance one's risk. Sunburn can even be induced by scattered sunlight on an overcast or foggy day.

The Informed Consumer

Fat creeps up on people just like age. So, when you're looking for that ideal way to shed extra pounds, here are some weight reduction traps to look out for.

Be cautious if you're planning to join a reducing salon or a health spa. Don't get carried away with your good intentions. The "before" and "after" photos advertised by the clubs may be inspiring but sometimes unrealistic.

Complaints from former patrons of such salons indicate that claims about the advantages of the salons are often misleading. One cause for dissatisfaction is that, while the facilities may be open during the hours indicated, they are not always available to all individuals at all times. Specific days of the week may be limited to either men or women. The advertised equipment and facilities are not always available at each club.

Some spas promote a special price for a "limited time" membership; this is usually just a "come-on". Once they get you inside. The prodding begins. Many people are high-pressured into signing at least a full year contract which is almost impossible to break if the membership services are found to be unsatisfactory.

Spa salesmen often fail to disclose to customers the nature of the contracts they are asked to sign, the circumstances under which memberships can be terminated, the nature of the "guaranteed results" or how the guarantee will be honored.

Be wary of pills, too. Look with suspicion at the so-called "miracle" drugs for weight reduction. They may be only ineffective, in which case you will lose money...not pounds. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has issued a statement saying that "there are no drugs that can safely control the problem of obesity." There is not magic formula for an overweight person to eat whatever he or she wants and melt off excess fat by taking one or a dozen drugs a day. At best, some drugs may give only short term relief to recede the appetite. And, certain reducing pills can be truly harmful to your health.

Self-prescribed diets can also be a hazard. If you want to lose weight, the will power to change eating habits on a long-term basis is the only final solution to too much fat. Get help from your physician before starting out on a diet routine...it's smarter and safer, and you'll look and feel better if you maintain your health.

ability benefits were first paid in July 1957, only disabled workers between 50 and 65 were eligible for payments, a spokesman said. "Today, disabled workers of any age under 65 can receive disability payments. And certain members of their families can get monthly checks, too," he said.

To be eligible for social security disability payments, which start in the 7th month of disability, a worker must be so severely disabled that it looks like he'll be unable to work for a year or more. But he should file for benefits as soon as he becomes disabled. Generally, he must have worked in employment covered by social security for at least 5 1/2 years—and 5 years of the work must have been during the 10 years be-

HONOR ROLL AT RICE UNIVERSITY
Dr. Norman Hackerman, President of Rice University has announced the President's Honor Roll for the Second Semester of the 1971 - 72 academic year.

Outstanding students who maintain high grade averages are honored each semester throughout the publication of the President's Honor Roll, and the distinction is made a part of the student's permanent record.

The student from Eastland who made the Honor Roll is Lela Ann Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lee, 1707 W. Commerce.

fore his disability began. The work requirement is lower for workers disabled before age 31, the spokesman said. "Young people may be eligible for benefits with as little as 1 1/2 years of covered work, depending on when they become disabled," the spokesman said. "A worker between 24 and 31 needs credit for having worked under social security half the time between 21 and the time he became disabled. Before age 24, the worker needs credit for 1 1/2 years of work in the 3-year period before his disability began."

When a worker applies for disability payments, he submits medical evidence to establish his disability. Then, physicians and other disability experts in a State agency—usually the State's vocational rehabilitation agency—decide whether the worker is disabled under the social security law, the spokesman said.

"In most cases," he said, "the State agency can make the determination on the basis of medical evidence from the applicant's own physician. If additional evidence is needed, more tests may be requested at Government expense."

In addition to monthly cash payments, vocational rehabilitation is available to certain disabled workers, the spokesman said. Disabled workers with a good potential for rehabilitation are referred to State agencies by social security.

Rehabilitation can include job training, physical therapy, and similar services.

Whole Wheat Honey Bread

Soften 4 cakes compressed yeast in 4 or 4 1/2 cups warm water (85 degrees) Add 4 Tbsp. raw honey, 4 tsp. sea salt and 8 cups whole wheat flour. Beat till smooth. Keep dough in warm place till light and bubbly, about 1 hour. Combine 1 cup warm water, 1 cup raw honey and one third cup cold pressed safflower oil. Add to the yeast-flour mixture. Now add 8 cups whole wheat flour. Knead in bowl until smooth, about 15 min. Cover and let rise in warm place till double. Cut into 4 equal parts in bowl. Knead each section on floured board. Roll out as for jelly roll, seal ends under seam on bottom. Place in buttered glass or stainless steel pans. Cover and let rise till double. Bake at 375 degrees for 45 min. Questions and Answers

Q. When I started getting social security checks in January, I estimated my earnings at $2,500 for 1972. However, I've just learned that I'll be laid off next month and won't make $1,680 for this year. Should I notify social security of the change in my estimated earnings?

A. Yes. Notify your social security office right away about the change in your work and estimated earnings. You'll be able to get social security payments for all months this year since your earnings will be less than $1,680.

Q. I'm 68 and get monthly retirement payments, but I just started working again. Since I expect to earn over $1,680 this year, when should I notify social security of my earnings?

A. Report your estimated earnings as early in the year as possible. Based on your estimate, an adjustment can be made in your checks for the year so you won't be overpaid and have to repay money after the end of the year.

BRIEFLY

Mrs. Ella Trimble, one of Carbon's oldest settlers is in the Community Hospital for surgery. She has a lot of Carbon and Eastland friends who might like to send her some cards and letters. The address is Community Hospital, 1520 M. Ritters Ave., Room 2424B, Indianapolis, Ind.

A restaurant "Thurber Inn" was recently opened in Thurber in the old Thurber Pharmacy building.

Pictures of "Old Thurber" Decorate New Thurber Inn

Thurber, known for many years as a "Ghost Town", is failing to live up to its reputation! The red brick smokestack still casts its shadow over the equally aged brick building which originally housed the drug store, Thurber Pharmacy. In this building one now finds the charm of other years plus the comfort and fine foods being featured at Thurber Inn.

The restaurant, operated by B.F. (Bob) Gilchrist, is located on a ranch owned by Carrol Bennett, chairman of the board of Texas Pacific Oil Company. Opened recently, Gilchrist states that business is growing with weekend standing-room-only in the 85-diner area. Every third person who comes in has a former tie with Thurber.

Thurber Inn is more than a place to "meet and eat". Diners are immediately attracted to lamps made from old carbide lights the miners wore on their hats, the huge 1903 model cash register and display of scrip paid to miners. Spaced at vantage points are pictures depicting life in the town during its heyday, this reporter's favorite being a street in the residential section. The attractive frame house in the foreground shows a buggy with horse tied to the neat picket fence and a pig in "hog heaven" amid the flowers in the yard. The restaurant's modern and spotless kitchen is concealed but no less effective in providing palatable food at popular prices.

Gilchrist, former operator of a restaurant at Kelly Truck Stop near Thurber, saw possibilities of this historic location on Interstate 20 and this is but the beginning of plans for a motel, country store, service station, all within an area made to look as it might have looked at the turn of the century.

Thurber is rich in memories of many Ranger residents who are delighted to see the "ghost" come to life.
