Tid Bits

By HVO

POETRY SOMETIMES hits and sometimes misses. This, from Arizona Highways January, hits, we think. And it's not to be construed as an appeal for or against the war in Vietnam, but rather against all violence:

BATTLE WON IS LOST
They said, "You are no longer a lad."
I nodded.
They said, "Enter the council lodge."
I sat.
They said, "Our lands are at stake."
I scowled.
They said, "We are at war."
I hated.
They said, "Prepare red war symbols."
I painted.
They said, "Count coups."
I scalped.
They said, "You'll see friends die."
I cringed.
They said, "Desperate warriors fight best."
I charged.
They said, "Some will be wounded."
I bled.
They said, "To die is glorious."
They lied.

LADIES GAME DAY at Lone Cedar Country Club is set for Friday, Feb. 12. You'll be hearing more here, but mark your calendar now.

Once again this year Calendar Facts play a most important part in the business building picture for the shortest month of the year.

February, 1972 is a Leap Year, which adds another Selling day - - the 29th, falling on a Tuesday - - to the normally 28 day month.

February, 1972, also brings a workable spread between the Federally proclaimed date for observance of George Washington's birthday, that greatest of all the year's special traffic building "sale" days for retail stores, as compared with last year.

Remember Last Year
Remember, Washington's birthday 1971, as scheduled by the Federal government in activation of its program aimed at creating longer weekends, for Monday the 15th.

That created a tough problem for promoters because it was so close to Lincoln's birthday on the 12th, and immediately after Valentine's Day on the 14th.

It also created a void for the remainder of the month.

Way Is Cleared
This year, with the official federal observance of Washington's Birthday on the 21st of February, one day before the traditional date, the way is cleared for business to take not just three, but four nicely spaced shots at building business during this month around special dated events.

This year's calendar offers clear sailing for Lincoln's birthday on Saturday the 12th, a nice buildup for profitable Valentine's Day gifting on Monday the 14th, with a full week to accelerate promotion for Washington's Birthday Sales as a two day event, starting on Monday the 21st and continuing through the 22nd.

The fourth opportunity, during this 1972 February is the extra shopping day on Tuesday the 29th, with its wide open chance to put some welcome gaiety into the period.

Mavericks Make All-State

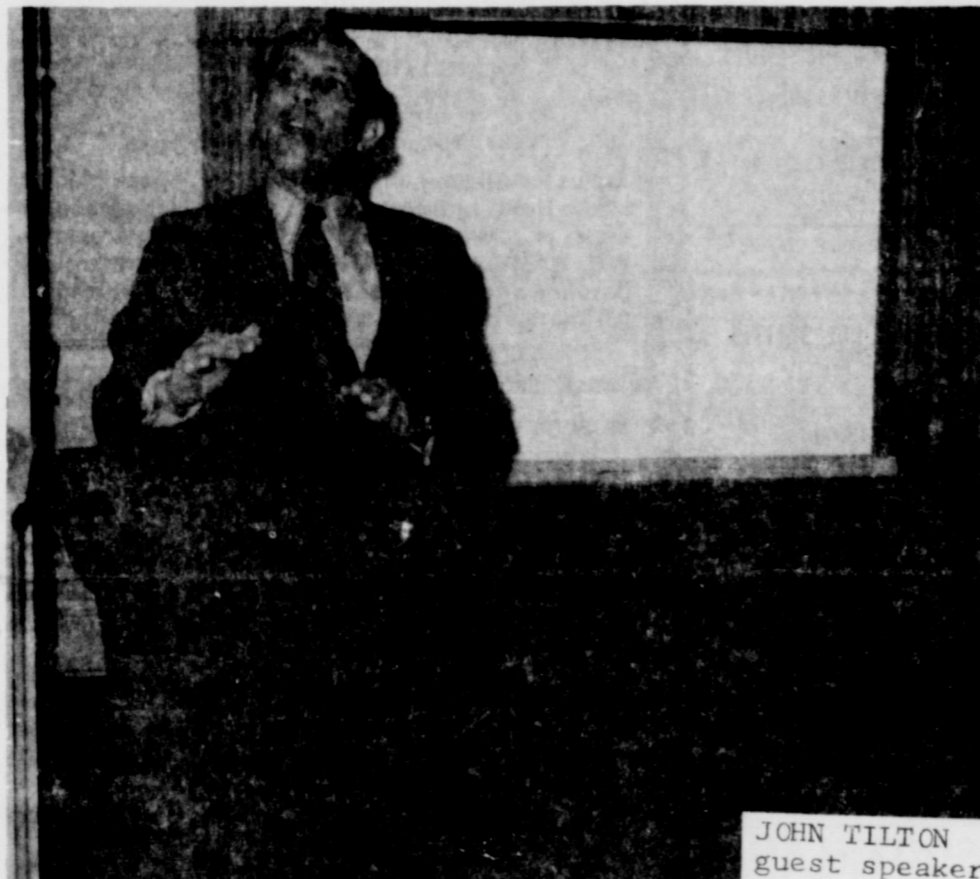

Five Mavericks hold berths on the Class AA All - State according to an announcement here this week.

Earning slots are Bob Mace, Rodney Reynolds, Howard King, Jim Eidson and Craig Lund.

Mace, Reynolds and King (a junior) made the first team and Lund and Eidson were named to the second team.

Eidson made it both ways - - both on offense and defense. King, the only junior among the eight from this area, led Eastland's ground game from his tailback position by gaining more than 1,900 yards during the 14 - game season. Mace was Quarterback Lund's favorite pass receiver at split end, while Reynolds played offensive tackle, where he turned in a memorable performance in the crucial Coleman game.

Alsups' Fables

Compliments of Mrs. T.J. Presley.

WELCOME TO OUR LITTLE TOWN!
I like to live in a little town,
Where the trees meet across the street;
Where you wave your hand and say "hello"
To everyone you meet.
I like to stand for a moment
Outside the grocery store,
And listen to the friendly gossip
Of the folks that live next door.
For life is interwoven
With the friends we learn to know;
And we hear their joys and sorrows
As we daily come and go.
So I like to live in a little town,
I care no more to roam;
For every house in a little town
It's more than a house; it's home!

Vegetable Records?

A lot of turnip - - Frank Tucker of Carbon shows off his 10 lb. Purple Top Turnip. It measured 31 inches around.

Planted in September, Frank says it's the largest he's ever seen.

A LOT OF RADISH - - Doc Ford of 200 S. Virginia displays a Texas - sized radish grown in his garden there. He's not sure how much it weighs, because the freeze last week got it, and it's not as heavy as it could be, but it's big, all agree.

Ecology Begins At Home

Safety, Toys Is Thursday Club Subject

The Thursday Afternoon Club met January 6th at 3 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins for their meeting on "Safety and Toys in the Home."

The Perkins dining room resembled a toy shop with all kinds of toys on exhibit; toys representing different eras and different countries.

After viewing the many toys and visiting together the club members and guests were served refreshments from an attractive table by the host, Mrs. Perkins, and co-hostess Mrs. Arthur Murrell and Miss Mary George Perkins.

The president of the club, Mrs. J.F. Francis, extended greetings for the New Year to all present and presided over a business meeting when the reports of various committees were given.

Mary George Perkins, a student at Baylor University, presented a clever display on Safety that she had made as a project to be used in Kindergarten teaching.

Mrs. Gladys Milner gave a very interesting talk on the subject, "Toys Through the Ages". She had a Marshall Field's catalog of 1892 and she compared the toys of that day with the toys of today. She told of dolls being used for idols before they became toys and that the Chinese were flying kites one thousand years before the time of Christ. She stated that many people today are collectors of toys and many books are written about toys. Old toys are our Heritage quoting Dan Foley, "Playthings filled with folklore, romance and nostalgia reveal history as we have lived it". Mrs. Perkins displayed a lovely book on toys.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health
The Texas Hospital Association has undertaken a service program that is saving Texas hospitals hundreds of thousands of dollars.
Proof is one million dollars in cash dividends returned to Texas hospitals taking part in a unique insurance program to provide improved health and life benefits for hospital personnel at lower costs. The program calls for combining the buying power of thousands of hospital workers in several hundred institutions rather than limiting coverage to a small group of personnel in a single hospital.
Started in mid-1968 under the direction of O. Ray Hurst, THA executive vice president, the insurance sharing program grew out of efforts to attract more workers into the hospital field by providing new and greater employee benefits.

"At the same time the workers are benefiting, so is the public," says Claude Webster, director of THA's insurance programs.

"By means of dividends earned by participating institutions," Webster explains, "the program is also helping to contain rising hospital costs."

Dividends are figured on a ratio of premiums paid to money paid out in losses. The less money paid in losses, the higher the cash return to the hospital.

Census Records Show Increase In Divorces

Do marital splitups occur more often or less often in Eastland County than in other places?

How many local residents have been divorced? How many of them have remarried?

Locally, as well as in most other parts of the country, the number of marriages that have been ending in divorce is much greater than in earlier years.

According to data released by the Department of Commerce, based on 1970 census figures, the divorce rate in the United States is 33 percent higher than it was in 1960.

At that time there were 35 divorced persons for every 1,000 married couples. It has risen since then to 47 per 1,000. This is exclusive of those who remarried afterward.

The divorce rate among residents of Eastland County is somewhat lower than the national.

The number of divorced men and women in the local area, per 1,000 married couples, is 43, according to the figures.

In the West South Central States the number per 1,000 is 57. In the State of Texas it is 61.

The official count shows a total of 171 divorced men and 246 divorced women in the local population.

According to the Census Bureau's findings, breakups are more likely to occur among young married couples - those in their late 20's who have been married for five years or less - rather than among older people.

The presence of children appears to be no deterrent. It is found that twice as many children are involved in divorce actions today than there were 15 years ago.

A further analysis of the data shows that the divorce rate in non-farm areas is double what it is in farm areas. It is also much higher among non-whites than among whites.

Many people who have been divorced get married again. For every one who is currently in the divorced column there are 2 1/2 others, on average, who have returned to the ranks of the married.

Applied to Eastland County, there are approximately 1,100 men and women in the local area who were previously divorced and are now married.

Figures Show 338 New Industries In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. - Preliminary figures indicate 1971 will be the second best year for Texas industrial development in recent history despite a tight national economy.

Figures available for the first 11 months of 1971 show that 338 new industries were located in Texas, compared with 296 for the same period last year.

"We are very pleased with these 11-month figures," Chester Wine of Corpus Christi, chairman of the Texas Industrial Commission, said in revealing the year-end report. "This makes 1971 second only to the record-breaking 1969 total which earned the state the honors of being number one nationally in industrial growth."

Wine said that although the figures are very good on new plant locations, expansions of existing industries were down. The 11-month totals for expansions were 225, compared with 335 for the previous year.

Jim Harwell, Commission executive director, credits a grass-roots development program coupled with Texas' natural attractiveness in making the state an industrial power.

"First, we concentrate on developing resourceful and progressive localities," he said. "Then an extensive advertising campaign concentrates on the state's ability to support nearly any type of industry."

Since 1960, the double-edged program has matured into a well-balanced system of international proportion, and in 1969 Texas became the national leader in industrial expansion, leading second-place California by a phenomenal 42 percent.

The state has since netted several important awards for its expansion efforts, including the coveted Presidential "E" award for export development.

The scope of the Commission stretches from revitalizing programs for small communities to a national advertising campaign, with a computerized site-location service and expanded rural and export development projects among the most recent innovations.

"These additions add both speed and versatility to our operations," Harwell said. "With them we can present an expanded Texas industrial community to a truly international clientele."

Instasite, the Commission name for its computerized location program, provides a mammoth storehouse of industrial information which can be recalled within seconds for businessmen seeking a Texas site.

"Texas can provide excellent locations for virtually any type of industry," Harwell said. "Instasite selects a choice of suitable sites with lightning speed."

Initial bids on the system ran as high as $500,000, but Commission officials enlisted local chambers of commerce in compiling and arranging data and completed the project at a fraction of the estimate. In addition to bringing industry to Texas, the Commission has begun an extensive export development program to provide international markets for Texas products.

Since 1970, Commission and Mexican officials have been developing a program adding a new dimension to Texas international trade. This was culminated in October with the opening of an industrial development office in Mexico City.

"Of the $1.4 billion in American products Mexico buys annually, 95 percent are available from Texas," Harwell said. "New trade agreements will mean big international revenue for Texas manufacturers."

Commission officials have also contacted German and Japanese officials about trade agreements, and Harwell said both responded optimistically.

Another Commission program could reverse population losses which have drained Texas rural areas for more than 30 years. Several of the declining counties have reversed their population trend within the last 10 years, and a Commission team is trying to find out why.

"If we can discover what has begun to replenish population in these counties, perhaps we can restore the population levels of other rural areas," he said.

Commission Chairman Chester Wine of Corpus Christi views the rural development project and other Commission operations as avenues to future prosperity for Texans.

"The Texas Industrial Commission, with projects like the rural development effort, can literally prevent communities from dying," he said. "An area with jobs and business won't lose its people to a metropolitan center."

Wine said an industry employing 100 people brings 296 residents and $360,000 in retail sales to a community, an amount which could rejuvenate a small town.

In addition to Wine, Commission members include John B. Turner of Houston, A.B. (Stormy) Shelton of Abilene, C. Truett Smith of Wylie, C.L. Cooke of Ft. Worth, Lloyd L. Davis of Lubbock, Gerald R. Brown of Austin, Warren G. Woodward of Dallas and Homer Lee Bryce of Henderson.

State, County Candidates Must Make Expenditure Reports

Secretary of State Bob Bullock today asked that the state and county political organizations report their contributions and expenditures in the same manner as is required of candidates for public office.

"The people of this state who care enough to give their money to political parties deserve to know how their money is being spent. Likewise, they are entitled to know how much money is received by their party and the sources of the contributions."

"I do not contend that the law requires these reports. It does not. However, thirty-one states now require that political organizations at all levels report their contributions and expenditures. I believe that Texas parties should be no less diligent in keeping the public informed."

"I know of no better way to accomplish this than by assuring the people of this state that they will be accurately informed of the financial transactions of the candidates and the political organizations."

"In my directive of December 3, 1971, the statutes governing the reporting requirements of candidates for public office were clarified. I now believe the candidates are aware of what is required of them and I am sure that they will comply."

"If the political parties will take this same step toward public disclosure of their finances, the people of this state can make a more accurate judgement of the performance of their party."

"I believe that this type of open disclosure should be required of the parties and my staff is presently preparing draft legislation to be submitted to the next session of the Legislature. Until such legislation is enacted, I call on the state and county political organizations to voluntarily make this report in the interest of the people."

"In order to allow the parties to comply with my request in an orderly fashion, I ask that all contributions and expenditures to the parties made after January 1, 1972, be reported at the same time and in the same manner as is required of candidates for public office."

STORK MARKET

From Mrs. Clifton V. Van Dyke, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.: One of my fondest recollections as a child is riding the streetcar, by myself, to Grandma's house on Saturday mornings. Mother would shake open a freshly laundered linen hankie, tie a nickel in one corner, straighten the end of the knot till it looked like a one-eared bunny, then send me on my merry way. The nickel was for carfare, and I held that hankie with such a firm grip that the heat from my hand tightened the knot forcibly. More than once, I remember the conductor waited patiently (I believe) while I worked painstakingly to free the entrenched coin. And, I didn't mind detaining everyone, because as long as that knot stayed put, I knew my fare was safe. Yes, I remember when getting there was half the fun.

Gas Drying

Electric Drying

Either we're four times cheaper, or they're four times more expensive.

Gas drying is not only easier on your pocketbook, it also makes life a whole lot easier. For one thing, gas drying practically eliminates the need for ironing. The new gas dryers are so gentle that clothes come out almost wrinkle-free. Clothes are tumbled dry, then cooled, and gently fluffed. Automatically Pleats stay pleated. Creases stay creased. All this for a cost of about a penny a load. (Or $2.00 a ton.)

Take a look at the new gas dryers at your gas appliance dealer. Then do something nice for yourself. And your pocketbook.

TESCO Makes Request Ranger 6% Rate Increase

Texas Electric Service Company today, January 10, 1972, requested approval of the Ranger City Commission for a 6 percent increase in electric service rates here.

In announcing the action, B.D. Lancaster, manager, stated: "Texas Electric Service Company, because of sharply increased costs that it can no longer absorb or offset, and facing its largest construction program in history, must request a 6 percent across-the-board increase in its rates. "This is the minimum amount needed to continue to provide dependable electric service for the growing needs of our customers."

"For the residential customer with a $15 bill, the increase will amount to 90 cents per month or 3 cents a day. For a customer with a $10 monthly bill, the increase will be 60 cents, and for a $5 bill, 30 cents."

Texas Electric Service Company has requested a rate increase only twice before in its history, Lancaster pointed out, while the company's efforts to keep the cost of electricity as low as possible have resulted in a number of voluntary rate reductions. The company's last increase was granted in 1961, and was offset by voluntary reductions in 1963 and 1965.

"In spite of continuing inflation, the electricity used by today's average residential customer costs less than in 1961," Lancaster said. "Even with the 6 percent increase, the cost will still be less than it was 10 years ago."

"We have been able to hold the line against rising costs through economies resulting from increased usage, installation of larger and more efficient generating units, and by taking advantage of automation and other technological advances. But relentless inflation and the resulting higher costs affecting every phase of our business have now outstripped the economies we have been able to realize in the past," Lancaster said.

At the same time the company is experiencing this cost squeeze, Lancaster reported, it is embarking on the largest construction program in its history.

"In the next two years alone, we must spend $165,000,000 on new construction," Lancaster declared. "These new facilities are needed to provide continued reliable service, to aid in the economic growth of our area, to help solve environmental problems, and to avoid the causes of power shortages that have been experienced in other parts of the country."

The new facilities must be built at a time when electric utility construction costs have risen 37 percent since 1965 and have increased at an even faster rate in the last three years.

"We must raise about $100,000,000 of this new money in a very competitive market at a time when high interest rates are still prevailing," Lancaster added. "It is essential that we maintain earnings that will keep our securities attractive to investors, so that we can obtain the needed capital at the most favorable rates. Our success in accomplishing this will be an important factor in enabling us to keep the cost of our service as low as possible in the future."

Lancaster noted that the same problems facing Texas Electric have forced other electric utility companies throughout the nation to seek rate increases. Through the first nine months of last year, 75 companies had already received increases, and an additional 105 companies had rate increases pending.

"The 6 percent increase we are asking is far below the increases we have experienced in most of the costs of doing business," Lancaster declared, "and adheres as closely as possible to the economic guidelines of Phase II."

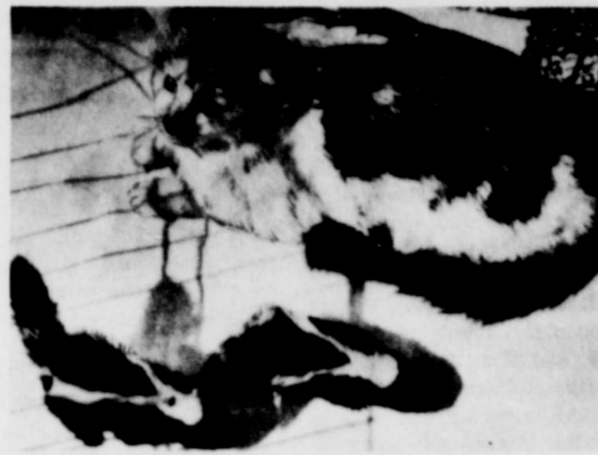

"According to Department of Labor statistics, a 6 percent increase in the price of electricity will amount to less than a one-tenth of 1 percent increase in the cost of living."

ACCEPTABLE... Not only does this female cat have two of its own kittens to feed, but it also has these two, three-week-old, skunks to feed after they were found and turned over to the Nebraska Humane Society in Omaha. The skunks aren't really raising much of a stink for the mother cat though. Two other cats were experimented with but would not feed the baby skunks. This cat accepted the task. The skunks will be returned to the wilds in a few weeks.
