While blending mixes the tobaccos together, Cross-Blending "welds" and "joins" their flavors into one.

Imagine doing this with the world's finest cigarette tobaccos-many kinds of Bright tobacco, a great many types of Burley tobacco and numerous grades of Turkish tobacco!

"My amoreum has been to succeed in redeeming Texas from its wilderness state by means of the plow alone, in spreading over it North American population, enterprise and intelligence."—(Letter from Stephen F. Austin to William H. Wharton, April 24, 1829.)

"The Province of Texas will be the richest State in our Union without exception." This prophecy was made by the author of the American Declaration of Independence (Thomas Jefferson) before Americans had begun to colonize Texas. It was found in a letter dated May 14th, 1820, which Jefferson had written to President Monroe,

The year Jefferson wrote that letter to Monroe, Stephen F. Austin began the colonization of Texas. "My object is to build up for the present as well as for future generations," wrote Austin. "I think I derived more satisfaction from the view of flourishing farms springing up in this wilderness than military or political chieftains do from the retrospect of their victorious campaigns."

Texas was founded by builders. Under Austin's leadership they laid the foundations in the wilderness, and under the leadership of Sam Houston they won their independence, in order that they might build in freedom.

One hundred years of freedom will be completed in 1936. A century of building has made the Texas of today. But Jefferson's prediction has not yet been fulfilled. We have inherited this great undertaking from our forefathers. Let us redediente ourselves to the task of carrying it forward by observing the Centennial of Texas independence in a manner worthy of our traditions.
