TOPLEAD FOR TAX MEASURE

Says Confidence In the Government Must Now Be Restored.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, March 29.—Speaker of the House John N. Garner made a dramatic personal plea to the house today for support of a tax bill to balance the budget.

Deserting the speaker's chair, the Texan took the floor amid a great demonstration on both sides of the aisle.

"I appeal to you, gentlemen, not only in the name of my party, but in the name of my country that it is your paramount duty to raise sufficient taxes to maintain the credit of the country."

Garner's voice rose in an emotional appeal that drew loud applause from the house.

Memorial Arch Will Be Erected After 10 Years

AUSTIN.—It was in keeping with his love for the south and the men who performed heroic deeds for their homeland that the late Major George W. Littlefield, cattleman and banker of Austin, donated to the University of Texas, more than 10 years ago, the sum of $250,000 for the erection at the south entrance to the original 40-acre campus of that institution a memorial designed to keep alive in the youth of today the spirit and sentiment of these leaders of a past generation.

The fund given by Major Littlefield is finally to be used for the purpose for which it was designated, after being held in trust for a decade. The contract for the erection of the Littlefield Memorial, as it is called, has just been awarded by the Board of Regents to J. F. Johnson of Austin for $118,600, and the construction work will be started immediately. This sum will be largely used to pay the cost of the masonry which is a part of the design. The heroic bronze statues of the memorial were moulded and cast by the famous sculptor Pompeo Coppini, who will receive $125,000 for this work. The remainder of the $250,000 has been more than taken up in payment for freight on the statues and other necessary incidental expenses. The six portrait statues which will ornament the stone structure are of James Stephen Hogg, John H. Reagan, Robert E. Lee, Albert Sidney Johnson, Jefferson Davis and Woodrow Wilson. During the last few years these great bronze figures have stood in the main rotunda of the state capitol where they have attracted much attention of visitors.

Other sculptor figures to ornament the memorial have been designed and cast by Mr. Coppini and are ready for immediate shipment from New York. It was stated. The original plan for the unusual monument were made some years ago. To meet the present architectural layout-out of the 40-acre campus these plans have been revised by Robert Leon White, University architect, and Paul Cret of Philadelphia, consulting architect.

Eastland Man's Mother Is Dead

The aged mother of J. A. Beard of Eastland died Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cowan at Baird. Mrs. Beard had passed her 90th birthday.

Her son, J. A. Beard, is a prominent man in Eastland, former city commissioner and owner of business property.

DIRECTORS OF C. OF C. VOTE TO AID MEET

The directors of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce met Monday night with C. E. May presiding during the absence of W. D. Conway, who was unable to attend on account of illness.

A discussion was held on the coming district interscholastic meet, to be held in Ranger on April 8 and 9. Formerly the Ranger Chamber of Commerce has aided in financing the district meet and plans were made to do so again this year.

O. G. Lanier reported that last year $91 was raised for the meet, and that a deficit of $26 remained. This year, he said, it will be possible to have a 220-yard straight-away track and a total of $75 should suffice for the meet. It was pointed out that between 400 and 500 would be present in Ranger during the two days of the meet.

A committee composed of Roy Gilbreath, C. A. Murphy, J. E. Meroney, A. J. Ratliff and Tom Carpenter was appointed to work out details of financing the meet.

Coach Eck Curtis pointed out that if the meet was held at the Ranger airport, it would be possible to get a picture of Billy in her arms, Billy, bewildered, absolutely refused to pose. Mrs. Hashagen says Billy was carried away seven months ago by her mother, Mrs. Daisy Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hitchell, who were arrested with her.

Moreover, it developed that in addition to a mother and a grandmother, Billy also has a great-grandmother. The latter is Mrs. W. P. Ross of Paris, Ill., mother of Mrs. Jones, and she sent along a photograph of Billy taken at the age of three weeks, to prove the family identity.

For a time Billy had Crossville authorities—and the world at large—at fever heat, after they found him in custody of two strange couples stopping over here. Then Colonel Lindbergh said the baby was not his and the excitement died down.

But since then, little Billy, outfitted with new rompers given him by admirers here, has won the love of everyone.

Rev. Nobles Will Preach At Revival At Eastland Church

Rev. W. C. Nobles will preach in the revival which is being conducted at the Church of God, corner Lamar and Valley streets, in Eastland, tonight. Mr. Nobles is a student in W. M. U. He has had several years experience in pastoral work. You will enjoy his message as well as the good music which is always a feature of the service.

Miss Irene Smith gave a forceful message last night on the subject, "Who is on the Lord's Side?" She said, "Only real Christians in heart are on the Lord's Side." One would have no trouble knowing which side they are on after hearing her message. We would be happy to shake your hand at the service tonight.

Son of Former Ranger Couple Dies

Hubert Ervin Jr., three-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Ervin of Goldthwaite, formerly of Ranger, died Monday night of pneumonia and flu, according to word received in Ranger today by relatives of the infant.

Funeral services are to be held this afternoon at Goldthwaite at 3 o'clock with interment in the Goldthwaite cemetery.

HUNT FOR LINBERGH BABY GIVES SON BACK TO MOTHER

Mrs. Virginia Hashagen of Kalamazoo, Mich., and two pictures of her son, Billy, a perfect double for Baby Lindbergh, are shown above. Crossville, Tenn., authorities grabbed Billy, two years old, by mistake. But publicity reunited him with his mother, who says he had been carried off by relatives. Lower picture shows Billy at age of three weeks.

By NEA SERVICE
CROSSVILLE, Tenn.—Two-year-old Billy Robert Reed, Jr., almost a perfect double of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby, now has a mother of his own.

Mrs. Virginia Hashagen, a waitress of Kalamazoo, Mich., hitchhiked all the way to Crossville to claim the child. She fainted with joy when she saw him.

But when a photographer tried to get a picture of Billy in her arms, Billy, bewildered, absolutely refused to pose. Mrs. Hashagen says Billy was carried away seven months ago by her mother, Mrs. Daisy Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hitchell, who were arrested with her.

Moreover, it developed that in addition to a mother and a grandmother, Billy also has a great-grandmother. The latter is Mrs. W. P. Ross of Paris, Ill., mother of Mrs. Jones, and she sent along a photograph of Billy taken at the age of three weeks, to prove the family identity.

Police Seek Negro Who Tried Attack

FORT WORTH, March 29.—Deputy sheriffs and a citizens' posse searched ravines and underbrush in the Mary's creek vicinity today for a negro who twice attempted a criminal attack on Mrs. F. E. Alford at her home, 12 miles west of here.

The negro first came to her home Monday and asked for food. Mrs. Alford said. When she turned toward the cupboard, he attempted to attack her. The negro escaped as she ran screaming to where her husband was working.

After Alford had left for work this morning the same negro returned and attempted to attack her, she said. When she screamed the negro fled into a nearby woods.

Hoover Opposes Paying Veterans

WASHINGTON, March 29.—President Hoover today expressed absolute opposition to the project for full payment of veterans' adjusted compensation certificates estimated to cost $2,000,000,000.

"I do not believe any such legislation can become a law," he declared at his noon press conference today. He said the bill would undermine present efforts to sustain the credit of the United States.

TEN BANDITS ROB BANK OF $175,000 LOOT

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 29.—A machine gun bank robbery gang raided the North American branch of the Northwestern National bank today and escaped with loot estimated at $175,000.

All of the bandits carried either saved-off shotguns or sub-machine guns. Twenty-eight employees were forced to line up against the wall while the bandit looted all places where currency and securities were kept.

A preliminary report of the bank said the loot consisted of "approximately $100,000 currency and $125,000 collateral."

Police estimated there were 10 members of the bandit gang.

The bandits carried out the hold-up by a well arranged plan, according to Miss F. Wienard, telephone switchboard operator.

"I turned away from the switchboard and told him not to get excited. Then he got hard-boiled and shouted for me to keep still.

"All of the bandits were well dressed. Most of them seemed quite young. None that I saw wore masks. Two had machine guns."

Eastland Golfers Lose To Breck by 8 To 2 Score

Breckenridge Country club's record of never having been defeated on the local sod and cotton seed hull greens in an Oil Belt association match was kept intact Sunday when Eastland was defeated 8 to 2.

The feature match of the clash was that between C. V. (Cap) Lyman and S. J. Barnett, Eastland's youthful pride and joy in the realm of golf. It required an extra hole for the Breckenridge ace to down Barnett, but the feat was finally accomplished. Barnett is rated as one of top golfers in this section.

Barnett staged a determined battle, taking the last two holes to square the count with Lyman. His tee shot on the 19th, however, stopped in a small ditch. It required two strokes for him to recover, and by this time Lyman had the marbles. Despite high wind, Lyman and Barnett shot near par golf during the 19 holes.

Due to the fact that only ten players were brought here by the Eastland club, about 15 of Breckenridge's crack players had to be contented with watching the match from the sidelines.

Individual matches follow:
C. V. Lyman defeated S. J. Barnett, Eastland, 1 up, 19 holes.
Olive Wingo defeated Blair Lewis, Eastland, 6-5.
Raymond Crowell defeated Fred Blatt, Eastland, 5-3.
Murrell Brown defeated "Red" Jones, Eastland, 6-5.
Alva Harrell lost to Joe Stephens, Eastland, 2-1.
Joe Murphy lost to Aubrey Chatham, Eastland, 1 up.
Peck Williams defeated W. L. Guiseon, Eastland, 2 up.
S. T. Coker defeated John E. Lewis, Eastland, 6-5.
C. C. Curry defeated C. A. Herring, Eastland, 6-4.

SPRING WOOL CLIP SALE TO BE APRIL 15

At the meeting of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce directors held Monday night, Ben Whitehouse announced that the annual spring wool and mohair clip would be held in Ranger on April 15.

He announced that a large quantity of wool and mohair would be sold this year because of the fact that growers from over a radius of 100 miles would market their wool through Ranger instead of through San Angelo, as in previous years. It is expected that more than twice as much wool will be marketed through Ranger this spring than in previous years.

Some of the wool and mohair has already been received and is stored in the A. J. Ratliff warehouse until the sale is held.

An annual barbecue is to be held in connection with the sale and the members of the Oil Belt, Sheep and Goat Raisers association will be invited to take part in the barbecue. Plans are now being made for both the sale and the barbecue.

W. D. Conway To Represent Ranger At Broadway Meet

W. D. Conway, president of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce and vice president of the Broadway of America association, has been selected by the directors of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce as a delegate to the convention to be held in San Diego next May.

Mr. Conway is to have all his expenses on the trip paid by the Chamber of Commerce and will be the official representative of the town at the convention. As many delegates as can make the trip and who can pay their own expenses will be appointed as delegates to the convention, it was pointed out by the officials of the Chamber of Commerce, but the body cannot pay the expenses of more than one delegate.

Mr. Conway has always attended the meetings of the Broadway of America association at his own expense, and in view of the service he has rendered the town and the association, it was decided to select him as the delegate from Ranger.

Plans are being made to have a motorcade start from New York and make the trip to San Diego. Cars from the towns along the route will join the motorcade at various places along the route and make the remainder of the trip to California. An attempt is being made to have the scheduled work-out so that the motorcade will be able to spend a night in Ranger, though it is not known whether it can be arranged or not.

Distilled Cedar Is Similar To Camphor

By United Press.
GEORGETOWN, Texas.—Distilled cedar leaves yield a white solid with the properties of laurel camphor, students of chemistry at Southwestern university here have discovered.

McAuliffe, Corpus Christi, used fractional distillation as his method of research. Clovis Hudleston, graduate student from Weatherford, obtained a similar type of camphor by refluxing cedar leaves with such agents as alcohol, hydrochloric acid, and sodium hydroxide solution.

The two students are continuing their research to determine if production of camphor by either method is commercially feasible. The main source of camphor present in the Orient, according to Dr. J. C. Godbey, head of the department of chemistry.

Letter Reveals Stalin-Trotsky Feud Old One

MOSCOW.—Joseph Stalin's feud with Leon Trotsky dates back at least to 1914, a letter by Stalin written that year shows.

A copy of the letter, addressed to Lenin, recently has been discovered and is published with elaborate commentaries by the magazine Bolshevik. Writing from his exile in Volodga province, Stalin sided with Lenin, then an emigre in Europe, as against Trotsky in connection with the latter's proposal of a bloc of various revolutionary elements.

Every document tending to show that Stalin was a better supporter of Lenin than was Trotsky now is being given the utmost publicity.

THREE MAJOR PROPOSALS ARE SUBMITTED

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The House today adopted the amendment to the revenue bill placing excise taxes on automobiles, trucks and accessories.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The house ways and means committee today submitted a budget balancing tax bill program which would raise $1,261,000,000, an amount larger than originally proposed in the sales tax program.

The new project is built around three major proposals:
One-quarter of 1 per cent on sales of stock with not less than 4 cents per share.
Automobiles, 3 per cent on pleasure cars, 2 per cent on trucks and 1 per cent on accessories.
First class postage rates, three cents instead of two.

In addition a wide field of new excise taxes was suggested making new levies on cosmetics, furs, jewelry, chewing gum, beverages, and other articles.

Freight Increases Fought By Shippers

By United Press.
CORPUS CHRISTI, March 28.—Freight rate increases to be sought by railroads before an interstate commerce commission hearing here today will be opposed by South Texas shippers of fruit and vegetables.

The Valley Shippers association contends the increase asked would cost the valley a million dollars a year, an estimate based on the tonnage now moving.

The shippers will be supported by such leading jobbers as William Garfield, manager of the Western Fruit Jobbers' association; John Baldwin, St. Louis, president of the Baldwin-Pope Marketing company, and L. C. Archer of Chicago, manager of the American Fruit Growers, Inc.

By United Press.

'HE SELLS IN THE CHEAPEST AND BUYS IN THE DEAREST'

Texas is and will continue to be through the years the banner agricultural state. It is the largest producer of cotton of all American states. It is the largest producer of wool, mohair, and hides. For years and years it furnished the new money of the southwest and for decades it threw the balance of trade on the side of the republic. William L. Clayton as a contributor to cotton industry literature ranks among the acres of the industry. He was the key-note of the business planning conference at the University of Texas, bureau of business research, and he sent his message straight from the shoulder:

"For over half a century THE COTTON PRODUCERS HAVE BEEN TREATED AS THE STEPCCHILD OF THE NATION.

"He has been forced to produce under the handicap of a high tariff and to sell his products in the free markets of the world. The political power of the majority has been successfully used to deny him the right to exchange in the most favorable market THE PRODUCT OF HIS LABOR FOR THE PRODUCT OF LABOR OR OTHERS. HE HAS BEEN FORCED BY A KIND OF POLITICAL TYRANNY TO SELL IN THE CHEAPEST MARKET AND BUY IN THE DEAREST.

"In spite of all this, cotton has for a century provided a favorable trade balance for payment of interest on foreign investments in the United States, without which the natural resources of the country could not have been developed."

A stinging indictment, to say the least. In his review of conditions as they are, the Houston cotton authority placed the following in the record:

"When one contemplates the enormous handicaps under which the cotton farmer operates in this country it seems incredible that he should have been able to carry on as he has. Cotton farming is still a process of manual labor. It does not lend itself to large scale of mass production—THE DEFENSE WHICH MOST OF OUR INDUSTRIES HAVE SUCCESSFULLY ADOPTED IN COMPETITION WITH FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

"The great bulk of our cotton is still growing as it was half a century ago by the farming of very small parcels of land by individual families. Nevertheless, the Southern cotton farmer holds his own under a great adversity, against the rest of the world. He is, by force, living at home because present prices leave him nothing to spend in town. Those who have exploited him for so many years by forcing him to buy their tariff-protected products now find that they themselves are being well nigh destroyed by the tariff. The world can get along without other industrial products, but it must have our cotton.

Now it is said that the administration and the bi-partisan leaders are determined to force an adjournment of the congress early in June. If successful, there will be no tariff legislation. Many important measures will die on the calendar. Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana has a slogan, "SOCK IT TO THE RICH." Many representatives regardless of party affiliation appear to have adopted the slogan. They have smashed the tax measure, drafted by a democratic house ways and means committee and their war cry, like that of the political kingfish of Louisiana: "Sock it to the rich," regardless of cost or consequences in the future.

WAGE WORKER MUST PROVIDE HIS OWN DOLE

Senator Felix Hebert of Rhode Island is the chairman of the unemployment insurance committee of that body. He has reported that the only sound reserve for jobless periods must be provided by the employe individually to meet his own personal risk. Otherwise he is of the opinion that the better employes will be penalized for the benefit of the poorer ones, and in the end will be deprived of the relief for which they have made contributions and no little sacrifices to themselves.

Senator Hebert is a banker. He was a French-Canadian until he became a naturalized citizen of the United States. There is a big bloc of French-Canadian Americans in Rhode Island. In the campaigns of the past the republicans needed the votes of this bloc. They needed a senator. They tossed the prize to Hebert. He won the election. The Hebert conclusion is that the Lord helps the hustler who helps himself. Otherwise—otherwise.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

To relieve Senator Rice W. Means of some of his duties as president of The National Tribune Corporation in order that he might have more time to devote to legislative activities in behalf of veterans and their dependents, Edward K. Inman has been elected a vice president of the corporation.

The life of Inman is most interesting. Graduated from Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y., in 1917, Inman entered the service of the United States on May 14, 1917, and was assigned to the Third Provisional Training Regiment, Madison Barracks, N. Y. He was appointed first lieutenant of infantry on Aug. 15, 1917 and served with the American Expeditionary Forces from May 20, 1918 to Dec. 30, 1918. While on duty with Co. M, 309th Infantry, he was severely wounded in action Aug. 9, 1918, at Baillieu-aux-Cornailles, France. He was honorably discharged Feb. 27, 1920.

For eight years Lieut. Inman was attached to the legislative branch of the government at the capitol in Washington and there became schooled in the perplexities of law-making. His large acquaintance among members of Congress has made him a valuable adjunct to the legislative bodies of veterans' organizations.

Inman is a member of the American Legion, the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, the Military Order of the World War, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and is a national executive committeeman of the Disabled Emergency Officers of the World War.

Unusual Winter Caused 'Milk War' McDonald Claims

AUSTIN.—An unusual winter is blamed by J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, for the "milk war" that has broken out in Texas.

McDonald explained the system of marketing milk, which he believes is the immediate cause. Before this winter, local consumption has equalled the winter supply. Dairymen accordingly made contracts with the distributors under which their entire supply of winter milk was taken at a given price.

A farmer who produces 100 gallons a day in winter, along in the spring will be able to deliver about 125 gallons. The practice then has been to still pay the producer the full price for the 100 gallons and a lower price for the surplus. Where 20 cents was being paid for the winter supply, 12 cents was paid for the surplus. Along in summer the surplus becomes still more. Distributors then classified this excess as "super-surplus." It was bought as low as six cents.

When the cut in prices came, producers assert that while consumers got a cut of only a cent in price, producers were cut more than three times that. Where they refused to deliver, gave away their surplus milk and in instances even poured into the gutters. Houston distributors began to ship in milk. McDonald says the low price milk was being shipped.

McDonald expressed hope of a satisfactory adjustment. Without that he predicted the state dairy industry which has been encouraged by the state and federal departments, bankers, lecturers and the press will be damaged.

Champion Bear Hunter Now Herds Razorback Hogs

CONROE, Texas.—Once known as Montgomery county's champion bear annihilator, Jim Casey of New Caney now has the reputation of being the county's No. 1 herder of razorback hogs.

For more than 50 years Casey, now 69 years old, has roamed the San Jacinto river bottoms. He slew bears by the score; in fact, he slew them until there were none left.

He is reluctant to say how many bears he killed but admits they number in the thousands. One year, he says, he killed 38, and he claimed that he killed the last bear in Montgomery county has gone unchallenged.

The bears have been replaced by thousands of free range razorbacks, many of which are as wild and ferocious as any bear that ever lived, according to Casey. Casey and his five sons now keep tabs on the hogs which run wild in the snake-infested palmetto swamps and live almost entirely on roots, pine mast and acorns.

Casey and his boys ride through the woods very week and throw corn to the hogs, which form groups of as many as 35 or 40. In this manner the Caseys "ride herd" on the hogs. Every once in a while a slaughter is held and the hams and other edible parts, said to possess an unusually fine flavor, are prepared for market.

For hunting "maverick" razorbacks, Casey has his special pack of hounds. On fine days, when the air is cool and the ground firm underfoot, the Casey clan sallies to the chase in as royal a fashion as any medieval king. Jim says the excitement of chasing wild hogs is almost equal to that of shooting a bear.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Old Joe Byrns of Tennessee, who is a kindly old southern gentleman when he isn't riled up and a brew of purest poison when he gets mad and goes after someone on the floor of the House, was the hero of that memorable day when the sales tax went down to crushing defeat.

A long, gaunt, bushy-browed product of the Red Clay hills, Old Joe filled that heroic role fit to warm the heart. He's a big, honest, simple but shrewd, able and energetic congressman who always seems to lack the stuff by which heroes are so often unmade in politics. He's one of just a few whom everyone around here both likes and respects.

They Needed Old Joe
ON sales tax day there was need for Old Joe. Having thrown out the leadership of Speaker Garner, Leader Rainey and Ways and Means Chairman Crisp, the big Democratic insurgent majority members were active. They could hardly answer for what they were led by Louisiana of New York, a Republican who was once a Socialist. Doughon, the bald, bulking, picturesque farmer from North Carolina, whom nobody knew before, and a group of minor demagogues.

The situation begged for a Democrat who would strengthen that leadership. A taunting Republican demanded, among other things, "Where is Joe Byrns?" Well, Joe Byrns, who ranks as a democratic general with Garner, Rainey and Crisp and now heads both the great appropriations committee and the special economy committee after many years of running federal expenses, had been plotting economies with his committee, day after day.

Old Joe had always opposed sales taxes, preferring high bracket income, stiff estate and luxury taxes. Garner, Rainey and Crisp had been that way too, only to switch to the sales tax recently as the best way to raise revenue. Byrns, presumably, had gone along with them. No body expected him to split the be-leaguered leadership with that spectacular speech of his. He hadn't said a word.

Old Joe Gets Mad
BUT suddenly, from a rear row, Old Joe arose, said he had just broken up a committee meeting and demanded to be heard. He was heard, too. He strode down the aisle and, with chin jutting out farther than ever, told the House that those other leaders had walked out on the traditions and principles of the Democratic party.

Inferentially, he hurled scorn at Rainey, who had said the government was "bankrupt" in a sensational speech, and at Garner, who had said he was willing to "abandon every one of my economic principles" in order to balance a budget.

"Mah party has always stood for taxing those who best can pay," shouted Old Joe, spectacles in one hand, a snarled fist flailing the air from a long, long arm, and bright tan shoes poking out from under a dark suit.

(All reporters, bored by the previous speaker, begin taking notes feverishly.)

Won't Surrender Convictions
"DON'T tell me mah government's credit is going to fail! Ah, won't surrender mah convictions of a lifetime!"

It was dramatic to see Old Joe, partly because every member knew that he was talking from belief and principle—not because he was scared or because he wanted to make a speech. Byrns is a progressive because he likes common people so much.

Some suggested later that Old Joe had turned the tide against the sales tax. I think it was beaten before he spoke, although there was some doubt about it. But a large section of the 70-vote majority was undoubtedly swayed by Old Joe, who wouldn't stand for that tax.

And among Democratic party leaders here he established himself as the most progressive of the lot.

body expected him to split the beleaguered leadership with that spectacular speech of his. He hadn't said a word.

Houston Land Bank Leading in Number of Loans

Special Correspondent.

HOUSTON.—The federal land bank of this city led the other banks of the system in the volume of loans which it made last year. Its total loans, according to figures made public recently by President M. H. Gossett, were $8,954,700. This is a slight increase over the volume loaned by the bank in 1935. The total of new loans made by the federal land bank of Houston represented about 21 per cent of all of those made in the system.

The annual payments on the principal of loans outstanding amount to 1 per cent of the original amount of the loan for the longest maturity loans made and 2 per cent for the shortest maturity. In addition to this there is a certain number of pay-offs during the year, thus giving the bank a fairly large amount of money to re-lend when conditions are favorable," explained Mr. Gossett. "The total volume of outstanding mortgage loans is now approximately $156,000,000. This is all loaned in the state of Texas, the area covered by this bank, and the loans are made only through national farm loan associations of which there are one or more in each county.

"Normally, of course, the bank has secured the bulk of its funds to loan through the sale of federal land bank bonds and it is anticipated that further sales will be made as soon as the bond market is more favorable to these securities. However, the bank may have some additional funds to lend this year because of the action of congress in making available $125,000,000 to the 12 federal land banks. Twenty-five million dollars of this sum was designated to be used in making extensions of installments to worthy, solvent borrowers with good records and $100,000,000 was to be invested in the stock of these banks for the purpose of improving their position with the expectation that the banks eventually would again offer their securities on the market. Of the $125,000,000 thus appropriated, there has been allocated to the 12 banks $63,243,740, the balance being reserved temporarily to meet any emergencies that may arise."

Helps Others Play But Has No Time To Play Himself
By United Press.
FORT WORTH.—R. D. Evans spends 14 hours a day helping others to play but he never gets to play himself.

That is the way the founder of the Texas Amateur Athletic federation and organizer of the Southwestern Track and Field meet held here annually, spends his life.

Evans is city superintendent of recreation here. He has been on the job eight years, from early morning until late night. Occasionally he can sneak away for a few holes of golf, but if he does, it must be around noon when others are lolling in the shade.

He is a lover of sports, although most of the time he must watch other perform. His own participation began as his own coach in high school in Brownwood.

Sports were far from prominent in 1910 when he was a junior in high school. Boys were sent to school to study, parents said, and such things as coaches were rare. So young Evans became a self-appointed coach. His track teams made creditable showing in state meets.

In 1922 when Fort Worth organized a recreation department, Evans was selected as athletic director. Two years later he was made superintendent. His first year he organized the Southwestern Track and Field meet which in 1932 attracted more than 1,000 athletes.

Although his name now has become familiar to every high school athlete in the state, he goes about his work as before, toiling long hours with little chance for his own recreation.

PROFFERED GUN HALTED PLANS FOR A SUICIDE

By United Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Recruits in the French legion, driven to despair by the hardships of the rigorous lives they lead, usually cancelled their threats of suicide when their captain proffered his pistol for the act.

This was his experience, Captain Edgar Hamilton, the only American officer of the famous corps, told students of the Carnegie Institute of Technology here. Once, however, that method did not work, Captain Hamilton said.

"When a recruit tells me he is going to commit suicide, I agree, I answer, 'I take the revolver from my desk, load it and hand it to the man. One man did not refuse it. 'He took the gun and saluted. 'Oui mon Capitaine,' he answered, and left my tent. I heard the shot almost immediately.

"Usually, however, the offer has the desired effect and the recruit decides to live."

Life in the legion is neither romantic nor even adventurous as a rule, the captain said. Most of the legionnaire's time is spent with picks and shovels working on roads, bridges, or other construction.

There are about 50 Americans in the legion at present, Hamilton said, and about 50 of them wish they had not joined. It is impossible to leave the legion, however, until the five-year enlistment is over, he said.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

Yesterday afternoon we strolled into a drug store to buy a drink and while there a man told us that he had seen a man who heard a grocer, on charges of kidnapping, very ill is claimed to be the fatal knife.

According to the version of the story that finally reached us, Rev. Peacock, who is supposed to be in touch with the kidnapers, had been returned to his parents at 3:30 that afternoon.

Several unreliable radio reports of this kind have spread over the country. On one occasion a Ranger man became so excited over hearing that the baby had been returned that he called the business section of the town. But the baby was still missing, and still is at this writing, though news reports, which are reliable, state that there is hope that he may be returned in a few days.

Which reminds us of a story our math teacher liked to tell, back in the days when we were being exposed to math.

"A farmer walked through a neighbor's field," Prof. Hart used to say, and pulled a turnip, peeling it and almost always referred to as "Red" Neill, Ranger's most vociferous golfer. Mr. Neill was in town on business, which accounted for him lounging around in a Ford coupe. He informed Betty, a chronic snuff addict, that Ranger and the other golf team fought to a 12-12 tie yesterday afternoon. When we informed Mr. Neill that Mr. C. C. Curry, the captain had just informed us that Breckenridge golf team had never met Mr. Neill informed after course, he doubled up with amusement, and emitted such startling sounds of humor that this department became alarmed and would have fled, only Mr. Neill was not a direct path of exit. Not only it true, Mr. Neill informed after shattering three plate glass windows with his tittering from the central regions of his anatomy, but it always will be true. As long as the local club has the cottonseed greens they will trounce the invaders and trounce them merrily."

Ballots Will Carry Stories

By United Press.

LINCOLN, Neb.—Candidates for office in Nebraska may have a five-word biography attached to their names on the ballot, if they choose.

When the voters go to the polls April 12, many of the candidates will be identified under the provisions of a state law passed after the United States Senator George W. Norris-Grocer Clerk George W. Norris tangled of two years ago.

The law provides that where two or more surnames of candidates for the same office are the same in spelling or sound, the secretary of state, county or city officer who prints ballots may on request of either of the candidates request on the ballot immediately after the name not to exceed five words the postoffice address and occupation of the candidate.

Two years ago, an obscure grocery clerk, George W. Norris, of Broken Bow, Neb., filed for the United States senate against Senator George W. Norris. The filing brought Senator Gerald P. Nye's committee to Nebraska.

Land Commissioner Swanson asks that the words, "Present Land Commissioner, Fremont, Neb.," follow his name on the ballot.

Wichita Mountains Are Given Another Secret To Guard

By United Press. HOBERT, Ok.— The granite ribbed Wichita Mountains, one of the legendary goals of the Spanish Conquistadores, have been entrusted with another secret. The Recluse of Cooperston Valley died recently, taking to his grave the secret of why he left his chair at a great university to live as a hermit under the shadow of Saddle Mountain. Little was known of the life of Professor Joseph E. Hallinen until his death here last month in a hospital. Three surviving relatives knew little of his life in Oklahoma. They refuse to divulge what little is known of him in the east. The Kiowa Comanche land lottery at El Reno lured him to Oklahoma. Before then he had been graduated from the University of Illinois in 1894. He taught in Illinois and Indiana, finally becoming a professor at the University of Chicago summer sessions. Hallinen's lot on the wheel of chance permitted him rich Elk Creek cotton and corn land. He chose a rugged half section in the green covered Wichita. To this day this land has not been broken by the plow. After staking the land, he returned east, but 17 years ago he drove to Cooperston from Chicago. From that date until Feb. 13, when he died, neighbors watched him go about his studies and care for the wild plant and animal life on his virgin land. It is known the professor wrote at least two books, one of them being "Birds of Western Oklahoma." Scores of stories are told of his eccentricities. He believed one should pay for everything used. Hallinen wanted a box once. A Cooperston grocer offered it free. He refused and insisted on paying a quarter for it. His only domestic animals were 32 cats, which he fed and nursed with special care, ordering milk by the case for them. The cats died one by one and never were replaced. Neighbors said he would sit for hours watching wild life, ranging from ants to coyotes, from his window. He was offended when one was harmed. Wasps and yellowjackets nested in the corner of the home. He built a dam across his creek, then blasted it when hunters shot ducks on the lake. A year before death, he arranged for his funeral, giving implicit details for a simple ceremony, he request was carried out. His two sisters, Flora E. Hallinen and Frances K. Hallinen, both of Chicago, and a brother, John A. Hallinen, who has since come here in June to dispose of his property.

Women Voters To Discuss Children

By United Press. NEW YORK.— Problems of child welfare, particularly those concerning child labor and the need for the protection of children in need of special care, and also the subject of the education of the child, are to be important topics discussed at the National League of Women Voters convention in Detroit, April 25-30. Recognized experts will speak. Courtenay Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the National Child Labor committee and former adviser to the New York City Department of Health, is to speak before the open conference of the Child Welfare committee on "The Status of Child Labor in 1932." Miss Agnes K. Hanna, director of the social service division of the U. S. Children's bureau, will address the conference on "Co-ordinated State and County Organization for the Protection of Children in Need of Special Care." The third subject is "The Protection and Treatment of Child Offenders Against Federal Laws." Mrs. George B. Mangold, of Los Angeles, chairman of the Child Welfare committee of the league, will preside.

Tutankhamen's Treasure Said Loot of Tomb

By United Press. LONDON.— King Tutankhamen's splendid golden treasures, which astonished the world when they were discovered by Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter in 1922, were mostly second-hand, according to J. D. S. Pendlebury, of the Egyptian Exploration society. As a result of his investigations, Pendlebury claims that most of the rich jewels and trappings of state in King Tut's tomb were really the property of King Smenkh-ka-Ra, whose tomb King Tut raided, appropriating the treasures for his own funeral palace. Pendlebury's theory is based on the recent discovery that the mummy thought to have been that of King Akhenaten III was really the mummy of somebody else, so the Egyptian government called in Pendlebury to solve the mystery. He found that the mummy in question was really that of Akhenaten's son-in-law, Smenkh-ka-Ra. "What I discovered," declared Pendlebury, "was that after the heretic Akhenaten died, the population of Amara rose up and cursed his memory and cursed as well the worship of the Sun's Disc, which he had founded. They smashed everything possible in the tomb, defaced all the monuments by hacking out the king's name, and City Deserted. "Amara was then deserted after a life of only 20 years, and the people returned to the old gods.

The dime-a-dance girl

CHAPTER XLVIII Ellen had not returned to Dreamland but she intended to go that evening. The thought of the gaudy, noisy place was distasteful to her but she felt a desperate necessity to try to take up the life she had dropped. Dancing—any sort of occupation—would help her forget maddening memories. She must go on with living. So she planned to go to Dreamland. There was no chance of seeing Larry there. She knew he would obey her request. Oh, why couldn't she decide that her own past was as much her own as his past? It was the decision in her mind that was driving her to desperation. Late that afternoon she dressed to go to the dance hall. Myra was at the library and Molly was lying down. Suddenly the doorbell shrilled. Ellen glanced at the clock and sighed. She looked into Molly's bedroom and saw that her mother was asleep. There was no escape, so she answered the bell. She had removed her gloves but left on her hat. She opened the door and looked down the dark cavern of the stairs. Suddenly her heart plunged. Coming up the stairway, trailing perfume and wrapped in silks and furs, was Mrs. Harrowgate. She kissed Ellen on the cheek in plaintive greeting. Then, sure of her welcome, she stepped into the living room. "I'll go call mother," Ellen said. "Don't bother, my dear. It's you I came to see. "But I—I have to leave in a moment or so," Ellen stammered. "Not just now, I'm sure. Sit down, my dear." Ellen sat down. "Now what is this nonsense between you and Larry?" Mrs. Harrowgate began easily. "You should know that you're breaking the poor child's heart." "Did he send you here?" Mrs. Harrowgate flushed. For the first time her magnificent composure was a little shaken. "He didn't send me—no. In fact he forbade my coming. But I'm not in the habit of being ordered around by my own son and so I told them. He finally agreed with me and even sent you a message." She opened a soft gray bag studded with amethysts, took out an envelope and handed it to Ellen. Without reading it or even glancing at the address, Ellen laid the message in her lap. "Do you mind my saying that I consider this whole thing ridiculous?" Mrs. Harrowgate said fretfully. "If Larry had done anything but hurt your feelings—I'm sure he hasn't—perhaps your conduct would not be so extraordinary. As it is, merely to make him suffer for some whim of yours, is childish and absurd. It's cruel!" She seemed for the moment to lack further adjectives. Mrs. Harrowgate paused for breath, and still Ellen did not speak. "Larry could have helped you during these difficult days," Mrs. Harrowgate continued. "He could have stood by you when you had to face the police as reporters. You should have let him do that. If you hadn't come to my home that afternoon Fergus would never have dreamed of applying to you for help. And then the whole thing wouldn't have happened. Larry feels deeply responsible. That's what makes— "Stop, stop!" Ellen broke in. "Put on your coat," Mrs. Harrowgate said firmly. "Larry's at home now and he's wretchedly unhappy. I'm going to take you to him. You can patch up this quarrel or whatever it is together. I'm sure it's too much for me." "Hurry, child," she added. "I'm sorry, but I can't come," Ellen told her. Nothing Mrs. Harrowgate said could persuade her. The older woman threatened, pleaded, even wept. Always she was defeated by Ellen's refusals. There was no triumph in Ellen's heart at the complete surrender of Larry's mother.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Yes Sir, He's Her Baby

Oakland, Calif. police authorities were convinced for a time that Harlan Oyer, shown in the arms of his mother, Mrs. Grace Oyer, was Billy Gaffney, kidnaped 10 years ago in Brooklyn. They watched the Oyer home for days. But Mrs. Oyer produced birth records and baby pictures which proved Harlan to be her own boy. Inset shows the Gaffney baby at the time of the kidnaping. There was nothing in her heart except a burning agony. Long after Mrs. Harrowgate had gone, the girl sat in the darkening living room. At last she read Larry's message. "I'll wait for you, my darling, as long as you want me to wait. Nothing in your past, nothing in your future, can affect what I feel for you. Whenever you want to come to me I will be waiting in the studio. You can see the light from the street." That night before she went to Dreamland Ellen walked past the studio. There was a light there. Larry was waiting as he had promised. Ellen stood for a long time in the cold, quiet twilight. She felt again the sharp and burning pain in her heart. The yellow light at the window burned on steadily. The girl turned in at the apartment house and walked through the lobby and up the stairs. She did not stop for an elevator. The door of the studio was ajar. She went inside. And as she entered, Larry stepped through the door from the adjoining rooms that were to have been their home. For an instant he paused—then caught her savagely into his arms and kissed her again and again. Feverishly she pushed his hands away and walked to the window to stare down at the roofs and at the men and women and children strolling in the tiny, dusky park. The children were screaming and running briskly, all of them buttoned into leather leggings and little woolen coats. Ellen turned suddenly and returned to the divan where Larry waited in puzzled silence. "Larry," she said, "there's something I must tell you—something that's been killing me. Larry," she stammered. "It was Fergus who wrote those unsigned letters to you and he told the truth—at least a part of the truth. There was a girl at the house with your uncle when he died. I was that girl. I thought I was married to him—and afterwards the whole thing was such a terrible mess! I ran away rather than face it." Tears came in torrents. Ellen sank to the divan but she pushed away Larry's hand and steadily, steadily told him the whole story. She tried to make him see her fear and indecision, her frantic desire to keep his love at all costs. "You'll never forgive me, I know. You can't!" "I cheated and lied and my only excuse is that I loved you too much to risk your hearing anything that might make you love me less." She was crying bitterly. Her voice was hoarse and strained with emotion. "Now I'm paying for all my lies!"

I'll have to give you up, to let you go. And my heart is breaking!" Her hair was disordered, had showered from its pins. Her face was pale and drawn with pain. The ache in her heart seemed to fill the world. Larry leaned forward and gathered her shaking body into his arms. "You might let me speak, darling," he said. "My poor, frightened little sweetheart! I've known all this for days, for weeks—" "You've known it all?" she whispered, after incomprehension written on her face. "Was it Fergus who told you?" "You yourself told me." "I?" "I mean you tried to tell me at first. After I learned what must have happened I could realize the thousand opportunities you'd tried to make and that like a blind fool I'd closed them to you. You're not a very successful falsifier, sweetheart—" "I tried so hard—I did try and then I just stopped trying! I was afraid, Larry." He held her closer. "Do you remember that day I went out to Long Island?" he asked after a while. She nodded, tightening her fingers about his hand. "That was the day I learned," he went on. "I was going through Uncle Steven's papers and one of the first things I ran across was his passport, made out for him and for his wife. Your picture was on that passport." "Oh, darling—to learn that way!" "At first it was pretty bad," he admitted slowly, honestly. "Then I got to thinking and I saw how you'd tried to explain to me. I was jealous, too, jealous and hurt and puzzled. But I saw I had no reason to be. Whatever you had once thought you felt for Uncle Steven, I knew you really belonged to me and knew you had been intended for me all along. "That's true, Larry. That's the truest thing that's ever been said," Ellen interrupted passionately. "I've suffered all that you've suffered—at least I think I have," he said. "I knew, Ellen, that some time before we were married, you would tell me everything. I don't know how but I just knew it." "I'll never deserve your goodness," Ellen said hoarsely. "I don't care what happens now. I'm almost glad everything happened just as it did so long as I know you've forgiven me." "Don't talk of forgiveness," the man said. "There can never be any such thing between us." She did not answer in words. But she resolved never again to test his loyalty or his trust in her. She would take them for granted as one of the most beautiful things of life. "Kiss me, Ellen," Larry said. She raised her lips. (THE END) ENGINEER CANDIDATE By United Press. TYLER, C. E. Fresh Vegetables and Fruits Are in Market.

Ingenious farmers with their rotating crops of vegetables, scientists who have perfected refrigeration for transportation, and men who have honeycombed this country with a network of railroads have brought variety to the family table.

Vegetables are necessary to our diet. Nutritionists state that we should have at least two fresh, green vegetables every day in addition to the popular potato. It is quite possible these days, too, regardless of the season of the year, Time was when we celebrated the arrival of the first new peas or asparagus on the market with some fastidious guests invited to dinner. Now you can have them practically the year around.

One of the best food combinations to meet the nutritive requirements of a complete dish is a creamed fresh vegetable. Milk, which has been universally popularized as the one food that comes nearest to containing all the essential elements for the maintenance and protection of health, can be used in several ways with fresh vegetables and fruits. For the economical creamed vegetable dish or cream fruit pie use evaporated milk. Evaporated milk is equal to bottled milk in nutritive essentials and it also has the advantage of making a creamier and smoother white sauce and custard. If you use evaporated milk in the custard for your pineapple or banana pie you will notice that the fruit flavor is brought out more distinctly.

Creamed Carrots. 2 bunches carrots, 1 tsp. sugar, 1 tsp. salt, 2 tsp. butter, 2 tsp. flour, 1/2 tsp. salt, dash pepper, 1 cup boiling water or meat broth, 1 cup evaporated milk.

Wash and scrape carrots and cut as desired. Cook in boiling water to which sugar and salt have been added. Prepare a white sauce of remaining ingredients and add drained cooked carrots. Yield: 6 servings.

Creamed Turnips. 2 medium turnips, 2 tsp. butter, 1/2 tsp. salt, dash pepper, 2 abs. flour, 1 tsp. sugar, 1 cup evaporated milk, 1 cup water.

Select crisp, tender turnips. Peel, then put through food chopper (using large knife), or cut in half-inch cubes. Steam until tender (30 minutes). Melt butter, add salt, flour and sugar and blend until smooth. Add milk and water which have been scalded. Stirring occasionally, cook 15 minutes over boiling water. Add turnips. Heat, pour over well beaten eggs, beat vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook 5 minutes. Add butter, fruit juice and pineapple. Pour into cool, baked pie shell. Chill. Cover with meringue and set in refrigerator 1/2 hour before serving. Yield: 1 pie.

Banana Cream Pie. 1 cup evaporated milk, 1/2 cup water, 5 tabs. flour, 1/2 cup sugar, few grains salt, 2 eggs, 2 tabs. butter, 1/2 cup pineapple juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1/4 cup drained crushed pineapple, baked pie shell.

Scald milk and water in top of double boiler. Mix flour, sugar and salt. Add to scalded milk and cook 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour over well beaten eggs, beat vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook 5 minutes. Add butter, fruit juice and pineapple. Pour into cool, baked pie shell. Chill. Cover with meringue and set in refrigerator 1/2 hour before serving. Yield: 1 pie.

Sixth Verse of "Korea, Land of the Dawn," Is Final at Missionary Study Lesson. With 16 members attending the Women's Missionary society of the First Methodist church Monday afternoon the sixth chapter of "Korea, the Land of the Dawn," was finished under the leadership of Mrs. S. P. Boon, and Mrs. Walter Harwell. Mrs. A. W. Turner read the devotional for the hour. Mrs. Boon and Mrs. Harwell each explained in an interesting way the chosen topic for the lesson. This subject has proven one of the most interesting and profitable to have been observed during the study season.

Plans were made at the close of the study to complete the chapter at the study to be held at the church next Monday afternoon. Mrs. Leslie Hagaman will be in charge of the closing lesson.

A short business session was held presenting missionary society matters.

Musical Program Affords Rare Treat at Buchanan Home. A rare treat in the form of a delightful musical entertainment afforded a colorful Easter afternoon when Miss Gillian Buchanan presented both her piano and violin pupils in a program held at the home of Miss Buchanan, Pine Street.

Amid a profusion of ferns, palms and lilies, the violin class was seated on one side of the spacious entertaining room and the piano students on the opposite.

An unusual feature of the program was the presentation of the violin classes of the First National Institute of Violin.

Remarkable technique was displayed by the students especially in the last number, "America," played in unison by the violin pupils.

Mother of 27 Gets New Chance for Prize

Although she had given birth to 27 children in her 22 years of married life and was well in the lead in the strange Toronto, Can., baby marathon, things looked pretty dark for Mrs. Florence Brown, 42, shown above with 12 of her children. A bill had been introduced in the provincial legislature to set aside the will of the late Charles Vance Millar, eccentric millionaire, in which he had provided $500,000 for the Toronto mother bearing the most children in the ten years following his death. It was proposed to give the money to Toronto University. But amidst cries of "shame" and "disgrace," Col. W. H. Price, sponsor of the measure, withdrew it during a tumultuous Parliament meeting and now Mrs. Brown seems again well on the path to win the fortune.

30 Members of Bible Class Hear Splendid Lecture.

Rev. D. W. Nichol, pastor of the Church of Christ and teacher of the Women's Bible class, lectured yesterday afternoon from the first chapter of Genesis to the forty-first before an appreciative audience of 30 members.

New members are enrolled at each meeting and the organization promises to be one of the best of its kind in the city. Rev. Nichol made an assignment at the close of the hour for next Monday's lesson.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer

There are various accompaniments for cream soups that increase the palatability of the soup and make for economy, too. Melba chips and croutons both are easily made from stale bread or rolls.

To make Melba chips, cut stale French rolls in very thin slices, crosswise of the roll. The slices shouldn't be more than an eighth of an inch thick. Spread them on a shallow pan and put in a slow oven until crisp and brown throughout. Their crisp crunchiness makes them delicious with all kinds of soups.

Croutons are especially acceptable with the spring vegetable soups. The crunchy richness of carefully made croutons adds the finishing touch to a delicious puree.

There are several ways of making croutons. Some cooks dip the neat cubes of bread in melted butter and brown them in a moderate oven. Others drop the cubes into deep hot fat and fry them to a golden brown in one minute.

Croutons Made Two Ways The bread chosen for croutons is more important than the actual size because it realizes. It should be stale but not too dry and crumbling. A fine and close grained texture is essential. Cut in slices about one-half inch thick, remove crusts and cut each slice into cubes with a very sharp knife to insure geometrical neatness and accuracy. The cubes are dried until they are crisp clear through. After this they can be toasted or fried in deep fat.

Sometimes one is puzzled as to how to serve croutons. Croutons may be properly served in two ways: (1) They are passed to each person immediately after his soup is placed before him and he helps himself. The dish that holds the croutons may be an ordinary vegetable dish with a tablespoon in it.

(2) If the soup is served by the host at the table, English style, he drops one or two tablespoons of croutons into each plate of soup as he serves it.

Croutons, unlike crackers, are supposed to go right into the soup and form a part of it. They are eaten with the soup from the soup plate and never with the fingers.

Toast sticks are what their name implies, sticks of toast. The bread is cut in strips about 3-4 inch thick and 3-4 inch wide and about 3 inches long. It is then toasted in a hot oven and served, unbuttered, like crackers. Each person helps himself and butters his stick or not as he prefers. Toast sticks are not broken into the soup.

Cheese Balls Two cups bread crumbs, 3-4 cup grated cheese, 4 tablespoons butter, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs.

Put crumbs, cheese, butter, salt and pepper into mixing bowl and work until blended. It will take about six minutes. Add eggs well beaten and mix well. Make into balls about the size of large walnuts and fry in deep hot fat until a delicate brown.

'Gold Rush' Brings Comedy, Tragedy By United Press. LONDON.—Comedies and tragedies have been brought to light by the amazing "Gold Rush," which continues on a diminished scale, although approximately 40,000,000 worth of sovereigns, jewelry, and trinkets have been sold for cash.

In South Wales, a dog has lost its chain. Its owner, a farm worker, brought a thin, dirty yellow chain to a jeweler and inquired if it was worth anything. He received 10 pounds.

A London man sold his dead wife's wedding ring, but could not keep because of his conscience. He sought to recover the ring, but it was too late. It had been melted and sold to Paris.

Six sets of false teeth on gold plates were sold here by an American. "I have a set for every day of the week, but Thursday's will do me from now on."

A white-haired man who, 64 years ago, had had a golden rose made as an exact replica of one that his Hampshire sweetheart had given him, sold it for every day to pay his rent. His sweetheart died while he was on a long voyage. He had remained single.

In Derby a widow in dire straits sold 50 pounds worth of 5-pound and 2-pound pieces, which she discovered as she made ready to dispose of her dead mother's belongings.

A number of gold ingots weighing from an ounce to two and one-half ounces, relics of the Gold Rush to the Klondyke, have been sold in Barnstaple, North Devonshire.

Up in Nottingham, a beggar walked into a jewelry store, pulled 300 sovereigns out of his pocket and sold them for 26 shillings each, representing a clear profit of 90 pounds on their face value if compared with the days of the Gold Standard.

The gold centers of 20 medals won in swimming competitions have been sold by an unemployed man in Hackney.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT, United Press Staff Correspondent. PARIS.—Fashion is still wool gathering here, and it is gathering some of the choicest bits of fabric into town and country frocks and ensembles that puts a new impetus into the depression-tinged spring market.

It laps gently over from right to left with the edge, all the way down to the hem, outlined in black galyak. How to Escape FLU and Grippe

1 Avoid so far as possible the places where flu germs are most likely to be over-crowded cars and public places; overheated, stuffy rooms.

2 Be careful of close contact with other people. Beware of all coughers and sneezers. Breathe through the nose, get fresh air, avoid drafts or chilling.

3 Get lots of rest. Drink plenty of water. Keep the bowels open. Take extra precaution to keep in good physical condition. Your system will have normal resistance against germs.

4 Try, particularly, to avoid catching Colds lower your resistance to germs. At the first sign of any cold, Bayer Aspirin; remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. And if you have a sore throat, dissolve some Bayer Aspirin tablets in water and gargle; this reduces the soreness, and it usually reduces inflammation.

5 If you have any reason to suspect a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.
