Up to and including Jan. 2, 1933, only 85 resident taxpayers of the city of Ranger had paid their taxes for the year 1932 out of a total of 700 names on the school tax rolls, according to a statement made today by E. A. Ringold, the school tax collector of the Ranger independent school district.

Two Shakespearean plays, Julius Caesar and Macbeth, will be presented in the Ranger High school auditorium on Friday night, Jan. 13, by the James Hendrickson-Claire Bruce company, which has been acclaimed by critics as one of the best companies on tour this season with Shakespearean plays.

Only routine business was conducted by the Eastland city commissioners at their regular meeting Monday afternoon, according to W. C. Marlow, city manager, who also stated commissioners present were Alex Clarke, M. L. Keeler, T. M. Johnson and Neal Moore.

Marlow stated that to date 6,300 of R. F. C. funds had been expended here, and if Eastland should get another allotment, work on the high school grounds and buildings would be completed.

The Eastland Rotary club held their luncheon on Connell's roof with 17 members present. A number of rousing Rotarian songs were enjoyed under the leadership of Julius B. Krause, with Clara June Kimple at the piano.

DALLAS, Jan. 3.—James E. Ferguson, husband of Governor-elect Miriam A. Ferguson, in speaking before the state-wide agricultural conference here today, revealed his wife will propose a state sales tax to the legislature when she goes into office.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—A warning against a special session of congress was made in the house today by Representative Thomas L. Blanton, democrat, Texas, who declared such procedure was "what started the unpopularity of President Hoover."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Reduction of government costs commanded attention today, as the prime object of the incoming Roosevelt administration. Democratic leaders who are preparing to confer with the president Thursday, are ready to grant Mr. Roosevelt dictatorial powers in order to cut the cost of government.

DALLAS, Jan. 3.—Miriam A. Ferguson's appointee to the state highway commission succeeding Cone Johnson of Tyler, whose term expires in February, will be named chairman if this can be done legally, James E. Ferguson said here today.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE POWER OF THOUGHT: As he thinketh in his heart, so is he.—Proverbs 23: 7.

COLONEL HOUSE AND "AN AMERICAN DICTATOR"

Col. E. M. House of Texas is contributing to the gayety of nations. He has a very interesting article in the current number of the Liberty magazine. By the way, the Liberty magazine appears to be the deadly free lance representative of all its tribe. Its editor is predicting direful happenings, "unless and if." Colonel House turns his thoughts and pen to that class of Americans who are longing for a dictator. His conclusion is that a dictator would not last long in this republic; that Mussolini has a place in Italy but when Mussolini passes out of the picture, the Italians will return to the old form of government or set up a new form. Colonel House admits that there are important personages in America who lean strongly to the proposal that a benevolent dictator would be able to create a stable government where senators and congressmen have failed in their undertaking. Now to be fair, the colonel has no use or time for a dictatorship, or for dictators of the absolute type or of the mildest and most benevolent type, but he warns his countrymen that something must be done or "the unexpected and the unpleasant" may happen in coming time. Well, there is a Thomas Jefferson democrat coming in. There is a congress coming in made up of men who call themselves Thomas Jefferson democrats. Why not give the president and his lawmakers a fair trial? If they try and do not succeed, then out they will go as Herbert Hoover and his advisers were voted out in the month of November of a year that is passing out into history and dust.

A DEMOCRAT HEADS THE I. C. C.

Patrick J. Farrell, a democrat, has been made chairman of the interstate commerce commission to take office Jan. 1. He will serve through the next year. He has been with the commission 32 years. He is a Vermonter. He was appointed commissioner by Calvin Coolidge. For ten years before going to Washington he was a member of the Vermont state commission. He has held every minor office from first chief examiner to chief counsel for the commission. It appears that a Vermont democrat, a friend of Coolidge, was not overlooked while the frosty Calvin was the chief ace of republican politics in the New England territory. Some day Texas may be represented. Some day a democratic president may appoint a Texan. Wilson overlooked Texas in naming a representative of the millions of freight shippers in this empire commonwealth. Charles A. Culberson was a senator. He backed one eligible. Morris Sheppard was a senator. He backed another. An outsider slipped in. Representation on the I. C. C. would do more for Texas than a half dozen ambassadors or consuls generals sent to foreign lands. Texas is the greatest cotton state, the greatest of oil and gas producing states, the greatest wool and mohair, and all its people are interested in freight rates which will be fair to all concerned.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Talbot Patrick, publisher of the Goldsboro (N. C.) News-Argus, says:

"A year or two ago, an editorial from the Goldsboro News-Argus was reprinted all over the United States. Its story, in brief, was that before you and I can make our dreams come true we must first have our dreams.

"What reminded us of that editorial was an advertisement in another newspaper about what was called 'A Plan for Living.' For, upon first sight of the advertisement, it struck us that many readers of that paper might consider suggestion of such a plan in present times as nothing but a dream.

"Yet—there have been so many cases of the unexpected happening, of the man or woman who had dreamed or planned or thought ahead against an emergency or an opportunity surviving the crisis or profiting out of the chance we turned back to the ad advertisement and read it through even though the first thing in it was something we mentioned in our editorial columns a couple of years or more ago.

"A plan for living' is in three steps, of which the first is saving of an emergency or 'fighting fund' equal to at least six months salary or half a year's earnings.

"The second step is use of the 'overflow' from the emergency fund to build up life insurance—and the advertisement was not paid for by life insurance companies.

"Third step is the personal plan—toward owning a home, setting up in business, making an investment, or attaining some other personal goal.

"Perhaps some young fellow may want to file the plan with his dreams. That's one reason why we summarized it here and now. Some dreams are made to come true."

Attorney Takes Both Sides In Case

By United Press. BELMONT, N. Y.—Here's an attorney who acted as counsel for one side in the morning and for the opposite side in the afternoon during a court case involving settlement of a will. The attorney, William Duke Jr., supported the interests of three infants in the morning, but shifted over to the side of those opposing the will when he learned of the existence of another will, whose contents were more to his clients' advantage.

DERRICK SHADOWS By V. MARIE STEPHENS

The day of friendly enemies has found its place in history, and warfare is in the open now. A recent report from a Japanese news agency said headquarters were waiting for fuller accounts of Shaghaikwan fighting but were disposed toward a "very strong attitude." Imagine such an attitude among the peace-loving, docile Japs! We used to read lovely, flower-strewn tales of Miss Cherry Blossom and the scented land . . . now we eat up the news from gun-packing, grim Japan. Times have changed. It would seem, leaving the next victim will be and why someone doesn't do something about it; which would mean posing as the bull's-eye for some clever native . . . and the race is far from near-sighted. Edna St. Vincent Millay is frank enough to admit her new play, "The Princess Marries the Page," is "unmistakably a youthful work and very slight but rather pretty," which is as Millay would criticize her production. The author, who so frankly tells us her ideas on life and troublesome mortals and makes her own existence quite bare to the public, wrote this play while in Vassar college, and immediately lost the manuscript. Recently it has been found, as she searched for something else, and Mary Kennedy snatched at it for production in Philadelphia. Whereupon, the play is to be given the production. So Millay is with us again—the lucky Millay who possesses the idea husband and perfect home and envied talent. She who has become quite an ideal for dreamers and would-be writers. It is true, she throws herself open to public criticism, thereby making herself worth the attention of the scolding world. It is a lesson hard to accept, but true no doubt. We've been at it so long it's hard to forget the goal is here: 1933. We've been sitting calmly by awaiting the arrival of the new year and expecting the market to jump and jobs open and bread lines vanish with its entrance . . . and today I find the papers screaming with news just as they did last year. But if our dreams come tumbling down around our heavy heads, it is nice to have had them . . . and '33 can't be much worse than '32 . . . which is some consolation.

Speaking of writers reminds me of a somewhat recent sitting before Carl Sandburg. The man chanted off one mental spasm after another and held his audience spellbound with his own abrupt personality. After it was all over and we were in the midst of dinner a clever little somebody with the nerve to be frank and critical quoted one of her own productions, following Sandburg's personal style: "It isn't raining rain to me, it's raining like hell. In every dimpled drop I see pneumonia, influenza." Which was a brief, but concise slam at America's darling. Personally I liked the man. . . I was panned in by two ardent admirers. There was nothing else to do.

On Thursday morning, Rev. Franklin leaves to attend the Christian church convention to be held in Fort Worth, until Friday.

Change of Program.
The year book chairman of the Thursday Afternoon club, Mrs. James Horton, announces that the club will meet at the residence of Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, on Thursday afternoon of this week, instead of at their usual place, the community clubhouse.
The change is made in order that the club members might view the art exhibit now on display. The program as announced will also be subject to change.

Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary.
The Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church held no formal session, Monday, as many of the members are ill with influenza, and program could not be given.
Plans were made however for the Sunday school teachers' party for the pupils, set for Friday evening in the church parlors.
At close of the business discussion Mrs. Pangburn, the hostess, served a dainty fruit salad with vanilla wafers and tea. The auxiliary will meet in regular session in two weeks.

Baptist W. M. S. Short Program.
In the absence of officers and circle chairmen, of the Women's Missionary society of the Baptist church, the session was presided over Monday afternoon by Mrs. Frank Lovett, past president W. M. S.
There is a great deal of sickness among the members, and the attendance at this meeting was limited.

Leave for Austin Thursday.
Senator and Mrs. Wilbourne B. Collie with their children, Kathleen, aged 5, and Dan, 3, leave Thursday morning accompanied by their maid, for Austin, where they have for the present engaged accommodations at the Stephen F. Austin hotel, but will later take a furnished apartment through the session of the legislature.
They will leave their home here closed, and expect to return and occupy it during the spring and summer months.

WITH FLU AROUND ALL COLDS NOW MORE DANGEROUS
Colds Lower Body Resistance and Often Pave the Way for Flu and Its Serious Complications.
EXTRA PRECAUTIONS URGED
With flu increasing in many sections of the country, health authorities urge everyone to take extra precautions against colds just now.
The safest course to follow is that outlined in Vicks Plan for better Control-of-Colds. Briefly, it is this:
To Prevent Many Colds
At that first feeling of stiffness or nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze—Natures usual warning that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Drops Aid Nature in throwing off the infection that threatens. They prevent development of many colds.
If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, vigorous measures are necessary. At bedtime, massage throat and chest with Vicks VapoRub. It acts two ways at once, to bring relief. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster; and by inhalation of its medicated vapors direct to irritated air-passages. During the day—for added comfort and relief—use the convenient Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed.
Plan Tested and Proved
In clinical tests among thousands, last winter, Vicks Cold-Control Plan reduced the number and duration of colds by half—cut the costs and dangers of colds more than half. How you can follow the Plan in your home is fully explained in each Vicks package.

times, Sheila should love the stage. Wasn't she born to the life? Ma recalled Daisy Desmond, Sheila's mother, well.
"No. She's been talking all morning about having a home in the country."
"Let her get a good start and a salary like some of the others and buy herself that home!" Ma said quickly.
"She means get married, Ma. She talked about clothes on the line and fire engines."
"Lord save us, what next?" Ma gasped. "Fire engines! What was the child saying?"

Trevor Lane, the elder, was supposedly "on Wall Street." He was 30, or thereabouts, and of that species which is so frequently referred to as a man about town, though, as he himself would have pointed out, his polo ponies, yachts, and high-powered cars kept him rather continually out of both the town and his highly correct and elaborately appointed office.
His home, the penthouse, was even more elaborately appointed than his office. Certainly it was less difficult to find him there than at the Wall Street address.
With Trevor Lane was young

"Put this in my room for me, will you?" Sheila begged, thrusting forward the pot of geraniums.

"Like I told you. Fire engines. For the kids, you know. She wants to get married."
"They all talk that way in the spring," Ma said comfortably. "The air gets warm, the parks in bloom. Flower sellers start hollering their heads off. There's one now."
They were standing on the step, loath to leave the first spring day behind them, loath to exchange it for Ma's comfortable, dark, untidy, cluttered kitchen.
"An' look at her!" Ma gasped again and grabbed Myrt's arm. "Mind you! There they are waiting 'er in Paris! and her buyin' geraniums from a pedlar!"
The two women stood in outraged dignity while Sheila, unaware of the consternation in their souls, flew with nimble feet and laughing face back to the house.
"Put this in my room for me, will you, Myrt?" she begged, thrusting forward a red pot with a tiny unsteady red bloom stuck glintwise in the soft earth. She grinned suddenly. "That's the kind I'm going to have in my own kitchen window some day! And, oh, Myrt, it needs watering!"
"I'll water it," the cynicism had drained from Myrt's face. Sheila's happiness was too apparent to touch.
The girl was gone, flying down the street toward Broadway.
"What are you going to do with a girl like that?" asked Ma, shaking her head. "I declare, she does need a good husband. A husband to make her work! Red geraniums! Kitchens! Her! With all that talent and that figure! A few years' glory on the stage, then a rich husband, Park Avenue. Maybe even a title from London! An' her talking about a kitchen! The Lord save us all!"
At about this time in a penthouse high up over New York's exclusive East Side two young men were persuading themselves rather reluctantly to awaken and regard the glories of a new day. They were awakening rather early, too, for them. The previous evening they had attended a party. And tonight they were giving one of his life.
Hymn, and prayers marked the session, with final benediction by Mrs. J. R. Boggess.
The invitation to visit the Sixth District art exhibit was presented. Those present, Misses, R. B. Reagan, H. E. Lawrence, J. R. Crossley, Harry Wood, John Young, Ira Hanna, J. R. Bobbass, E. Hurley, Guy Sherrill, L. Herring, and president of class, Mrs. D. L. Childress.

Ranger High School Notes

JEWELLE JUDD, Editor
Shakespeare's Plays To Be Presented At High School
Two Shakespeare's most noted plays will be presented by the James Hendrickson-Claire Bruce and company in the high school auditorium.
Julius Caesar will be presented by the company at the matinee performance, which is to be staged at 2:30 Friday afternoon, Jan. 13. At the night performance, Macbeth will be presented at 8:15.
This company is considered one of the best on tour this season with Shakespeare's play and it will prove a treat to the lovers of good acting.
Admission prices have been set at 75 cents for reserve seats, 40 cents for general admission and 25 cents for students.

The Stool Pigeon Speaks
I have a good alibi for no news Monday. I explained once how it was that Dan Cupid worked overtime during the Autumn, because he and the Fall wind were fraternity brothers or something of the sort. Well, Cupid and old man winter never did like each other. Dan stole the cold one's girl at a dance one time and they haven't got along since.
Jessie Mae Grant is an exception to the general rule however, and Alda Mae Miller needn't look surprised when Jim Hicks ask her for a date. Not after all the attention he has been paying her lately.

I will probably be "put on the spot" for mentioning this but Terrell Coleman of Eastland does not seem to care for Ranger after he was chased out in no gentle manner because he liked another fellow's girl. She probably liked him too. Better luck next time Terrell! (Perhaps he should take up boxing too. Yes, J. D.?)

Just to show you what this younger generation is coming to, there's the story about the two Ranger High school girls and their dates who came to high school about 2 o'clock Christmas morning. Of course they merely wanted to ring the door bell to see if anyone was at home.
Any and all girls who were previously proud of impromptu dates New Year's night can take my word for it that they were just one of the many. Six was the number collected by two boys during the evening—the score stands until corrected.

We wonder what's so attractive about the Eastland theaters to Ada Mae Hinman. It could be the picture showing but again it could be the drive to Eastland. Take your choice, they are both probably wrong.
Several Ranger kids have ask me who that little "Robbins" bird is that Eleanor (Libby) Cleveland is always singing "cheer-up," "cheer-up" with.

It's coming to the point where you are almost forced to wear boots to protect yourself in the high school halls. I hear Frank Kinney is renting his for a hamburger per hour with all the competition you have I believe I'd take up horse-back riding, Frank.

I wish to correct a charge against me that I called J. W. McKinney and J. F. Whitefield "buns" per hour with all the competition you have I believe I'd take up horse-back riding, Frank.

Listen "one who knows" those dirty remarks about Major Reid and A. G. Gray sounded too much like a two year old to print. For people who are always being "dirty" your are example, the best remedy I know of is a Saturday night bath. Use Lifebuoy.

The high school students seem to have taken their Christmas pretty serious this year. That is trying to be pretty serious about trying to have a "hot" time during the holidays and from all reports most of them were successful. (This includes the editor of this column).

Heading the list of those who were Christmas visitors in other cities is Roberta Blackenship, who spent the holidays in Abilene. She certainly must have found "some one" interesting there from all the time she spent writing "him" a letter Monday.

Jimmie Westbrook, who just returned from San Angelo, seems to find Mavis as charming as ever so he probably didn't even give the Angelo fens a chance.

We hear Danelene Pate spent all her time entertaining the certain Eastland "cadet." By the way have you noticed Pate's new hat? What kind of a hat did you say it was Danelene?

Just to show that I was on the job last week, Jacoby and Ray Hanson were riding around with a car full of Eastland girls. They didn't seem to be bored either.
Dan Cupid had been busy during the month of April. Plans are going forward very nicely for this event which will come as one of the largest church activities of the year.

The hour was attended by a goodly number of members, who profited from the opening study of the new year.

REPEAL FAILURE SEEN.
By United Press.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—In organizing Alabama's dry forces to fight the repeal movement, Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, said: "The new congress is going to propose to the people of the United States the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. It will not carry." He conceded the passage of an "illegal" beer bill, before repeal of the amendment, which he said would be vetoed by President Hoover and held by the supreme court to be unconstitutional.

Ring Ceremony for Oger Couple Is Read At Mineral Wells.
Miss Lola Lonsdale and P. W. Swoap, both well known and admired by a large number of Ranger friends, were married Monday at Mineral Wells, in a very quiet service, with a Mineral Wells pastor officiating.
The bride acquired a host of friends through her delightful personality while an associate with O. K. grocery, where she was employed for several years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Lonsdale of Ranger.
Mr. Swoap is a popular employee of the Lone Star Gas company and recently received a transfer to Brazos, where they are now at home.
Sincere good wishes are extended by their Ranger friends.

Dr. Gray Gives Devotional At Study
Judging from the very successful and pleasant lesson held by members of the ladies auxiliary of the Presbyterian church Monday afternoon, a year of anticipated study is eagerly awaited by each member.
"Fourth Lady of China," taken from the foreign missionary course was opened under the leadership of the pastor's wife, Mrs. Gray, who filled the hour of study to the brim with instructive topics.
Plans were discussed during the business session for the Presbyterian which will convene in Ranger during the holidays. Myrtle McGee became the blushing bride of Mr. Sampson Dec. 24. We wish you all the best luck in the world!
Cecel Langston and Bertha Fae Sandeford, both former Ranger High school students, were married by Judge McFatter.
