

CZECH GOVT. FACES NEW TROUBLE WITH SLOVAKIAN STATE

Premier Is Dismissed And Troops Sent In To Quell Radicals Demanding Independent Setup

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia, Mar. 10 (AP)—President Hacha dismissed the premier of Slovakia today and sent Czech troops into the autonomous territory to check radical elements demanding full independence from the Prague government.

The family feud between the provincial and central governments had smoldered since Slovaks won autonomy after the Munich partition last September.

It flamed into the open last night in anti-Czech demonstrations at Bratislava, Slovak capital.

There had been reports during the last week that Slovak extremists were advocating secession, including one report they had tried and failed to win German backing.

President Hacha acted suddenly today by naming Vice Premier Josef Sivak to succeed Premier Joseph Tiso and dismissing Economics Minister Jan Prusinski and Labor Minister Ferdinand Durban.

Frague authorities said radicals appear to be gaining headway with their demands for independence and it was necessary to dispatch troops and police into Slovakia.

The Prague government spokesman said they were bringing the situation well under control.

Premier-Designate Sivak was appointed by the central government in the belief he would promote the objective of a central government living at peace with the Slovaks.

An official statement early this morning declared that during the last few days the chief of the Slovak propaganda office, Sano Mach, with the aid of unruly elements took advantage of weakness of the Tiso government to start a propaganda campaign directed against unity of the Czech-Slovak republic, with the idea of an independent Slovakia.

Slovakia, since the Munich agreement last September, has had an autonomous administration in local matters but the Czech-Slovak national regime at Prague controlled the administration of international dealings.

Dr. Hacha decided upon direct action toward ending difficulties between the two governments last night, after extended negotiations failed to clarify the situation.

A presidential decree explained there was no changes in the Prague government, and that even the Slovak representative in the central government, Karl Sidor, remained in office.

Anti-Czech and anti-Jewish demonstrations were reported in See CZECHS, Page 3, Col. 4

SOIL CONSERVATION BILL APPROVED BY THE HOUSE

AUSTIN, Mar. 10 (AP)—A state-wide soil conservation bill which sponsors said, had been amended to endanger essential federal aid today received approval of the house of representatives by an almost unanimous vote.

A vote of 124 to 2 sped the plan to the senate where a similar proposal has been pending for some time but not, as yet, received floor consideration.

The highly controversial issue was debated at great length two years ago by the legislature which finally passed a bill only to have it vetoed by Governor James V. Allred.

Church Group To Banquet Tonight

The Rev. C. A. Bickley, presiding elder of the Abilene district and former pastor of the First Methodist church here will be principal speaker at a banquet to be given at 7:30 o'clock this evening by the Men's Bible class of the Methodist church.

The program will feature quartets, songs and other numbers, according to Royce Satterwhite, president of the class, and all the men of the church and those who wish to be associated with it are invited to attend.

Economy Axe Wielded By The Senate

Saving Effected By Transfer Of Reclamation Engineer

AUSTIN, Mar. 10 (AP)—The senate's economy axe fell on the state reclamation engineer's department today, effecting a savings, proponents said, of $25,600 annually.

To Land Office The upper chamber unanimously approved and sent to the house a measure by Sen. Morris Roberts of Pettus which transferred the office to that of the general land commissioner.

Roberts said 90 per cent of the reclamation engineer's work consists of surveying which largely duplicated that done by employees of the land office and the elimination of duplication would effect the savings. The bill had the approval of R. J. McMahon, state reclamation engineer.

The legislature already has abolished the office of state tax commissioner and additional economy measures including abolishing some 40 special funds whose revenue would go into the deficit laden general fund, are pending.

As the deadline for introducing bills approached in the senate, a flood of measures were sent to the secretary. These included bills to require school buses to carry fire extinguishers, effect group life insurance plan for state employees and create a state marketing commission.

A new approach to the truck load limit problem—one of the most controversial subjects of the general session which reaches its halfway mark today—came from Senator Wilbourne Collier of Eastland. He proposed that the road limitation be lifted for perishable fruit and vegetables during the height of the producing season.

Specifically, the dates for suspending the 7,000-pound maximum load limitation were March 15 to April 1, 1939; Dec. 1 to April 1, 1940; and Dec. 1 to April 1, 1941.

Senate adjournment until Monday ended attempts to kill a bill authorizing the governor to name a budget director who would take over duties now held by the board of control.

Several attacks via circuitous parliamentary routes to eliminate portions of the measure which would have rendered ineffective its chief purpose were ward off by slim margin votes. A full membership was not present and opponents evidently were attempting to take advantage of that condition. A test vote by the entire membership recently showed a paper-thin margin in favor of the bill.

Griffin of Big Springs.

U. S. GOES AFTER BRAZILIAN TRADE

Credit Pact Opens Way For Contest With Germany

WASHINGTON, Mar. 10 (AP)—Through its new credit pact with Brazil, the United States government began today a broad offensive to capture Germany's citadel of Latin American trade.

Three federal agencies—the state and treasury departments and the export-import bank—were ready to carry out the program of economic cooperation agreed upon yesterday between Secretary Hull and Foreign Minister Arnha of Brazil.

Diplomatic circles here viewed their exchange of notes as a reply to Hitler's last speech, when he said Germany's commercial relations with Latin America were no concern of the United States. The pact calls for:

1. A credit of $10,000,000 from the export-import bank to free Brazil's foreign exchange.

2. Long-term credits from the export-import bank to American manufacturers and exporters of goods to Brazil.

3. $50,000,000 gold from the U. S.

CAN POWELL RITES SLATED SATURDAY

Veteran Of Three Wars To Be Given Military Tribute; Succumbs Here Three Days After 93rd Birthday

Last rites—religious and military—will be said at 2 p. m. Saturday for Thomas B. Powell, known here for nearly a century as Can Powell.

The dynamic spirit of Mr. Powell, the county's last Union army veteran, was stifled by death at his home here Thursday at 2:30 p. m.

He had been seriously ill for two weeks and in a semi-conscious condition since Monday when he seemed to recognize those who honored him on the occasion of his 93rd birthday.

Services were set for 2 p. m. at the First Presbyterian church with Dr. D. F. McConnell, pastor, assisted by Rev. W. S. Garnett, East Fourth Baptist pastor, in charge.

At the graveside the American Legion post was to pay a final military tribute to the man that enlisted in his county's service in 1918 despite his more than 70 years.

Born March 6, 1846 at Neadeville, Pa., Powell enlisted in the Union army before he reached his 18th birthday and carried army supplies over the Pennsylvania mountains.

By his own description, he was from that day until he died "a Yankee and a republican," a man who had strong convictions on the side of protection as against free trade.

In 1882 he moved his family to Sweetwater and there braved threats against his life to cast his ballot for the GOP. He laughed.

Argues For A Resident Here Since '81 Dies

WASHINGTON, Mar. 10 (AP)—Senator Bone (D-Wash.) asserted today that "no force stands between the man in the White House and plunging this country into a bloody war."

Because of that, he said, the people should vote on any declaration of war.

Bone, arguing before the senate naval committee in behalf of a proposed war referendum amendment to the constitution, declared that the legislative branch was "a futile instrument" in preventing war.

Congress has the constitutional right to declare war, but the Washington senator said he did not believe that constituted any barrier, because of the forces of propaganda that could be brought to bear on members of congress.

"The realization and the consciousness of what you have said is giving great impetus to this referendum movement—unfortunately," interposed Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.).

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) called attention to the fact that the same forces which would exert influence on congress to declare war in a time of international crisis would be operative in any referendum.

The committee's debate was born of a suggestion from Stephen Raushenbush, former chief investigator for the senate murders committee, that congress set up a public commission to consult with the president on foreign policy.

Income Tax Men Are Busy Answering Questions

The proverbial cranberry merchant had nothing on the income tax experts Friday morning when it came to keeping busy.

H. C. Broadbush, deputy collector of internal revenue, and Ed Priest, staff member of the sub-district office in Abilene, worked fast and hard during the morning only to leave nearly a dozen persons waiting at the noon hour.

After about half an hour off for lunch, they were back at it, helping people figure if they owed Uncle Sam any income tax, and if so, how much. They were to continue their sessions in the district courtroom through 5:30 p. m. Saturday.

What do people most want to know about income tax returns? Broadbush summed it up in one word: "Everything."

NEW JUSTICE MAY BE NAMED SOON

WASHINGTON, Mar. 10 (AP)—Nomination of a new supreme court justice is generally expected early next week in view of a hint from Senator Norris (Ind-Ill.) that President Roosevelt has made his choice or would do so this week.

Norris talked with Mr. Roosevelt yesterday.

Suits Filed To Control Auto License Deals

Collectors Would Be Forced To Sell According To Law

AUSTIN, Mar. 10 (AP)—Attorney General Gerald C. Mann sought injunctions in district court here today restraining tax assessors and collectors in 32 counties from accepting anything except money for automobile and truck licenses.

Filed at request of the state highway department, the suit also sought to stop any sale of licenses for less than the amount specified by law, and to compel motor vehicle registration in counties of residence.

Named in the suit were: J. H. Jones, Bastrop; Vernon Greer, Burnett; Hugh H. Hamilton, Cooke; Maurice F. Young, Delta; H. L. Meyer, Fort Bend; Bobie Godwin, Franklin; C. F. Simpson, Freestone; Warren Smith, Frio; Collier Yeury, Grayson; R. H. Griffin, Hardin; Joe Riley, Harrison; T. R. Gholson, Lampasas; T. H. Poole, LaSalle; A. H. Karcher, Lee; Brad Robinson, Leon; W. W. Jett, Liberty; W. D. Bradford, Madison; R. C. Quinn, McMullen; J. E. Pace, Montgomery; F. V. Young, Newton; D. C. Hill, Panola; J. T. Ehrlich, Polk; Gus Orabon, Jr., Rains; Jack Pullen, Rockwell; Mrs. L. Low, Sabine; J. Paul Wright, San Augustine; J. C. Hogue, Jr., San Jacinto; A. B. Ellison, Stonewall; Hayne Young, Trinity; Edgar McAdams, Walker; Dick J. Eberly, Wilson; Ygnacio Sanchez, Zapata.

The court was asked to enjoin the defendants and their deputies from "accepting in lieu of annual fees for registration county warrants and county script, and sums of less money or anything than the amounts of lawful money of the United States as required by state statutes."

The highway department at various times has charged the state lost money because some counties sold license plates at discount and motor vehicles were not registered in counties of residence.

One asserted practice denounced by the department has been the purchase of county equipment, such as trucks and highway machinery with county script or warrants. The selling companies in return register vehicles in those counties, paying fees with the script.

MODIFYING RULES ON SHORT SELLING

WASHINGTON, Mar. 10 (AP)—The securities commission announced today modification of its rules on short selling on national securities exchanges to provide "greater freedom of market activity."

The announcement was seen in Washington circles as of great significance in the light of current reported efforts of government officials to promote harmony between government and business.

The modifications were put through on the recommendation of the New York Stock Exchange following conferences with its president, William McC. Martin, and other exchange officials.

JUDGE IS WOUNDED

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Mar. 10 (AP)—Limping slightly from a superficial wound in his left thigh, Circuit Judge Churchill Humphrey offered his aid to police today in their search for an elderly, well-dressed gunman who fled on foot after firing three times at the 53-year-old jurist last night.

The judge termed the apparent attempt on his life a "fool stunt" and told police he believed the assailant was a "disgruntled crank" against whom he had ruled in court recently.

NEW BUILDINGS FOR HOSPITAL

Plans Being Prepared; Equipment Is Arriving

Equipment, provided for in an emergency appropriation of $197,000, is beginning to arrive at the Big Spring State Hospital for installation.

Dr. George T. McMahan, superintendent, said Thursday evening that the materials, both for technical and routine purposes, would continue to be received in a steady stream until the furnishing was completed in time for the scheduled opening on May 1.

When the hospital does open, it will contain practically everything planned for it in the beginning except the dental equipment, ultraviolet light and artificial fever apparatus. These have been listed under the biennial budget request.

Plans are being drawn up for two new buildings—a laundry and a mattress factory—Dr. McMahan disclosed. The $33,700 laundry plans are well under way and architects are to submit detail information within a few days.

By the time the laundry building is started, the $7,000 mattress factory will be under construction, Dr. McMahan predicted.

Other construction items included under the emergency appropriation are a 100,000-gallon 75-foot water tower at a cost of $8,750, $1,000 worth of sidewalks, an equal amount for street lights, and $750 for hog sheds and hogs.

The $75,000 equipment figure provides for furniture, laboratory, operating room, and other technical equipment, and powerhouse materials. Salaries will require $54,981 until the start of the fiscal year.

Stock Show Opens Today

FORT WORTH, Mar. 10 (AP)—Hundreds of southwestern cattlemen and visitors from throughout the nation converged on Fort Worth today for the opening of the forty-third annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show.

The 10-day festival of fun and education will get under way at 4 p. m. with a colorful downtown parade featuring 15 brass bands, two drum and bugle corps and stars of the rodeo arena, resplendent in their gay costumes, and led on horseback by Paul Whiteman, the orchestra leader, and Amos Carter, Stinson, gates to the exposition grounds will swing open.

With approximately 78,000 to be distributed in cash prizes, rodeo contestants girded themselves for the swift action of the arena and herdsmen spent the entire day in combing out the last wrinkles in the curly locks in some of the best cattle in the United States.

One hundred and thirty-six saddle horses, hackney ponies and roadsters will show under the stable colors of 55 exhibitors during the show.

Highlight of the opening day is the initial performance at 8 p. m. of the world champion rodeo and horse show. Crowds tonight will see the famed Five Minutes to Midnight, still the king of bucking outlaw horses, with Earl Stober of Hugo, Okla., a new hand at bronco riding at the Fort Worth show, on hand.

FDR IS EXPECTED TO RENEW APPEAL FOR ADDITIONAL RELIEF

Indicates He Will Ask For 150 Million Again; Asserts Estimates Of Two Months Ago Yet Hold Good

WASHINGTON, Mar. 10 (AP)—Representative Woodrum (D-Va.) said today he thought President Roosevelt would renew either Monday or Tuesday his request for an additional $150,000,000 for relief.

Woodrum, Chairman Taylor (D-Colo.) and other democratic members of the deficiency appropriations sub-committee of the house conferred with Mr. Roosevelt today. A little earlier, the president had told his press conference his original relief estimates of early January still held good.

After his group had seen Mr. Roosevelt, Woodrum said: "I think the president will send up a regular, formal budget estimate for the $150,000,000."

At his press conference, the president said current estimates of relief needs were the same now as on January 3, when he decided to ask congress for $275,000,000 for relief up to July 1.

The chief executive would not state, however, whether this meant that in a special relief message to be sent to congress either Monday or Tuesday he would insist upon a supplemental WPA appropriation of $150,000,000.

About 850,000 needy persons are now on WPA waiting lists over the country, Mr. Roosevelt explained. He said that this was an increase of about 100,000 over the number on the waiting list January 3.

This increase, he said, was predictable and he had expected it because of economic conditions which ordinarily prevail in January and February.

As of January 3, the president continued, he had expected that about 300,000 persons would be cut off relief rolls by July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Since there are 3,850,000 either on the rolls or on waiting lists, he explained, the total as of July 1 should be around 3,550,000.

The president said he would work on his relief message over the weekend, adding that there were two factors in the relief situation which stood out as important.

One, he said, is the fact that there are only about five people out of every hundred on the relief rolls who should not be there. He called this a very small percentage in view of the great number of relief recipients and the changing conditions under which WPA is operated and added that it represented pretty good administration.

The other important point to keep in mind, he asserted, is that people who are put on the lists from which WPA workers are selected are put on by the local governments and not by federal representatives.

COMMUNISTS ARE ROUTED

MADRID, Mar. 10 (AP)—Mechanized army units summoned to the aid of General Jose Miaja's government today smashed their way with tanks into Plaza Manuel Becerra, strategic square on the east side of Madrid, crushing communist revolters in their path.

There was no indication immediately of the number of casualties but it was announced officially 14,000 rebellious soldiers had surrendered since yesterday.

General Miaja's supporters asserted they had uprooted "most" of the communist nests which had been holding out, including the hiding places of communist snipers who had been firing at the approaching loyal troops.

(The communique on the number who surrendered was one of the first indications from Madrid of the scope of the uprising which started Monday against the peace-seeking policy of the Miaja government.)

(Reuters, British news agency, reported a heavy battle was raging at Plaza Manuel Becerra with both sides using tanks and armored cars.)

(Miaja's troops, it said, were dispatched from the center of the city along Calle Alcalá in an attempt to join forces with the mobile army and trap communists holding out between the two republican forces.)

WHITE HOUSE STAFF IS FINGERPRINTED

WASHINGTON, Mar. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt announced today that he was suggesting that everybody in the White House be fingerprinted.

He was doing this, he said, in the hope that fingerprinting would spread to other departments of the government and be added with a smile—to the press.

Can Powell

ly referred to John Cox, who at that time warned him of a plot against his life for his political convictions, as "an old rebel but a gentleman in spite of it."

Two years later Can Powell bought his family to Big Spring and put into operation a pet philosophy of his—work and save. His advice to young men frequently was to lay by for "that rainy day for it will come."

For years he and Mrs. Powell successfully operated a popular hotel and boarding house. Until the weight of years and falling sight forced him to halt, Powell worked.

In 1918, when the United States was plunged into the World war and his sons were answering the call to arms, Powell admittedly "exaggerated" his age downward by some 25 years and enlisted as a member of the quartermaster corps at Camp Bowie in Fort Worth.

Always a familiar figure at functions for ex-servicemen, Mr. Powell was paid high tribute by the YFW in April of 1935 by an honorary membership in that organization. On May 17, 1938, Dr. W. J. Danforth, Fort Worth, then state department commander, honored Mr. Powell as the "oldest member" on the American Legion rolls. He was presented with his membership card at that time.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Will Robertson, Toyah, Mrs. Maude Smith, Kaufman, Mrs. J. O. Tamsitt, Big Spring, Mrs. Grace Caldwell, El Paso, and Mrs. Ora Wood, Fortales, N. M.; and two sons, Frank Powell and Charles Powell, Big Spring.

He also leaves four grand children, Mrs. Wayne Waters, Ahlens, Guy Tamsitt, Midland, Mrs. W. H. Duggan, Big Spring, and Billy White, Fortales, N. M.; and three great-grandchildren, Lillian Tamsitt, Midland, Jimmy Ray Tamsitt, Midland, and Billy Kent, Big Spring.

Fallbearers, from the ranks of the American Legion post, were to be Ira Thurman, Charles W. Deats, Harry Williamson, Harry Lester, Frank Pope and C. L. Rowa.

Arms Curb

gain support in Berlin for the idea of at least a "token cut" in armaments. Some newspapers predicted that events in the near future would show how much "wishful thinking" motivated present optimism.

The Daily Mail said "Mr. Chamberlain is planning to call a conference of big powers to consider calling a halt to the arms race in Europe, possibly before the end of the summer."

"Limitation may be aimed at aerial weapons in the first instance...if progress could be made in that direction the disarmament discussions might be widened to include world powers, including the United States."

British belief there was a chance for a successful disarmament venture apparently was based on this reasoning: That Premier Mussolini's expected claims upon France for colonial adjustment would be more moderate than Italian press agitation has indicated.

That the end of the Spanish civil war would remove the most dangerous immediate threat to European peace.

That Germany admits she is feeling a severe economic pinch because of her tremendous arm expenditures.

Free From Prison 17 Years, Fights Extradition

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 10 (AP)—An appeal to Gov. Culbert L. Olson to refuse his extradition to Texas to face charges of escaping from prison 17 years ago was planned today by Trent D. Bushwar, 40.

Bushwar, authorities charged, fled from Huntsville state prison in 1922, after serving two years of a seven-year term for burglary. Detective L. F. Ennen quoted Bushwar as saying he had been forced to accompany two life-teners in the break.

Known here as Ted Brown, Bushwar said he worked as a mechanic for the Oregon state highway patrol for seven years preceding 1934. He was arrested after applying for a position as a civilian clerk in the Los Angeles police department.

Baptist Revival To Continue Through Next Week

The revival meeting at the East Fourth Street Baptist church will continue throughout next week. Dr. McCall is delivering helpful Scriptural messages to large crowds at each service.

Speaking last night on the deceptiveness of sin, the evangelist said in part: "We are deceived about our own sinfulness because we forget many of our sins. God keeps a strict account, and all will be brought in to judgment."

"Sin destroys the sense of guilt. The farther man gets from God the less guilty he feels. If it were possible to forget God, then man could forget entirely his sinfulness."

"Man is sometimes deceived about the nature of the law by which he will be judged. God will not judge man by the laws of Texas, but by the law of God."

"False standards of morals and ethics sometimes deceive men. God will not judge man by human standards. One man's life is not measured by the life of another man, but by the life of Jesus Christ. By as much as a man is not as good as Jesus, by just that much is he a sinner."

the Menzies and operation will demand $44,893. With curbing in and caliche base down on a semi-circular drive from state highway No. 9 north by the hospital front, Dr. McMahan said that paving operations would be undertaken shortly. He was anxious to get started a program of putting grounds in shape. Presidential approval has been given a $5,000 WPA project for this purpose.

Appointment of personnel will not be completed or announced until near the opening time in May, Dr. McMahan announced.

United States treasury to back a new Brazilian central reserve bank and assist in stabilizing Brazil's currency. Brazil, on her part, agreed: 1. To resume payments on her dollar indebtedness, amounting to $357,000,000, beginning July 1. 2. To develop products such as rubber, quinine, vegetable oils and hardwoods, which the United States now buys from other parts of the world.

Materials such as rubber are strategic war goods, and the ability to get them in Brazil would strengthen United States defenses. The administration will lend Brazil technical experts for this purpose.

Two Killed, Three Injured In Crash

WAXAHACHIE, Mar. 10 (AP)—Two persons were killed and three others injured, two critically, today in a head-on collision on the highway about three miles south of here.

Dead were Edwin B. Doggett, prominent Dallas grain dealer, and his wife. Injured were F. B. Doggett of Hillsboro and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Crumpton of Milford. Physicians said the Crumptons might die.

Edwin Doggett was returning to Dallas from Austin with his wife. Coincidentally, the other machine was driven by F. B. Doggett, no relation.

The Crumptons were passengers in his car. They were returning to Hillsboro from here.

Cotton Proposal Draws Opposition

WASHINGTON, Mar. 10 (AP)—The plan of Senator Smith (D-SC) to ease the cotton problem by releasing loan cotton at 3 cents a pound encountered strong opposition today in the house agriculture committee.

Holdup Man Should Be Well Informed

DALLAS, Mar. 10 (AP)—If two holdup men made a careful study of the loot they obtained yesterday, they could pass a stiff test on current events.

James R. Payne, an Associated Press editor, carrying a bag which contained news dispatches, started from the day office in the Times-Herald building to the night office in the Dallas News building.

The bag resembled a bank messenger's satchel. Payne found two men in his car as he approached it. While one held a gun on him and forced him to drive to an outlying district, the other examined the contents of the bag. They found no wallet on Payne's person and finally consented to let him keep his wrist watch on his plea that it was a gift.

After he was permitted to get out of the car, the bag was thrown out.

This incident resulted in a six-minute delay in opening the night state wire of the Associated Press.

Czechs

Slovakia last night. At Malacka the demonstrations were said to have developed into attacks on Jewish shops. In other Slovak cities they were confined to street displays.

NOTE TO NAZIS BERLIN, Mar. 10 (AP)—DNE (German official news agency) reported today that Dr. Joseph Tiso, premier of autonomous Slovakia deposed by Czechoslovak President Emil Macha, had sent a note to the German government.

Its contents were not divulged. (Earlier reports from the Vienna radio that Dr. Tiso had communicated with Reichsfuehrer Hitler were denied by authoritative quarters in Prague, which said that the deposed premier, under police supervision, could not have sent such a message.)

A DNE dispatch from Bratislava said Slovak workers declared a general strike in protest against police action by the Prague central government, which they held to be in violation of Slovak autonomy.

Public buildings were under guard of the Czech military and gendarmeries as was the anti-comintern exposition which was scheduled to open today.

Marital law was said to have been proclaimed at Piatyan, where disorders occurred recently, and other points.

Hospital Notes

Mrs. J. W. Berryhill of Big Spring is in the hospital for surgery.

Mrs. E. L. Lockhart of Luther underwent a minor operation Friday morning.

MARKETS

Wall Street

NEW YORK, Mar. 10 (AP)—Renewed strength in utilities and specialties gave the stock market picture a brighter look today although many issues in other departments failed to make much of a showing.

The list tilted slightly upward at the start, then backed away on light selling. There was a comeback later and many shares went into new high ground for the year or longer. While minus signs were fairly well distributed at the close, gains of fractions to around two points were plentiful.

With market hopes centered on the government's business bolstering aims, and trade news generally to the liking of bullish forces, liquidation in most stock departments was timid from the start.

RETAIL TRADE SHOWS GAINS FOR WEEK

NEW YORK, Mar. 10 (AP)—In a week marked by generally rising business activity, retail trade enjoyed the broadest gains, Dun Bradstreet reported today in its weekly review.

"Wholesale buying was heavy in apparel and other seasonal lines but revealed no significant change in retailers' cautious merchandising policies," asserted the report.

"Mild weather helped retailers to extend their gains of the previous week. Stores reported the improvement in sales was spread through all departments, but gained most momentum in wearing apparel and other seasonal items."

ELIMINATING THE LOAN SHARK

It has gotten to be a pretty easy thing to legislate this and legislate that, but it is to be hoped that one more statute goes on the books before the Texas lawmakers adjourn.

That is an adequate law to curb loan shark evils, which, it is being pointed out in many places, are growing very menacing in Texas.

Booth Mooney, writing in the Texas Weekly, points out that loan sharks flourish in our state because of two factors. In the first place, there is a constant demand for unsecured small loans, since a large percentage of the people have moderate incomes and no established credit, making it necessary for them to borrow money with which to meet those emergencies which arise occasionally in even the best regulated lives.

And, in the second place, reputable lending agencies cannot at present make these unsecured small loans in Texas, because such loans cannot be made on the basis of a flat interest rate of 10 per cent a year.

The first of these conditions cannot be changed by law. But the second can.

Maximum interest that may be charged in Texas is set by the constitution at 10 per cent. There is no arguing with this as a fair rate of return on money, and a statute can be passed that will not conflict with the constitution, but will give the borrower a fair break.

A recent news item reported on an investigation by a representative of the Dallas Better Business Bureau. This showed that on 1,077 certain loans, $59,292 had been borrowed, and $56,118 in interest paid. The average loan, it was shown, was $23.52, with the average interest running $20.31. The interest rate in these cases ranged from 120 per cent to 1131.94 per cent.

Victimizing is a mild word to apply to such operations.

Mooney goes on to explain that one bill before the legislature sets the maximum interest rate at 10 per cent per annum, computed on the unpaid portion of the loan; provides that interest shall not be compounded, and provides that charges to be made for expenses and services must be agreed upon in writing, this agreement to be made at the time the loan is made.

Lenders would have to have a license, and each license would be bonded. The banking commissioner could revoke any license if the licensee failed to pay his fee, fails to maintain his bond, or violates any provision of the law.

There are other provisions, sensible ones, it seems to us, in the protection of that vast army of "little people" who must have financial help at times, and should not be required to pay legitimate lending agencies, operating on a fair basis, certainly are not open to attack, and no doubt would welcome a law to hit the "sharks." The sharks will fight the statute, to be sure, but the business of extending credit to personal emergencies of moderate income is an essential business, as Mooney points out, and should be taken away from the unregulated racketeers.

The Pope Of The Power Age

World Affairs Provide Pius XII With Many Problems, But He Knows His Way Around

(Last in a Series) BY MORGAN M. BEATTY AP Feature Service Writer

Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli is alert to the challenge of the power age, a modern pope in every sense, except in his personal life.

In private, he leads an almost Spartan life.

But he's long been sold on the idea of testing and using for the church the great scientific advances of the times. Back in the '20's while assigned as the papal diplomat in Berlin, the then nuncio suddenly decided to use the airplane placed at his disposal by the German government.

Like Speedy Travel

And it wasn't curiosity that drew him to wings, but that old determination of his youth to know and understand the things around him. Thus it was he boarded his plane one day as calmly as he would have taken a carriage, deaf to all the pleas of his subordinates.

He attended a religious meeting far from Berlin, then flew back to the capital, smiling and impressed.

"But why must you risk your life?" interposed one of his closer associates.

The nuncio lifted his long hands outward from the elbow, and with a graceful shrug and smile, replied:

"But, you know, they save time!"

And nobody could find an answer setting enough to keep him out of the sky every time the opportunity offered itself. He's still an enthusiastic plane rider.

His friends say he will be a traveling pope; that even another visit to the U. S. is not an impossibility. Gets Birdseye View of U. S.

When he visited the United States nearly three years ago, he flew 8,000 miles by plane—an air tour to the Pacific and back in six days—merely to get everything he wanted to see into a crowded schedule. Likewise, high speed automobile dashes to meet appointments fazed him not a jot.

On one such trip from Baltimore to Washington, the cardinal's chauffeur was genuinely impressed.

"Why, I never had anybody farther from a back seat driver than his eminence," he related. "He never says a word when I get up to 90."

His American trip included a visit with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park. He received honorary degrees at Notre Dame, Georgetown and Fordham. He talked to the press about everything except Father Coughlin, Detroit priest whose radio attacks upon Roosevelt, then a candidate for re-election, had drawn much comment.

Pacelli did not deny he was investigating, merely insisted he was on "vacation."

Faces The Power Age

The first threads of the power age were made into Vatican City under Pius XI, who Cardinal Pacelli succeeded, but it was the cardinal, himself, as secretary of state who arranged all the innovations. Automobiles and telephones first made their appearance within the walls of the sacred city, then the radio. Now the Vatican radio station is no longer a curiosity. It makes regular broadcasts.

It is a power age of government, too, he faced as secretary of state and continues to face as Pope. Hitler and the rise of the Nazis; Mus-solini's conquests; anti-Semitic propaganda; wars in Spain and China; attacks on the church in Russia, Germany, Austria and Mexico have given him tremendous problems.

Nazis charged once that he had commanded German bishops to challenge the validity of Nazi encephalic ideas.

Pacelli did not reply, but a short time later in France he warned that the church would never make peace with "enemies possessed by superstition of race or blood."

In The Battle

Der Angriff, Nazi newspaper, said he was one of the least acceptable candidates for pope.

Pius XII is expected to carry on the policies of Pius XI. That will mean a continued fight against anti-religious demonstrations in Germany and elsewhere, and the Vatican will continue to take part in today's battle of clashing ideals.

That battle finds every major nation piling up armaments at terrific speed. If war comes the Vatican will be caught in the swirl of it, and Pius, as spiritual head of Catholics fighting on opposing sides, will meet his greatest problem.

But he hopes to prevent any such outbreak, and friends say his personal contacts with the power age fit him to meet almost any situation.

Many Contacts

As papal secretary, Cardinal Pacelli supervised the famous archives of the Vatican. They consist of reports of every imaginable kind, and he developed an amazing aptitude to know what was going on all over the world through these reports. He was as well informed about social, economic and religious conditions as any other man in the world.

A Palnastaking Letter Writer

His personal correspondence with churchmen of all ranks in all parts of the world was prodigious, intimate, and always palnastakingly handled, letter for letter signed in his copy-book style handwriting.

The letters seemingly are as perfect as copy-book printing today. The new pope is an impressive preacher. His voice is a bit on the thin side, but soft withal, and persuasive. He seldom speaks without a plea for world peace.

His name is pronounced "Pachelly."

When he was in Washington three years ago, he demonstrated a lighter side seldom disclosed. The Georgetown university students gave him their favorite football yell, "Hoya, Hoya, Saxa; Hoya, Hoya, Georgetown!" supplanting "Georgetown" with "Emmanence."

Startled by the meaningless words of the athletic field the cardinal turned to his old friend, Father Edmund Walsh, and asked the meaning of the demonstration.

"Why, Your Eminence," explained Father Walsh, "that's the American student's way of expressing warm approval and welcome."

"Oh," shot back the smiling cardinal not to be outdone, "I must give them a holiday," whereupon all classes were called off for the following day.

Cardinal Pacelli drew a severe line between his official and his public life, a line which may not be easily continued in his new office.

His official and private quarters in the Vatican as papal secretary were as different as day from night. A privileged visitor stepped from the high-ceilinged, red-tape-tried office, a veritable treasure house of rich old pieces, into private rooms that looked like hovels in contrast.

The private quarters were furnished in old, well used mid-Victorian furniture, neither good nor bad. An old overstuffed sofa sat in one corner, with fairly appropriate pieces of the '90's scattered around. A little to one side was an old-fashioned desk with a glass top, beneath which were a bunch of artificial flowers.

And — strange of all for a power age pope—an old oak cellar was always kept on the desk full of lead. Intimates said the cardinal used it to blot every line he penned—then, in the old manner, slumped the lead aside on the floor.

NO IDEAS OF MARCH?

For months past students of the European situation have been looking forward apprehensively to the month of March in the fear that during the current some new move would be undertaken by the Axis powers that would again threaten the peace of Europe, as it was seriously threatened last fall.

It would be rash to venture any prophecy for this month or for the months to come, but I think there is no question that fear has somewhat abated, and that in Britain, France and here there is far more confidence and optimism than there was in mid-winter.

Now, it is worth while to analyze the reasons for this, for those reasons may be a guide to our future conduct.

Did this relaxation of tension occur because the democratic powers were more conciliatory or because they stiffened, in this more hopeful outlook, this lessening fear of war, or a coup d'etat, or another threat of war under which huge concessions would have to be made to preserve peace, due to overtures to fascism, or in it due to a sterner brow, less menacing words, and an actual increase in democratic strength?

The answer to that question, it seems to me, the proper comment on our own foreign policy. And I do not think it can be denied that the democratic world has won a breathing space, not by conciliation but by resistance.

In the stiffening of the front against aggrandizement the United States has played an important role. The sudden realization of the dictorships that the United States cannot positively be ruled out as a factor has given the potential aggressors pause.

For this President Roosevelt deserves, in my belief, the gratitude of the democratic world, and the American people, whose passionate will to peace cannot be doubted, have backed him up with admiration and common sense.

For it is extremely unlikely that any power would risk action that might lead to war if there was an even chance that the United States would be involved against it. The economic and industrial resources of this country are so enormous that they would be bound to cast the decisive die in a contest in arms.

The second element in the stiffening of the democracies has been the unequivocal declaration of solidarity between Britain and France and the very firm but polite words addressed to the dictatorships by the prime ministers and foreign ministers of both countries.

In this respect the words of Lord Halifax a week ago are quite different from British utterances prior to the events of last September:

"I should have thought that everybody everywhere must now realize that there is no party and no statesman in this country that would ever contemplate an aggressive war... But it is also dangerous that some people in other countries occasionally fall into the opposite error and are tempted to interpret our will to peace as proof of our weakness and cowardice... The material and moral resources of this country are enormous and the spirit of our people is in no way weakened."

This statement followed a remarkable communication from Hitler, who, having in season and out bragged of possessing the largest and most powerful fighting force in Europe, expressed "pained surprise" at the state of British rearmament.

Now this rearmament is really what is worrying the Axis powers. A few months ago, before Munich, they were taunting the democracies with being weak and decadent and incapable of efficient organization for either peace or war.

But suddenly they are discovering and free peoples make up their minds to do something through united effort and collaboration amongst themselves they can do it quite as speedily and efficiently as the totalitarian states.

Next year the output of British airplanes will, I am informed, be three and one-half times what it was a year ago, and by July, if the present tempo is not relaxed, it will be as great as the current output of the Germans. Moreover, the British and French planes are not exhausted by years of being mobilized and perpetually speeded up.

And these peoples know perfectly well, despite the propaganda of the dictatorships, that not one of them is arming for aggression, but only in defense of their lands and their institutions.

And again, in this rearmament the United States has played a major role. Our sales of airplanes to Britain and France have frightened the potential aggressors, and actually the planes sold to France will have enabled her to double her force in 1939. It will still be inferior to Italy and Germany.

In contrast with the stiffening of the democratic action and morale, the economic condition and the popular morale in both Italy and Germany have worsened. It cannot be too strongly emphasized that the prestige of Hitler and

The Herald's Serial Story

Old Home Week Murder

By Phoebe Atwood Taylor

Chapter Six DOUBLE FIREWORKS

Assey couldn't find Zeb, and the car keys were in the boy's coat pocket. And Weston was clearly hunting for him. Assey grinned, and started back to town on foot. When they investigated Assey onto a radio program, it would be because he wanted it.

Deliberately he chose the network of back roads, preferring to get lost than to be picked up by Weston. It was damp there in the lowlands, and he pulled the collar of his shooting jacket up around his neck.

There was a name for this part of town, he thought as he strolled along. Something Hollow. It took him minutes to recall the name. Hell Hollow, that was it. Hell Hollow. There were a lot of stories about it, too, and about the curling mists that rose at night from the swamps and tiny pools.

He tried to remember the legends he'd heard about it years ago in his childhood. It was a place youngsters were threatened with. "Be good, or the bogey man from Hell Hollow'll get you." There was something about a witch, too. The early settlers had ducked her in one of the muddy ponds and packed her off to Boston. Oh, there were lots of things, but he couldn't sort them out. He'd ask Sara about it the next day.

He came suddenly onto a tarred road. He looked ahead, then jumped back and put a hand on his gun. Ahead of him, under the dim street light, were three weird figures, two women and a man. Two women in bonnets and hoopskirts, and a man in a tall beaver hat and a tall coat. The mist blew around them—they hadn't faces, or feet.

Assey blinked, and then sniggered. Dummies, of course. Dummy figures. Yes, he could see the sign beside them. "Antiques." There was another sign on the street: light. "Mrs. Larkin Randall. Antiques."

Assey laughed again. So Mrs. Larkin Randall, the antique, had changed the name of Hell Hollow to Pleasant Valley! No wonder he hadn't recognized the location when Jane Warren spoke of it. Pleasant Valley, in this god-forsaken hollow full of swamps, and dampness, and that chilly curling mist!

He walked on toward town, past the dummy figures and the squatly house beyond. That house, he recalled, had been a favorite rendezvous of the gay blades of Wellfleet, back in his boyhood.

Fireworks began to splutter in the town, and colored balloon lights floated out of the jets of sparks, and then dissolved one by one.

As he stood there wondering how General Philbrick expected to compete with this lavish display on nights to come, a car whizzed by him, then braked and backed up. "Where'd you go?" Zeb demanded. "I've hunted high and low and in between for half an hour. How'd you get here?"

"Oh, I been roamin' around."

Mussolini in their own countries was both strengthened and shaken by the events of last September. In particular, Hitler's prestige with the German people rests on the fact that he has gotten what he wanted so far without war.

But Hitler discovered after his victories last September that he but Chamberlain had become the popular idol in Germany. For the German people hate war as much as any other people, and, despite the propaganda of a controlled press and radio, they realize quite fully that they were spared a war not by grace of Hitler or Mussolini but by grace of the democratic powers.

Also the victory has not been as sweet as was hoped. The acquisition of Austria and the Sudetenland has become an enormous burden on German economy. Conquest has meant new taxes, and the taxes already are terrific. And, again despite the propaganda, the German people do not believe that they are being threatened by the democratic powers. They are sullen toward their government, there is more outspoken criticism than there has been in all the years of the Hitler regime, because the people feel that the democracies, driven too far, will take a stand against them.

Also, in the countries of the Danubian basin there is a notable stiffening in Hungary, Poland, and Yugoslavia.

The peace, therefore, that we at present enjoy, is not due to agreement but to the resistance of the Danubian basin. One needs only to read the German and Italian press to be aware of this.

The beligerent confident tone of the Axis powers changed abruptly in January, immediately following President Roosevelt's address to congress. That the spring may go by without another world-shaking incident is not a triumph for the Chamberlain-Bonnet policy; it is a triumph for the Roosevelt policy. And the greatest thing that we have to fear is that, comforted by the relaxation of tension, the democratic powers will lapse from the stand which has brought about the most fortunate atmosphere.

Mr. Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state under President Hoover, former secretary of war, a political opponent of President Roosevelt and a sharp critic of his domestic policy, has done the country a service by his lucid, reasonable and, to me, unanswerable analysis of the world situation and the support he has given the president in "The New York Times" on Tuesday.

Not only reason but the empirical facts support the president and Mr. Stimson.

Assey said, "delvin' into the past, like. Your girl friend's fancy figure was like to scow me head to death. I never saw anything so creepy, with the mist crawlin' around 'em. If I was a drinkin' man, I'd have signed the pledge an' gone on the wagon by now."

"A lot did," Zeb observed, "the first week those figures were put up. It's a scummy place anyway. When I was a kid, and we spent summers out at the old beach house, I used to stick my head under the blankets and shiver till we got to the clearing. We never had a horse that could go fast enough past that place to suit me. Boy, look at the General, spreading himself! Aren't they loud? Look, Assey, I want an excuse to call on Jane. Drive back with me?"

"No," Assey said. "Zeb, if this's just the initial blow-out, what's Philbrick plannin' to work up to, a panoramic view of the world war, with special reference to the bombin' of Paris?"

"Wee Mite Metallic!"

"It's the old come-hither, I guess," Zeb said. "Wow, see that! Yes, I gathered from the gossip at the store that he was going to put on the blouse of a show to night. By tomorrow, the whole Cap'll have heard, and come to see more. Assey, come on and come calling with me, there's the old sport!"

"No," Assey said, "why should I? Besides, I want to watch these things. Never had anything like 'em in my day. The most I—"

"Come on," Zeb perished. "Haven't you any respect for young love? I know Jane's home all alone, because I saw Eloise Randall up by the ferris wheel. Mary Randall goes to bed at sunset, practically, and either Jane or Eloise has to stay there with her. What's the matter, didn't you like Jane?"

"She's pleasant," Assey said. "Nice lookin'. Wee mite metallic, maybe—"

"Why shouldn't she be a little soiled?" Zeb demanded defensively. "Her father was one of the brokers who jumped out of window in '29, and her mother went off and married a fat Argentine, or some sort of Spig, so as to keep up her standard of living. But Jane and the Spig—oh, well, you've seen it in the movies. Anyway, she's a nice girl. I wish she'd pass and reflect on what a fine catch I am. There's where you could come in, Assey. The old build-up. I need a better build-up. If I bring the great detective along, she'll—boy that's an explosion! Bounded like a gun. It's spelling something—listen to that crash. I bet it's spelling out the words of 'Billingsgate Beautiful.'"

"Get along," Assey said, climbing into the roadster. "Hustle. Turn around an' get going, will you?"

"What? Oh, back to Jane's? Changed your mind, have you? Softened by the glow of Phil—"

"Turn around, an' hustle!"

"What's your hurry?" Zeb backed the car around. "What's the matter with you? First you say no, no calling, not on your life, not by the well known jugful. Next minute you're harrying me to get there in a hurry. Perverse, huh? A new slant on the Mayo character—"

"Will you," Assey thundered, "hurry?"

"But—"

"Stop your chatter, and get there!"

"Oh, all right."

There were things in Assey's tone which compelled Zeb to obey without further filippary.

He glanced curiously at Assey as he shifted. Odd sort, he decided. Chipper one moment, grim the next. Why, the old boy seemed almost afraid of something!

He shrugged, and pressed his foot down on the accelerator.

It had not occurred to Zeb, as it had to Assey, that the blasting sound of the last piece of fireworks had preceded the flash of lights by a good ten seconds. It was a gun, like a gun because it was a gun, behind them somewhere in Hell Hollow. And in that interval between the gun shot and the real sound of the fireworks explosion, Assey's keen ear had caught something that sounded like the cry of a loon.

"Man In The Iron Mask!" Jane Warren opened the door to Assey's lumpy knock, but he noticed that she didn't slip off the guard chain until she saw who was outside on the step.

"Mr. Mayo!" she said. "Why, come in. Look, I'd no idea this afternoon that you were the Mayo, the Great Assey! Sara didn't tell me. But Mary said it must be. She was quite excited. She wanted to see you about something, and if she hadn't been so dead tired, she'd have driven over to Sara's. Go into the living room and sit down—oh, turn that radio off, will you, Zeb? The static is simply terrific. I've been trying to get a London concert on the short wave. I'll see if Mary won't get up. It's time for her hot milk, anyway, and she might as well have it in here—"

"Tender way to greet you? Why this Man in the Iron Mask attitude? You wanted to come here, didn't you? You virtually forced me—oh, sit down and stop being grim and tight-lipped! You make me—Jane! Jane—"

She wavered on the threshold, clinging to the door knob for support. Her face was ghastly under its tan.

"Look after her," Assey said. "She's goin' to faint. Grab her while I see what—"

"What do I do?" Zeb asked helplessly.

"Grab her 'fore she topples, chump! Put her on the couch."

He hurried into the lighted bedroom on the other side of the front hall, stopped short, and swallowed.

For ten minutes he stood there. Then, locking the door behind him, he returned to Zeb and Jane.

"She's dead," Zeb said. "She—Assey, she won't come to!"

From under the girl's shoulders Assey removed three sofa pillows, and thrust them under her knees. Then he swung her head over the side of the couch.

"What're you doing?" Zeb said.

"Her head—"

"The idea," Assey informed him, "is for the blood to run this way. Find some whiskey, or spirits of ammonia—find somethin', can't you? Haven't you ever seen any one faint before? What you modern boys do miss. Prob'ly wouldn't know even how to cut a stay string—"

"Assey what's happened? What's the matter with Mary Randall? I'm going to see—"

"No, you're not!" Assey grabbed him. "Someone," he said firmly, "that's been killed by deer blood ain't a nice sight to think of, let alone see. If you cut this way over a faint, you'd probably faint, too."

"Someone's shot Mary? How? Who?"

Well qualified is the West Texas-New Mexico baseball league to experience its greatest season.

If Lamesa and Pampa register, and both cities are expected to do that very thing within the near future, the field represents a combined population of 151,000 which more than doubles that of a year ago, far outdistances that represented two years ago when the circuit got its start.

Following is the estimated population of each city which is to maintain a franchise in the loop:

- Amarillo—45,000
- Abilene—30,000
- Lubbock—25,000
- Big Spring—17,000
- Clovis—13,000
- Pampa—12,000
- Midland—10,000
- Lamesa—9,000

In 1938 Hobbs, a city of 10,000; and Wink, which boasts approximately 9,000; combined with Midland, Big Spring, Lubbock and Clovis while two years ago Monahan, which couldn't have had more than 6,000 people at the time; Roswell, which may have gone to 15,000; Odessa, boasting 10,000; and Midland, Wink and Hobbs banded for an aggregate of about 60,000 people.

This field is a favorite son of the national association which has dedicated time and money during the past two years in cultivating it.

Many oftentimes wonder how the league in its initial year (1937) managed to finish out the season. Some of the parks didn't even have lights for night play.

In midseason, Midland and Odessa, the two leading clubs, surrendered their franchises, forcing the other four cities to carry on. Last year the sailing was much smoother although Big Spring and Clovis along with Hobbs and Wink had plenty of trouble in sticking at one time or another.

Far more stable will be the circuit from now on. Probably the plan of the association is to eventually build a league consisting of San Angelo, Sweetwater, and possibly Wichita Falls, along with Big Spring, Lubbock, Midland, Abilene and Amarillo. That calls for the elimination of Clovis, the only New Mexico city boasting a franchise in the circuit at the present time. Possibly the Clovis club will be moved after the end of the current season.

The Big Spring club will have to do less traveling than any other outfit in the circuit except Lamesa if Harry Fapline's schedule is adopted.

The Lamesas will move some 4,500 miles during the campaign with Big Spring traveling about 300 more. Pampa's representatives total mileage will be about 4,500, according to the present plans.

The 140-game schedule will call for eight double headers for each club, four at home and four on the road.

The Amarillo, Midland, Lamesa and Pampa entries are as yet unnamed. Besides Big Spring's Barons there are the Abilene Apaches, Lubbock's Hubbers and the Clovis Pioneers. The Midlandites last year were known as the Cardinals.

H. Stroble, a Sweetwater resident and formerly of Big Spring, a recent visitor here, informs that Sammy Baugh, the Washington Redskins footballer now in the cattle business in Sweetwater, does not intend to play baseball for Sacramento in the Coast league the coming season, says Sammy's arm, hurt in last fall's campaign, is still bothering him.

SPORTS SPARKS—Gernand Says Livingston May Repeat

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
DALLAS, Mar. 10 (AP)—Cecil Coombs, business manager of the Fort Worth Panthers of the Texas league, was stopped by a girl high school reporter in Orange, where the Cats are training. When the interview concerning the club's stay in Orange was about to die a natural death, she asked: "Just one more question, Mr. Coombs, do they play hard ball or soft ball?"... Helen Hicks Harb, famous woman links professional, may move to Texas from Little Rock... North Texas Teachers College (home of the Rideouts) has won the title run at Laredo's Border Olympics six straight times. Hey, what about the anti-monopoly law?

Higher education: Bull Rankin and Durwood Herring, Texas Tech football players, were told by a grinning negro shine boy he could double their money for them in a crap game. They pooled their money, handed him their last $4.80 and hid him to go to it. He did. They're still waiting.
Instant Response
DALLAS, Mar. 10 (AP)—When All-American Davey O'Brien appeared as coach at the Texas Country Day school here yesterday, the turnout was almost unanimous. Sixty-one of the school's 65 pupils started spring training. The other four had physical handicaps.

KAHN OPPOSES TEACHERS IN FINAL ROUND

DALLAS, Mar. 10 (AP)—Sam Houston State Teachers of Houston and the E. M. Kahn quintet of Dallas will clash tonight for the championship of the Southwestern A.A.U. tournament.

The winner will represent this section in the national tourney which opens in Denver Sunday. American Liberty Pipeliners of Kilgore and the Dr. Pepper team of Dallas will play for third and fourth places in the regional tournament.

The Kahn five, composed of Southern Methodist university cagers, reached the finals by downing the American Liberty Pipeliners, 46-31. The Sam Houston Teachers, who tied with Stephen F. Austin for third place in the Lone Star conference, made a bid for final honors in the exhibition tournament by defeating the Dallas Dr. Pepper Bottlers, City Major league champions, 55-20.

In the finals of the consolation, the Denton Athletic club, made up of players from North Texas State Teachers college, won top honors by downing the Midwest Drug five of Hobbs, N. M., 41-30.

CHINOK THORNTON LEE DROPS TO SIDELINES
PASADENA, Calif.—The Chicago White Sox' squad of limpers numbered three today. Pitcher Thornton Lee injured his right ankle covering first on a bunt. His companions are pitcher Johnny Whitehead, whose right knee was hit by a batted ball, and second baseman Jackie Hayes who hasn't shown much improvement following a knee operation.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS—

Major League Outfits Preparing For First Games Of 'Grape Fruit'

By the Associated Press
CLEARWATER, Fla.—Manager Leo Durocher, talking about Van Lingle Mungo, the Brooklyn Dodgers' problem pitcher, said, "he really looks great. He looks like the old Mungo." Sounds kind of familiar, doesn't it?

NO HAL CHASE IS TOMMY HENRICH
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Tom Henrich, the New York Yankees' outfielder, is one of the prospects for Lou Gehrig's first base job. Joe McCarthy played him at the initial sack in the first intra-squad game but Tom failed to remind the on-lookers of Hal Chase.

SALVO DUE TO GET ASSIGNMENT SOON
BATON ROUGE, La.—Bill Terry is high on Manuel Salvo, the New York Giants' rookie rightfielder. Salvo is sure to be one of the starting pitchers in the first exhibition series with the Athletics.

PRONOUNCES ARM O.K.
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Paul Dean, one of the many question marks on the St. Louis Cardinals' pitching staff, said today his arm feels fine after a week of light work.

TEXAN TO ASSUME EARL AVERILL'S GARDEN SPOT
NEW ORLEANS—Manager Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland Indians said today he would give Roy Weatherly speedy Texan, first chance at the center field job. Earl Averill, who played there last season, is still a holdout.

GUNNING FOR A PENNANT

This isn't exactly ortho, anyway you look at it. First, Thompson "Doc" Prothro, new boss of the Philadelphia Phillies, is out for a pennant, not a murder. Second, he's a dentist, and probably doesn't approve, professionally, of picking teeth with a gat. Third, he's in Texas, wearing a ten-gallon hat and using an automatic. But then, he's managing the Phillies, in spring training at New Braunfels.

PROTHRO ANNOUNCES PHILS' LINEUP FOR GREAT GAME

NEW BRAUNFELS—The Phillies step off today into a series of 13 exhibition games with the St. Louis Browns providing the first opposition. Doc Prothro expected to start this lineup: Young, 2b; Jordan, 1b; Pitek, cf; Scott, rf; Klein, rf; May, 3b; Feinberg, ss; Atwood, c; Lomas, p; Burkhardt, p; Gross, p.

HARRIS ANXIOUS FOR FIRST TILT WITH DETROIT
ORLANDO, Fla.—Manager Bucky Harris of the Washington Senators is longing for the start of the exhibition game schedule. "We have a lot of raw pitching talent," he said. "I want to see what happens to it when it has to face those Detroit hitters next Saturday."

OFF THE WAGON
SARASOTA, Fla.—There wasn't a drink of water to be had on the Boston Red Sox bench today. "What's the sense of sweating off two pounds or so in a hot workout and then putting it back on by drinking water every five minutes?" asked Manager Joe Cronin.

KAHLE'S THROWING ARM IS COMING TO LIFE
BRADENTON, Fla.—Third Baseman Bob Kahle's throwing arm suddenly has come to life. The Boston Beer' rookie, acquired from Indianapolis a year ago, was ailing last season. Plenty of rest seems to have turned the trick and he is throwing better than at any time since joining the club.

MILLER GROVE, ALLISON IN EARLY WINS

GREENVILLE, Miss., 10 (AP)—Girls basketball teams from Allison and Miller Grove, winner and runner-up, respectively, last year, brushed aside opposition in second round play night in the state A.A.U. tournament.

Allison defeated Ebenezer 25-9 and Miller Grove eliminated Haddolph 19-8.

Other strong contenders are Berger, which won over White Rock, 33-17; Wayside, victor over Wolfe City, 21-12; Celeste, victorious over Princeton, 20-14; and Quinlan, winner over Halmorhea, 45-18.

The feature of tonight's program is an east-west game—Covington of West Texas against Ebenezer of East Texas.

Other pairings in the championship bracket include Allison vs. Happy; Quinlan vs. Wayside; Celeste vs. Highland; Berger vs. Miller Grove.

In the consolation, Greenville is paired with Elysian Fields; Ficton with Caddo Mills, and Lone Oak with Point.

McKECHNIE SAYS NOT TO WORRY OVER VANDER MEER
TAMPA, Fla.—Manager Bill McKechnie isn't worried over Johnny Vander Meer's wildness just yet. After the Cincinnati Reds' young star walked five and went to three and two on five others in an intra-squad game, McKechnie remarked it took the double no-hit hurler of last season a long time to warm up and that he would have better control this year than last.

long as he smelled out anything with hide or hair or feathers.

Tex Carleton, the Fort Worth native who was in baseball 14 years, may quit the game. The Chicago Cubs sold him this winter to Milwaukee of the American Association, but the big pitcher is tired of baseball. He has saved his potatoes and may "just work around the yard and fish."

Higher education: Bull Rankin and Durwood Herring, Texas Tech football players, were told by a grinning negro shine boy he could double their money for them in a crap game. They pooled their money, handed him their last $4.80 and hid him to go to it. He did. They're still waiting.

ACT BINDS ORAL PACT EFFECTED LAST WEEK

R. L. Cook, president of the Big Spring WT-NM baseball league club, received notice from the office of Milton E. Price, loop president, Thursday afternoon to the effect that the local forfeit fee of $550 had been posted by Tony Rego, the Tulsa who came to an oral agreement to take over the management of the local club with Big Spring directors last week, an act which infers that Rego will definitely assume the post. Delay in the arrival of the fee had hampered the fund campaign of the local organization, caused Cook to seek other possible connections. Rego, in communicating with

Cook here, said that he would come to Big Spring next week to begin preparations for the 1939 season.

Local officers are hopeful that the $2,500 objective in the fund drive will have been realized by the time Rego arrives. Cook said he hoped to begin work on the West Fifth and San Antonio street plant before the Tulsa assumes his duties. Present plans call for the addition of bleacher seats, improving the playing field and reconstructing the grand stand.

Net Court To Be Reserved For Hi Team

One of the courts at the Mury park will be reserved for $ p. m. on each afternoon for the duration of the season for the high school tennis squad, it has been announced.

In training for the past two weeks the local netters will engage in several practice tilts with neighboring schools before the district tournament in Sweetwater in early April. Next match will send the squad against Midland.

It is apparent at the present that Big Spring will be represented in boys' singles, boys' doubles and girls' doubles in the district meet.

Square Off For GG Semifinals

Winners To Meet Titlists Of New York March 29

CHICAGO, Mar. 10 (AP)—Thirty-two youths aim at the pinnacle of their Golden Gloves hopes at the stadium tonight.

Representing 14 cities, the 32 amateur battlers are the survivors of an original field of 21,000 which started competition in 26 states months ago. Tonight the 32 meet first in 16 semifinal bouts. The 16 winners then will scrap in the final championship and the right to represent Chicago in a match March 29 against a New York aggregation.

Six Teams In Metropolitan Cage Meet

NEW YORK, Mar. 10 (AP)—With the field of six teams selected, preparations for the second annual invitation basketball tournament of the metropolitan basketball writers started earnest today. By next Wednesday when the opening round of two games will be played, all the window-dressing associated with such tournaments will be in order. The writers filled the field yesterday when they extended bids to the New Mexico A. and M., team of College Station, N. M., and Bradley Tech of Peoria, Ill.

The first round of the tournament matches Rosnoke against St. John's and New Mexico against L.I.U.

BAER, CROWELL MIX
HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Mar. 10 (AP)—Buddy Baer of the boxing Baer family and Chuck Crowell, gangling Los Angeles heavyweight, meet at Hollywood stadium tonight in a ten-round battle.

NAAU Meeting Opens Sunday

DENVER, Mar. 10 (AP)—Amateur basketball teams from the eastern seaboard to the Pacific coast began arriving in Denver today for the National A.A.U. basketball tournament opening Sunday. Tournament officials reported 55 teams—one more than the record field entering the 1936 and 1938 meets—had filed their entries.

Budge And Perry Must Give Fans A Show Tonight

Advance Ticket Sale Is Only $5.00

NEW YORK, Mar. 10 (AP)—Egged on by his own stubborn pride—and the crinkle of crisp greenbacks—Frederick John Perry will go out on the Madison Square Garden court tonight to try to beat down the great Don Budge and rewin his old position as the No. 1 tennis player of the world.

The match, first of a nationwide tour, is more than a contest between two of the best players in the world. It is a test match for professional tennis. Unless they produce a fast, hard fought match tonight the tour is doomed to slim crowds and siltier gates.

Budge took on Ely Vines, acknowledged boss of the pro game, in his first tour and beat him 22 times out of 39 matches, including an opener at the Garden that had all the zip of the finals of the married men's singles at Sunburn-By-The-Sea. As the tour progressed there were mutterings and in some cases loud hollers that Vines seemed a bit bored by the whole procedure.

So it is up to Perry and Budge tonight. The advance sale is just west of $5,000, compared with the $47,000 advance before Budge licked Vines. They had better be good.

HIGGINS MAJOR IMPROVEMENT IN INFIELD

By GAYLE TALBOT
LAKELAND, Fla., Mar. 10 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers hottest club in baseball for the last several weeks of the 1938 race, hope to go right on from there in the coming campaign and give the Yankees a real argument all the way.

Manager Del Baker almost certainly has the most improved team in either league, at least on paper, and with a fair share of the breaks his club might finish a strong second to the Yanks. That is about as high praise as it's safe to give an American league entry these days.

Except for the batting weakness of their outfield, which is compensated for by the slugging Hank Greenberg, Rudy York and Charlie Geringer of the inner works, the Tigers are a powerful outfit in every respect. Their glaring weakness at third base last season was corrected by the deal that brought them Frank Higgins from the Boston Red Sox.

"It's a good club," admitted Baker. "It might even be a great club if Schoolboy Rowe comes back to pitch like he used to, and Fred Hutchinson lives up to his promise. A team can go a long way with a pair of really good pitchers."

Hutchinson, of course, is the prize exhibit of the spring campaign. He is a husky kid pitcher who won 25 and lost seven for Seattle last year and cost the Tigers $50,000 cash and several players.

Rowe, who came back to win 22 and lost only two for Beaumont after being shipped out of Detroit with a sore arm last season, believes his wing is as good as ever. He saw him cut loose with a dozen pitches that looked like they might dent armor.

With him from Beaumont Rowe brought another right-hander, Paul Trout, who looks like he might give the Tigers a terrific mound staff. He won 22 and lost six in Texas. They declared he's better than Rowe.

If these three should come through, the Tigers wouldn't need a great deal more pitching.

MR. BOSTON'S "SPOT BOTTLE" STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY

Hall of Fame

THE BIG BAM

Idols may come, others will go but there probably will never be another baseball idol like the Sultan of Swat — George Herman Ruth, "The Babe."

Babe Ruth was a pitcher with the Boston Red Sox, and a good one at that, when Ed Barrow, now head of the Yankees but then with the Sox, decided that here was a mighty hitter; one too good in fact to get into the game on the infrequent occasions that a pitcher is called upon. And so Mr. Barrow converted the former Baltimore orphan boy into an outfielder. From that point on, most people forgot about Mr. Ruth's pitching. They just wanted to watch him slam home runs.

There weren't many at first, it is true. Four with Boston in 1915, three in 1916, just a couple in 1917, but in 1918 the total had climbed to 11, and in 1919 it was ascending still higher to 29. At this point, Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, decided that New York wanted to see more of Ruth's batting prowess, so he bought the great hitter for a record price of $125,000.

Babe did not disappoint. In 1920, he knocked no fewer than 54 circuit smashes, and how the fans cheered as he took his bulky frame around the four bases. With his characteristic south-paw stance, the slugger connected for 59 homers in 1921, establishing a record, and giving American boyhood a brand new ambition in life. Ruth was now their unquestioned idol.

His years with the Yankees were marked with one triumph after another, culminated without any dispute in 1927 when he slammed a new all-time total of 80 home runs, a mark that still stands. Ruth became the great modern figure, an immortal along with Cobb, and King!

He batted in 2,209 runs during his career; led the American League in homers for twelve years; hit 50 or more homers four seasons, and drew 2,056 bases on balls during his playing years, which certainly indicates how pitchers feared him. Ruth ranks with Ty Cobb as a record-maker, and he is tops as the Home Run King!

JACKSONVILLE FAVORED IN TOURNAMENT

GAINESVILLE, Mar. 10 (AP)—The Jacksonville Jaguars, defeated only three times this season, were favorites here today as the Texas Junior college conference championship basketball tournament opened.

Other teams lined up for the tourney were Tyler, Victoria, Wayland Baptist college of Plainview, Schreiner Institute of Kerrville, Gainesville and Lutheran college of Seguin.

Pairings for games starting at 9 a. m. today were Tyler vs. Gainesville, Texas Lutheran college of Seguin vs. Schreiner Institute, Victoria vs. Jacksonville.

Only one of the Jaguars' three losses was a conference game. The American Pipeliners defeated them early in the season. Sam Houston State Teachers, a senior institution, eked out a 42-36 decision. The one conference loss was to Kilgore Junior college.

HOGAN EUGENE MORNING WINS TYLER TRIALS

TYLER, Mar. 10 (AP)—The next field trials of the East Texas Bird Dog association will be held here in November.

Hogan Eugene Morning, a setter handled by G. A. Storey of Daingerfield, Texas, won first honors yesterday in the $1,000 open, final event on the meet's program.

The setter beat Wayside Sport, a pointer owned by Howard Pyle and handled by Jeff Crawford.

Best Blue Willing pointer, belonging to Freeman Taylor of Austin, and Gold Dot, owned by D. D. McDaniel of Houston, tied for third-place money, $200. First prize was $600; second, $300.

WESTERNER

Bob Baker, one of those bidding for high popularity in cowboy roles, comes to the Queen Friday and Saturday as the star of an action-packed western, "The Phantom Stage."

AT THE LYRIC

Tex Ritter, one of the singing cowhands who adds melody to his ability to ride and shoot, is the star of a western story playing Friday and Saturday at the Lyric. It is "Sun-down on the Prairie."

DEMOS POLLED ON TOWNSEND PLAN

WASHINGTON, Mar. 10 (AP)—A poll of democratic congressmen on the Townsend old age pension plan was ordered today by house leaders as a possible prelude to calling it up for a vote.

The democratic whip, Rep. Boland (D-Pa.), said his assistants would begin checking next week on sentiment for or against the scheme, which contemplates imposition of a 2 per cent tax on all transactions to pay for old age pensions up to $20 a month.

If the poll shows a sizeable majority of democrats against the plan—and leaders believe it will—Boland said "the next logical step will be to bring the bill before the house."

AT THE LYRIC Similar western action, with music, is promised in the weekend bill at the Lyric theatre, where Tex Ritter is the cowboy star of "Sun-down on the Prairie." With him in the cast are Snub Pollard, Horace Murphy and Adele Pearce.

JANICE JARRATT, THE MODEL, IS MARRIED SAN ANTONIO, Mar. 10 (AP)—Honeymooning somewhere in Mexico today was the former Janice Jarratt, San Antonio girl who won fame as a model, and Thomas Deely, an engineer.

They were married here last night in a simple ceremony at St. Paul's Episcopal church. They will make their home here.

Frankenstein Surpassed By His Son

New Horror Picture Is Featured At Ritz Theatre

Dread heritage of the Frankenstein, a man-made monster of inhuman temperament and proportion, returns to cut another bloody swath across the screen when Universal's brand-new spine-chiller "Son of Frankenstein," returns to the Ritz theatre Friday and Saturday. It played a recent midnight matinee engagement.

Basil Rathbone has the title role as a scientist who takes up the work snapped short by his father's death twenty-five years before, and brings back to a life of human devastation the monster who made flesh creep in the original production of "Frankenstein" and its successor, "Bride of Frankenstein."

Boris Karloff recreates the monster role, and Bela Lugosi of "Dracula" fame assumes an even more harrowing characterization as Ygor, broken-necked, mad shepherd cut down from the gallows. Lionel Atwill, Josephine Hutchinson, Emma Dunn, Donnie Dunagan and Edgar Norton have other leading roles.

Directed and produced by Rowland V. Lee from the original screenplay by Willis Cooper, "Son of Frankenstein" is expected not only to set a new high in hair-raising film fare, but to take a place among the dramatic achievements of the year. Photography by George Robinson and sets by Jack Otterson maintain the chilling mood of the piece, and hideous guises adopted by Karloff and Lugosi are tributes to the deftness of makeup artist Jack Pierce.

ADMITS 4 SLAYINGS BUT DENIES ONE FOR WHICH HE DIED

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark., Mar. 10 (AP)—Joseph B. "Smoky Joe" Anderson, 37, confessed slayer of four men, died in the electric chair at dawn today for a murder of which he steadfastly maintained innocence.

William Roberts and Tremont McDermott of the Wayne county, Michigan, (Detroit) sheriff's office reported Anderson confessed, just before he started to the death house, that he fatally shot Robert A. Moulch, Detroit salesman, last summer.

Officers said Anderson had admitted killing three other men, but denied he was responsible in the case in which he was convicted.

This was the slaying of Eldon Cooley, 26, grocery chain official of Hot Springs, Ark., who was abducted, beaten and robbed of nearly $400 last September 8. Cooley's nude body was found the next day in a ravine.

Police said Anderson admitted killing George W. Howey, Detroit transit firm driver, John Colla, Gary, Ind., tax driver and Fred L. Firth, Oakland county, Mich., farmer.

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 12.
The Golden Text is: "Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase." (Proverbs 3:9).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God." (Romans 8:16).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "As God is substance and man is the divine image and likeness, man should wish for, and in reality has, only the substance of good, the substance of Spirit, not matter." (page 301).

ABILENE, Mar. 10 (Sp)—West Texas' non-professional rodeo stars will exhibit their abilities March 24-25 at the West Central Texas Livestock Show and Rodeo in Abilene, and the boys apparently plan to take full advantage of the opportunity, according to announcement made this week by Dr. M. T. Ramsey, rodeo chairman.

Entries for the events are already beginning to come in, Ramsey said, and the show promises to be one of the best non-professional rodeos ever staged in West Texas. Invitations to enter the contests have been sent more than 100 of the cowboys of the area, and all others who want to compete are asked to notify Ramsey or the West Texas Fair association in Abilene.

Of particular interest, both to the contestants and the visitors, will be the five man team contest, in which any five contestants from one county may form a team and compete for a $75 team prize which will be awarded on the basis of money won by the team members in the various rodeo events.

The team prize is being offered

KENNEDY TO BE AT POPE'S CORONATION AS U. S. DELEGATE

VATICAN CITY, Mar. 10 (AP)—For the first time a president of the United States will be represented officially at the crowning of a pope when Pius XII on Sunday receives his triple tiara amid scenes of medieval splendor on the loggia of St. Peter's basilica.

The American ambassador to London, Joseph Kennedy, is due in Rome tomorrow as the official American representative at the ceremony which is expected to draw the largest popular crowd ever assembled in the eternal city.

Vatican authorities expect more than 350,000 persons to jam St. Peter's piazza and open spaces beyond. Forty-five thousand may sit or stand inside the vast church throughout the five-hour pontifical mass preceding the coronation.

It will be the first time in nearly 100 years a pope has been crowned outside St. Peter's. The late Pius XI was crowned inside the basilica but, after the lateran accord by which Italy and the church reconciled their differences, he made his first appearance on the balcony in 1929.
