J. Rathiff was in a peevish mood this morning. It seemed that someone had sold him rubbish and he was angry. He got here it wasn't the kind of the quality of hay A. J. expecting. I came in just as cloud of thin blue smoke was appearing from his office and I proceeded to get me told in a ry. Of course, I didn't have a ng to do with the hay, but he still sure and he thought I had be sort of a gyp proposition for
I. He got busy and traded a op full of wheat for a pound butter and that settled his ves down a bit. I'll be seeing in this aft.

ADRIAN RIPINGS
Saule Perlatin invited two men out and yelled outside to other and demanded him to me in. I thought this a little unusual and for fear that he might I me to get out and stay out I rely told him I was looking for ost dog and would be back some ne.

ADRIAN RIPINGS
Ed Crawford let me in on some secrets of the cosmetic department of the drug business. He ys there are three kinds of power face, gun and bug. The first is the most expensive, the second the most effective and the third the most suggestive that the eyer is not at all satisfied with nditions.

ADRIAN RIPINGS
Least I forgot. I made a bad bust today. I accused Arritta of selling accordeon wrong. She did sell it wrong. But when I corrected her I spelled it wrong myself. I spelled it accordeon and it would be accordeon. You can't be ire of such a word, however, because it's of egyptian origin. The merican pronunciation is green (long double e). The reason for the Americanization of the word is to make it rhyme with ene... village queen... e... North. To quote further, "And han she plays on her A-cord-ene, e... little girl you've never e."
And so I apologize to Arritta. I pologize to Noah Webster. I even pologize to Andy Anderson, who solved it to my attention.

MAYOR JIMMY WALKER ON PARADE

Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York is on parade before the Seabury investigating committee. He has been asked to explain why and how he received $26,000 in gifts and fees from certain individuals or corporation while chief magistrate of an imperial city. Mayor Jimmy is the famous wisecracker of America. He never lost his head. His tongue is as nimble as ever. He staged the biggest show put on since the Seabury investigators began more than a year ago, and he frankly admitted that he was the silent partner of Paul Block, a somewhat noted publisher of American newspapers, while the big gambling game was on in the street called Wall. His profit? Just a bagatelle. Hereceived something like $246,000 as his share. He did not bank the profits. He did not place the profits in a bank vault. He had a safe at home and his winnings as a silent partner in the great gambling game which crashed in 1929 was placed in a home container to be drawn upon by Mayor Jimmy or Mrs. Walker as their needs required.

Paul Block must be a public philanthropist. "When a feller needs a friend" Paul appears to be there, if Mayor Jimmy told the truth, with his knowledge of good things to play and a way to play them without becoming a sap to be skinned or a lamb to be trimmed.

New York is the wonder city of the world, and Mayor Jimmy is one of the wonder playboys of two continents. He may not know where he is going but he is on the way.

HIGH COURT DECISION IN DARDEN CASE

Again the high court of Texas has spoken. This is the rule: the state democratic executive committee acted within its rights in requiring candidates to run for designated places and not in a free-for-all. A reminder that the court decision was written by Associate Justice Thomas B. Greenwood. He declared the Huggins state committee had the right, power, and authority to enforce its ruling. In the court decision, Justice Greenwood cited the Love decision earlier this year which upheld the power of the state committee to force the pledge on precinct, county and other democratic conventions. An excerpt from the Darden decision covers all the ground:

"Examination of all the whole body of primary law leaves no room for doubt of the legislative intent to require the nomination of democratic candidates for congressmen-at-large by votes of the majority."

There are three to be nominated. There are said to be 40 candidates. There will be three interesting run-offs in the coming month of August and then and not until then will the winners of the three prizes be known to the public. A majority must nominate—but it requires a two-thirds majority to name candidates for president and vice president of the United States. Why should a relic or political invention of ancient slavery days be permitted to throttle a majority of democrats in naming a presidential standard-bearer? Go ask the donkey. His trainers refuse to make answer.

BANK RACKETEERING AWAY DOWN IN TEXAS

While the young democrats of Texas were holding their uproarious session in the city of Houston, two men in a sedan held up the state bank at Spring, 21 miles east of Houston, and escaped with $7000 bank funds. To make matters even, a messenger for a big mercantile company in the city of Dallas was robbed of $3800 by two men who accosted him while he was taking the money of the firm to a local bank.

These brazen racketeers disappeared, taking their loot with them. Away down here in Texas an unlimited number of second class funerals might put an end to hijackers and racketeers who are 10 times more brazen than the vultures of the Chicago or New York underworld. Gen. Philip Sheridan said the only good Indian was a dead Indian. Well, the only good hijacker is a dead hijacker.

JOHN BULL KEEPS HIS PLEDGES

Now it is announced that the British government is completing arrangements to pay to the United States over a period of 10 years with interest at 3 per cent the obligations postponed by Washington during the Hoover moratorium which ends June 30. John Bull may be cold-blooded but he keeps his word. He pays his debts. He redeems his pledges and—he always blunders through.

COL. LUKE LEA IN THE CLEAR

Col. Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher and financier who has been in the public prints ever since the crash of 1929, appears to be in the clear. The colonel and two of his associates more than a year ago were indicted by a federal grand jury, charged with violating national banking laws. There were many counts in the indictments. There must have been many flaws in the indictments, as an application made by a district attorney for an order of dismissal was granted by the trial court judge "without comment." Colonel Lea has been ridden raw in the courts of several states, his associates have been given many rides, but all's well that ends well. An indictment is not a conviction. Allegations do not constitute evidence in a court of justice or before a jury.

SPEAKING OF THE LAWS OF MOSES

An opinion that the interstate commerce commission has no authority to enforce the Ten Commandments or any of them has been advanced by the general attorney of the Pennsylvania Railroad company. This contention was set forth in answering a petition filed by a Tennessee attorney who asked that railroads cease operating on Sunday.

Moses died ages and ages ago and it is the viewpoint of the barrister of the defendant corporation that if the act were interpreted by the interstate commerce commission as conferring such authority it would be beyond the constitutional powers of congress and therefore invalid. There is a way out of it. Crystallize the Ten Commandments into statutory enactments. Of course, this would make business brisk for federal and state lawmakers and open the field for rich fees for the barristers of the land.

The North American continent has a vast range of wonders. Wise are the tourists who go to see only that in which they are interested. They will extract more pleasure from it than generations of people who have only heard about it from the lips of someone else.

Thank Goodness For One Law That Works, Anyway!

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Since Governor Roosevelt took his lickings in California and Massachusetts plus a seeming standoff in Pennsylvania politicians over the country have been taking another close look at the other possibilities in the contest for the Democratic presidential nomination.

They realize, with that deep perspicacity common to all politicians, that if the Chicago convention gets itself deadlocked and it appears that Roosevelt won't be chosen, the party will simply have to nominate someone else.

An Uncharted Area

INASMUCH as the candidates running closest—but not close—behind the governor are Al Smith and Speaker Garner to whom few enlightened observers concede any very far chance of success, one has to go diving off into a vague, foggy, uncharted area of what is called secondary strength.

The haziness of all political reporters and of at least nearly all politicians about what is going to happen at Chicago is, and when, it becomes clear that Roosevelt is a lost cause has been clearly reflected by the fluctuation of their thoughts from week to week.

"Running" Viewpoints

THEIR very best judgment gets all churned up by developments of the slightest significance and there have been few political seasons when one could observe so many rapid running broad jumps from one viewpoint to another. Nevertheless, after trying to flounder about a bit in that area of secondary strength your correspondent rises to the surface with little to report beyond what was true, although perhaps not as certain, at the beginning of this year, except for the recent action of Owen D. Young.

Ritchie and Baker

NEWTON D. BAKER of Ohio and Governor Ritchie of Maryland are the most likely possibilities after Roosevelt. Except for Smith and Garner, they are the only ones who have any support outside their home states worth mentioning.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Original ideas, at least ideas which we might call original, occasionally originate among our politicians. It does not always follow that they are invariably right, nor is it always necessary that they should be wrong.

But there are some people who will follow blindly the most radical leaders—people who will swallow propaganda without investigation, and others who believe everything they hear or read.

Of course, it is an accepted fact that there is nothing new or original under the sun, but the most curious thing is how some people are hypnotized by propaganda such as now is being used against disabled war veterans and against private ownership of public utilities.

It is evident that some of our politicians are of the opinion that the different governments, national, city and state, should enter into business in direct competition with its private citizens. Strange thing that in this time of depression and raising of taxes that such propaganda should go out, for publicly owned utilities do not pay taxes, while the privately owned utilities are the largest taxpayers in the nation.

Public ownership of private business would mean that some new kind of tax would have to be raised to take the place of taxes now paid by them.

Just why any citizen of this country would want to fail in carrying out the country's pledge and promise to its disabled war veterans is beyond understanding. In fact, every citizen should resent any attempt to curtail benefits to its disabled veterans.

Proper care of disabled veterans should be the first duty of the government.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE WITH BILL MAYES

with BILL MAYES

W. C. Blackmond of the city water department is authority for the following facts, figures, statistics, information and whatnot, but this is one time when we feel that we could make the statements without fear of having anyone feel that their toes had been stepped on.

The information given us by Blackmond is that the last report from the West Texas Clinic and Hospital showed the Ranger city water was very clear, was very low in gas formation and had a very low bacteria count, indicating that the city water supply is so pure that even the most discriminating could find little, if any, fault with it.

To get a little more technical, we might add that the solid count per U. S. gallon—whatever that means—is only 1.892. Other counts per U. S. gallon are ammonia nitrogen, 2.78; oxygen dissolved, 16.22; silica, .000; calcium, 4.98; magnesium, 6.0; iron oxide, .000; alumina, 2.0; potassium, 49.5; sulphates, 20.1; bicarbonate, .000; carbonates, 60.0, and chlorine, 5.19. These figures, as we understand them, are not the per cent found in the water but the count per gallon. Anyone who doubts these statements may take the matter up with W. C. Blackmond or make the count themselves some rainy night when there is not a fourth handy for bridge.

Anyway, according to the analysis of the city water the people of Ranger drink and use for bathing purposes, the tests show that the water is 99 per cent pure, which is getting along so near the perfect mark that there is little or no cause for worry.

Maybe the fact that the Ranger water is so pure is the reason we have to pay so much for it. Only yesterday we were informed that at Eastland the price for 8,000 gallons of water was only $2.50, while in Ranger we pay $2 for only 3,000 gallons. We do not know whether either of these figures are correct or not, but they are the ones that most of the citizens of the town believe.

We once spent some time asking John Thurman and Roy Jackson to give us some figures on how much water was used in Ranger, how much it cost to buy it, how much to purify it, how much to distribute it to the consumers, including repairs on mains, and other incidental expenses and, finally, how much it cost per 1,000 gallons and the net profit, if any, the city made on each 1,000 gallons of water.

They both got all pepped up over the idea, because they believed that such a statement would show the people just what they were buying and why it cost money to keep the water works department functioning and a few other details. The report was to be worked out in the city hall within the next few days. That was along about last September or October, as we remember it, and no figures have been made up as yet. We have asked about it several times, but it seems that every one has been so busy attending to other duties that no time has been left for getting this information to pass along to the public.

The idea was born one morning when John Thurman jumped on us for hitting that the water bills were a little high. He explained a few of the details to us and we began to see a little light, so we suggested that the figures and facts be turned over to us so that we could write more or less intelligently on the subject and have something on which to base an article about the water situation.

Personally we do not know whether the water rate in Ranger is higher or lower than in most towns, so we are not in much of a position to criticize. If we just

HERE-- AND THERE

By ELVIE H. JACKSON

Even in pioneer days, Eastland had her social club of men and women, which met in the evening at the members' homes, and gave interesting literary programs. The first club of this kind was organized by the pioneer and builder of Eastland city, the late C. U. Connelley, and old papers published by Mr. Kimble, that carry some space to the Shakespearean plays discussed and the men and women who presented these topics. There were about one dozen in the original club who called themselves the Y. W. O. Missing club, though they seemed to miss very little. Debates made up a large part of the program. The next president of this club was William Parvin, the father of Mrs. H. P. Brelsford Sr., of this city. After an existence of some years and its disbandment, a lapse of three years occurred when the books that the first social and literary club had used were formed into a library of 20 volumes and the Hawthorne club organized in 1901, by Mrs. Lasley, later of Abilene. This club met in the afternoon and eventually became the Embroidery club and enjoyed a long life under various presidents until 1916, when it became the Thursday Afternoon club.

Mrs. Lasley was the first president; Mrs. H. P. Brelsford, the second president, and Mrs. A. H. Johnson, the third president, it is said. During the tenure of Mrs. Johnson, these books, inherited from the Hawthorne club, were through the efforts of the late Mrs. Johnson, organized into the form of a library, for use of any Eastland people, who so desired, in addition to the club women's privileges. Mrs. Johnson was assisted in this movement by Mrs. J. L. Johnson. At first the books were kept in the home of some member and loaned upon application. Later, the books were housed in the ante-room of the old Chronicle office, and still later on, the bookcases of volumes were kept in the city courthouse, the one which burned. Afterwards, the library was housed in the basement of the Texas State bank building.

Then an opportunity came for a community movement, through which the clubs of Eastland (federated) through the able chairmanship of Mrs. C. U. Connelley, secured money sufficient to purchase the old or original cottage Prairie building, which they converted into a permanent library for Eastland, and community club rooms, with auditorium for the use of the club women, their friends and for other social affairs of those who secured the auditorium or clubhouse for some special purpose. Church Sunday school classes have been held here by the Baptist church, and the generous loan of the auditorium has been furnished on special rehearsal occasions to schools, music clubs and other organizations, without cost.

The library now has over 4,000 volumes, and these will be catalogued beginning next week, by Miss Joyce Johnson, daughter of the former co-organizer, of the library.

The only financial support the library receives at the present time is that given by the Thursday Afternoon club, the owners and sponsors of the Eastland public library.

All of the surrounding towns come to Eastland, each week and sometimes twice a week to draw books from this library. It is an advertisement for Eastland of a high order. The city patronage has been steadily increasing since the library has its own home and under the able care of the librarian, Miss Cecile Haas, has met with all demands of patrons. New books must be ordered and paid for. Old books kept repaired. Expenses of taxes, insurance, library fees, librarian dues coped with. Attend the public library bridge luncheon benefit tomorrow, 1 p. m., and do your bit toward helping Eastland's public library.

had those figures right now we could show just how much it costs to put a thousand gallons of water into the homes of the people of Ranger and how much they pay but we are unable to do that as yet. Maybe when we do get the figures we will tell the people that they are getting a bargain. Maybe not. And maybe we won't tell them anything except how much it cost and then let them draw their own conclusions. Maybe that would be the best way anyway—provided we ever get the figures.

At any rate, the city water has been pronounced good, healthful and about what the citizens should have in the way of water—which is quite an asset to any town.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

BEGIN HERE TODAY. CHERRY DIXON, 19 and pretty, tells her mother she is going to a club meeting but instead meets DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter with whom she is in love. Her wealthy parents, knowing she is acquainted with Dan, Cherry goes with him to interview a bank robber's sweetheart. She blunders into underworld headquarters and a bullet strikes her arm. Dan takes her to a doctor's office and then home. He is trying to explain what has happened when MR. DIXON appears. Dixon is very angry and brandishes a newspaper containing Cherry's picture and an account of the shooting. He orders Dan out of the house. Dan goes in which Cherry has no word from Dan. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VI. SARAH entered the room breathlessly and shut the door behind her. Her round eyes foretold excitement. The girl on the chaise longue did not turn. Her peach colored negligee pulled about the slender figure molded it gracefully. On her feet were small gold strapped sandals. "What is it, Sarah?" "Sh, darling! Wait till I tell you. It's not right, it isn't, and somebody'll pay for it! Out and out falsifyin' and there's blacker words I could use. It's not right at all." "What isn't right at all? What's happened?" Again old Sarah put a warning finger to her lips. "Not so loud," she cautioned, lowering her tone. Cherry was sitting bolt upright now. Impatiently she caught the woman's hands. "But tell me what's happened!" she begged. Sarah sat down beside the girl. "Well, then," she said, plunging into her narrative, "I was looking for Martha to ask if the package had come from Wendell's and just as I stepped in the hall I heard Martha talkin' on the library telephone. So I waited until she finished. 'No sir,' Martha says, 'Miss Cherry ain't at home and I don't know when she will be. She's gone to New York.' That's what she says—it's God's truth! 'She's gone to New York.' So when she put down the telephone I said, 'Martha, who is it you're tellin' such untruths to and ain't you ashamed of yourself?' "Martha came back at me and said she guessed it was her duty to do what Mrs. Dixon said and what business of mine was it to interfere? Well, a few words passed between us and do you know what I found out? It was that young newspaper fellow, Phillips—" "Dan!" Cherry's eyes were flashing. "Then he did call!" "Yes, and not just this one time neither. After I'd learned that much Martha warmed up and admitted he's been telephoning the house every day. Your mother wouldn't let Martha say anything about it and this morning she said if he called again Martha was to tell him you'd gone to New York." "Oh, but Sarah—" "I know, darlin'. It's a black shame, that's what it is. As nice a young fellow as you'd be findin' anywhere, too. It's your father that's behind it. Still in a temper about what happened the other afternoon." "But, Sarah, if Dan think's I've gone to New York he won't call any more! Maybe he'll think I don't want to see him—maybe he'll blame me—" "The older woman nodded, agreeing soberly. "And what's to

Natural Gas Piped From Panhandle Field Equals Two Million Tons Coal

By United Press. AUSTIN.—Natural gas piped annually from Panhandle fields to Chicago is equivalent in energy value to 2,000,000 tons of bituminous coal. This and other facts on natural resources of Texas are being compiled by Elmer H. Johnson, industrial geographer at the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Johnson's report is to be published in bulletin form by the bureau this summer. The economic significance of oil and gas developments in the future will be vastly more important than at any other time in the history of the petroleum age, Johnson believes. "This is a thing that Texas citizenry cannot ignore," he asserted. Texas had produced 2,736,176,000 barrels of crude oil by the end of 1931, more than one-sixth the total production of the United States, according to Johnson's figures. The United States has been producing oil since 1859; Texas only since 1906. Ten years ago Oklahoma and California each were producing 25 per cent of the nation's crude oil, and Texas 24 per cent. In 1931, Texas produced 39 per cent of the crude oil of the country; California 22 per cent and Oklahoma 21 per cent. Texas oil production for all-time is divided as follows, according to data compiled by Wallace E. Pratt, geologist: Texas gulf coast fields, 765,505,000, or 28.01 per cent of the total output; East Texas fields, 384,455,000 barrels, or 14.5 per cent; North Texas, 434,148,000 barrels or 15.37 per cent; North Central Texas, 299,234,000 barrels, or 10.4 per cent; Panhandle, 178,765,000 barrels, or 6.53 per cent; West Texas, 517,505,000 barrels, or 18.9 per cent; Southwest Texas, 124,355,000 barrels and Laredo district 31,229,000 barrels. Recoverable reserves are estimated as follows: East Texas 2,600,000,000 barrels; Gulf coast, 650,000,000; Yates, 260,000,000; Van, 214,000,000; reserves in other fields raises the total potential supply of crude oil in Texas to 3,500,000,000 (b) barrels. Other geologists have estimated "sure" reserves at 9,000,000,000 (b) barrels. The volume of proven reserves of natural gas in Texas is estimated at about 4,000 million cubic feet, extending over 300,000 acres. In 1931 Texas furnished more than 25 per cent of all the natural gas produced in the country; in addition, it is said on good authority that Texas wasted by dissipating into the air more gas than it produced, Johnson declared. Utah Girls Put Ban On Bare Legs. By United Press. PROVO, Utah.—Provo high school girls are definitely committed to hosiery throughout hot summer months. The girls' high school organization reached an almost unanimous decision against bare legs. Reasons: ONE—Bare legs are not attractive. TWO—Unclad limbs tend to undermine one's morals. Any girl, who cannot afford to buy hosiery, will be supplied with stockings by the dean of women.

Austrian Court Gives Damages In Grape Case

By United Press. VIENNA.—Foreign firms and business men, who refuse to deliver to Austrian firms against payment in Austrian schillings any goods ordered from them previous to the promulgation of Austria's emergency foreign exchange decrees, are liable for all damages which these Austrian firms may sustain even though the original contract for the goods stipulated payment in a non-Austrian currency. A decision by the commercial court of appeals to this effect, upholding a verdict of the lower courts, has been handed down. The case in question being a suit brought by the Brothers Schick, Viennese fruit merchants, against the Spanish exporters Dolera. The Schicks ordered two carloads of grapes from Dolera against payment in Spanish pesetas. Before these grapes were delivered the first of Austria's emergency decrees, one making it illegal to buy or sell any foreign currency, was promulgated. The Schicks informed Dolera that in view of this decree they would pay for the grapes not in pesetas, but in Austrian schillings; whereupon Dolera refused to ship the grapes and the Schicks brought suit for damages. In handing down its decision awarding damages to Schick Brothers the court held that with the promulgation of the decree pesetas and all other foreign currencies ceased to exist de jure throughout Austria and hence were not available for payment. Church Societies Meet.
The Elizabeth Pettit circle of the Women's Missionary society of the Methodist church, was hosted by Mrs. W. P. Leslie and Mrs. E. H. Jones, co-hostesses, yesterday afternoon.
The Leslie home was charmingly decorated with bouquets of pansies and corn flowers, in blue and gold color scheme, which obtained in all details.
The program was opened by chairman of the circle, Mrs. E. H. Jones. Hymn, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," prefaced the business period.
Plans were developed for "guest day" when the society will be hostesses to all the women of the Methodist church, and a program presented. Mrs. Gid J. Bryan of Ranger will be principal speaker. Mrs. Frank Crowell, acting president of the society, will preside.
The devotional period was led by Mrs. Fred Davenport, from the book of St. Luke. Mrs. B. E. McGlamery presented a digest of the Bulletin.
An amusing contest of fruit and vegetables was enjoyed by the society, during the social hour, and dainty refreshments of brick ice cream, and dark and white cake served to Mmes. W. E. Coleman, J. F. Spriks, Frank Crowell, J. J. Mickie, Guy Parker, B. L. Mackall, Jonathan Jones, Fred Davenport, T. M. Johnson, J. B. Foster, B. E. McGlamery, W. C. Marlow, F. L. Drago, Claud Stubblefield, E. H. Jones, and visitors, Mmes. Payne, and Brock.

The Circle.
Decoration day interfered to a large extent with the attendance of the various church societies yesterday afternoon.
Mrs. John Miller of South Bassett street, was hostess to a group of members of the circle. No formal program was held but an afternoon of social diversion was enjoyed, and refreshments served to Mmes. J. O. Brothers, M. B. Griffin, James Harkrider, Brasher and Miller.

W. M. S. of Baptist Church.
The proposed all-day meeting of Circles 1 and 2 of the Women's Missionary society of the Baptist church, with Mrs. Williams Sheriffs, and Circles 3 and 4, with Mrs. W. J. Harrington, were called off about 10 a. m., Monday, as many wished to attend the Memorial day services.
The W. M. S. will meet at the church next Monday.

Library Benefit Bridge Luncheon Tomorrow.
The bridge luncheon being sponsored by the Thursday Afternoon Study club for the benefit of the public library fund, to be in tapis tomorrow, Wednesday, 1 p. m., at the residence of Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, 903 South Seaman street, has had a most pleasing response in table reservations, from clubwomen of Ranger and Gorman, and several of the Eastland women's clubs.
There should be a more generous response, however. The home and garden will be thrown open to guests, and two dozen or more tables, for bridge, and "42," may be arranged.

Following luncheon, Mrs. Agnes Harwood Doyle will present a group of voice solos, with Miss McLaughlin at the piano.
Many varied attractive favors for high scores in games have been secured, present total being 15 with others in prospect.
The response from merchants, who have donated favors for the games, has been wonderful, so the committee in charge stated.
Several small card clubs of Eastland are making reservations for their entire club, and a number of personal tables have been engaged by hostesses, with several phoning for single reservations when "Dutch treat" tables will be made up.
A delicious two-course plate luncheon will be served at 1 p. m. If you haven't made your reservation, phone for it now, to Mrs. E. M. Collier, Mrs. M. C. Hayes, or Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin.

Makes Family Visit
Mrs. Robert Young, accompanied by two-month-old Dick and 2-month-old Bobby, of Abilene, is spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will A. Martin, on South Seaman street. Eastland friends of Miss Josephine Martin, who spent Decoration Day here with the family, will be interested to learn that she has proven quite a little business young woman, and has been associated all this winter and spring with the R. L. Young, Jr., insurance company in Abilene.
Mrs. Young was formerly the popular Anita Martin, and has a host of friends in this city.

Eastland Community Chorus Plans Progressing
The called meeting of the Eastland community chorus, now in course of organization, and held in the Methodist church at 7 p. m., Monday was attended by 15 or 20 people, who showed keen interest in the establishment of this community civic body for Eastland.

camp will be directed this year by Miss Ruth Teichmann, members of the Nation Camp Directors association. On the counselor staff are a number of women in charge of different crafts or features of the camp life, and these include Miss Dolores Tanner of Eastland, who was a C. I. A. graduate in the dramatic department, dancing and posture work.

Miss Tanner is a popular member of the younger society group of Eastland. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Tanner.

Spencer Program a Success.
The high school auditorium had a large and interested audience Monday night, who thoroughly enjoyed the beautiful program and operetta, presented by the kindergarten class of Mrs. Sue Spencer.

The stage was a veritable woodland scene, the setting of real trees, the base of each encircled with a broad band of bright-hued flowers.

Tall ferns in the background gave impression of distant wooded vistas. The operetta, an out-of-doors fairy performance, was very charming in this setting, and fairies capered over the scene forming a real bit of fairyland. The stage was arranged by Mmes. Johnnie Hart and Harrison.

The program opened with the entire school, in the Spencer rhythm band. At close of their numbers each was presented a blue ribbon for excellent work on particular department by Mrs. Spencer, in a charming little talk. Pianist for the production was Miss Gretchen Overton.

Address: Valetictorian Little Alice Jones.
The South Ward school class promotion commencement of last week had as valetictorian, little Alice Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Jones, who delivered the following original paper:

Teachers. Classmates and Guests: I am very happy indeed to be valetictorian of South Ward. It is an event that I shall long remember. Monday evening, I had the highest average of our class I was so overcome with joy that I did not think how sad I would be to leave dear old South Ward.

"For five years, we have studied here in South Ward. There are several who started five years ago that are not here today, having moved from our city. Those of us who have finished our work here this year will miss the many pleasant associations of the past. We have enjoyed being pupils of South Ward and if we could do so, we should like to take all of our teachers with us to junior high."

"To the Parent-Teacher association we wish to express our thanks for all they have done for us and our school and only hope that those whom we leave behind will receive the benefits that have come to us.

"To Mrs. W. K. Jackson, we wish to thank her for all her many kind deeds and consider her one of South Ward's best friends. "And to you, dear classmates, hope we have the pleasure of finishing our high school days together.

"To our dear teachers, we wish to thank them for their kind treatment and patience shown us, we shall not forget you, though we should live to be 100 years old. On behalf of my classmates, I salute you, teachers of South Ward, as the finest and best in the whole world.

"ALICE JONES."

Church of Christ Bible Class.
Mrs. Dan Childress entertained the Bible class of the Church of Christ at her pleasant home yesterday afternoon. The program opened with the song, "An Unclouded Day," led by Mrs. J. R. Boggus, and prayer by Mrs. Guy Sherrill. "Paul's Second Missionary Journey" was taught by Mrs. L. Herring, who conducted the meeting. Dismissed in prayer by Mrs. Boggus.

Mrs. Childress served a refreshing plate of cream pastry and iced tea to Mmes. Guy Sherrill, B. E. Robertson, R. B. Reagan, J. R. Boggus, H. E. Lawrence, L. Herring, James Grollam, J. R. Crossley, Bud Coplen, W. A. Teatsorth, H. C. Duke and Clifford Fehl.

The class will meet on Monday, June 6, with Mrs. James Graham, on East Corner street.

Beautiful Observation Decoration Day.
Decoration day in Eastland passed quietly. Family groups with picnic baskets went to some nearby lake or stream for an outing and supper. Several church societies held social meetings, and others dismissed in order, that members might attend the exercises, both at the Eastland cemetery and the bridge over Lake Eastland.

In the afternoon, Sunday, Secretary of Chamber of Commerce H. B. Tanner, and Ed T. Cox Sr., decorated the graves of all soldiers that could be located, 53 all told. Mr. Cox is making a plat of location of all known soldiers' graves, with name of owner, so that in future placing of flags will be simplified.

Monday morning, Mrs. Tom Harrell, accompanied by several friends, took their cars full of the Camp Fire Girls, to the cemetery, and flowers were placed where flags were found, by these young girls.

Bugle squad of Boy Scouts sounded assembly at 10 a. m., and the Camp Fire Girls and others, some 50 in number, gathered about the grave of Horace H. Gray, a Confederate soldier, over whose unmarked grave a head stone has just been placed, which was furnished by the U. S. government.

Dr. Tanner, chairman of program, gave purpose of gathering. A short biography of Horace H. Gray was presented. He came from his birth state, Tennessee, in 1857, and Eastland county, 1888. Enlisted in war between states, and served all through war, and was wounded by bullet in knee. He returned to the front and served until the war closed. Of his marriage to Miss Annie Smith, three children are surviving, Mrs. Ollie Foster, about seven miles northwest of Eastland, was the only child present. A son and a daughter reside in Taylor county, and Snyder.

Ceremonies concluded by Master Raymond Lovett sounding taps.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock, cars gathered at the C. of C. and from thence went to the bridge over Lake Eastland, where a ceremony in memory of those buried at sea was held and opened by Rev. George W. Shearer, with prayer. Young Lovett sounded assembly, and Dr. Tanner gave an interesting talk. Rev. Shearer was wonderful in the short patriotic address, and taps sounded by Lovett were accompanied by the scattering of flowers on the waters of the lake, and laying of a beautiful wreath on lake surface by the Camp Fire Girls. Some 50 people attended.

Flags were displayed throughout the city, in front of the business houses, on public buildings and on private residences, more generally than in recent times.

The address of Dr. Tanner follows: Ladies and Gentlemen: We have gathered here this afternoon to continue the observance of Memorial day. This morning flags were placed upon, and flowers were scattered upon, the graves of soldiers who were buried in the earth.

This afternoon we will honor the memory of those who fought the battles of their country on ships and upon losing their lives their bodies were consigned to the "waters of the deep."

Some of these naval heroes sleep in marble cities of the dead. Some in old fields and quiet lovely places. Some lie in unknown graves. But many, oh, so many, were buried at sea. It is to these heroic dead who lie at the bottom of the ocean that we pay tribute to at this particular moment.

They gave their all. Today we give our very little. Life was as precious to them as it is to us. They gave their lives in defense of their country. For principles vital to liberty. Happy is a nation in which a grateful people honor their patriotic dead. At this time we cast a wreath and scatter flowers in the water in grateful memory of their sacrifice.

We of our day have seen the flag of our country carried by our sailors to all parts of the world bearing a message of liberty, equality and freedom. Many of these soldiers of the sea lost their lives in this undertaking. We as beneficiaries of their supreme sacrifice pay a loving tribute to their memory by casting fragrant flowers on the water in appreciation of what they did.

To those of our sailors, marines, soldiers, and war nurses who lost

EASTLAND PERSONALS
J. A. Smith of Olden and Eastland, returns today from a business trip to Washington, D. C. En route home he visited his daughter, Mrs. MacHenry of Marietta, O. She is well known here, as the former Miss Evelyn Smith, and is the sister of the golden voiced G. C. Smith, who delighted his audience recently, when he appeared on the night of the junior play, in voice solos.

Mrs. McHenry has a glorious voice, and took leading roles in several Elks club operatic productions.

The school board of Eastland will hold a meeting early this week at which time public school teachers will be elected.

Mrs. Carl Springer has had as her guests over the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Austin of Fort Worth, and little daughter, Martha Jane.

Mrs. Bryan Brelsford and little 2-year-old daughter, Betty, have returned to Chicago with Mrs. Brelsford's father, C. Lockett, for an all-summer visit.

Mrs. R. C. Ferguson was an informal hostess to several little children of the neighborhood, who gathered on her lawn Monday afternoon for a play hour, with her little 7-year-old daughter, Virginia. The children were charmed with an impromptu treat of ice cream and angel food cake.

Mrs. W. E. Chaney, accompanied by Parker Brown, motored to Lometa to the Garrett Bohning ranch and called for the Eastland their lives at sea, and lie buried, wrapped in the mantle of the deep, we cast a wreath of flowers in their memory and say: "Sleep in peace, beloved ones, until the day-break and the shadows pass away."

DO YOU INHALE

Is this question too revealing for other cigarettes

WE do not criticize others. We merely call attention to the fact that the vital question of inhaling has been generally avoided in cigarette advertising.
Why? What's there to be afraid of? Everybody inhales! Seven out of ten smokers inhale knowingly, the other three do so without realizing it. From your side—you want to be sure that the smoke you breathe in is pure and clean—free from certain impurities.
But from the manufacturer's side—heshold the benefit of giving you this protection. And if he is sure—need not worry about the question: "Do you inhale?"
Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Lucky Strike's famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!
