ARGUMENTS HEARD IN ELECTION SUIT

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES

It will be a makeshift Bulldog team that goes to Fort Worth Friday to play the Central High school Panthers in the second game of the season for Ranger high school.

The Bulldogs came out of the marl game without any injuries though few substitutions were possible for the Bulldogs and Blair Cherry's substitutions numbered around 30, but mishaps have taken several of the regulars out of the lineup.

Ray Adkins, regular tackle, who was injured when the bus bringing the players back from Amarillo was overturned near Baird, will be out of the game for two or three weeks because of a deep cut in his left leg. Several stitches were required to close the wound and doctors say that he will not be ready to play before the Abilene game of Oct. 22, if then.

Aaron Anderson, halfback, who received a cut over the left eye in the same accident, may be out until after the Central game. Three stitches were taken in the cut over his eye and it is feared that he will not be able to play. The cut is right where the edge of his helmet is, and it is thought that playing Friday may open the wound.

Jacoby, who was expected to take Adkins' place at tackle, is out with an attack of appendicitis as is Buck Blair, end. Blair reported to be definitely out of the Central game even if an operation is not found necessary, while doctors are doubtful if Jacoby will be able to play. This leaves the Bulldogs with only a few players.

Udell Duval, who has been injured by the appendicitis operation, will not be ready to act for some time. He has not yet returned to work out as yet and does not know when he will be able to begin warming up for the grid season.

With five men out, three from appendicitis or operations and two from injuries received in the bus accident, Coach Curtis is worrying over his prospects for this weekend. His reserve material being light and inexperienced will not help matters any when they go against the Panthers Friday.

The Panther starting line-up is expected to be as follows: Dorris, 11, and Goodrun, 140, ends; Crawford, 210, and R. Vickers, 70, tackles; Liston, 185, and M. Potts, 160, guards; L. T. Lewis, 151, center; Granger, 158; Brannon, 177; Dodson, 160, and Lacy Clelanahan, backfield.

The eligibility battles are getting under way much faster than the football season. L. E. Dudley, Abilene has requested that the district committee, which is to meet in Eastland this afternoon to determine the amount of bond in the super-deeds appeal, or whatever it is, in the Cisco case, to rule on the eligibility of Glenn Wyatt, who as captain of the Roosters of Sweetwater, Sheridan of Sweetwater has already been declared ineligible, but another meeting is to be held Wednesday to go over the case again. Sheridan and Wyatt were teammates on the Roosters.

Coach Tricky Ward of the Junior College Texas Rangers, visited Saturday night to watch the boys defeat the A. C. C. freshmen by a score of 7 to 0. He came very much impressed with the boys and started putting his fingers through a workout again Sunday. Not that they had been losing any chances to work out, but he figured another workout couldn't do any harm.

When asked what he thought of the Lobos he admitted they were pretty good. As to the Rangers' chances, all he had to say was that if the Rangers didn't beat the Lobos at least he believed the Lobos would not make any touchdowns against his team. Which we took to mean that he thought the Lobos were better than the Rangers would be able to take care of the Lobos win or lose.

Track practice has been part of the regular Rangers schedule some time. The backfield men are tackling dummies and the

HOOVER WILL SPEAK TONIGHT AT DES MOINES

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 4.—A silhouette of President Herbert Hoover, five stories high and 30 feet wide, smiled down on the busiest corner in Des Moines today, while the city awaited his home-coming with mingled sentiment.

Under the silhouette, two parades passed today. One of striking farmers, protesting the way the chief executive has dealt with the agricultural problems, and the other of the president's supporters.

President Hoover will climax a heavy day's campaign swing across Illinois with an address here tonight. Mrs. Hoover accompanied the president, determined to share in the strenuous program.

Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury, fired the opening gun of President Hoover's campaign in California last night, with an address in which he pictured Governor Roosevelt as "inexperienced," "unable to grasp the situation," and "an apostle of despair."

Pay Schedule of Ranger Teachers Is Made Public

E. A. Ringold, tax collector for the Ranger independent school district, has announced the schedule on which the teachers of the Ranger schools will receive their pay.

All public school teachers will be paid one-fourth in cash and three-fourths in warrants, made out against the state available fund. These warrants will be taken up in the order in which they are issued, just as soon as the money from the state available fund is received. It is anticipated that these warrants will not have to hold them more than 20 to 30 days, though the school board is not able to determine at what time the funds will be made available by the state.

Teachers in the Ranger Junior College will be paid one-half in cash and one-half in warrants made out against the tax rolls of the city.

The collectible delinquent taxes, totaling approximately $24,000, have been pledged to take up the salary warrants warrants. These total approximately $14,000.

By this arrangement it is hoped that the teachers will be able to cash their warrants as rapidly as they find need for the cash.

Fire Fighters Flee From Fired Forest

INDICTMENT IS ASKED FOR TWO INSULLS

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Indictments charging embezzlement, larceny and larceny by bailee were returned today against Samuel Insull, former utilities magnate and his brother, Martin.

The indictments fixed bond for Martin Insull at $75,000 and $50,000 for Samuel Insull.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—State's Attorney John A. Swanson went before the Cook county grand jury this afternoon and asked indictment on larceny and embezzlement charges of Samuel and Martin Insull, whose $2,000,000,000 utilities failure was the greatest in the nation's history.

Swanson said the Insull brothers had ignored his request that they return voluntarily from their foreign refuge.

The state's attorney declared "we have only scratched the surface" in the Insull investigation and predicted additional indictments would be asked later.

No Precedent Has Been Set In Contests of Statewide Elections Such As Present Sterling Contest

By GORDON K. SHEARER
AUSTIN, Tex.—There has been but one previous contest of a statewide election in Texas that is recalled in the state capital. It affords little precedent upon which to go for the contest filed by Governor Ross S. Sterling against Former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, certified winner by nearly 4,000 votes of the Democratic nomination for governor.

The former contest was between the late W. E. Lane of Fort Worth, and Jeff McLemore, Houston, for congressman-at-large, in 1914. The contest was tried in district court in Harris county, taken to the court of civil appeals and dismissed on the ground the court had no right to pass upon it, as the office is federal rather than state.

Most of the questions being asked as a result of contest will require court rulings to answer.

Leading points seem to be: Governor Sterling as the contestant must finance the bringing of contested election boxes and witnesses to Austin. Estimates of what this will be run from $12,000 to $50,000.

Unless the contest is decided against Mrs. Ferguson by Oct. 9, Secretary of State Jane Y. McCallum must send her name as democratic nominee to the county judges for the Nov. 8 election.

If Governor Sterling wins the contest and Mrs. Ferguson appeals, she can take office while the appeal is pending, by posting $8,000 bond to insure the salary will go to the eventual winner.

DISTRICT TWO COMMITTEE IN MEET TODAY

The executive committee of the Oil Belt district is meeting today in Eastland to attend the hearing set by Judge George L. Davenport in the 91st district court, to determine the amount of super-deeds bond that will be required should the state and district executive committees decide upon a super-deeds appeal of the Cisco football suit to the court of civil appeals.

R. F. Holloway, superintendent of the Ranger public schools and a member of the district committee, called a meeting of the members of the athletic committee and the fans of Ranger this morning in order that he might hear an expression from them as to what action they think the committee should take.

Similar meetings were said to have been called in the other towns in the district in order that the sentiment of the people could be determined.

The committee may also have before it today a motion to determine the eligibility of Glenn Wyatt, halfback of the Abilene Eagles. Wyatt played on the same team on which Neg (Red) Sheridan of Sweetwater played in 1928. Sheridan was declared ineligible by the district committee of district 3 at a meeting held in Big Spring on Saturday, Oct. 1.

Should the district and state committee decide to file their appeal of the Cisco case through the regular channels and let it await its turn on the docket of the court of civil appeals at Eastland, it will be mandatory that the committee form a new schedule, including the Cisco Lobos, while if the super-deeds bond is posted, Cisco will not be allowed to play until the finding of the appeals court have been announced.

Action will be taken this afternoon to determine which procedure will be taken.

AUSTIN, Oct. 4.—A valid judgment could not be rendered in tax delinquency suits filed since the enactment of the tax penalty interest remission measure by the special session of the legislature, Attorney General James V. Allred said in an opinion today.

Allred said that suits filed before the law became effective are suspended and now are dormant until Jan. 1, 1933, the date for expiration of penalty suspension.

Ferguson's bond was fixed at $1,000 which he readily gave and was given his liberty.

Eastland City Commission Meets

Before the story was printed a check-up was made with police headquarters and with the justice of the peace office to determine whether charges had been filed, bond set and other details in order to get the facts in the case.

Bowling Match Is Postponed

The bowling match that was scheduled to have been played Monday night between the Breckenridge and Ranger bowlers, was called off and will be played at a later date, it was announced today.

Kidnaped Station Operator Released

BRENNHAM, Texas, Oct. 4.—Victor Wehmer, 21, was safe at home today after being released by two bandits who robbed his filling station of a small amount of money, then kidnaped him and forced him to ride to a point near Houston.

JURISDICTION OF COURT TO BE DECIDED

Judge To Give Decision Late This Afternoon On Question.

AUSTIN, Oct. 4.—Arguments on the first legal point in the Sterling-Ferguson election contest suit were completed shortly after noon today in district court here. Judge W. F. Robertson took under advisement the question as to whether his court has jurisdiction in the case.

Judge Robertson asked attorneys for both sides to furnish him with cases they had cited in their arguments. He recessed court until 3:30 this afternoon.

Judge Robertson has declined to pass on appointment of commissioners to take testimony over the state and forward it to the trial court here as proposed by Sterling.

Fisticuffs Are Threatened In Court Hearing

AUSTIN, Oct. 4.—Fisticuffs were barely averted in district court today when former Governor James E. Ferguson took offense at remarks made by M. M. Crane, attorney for Governor Ross Sterling in the election contest argument.

"It was well known that when Mrs. Ferguson was governor before, her husband received employment from a number of concerns including the Sugarland interests," Crane said.

Ferguson jumped from his seat and started toward Crane. Luther Nickels, his wife's attorney, grabbed him and held him back.

Ferguson attorneys then verbally assailed Crane for this remark, admonishing him to confine his statements to the subject before the court.

"Well, I said what I wanted to," Crane replied, concluding the controversy.

Crane until he has ruled on the question of jurisdiction.

The matter of jurisdiction in dispute is whether the district court has the right of action after Ferguson attorneys filed a motion in the state supreme court for permission to secure a writ of mandamus to force putting Mrs. Ferguson's name on the general election ballot.

Attorneys for Sterling maintained the supreme court, in effect, declared the district court has jurisdiction. Ferguson attorneys contended the supreme court merely told both sides not to use the fact that a motion had been filed there to delay procedure in the district court.

Superintendents of the various independent school districts in Eastland county met with the county superintendent in Eastland on Wednesday afternoon of last week for the purpose of setting a date for the Eastland county institute which meets each school year.

Since the spring meeting of the Oil Belt Educational association will be held in Breckenridge sometime during March of 1933 it was decided to hold only one day of institute work this fall and make attendance on the Oil Belt meeting at Breckenridge in the spring the second day of institute work. The date for the fall meeting is Friday, Oct. 28.

Committees will meet this week to formulate programs for the meeting on the 28th. There will be three sectional meetings with programs for morning and afternoon. These sections will include high school, grade and primary sections.

Organization of the University Interscholastic league will take place at the general meeting on Friday morning.

The meetings will be held at the Eastland high school beginning at 9 a. m. Programs will be made by the teachers as soon as they can be printed.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE GOLDEN RULE: As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them.—Luke 5: 31.

'WE CAN UNITE ON THIS'

Peter Molyneux is the editor of Texas Weekly. Peter is a philosopher. He looks upon men as accidents or incidents. Most of the time he sticks to fundamentals. His Texas Weekly carries an appeal for a celebration of the centennial of Texas independence in 1936. Reviewing the Lubbock convention, he writes, "At least one act of the Democratic convention at Lubbock deserves universal commendation. It adopted a resolution endorsing the proposed amendment to the state constitution authorizing state participation in a formal celebration of a centennial of Texas independence in 1936, which will be voted on at the November election." Texans, writes the philosopher of Dallas, "ought to be well nigh unanimous on the question of the centennial." After reviewing political incidents and controversies as well as contests in the courts, the editor of The Weekly placed this in the record, "Meantime the centennial is something we can agree upon; something we can work toward in unity and it is something we can tell the people of other states about and ask them to join us in celebrating." In conclusion, the philosopher hands out this advice: "So while the air is surcharged with feeling over the election, let us keep the centennial amendment in mind. Whatever else happens in Texas let us make certain that it is adopted by an overwhelming vote." And why not? Prosperity will return long before the coming of the centennial year. Another state election will take place before its coming. All Texans should stand up for Texas and all Texans should vote for an appropriate centennial celebration in 1936. Political leaders pass off the stage of action. Issues, economic and otherwise, are solved or partially solved. All things perishable pass out of the picture.
Texas is imperishable and will go on and on until complete fulfillment of its mighty destiny.

GENERAL BUTLER AND THE CASH BONUS

Gen. Smedley D. Butler is campaigning in the northeastern states for Roosevelt and Garner. He is a life long republican, or was until this year. His father was a life long republican, and for 22 years a distinguished member of the house of representatives. Indeed, his forebearers were Quakers and republicans ever since the organization of the republican party. General Butler addressed a large audience in the city of New York. This is an excerpt: "The veterans will get their back pay because their claim is just and because the American people always play fair." He made a scathing criticism of those who are opposed to the immediate payment of the bonus, naming in particular the National Economy league. In conclusion the fighting marine said: "We remember that war costs money. Our people are finding that out, and some day they will be more careful about war. It is the same tory class now shouting the loudest which made millions out of the war and now doesn't want to pay for it." Wise correspondents in the metropolitan centers predict that in October Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, another life long republican, will declare for Roosevelt and Garner on just about the time that Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho will emerge from seclusion in Idaho and advise all the people to cast their ballots for Hoover and Curtis if they wish to see immediate prosperity of the golden tinge of 1928 push its nose just around the corner. Sen. Borah knows the value of dramatics. He is playing his old game of solitaire. He will come out of retirement when given the hint and let loose an Idaho roar for "the candidates of Abraham Lincoln and the republican party," giving as a reason that the nation must be saved from the impious touch of the Goths and vandals of democracy.

McCOOEY BOARDS THE BANDWAGON

John H. McCooley is the head of the democratic organization in the city of Brooklyn and has been recognized as the most powerful political ally of Tammany Hall. He is a member of the national committee for the State of New York. He has joined the Roosevelt-Garner strategy board.
He will appear at New York headquarters every day. He is a very wise and very forceful personage. He is going down the line for the national standard-bearers. He has read the handwriting on the wall. He predicts that New York will cast its electoral vote for Roosevelt and Garner and that all factions of the party in the Empire State of the East will line up for the ticket on November election day.

Even a lot of burglars are unemployed these days. No incentive.

The interest rate on borrowed trouble is still excessively high.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT railroad trains follow a fixed track and cannot turn aside to avoid accidents.

This fact is well known to all motorists, although many of them pay no attention to it.

They should realize that safety at crossings depends chiefly upon caution on the part of the motorist.

The motorist who drives across railroad tracks without looking for approaching trains is just plain foolish.

When they try to beat trains across, they are worse than foolish.

It doesn't pay the automobilist to take chances.

The way to avoid trouble is by not taking chances.

Taking chances may cost them their life.

Taking chances may cause an accident that a life-time cannot repair.

Relieves Women's Pains

Here is an example of how Cardui has helped thousands of women: "I was very thin and pale," writes Mrs. F. H. Scott, of Roanoke, Va. "I suffered from weakness and a severe pain in my back. This pain unnerved me, and I did not feel like doing my work. I did not care to go places, and felt worn, tired, day after day. "My mother had taken Cardui, and on seeing my condition she advised me to try it. I have never regretted doing so. I took three bottles and it built me up. I gained in weight, my color was better and the pain left my back. I am stronger than I had been in some time." Cardui is sold by local druggists.

COLUMBIA GETS BLONDE CAPTIVE TOMORROW

A scene showing savages fighting over "The Blonde Captive" wife of a sea captain, who was washed ashore after a wreck and held captive by natives. Fourteen years later a scientific expedition found her living with the natives and offered to bring her back to civilization, but she refused, preferring to remain with her savage husband and child. The film, an absolutely authentic one, comes to the Ranger Columbia for two days only, Wednesday and Thursday.

Boy Is Freed

Eleven hours after John Russell, aged 8, son of a New York broker, had been kidnaped and three phone calls demanding $25,000 had been received by the frantic father, the snatchers became alarmed and liberated the lad. He was found riding on a trolley car.

French Turning Toward Manish Beards Again

By SAMUEL DASHIELL, United Press Staff Correspondent. PARIS.—The beard is coming back. Not only fashion, but a deeper psychological law, that of change and of manly self assertion, has decreed in France that the beard shall grow and that for a while, during the next years' troubles, men will be men.

If the Germans want another fight, they can have it, and the chances are that this time, the German High Command will not find itself being "baffled by a beardless boy," but confronted by a tough and hirsute Gallic tribe with whiskers flowing from their gas masks. The French poulu always has been bearded, due as much to the lack of toilette facilities, as to the dictates of modern trench fashions, but in the recent war, officers and men as well, sought the soothing comfort of a clean face when on liberty here. Moreover, the hordes of clean faced British and American warriors, more or less forced the fashion in Europe.

After the war, the smooth face regime continued, and the youth of France condescended from time to time to let grow on the upper lip a small moustache, clipped and restrained within small space.

The only beards, which made their untimely appearance in the capital were those of the young Americans, mostly of the Latin Quarter type who donned corduroy pants, affected but one loyal and constant shirt, and let the chin whiskers fall in silken profusion where the necktie used to be. There were some other beards here among those inveterate boulevardiers, who are not flighty and whose beards are marks of identity.

Some of these included the veteran author and playwright Tristan Bernard, the brilliant columnist Jacques de la Fouchardiere; Claude Farrere, Raymond Poincare and even the martyred President Doumer wore a venerable white beard.

The present discussion, however, intimates that beards are coming back because women want them. It is notable that in the paintings and sketches that represent the life of the latter part of the last century, the gay young gallants invariably sported well-trimmed beards. The Luxembourg abounds with canvases wherein the beauty of women is met in the same fame with the attractions of man duly depicted in ample moustaches and generous beards.

The Parisian editors, who are as deeply concerned with the return of the beard as they are with the trouble in Germany, aver that it is the reaction that has set in. They argue that the Frenchman is bearded by nature, his ancestors, the intrepid Gauls, wore ferocious moustaches and beards, and they claim there is some natural attraction in a man who wears the badge of adult growth.

Five Letters Give Painters More Work

By United Press. SACRAMENTO, Cal.—Five little letters—o-l-i-n-e—have stirred painters into renewed activity in city and hamlet throughout the state. J. S. Casey, chief of the state division of weights and measures, has decreed that all service stations can no longer advertise "gas" for sale. The word "gasoline" must be spelled out in full. If such spelling is not followed, Casey warned, a state law has been violated.

How can these EXPENSIVE COFFEES cost you LESS than ordinary coffees?

There's no mystery about the low prices of A. & P. Coffees. It's just simple arithmetic. A. & P. stores sell more coffee by far than any other company in the world.

A. & P. Coffees are selected by our own coffee experts right in the coffee-growing regions. They control every step—shipping, blending, roasting. You buy direct from them . . . there's only ONE profit. And they are the only coffee company in the world to do this.

Thus you buy the world's very finest coffees—at prices that cannot be equaled. That is the A. & P. idea. The very best there is—at the very lowest cost to you.

NO BLINDFOLD COOKERY FOR ME
—Says Miss Allen

"The woman who bakes or roasts without an oven heat regulator is working in the dark," says Miss Allen. "She is always guessing at temperatures and is never sure that things will turn out exactly as she wants them."

"Such haphazard methods have no place in my work. I prefer the accuracy of the oven heat control devices with which all modern gas ranges are equipped. By merely setting a dial at the desired temperature reading, I can be sure that the oven heat will be maintained evenly throughout the entire cooking period. Guesswork is eliminated and I can get the same results every time."

New Beauty and Convenience

Rare beauty of color and design, plus oven heat control, automatic lighters and insulated oven walls, make the new gas ranges the finest ever offered. They must be seen to be appreciated.

Modern Mining Methods Return Boom to City

By United Press.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col.—Gold—the elusive metal which brought civilization to Colorado in 1859—still exists in the hills.

Production of gold from the Cripple Creek area in the eight months ending Aug. 31, amounted to $1,591,710, a report from the smelters revealed.

A total of 215,700 tons of ore, which averaged $7.38 a ton in gold was handled during that time, the report stated. In August of this year alone, $216,700 in gold was produced from the Cripple Creek mines.

Once Cripple Creek was one of the largest gold camps in the west. For a time there was little activity here, but recently methods of profitably extracting gold from low grade ore have been perfected and Cripple Creek has witnessed a new boom.

HERE--- AND THERE

By ELVIE H. JACKSON

These zippy cold days bring thoughts of open glowing fires, of frosted window panes, and of cool keen winds that seep around the closed house door.

But they bring more than thoughts. They are bringing active preparations for the winter months and the reign of old Jack Frost.

Perhaps never in the history of Eastland's recent years at least, has the woodcutter and hauler been so popular as he is today.

And possibly one may count on more open fireplaces for burning wood this winter than has been the case in many years.

There is one thing sure this so-called depression has certainly brought back the simpler life and has taught many of us a great lesson in repression, that we perhaps sorely needed, but would have appreciated it more had it come in less drastic guise.

It seems strange after these years of the careless snapping of a match and the responsive leaping of a flame, in a modernized highly ornate heater, to be laying the logs of wood in the yawning maw of the open fireplace, cranking kindling and paper beneath, and with numb fingers setting a lighted match, and starting the fire.

Perhaps pictures of ye olden days may come trooping back to mind brought by the comforting heat from the glowing flames and embers of the fireplace. Pictures of those days, when brother brought in big armloads of wood and stacked it in the neatly oiled cloth covered wood box, ready for sister to pull out the sticks when needed and keep the home fires burning.

Perhaps visions of the family circle about the cheery blaze will come and the group about the reading lamp, on the sitting room table, that vied with the fire, in shedding its warm rosy hues over the homely scene of comfort and well being.

Perhaps the open fireplace may bring back the simpler forms of entertaining; the big tray of cracked walnuts, with the little dish of salt; the bowl of rosy apples, and the pitcher of cold cider, with perhaps a plate of Aunt-Mary's famous cookies.

Perhaps wood man is busy, and the sound of the axe rings out on the air, and many a housewife is arranging a place on her back porch for the storage of the piles of wood, to be used in her old-fashioned fireplace, which has long been covered by a silken curtain, or, to burn in the big round-bellied heater, dug from the archives, polished up, and gracing the family living room.

The depression may have depressed many things, but wood still stands, axes are still sharp, and people may still and will adapt themselves to changed conditions, if they take life in the right spirit and in the right way.

CALL of the WEST

By R. G. MONTGOMERY

STAN BALL accuses ASPER DELO, timber king, of crooked practice and of having men shot who try to check up on his activities. Ball says he is making a check for cattle interests. DeLo says he will prevent it in person. Upon leaving DeLo's office Ball saves DONA, Asper's daughter, from kidnapers. Learning her name he tells her he is STANLEY BLACK and slips away.

DUDLEY WESTERS loves DONA. He agrees to make Asper give up the wild idea of going to Three Rivers and running Ball off the company property. DONA goes with him. They find a man in progress with Ball as the objective. Asper is badly wounded from a gunshot but cannot be kept in bed. Dudley produces a marriage certificate that they had been presented from using by DONA's belief, sure of herself. They tell Asper they are married. Ball overhears this announcement while in for food. He is caught by SWERGIN, Asper's timber boss, who has been a leading figure in the hunt. Ball is taken to a cabin while Swergin goes out to gather a mob for a lynch. He surprises his captor and escapes.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII

THE moon had flooded the very last patch of timber on the upper reaches of Folly Mountain. Dudley stood on the bottom step and looked up at DONA. His handsome mouth had widened in a smile of indulgence. DONA could not see his eyes because of the shadows but she was sure they held a flickering banter at her hesitancy. After all, DONA had publicly announced that she was his wife. And she was a modern girl—the slender, active beauty who could ride, play tennis and swim, yet who could grace a luxurious easy chair with tantalizing languor.

"Hates to give up her freedom," Dudley thought to himself. "I won't give up!" DONA told herself, but she arose and allowed Dudley to slip an arm around her. "We must stop in and see Dad," she said aloud.

Dudley gave her a little squeeze but DONA pulled away from him. They found Asper awake and apparently waiting for them. "I should think you love birds would be freezing!" he greeted them. "We've been watching the moon uncover Folly Mountain," DONA said in a low voice and her words sounded strangely tight. "Just a bit of night air," Dudley grinned.

"Well, run along now. It's getting late. Time for an old fellow like me to get some sleep." Asper's eyes held a hint of moisture. DONA bent and kissed him. "You're not an old fellow, Dad! And as your nurse, it's my duty to take care of you. Is there anything you want?"

"Not a thing. You're not to bother about me. I'm going to sleep like a spruce log tonight. Won't wake up a single time." / per closed his eyes and settled back against the pillows. "Well, then—good night." DONA took her father's hand and gave it a final squeeze.

Dudley caught her arm and led her from the room. Outside the girl halted. Noiselessly she closed the door behind her. "I'll move my things to your room," Dudley spoke with a tone of mastery he had never dared use before.

"You can't do that!" "You know I won't leave Dad." "We're married, aren't we?" "You know we're not married." DONA flushed. "We will have to go down to Seth Doby's and find Sam Dean before we can be married."

"I never thought you'd stick for all that bunk!" Dudley was beginning to be impatient. "Well, you know it now!" She could not keep an edge from her voice. "All right. We'll drive down there tonight."

"You know I won't leave Dad." The girl felt she was gaining ground. "You won't be able to put this over," Dudley warned her.

DONA took a step toward him. "Dad, please be good to me! I know I'm a little fool but I want everything to be right. You will, won't you?"

He frowned sulkily. "I'm the fool, I guess," he growled and turned on his heel. DONA watched him go to his room. He shut the door with a snap and did not look back. She sighed and again slipped out into the moonlight. In the shelter of the cherry bush at the end of the building she sank down and gave herself up to her emotions. A shadowy form on the hillside caused her to make an effort at control. A man was coming toward her. She could see that he was tall and slender. With a little gasp DONA fled around the corner.

She did not want to return to her room so she wandered down to the corral. There she found Malloy.

Realizing that he meant just what he said, DONA gave in. But she did not return to her room. Malloy seemed disturbed by this and sat watching her grimly. From up the slope came the thunder of hoofs. A group of the riders were returning. They were crowded close together and traveling at a trot. Malloy slid from the fence.

"You run on to bed," he ordered gruffly. His voice was anxious in spite of its drawl. DONA realized that he was trying to get her away before the men arrived. She was determined to stay to see what had happened. "You can't tell me what to do," she flared and stepped back toward the open gate.

Malloy shrugged his shoulders and stood waiting. The men trotted up and as they came it was plain that the form of a man was lying limply across the saddle of the foremost rider.

Fifty and Fit

A MAN is as old—or as young—as his organs. At fifty, you can be in your prime. Why go along with "fairly good health" when you might be enjoying vigor you haven't felt for years? There's a simple little thing anyone can do to keep the vital organs stimulated, and feel fit all the time. People don't realize how sluggish they've grown until they've tried it. The stimulant that will stir your system to new life is Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. It will make a most amazing difference in many ways. This famous doctor's prescription is a delicious syrup made with fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. It starts its good work with the first spoonful. That's all you need to drive away the dullness and headache of a bilious spell, and rid the system of that slow poison that saps your strength. It's better than a tonic for tired bowels, and unlike habit-forming laxatives you can take it freely or give it to any child. And it isn't expensive. Get some syrup pepsin today, and take a little tonight. Don't wait until you're sick to give your system this wonderful help. You can avoid those spells of biliousness or constipation. A spoonful every now and then is better than constant worry about the condition of your bowels, or fear of auto-intoxication as you grow older. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin protects the system. All doctors know this. Remember...
