MAVERICKS DEFEAT LIONS IN GAME WHICH ENDED SEASON IN GRAND STYLE THURSDAY

The Eastland Mavericks rounded up and caged the Brownwood Lions Thursday morning on Mackall field with a score of 34 to 7. Starting early in the first quarter the Eastland boys drove through the Brownwood defense for five touchdowns. Joe Simmons kicked for the extra point after each touchdown except the third. After the first few plays it was plain to the fans that the team that met the Lions yesterday morning had snapped out of their lethargy and nothing was going to stop them. Most of the gaining was done through the opponents' line. Burgamy called for very few passes or end runs. The Lions attempted several passes but they were all knocked down or intercepted except one. The Lions' lone touchdown was due to a blocked punt on Eastland's 40-yard line and a 25-yard penalty against Eastland which placed the ball on the seven-yard line. Harlow carried the ball over the 100-yard line on the third attempt through the Eastland line. Thomas kicked for the extra point. The drive for the Maverick's first touchdown started on their own 45-yard line. With Burgamy and Mackall alternately carrying the ball they marched down to Brownwood's 30-yard line where Burgamy, on a play through right tackle, rambled through the entire bunch of Lions for the touchdown. The second counter came almost immediately after Vaughn covered a fumble on Brownwood's 20-yard line and Burgamy went over on three plunges through the line. Another marker was chalked up late in the second quarter with Mackall carrying the ball. Garrison went over in the third quarter for the fourth touchdown. Incidentally this was the first time he ever performed this feat. The fifth and last was due to a 15-yard gain by Burgamy and a line plunge by Mackall for the last two yards. It would be hard to pick out any certain players for the Mavericks that stood out above their teammates. However, Burgamy was the individual star with Mackall and Allison close seconds. Garrison and Vaughn also deserve special mention. For Brownwood Thomas and Harlow were the outstanding players.

Former Mav Star May Be Regular For Horned Frogs

Special Correspondent.
FORT WORTH, Nov. 25.—Rex Clark of Eastland, sophomore in Texas Christian university and a halfback on the Horned Frog football squad, has shown up well in the games he has participated in this season. Since this has been his first season with varsity competition, Clark is a little inexperienced, but what the former high school star lacks in experience he makes up for in love of the game and natural ball-carrying ability. The times he has been in the game this year he has acquitted himself well. In several of the Frogs' minor games this season he has showed exceptional ability, breaking away for long gains on several occasions and looking good on broken field running. With the Horned Frogs' regular halves, Spearman and Oliver, leaving this year by the graduation route it is probable that Clark will see plenty of service in the backfield next year.

When They Met 15 Years Ago

The historic meeting of President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt at the White House is not their first. In the war days of 1917, when the two men looked as shown above, they met in gatherings in Washington. They may have discussed then the beginnings of problems that loom large today. They met on the same ship to Europe after the war, Roosevelt going to superintend naval demobilization, Hoover to feed the starving of Central Europe. They met last in the governors' conference last spring when President Hoover appealed to state executives for co-operation and the governor of New York was one of the first to greet him after his appeal. A touch of irony is lent to the present meeting by the fact that in 1920 some Democratic king-makers even planned to nominate Hoover for president, Roosevelt for vice president. These are the shadows that lie behind the vivid picture of the present White House conference.

HEARING ON GAS RATE IS BEING HEARD

By United Press.
ARILENE, Texas, Nov. 25.—Hearing on a temporary injunction sought by the Community Natural Gas company restraining the city of Cisco from interfering with a new gas rate schedule for that city, began today in federal district court here. The city contends the new rate is a substantial increase. The new schedule called for changing the present rate of 67 1/2 cents a thousand cubic feet, to $1.60 for the first 1,000, $1.35 for the next thousand, 85 cents for the next 3,000 and 60 cents for the next 20,000. The city refused the company's application several weeks ago. The company, a distributing subsidiary of the Lone Star Gas company, appealed to the state railroad commission, where its proposal was denied.

Texas Rangers Close Season In Dallas Game

The Ranger Junior College Texas Rangers, playing the last game of the season, held the Terrill Prep Tigers to a 7 to 0 win at Dallas Wednesday afternoon. The Tigers were unable to gain through the Rangers' line, failing to make a first down in the first three quarters of the game by that route. In the fourth quarter the Tigers took to the air, winning the game in the last few minutes on a 30-yard pass. The Rangers also took to the air in the last half, Weaver doing most of the passing and making enough of them click to be a threat at all times. Mills, Weaver, Murray and Bumpers stood out in the game and the entire line played head-on football to keep the Tigers from scoring. Though not impressive from a scoring standpoint, the Rangers, during the season, showed that they had a wonderful defense, as they did in some of the best junior college elevens in the state on even terms and held the McMurray Indians to a scoreless tie. The record for the season follows:
Texas Rangers
18—Cisco Lobos 0.
9—John Tarleton 6.
0—McMurray 0.
19—Weatherford 0.
9—Terrill Prep 7.

BI-DISTRICT GAME DETAILS TO BE MADE

R. F. Holloway, superintendent of the Ranger public schools, who is attending the State Teachers association meeting in Fort Worth, called by long distance this morning and stated that a meeting would be held Saturday morning at 9:30 to decide where the bi-district game would be held. Officials of the Amarillo and Ranger High schools will meet tomorrow morning at Fort Worth to work out details of the game, which will probably be played on Dec. 3, according to tentative plans. Amarillo won the championship of District 1 Thanksgiving day by defeating Lubbock by a score of 14 to 0 and will be the next opponent of the victorious Ranger Bulldogs.

Filipino Is Held In "Loco" Slaying of Six People

By United Press.
SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 25.—A slender little brown man from the Philippines quivered in his cell here today, stricken with the realization that he had gone "loco" and killed six men with a razor-edged knife. Julian Marcelino, 30, ran amuck in Chinatown, killed six probably wounded a seventh man and slashed 11 others. The Filipino sat on a stool at police headquarters today and said in broken English: "I just loco. I know I done wrong. I have only one life and I strike so many down. Better for me to die now."

FIELD GOAL BY ANDERSON DECIDES GAME

J. L. Jones Put Ball in Scoring Position With Long Run.
The Ranger High School Bulldogs annexed the Oil Belt championship on Thanksgiving day, downing the strong Breckenridge Buckroos by a score of 3 to 0 when Aaron Anderson, kicking against the wind, booted the ball squarely between the goal posts on the 29-yard line, with but two or three minutes to play. The ball, sailed from Anderson's right toe, squarely between the two uprights, going over the cross-bar with only a foot or two to spare. Pandemonium broke out over the Ranger section of the stadium when the ball sailed between the uprights, as with Ranger kicking off to Breckenridge nothing but a miracle could snatch the game from them. The ball was received by Ranger on their own 45-yard line when Pitzer, taking a long chance, passed on a fourth down with the line of scrimmage squarely on the 50-yard line. A five-yard penalty for the second incomplete pass put the ball on the Breckenridge 45-yard line, where a long pass, Anderson came through, however, marking Jones then plowed the line for five yards and on the next play broke through the forward wall and the secondary to carry the ball to the Breckenridge 19-yard line, where, after being hit by several tacklers, his momentum carried him forward so fast that he could not regain his feet and fell. Jones was again leered to carry the ball, but failed to gain on the first play, picked up one yard on the next and another short pass was incomplete. Lyon then called on Anderson to kick the field goal, which looked almost impossible from that distance with the wind against the kicker. Anderson came through, however, marking the only score of the game. The game had been full of thrills throughout, Breckenridge taking advantage of early breaks to get the ball down to the eight-yard line, where a bad pass from center caused Pitzer to lose 10 yards on an end run. On the fourth down Pitzer's pass was incomplete and the ball went over to Ranger on the 28-yard line. Ranger came back and made two first downs, Jones, Lyon and Anderson carrying the ball but on the third series of downs Lyon kicked out of bounds on the Breckenridge 10-yard line. AnhowaBreck—ETAOI ETAOI Through the game Jones' sharpshooter punting kept the locals out of danger as he frequently kicked out of bounds within the 20-yard line. In the Ranger line Williams and John Bray played outstanding games, snuffing the Buckaroos' offensive after it had crashed through the much lighter Bulldog forward wall. Williams showed up well, as did the entire Bulldog secondary, on pass defense, knocking down many of the Buckaroos' passes, though a number were completed. Ranger's most serious bid to score came in the second quarter when Lyon kicked out of bounds on the Breckenridge 14-yard line. Bobby Woods, who had relieved Pitzer at quarter, made five yards, but the Buckaroos were penalized five yards. Gibson picked up one yard but on the next play Woods was tackled so hard he dropped the ball. Williams, recovering it for Ranger on the 15-yard line. Three plays gained five yards and Anderson attempted a field goal on the fourth down, his kick failing to go over the goal post. By winning the Oil Belt championship, the Bulldogs will next play Amarillo in a bi-district game, the time and place to be decided at a conference between officials of the two schools in the near future. Outstanding players for the Bulldogs were J. L. Jones, fullback, who was a power, both on the defense and on the offense and who placed the ball in scoring position with one of the longest gains of the game. Gloyd Lyon, who played a good game at left half and who called signals from that position; Aaron Anderson, who showed up well on both the defense and offense and who accounted for the only score of the game; "Rabbit" Jones, who, though he weighs but 130 pounds, played a blocking game that made him stand out; Captain "Squint" Williams, who played a wonderful game at guard after who was instrumental in helping to break up the Buckaroo passing attack enough to prevent a score, and John Bray, who played a good game at center and was one of the main reasons the Buckaroos could not score. TWO MEN ROB CEDAR HILL BANK OF $1500

By United Press.
CEDAR HILL, Dallas County, Texas, Nov. 25.—Two roughly dressed men held up the First State bank here today and escaped with $1,500, after locking two people in the bank vault. Carrying pistols, the two men forced R. H. Carrell, assistant cashier, and the Rev. L. B. Trone, pastor of the Cedar Hill Methodist church, into the vault, scooped up the money and fled. It was almost 15 minutes later before county officers were notified. Carrell said he believed one of the bandits was the same that, single-handedly, robbed the bank on Oct. 8. Patrol cars were placed on highways leading into Dallas to prevent the men, reported driving a tan-colored car, from entering any hideout there. The exact amount of the loot will not be known until Cashier R. G. Brandenburg returns from Dallas, where he was at the time of the robbery.

States Recognize Mexican Divorces

By United Press.
EL PASO.—Several of the United States such as New York and California, have recognized in definite manner Mexican divorces obtained through mutual consent or joint acceptance of Mexican court jurisdiction, according to Manuel Navarro, El Paso attorney. Navarro cited records of decisions in the cases, including Weber vs. Weber, 238 N. Y. S. 333; Stone vs. Stone, Mr. Justice Lewis, 4-1-29, C. C. P. 1915, and Bancroft vs. Bancroft, 178 Cal. 359. He contends that hereafter Mexican divorces are "absolutely unquestionable and beyond attack and mutual consent divorces are recognized in every state of the union, notwithstanding that there does not exist particular decisions of them by the respective courts." The divorce laws of the state of Chihuahua, Mexico, afford greater facilities than those of any other Mexican state, Navarro said, and are better adjusted to the principles of American legislation.

Officers Renewing Search For Floyd

By United Press.
SEMINOLE, Ok., Nov. 25.—Oklahoma officers today redoubled their search for Charles A. (Pretty Boy) Floyd, spurred by the belief he would leave the state after the death of his desperado companion, George Birdwell. Officers scoffed at reports Floyd would seek to view the body of his dead pal. Birdwell was shot down by a negro bank employe during an attempted raid on a bank at Boley on Wednesday.

BEER BILL IS BEING DRAWN UP FOR SESSION

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Passage of a beer bill by the house before Jan. 1 was forecast today by Speaker Garner. "I am hopeful that such prompt action will be possible," said the vice president-elect. From other democratic leaders it was learned that a "skeleton" beer bill was in the process of being drawn with a view of hastening prompt action immediately after congress convenes. The hope is to have the house ways and means committee report out such a bill about Dec. 12. This would permit a vote in the house possibly before Christmas. The most urgent problem is federal revenue. The treasury deficit grows to exceed one billion dollars and may reach twice that figure, unless a special session is to be called at least two months before the fiscal year ends June 30, and it will be necessary for the short session to find additional revenue. Governor Roosevelt desires, above all things, a constructive agricultural bill, providing, possibly, for the extension of farm credits passed before congress goes home on March 4.

Plumber Invents A Bridge Gadget

By United Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo.—John A. Minshall, a plumber, who has an inventive turn of mind, has constructed a gadget which automatically tells which player at the bridge table is due to shuffle the cards and deal, and how many hands have been played. Minshall's invention has the general outline of a cash register, greatly reduced in size. An arm at one end is so balanced that the weight of the scorekeeper's pencil will automatically shift a dial, on which appears the position of the next dealer and the number of the hand to be played. Minshall hopes in time to add another dial, which will tell the players the name of the trump and the amount of the contract bid. He has applied for a patent on the device and hopes to market it soon.

The car was reported to have been stolen about 8 o'clock Wednesday night. A report of the theft was made to the Ranger police.

BULLDOGS TO BE BANQUETED MONDAY NIGHT

Announcement was made in Ranger today that a turkey banquet would be held for the Ranger Bulldogs, champions of the Oil Belt for 1932, in the green room of the Gholson hotel on Monday night. The entire Bulldog team and many guests are expected to be present at the banquet, according to J. C. Smith, who has already received a large number of reservations. Guests will be charged only 50 cents a plate for the banquet spread and it is anticipated, judging from the early registrations, that the green room will be crowded to capacity on Monday night. An attempt has been made to have Coac Francis Schmidt of the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs present as the main speaker of the evening and if he will be unable to be present some other outstanding coach in the southwest will be secured. Everyone is given an invitation to the banquet and no special invitation list will be sent out. Reservations for places must be made to J. C. Smith by Monday at noon in order that orders for the number of plates needed may be turned in and arrangements made to seat everyone. WARRIES SHIFTED FROM LOVE TO FINANCES

By United Press.
LAFAYETTE, Ind.—The depression has shifted major worries of Purdue university students from love affairs to school problems and financial difficulties, a survey disclosed. Since 1929, the survey showed, worry over love affairs decreased from 12 per cent to 10 per cent. Social affairs as subjects of concern fell from 17 per cent to 12 per cent. Religious matters fell from 5 to 4 per cent. Financial worries leaped from 40 per cent to 55 per cent. School problems occupied 56 per cent of the worrying time.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES

Well, the Ranger Bulldogs put over a narrow win in an exciting game Thanksgiving day. It was the first time since 1926. It was a wonderful game that ended in a wonderful way, but since practically everyone in town saw as much as we did we will make few comments, but will give you many of what we took down during the exciting period between 2:30 and 5 o'clock.

The Bulldogs made 55 plays from scrimmage and gained a total of 162 yards, Jones making 125 and losing 15, in 31 attempts. Lyon gained 18 yards in 13 attempts and Anderson made 19 yards in 11 attempts. Ranger attempted 10 passes, completed none, had one intercepted and nine incomplete. Lyon punted 13 times for a total of 345 yards, most of his kicks going out of bounds inside the 20-yard line.

Breckenridge gained 217 yards from scrimmage, Pitzer gaining 106 and losing 42, Wolford gaining 18 yards in seven attempts, Gibson gaining 77 yards in nine attempts, Hodges gaining 59 yards in 15 attempts and Ennis gaining 17 yards in six attempts. Breckenridge attempted 30 passes, completed 12 for a total gain of 114 yards, had four intercepted and 14 incomplete. Pitzer punted eight times for a total of 345 yards.

Ranger was penalized 40 yards during the game, Breckenridge being penalized a total of 95 yards during the contest.

There was considerable mix-up in the press box as to the number of first downs. Boyce House counted 19 for Breckenridge and nine for Ranger while we counted 17 for the Buckaroos and eight for the Bulldogs, which does not matter much because we won. In our excitement we probably forgot to mark down at least three, maybe more. A little thing we counted down wasn't worrying us as that big three points counted much more. As far as we are concerned the Buckaroos can have all the first downs.

The next game for the Bulldogs will be with Amarillo in the bi-district game. Some are under the impression that since the Bulldogs played in Amarillo in the early part of the season the Sandies must come to Ranger for the bi-district game, but O. G. Lambert informs us that in the contract with Amarillo it was agreed that should the two teams win in their districts the game would not be played on a return basis but that negotiations would be entered into and a coin tossed to determine where the game should be played. So Ranger may play in Ranger or in Amarillo.

We tried to get in touch with Mr. Lahner this morning to find out if he knew anything about when the game would be played, but were informed he was in Fort Worth. Our impression is that district contests must be completed by Dec. 3 and that bi-district contests must be played on or before Dec. 7. It is possible that the game will be played on the weekend of Dec. 3 or Dec. 7, but your guess is as good as ours.

Early in the week we promised that in a few days we would tell about one or two predictions. Here's one:

On Oct. 28, if our memory is correct, Gripping Gus Coleman, erstwhile columnist of Eastland, Ranger and other points to the east and west, said that the winner of the Eastland-Breckenridge game that day would be the champions of the Oil Belt this season, and anyone who did not believe him could look in the papers of Friday after Thanksgiving. The Bulldogs have crossed Gus somewhat and made his prediction somewhat haywire. As soon as we can remember to bring a clipping to the office we can give you the other prediction, which was made way back last January or February sometime. We will try to remember to bring it to the office with us tomorrow and give it a little space.

But, to get back to the game Thursday, the Bulldogs showed remarkable defensive strength inside the 10-yard line as Breckenridge got the ball twice inside the eight-yard line on a first down. Once they ended their series of downs on the 28-yard line and the other time showed up with a loss of three yards.

The Texas Rangers finished their season at Dallas with the Terrill Prep Tigers on Wednesday, losing by a score of 7 to 0. A pass gave the Tigers their only score and the Terrill school eleven failed to make a first down through the line in the first three quarters, according to reports we received of the game.

OKLAHOMAN CREATES NEW AND HEAVIER COTTON

By NEA Service
LAWTON, Okla.—A new type of cotton which will triple the number of locks in each boll is advanced by A. D. Cosgrove, farmer and minister, who has worked two score years on his experiment. He has agreed not to dispose of the seeds prior to 1934 and claims to have refused considerable sums of money for the seeds he has developed thus far.

The new cotton strain developed by Cosgrove and which he has named Marse Rose after his daughters Marsella and Rosella, thus far has developed as much as 14 locks to the boll. Examples of his experiments include: A stalk of cotton holding 176 bolls which weighed just short of 15 pounds. Fifteen bolls grown on one twig with the staple measuring from 1 1/4 inch to two inches.

Ten to 14 locks to the boll as compared with the present strains of cotton which contains from four to five locks to the boll. It has produced as much as four bales to the acre on unirrigated land. He predicts 10 bales per acre on irrigated land.

They include sections of the Flathead and Black-foot forests, a district in the Madison range, and another region near the 230,000-acre plot in the Bear-tooth.

Gulf Now Producing 100-Mile-an-Hour Oil Which Stands Tests

The attention of readers is called to an advertisement of the Gulf Refining company appearing in this issue featuring Gulf Supreme motor oil. The theme of the Gulf advertising is "the 100-mile-an-hour oil" and its ability to take super-punishment under all driving conditions.

L. J. Lambert, local representative of the Gulf Refining company, says: "That the test made on the Indianapolis speedway last August under the supervision of the A. A. A. officials proved conclusively the claim made for Supreme motor oil quality and supremacy in the field of 25-cent motor oils."

Lou Moore, a well known race driver with his Dusenberg drove 100 miles in less than one hour using Supreme motor oil for lubrication. When checked by the A. A. A. officials there was no perceptible change in the color or quality of the oil. Mr. Moore said it was the first time he had ever driven a racing car lubricated with mineral oil and that he was greatly pleased to note that his pressure gauge did not vary during the run.

"They're milder and they taste better"... means just exactly what it says. Chesterfields are milder for the simple reason: that they are made of milder, riper tobaccos, blended and cross-blended, and seasoned with just enough Turkish to make them taste right. OUT OUR WAY

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
GOD LOVES THE GOOD; Truly God is good to Israel, even to such as are of a clean heart.—Psalm 73: 1.

GOVERNOR WHITE OF OHIO IN PICTURE
Gov. George D. White of Ohio is one of the leading democratic leaders. He is a dry and a regular. He is one of the most popular men in the camp of the Mid-West Democracy. Ohio landed in the democratic column by a huge majority. Its voters declared overwhelmingly against dry laws. Governor White is a courageous and upstanding individual. He has declared this attitude: "Any change the Ohio legislature may make in the state prohibition laws prior to the repeal of an amendment to the federal laws will be vetoed and this very promptly." He is opposed to any charge in the Crabbe act, the state enforcement statute, until such time as the federal constitution and its enforcing act is changed. Regardless of all this, the Ohio governor placed this in the record: "THERE IS NO QUESTION THAT OHIO IS OPPOSED TO THE SALOON."

ASHURST OF ARIZONA A REPEALER
Senator Ashurst of Arizona has ever been a dry. Now he has changed front. Asserting that "honest and good faith require that platform pledges be kept" the veteran from Arizona has announced he will vote to submit a prohibition repeal amendment. This is his alibi: "The democrats would make themselves embezzlers of power if they refused to live up to their own political platform promises." He reminded his fellow citizens that the people of Arizona at the recent election changed their organic law and repealed state prohibition, and that his plain duty required that he vote to carry out their mandate on this subject. In other words he bows to the will of the people of Arizona as expressed by the ballot box verdict and will vote accordingly should the pro issue bob up at the December session of a very lame duck congress. Well, the people are said to be the masters. If they are not the masters, then American democracy is a failure.

HENRY FORD CLOSES HIS IRISH PLANT
Henry Ford has closed the plant of the Ford Motor company in Cork, Ireland, for an indefinite period. Incidentally the Ford plant had been making tractors for export to every country in Europe. Indeed, the business was of such importance that in 1930, shortly after the plant started, the Free State started making its own commercial treaties with European countries in order to facilitate the exporting of tractors. In an Irish village not far from the city of Cork there is a cemetery where the forebears of the wizard of Michigan sleep the last sleep of mortals. President De Valera appears to be playing havoc with the industries and the foreign commerce of the Irish Free State. This old world appears to be upside down, and the Free States had to be in the huddle.

ANOTHER JOB FOR LAME DUCK CHARLES CURTIS
Davis W. Mulvane, a noted republican leader of congress, died the other day. He had been a member of the national committee of his party for many years. Now Kansas republicans are planning to elect Vice President Charles Curtis as successor of Mulvane on and after March 4 of the coming year. Mulvane was a famous lawyer, a clever political strategist, a man of wealth and high social position, and he played the game of politics because he loved the game. President Hoover snubbed him. Hoover selected William Allen White and Henry J. Allen as his advisers in the Sunflower State. What happened to the advisers as well as the president and his administration in Kansas on general election day is ancient history. THEY WERE SWAMPED.

JOHN BULL AND CHICAGO WORLD EXPOSITION
John Bull, representing the British Empire, had made all his plans for a huge British exhibit at the coming Chicago exposition. Now he has declared it off "due to the high cost involved." All of which is a reminder that the British Empire and others of the European nations spend $2,500,000,000 annually for the upkeep of their costly armies and navies. And yet the most powerful of these nations admit their inability to pay their war loans to the United States.

Ability plus tact, plus cleverness, plus honesty make success, and that is what we are all striving for.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson
STEWARDSHIP OF MONEY

Text: Mark 1:16-20; Acts 26:12-19
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 27.
By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist.
While this lesson on the stewardship of money succeeds that on the stewardship of money, it should really be first, because if the life is light in its elemental motives and purposes all else should follow. A man who has consecrated his life to a high or holy cause will not be found wanting in the consecration of his possessions.
But it means a great deal to consecrate one's life to a cause—more than most of us realize. We are all born into certain environments, and with many of us these environments determine at least the outward circumstances of our lives. We are thrown into a particular way of living or into a particular business, and the thought of life apart from that way or that particular position is full of adventures, if not of disrupting circumstances.
In some, the spirit of adventure lies deep. The things that bind them to the ordinary routine of life and the relationships of family and community are slight, or they are even bonds that chafe and that are quickly and rudely broken.
It is interesting to study the types of people who heard the call and followed Jesus. It was a very exacting call. It is true that he suggested to some who would follow him that they ought to go and attend to the duties at home, and those whom he welcomed into the inner circle of discipleship were as definitely taken out of their ordinary environment.
When the disciple said, "We have left all and followed thee," he was speaking the literal truth, for it was nothing less than that Jesus had commanded.
The interesting thing is that among these disciples we find, apparently, both type of people—both the adventurous spirits, ambitious and ready for anything, and the quieter, guileless souls, whose renunciation of every thing to follow Jesus meant an intense wrench in their lives, something that they could only have accepted after the most conscientious thought.
Religion needs both types today, and Christian consecration in its ultimate nature and its effect means much the same for both. The significance of Jesus is to

HERE--- AND THERE
By ELVIE B. JACKSON
Courtesy and civility are the safeguards of civilization, and the hedge that protects social amenities, from unpleasant encroachment.
To be innately courteous and considerate, one must have the fundamental basis of a kind and sweet disposition, and a sense of fairness, and the privileges others are entitled to.
Rubbing noses among the savages is considered one of the finest forms of breeding, in that it indicates a friendly feeling between the parties, and expressed in this peculiar way.
Pulling noses among the civilized people interprets another form of feeling that is not based on good breeding, for this pulling is not always of an active physical nature, but often expressed in some other form of violent demonstration either through words of anger, rude action, or abrupt and unpleasant demeanor, that has as barbarous an effect as the pulling of a nose.
In the colonial days, great attention was paid to the conduct of the young men and women, who, no matter how poor or severe their environment, were carefully taught the graces of consideration for others, carefulness of speech, and personal deportment.
As a rule a sense of courtesy and kindness is transmitted through teachings and conduct of those about them, and handed down from generation to generation, an inheritance as worthy and valuable as diamonds, silver and gold.
Many a trying situation in great political battles, in world intrigues; in conferences, in cabinets; in homes, in social organizations, has been saved through the unprinted rules of courtesy, and civility.
We are told that courtesy means kindness, complacency and affability, that it also means courteous action or behavior; an act of politeness or civility. The French have a word for it, that conveys a subtle meaning. Perhaps in no country in the world is politeness so distinctive as in the French people.
The intransitive verb, means to act with courtesy, reverence or respect, and the transitive verb to act courteously, towards.
The mother who treats her children with the same politeness that she extends to her acquaintances and friends will seldom have cause

To Gain, a Child must EAT
Mothers, it is not the stomach, but a bowel condition that keeps so many children from eating.
Parents shouldn't coax a child to eat. Nature knows best. Healthy children are hungry. If pale, listless, and without appetite, they have stasis. Not to correct this sluggishness is incurable. Read what the "California treatment" is doing for ailing, sickly children all over the United States!
Nature provides a simple remedy for stasis. The only "medicine" required is some pure California syrup of figs. It stimulates a sluggish child's colon muscles and has no effect whatever on the twenty feet of intestines which strong purgatives paralyze.
Start this wonderful treatment today. Any druggist has California syrup of figs, all bottled, with full directions. Use enough at first to cleanse the clogged colon of every bit of poison and hard waste. Then just a little twice a week until the child's appetite, color, weight and spirits tell you the stasis is gone. It may take four weeks if a child is all run down, but isn't it well worth it, to have constipation conquered?
CAUTION
Some stores will try to sell a substitute, even when it is for a child. Be sure you get the real California Syrup of Figs.

Jury Frees Man
Judge Sentenced Him

OKOLONA, Miss.—David Lawrence, negro, became so nervous when a jury failed to return a verdict in his trial on a charge of murder that he decided to enter a plea of guilty.
So as the jury had been out 28 hours, T. G. Abernathy, Lawrence's attorney, told the court his client would plea guilty if the charge were changed from murder to manslaughter.
Judge Pegren accepted the plea and sentenced Lawrence to seven and a half years. A minute later the jury reported, and the judge asked the jury for its verdict.
"Not guilty," was the reply of the jury foreman. But the judge said the sentence he had imposed on Lawrence must stand.

This column is used as a feature and should be construed as representing the editorial views of the paper. The expressions contained in the column are the views of the individual and do not reflect the policy of the paper.

After all, what right has a critic to say a thing is good or bad or excellent? Is he a genius with a great foresight into the perfection of and uniformity of things that? Somehow, the critic and I never agree, and that's no fun at the former. . . in fact, it is quite a compliment to his I. Q. . . I find myself in a show trying, laughing, loving, suffering with the stars and come away deciding it was a marvelous production and having for days over the lighting effect and costuming . . . and suddenly discover that the thing has been given one star or one-half a star or a dozen stars. Determining that I shall be more observant, I go forth to do my own criticizing. The thing is rotten, there is no plot, it is without promise . . . and, with a hopeful smile, I sit back to read the critic's idea of it all. According to him, it was a success; the heroine cooed at the right moment and the hero's suffering was a marvelous bit of acting. Critics? I guess it's a good thing we have them . . . without their deep thought and wise interpretation we should all be misjudging every little thing from politics to love and back again.

There is a house near me where the weeds have grown up and taken possession of the once-attractive lawn and the shades are drawn and the doors closed. I know it, with a little boy of 10 building wigwams in the back yard and his baby sister upsetting all his plans with her inquisitive hands. There were little dogs and wagons and would-be airplanes just a few days ago. I know a boy's heart all around the doorstep . . . and life was there, and love. Then one day they moved away and now our neighborhood is strangely quiet and dead. Sometime I wonder where he is, that funny, freckling, lanky little boy I used to know. I wonder what he's building now and if he's forgotten all about the things he used to do. Someday I'm going to cast my vote for that kid: president, congressman? senator? or maybe just a vague g-g, lanky, happy-go-lucky brought our neighborhood . . . years ago.

He's a graduate of a reputable university, with all the trimmings that go along with a degree, but somehow I'm afraid he'll never be a success. Already he's in business, thanks to his dad, but he doesn't seem to know how to be nice to people . . . his sales appeal is all wrong. I've talked with him a number of times and was surprised to find his mind glued to the rut of love and life. A man with a college degree behind him, a business with him, and a confident hope for the future before him should develop a normal conversational habit, at least. When I think of him I often wonder what his professors would think if they might see him now . . . perhaps they would nod knowingly and say "We knew it. A school can't make a man if there's nothing there to build on."

Week-end MURDER

By GABRIELLE E. FORBUSH

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Amos Peabody, elderly cousin of Linda Averill, falls to his death from the second floor balcony of the Averill's Long Island home. Linda reaches him just before he dies, in time to hear him gasp, "He pushed me!" There are four guests in the house and all become suspects of the murder. All are strong physicals, have violent tempers and all have quarreled with Cousin Amos. The four are: Mr. Statlander, middlewestern manager of the firm Averill works for; Marvin Pratt, former suitor of Linda's; Captain DeVos, handsome Belgian representing a European perfume manufacturer; and Lian Shaughnessy, Irish writer and lecturer. Linda, realizing her cousin had tried to tell her he was murdered, rushes up the stairs to the balcony. Someone steps behind her, tries to strangle her and she falls in a faint. She regains consciousness several hours later. It is assumed the death was accidental and that Linda fainted from shock. When she is finally able to tell Tom what happened Linda insists they must keep the four guests with them until they discover which is the murderer. There is no evidence on which to arrest any one of the four. Tom hesitates, finally agrees. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV considered it while she anxiously studied his face. Would he agree? No, he wouldn't—yes, he might—no! "But Binks, it just won't work. Put yourself in their places—a death in the family—" "But Tom, we can tell them we hardly knew Cousin Amos—" "Even so—" "And all the festivities planned for the Fourth of July week-end! Perhaps we can't go to dinners and bridge parties, but they could—" "But if they did stay, Binks, what could we possibly do?" She breathed more easily. "At least he was taking her seriously—considering this desperate suggestion—" "Talk to each one separately and notice how they answer, as well as what they say. They'll talk about the accident perfectly naturally with us. We can ask leading questions without seeming to and then meet and analyze what we've found out and go back and talk with them more. Oh, Tom, don't you see it's the only way? The one who did it is sure to give himself away by some perfectly unconscious slip. But it needs time—and so they simply mustn't go, they mustn't!" He sat thoughtfully a long moment and then Linda dared press her advantage. "What else could we do, Tom?" He nodded slowly. "I see that, all right. It's a crazy stunt—but it's that or nothing—" "She put in eagerly. "Then let's go right away, Tom, and find them. I'm ready—" She stood up quickly. "Now wait, Binks. Don't be in too much of a hurry."

Although she knew of old that his common sense decisions were slower but also more thorough than her quicker impulses, his caution infuriated her, so highly was she keyed for action. "Tom! It's 11 o'clock. In an hour—" "In an hour they'll be gone for good, especially if we fumble it. I want to think how to go about this. First we must persuade them to stay, then get together for our first conference and decide on the story of what happened to you—" "That's easy," she interrupted. "I fainted—" "Not so easy as that. Remember, one of them knows—" "Yes," their eyes met. "Binks," said Tom quietly, "I shouldn't consider this for one moment—" "But you've agreed to it!" "Yes. But I'm going to make one condition—" "What's that?" "The agreement is dissolved at any moment if I think I'm justified. Think, dearest," as she began to protest, "you haven't really taken in yet what it means. It means—(as he spoke his words seemed to reach her through some shell that had not been penetrated before) "it means that here, right in our house, there is a killer—a man without mercy and, possibly, insane. A homicidal maniac! And that sort is insane only until he kills. Then he's as cool and clever and as sane, or more so, than most of us. One of those four men—Pratt, Shaughnessy, Statlander, DeVos—is certainly a murderer and may be a homicidal maniac. Do you take it in now, you or I—may be—" "Yes," she answered in a whisper. "And you don't want to call the police and have them all questioned?" "No. Again the faintest breath of sound. Then, more strongly, as he paused, perplexed, "It wouldn't do any good, Tom. That—that sort of man would get away. We mustn't alarm him—" "But you know we are doing a risky—a crazy—thing. That either of us—you or I—may be—" "Stop!" She put her hand over his mouth. "I can't hear you say that, Tom! I know—I realize—now. But we must—wait! Today's Saturday. We'll find some way to keep them until Monday morning. That, you see, will give us the rest of today and all tomorrow—Sunday. Everything we find or guess or even imagine we'll report to each other. We'll get something, I know that, Tom. But I promise this, if by, say, after dinner tomorrow night, we haven't a thing, not a ghost of an idea, or anything stronger, you can do whatever you want—call up Tim Hanahan or go get him or—" "Him?" Tom was contemptuous of the local policeman's aid. "Binks, to capture a man like this you'll need a squad—and then watch every move you make!" "That's for you to take care of. Whom to call and how to do it. Whether we locate him or where we give it up and call for help, that's your job, Tom—to bring it off. My job's to keep them here and happy and unsuspecting." "And we're both to find out what we can—if we can." "And compare notes. Often?" "Agreed!"

"I'm a 30-mile-an-hour driver...but I want the 100-mile-an-hour oil!"

MAYBE YOU SAY, "Thirty miles-an-hour is fast enough for me. I don't speed and probably never will!" . . .

Yet the oil you use should be the 100-mile-an-hour motor oil—GULF SUPREME!

Why? Because the oil that is good at 100 miles an hour is a far better, safer oil at any speed—high or low!

It is better able to conquer engine heat! Better able to halt wear! Better able to forestall repairs and cut lubrication bills!

Gulf Supreme has proved its ability to take super-punishment! Proved it in two of the most gruelling tests an oil could get . . .

In a great testing laboratory, Gulf Supreme successfully lubricated a roaring motor under nearly twice the heat of the normal speeding engine for 14 solid hours!

And on August 8, 1932, it amazed racing drivers by out-performing specially-made "racing oils" on the famous Indianapolis Speedway! Under Official AAA Supervision, it lubricated a thundering Duesenberg racer for a non-stop one-hour run—at an average speed greater than 100 miles-an-hour! A speed which frequently reached nearly two miles a minute!

Take this advice . . . Switch to Gulf Supreme! Prove its ability to take super-punishment—to cut repair and lubrication costs—in your motor!

WARNING!
... OIL that isn't good at high speeds, isn't good enough at ANY speed!

Thanksgiving Day In Eastland.

For the first time in several social seasons in Eastland, Thanksgiving day passed without being marked by some big social function of some kind.

But the day was passed quietly with morning services at two churches, and a brilliant pageant and elaborate mid-prayer week service in the evening, with the usual run of family dinner parties. These formed the schedule of activities of Thanksgiving day in Eastland.

An early 7 o'clock morning service was held in the First Christian church when a program of songs and praise formed the service, led by Rev. C. W. Lipsey, the pastor, with Mrs. James A. Beard as accompanist for the song service.

The union services held at the Church of God at 10 a. m. was opened by Rev. J. W. Batdorf, pastor of the church, with prayer led by Rev. C. W. Lipsey of the First Christian church, an inspirational talk by Rev. Thompson, pastor of the Methodist church, had for theme Christ's saying, "I have prayed that Lazarus might be lifted from the tomb, 'I Thank Thee That Thou Hast Heard Me.'"

An uplifting song service was led by Prof. Barnard of Warner college. The voice solo, "The Shepherd Boy," was wonderfully given by the leader, with Mrs. Barnard as accompanist. The service closed with prayer by Judge Clyde L. Garrett of the Baptist church.

A collection for the fund for associated charities was taken. An interesting pageant was presented as a part of the prayer meeting service in the Baptist church.

Mrs. S. C. Walker, president of the Women's Missionary society, presented a Bible reading, and a playlet was given by members of the Royal Ambassadors and Girls' Auxiliary of the Junior Missionary society of the church.

This little act was directed by Mrs. J. P. Truly and Mrs. Lee Bishop.

The Methodist church presented a pageant on colonial days, that drew a crowded house.

Thanksgiving Dinners Quiet Family Affairs.

Of the many quiet and happy Thanksgiving celebrations held in Eastland that of the family gathering at the H. P. Brelsford home proved most happy to ex-Senator Brelsford, whose sons gathered to do him honor at the family table. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brelsford of Tyler, Homer Brelsford of Tyler, who joined his wife here, and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Brelsford of Eastland, and Senator and Mrs. H. P. Brelsford. On account of business, Harry Brelsford of Fort Worth was unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Mouser had as their Thanksgiving dinner guests Mrs. J. M. Armstrong and her two children. The table was laid for host and hostess, their son John Mouser Jr. and their guests, Mr. Armstrong is in West Texas and will return Sunday after a week's absence.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Satterwhite entertained at noon Thanksgiving dinner Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Johnson, Mrs. Ted Warner of Marshall, their sister, who is visiting Mrs. Satterwhite, but returns home tomorrow, and son, Billy Satterwhite.

Prof. and Mrs. A. J. Campbell's table seated their son Jack, home from college for the Thanksgiving holidays; their daughter Fayette and guests, Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Williams, and son Milan Williams.

Home Canning In County Is Decided Success

By J. C. ALLISON

During the growing season of this year Eastland county probably yielded the greatest crop of produce in its history. The problem of many people became that of securing means of saving this produce for future use. Due to the continued depression and the prevailing low price of commodities many families were not able to purchase containers for these fruits and vegetables.

In order to relieve this condition Miss Ruth Ramey, Home Demonstration Agent for the county, suggested to the Commissioners' Court that the county buy the cans and jars and furnish them to these people for a half of the products in containers after they had been filled. This idea met the approval of the court and was adopted.

As a result of this plan, the county issued cans, bought from the various dealers over the county, for a period of two and one-half months during the vegetable season to these needy families. This was done in connection with the expansion program which was in progress at that time. There are about 1200 farms in this county, and this program was inaugurated in an effort of the demonstration department to reach and benefit at least eighty-five percent of the families on these farms.

In the distribution of these cans and other containers Miss Ramey was assisted by club members in various parts of the county. Mrs. Burkhead, member of the North Star club at Rising Star and chairman of the County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, acquired the honor of distributing more of these containers than any other member. She distributed them to 122 families.

Other members helping were: Mrs. N. J. Lewis, Okra; Mrs. E. E. Todd, Gorman; Mrs. Sadie Garner, Cook; Mrs. Roy Allen, Nimrod; Mrs. Louis Pitcock, Ranger.

Through the efforts of these ladies 47,075 cans were distributed to needy families over the county and 23,537 were returned filled to the Commissioners' Court. There have been stored in the Highway Department of the court house and there, stacked tier upon tier, make an imposing sight. The contents will be used at the jail in feeding the prisoners, at the county home in feeding the inmates, at the city-county hospital for the patients and distributed to destitute families at various places in the county during the winter months. This will enable a larger number of people at less cost than possible to do so by other means.

The contents of these jars and cans represent a large variety of products; in fact nearly every fruit and vegetable produced in the county. In the assortment are found apples, peaches, grapes, tomatoes, peas, corn, okra, squash, greens, beans, potatoes, pumpkins and cucumbers. Contrary to the belief of some people these containers are well filled and the percentage of spoiling has been very small, in fact not to exceed one per cent. This is a low rate for even the average family that does a great deal of canning; it is just a bit interesting to do a little figuring as to values involved in this venture. The 47,075 cans issued were valued at $1,825.37 and the 23,537 returned filled are valued at $3,528.90. The difference in these two figures shows a net value to the county of $1,703.53. This is no small matter when it is considered how much relief these canned products will give to the families thus aided, how much it will save in the operating expense of the different institutions that will benefit therefrom, and the assistance it will enable the county to render to needy people.

Going beyond the activities of the commissioners' court, in canning we find some general facts of interest concerning the county. The 328 club members in the county have put up 110,908 containers of fruits and vegetables, an average of 236 to the family. Meats are going to be canned. As a result of the demonstration work, it is estimated that 10,500,000 containers of food have been stored away for future use. Information obtainable at this time indicates that Eastland county led the state in the number of containers sold. Reports from the dealers over the county show that up to July 1st
