ABOUT
Eastland

By Virgil E. Moore

(Editor's Note — Old Moore About is proud of his column today. It's probably the best Moore About Eastland column ever written, and it's written by one of the best newsmen we ever had the honor to know.)

By NORMAN WRIGHT

Always on the alert for some way to get out of work, Virgil Moore, the walking meat shortage, has asked me to write his column today as sort of a "swan song" since I'm leaving town for another job that couldn't possibly be as good as the one I've had with The Telegram for the past year, but it pays more — more than I could make — and I never could work for just what I'm working for. I can't live on that. Here are some of the things I'm going to miss most about Eastland:

Chicken and dumplings at the White Elephant each Thursday. Irving Bishop and all the rest of the help out there. Bishop being unofficial proof-reader for the Telegram, as the slightest misplaced letter or comma never misses his comment. All the Lions and the splendid meals served by Mrs. Bean and Mrs. Siebert at the Lions Club each Tuesday.

Drinking coffee with Aubrey Van Hoy, a bosom friend I latched on to, and all the other coffee loafers around town. Arguing with Homer Meek, the Firgily Wiggle butcher, who is the slowest man in town about turning in his advertising copy, unless it is J. O. Earnest or Leon Bourland. What makes butchers like they are?

Keeping up with the Mavericks who are on their way in '56, and we'll miss watching that new score board in action. We'll miss Coach Shelton and Superintendent Siebert and Principal Charlie Marshall, all of whom claim I've reneged on a bet to climb the flag pole up there at the school house. They still owe me a football the Mavericks awarded me last year.

We're going to miss Martha at the News Stand who has a smile and a good word for everybody she ever knew, and who is the best business manager in town, man or woman. We're going to miss those silly girls who make the coffee at Doc Davis Drug Store, and more especially we're going to miss that big black tom cat who has hung around there for the past 10 years.

We're going to miss J. D. Earley and his wife who will stay up all night to please a customer at their service station. Willie Sleeper, the shine boy at Siebert's barber shop, than whom there is no whomer. All of the fine men in Eastland's Quarterback Club who have done so much for the school kids and the town. James Wright who has done so much for the Little League.

Joe Manning and James Smith who have done so much for the lads who have passed out of the Little League.

We're going to miss all of the business and professional men and women of Eastland who are the backbone of the highest order and all we're going to miss.

Teen kids make lots of news because there are lots of them and they do lots of things. They get talked about and sometimes they get a lot of bad publicity and sometimes folks condemn them in advance without thinking what they're doing.

I was out at the White Elephant the other morning having breakfast when a couple of teenagers came bounding in — one was a boy and the other a girl — they both had on blue jeans and they both had their shirt-tails hanging out and they were having a skylarking good time. One wondered what moment they might get up and run over a table, or something. The waitress came around and took their order and after a while placed their breakfast before them — she had ordered a plate of eggs and the boy had ordered a waffle. When the waitress left, both kids got serious for a moment, bowed their heads, and the boy said Grace. I felt like a fool. I hadn't said Grace, or even thought about it, but those two kids made a little bit of a better man out of me, right there!

Eddie Don, we are certainly sorry. It was all our fault we admit. Your name was left off the South Ward promotion list strictly by mistake. It's Junior High for you next year boy.

GREEN THUMB PARTY—Post Office employees recently held a Green Thumb party at the post office. Each member, with a green cloth around his thumb, planted a periwinkle for the border around the postoffice. Mrs. Marene Johnson, postmaster, said, "They became a symbol of cooperation to establish not only a beautiful place in which to work but a more pleasant atmosphere where combined effort promotes better service to the public." Attending were Odis L. McDonald, Wm. C. Young, Marcus Odell, A. W. Cogburn, J. W. Jones, Jack Baker, J. D. Pittman, J. C. Whately, George Parrack, Travis Harrell, Charles Murphy, Fred Davenport, A. E. Cushman, C. G. Uffelman, Smoky Calloway of Cisco, Mrs. Johnson. (Telegram Staff Photo).

Paying Of Bills Causes Temper Flare In Court

Arther Says Court Needs More Control

By VIRGIL E. MOORE
Temper flared briefly Monday during the last few minutes of an otherwise uneventful Eastland County Commissioners Court meeting.

The meeting's atmosphere changed like rainmakers claim a cloud's does when the silver iodide generator is turned on when Commissioner J. B. (Tip) Arther brought up the question of county bills being paid without proper authorization.

Arther's questioning immediately set off thundershower activity in the courtroom, but all ended in a matter of minutes and a rain-bow came out when commissioners left for a cup of friendly coffee.

The question which set off the brief flurry was this: "I'd like to know about some bills being paid when not authorized," Arther stated, after County Judge John Hart had said he supposed the meeting was over since there was no further business.

Before the Judge could rap his gavel to officially end the meeting, Arther had stated, "We're paying bills that don't even come across the table."

Judge Hart asked what bills Arther had in mind and he stated that the county treasurer, Richard Cox, had told him that checks for an Eastland doctor and for a Cisco hospital were on his desk, although the Court had not approved either.

Arther went on to say that there were quite a number of other bills paid "that we don't know anything about."

County Auditor C. H. O'Brien told Arther that only "routine bills" are paid without monthly approval of the Court, and the Precinct One commissioner replied, "They may be routine to you but they are not to us."

O'Brien went on to add that the bills he paid without court approval were those that the Court had previously ordered paid each month, "such as the $200 which goes to the county hospital."

Arther then asserted that, "We don't have the control of the money as a group that we should have."

O'Brien said that he paid only bills approved, and pointed out that the two bills in question had been approved by Judge Hart and Commissioner J. E. McCantles.

Arther said, "But not by the Court." McCantles said he thought that the Court had agreed to pay the bill and that was his reason for submitting it to the auditor's office for payment.

Arther then said, "I have no complaint other than individual commissioners are approving bills for payment instead of the entire Court."

The hospital bill in question was for $150 to the Cisco Hospital for a charity patient.

Commissioner B. M. Bennett of Gorman then said that if that bill was going to be paid he wanted a similar one for the Gorman hospital paid. Both the Cisco bill and the Gorman bill were debated at the same time by the Court at their last meeting.

"We are starting something that's going to be hard to stop," Commissioner Henry Carter of Rising Star asserted. "But if you are going to pay one its only right to pay all of them."

It was brought out that other hospitals might have such claims, and that in the past such claims had been refused. Carter made a motion to pay both bills and McCantles seconded the motion. Before a vote was taken Bennett started to make a motion that "as long as the County is paying $200 a month for the county hospital the county will not pay any other hospital for charity cases."

Judge Hart pointed out that the first motion had not been voted on, and called for a vote. All commissioners voted yes except Arther, who voted no. Bennett then withdrew his motion, saying it might be impractical.

Commissioners voted to study the unpaid doctor bill before taking action. In other business the Court heard the monthly report of the County Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Minnie Hart, and debated right-of-way for the new Gorman highway.

All commissioners were present.

Greenbacks Take League Opener, 13-2, Saturday

The Eastland National Bank Greenbacks downed the Albany Colts 13-2 here Saturday night to get off to a right start in the Teen-Age Pony League.

The locals had little trouble in racking up the victory as hurler Don Wilson held the visitors to only two hits. Phillip Lewis led the winners with three hits in three at bats. In all the Greenbacks hammered out eight hits. Eastland had only two errors charged against them while the Colts made eight miscues.

Due to changes in the schedule the Greenbacks will play their next game at Moran Saturday. Their next home game will be played here June 4 against the Albany Cubs.

REV. SURFACE PRESIDENT OF ASSOCIATION

Rev. Eugene Surface has been elected president of the Eastland Ministerial Association for the coming year.

Other new officers of the Association are Rev. Harvey Kimbler, vice-chairman in charge of programs, and Rev. Richard Smith, treasurer. Rev. Surface is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here. Rev. Kimbler is minister of the First Baptist Church and Rev. Smith, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Ministers in surrounding communities have been invited to join the Eastland Association.

The Association at present is making a survey to study the possibility of limiting funerals on Sunday. One minister pointed out that he had to preach seven sermons one day, and the heavy burden on the preachers was asked as one reason for the survey. It was announced that county ministers will meet in Eastland July 2 at the White Elephant Cafe.

Eastland - Cisco Gas Pipeline Plans Announced

Announcement was made this week that Lone Star Gas Co. will build a new 8.8 mile pipeline in the Eastland - Cisco area. Julian L. Foster, vice president, made the announcement in Dallas.

The 12-inch line, which will originate at a point about seven miles north of Eastland and end about 10 miles north of Cisco, will be built parallel to an existing 10-inch line. The new line will tie into an existing line at its originating and terminating points.

The line, together with new compressor facilities at Gordon, will enable Lone Star to transport an additional 14,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas from its gathering facilities in the Snyder and Leary areas to distribution points in the Fort Worth-Dallas area, Foster said.

A series of five compressor stations will be used to transport the gas. The stations are located near Snyder, Abilene, Cisco, Gordon and Joshua.

Eastland Now Has National Fiddling Champ

Eastland can now claim the National champion fiddle player. Bryant Houston tied for first place honors over the weekend in the National Championship Fiddling Contest held at Athens, Texas. Houston was held to a tie by Benny Thompson of Arlington, world champion.

The two will meet again June 8 at Crockett when the World Championship contest will be held.

Over 12,000 people witnessed the Athens contest. Sixty-seven fiddlers took part. Two candidates for governor, Ralph Yarborough and W. Lee O'Daniel, were on hand to speak.

Pappy O'Daniel To Speak Here

W. Lee O'Daniel, ex-governor and senator of Texas, is coming to town.

O'Daniel will bring his campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor here June 6. He will speak in Eastland, Ranger, Breckenridge and Cross Plains that day.

"Pappy" O'Daniel plans to bring his band here, the announcement stated.

FREE ICE CREAM FOR ALL—This was the scene one day last week at West Ward School, when City Patrolman Milton Nash held his annual ice cream party for all students in the school each year for the past eight years. Nash has visited the two elementary schools here and handed out free ice cream to all the students. "It's just my way of letting them know that the policeman is their friend," Nash says. Ice Cream for the occasion was donated by Foremost Dairies. (Telegram Staff Photo).

Sow Seed in Garden for Flowers in Fast Time

To Avoid Transplanting Shock, Sow Seeds Where Plant Will Grow.

When danger of frost has passed flower seeds sown directly in the garden will bloom sooner than plants started elsewhere and moved to the desired location.

The reason is that transplanting shock is avoided, allowing the young plants to develop without a check to the flowering stage. Shock, and resultant check in growth, is suffered by any growing plant that is transplanted. Unless it is offset by a much earlier start, or some other advantage, there is no good reason to invite it.

All annual flower seeds may be sown directly in the garden, and there are a number which should be because they are difficult to transplant. These include alyssum, California poppy, godetia, kochia, leptosyris, linaria, lupin, matthiola (evening scented stock), nasturtium, dwarf phlox, poppies, portulaca and salpiglossis.

To avoid having to move the plant, seed should be sown exactly where each plant is desired. Sow three to five seeds to insure against failure of some seedlings from the disease and accidents which beset young plants. If several survive to the stage of vigorous youth, the excess plants may be moved to other locations.

The method to be followed in this kind of sowing should be the same that is used for sowing vegetables in hills.

Scoop out a shallow depression, and mix with the soil at its bottom a teaspoonful of balanced plant food; covering this with fresh soil so that the hole is nearly filled. Then sow the flower seeds, and cover lightly with prepared covering soil. Mark the spot with a stake, so you will not disturb it with cultivating tools before the seeds sprout.

With flower seeds, even more than with vegetables, the depth to which they are covered, and the light, porous character of the soil that covers them, are important.

The practical way to proceed is to press the tiniest seeds into fine soil and sprinkle just enough earth over them to cover; while larger seeds are placed deeper, in proportion to their size.

The covering soil is more important than the soil below the seeds. If your garden has much clay, and you have a limited amount of humus, the place for it is over the seeds. The main point is to prevent a crust from forming, and it will pay in many cases to prepare a special soil for covering. Mix a third of your best top soil, passed through a sieve, with a third coarse sand and as much peat moss or humus from the compost pile.

Now until the seeds sprout the soil must be kept moist; and this requires daily sprinkling with a fine spray taking care not to wash the seeds out of the soil.

Civil Defense Role of Farmer Is Outlined In New C. D. Publication

The civil defense role of the farmer and his family is described in a new leaflet being distributed by the Federal Civil Defense Administration.
 The publication — "RFD — Rural Family Defense" — is being distributed throughout the nation to point up the importance of rural residents in forging national preparedness.
 A five-point rural civil defense program is outlined in the pamphlet:

1. Take Care of Your Family and Yourself — "A mass enemy attack on America will disrupt much of the transportation, communications, business and conveniences on which rural families depend. You and your neighbors will need to 'live off the land'." There are two very real and direct dangers to rural areas. The first is fallout. A potato cellar, cyclone cellar or any storage cellar covered by earth is a good shelter (from radioactive fallout). The second danger is chemical and germ weapons. "You should know something of the effect of such weapons — the symptoms of the diseases or sickness they can cause in plants and animals. You should know what preliminary steps can be taken to counteract the effects of typical germ and chemical weapons."
2. Keep Your Farm in Production — Estimates show that a successful attack on all U.S. critical target cities would make survivors totally dependent on food stored in rural areas within two weeks.
3. Be Ready To Market Your Production — "You should know what plans have been made by your county for marketing farm products — most important, WHERE they will be needed. You must be ready to haul your products to these markets. You will need to know county plans for gasoline priorities, and have a good knowledge of the highway system in your area."
4. Be Ready To Take In Evacuees — "You, your family and your neighbors should make plans now to shelter and feed evacuees if it becomes necessary. The Federal Civil Defense law provides that you will be paid for anything that is properly requisitioned."

 5. Plan To Help Others — "Rural families may be asked to help the people in attacked areas." Your help will be most effective if you are trained to work on civil defense units such as rescue teams, first aid teams, wardens and auxiliary police. "If you are not in civil defense, ask your local or county civil defense agency how you may join a training class. If there is none in your area, help to get one started."

"The principles of civil defense are not new to rural people," the pamphlet emphasizes. "You have been taking care of your own, helping your neighbors, and ready to help others — in peacetime emergencies — for a long time. But the problems and dangers posed by possible enemy attack can be met and answered only by organization. Civil defense is that organization."

Change

Progress Requires It — Human Nature Resists It

By W. C. VOLLMER
 President, Texas & Pacific Railway

Change, like death and taxes, is something we cannot escape.

Its impact upon our lives is constant, relentless, and sometimes revolutionary.

Human life constantly is in motion. Ideas and ideals, attitudes and actions, aims and ambitions always are undergoing some form of change.

Change is a dynamic force which sometimes comes in small hesitant steps . . . and sometimes in giant strides.

But come it does, relentlessly and unceasingly, moving us onward and upward, or brushing us aside.

Good Change Leads

Change does not always produce good results. Sometimes the results are evil and destructive, as the pages of history and the events of our day so somberly attest. But the wholesome, constructive and progressive results produced by change far outweigh its evil counterparts.

Within the past half century we have witnessed sweeping changes in industry and agriculture . . . in commerce and finance.

Transportation Changes

As in other phases of our society, rapid and revolutionary changes have taken place in transportation. Fifty-eight million motor vehicles, 60,000 airplanes, 173,000 miles of pipelines have joined the railroads as important transporters of goods and people. These instruments of transportation were hardly more than a faint dream 50 years ago.

Rail Improvements

In the railroad industry itself, changes in motive power, in freight and passenger equipment, in terminal facilities and roadways, in communications and operations have been vast and varied . . . constructive and progressive.

These changes in our industry have not attracted unusual public attention, for they are not spectacular or romantic in character. Yet, they have involved capital expenditures of a billion dollars annually for the past ten years.

Progress Welcomed

Those of us on the Texas and Pacific recognize that change is constant and inevitable and we have moved forward with it, improving our physical properties and our operations so as to keep pace with the march of human events.

That is not only the prudent course of action; it is the practical, constructive and progressive thing to do.

Cadillac

Expected Much...and Got More!

He had heard it time and again from his friends who drive Cadillacs.

He had heard, for instance, of Cadillac's marvelous performance . . . and of Cadillac's great comfort and handling ease . . . and of the satisfaction that comes to the man at the wheel.

And so, when he took the keys to his first Cadillac just a short while ago, he thought he knew what to expect from the "car of cars".

Well, here he is—a few miles out on his maiden journey—and he's learning a great truth about Cadillac: that nothing can adequately prepare a man for Cadillac ownership, save the experience itself.

How, for instance, could anyone fully foresee the joys of owning a new Cadillac car? It gives a man a sense of pride and a feeling of achievement and fulfillment that literally defy description.

Or how could anyone anticipate the thrill of driving a new Cadillac? Smooth and quiet . . . eager and responsive . . . restful and relaxing—it simply has no counterpart on the world's highways.

And how could anyone foreknow the many other pleasures that await him at the wheel . . .

. . . the joy of finding that his Cadillac, with all its quality and character, is among the most practical of motor cars to own and operate . . . and the satisfaction we believe he will find in his relationship with us as his Cadillac dealer—and in our honest concern with his motoring well-being.

Why not stop in soon for a personal preview of this wonderful experience?

We think you will be delighted to learn how quickly you can get delivery and to find how much your current car is worth to us in trade.

It All Happened When Ike Came!

(Editor's Note: We asked our ex-fellow-staffer, Norman Wright, to write a piece about his trip to Waco last Friday where he attended the Baylor University commencement exercises at which President Eisenhower was awarded a Doctor of Laws Degree, and where the President delivered a major foreign policy address. Wright's remarks follow.)

By NORMAN WRIGHT

Those who didn't see and hear President Eisenhower on TV and radio have already read about it in the newspapers, but there are so many different things that happen on a presidential trip that any one junket would fill a book of everything about it was written down.

Dwight D. Eisenhower is just such a fellow as would travel around the world to keep from being the slightest thing that would offend the most insignificant individual. He is such a thoroughly decent person it is a shame that some things have to happen to him that he can't prevent.

For example, there were some 12,000 people who went away from the Heart of Texas Coliseum in Waco Friday shouting to the high heavens that they had been robbed — something that is bound to weigh on the President's mind if he lets himself think about it, and he had nothing to do with it.

Mr. Eisenhower spoke from a platform 30 feet above the floor of the coliseum. On this platform were Baylor dignitaries and other officials, some 150 of them. Out in front of the platform on which the President stood, another platform, or scaffolding, was erected, which would accommodate the television and news reel cameramen, also at the 30-foot level.

All of this had the effect of building a brick wall between the President and his audience. He didn't see any of the graduates and they didn't see him — neither did many of the spectators.

Baylor University didn't get the blame for this because Dr. W. R. White, Baylor president, had kept up a running Page 1 battle all week with Movie Actor Robert Montgomery, White House television consultant, who was putting up the scaffolding, and in the end it was Montgomery who won out saying in effect that nobody in Waco mattered nearly so much as the nation's TV audience. Certainly Mr. Eisenhower knew nothing of the set-up until he walked out on the stage and saw it for the first time.

I had a couple of White House press passes with me, one with my name on it, and another with my little boy's name, David Wright. It entitled us to seats at the press tables which were directly under the president and which afforded an excellent view. I also had two tickets for audience seats which I had given to Eastland's two honor graduates, Miss Janis Little and Miss Alice Cushman, and I had taken them to Waco as my guests. It so happened that my son, David, couldn't go because he broke his leg the Sunday before and couldn't get his pants on over his cast.

Shortly before Eisenhower reached the coliseum I realized that Janice and Alice would be unable to see on account of the platform, so I went back to where they were with the notion of doing something about it.

These two press passes I had were non-transferable, under penalty of being chased from the country as a Red spy, but I pinned mine on Janis and pinned

David's on Alice. We had it all made up if anybody asked Janis what she was doing named "Norman" she was to tell them that this was a mistake, the name should be "Norma." If anybody questioned the fact that Alice was named "David" she was going to apologize for having written such a poor hand on her application for a pass — that she had really written "Daisy," they just didn't make it out right. Anyway, they got a seat within touching distance of the president, and since I had already checked in, I managed to get by without a press identification from there on in.

There are humorous aspects to the most carefully planned situations and there were plenty of these in Waco, too.

The Waco Chamber of Commerce had arranged for Greyhound busses to pick up the newspaper representatives, take them out to Connally Air Base to meet the President when his plane landed, and then to haul them in through the motorcade, leaving the newsmen stranded on the wrong side of the tracks. To the news hounds this was a major calamity with the story they were covering rolling along towards town while they sat there reading names of all the railroad companies.

After about a hundred years, the train passed and the Greyhounds jumped forward behind a State Highway Patrol car with its siren going full blast, and the press was taken for a 90-mile-an-hour ride before catching up with the President just as he was entering town some 12 miles away.

That scaffolding came near causing a tragedy right at the last. Just as the benediction was over, a fellow named Skip Lambert, one of the Washington news reel men, fell from the top of the thing 30 feet to the floor with his arms full of heavy equipment. He barely missed falling on a 77 year old woman who had been moved up close so she could see and hear. It is a wonder they both were not killed.

From all appearances the President looked good, but in his moments off camera you could see an indescribable weariness about him, and you could sense the strain he was under and the load and responsibilities he carried, and you shuddered to think of how the entire world revolved about this one man and how millions of the earth's people looked to him for freedom and peace in the future.

And then again, because he is such a friendly, decent individual, with such a yearning to spend his declining years in a peace of his own, you feel that it is almost sinful to force him into another four years in the presidency from which, in the opinion of this writer, he will never recover.

Is Our ... Face Red

The composing room of a newspaper is full of Gremlins, those mysterious little creatures that cause all sorts of mistakes to creep in just when you think you've got every one of them ironed out.

In the Graduation Edition of last Sunday, the Gremlins, or something, caused the Piggly Wiggly ad to congratulate the "Graduates of 1959." Somebody got the "6" upside down, and there you go.

In another ad, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lovelace Jr., were listed

Former All-Stater Hired By College

Fred Weir Jr., an all-state football backfield choice, who is graduating from Texas University this spring, has been named assistant football coach and basketball coach at Ranger Junior College, Dr. Price R. Ashton, president, announced this week.

Weir, 22, was a four-team letterman at Valley Mills High School, receiving numerals in football, basketball, baseball and track.

A quarterback and halfback for the University of Texas Longhorns during the 1952-53-54 seasons, Weir played on the Valley Mills High School team that won 47 consecutive grid contests.

He was an all-state football choice in 1951 and named the outstanding player in the regional basketball tournament in 1951 and 1952 at Austin.

At the University of Texas, Weir was a member of the team that tied Rice for the Southwest Conference Championship in 1953. He also was a member of the freshman track and basketball teams.

Tom Hestand, athletic director, said that Weir would coach the Ranger Junior College during the next season and that he would also coach the basketball teams.

Weir is not expected to move here until late summer.

His wife, the former Joyce Anderson, is a native of Clifton.

Lovely Perennial Flowers Easily Grown from Seed

Double Hollyhocks Are Among Most Beautiful Flowers of Summer.

June gardens, most beautiful of the year in northern states, almost wholly rely for their delightful display upon hardy perennial flowers.

Since early blooming perennials are fully mature when spring arrives, they can develop their flowers much faster than an annual, which must grow to maturity from seed, before it flowers.

A perennial plant lives for years, returning each year to greet you, an old and welcome friend. Yet most can be grown from seed as easily as vegetables, provided they are started in the spring and given the same care as vegetables during their first year.

The complete garden should have annual and perennial flowers, for each has its contribution in beauty to make during the garden year.

Not all the perennials flower in June. By choosing early, mid-season and late varieties it is possible to obtain a "succession of bloom" which will insure in your garden a constant display from earliest spring until autumn of these lovely flowers, which are usually the garden headliners during their season.

Here are suggestions taken from the long list available of perennials that can be grown from seed:

Blue—Anchusa myosotidiflora, 1 ft., April-May; Anchusa Dromore, 5 ft., June-July; Delphiniums, Pacific Hybrids, 5-6 ft., June; Linum perene, 2 ft., May-August; Platycodon, 2-3 ft., June-September.

Yellow—Anthemis, 2 ft., all summer; Coreopsis, 2 ft., all summer; Gaillardias, 2 ft., June until fall.

White—Arabis, 1 ft., April; Shasta daisies, 2-3 ft., June-August; Boltonia, 4-5 ft., July-October.

Red and Pink—Hibiscus, 3 ft., August-September; Gaillardia Burgundy, 2 ft., June until fall; Pyrethrum, 2 ft., June; Dianthus plumarius (clove pinks), 1½-2 ft., June; Columbine 2 ft., June; Carnation Grenadin, 20 in., June; Double Hollyhocks, 5-7 ft., July.

Seeds are available of many other perennials, as well as biennials, which live two years, and can be grown from seed by the same simple methods.

Like the hardy vegetables, seeds of hardy perennials can be sown as soon as the ground has been prepared. Sow seeds in rows, as you sow radishes. When they begin to crowd, thin them out, moving excess plants to other rows. Give them the same care in feeding, cultivating, and watering as you give vegetables, and by fall you will have substantial clumps with heavy roots, ready to move to permanent places in your garden.

Mrs. Anderson Attends Fall Fashion Market

Mrs. Myrtle Anderson attended the American Fashion Association's Fall and Back to School Market in Dallas, May 27 - June 1, in the Adolphus, Baker and Dallas hotels.

The American Fashion Association, comprised of nearly 400 salesmen, displayed more than a thousand lines of women's and children's apparel to the 5000 buyers in the market.

The featured event of the week was AFA's Sales Merchandising Clinic fashion shows, presented on Monday and Tuesday nights, May 28 and 29, in the Crystal Ballroom of the Baker Hotel. The theme of the two identical shows, "Fashion Hits A New Cycle," projected leading fall colors and new advances in fabrics as well as the latest styles in ready-to-wear and accessories, with school wear from kindergarten through college being given special emphasis. The fashions shown were from the lines being displayed in the market. Mrs. Evelyn Lambert, formerly director of sales and promotions at Neiman-Marcus, Dallas, directed and commented the clinics.

The next market week to be held in Dallas will be August 19-24, 1956, and will feature holiday and midwinter fashions.
