SAN BENITO, Texas, May 16. A band of thieves who injured a police officer here last night and later was believed to have killed two bloodhounds that had traced them down, today was thought to have fled into Mexico.

Police Chief J. L. Walters frustrated the stealing of an automobile parked in front of his home when he came upon the bandits. In the exchange of shots the chief was wounded in the hand.

A posse followed the bandits last night but under the cover of darkness they made good their escape.

BRITANNY, France.—No depression exists in the marriage mart of Brittany. After the final count following a three-day marriage festival here, it was discovered that a conservative estimate placed the number of ceremonies at 1,400.

This made a day's average approximately 466 brides and bridegrooms. This is the result of a century-old tradition which claims that the best days for getting married are the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday following Easter.

To comply with this custom in all Breton towns the men and maidens, clad in their picturesque costumes, are married each year.

Breton bachelors play the wedding marches and there is dancing in all the public squares. The vows of fidelity are made in French in the matric, but in Breton in the churches.

Cripple Offers Self to Science

After 13 futile operations, treatments by 200 specialists and paying $7000 for doctor bills in seven years, Kenneth W. Siard, 30, of Latrobe, Pa., pictured here, has offered himself to science for experimentation in quest of a cure for a strange malady which has made his knee joints rigid. For nine months, in 1925, Siard lay in a plaster cast. When the cast was removed he could not bend his knees. Physicians and surgeons failed to cure him. Finally he drank regularly a certain radium water recently outlawed by the government. Now he's trying mineral baths at Mt. Clemens, Mich., where he has offered himself to science.

BURGLARS ROB GAS STATION ON SATURDAY

The Magnolia Filling Station, Strawn road, Ranger, was robbed late Saturday night and several suits of clothes, a radio, tires, tubes, patches, a grease gun and other equipment and stock were stolen.

The robbery was reported to the Ranger police department and Chief of Police Jim Ingram, Deputy Sheriff John Barnes and Patrolman Jack Roach, working on clues that they turned up in the neighborhood of the robbery, recovered the entire loot at the raid south of Thurber Sunday night.

The loot was returned to Ranger and was returned to the filling station from which it was stolen.

Famed Shipping Head Is Dead

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., May 16. Captain Robert S. Dollar, who rose from a cook's boy in a Canadian logging camp to become head of American shipping men, died at his home here today.

The dynamic oil shipping master succumbed to a heart attack on May 1. Complications so reduced his vitality that the heart condition developed.

Captain Dollar was in his 88th year. He was chairman of the Dollar Steamship Lines and was the vital force which founded other vast enterprises.

Dollar's body will be taken tomorrow to the Presbyterian church of which he was a devout and influential member, and will lie in state there until funeral services are held Wednesday at 2 p. m.

Interment will be in the Dollar family vault in the Mount Tamalpais cemetery.

Ex-Nominees Hosts to Young

The men who were the Democratic standard bearers in 1924 and 1928 and a man who is being prominently mentioned for the presidential nomination in 1932 will gather at the same table when John W. Davis (upper right) and Al Smith (lower right) serve as hosts to Owen D. Young (left) at a "Victory Dinner" in Washington. Though it was announced that the purpose of the dinner was to discuss campaign funds, political observers saw significance in the naming of Young as the guest of honor.

GILES ELUDES POLICE AGAIN AFTER BREAK

Red Giles, convicted of the robbery of the Arcadia Theatre in Ranger, and under sentence at Breckenridge, was surprised by officers Sunday afternoon within three miles of Breckenridge, according to word received in Ranger today.

Giles was in the Stephens county jail at Breckenridge awaiting transfer to the state penitentiary when he escaped the latter part of last week.

Dick Yarborough, who was with Giles at the time he was found Sunday, was captured, but Giles escaped.

According to information received here the two men were asleep in the woods near Breckenridge when they were found by officers. Giles ran and was pursued for some distance. He escaped, barefooted, according to the officers who captured Yarborough.

A statement alleged to have been made by Yarborough after his capture said that the two were waiting for someone to bring them a car with which to make good their escape.

Search Continues For Lindy Slayers

TRENTON, N. J., May 16.—As state officials met to co-ordinate the search for slayers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr., coast guardsmen today continued search for a craft which John E. Curtis, Norfolk negotiator, once boarded in the hope of making definite contact with the baby's kidnapers.

NEWARK, N. J., May 16.—John H. Curtis, Norfolk boatbuilder, trailing supposed kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, left Newark police headquarters early today with several rogues gallery photographs, partly identified, it was learned.

Officers at Thurber were called and asked to keep a watch on the house until the Ranger officers could arrive.

When they arrived at the house the two officers from Thurber were on hand but the thieves had fled. A search of the house revealed that the entire truck load of groceries stolen from the Waples-Platter company was stored in the attic. The barn was searched and was found to contain all the tools and machinery stolen from the Deffebach garage on the night of the Waples-Platter robbery. Electric grinding machines, lathes, tools and other equipment stolen from the garage was recovered. A checkup showed that some coveralls and a fountain pen and pencil set was still missing and a more careful search revealed these articles. With the exception of a few bottles of vinegar, which were broken, the entire loot of the robbery was recovered.

In the same house about $400 worth of clothes, a radio, tires, tubes, cold patch and a grease gun taken in the robbery of the Magnolia filling station on Saturday night, was found and was brought back to Ranger Sunday night.

A few odds and ends of the groceries stolen from the grocery store operated by Mrs. Jones were also recovered.

A checkup of the truck load of stolen goods returned to Ranger revealed that it tallies, almost to a penny, with the loot taken from the three places of business.

No arrests have been made in connection with the robberies, but officers are on the lookout for the burglars.

Colored Singers Heard At Church

The Colored Jubilee Singers sang several selections at the Central Baptist Church of Ranger Sunday night and the vocal numbers were enjoyed by the congregation.

The singers will present another program at the Macedonia church on Tuesday night, May 24.

QUIZZED IN LINDY CASE

Immunity from police interference which had been allowed Professor John F. Jafsic, Condon (above), former New York City school principal, and John Hughes Curtis (below), shipbuilder of Norfolk, Va., during their purported negotiations with kidnapers of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., ended when the baby's body was found near Mount Rose, N. J. Authorities summoned the two intermediaries to Hopewell for questioning, evidently in the belief they might be able to give valuable clues leading to apprehension of the child's slayers.

Word was received by the Ranger police department Sunday afternoon from Sheriff Reeder Webb of Odessa that Truman Stephenson and Red Shepard of Ranger had been arrested there Saturday night on charges of burglary.

According to the telephone call to police headquarters, the two boys were caught "dead to rights" on the burglary charges. A man by the name of Miller, who is said to live in Odessa, was driving the car being used by the two Ranger youths, it was said.

Stephenson and Shepard were said by local police to have left Ranger either Thursday night or Friday morning.

According to Sheriff Webb the two are being held in the county jail at Odessa.

FLIERS PLAN AN AROUND WORLD HOP

FORT WORTH, May 16.—Two fliers, who planned to make an around-the-world flight in June in an attempt to break the record of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, started preparations for the trip today.

Jimmie Mattern, Fort Worth, and Bennett Griffin, Oklahoma City, arrived at Hensley field to take a week's course in instrument flying under government instructors.

Both Mattern and Griffin are former army pilots.

Garner Is Again Rapping Hoover

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Sneaker Garner today renewed his attack on President Hoover for his economy statement with an offer "to buy a new hat" for anyone who can find "that the president in any 10-day period does not contradict himself."

DALLAS, May 16.—C. A. Frakes, Port Arthur real estate man, today filed for a place on the democratic primary ballot as a candidate for governor.

Bandits Hold Bank Officer and Then Rob Bank

TREATOR, Ill., May 16.—Five bandits held the assistant cashier of the Union National bank and wife and three children prisoners for 10 hours, then robbed a bank vault of between $40,000 and $50,000 when a time lock was used today.

Police got to the scene of the robbery at 10 p. m. yesterday, reporting a "bad accident" miles west of Treator a few minutes before the time lock was used, was partly successful.

The bank president and several bank officials and employees were forced to lie on the floor as they walked in to start the work.

The bandits appeared at the bank cashier, at 10 p. m. yesterday, and held the rest of the bank over Mrs. McNamara and three children, while the four took McNamara to the bank and forced her to let them take the money.

The bandits and McNamara were held at the bank. Neill, McNamara and members of the family were harmed.

McNamara said the bandits were chiefs over their faces and was unable to say what they did like.

Are Killed In Indian Riot

BOMBAY, India, May 16.—Three days of murderous strife between Hindus and Moslems during which British troops fired on rioters to restore order had resulted in 60 dead and 600 injured.

The casualties were 22 dead and 100 injured.

One-fifth of families were fleeing the city.

Police fired five times in different places today into the crowds who were looting and burning.

CARTER GLASS IN FIGHTING TRIM

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia is one of the outstanding democrats of the American congress. He is one of the most aggressive. He has all the courage of a monarch of the jungle. This is the way a Washington correspondent described a senate scene and incident:

"With pointing finger and pounding fist Carter Glass of Virginia told the senate an opinion prepared by a solicitor general under President Haft holding bank affiliates illegal was suppressed because of the power and blandishments of inordinate wealth."

Frederick W. Lehmann, now dead, was one of the leaders of the American bar. He was a Missouri democrat. He served as solicitor general of the United States from 1910 to 1912. He was the author of the opinion which Glass charged was suppressed. George W. Wickersham was attorney general when Lehmann prepared the opinion. It is interesting that Wickersham became chairman of what is known as the Wickersham commission, named by the president to investigate the workings of all laws and the so-called crime wave which has been on since the passage of the 18th amendment and the enactment of the Volstead act. He is the same George W. Wickersham who has proposed a nation wide referendum on the pro question by state conventions in an off year. He has been close to the republican throne for 30 years. When he speaks, he speaks advisedly.

EFFICIENCY PROPOSALS FOR THE LAWMAKERS

Rep. Harry M. Graves of Williamson county is chairman of the efficiency committee appointed by the legislature before adjournment. Well, the Graves committee is ready to report to the lawmakers of the 43rd. He forecasts recommendations that will call for governmental consolidations and efficiency on a huge scale. He says Texas has 128 different boards and commissions, that the governmental machinery has become top-heavy; that New York and New Jersey and some of the other states have made similar surveys and reduced their boards down to an even dozen; and lastly, that the same thing is going to be necessary in Texas. This is the Graves viewpoint:

"Our trouble will be with the usual resistance to a short ballot as the legislature is disposed to want the people to elect every office if possible. We can save hundreds of thousands of dollars in government overhead if the legislature will respond to the man consolidations we are going to recommend."

TEXAS DEMOCRATS IN BEHIND JACK GARNER

Texas democrats have registered their verdict. In precinct and county convention they have given a ringing endorsement to the candidacy of a native son and instructed the state convention to select 46 delegates loyal at all times to the cause of their chosen leader until he has been nominated for the presidency or his name has been withdrawn as a candidate for that distinguished place of honor. California democrats spoke first. In a remarkable three-cornered contest they handed the prize of 44 delegates to the Texan with instructions that are almost iron-clad.

Texas and California are mighty commonwealths. They are fast growing commonwealths. They are veritable empires. Their natural resources are staggering to the mind. Now the democrats of these two fast moving states are in behind Garner as the choice of democrats for the presidential nomination of the party in this campaign which is to be memorable and the leaders of the two delegations predict in case of a deadlock that Garner will be nominated and in addition to all this the successor of Herbert Hoover as president of the United States.

A reminder that the young democrats of Texas swept the large cities and large counties of the state, controlled the conventions and made history in this year of our Lord 1932. They tossed aside a lot of dead timber, meaning the so-called elderly statesmen, they exiled many veterans to the political thicket and they demanded a new deal all around. Everywhere in the picture the American Legionnaires were in evidence, not as legionnaires but as democrats who insisted that a new order of social things is necessary and that new faces should be placed in the picture gallery of the nation.

WHY NOT KEEP THE RECORDS STRAIGHT?

Governor Sterling is on the firing line. He insists that the records shall be kept straight, meaning the cost of government in Texas. He has furnished the public an analysis which shows that more than 90 per cent of the total cost, in round numbers $103,672,473, in 1930, is due to increases in expenditures for highways and education. Moreover, that the balance of the increase, representing approximately 10 per cent of the total, is divided among the various other governmental functions. Increase in expenditures for the group, including executive, administrative, regulatory and other miscellaneous activities, has been less than one per cent of the total increase since 1920. In 1930 highways cost $47,052,605.51; education, $39,289,548.57. Another reminder that those who pay gallonage tax on gasoline contribute a large sum annually to the revenue necessary for the support of education under the skies of Texas. Also they contribute the money to build the highways as well as for the maintenance or upkeep of the highways. Governor Sterling is right. There is a reason why the records should be kept straight.

PENSIONS FOR THOSE WHO WORE THE GREY

There are thousands of Confederate pensioners in Texas. In the long ago they fought for the Planters' republic and the flag that was furled forever. A reminder that disbursements for Confederate and other pensions were for the year 1920 $1,524,449, and for the year 1930 $2,817,731, or an increase of $1,392,682. Where is the political leader in Texas who would lop these pensions from the rolls? Where is the candidate for office who would dare to suggest it?

The Watch on the Scene!

REAL COWBOYS STILL RIDING WESTERN RANGE

By WENDEL BURCH
United Press Staff Correspondent
RENO, Nev.—Just how wild is the West today?

Are there any "real" cowboys left? Have the dude ranches completely supplanted true ranch life? The city dweller, or train tourist, whose closest approach to the West is through a story, motion picture, or Pullman window may well wonder whether the old days of the buckaroo and vaquero have vanished completely, but in fact they have not.

Scattered along the edges of the most desolate parts of the West, where they have been driven by the march of sheep and civilization, are ranches where the old traditions still are observed. Near Amedeo, Calif., the capital of what once was as rich a cow country as any in the United States, a number of such men are now living. One is the foreman of a cattle ranch owned by the Humphreys interests, large operators throughout northeastern California. Another has his own ranch, and makes a living partly through trading and selling horses he rounds up on the surrounding mountains and high basins.

Wild horses roam a part of this region. They are few in number now, but constitute an unwanted quantity at best. Cowboys finding them either round them up and corral them, or shoot them, for a wild horse now is usually fit for one thing only — chicken feed. Most are small, poorly formed, and untamable. Holding the lines along the more remote ranges are "real" cowboys. Some of them have nothing to do but remember the old days, when thousands of cattle grazed the summer and winter ranges, but others are still making a living keeping the dogies in check, riding fence, or breaking horses. Chaps and ten gallon hats are put to practical use as well as ornamental purposes, and riding is a necessary art among them.

Ancient Game Is Found At Ur

LONDON.—Acheological finds of great interest at Ur, of the Chaldees, have been reported here by C. Leonard Woolley, of the British Museum-University of Pennsylvania joint expedition. One object dug up was a broken carved stone, part of a gaming board suitable to the playing of a game similar to Ladders and Snakes, in which dice are used, and which long has been popular in England. The game, Woolley thinks, continued in use for thousands of years after its invention. The find was made in a building dating from the fourth century B. C.

Less than two feet beneath the present surface of the ground at Ur, the party found a small bowl of polished soapstone decorated with ornamental designs. The excavators believe that the bowl must have been at least 30 feet beneath the old surface. It dates from about 2400 B. C., when stone carving had reached its most advanced stage. Each bull has carved back an ear of barley, symbolizing the agricultural wealth of Mesopotamia. The bowl is the finest piece of carving yet secured at Ur and will be exhibited with the gaming board, here. Woolley, who is accompanied by his wife, will return to Ur in the autumn. He has previously dug up tangible evidence of the existence of the Babylonian cities, and is in search of more treasures for the expedition.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—They have horses in the aviation branch of the Army now, but they probably won't after the economy wave has swept over them.

There are less than a hundred of them, used to exercise army aviators. It was brought out in hearings on the War Department appropriation bill. Army officers agree, in order to keep in the best possible trim. But General Benny Foulois, head of the Army Air Corps, admits that the value of the Air Corps horses is hardly commensurate with the number of men required to take care of them—about one man per horse. The Air Corps has hands, too, which furnish entertainment for the garrisons. Foulois says the hands can be dispensed with. Cavalry bandmen toot on horseback, but sending bands up in planes isn't practical.

"I have never been able to figure how we could use bands to drill with airplanes," Foulois admits.

$25,000 for Hostesses

HOSTESSES, which cost the Army about $25,000 a year, may also be eliminated. There are 13 of them. Major General C. H. Bridges says they will rank high on the priority list if it is necessary to cut expenses for the welfare of enlisted men.

They are more valuable when citizen soldiers are being trained than for the regular troops, according to Bridges. But they add "a general air of refinement to the posts" and see that only people of "proper character" come to social gatherings.

Desertions Drop

THE number of Army deserters has been cut more than half since the number of civilian jobs began to be sharply curtailed. But hard times have also caused many deserters to try to re-enlist, whereupon they are usually arrested and court-martialed for previous desertion.

The War Department last year spent $125,000 on the apprehension of deserters. There were 2237 deserters apprehended and 2011 who voluntarily returned. Total desertions dropped from 10,471 in 1925 to 5080 in 1931. It seems likely that improvement in Army ratings also had something to do with the decrease.

Horses Like It?

MAJOR GENERAL G. U. HENRY of the cavalry school challenged him as to polo. "Any good, hardy outdoor game is a fine thing for young officers when they get to the age where they can't play football," he declared. "Polo is an excellent thing for that purpose. Also, riding to hounds, steeplechasing or anything in that class is fine training for these men." General Henry said he thought the horses loved the game, too.

IMPROVED—THANKS TO CRAZY CRYSTALS

"We want to let you know how much CRAZY CRYSTALS have done for us. My husband has been sick for one year and a half with rheumatism, and his father for six months with the same. I was the only one able to work. I was beginning with pains in my knees, then we heard over the radio about CRAZY CRYSTALS, so we got one box. They helped me a lot. I feel better than I have for a long time. My husband feels better than he did when he took baths and medicine. His father is 70 years old, but feels better than he has for three or four winters. We are going to get another box tomorrow. Signed: "Mr. and Mrs. Tschida, 153 1/2 Adrian Street, St. Paul, Minn."

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

The executive committee of the Oil Belt district met in Abilene Saturday afternoon, but nothing was accomplished in the way of getting Cisco back into the inter-scholastic league.

It seems that the committee is doing everything it can to get Cisco back into the fold, but Cisco is being stubborn and will not play marbles with the committee, which is making it hard for the committee to take any action. As we understand it, from second-hand information, the committee wants the Cisco school authorities to draw up a statement saying they made a mistake for which they were sorry, that they should not have let Fred Hightower play in the Breckenridge game of Oct. 23, and that, since the punishment for the action of the Cisco school officials falls on people who were not to blame, particularly the football players and pupils of the Cisco school, the committee should be lenient and allow the team to be reinstated in the league.

The proceedings of the committee at Abilene have not been made public, but it appears that Cisco has taken the attitude that the committee was all wrong, that Cisco is being persecuted and that the rights of the school have been taken away in an arbitrary manner. If the committee can get the Cisco authorities to take a different attitude and ask for reinstatement on almost any grounds other than those offered, the committee can take some action. Otherwise, it appears, there will be no Cisco games in the Oil Belt this year. But Cisco is remaining rather stubborn and it is hard for the committee to do anything for them. In one of the district courts it would be hard for a jury to acquit a man who insisted on taking the stand and saying that he had committed the crime with which he was charged but that he believed he was right because others had committed the same crime and that gave him a right to do the same thing and the jurors should acquit him because he thought he ought to be freed.

Horseshoes, $106,000

AN Army horse has to be shod about eight times a year and last year the total cost of shoeing military horses and mules was $106,000. The Army breeds about 40 per cent of its own horses and will spend about $120,000 next year on that activity. The law requires it to breed riding horses and it obtains horses of the highest type for the purpose.

The Army's Sex Appeal

CONGRESSMAN ROSS COLLINS of Mississippi, chairman of the subcommittee which brought in the War Department bill, has an ill-disguised contempt for polo playing by Army officers. He suspects horses are retained and used largely for the edification of the "women-folks" at the posts. Sniffing at the continued use of hostesses, he says the military training schools "have a way of putting uniforms on the best-looking girls and making honorary colonels out of them."

"I know it is a part of the plan to play up sex appeal in order to get the boys there and encourage them to do the work you want them to do," he told Army officers. "You are putting women into the Army every time you get a chance. I notice that that is the rule and not the exception."

The TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

AS Windy started in his plane, he cried, "Some altitude I'll gain and then I'll chase we Duncy, who's still hanging to his kite. 'I'm sure that I can save the lad and, my oh, my, won't he be glad? Don't worry if I have to sail this ship right out of sight.' 'How does it pedal?' Copy cried. 'And does it tip from side to side?' 'Of course not,' answered Windy. 'It's as level as can be.' 'It could be tipped, I do not doubt, but that would promptly throw me out. I'll keep away from that, though. It is merely up to me.'

AND then he turned the wee ship's nose toward the sky and cried, 'Here goes!' The Tinies saw him rise real fast. 'He's doing fine,' said one. 'I hope that Duncy's still all right and hanging to his little kite. When Windy finally rescues him, 'twill be a lot of fun.' By now wee Windy felt at ease. Far, far below he saw small trees that looked just like a blanket.

"What a funny sight," the And then he spotted near. He shouted, 'I have no fear. Just hold the kite. You'll soon be safe can be.' 'ALL right,' yelled 'Get below me we plane and then I'll show to drop down on the please don't swerve around here.' Then Windy did that and Duncy, with a sudden sailed through the air ed on the small plane, sound. 'Hurrah!' yelled Windy are good! And now, I think we should go right the others. They are from here.' He turned the little around and shortly drifting ground. The Tinies saw Windy coming and let out a cheer. (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service)

the man HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SUSAN CAREY, 29 and beautiful, has become engaged to ERNEST HEATH, 35, her former employer. She has done so partly to provide for the future of her young son who is ill and partly because she despairs of ever winning the man she really loves, BOB DUNBAR. DENISE ACKROYD, a debutante, dislikes Susan and causes trouble between her and Bob. BEN LAMPMAN, a former admirer of Susan's, shoots at Heath and then turns the gun on himself. He recovers and the affair is hushed up. Susan realizes she doesn't love Heath enough to marry him but can not tell him so. She sees Bob at the theater and this awakens old memories. Denise tells Bob that Susan is a "gold-digger" and he becomes very angry. JACK WARTING, Heath's assistant, advises Susan not to marry without love. She goes to a fancy dress party with Warting and there encounters Bob.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHITTY XI

THE man's eyes, staring at Susan from beneath the powdered wig, were stern, almost accusing. She shrank from what she saw in them. "Yes, it's I," said Bob quietly. "Why are you so surprised? You came here to torment me, didn't you?"

It was her turn to be angry. Why was he so stupid, spoiling everything the first chance they had to be together?

"I think you must be a little mad," she said coldly. "I hadn't the remotest notion I should see you here. Will you let me go now?" for he was still holding fast to her arm.

"No, I won't. I've been wanting to talk to you and by the way, Harry I'm going to do it."

Susan assumed a look of proud resignation but inwardly she exulted in his masterfulness.

"Very well, but can't we sit down some place?"

The boy nodded grimly. A splendid figure in the costume of an 18th century beau, he led her up a narrow, winding staircase to a little gallery overlooking the gay scene beneath. Never once did that iron grasp of his relinquish the girl's slender arm. She shook herself free petulantly and disposed her ruffles on the low seat.

"I don't know what this is all about," she said icily, "but perhaps you will be good enough to tell me."

"You don't, eh? You haven't the remotest suspicion, I suppose." He towered over her, his brows black with anger. Susan could have laughed for sheer joy at the sight but she maintained her pose of aloofness.

"Whoever would have thought," Bob demanded, "that you were that sort of girl?"

"What sort of girl?" She gave him a look all innocent candor. "You know what I mean."

"You'll have to speak more plainly than that, I'm afraid," Susan informed him. "I don't understand riddles."

He folded his arms and regarded her wrathfully. "When I saw you that night at the theater—when I heard what it was all about—I couldn't believe it."

"What was it you heard?"

He made a vague gesture, stumbling for a graceful way to say it. "You and that old man," he choked. "It's horrible!"

"He's not old," said Susan. "Lots of successful marriages are made with just such difference in ages."

"Marriages!" He was frankly taken aback.

"Of course," Susan drew herself up with hauteur. Her eyes flashed. "I beg your pardon," the boy muttered. "No, I don't either. That's just as bad as what I thought at first. Even worse, in fact. What right have you—"

SUSAN rose. "I think you've said quite enough. I can't imagine what made you think you could tell me how to run my life. You've shown little enough interest in it up to now."

"Shown little interest! Oh, that's good! That's very good!" He laughed bitterly. "When I've been combing the town for you for the past month, looking for you in every crowd I passed."

Her hands flew to the laces at her breast. "Did you—did you do that too?" she asked with awe.

Dumbly they stood for a moment regarding each other, these two young things. The fury of their quarrel dissolved like snow flakes in the sunshine. For an instant they were wordless, then suddenly they were in each other's arms. Pale apricot brocade and biscuit-colored satin crumpled recklessly against each other. For a long moment they stood thus. Then the iron grip broke away.

"What are we thinking of?" she cried. "I must be losing my mind."

"You can't go back now," Bob said. "You know it's all up. You can't go on with this monstrous notion."

She was trembling but her eyes were stary. "Whatever happens," she murmured, "we've had this minute of knowing we care for each other. That's a lot." She found herself seized again, her lips elence in the way lovers know best.

"Stop that idiotic talk," the young man growled. "You know there's no use pretending."

They had not noticed that the music had stopped and couples had begun to drift toward the supper room, so absorbed were they in each other.

Round World Trip Takes 36 Days

By United Press.

NEW YORK.—A 36-day trip around the world is now scheduled by train and steamship.

By using airplanes, the globe trotter can make the journey in about one-third the 80-day trip of Jules Verne. The new belt line follows roughly the route blazed by Gatty and Post, instead of the beaten path via the Mediterranean, Suez Canal and India.

The short cut crosses the United States and spans the Pacific ocean from Seattle to Japan. Keeping well to the north, Siberia is crossed by train, reversing the famous journey made by Marco Polo in 1263. The new route crosses Russia, which is deflecting travel and from Moscow and Leningrad the globe trotter proceeds by the shortest route to Sweden. On the theory that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points, the traveler sails from Gothenburg and skirts the northern cape of Scotland on the direct route to New York. The new belt line reduces the trip from about 25,000 to 18,000 miles.

Tavern School Teaches a Dumb Man To Speak

By United Press.

IDE, Devonshire, England.—For 24 years Walt Luke was deaf and dumb. Every night he visited the public-house drinking cider with his fellow villagers, saying nothing. This became too much for them, so they decided to teach Luke to talk.

Amid smoke and tankards of cider they made syllables with their mouths and passed words written on pieces of paper to him. Watching and studying their lip talk, Luke used to repeat the signs after them. Their endeavors although tedious proved successful. Walt Luke could speak. The very first words he said were "pint, please" and the next "half-pint." Lip talk continued, and Luke has become very efficient.

Another historian comes forward with the assertion that Columbus did not land at San Salvador. If the depression keeps up, we might decide the whole discovery was a mistake.

Farmer Mystified By $500 Present

By United Press.

CLENDENIN, W. Va.—John H. Board, a farmer, doesn't know why, but he has been made a present of $500.

Board was working in the side yard of his farm when a snappy coupe stopped in front of his gate. A well dressed man got out and accosted him:

"Is your name Board?"

"My name is John H. Board," the farmer replied.

"Here is a package that has been sent to you," said the stranger, handing over a yellow envelope.

The visitor then returned to his car and drove away.

Board found that the envelope contained 10 crisp $50 federal reserve notes. With no further explanation of the "gift," Board deposited it in a bank, where it will remain unless someone shows cause why it shouldn't.

Martha Dorcas Class Envoys Matinee At Lyric Theatre

An interesting contest in membership, attendance, collections, and church attendance, has been waged the past three months in the Martha Dorcas class of the Methodist Church.

Sides were captained by Mrs. W. E. Coleman for the Marthas and Mrs. M. D. Griffin for the Dorcas side.

On Thursday the Dorcas side was announced as winner by 400 points.

The Martha side paid forfeit in the form of a basket lunch served after a matinee at the Lyric, when the "Man Who Played God" was enjoyed. The work of George Arliss, the artist, was greatly appreciated.

Adjournment was taken to the Martha Dorcas classroom, and individual hostess refreshment served in which the losing side drew Dorcas partners, as their vis a vis.

Mrs. S. P. Rumph of Baird was an out-of-town guest for the occasion.

Guest of Breckenridge Club

Miss Geraldine Dabney of our city who teaches in Albany High school was a guest at the luncheon given by the Fine Arts Club in Breckenridge Saturday.

Lest We Forget

Again the time for the baccalaureate sermon rolls around and the earnest student will face the parting of the ways, between care-free school days and the work-a-day world of prosaic bread winning or housekeeping.

Again the earnest minister will give his charge to aspiring young listeners.

Next Sunday night Rev. George W. Shearer will deliver the address to the high school students at 8 o'clock in auditorium of high school.

A massed choir, under the direction of Wilda Drago, will sing that glorious oratorio, "The Heavens Are Telling."

The Drago octette will appear in a group of two numbers and will possess the opportunity.

The choir will have support of octette and piano, Sunday, May 22.

A cover pantomime and dance by the fairies, was enlivened by the antics of Hop-O-My-Thump, as played by Virgil Seaberry, cunning in a tight brown suit, with cap to match.

Soloists for the first act were Anna Jane Taylor, Mary Jane Harrell, Frances Lane, Joe Amilee Lobough.

Six choruses interspersed the production. Garden elves, in orange and brown, and green and brown, quaint costumes, were played by Robert Herron, Edward Freyschlag Jr., Charles Lovelace.

The giant, James Metcalf, elongated by a tall hat, gave a very pretty solo.

A beautiful rose petal dance was done by girls in rose petal costumes, Mary Prater, Dorothy Perkins, Freda Michael, Nancy Seaberry, Joe Cecil Coffman, Emma Lee Hart, Patsy Sparks, and Marjorie Murphy.

Between acts, a characteristic dance, "The Glowworm" was artistically interpreted by Mary Jane Harrell.

A piano solo, "Flirtation Dance" followed by Johnny Hazel Reese.

The next interval presented the piano trio, "Sylvan Sprites," played by Josephine Murphy, Joyce Newman and Ray Mildred Hearn.

Piano solo, by Johnny Mae Murphy. Ushers were Thomas Dabney and Don Russell. Door hostesses for the club were Miss Sallie Bowlin and Mrs. Johnny Hart.

The arrangements of the stage, beautiful decorations, and planning of costumes, were due Mrs. Lane, Mrs. Michaels, and Mrs. J. Frank Sparks.

Thursday Afternoon Study Club Notes

A regular meeting of the Afternoon Study club has been announced by the president, Mrs. B. M. Collie for next Thursday afternoon, in Community clubhouse.

The club picnic, which was originally set for Thursday, has been postponed for a date announced later by the committee on arrangements, Mmes. James Horton, F. M. Kenney, M. C. Hayes and W. A. Martin.

The program on "Extemporaneous Speech" will be in charge of Mrs. W. P. Leslie.

Amusements will be arranged by Mmes. J. M. Perkins, J. E. Hickman and A. H. Johnson.

land won first place not only in her group division, which is from 12 to 13 years of age, but first place out of the entire grade school division.

Miss Killough played 14 pieces in all, winning 10 blue ribbons, two white ribbons, two red ribbons, and had the average grade of 97.14.

Miss Killough was a very popular young artist, and Eastland is justly proud of her record.

Miss Clara June Kimble won second place out of her group division of 12 to 13 years of age.

Miss Kimble also won second place out of all grade schools.

Miss Kimble played 14 numbers winning nine blue ribbons, four white ribbons, and one red ribbon, and had the average grade of 97.21.

Miss Kimble's work was greatly admired. These two young girls are champions of all grade schools in the southwest in music.

It is such achievements as these that puts Eastland to the forefront in her musical reputation.

Wilda Drago, artist, musician, accompanied these young ladies, her students, and was with them during the tournament.

The judge for tournament was John Thompson of Kansas City, maestro, and writer of children's music.

Rose Operetta Charming Success

"A Rose Dream," children's operetta by Mrs. Forum, was presented on the stage of the high school auditorium, Friday night, to a crowded and enthusiastic house, that revelled in the lovely music, fairy costumes, and pretty scenes of the operetta, presented by the children of South Ward school glee club, directed by the talented Mrs. A. F. Taylor, assisted by Miss Loraine Taylor, pianist.

The stage was a real garden, fringed with tall palms and ferns, with here and there high baskets of roses, in relief against a backdrop of bluebonnet field, and wings of forest foliage.

A small studio piano to one side of drop curtain, stage front, was disguised with roses. This instrument was used for between-act numbers.

The pianist for operetta, was concealed.

In the center of the garden a tall white throne, rose crowned and bedecked, awaited the coming of the queen, Frances Lane, regal in her long white satin robes, white velvet train, sparkling crown, and frothy laces, that swung from crown to train tip.

The queen's attendants, Gladys Hoffman, Marie Plummer, Marva Lou Crossley, in fairy dresses, were admitted by the door fairy, Altrine Lovelace, to the splendors of the palace.

The opera, in two acts, swung along without pause, to a beautiful climax, in which Anna Jane Taylor, a little rose, as a lost child, found her way to fairyland, and discovered in the rose garden, the fairies, exquisite in pastel costumes of many shades and airy garb, Mary Jane Harrell, Melba Bess Woods, Joe Camille Lobough, Frankie Mae Pierce, Marjorie Murphy, and Melba Ruth Wood.

Senior Class Play Progressing

A week from tomorrow night, the boards of the high school auditorium stage will echo with the tread of senior class members who will present, "Intruding on Horace," a clever play in three acts by Edwin Scribner, and directed by Miss Onieta Russell.

Those taking part in the play include Happy Hightower, lead, and George Wilson, George McWilliams, James Simmons, D. L. Childress and Robert McLamery.

Jane Connellee, lead; Mary McCarty, Ruth Hearn, Shirley Ferrell, Edith Wood, and Joe Wood.

Snappy specialties will be given between acts.

Sponsors of the play are Mrs. Charles Faff and S. B. Phillips.

Rehearsals are held each day, and sometimes twice daily.

School will close May 26, and commencement night, May 26, will have program in the high school auditorium.

Formal Little Club Organized

An informal little club of young girls has been organized and meets every Wednesday afternoon, at the home of the different hostesses.

In these modern days it is delightful to know this club has the old-fashioned title of "Sewing Circle."

The first meeting was held with Miss Ruth O'Neil, the second with Miss Mona Pritchard, and the recent Sewing Circle was held with Miss Evelyn Peterson, on Wednesday afternoon.

Every fourth Wednesday, a social meeting is held in the evening, in lieu of the usual session, and the boy friend is invited.

HERE--- AND THERE

By ELVIE H. JACKSON

This is the season for garden making, and with the pteous rains of recent weeks, garden sites have bloomed prodigiously.

Our city fathers, in their generosity, and realization, that home gardens would help along a bit, in these days of depression have allowed twice the amount of water for the old rate, and when the rains stop, gardens can continue to grow, through this thoughtful provision.

Have you seen the James H. Cheatham garden? Everything is set possible, in attractive and orderly array, soul-filling and satisfying.

Judge George L. Davenport has built up his rear premises and terraced a large outdoor sitting room, already in grass with beautiful shade trees, terraced with stone, and a pretty flag walk, ready for summer use. This will be an ideal retreat when the hot weather comes.

The rear yard at the home of Charles Fagg, on South Seaman, is already a visual delight. Surrounded on three sides by a waving hedge, stone fountain in the corner, bright bird houses aloft, garden furniture, garden table, and fish pond with golden treasures, this grassy space will be exquisite resting place.

With little effort yards can be transformed by the addition of our natural trees and shrubs, which can be brought in from the country hillside in our cars, and planted at no cost, about one's home.

Perhaps there is no more attractive yard in Eastland, than that of Allen Dabney on South Seaman street. This hospitable home, embowered in tall, friendly trees, with wide-lawn expanse, flower-bordered, is broken by the portico-cochere with its ribbon driveways of stone. The premises are the especial care of the master of the house, who takes his "daily dozen" in this fashion.

Miss Geraldine Dabney, teacher of public school music in Albany high school, is director for an operetta, to be presented by the school on Thursday night. Miss Dabney will be home at close of school term to visit her parents, the Allen Dabneys, who spent the week-end in Goldthwaite.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Johnson entertained Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Webb of Albany over the week-end, Mrs. Webb remaining until Thursday next.

Mrs. B. M. Collie spent Saturday in Fort Worth, and Mrs. M. L. Keasler was also a visitor there that day.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Taylor and family were week-end visitors in Goldthwaite.

Miss V. Beta Cohn of Rotan, Texas, student of Simmons university, was the guest of Miss Mona Pritchard from Monday until Friday.

Mrs. John Turner left Sunday for Paris, on a two weeks visit with her mother, and will return by way of Dallas for a short stay with relatives.

Pupils of Mrs. A. F. Taylor and Miss Loraine Taylor will give a recital in piano and reading, at the Methodist church, 8:15 p. m., Friday, May 20, and will be assisted by the addition of the South Ward rhythm band. A large attendance is expected.

Among the 165 students who ask diplomas in business at Texas university, are Eugene Downtain of Eastland and Floyd Killingsworth of Ranger. We don't know just exactly what these diplomas will do, but it is supposed to fit the holder as bachelor of business administration.

Hon. J. E. Hickman of Eastland is in San Antonio today. He will be the principal speaker there tonight at the banquet of the San Antonio Bar association.

Judge Hickman will return by way of Mineral Wells where he will address the Texas Bar association during its convention there this week.

R. R. Bush, former county agent, now pasture service inspector and improvement, is demonstrating on the Jack Bourland farm in the Okra community and the L. A. Hightower farm.

Miss Ruth Ramey is in Bryan, Texas, where she attended the funeral of the mother of Miss Helen Swift, Miss Swift is district demonstrator.
