Col. Zack Miller Defies Lawyers With Gun

GRIPINGS

By GUS
This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

I meant to write about the depression today. Not depression in the ordinary and popular conception of its meaning, but the depression in the highway about two miles west of Ranger where the cement makes the turn around the Lone Star loading rack. I can't write about that depression now because it has been re-routed to normalcy. The highway was fixed it and it is as smooth as any part of the road. I could have griped about it early in the week so I could take credit for having it fixed. Heck.

WILD WEST IS RE-ENACTED BY AGED RANCHER

Defies Officers To Auction Off Stock and Ranch Equipment.

By United Press.
MARIAND, Okla., March 24.—The spirit of the old west flamed into the fierce fire of pioneer days today as Col. Zack L. Miller drew a gun in defiance of efforts to sell his 101 Ranch stock and equipment.

Leaping from a sick bed, Colonel Miller, last of the three brothers who founded the famous ranch 40 years ago, grabbed a shotgun and shot into the floor of this white house room when two attorneys came to open an auction of the ranch property.

Neal Sullivan and R. O. Wilson, attorneys for Fred C. Clarke, named receivers for the ranch, fled, neither being injured.

The 62-year-old pioneer then barricaded himself in his home and defied anyone to molest him in his homestead.

The attorneys notified the sheriff at Newkirk and Deputy Joe Cooper and Assistant County Attorney Ralph Harder, started for the ranch.

"We are going to get Miller out of the ranch home," Cooper declared.

Told by the United Press that the officers were going to oust him, Miller defied them.

"I'm here and I haven't bothered anybody and I am going to hold my home. No one is coming in here."

"You say they are going to get me. They won't unless they use dynamite and machine guns."

"I don't want to do anyone harm, but I think I know my rights."

He then related the gunplay earlier in the day that created a sensation at the auction of the livestock, including pigs and buffalo and huge quantities of ranch equipment.

"Sullivan and Wilson came into my room where I have been sick for 14 days from nervous troubles caused by these attempts to ruin me and deprive me of my home."

"They said they came to sell my stock and tools and I told them they could not. I had made plans for refinancing and had secured permission of creditors to do as I saw fit. Sullivan laughed in my face and made a move for his hip pocket."

"I went to a closet, secured my shotgun and blazed away at the floor. They ran, just I knew they would."

"Perhaps I should have let them have it. They had hounded me almost to death. I could have shot them down and been within my rights."

"I am a law-abiding citizen and have lived here 40 years, but when courts do what they did to me I am desperate."

PRIVETT CASE GOES TO JURY ON THURSDAY

With testimony concluded in the trial of Oscar Privett now on trial in the 91st district court for the murder of Melvin Danson in May, 1930, the court took a recess Wednesday afternoon while Honorable George L. Davenport prepared the charge to the jury.

Attorneys put in the major part of Thursday morning going over the charge and making their exceptions. The arguments of the attorneys were heard this afternoon and the case given to the jury but a verdict was not returned at press time.

Vote Is 223 to 153 Against Budget Balancing Bill Today.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, March 24.—The 2 1/2 per cent sales tax proposal in the billion-dollar revenue bill was defeated by the rank and file of the house today.

The vote was 223 to 153.

It means the house leaders will try to take their bill back to committee in another effort to raise funds to balance the budget.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, March 24.—Cries of "fight, fight" from the House floor today interrupted debate on the sales tax as members streamed into the lobby to find two members angrily shouting at each other over an incident on the floor a few minutes before.

The two Representatives, Carl Mates, Republican, Michigan, and Thomas L. Blanton, Democrat, Texas, were pacified and calmed down, however, by other members before any blows were struck.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, March 24.—Acting Chairman Christ of the ways and means committee forced the House into an agreement today to end debate on the sales tax at 2 p. m.

The action will force a vote on the sales tax shortly after that time.

BLANTON SAYS SALES TAX IS BEING FOUGHT

A telegram received this morning from Thomas L. Blanton, congressman from the seventeenth congressional district, says:

"Please publish, assisting my answering numerous letters and telegrams too voluminous for reply, that citizens need have no uneasiness concerning proposed sales tax."

"You will remember last year I refused to go on Henry's junket trip through Canada. He and other multimillionaire organizations are seeking through this proposed sales tax, to shift the burden of governmental expenses to the shoulders of the poor, who are unable to pay it, and it is not going to stand for it."

"We hope to pass, today, an amendment taxing gambling transactions on Wall Street that will produce $600,000,000 revenue."

Money Problems of Schools To Be Subject of Meet

By United Press.
FORT WORTH.—An attempt to devise a solution of the financial problems facing the Texas public school system will be the principal subject of the State Teachers' association executive committee meeting here Saturday, March 26.

Inability of taxpayers to meet their obligations and the strong demand that tax reduction be facilitated through decreased public school expenditures has caused the school finance problem to become acute, said R. T. Ellis, Fort Worth, secretary of the committee.

Members of the state board of education have been invited to convene with the committee to adjust any differences in the views of the two groups and to try to arrive at a harmonious plan, Ellis said.

The majority of Texas schools are meeting their present expenditures in an encouraging manner, he explained, but the proposed further reduction of school funds through the amendment to exempt all homesteads under $3,000 valuation from state school tax assessments adds another problem which must be met.

The state is faced with the necessity of having some plan for meeting this reduction, Ellis said, in event the amendment passes at the general election in November.

It may be met, he said, by creating some other fund or by reducing school expenditures through elimination of duplication in subjects, through reduction of teachers' salaries, or by other means. Dr. J. A. Hill, Canyon, president of the committee, is to present a plan at the meeting by which it is hoped the state board may solve the problem of school finance without salary reductions. Bitter opposition has arisen from association members on proposed salary cuts.

Dr. Hill's plan probably will call for elimination of subjects which are largely or wholly duplicated in other courses. Complete details will not be available until he arrives.

"Our purpose is to adjust the situation but not to hurt the schools more than is necessary," said Ellis. "This may be accomplished by eliminating duplicate courses. Unfortunately when there is a clamor for tax reduction, it means two things—schools and roads. This practice is not confined to Texas. It seems to prevail throughout the United States. School teachers are eager to aid in every way. They do not want to cripple the schools. They are desirous of assisting any practicable and ration plan created."

Members of the committee are: J. C. Cochran, San Antonio; J. H. Newton, Paris; A. W. Birdwell, Naacochoches; Mrs. Roy C. Owens, Tyler; Ida A. Shreeves, Denison; Edna Rowe, Dallas; J. J. Hendricks, Kerens; Bonner Feizell, Palestine; H. L. Mills, Houston; H. B. Montgomery, Cuero; H. H. Goodman, San Marcos; Beulah Oden, Waco; Eula Hunter, Fort Worth; Edith Clark, Denton; Evelyn Sterling, San Antonio; B. H. Miller, Eagle Pass; W. C. Blankenship, Big Spring; N. S. Holland, Breckridge; and J. Z. Rogers, Lamesa.

Circling through four southern states and striking in widely separated sections of Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee and eastern Mississippi, a tornado demolished homes and buildings and left a death toll estimated at more than 300 killed. More than 2,500 were reported injured.

This sketch map shows the path of the tornado, which struck first in Alabama and bored through a score of towns and rural communities, hurling houses high in the air, in its northward path.

Twisting eddies from the main storm funneled down in spots far from the tornado center.

The storm gradually lifted as it roared into Kentucky.

McADOO AND HIS NEW PLAN OF SALVATION

William Gibbs McAdoo journeyed from Los Angeles to Houston in the air and announced a new plan of financial salvation for the cotton and grain growers of America. Under a flexible tariff as a working basis this former cabinet officer proposed to fortify the domestic market for two pivotal crops, cotton and wheat, by setting up a minimum price at which each bushel and pound might be purchased. He had his figures with him and insisted that his plan would enrich the pocketbooks of grain and cotton growers by more than $750,000,000 annually. He brushed aside all relief plans enacted by the American congress in recent years and pushed his plan into the picture to replace what he termed "superficial remedies adopted at Washington and loaded on the treasury during the past two years."

All this is a reminder that the democrats of the two houses and the progressive-republicans of the West and the Northwest are largely responsible for the plans given to the country which have been brushed aside by Mr. McAdoo as superficial. This predecessor of Andrew W. Mellon as the head of the American treasury declared that if the producers of wheat and cotton were protected to a certain extent that they could sell the amount of wheat and cotton consumed in the United States at remunerative prices they could then take their chances, as manufacturers do, "on the disposition of their surpluses in the competitive markets of the world."

He recommended that the duty on wheat should be increased to 65 cents per bushel; the congress should without delay impose a flexible tariff on short staple cotton, the initial rate to be at least 12 cents per pound in order that the cotton farmer as well as the wheat farmer "may have the domestic market preserved for him and receive as a part of the price of the raw cotton he sells for United States consumption the tariff duty of 12 cents per pound." He would have his tariff subject to change in order to increase or decrease annually or semi-annually the flexible tariff rates on wheat and cotton. In other words, price fixing would regulate the price of cotton and wheat sold for home consumption by the imposition of the highest of tariffs and then the surplus wheat and the surplus cotton should be sold in the competitive markets of the foreign world.

There is a carry over of cotton estimated all the way from 9,000,000 to 14,000,000 bales—sufficient cotton to supply the demand of the domestic millers as well as to supply the foreign demand according to the figures of the cotton year 1931. There is a large carry over of American wheat. If one doubts it, get the figures from the chairman of the federal farm board.

Well, congress is grinding. There is a democratic speaker of one branch and a very slim majority behind him. There is a senate dominated by a coalition of progressive republicans and democrats. William Gibbs McAdoo is in the air most of the time. His "presidential possibility" is speaker of the house. He should fly to Washington and unfold his price fixing tariff scheme for American cotton and wheat, to the democratic house majority and a coalition senate majority. He has brushed aside the federal farm board and like measures enacted for the relief of the tillers of the soil, the growers of things, who have been crushed, so to speak, by the enactment of high tariff laws by republican administrations.

There are 38 wheat producing countries. Incidentally the British empire has erected its own tariff wall. It is going to do business with its widespread dominions, wheat growing countries in the purchase of wheat for domestic use in the years to come. As for cotton, it is grown under the skies of many lands. Cotton culture is not confined to the United States. Now the newest of price fixing plans promulgated by a distinguished gentleman whose admirers called him "the second Alexander Hamilton" while he was at the head of the financial department of the government will win for him at least wide publicity and perhaps that is all. There is a huge supply of cotton on hand. There is a huge supply of wheat. There are new crops coming this year. Why tantalize the growers?

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

WILLARD JOHNSTON, chairman of the Board of the State National Bank, Shawnee, Okla., says:

"The hoarder of currency, the man who takes his money and hides it away, is displaying the same degree of intelligence as the ostrich, who hides his head in the sand for safety. In the first place, he could buy short-time government securities and would have as good or better securities, and would also have a good income on his investment. At the same time he would be helping himself and his fellow countrymen in relieving the depressed condition of our country."

"The federal government, by the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, has practically guaranteed the stability of our nation's credit structure. The Federal Reserve System is doing everything in their power to relieve business conditions by the expansion of credit that is so sorely needed. However, the hoarder by withdrawing his money and hiding it away causes the individual banker to pursue the course of safety, and reduce the amount of loans and investments carried by his bank; thereby restricting credit and offsetting all the efforts of the Federal Reserve authorities."

"Just as in time of war it takes the united effort of every individual member of the nation to assure victory, so in this time of economic depression the country needs the united co-operation of every individual to relieve the situation. The individual, by placing his money on deposit with the banks or by making good sound investments will be doing his part to restore this country and himself to prosperity."

"We are inclined to blame our troubles to Wall Street or the government authorities, but that is just an alibi. Business in this country will be stabilized when and only when the average citizen demonstrates his confidence in the soundness of American business."

An Easter Outline of History

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, N.E.A. Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—On some days the more competent political reporters here are convinced that it is all up with Governor Roosevelt and his presidential candidacy and on other days they get to believing that he hasn't been and can't be stopped.

Quite often they disagree and then by the time one group has decided to suggest lies and slow music for the governor another faction is again whooping up the band and predicting that his entry into the Democratic convention at Chicago will be a triumphal procession and no funeral march.

Victories Discounted

THAT fluctuating prognosis has not been steered by Roosevelt's defeat of Smith in the New Hampshire primaries and of Governor Bill Murray in the North Dakota primaries.

Although the Roosevelt lines have stiffened under the influence of obviously encouraging majorities, the results were generally anticipated and the delegates involved were already considered in the bag.

And inasmuch as neither Smith nor Murray were considered serious contenders for the Democratic nomination, the effect of the lickings they took has not been to handicap any of the governor's formidable rivals.

20 Votes May Decide

THE vital point about all this is whether Roosevelt can take a majority of the 1154 delegates along to the convention. A majority will be 575 and if he can't come very close to that at the outset it probably will be just too bad.

But with a working majority he can dominate the convention and almost surely obtain the necessary two-thirds vote. A score or more delegates thus may make all the difference in the world.

Estimates of the sure Roosevelt strength now run between 500 and 600 and there will be some pretty close figuring from now on.

Favorite Sons Hold Key

NOT wishing to be more brazen in predictions than anyone else, I nevertheless believe it very likely that some of the favorite son entries who know they can't be nominated will jump to Roosevelt and their delegations in time to put him over. Roosevelt is going to have so many more delegates than anyone else that it is hard to believe they will all support the "stop-Roosevelt" movement and hold out against him to the last. And this "second choice" element, which now is an uncertain quality, is infinitely more potential than the primary results, so many of which will be known and discounted in advance.

The Roosevelt leaders will have to hold their own, but if they can do that and make two or three good arrangements the show will be about over.

Band Wagon Factor

THE "band wagon" aspect of the Roosevelt candidacy will remain an important factor unless Roosevelt somewhere suffers a real defeat. The average politician finds a great deal more satisfaction—and political nourishment—in hopping aboard than in standing in the way and setting run over.

And if it is too early to agree with the Roosevelt faction that it is riding on such a vehicle, it is also obvious that there is not even the pretense of a "wagon" anywhere else in sight.

Thus a horde of the smaller politicians is already attached to the Roosevelt campaign and the opposition centers around Smith and a group of potent party leaders in the more populous states.

Negative Positions

THE fact that some of the latter day group have often been regarded as symbols of political doubt has caused much of the power whether Roosevelt could be nominated. But their position is weakened by the fact that it is negative, that they are not offering a serious opponent and that their apparent intent is to tie up the convention and nominate a minority candidate of their own choosing.

The "stop-Roosevelt" movement faces an alternative of reinforcement or collapse in the primaries of April 26 in Massachusetts, where the state leaders probably will get nearly all the 35 delegates for Smith, and especially in Pennsylvania, which has 75 delegates whose destiny is still in doubt.

After April 26, we won't be so coy in our prophecies.

March 22 is the date—mark it down—and don't be surprised if the rising heavyweight star that is young Steve Hannas is suddenly dimmed. On that date, the collegiate scrapper encounters 21-year-old Lee Ramage, above, California heavyweight champion from San Diego. A tip comes from the coast that Ramage will throw several monkey wrenches into Hannas' high-gear machine.

The wet-dry showdown finally shook many congressmen off the fence on the liquor question, but the fence is still low enough for easy jumping.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

An attempt is being made to have Troy Grubbs, Ranger youth who has been attending Simmons university at Abilene, matched on a card of the Elks athletic show. Troy is well known in Ranger and should be a good drawing card. He has had considerable experience in the ring, having been in nine fights and winning eight of them. He has established quite a reputation as a boxer while going to school in Abilene.

J. B. Heister, matchmaker of the Elks athletic show, has been approached with the idea of having Grubbs appear on the card, and he has promised to have a place reserved for him. Grubbs is said to be a good scrapper and a clever boxer. An opponent for him has not been selected, but some good, fast man will be picked for the place, which is supposed to be no bed of roses.

Which reminds us that a number of people have asked us in the past couple of days what we thought about the fight the Elks are putting on. At first we stilled a little, talked in bunches a little until we found out what it was all about.

When the first one or two aired their grievances we thought nothing about it, but after some four or five approached us in about the same way and finally got around to the same point, we decided that there might be something in what they were saying. Since a critic will often criticize to another where he wouldn't to the principals, we are passing on what has been said to us, without comment on our part. Personally, we don't know whether it is expressing the opinion of the majority or of a few who are just complaining to have something to complain about.

And now that we have beat about the bush about as long as the complainers, we will get down to the complaints.

The fans, or at least the ones who have spoken to us, want more of the local boys on the card. They say that there is no sense in going out of town to get a couple of ham-and-eggers to put on a few rounds of boxing when there are a number of local boys who will do much better.

J. B. Heister says that the fans are tired of the local boys and do not want to see them any more. The fans, the same fans, say that such is not the case—that they had much rather see Sam Thomas, Sam Evans and a few of that type, of which there are several around these parts, than all the fights Matlock and Joe Thomas could put on.

It seems, to quote those same few fans who may be in the minority, that there is more of a demand for the local talent in the preliminaries than there is for the lads from Breckenridge, Abilene, Mineral Wells and other points. They claim that the local boys put on a better fight and there is more inducement to pay out the money to see them than there is to see Sam Matlock. Sam seems to have lost favor in Ranger in his last few fights.

Personally we have seen much better fighting and far better boxing than that shown by the two main event boxers Monday night and, to our notion, the fight by the Arnett girl and that Donley kid made Matlock and Thomas look like the rankest of amateurs. But, as we have admitted before, our opinion of boxing and wrestling is not worth much, but if the fans, those same few, want to see the local boys, that's all right with us.

Another complaint is about the prices charged. One fan, who seldom misses a card, told us yesterday that he didn't mind paying six bits, or four bits, or even a dollar, but said that he thought that off section of seats to the left of the aisle as one goes in, should be sold at two bits, so that many who can't afford to pay more can get seats.

He claims that no one ever sits in them anyway and at two bits they could be pretty well filled up.

However, we imagine in charge of the fight, the whole matter more study than those who make claims, so they should know about it than anyone else. We know that everyone else knows the other fellow's business, he has known lots of us, he knows that they would give good editors if you chance, but when you write you something, maybe it's the same as Elks fights. We don't never promoted a fight don't want to. There's grief in it.

Met Wednesday At Methodist Church

The children's auxiliary composed of the Boys and Girls World club and the Children's World circle met in joint meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist church.

The lesson for the afternoon was brought by Mrs. F. L. Drago. She told a very interesting story of "The Factory of Peace" which was related to the Chinese silk industry and which told of the early youth of the children of China being spent in the industry and of the foreign hospitals which other nations maintain in that country.

The "Racers" still maintain the lead in the contest which is being conducted by the junior club.

Attendance registered: Joy Shaber, Nan Mickle, Julia Parker, Rae Jane Stubbiefield, Anna Jo Tableman, Mary Nellie Crowell, Nora Frances Mahon, Jane Ferguson, Norma Jean Tucker, Charlotte Hall, Doris Robinson, Elizabeth Sikes, Virginia Garrett, Lillian Armstrong, Jean Atchley, Ernest Jones, Hadley Barlow, Percy Harris, Ballard Harris, Frances Crowell, Louise Jones, Wood Butler, Barron Butler and teachers, Mmes. F. L. Drago, Butler and Claude G. Stubbiefield.

Martha Dorcas Class To Be Entertained

The Martha Dorcas class of the Methodist Sunday school will be entertained Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. E. Coleman, 612 South Searson street. Hostesses will be Mmes. Coleman, Frank Robason, Pearson and McLee.

Baptist Church Notes

A very enthusiastic training school is in progress this week in the Baptist training service department. Classes are being held each evening from 6:30 to 8:30 o'clock. The two classes for seniors are taught by Rev. W. H. Muston and Rev. O. B. Darby, the intermediates by Mrs. L. J. Lambert. The juniors by Miss Mamie Armstrong, the primary by Mrs. W. H. Muston and Mrs. John Williams. The Baptist church is quite proud of these organizations of young people who are willing to study that they may be more efficient in the Lord's service.

Mrs. F. M. Kenny Entertains

As the means of raising her quota of the assessment made of its members by the Thursday Afternoon Study club, Mrs. F. M. Kenny entertained most cleverly and graciously Tuesday afternoon at her residence on Lens street. The hostess had written a playlet or skit, which she had not named, but which the guests were requested to supply as the plot unfolded. The players, Mmes. Joe Stephen and Charles Fagg, acted as judges, and the title suggested by Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, "Springtime Fancies," was chosen. The guests were seated in the living room facing the dining room, where an improvised stage was arranged. Tall white trellises were used as a background for the garden effect, upon which ran climbing roses, with blue birds perched among the foliage and blossoms. Artificial grass was used as a carpet, and rustic seats and tables further enhanced the scene. Mrs. Stephen was clever in her interpretation of the maid of Margery Neely, an heiress, and later impersonated Miss Neely herself. Mrs. Fagg played the role of Ted Cowen, a nonman of renown, and her masculine makeup and acting were perfect.

Cod Liver Oil Tastes Good In "Health Cocktails"

If you would administer cod liver oil painlessly, take a tip from the nutritionists of a large public school who served "health cocktails" as part of the treatment for the children susceptible to colds. It was easily and neatly done, with canned grapefruit juice and paper cups, and the youngsters actually asked for more! Two holes were punched in the top of a can of grapefruit juice and about two teaspoons of the juice poured into each cup. A teaspoon of oil was then floated on top of the juice. One ten-ounce can of grapefruit juice furnished the base for about 25 cocktails, and the grapefruit contributed extra vitamin C besides.

It's Rhubarb Time

Remember how the rhubarb used to grow 'neath the pickets in the back fence, and how you played "umbrella" with it? And remember that most delicate of all spring dishes—rhubarb pie? A new recipe combines this rhubarb with a favorite fruit in a "lattice" or "crossbar" pie. Rhubarb Pie 1932: 1 recipe plain pastry, 3 cups rhubarb (diced), 1 cup (1/2 pkg.) pasteurized dates (sliced), 2-3 cup sugar, 1 1/2 tbsps. flour and 1 egg. Mix sugar and flour; add to beaten egg; mix with rhubarb and dates. Put in a pastry lined pie plate and cover with strips of pastry. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 25-30 minutes. Six servings.

It's a New Spanish Sauce!

The "old Spanish custom" of putting a snappy sauce on eggs, fish or meat, revives itself in a current recipe, colorful with the popular pimiento. Melt 2 tablespoons of butter, add 2 table-spoons of flour and stir until blended. Then remove from the stove and stir in 1 1/2 cups of milk, gradually. Stir over the heat until sauce boils and then add 1 can (3 1/2 ounces) chopped pimientos, salt and pepper. Pour over the egg, fish or meat dish and serve hot.

Eat Your Spring Tonic In Foods You Like

First robin or no first robin, spring is here as of March 21. According to the calendar man that's the time when the young man's fancy officially turns! But it no longer turns to tonics! Science and our modern day knowledge killed the ancient custom of taking "fleshly concoctions" for the blood. Nowadays we eat our spring tonic, regain our "pep" through a judicious choice of energy foods. Chief among these are the dried fruits, which because of their high "invert sugar" content quickly restore the energy depleted during the long winter months.

Try these "energizers" in combination with some of the new food offerings now on the market, as in these tested recipes.

Springtime Fruit Cup

Combine the following fruits and serve in glass compotes accompanied by crisp wafers: 1/4 pkg. pasteurized dates (quartered), 1 medium grapefruit, 3 slices pineapple, 12 halved cherries (fresh or canned) and 6 sprigs of mint. This serves six people.

Apricot Dainty

1 1/2 cups (1/2 lb.) dried apricots, 2 cups cold water, sugar to taste, 2 cups quartered marshmallows, and 1/4 lb. pkg. or can coconut. Wash apricots; soak for several hours in two cups of cold water; cook until tender; mash, add sugar if desired. Cut marshmallows into quarters with scissors which have been dipped into cold water. Fold marshmallows into warm fruit pulp. Add 1/4 cup coconut. Pile the sherbert glass-tops; sprinkle with remaining coconut. Chill thoroughly. This recipe will serve six.

If You Like Ginger

If you are one of those people who enjoy the exotic taste of preserved ginger, you will welcome a new but simple dessert combination—ginger, grapefruit and coconut! Pile canned grapefruit sections and juice in tall-stemmed glasses, add a teaspoon of the diced preserved ginger and a teaspoon of the ginger syrup to each serving. Sprinkle a teaspoon of shredded coconut on top of each one, and enjoy an unique a dessert as ever came out of Hong-kong!

Democrats Ask Enrollment of Million Youths

By ROBERT A. ERWIN, United Press Staff Correspondent.

RALEIGH, N. C.—A young man who has risen rapidly in life during the past four years now is president of the Young Democratic clubs of America. He will lead the movement to enroll 1,000,000 young democrats by national election time in November.

He is Tyre Taylor, 33-year-old executive counsel to Governor O. Max Gardner, chairman of the Young People's Democratic organization of North Carolina, and author of the ten-year plan for the economic rehabilitation of his state.

At a recent nation-wide meeting of Young Democrats in Washington, Taylor was chosen to lead the party in the election and to recruit new young democrats from the ranks of those who have reached their majority since the last election.

Temporary national headquarters for the Young Democratic Clubs of America will be opened here with an executive secretary in charge. Headquarters will be maintained here until after the democratic national convention in June.

Taylor is a militant democrat, with a sizeable dash of liberalism. He views the present increasing activity of young democrats as the first definite stirrings of a major youth movement in the democratic party.

He has had a varied experience in practical politics, knows his way about, but is not the usual type of politician.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT, United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS—Men have a way of boasting about the stability of their styles and, in general their lack of fastidiousness. A recent visit to one of the best known men's tailors here, however, revealed a fine point with reference to the meticulousness with which men adopt new modes that completely explodes any such theory as a lack of fastidiousness in their styles.

"A very small, but important mark of smartness," said this tailor, "is the button-hole. For some time we have been making them upright instead of slightly slanting, as was the old custom, and this year they are being copied more generally."

The modern mark of a man's sartorial distinction then is the upright button-hole. We learn, upon further investigation into this deeply engrossing subject of men's wearing apparel, that for weddings, for which, of course, are essential, a shade of dark grey is ousting the more familiar yellowish tints.

As for suit colors, black or blue, blue-grey and grey are most in demand. Broad shoulders are the vogue for coats, which are being made very straight and rounded off at the ends.

MANUFACTURE ICE CROP

ARGENTINE, Mich.—Mild weather this winter prevented local merchants harvesting their annual ice crop. They conquered the phenomenal temperatures, however, by allowing a thin coat of ice to freeze over the local mill pond and then pouring a little water on nightly. The process was repeated until ice six inches thick was formed.
