It looks like the baldheaded man may indulge in a real hope of growing again a full suit of hair. On no less an authority than the Popular Science Monthly the positive statement is made that this important (to baldheads) matter has been settled. Without attempting to give all the technical details of why men lose their hair, or why this particular treatment will restore it, we would make it plain that this is no quack advertising scheme but comes from the University of Illinois College of Medicine. Dr. B. N. Bergston, the expert in charge of the experiments says baldness in most instances is caused by a deficiency in the secretions of the endocrine (whatever that is) glands and that by injection of a pituitary (something else we know nothing about) gland preparation this deficiency can be overcome.

The treatment was tried on 16 very bald men and, as in every case, the experiment was a complete success. Dr. Bergston thinks that coincident can be ruled out. One man bald since 1914 grew a full head of hair in four weeks; another man 60 years old who was completely bald, not a hair on his head, commenced the use of the remedy and in five weeks he had a full crop of white silky hair. And in none of the 16 cases was there a failure.

HOUSE OF STEEL PREDICTS PROSPERITY

Hallelujah! "The low point has been passed"—again. Charles Abbott is the executive of the American Institute of Steel Construction. He pushed his face into the prosperity picture in the city of Chicago. He declared the United States is approaching a "greater era of prosperity than it has ever known." He said huge orders in the steel industry are being held up but are bound to come out in the future. He pointed out railroads, construction companies, automobile and farm implement manufacturers, "and others" will have to buy steel. He has made a coast to coast survey of the nation. He found that sentiment has changed from one of fear to one of confidence and hope in the future. He predicted, with all the passion of sincerity of an inspired prophet, "the low point has been passed; the reconstruction program has added confidence, business begins to feel its effect. Prophecies and economic predictions have fallen flat thus far on the ears of the people. Now they should be ready to welcome "a greater era of prosperity than the republic has ever known."

A representative of the House of Steel said so.

FEDERAL MILLIONS FOR TEXAS HIGHWAYS

Democratic leaders of the House of Representatives have put over a huge appropriation of federal aid for state highways. Texas will be entitled to about $15,000,000 additional through enactment of the democratic-sponsored emergency road construction bill. This measure has been sent to the senate. Republican stand-pat leaders say President Hoover will veto it. This money, $15,000,000 additional federal aid, can be used by Texas to match regular federal aid funds now to its credit in the treasury, but unexpended because the state cannot raise sufficient money to carry its half of the burden. In the Lone Star state this amounts to $6,687,000. The emergency fund under provisions of the House bill is to be repaid from regular federal appropriations over a period of 10 years beginning in 1938.

Aid has been furnished the railroads, the big corporations, the banks, and other industries. Aid has been pledged to the farmers of America in the shape of loans. Now why shouldn't the hand workers of the country be given employment, speaking of the highway legislation, in order to carry them through the period of passing depression? Democratic congressional leaders say that the enactment of this bill of highway relief for the state will furnish employment to 1,000,000 unemployed workers. Isn't it just as important to feed the minnows as to fatten the whales? No, feed is not the word—employment in order that they may be able to feed themselves and their dependents.

RELIEF FOR REPOSITORS IN CLOSED BANKS

Democratic leaders, including Senators Glass of Virginia, Fletcher of Florida, and George of Georgia, have reported a bill to safeguard depositors in closed banks. Wasn't a pledge given by the president that the Dawes reconstruction credit corporation would render aid or rather relief to the depositors of closed banks? But not "the big banks and big corporations as they can take care of themselves." It is in the record and files of newspapers. Of course record files grow dusty but those who watch the record of daily events insist that the record should be kept straight, not for posterity but for the people now on earth.

A Boston barber now serves tea to his waiting customers. That's our idea of a Boston tea party.

With all the relief bills passed, the only thing needed to bring prosperity back is the return of good business.

What the country needs suggests a stage is a new economy instead of a new tax.

There is said to be enough salt in the ocean to make a continent fourteen and a half times as large as Europe.

The Hindenburg Line, 1932!

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Perhaps some of the states can use a few of the unadopted suggestions for new taxation which were left over when the Democrats completed their tax bill.

One of the most frequent proposals in the unselected mail which came in from individuals over the country who wanted to help is hardly available for state use—that for a tax on legal fees.

On the other hand, some drys urged the House Ways and Means Committee to plaster a tax on wine grape brieks.

And other drys felt that there should be a special tax on ginger ale and all mineral waters which, as everyone knows, are sometimes used for nefarious purposes.

Just $750,000,000

ONE cent urged that the problem be met almost in one fell swoop. "Put in a flat tax of 10 on every person over 21 years of age. There are 75,000,000 of them, so that would mean $750,000,000."

Other taxes were proposed on labor-saving machinery, rabbit pelts, matches, chewing gum, salt and soft drinks containing certain ingredients.

Use of the taxing power as a regulatory device was urged by those who wanted a heavy levy on arms and ammunition to prevent the slaughter of game, and others who proposed that all corporations benefiting from the tariff should pay the government everything in excess of 15 per cent earned income.

Fall at Santa Fe

THE warden out at the Santa Fe penitentiary won't tell the newspaper boys anything about how Albert B. Fall is getting along inside, but a man here who recently visited Fall says the former secretary of the Interior will remain in the hospital until his release in May or June.

Fall's bad heart and a bronchial trouble are both serious ailments. It isn't true that he had pneumonia a while ago, as reported. He receives good care, according to his friends, but still cannot walk without assistance. His mind is clear, but he grows bitter and "unreasonable" when discussing his own case.

Around the Speaker

YOU have noticed, if you ever observed the House of Representatives in session, that about 15 men surround the speaker on the terraced superstructure which rises from the well and is surmounted on the speaker's chair.

And a Timekeeper

THERE'S a timekeeper who clocks the members so the presiding officer can bang the gavel when their allotted speech time is up. And in the front row, on the well level, are two or three reporters of debates with a clerk who sees to it that copy for the Congressional Record goes to the right place and in the right order.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES

Although few ballots have been cast in the straw voting to determine the democratic or republican choice for president for the coming year as far as this section of the country is concerned, John Nance Garner, speaker of the house of representatives, has gained a little on other opponents in the race.

So far "Alfalfa Bill" Murray has not received a single vote, nor have several of the other prospective candidates. The totals now stand: Garner 8, Roosevelt 4, Hoover 4, Governor Gifford Pinchot 1. As we have not received any further encouragement in our race, we are about to withdraw in favor of some candidate who seems to have more popular favor.

According to a news report from Corvallis, Ore., Coach Paul Schissler has found that the new rules concerning the opening kick-off in football plays the deceiving side of a decided disadvantage, where, by the old rules the receivers had an advantage.

"The situation is completely reversed now," Coach Schissler said. "The new rule will need considerable interpretation and adjustment before it is accepted."

The rule permits the ball to be put in play from the 40-yard line, as before, but by one of three methods—drop-kick, punt or place-kick. It also restricts at least five members of the receiving side to their own 45-yard line until the ball is kicked.

Russ Acheson, a good kicker, used the punt a number of times in practice. He stood on the 40-yard line with the team starting on the 30-yard mark to get a running start.

On long, high punts to the corners, Acheson's entire team was invariably down on the receiver before he had time to get under way. The receiver's own team could not build a wedge to protect him, because five men were held back.

Coach Eck Curtis of the Ranger Bulldogs has been putting his charges through spring training, using the punt in kicking off. The receiving team seldom made any substantial gains when we were an onlooker, but we have never heard Curtis express his views on the ruling. When the rules were first passed he said that he thought they would be of advantage to the small teams or to teams with small squads, but he has not mentioned his opinion of the rules since he has tried playing under them.

Another ruling, the one which makes the ball dead as soon as any part of the ball carrier's body, other than his hands and feet, touches the ground was expected to be enforced literally, according to a statement made by the chairman of the rules committee.

The case was given where a player slipped and fell on the five-yard line and would have ample time to get up and go on to a touchdown without one of the opposing players touching him. In a case of this kind, the committee ruled, it would be the hard luck of the player and the team on which he was playing and the ball would be dead at the point he fell. No deviations from the ruling are to be permitted under any circumstances, the committee is quoted as saying, and, while it may work hardships on some at times, the benefits to be derived from the ruling will more than offset the disadvantages.

More than 200 attended the meeting in Abilene yesterday, at which instructions on handling applications for farm loans were given.

Mayor John Thurman, accompanied by Miss Frances Coughlin, office secretary of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, attended the meeting in order to be prepared for the rush for loans that is expected to be made in Ranger.

Miss Coughlin handled all the loans last year and did some wonderful work in assisting the farmers. She will have a charge of the filling out and filing of applications this year, as she is more experienced in this line of work than any of the committeemen who have been designated to help with the work.

Although this column is supposed to be non-political and is not supposed to be used for advertising purposes of any kind—rules that we made ourselves—for our own protection and convenience—we cannot help but break the rule this once and remark that advertising copy for next Friday's paper has already begun to come into the office, indicating that the merchants who want to secure the most desirable positions, should get to work now on their copy and have it ready early. Not being in the advertising department, we are not sure just what the occasion is, but there is a demand for space already. A word to the wise is supposed to be sufficient.

And our fingers are so numb with the cold that we are going down at once if we can find a pair of mittens we could wear while writing on the typewriter.

Canzoneri's Title Safe For Some Months Yet.

Tony Canzoneri will be lightweight champion until June, at least. It has been expected that the winner of the recent Ray Miller-Sammy Fuller bout would earn a chance for the lightweight title. Fuller won, and decisively, too, but it now develops that Fuller must take another hurdle.

This hurdle will be decided in the Billy Petrolle-Bat Battalion bout at Madison Square Garden, New York, March 11. The plan is to send the winner of this match against Fuller, with that winner being definitely in line for a bout with Tony in June.

John Drake Returns To Horseback Tracks.

John Drake, who has ever insisted that "you can't beat the horses," and who has spent much of his life trying to establish the truth of his axiom, is making an active return to racing next week. His newly acquired horse, Coup de Chateau, is expected to run in the Grand National at Aintree.

Old-timers in sport have heard lots about John Drake. He is a survival of the days of "Bet-You-a-Million" Gates, and was regarded as a plunger on a par with his more widely known contemporary. Gates is reputed to have won more than $500,000 during the British season of 1899. He is said to have spent that half million, to have won as much again, and spent that, too.

Clyde Manion has been drafted by the Cincinnati Reds from the Milwaukee, American association club. This is Manion's third trip to the majors. He has played with Detroit and the St. Louis Browns. He's a heavy batter and the Reds can use plenty such.

The Atlanta baseball club playing field once was known as Ponce de Leon park. Then the name was changed to Spiller field. This year it will be known as Ponce de Leon park, once again.

WORLD FACTS ABOUT INCOME TAXES

No. 7

Terms of Husband and Wife

husband and wife should each pay income tax on his or her own income in excess of $1,000, but if they have a net income in excess of $2,000, it is to their interest to file separate income tax returns for the year 1931, to take the personal exemption of $1,000 between them, as shown by following illustration, in which husband claims $3,000 and the wife $1,000.

Income, husband	$7,000
Income, wife	1,000
Total	8,000
Less: Personal exemption, husband	(1,000)
Less: Personal exemption, wife	(1,000)
Net taxable income	6,000
Rate	1 1/2 per cent
Total tax	90

Under the normal tax rate being 1 1/2 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the personal exemption and other credits, 3 per cent on the next $4,000, and 5 per cent on the balance, any other division of the personal exemption would have subjected part of the husband's or wife's income to the higher rate. The computations do not include the 25 per cent credit from dividing the personal exemption, husband and wife often further decrease the amount of their total taxes by filing separate returns and reporting their separate incomes therein, providing their joint income is sufficiently large to be subject to the tax which applies to net incomes in excess of $10,000.

The Newfangles (Mom 'n' Pop)

I think I've got something in my eye.

"You mean both eyes, don't you?" the other demanded as Ellen fumbled for her handkerchief.

Ellen, without replying, fished for her pocket mirror and began to dab with a handkerchief for the imaginary object in her eye.

Tony had chosen the right means to stiffen the Rossiter pride.

"It's out now," Ellen said in a trembling voice.

"Subject closed in other words," Tony relieved her. "That's o. k. by me. I'm no Broadway columnist."

She waited while Ellen replaced the handkerchief and mirror and watched her reddened nose. Finally she spoke with some embarrassment, "Did you come to get that $10 back? I can't let you have it right away but—"

"Of course I didn't come for that!" Ellen protested. "I meant that as a sort of parting gift to you. I—you know I won't be working here any more. I'm to be married Friday and we sail for Europe Saturday."

The black eyes beneath the soiled picture had grown big and round.

"Aren't you high-hat!" Tony exclaimed. "Who's the lucky man?"

"It's a secret."

"Well, anyway," Tony went on after a pause, "you're leaving one broken-hearted boy friend behind. I hope that'll make your honeymoon sweeter."

"Who do you mean?" Ellen asked, feeling her heart sink.

"That good looking John I thought you'd tumbled for was up last night," Tony explained. "Did he have fits when he found you'd ditched us? I'll say he did!"

Ellen left Tony soon afterward. They casually said goodbye for what they thought would be forever. There had been no mention of a future meeting. Their friendship had been another of those easily made, easily broken associations that take place in a large city.

Ellen was thinking almost in panic that she must never see Larry Harrowgate again—not, at least, for years and years. If he came to the Brooklyn apartment, as she knew he might, she did not know what folly she might commit. She could not, would not, hurt Steven. That stroll past Dreamland had been a piece of unconscionable foolishness, a cheap and despicable bit of disloyalty to a man whom she owed everything.

She tried to laugh at herself but could not. Her panic grew. She was having her first lesson in the ways of the human heart.

Ellen stopped in a nearby hotel. She walked firmly into the almost deserted writing room, sat down, drew out a piece of note-paper and wrote a courteous, pleasant note to Larry. She was too wise to be curt. She told him she was to be married and expected that they would not meet again. In a postscript she included her congratulations on his own engagement.

He should believe that she had known from the first, had thought of him as he had thought of her—as a casual, happy-go-lucky playmate whose ways had parted from her ways.

But she was so feverishly eager for him to receive the note that she stopped in a telegraph office and sent it to his studio by messenger.

Recital Ended Silence Of Old Church Organ

By United Press.

PARIS—After six years of careful repair work, the ancient organ of the famous church of Saint-Eustache has been heard again. A crowd of 10,000 people gathered for the ceremony presided over by Cardinal Verdier in celebration of the venerable instrument's complete restoration. Joseph Bonnet, who has been for 25 years organist of the church, played the musical program.

The organ was first installed in 1876 and was hailed by musicians from all over the world as the finest instrument of its kind in existence. In 1926 it was thought inadvisable to continue to play it until it had been thoroughly gone over and repaired. This was its first overhauling in 56 years. Certain modernizing improvements were made simultaneously with the repairs, and so minute was the work done on the ancient pipes and delicate fixtures that a period of six years was required. Many of the pipes were enlarged and the whole organ electrified.

The program given consisted of the Prelude and Fugue in F. Minor, Clerambault's "Suite du Premier Ton," Jean Philippe Rameau's "In Convertendo," and Liszt's "Grande Fantaisie et Fugue."

The organist and Archbishop of Paris were further assisted by several soloists, the choir, and an orchestra. A group of religious numbers were given by the Maitrise under the direction of A. de Vallobrosa.

THE DIME A-DANCE GIRL

BY JOAN CLAYTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ellen Rossiter, beautiful 20-year-old, falls in love with Larry Harrowgate, young artist, whom she met at Dreamland where she works as a dance hall hostess. Larry is engaged to Elizabeth Bowes, a debutante. He shows Ellen attentions until Elizabeth returns from Europe.

From a sense of gratitude Ellen agrees to marry Steven Barclay, a kind and wealthy man of 57 who has paid hospital expenses for her brother, Mike, injured in a street accident. Barclay also finds a job for Best Armistead, Ellen's sister's fiancé. The girl convinces herself that gratitude can take the place of love.

Barclay has been married twice. His first wife died and the second, from whom he was divorced, was Leda Grayson, notorious dancer. Barclay fears talk of the divorce may be revived when he marries Ellen so they plan to keep the marriage secret.

Ellen and Myra quarrel when Myra refuses to let Barclay pay for her trousseau. She and Bert are to be married the same day as Barclay and Ellen.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXI

In one morning and afternoon Myra and Ellen bought everything they had ever dreamed of desiring. And how they loved it!

Steven had opened accounts in all the smart shops. The two excited girls had only to walk into the softly lighted interiors and choose what they liked of New York's most beautiful offerings. Gowns, shoes, hats and gloves—all the accessories they had never been able to afford, they exclaimed over and bought.

They did not entirely lose their heads. They were too sensible for that. But both discovered that for years they had consoled themselves with a fallacy. It was not true that a beautiful girl could make a cheap frock look expensive. It was true that an expensive frock could make a beautiful girl more beautiful. Like all girls they revelled in this discovery.

They bought suits first, suits of soft imported tweed. Myra's was deep brown with cuffs of beaver. Ellen's was Oxford gray with a blue fox collar that stood around her face like an arrogant ruff. There were silk frocks and woolen frocks in brilliant autumn colors. There were quantities of cobwebby lingerie, delicate as mist, and tailored things in heavy crepe. They really splurged in shoes, ordering six pairs, each Handmade shoes, the first either girl had ever owned that exactly fitted the narrow Rossiter heels.

After calls back and forth to the hospital and much consultation they selected the gown Molly was to wear at the wedding. It was a pale blue chiffon with a brimmed hat to bring out the lake-blue of Molly's eyes. Ellen and Myra were to wear identical frocks—simple, dignified, white frocks bearing the definite and unmistakable stamp of Paris and the glittering Rue de la Paix.

They ate a hurried luncheon on the Avenue. They watched the crowd outside the windows, disapproved their purchases and swore they wouldn't change a thing. At three o'clock, exhausted and happy, they wound up the orgy by buying three pairs of gorgeous namas—black and gold for Molly, blue for Myra, and peachy satin for Ellen.

"My feet will never be the same again," Myra admitted with a sigh, "but it was worth it."

"It was fun, wasn't it?" Ellen agreed, as she turned to give the interested saleswoman the Brooklyn address. She was pleased by the saleswoman's courteous interest even though she knew it was due to the immense outside waiting for them.

"She thought we were rich," Myra giggled as they left the shop.

SOUTH GIVES UP EASY GOING WAYS FOR AIR

NEW YORK.—The belief that the south is somewhat slow and easygoing has been disproved. Aviation is to blame.

Transportation at two miles a minute and better wouldn't appear to intrigue the allegedly languid south. But the supposedly slowest part of the nation is busily using the fastest transport it can get and it's doing it regularly, according to the U. S. department of commerce. In fact, the biggest air liners in America are serving the south.

Further Expansion. Not only is air transportation being used to its fullest extent, but a sound foundation is being laid for further air expansion. With 12 southern states and the District of Columbia comprising one-fifth of the population of the United States, this same area supports one-fifth of the air transport business of the nation, has established one-fifth of the airports and intermediate landing fields of the U. S. and is keeping pace with the north and west in building new ones.

Such a government-certified record thoroughly blasts the old-fashioned idea that the southland is more eager to linger than fly. Of the 457,340 passengers carried by air lines in 1931, the south had its proportionate share, while early 1932 indicates that the southerners easily are keeping abreast of the nation in air enthusiasm.

Scores of Planes. Atlanta, one of the big air terminals of the south, has scores of planes arriving and departing daily. Eastern Air Transport carries passengers up and down the southern Atlantic seaboard and to inland cities in time that would make the old south gasp in amazement.

Atlanta, for instance, is only five hours and 32 minutes from Akron, O., 694 miles distant, by air. Nashville, although 210 miles away, is put into almost the commuting class by flights that require only an hour and 53 minutes. Jacksonville and St. Petersburg are linked in two hours and 10 minutes, even though they're 251 miles apart. Nothing since the Civil war has utes in a hot oven. Brush over with a syrup made by boiling 1-4 cup sugar with 2 tablespoons water for one minute.

Short Process. One cup milk, 1 yeast cake, 1-4 cup lukewarm water, 1-3 cup granulated sugar, 3 cups flour, 1 tea spoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon 1-4 cup butter, 1 egg, 1-2 cup currants.

Scald milk and cool to luke warm temperature. Add yeast cake dissolved in water, 1-2 cup sugar, salt, cinnamon and egg well beaten. Add flour, currants and softened butter and work until thoroughly blended. Knead to smooth dough and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. The temperature for this rising should be between 70 and 80 degrees F. It should take about an hour. Pinch off small pieces and shape as in preceding recipe. Let rise until double in bulk and bake in a hot oven. Brush over with syrup when taken from the oven.

Long Process. One and one-half cups milk, 1-3 cup granulated sugar, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 yeast cake, 4 tablespoons lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 egg, 1-2 cup currants, flour.

Scald milk and add butter, salt and sugar. When lukewarm add yeast cake, crumbled and dissolved in lukewarm water. Add 1-2 cups flour mixed and sifted with cinnamon. Beat well and add egg well beaten. Mix thoroughly and add currants and flour to knead, from 1-2 to 1 cup more. Knead until elastic and put into a large mixing bowl. Cover with a cloth and let rise in a moderately warm place overnight. In the morning

PARIS STYLES. BY MARY KNIGHT, United Press Staff Correspondent. PARIS.—We are going to make you green with envy now by telling you about a lace evening dress in lavender and silver with embroidered applications of velvet in deep violet!

Even the suggestion of green in the envy goes well in the above combination, into the lace picture as the foliage of lilacs and lilies and violets.

The foundation of the lace, which is a net with a very fine drawwork effect, is of silver. Small leaf-shaped patterns are also of lace but in the lavender shade. As if showered gently over the shoulders and the bottom of the skirt from just below the knees to the floor the applied pattern of violet velvet is done in a flowery figure—lilacs, lilies and violets. The lines are slender through the body, and the length just to the floor, even all the way around.

Plane Crash Hero Sent To Prison For Four Months. BY United Press. LONDON.—During a flight over Iraq, in 1925, a Royal Air Force airplane crashed in flames from 3,000 feet. The pilot was badly burned and the observer, Ridley Oak Stanton, 25, carried him through the desert for two days. The pilot died at a dressing station. Stanton was away for six months in hospital.

In 1932 the same Stanton, 29, climbed over the roofs of several houses near Marble Arch and jumped 10 feet from one roof to another, with a 50-foot drop between, to steal 10 shillings worth of jewelry. He was bound over to a court of good behavior, but normal life becomes dull to a man who must have thrills. Mrs. C. E. Maddocks, past president of the Texas Congress of Parent-Teacher associations and president of the Ranger Parent-Teacher and Child Study Club associations, presided in an interesting and gracious manner yesterday afternoon, when Hodges Oak Park Parent-Teacher association observed an impressive program on Founders Day.

This thirty-first anniversary of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers which has been so widely observed finds the organization with 19 state branches, more than 15,000 units and over a million members. Headquarters at the national capital, with an executive secretary, an extension secretary, and an office staff, a field secretary, and two organizers, and an official magazine, Child Welfare Field, who are ever ready to give assistance through interviews and correspondence.

With all of this wonderful background one of the most completely carried out and arranged programs was enjoyed by an enthusiastic group of patrons and friends.

Mrs. C. E. May spoke on "Relationship to Home and School." Mr. Hatley chose as his topic, "Value of P. T. A. to School." Rev. G. W. Thomas, pastor of the First Baptist church, gave an interesting talk on "The Church and the School." Prof. R. F. Holloway brought the colorful program to a close with a splendid talk selecting as the subject "The State and School."

Hodges Oak Park ward is doing some very commendable work in their Parent-Teacher association meetings under the leadership of its president, Mrs. O. S. Driskill, who has proven to be one of the most capable and sincere workers ever to have acted as president.

Farm Loan Applications Will Be Recived In Ranger Soon

Miss Frances Coughlin and Mayor John Thurman, who attended the meeting at Abilene Tuesday to receive instructions on re-mortgage finance corporation farm loans for this district, reported today that a large number of applications and visitors from this section of the country attended the meeting.

Owen W. Sherrill pointed out that the loans could be filed through the local banks, but warned that bankers could not legally force payment on notes out of the money loaned by the government and pointed out that several bankers had forced farmers to make payments on local notes last year when they had presented the checks at the banks for payment. These bankers, Mr. Sherrill said, are to be prosecuted and many of them will find themselves in serious difficulty before it is over.

Application blanks have been received in Ranger for the farmers to fill out. Prior to filling out the applications, a mimeographed form will be given them, showing information that must be obtained by the applicant before their application can be filled out.

Information that will be required will be the name of the survey in which the farm is located, with a legal description of the land; a crop acreage and production report for the years 1930 and 1931; the total amount of seed and feed on hand; the number and valuation of all stock owned by the applicant and a full and accurate account of all present indebtedness. All crops grown by the applicant are to be covered by a mortgage and everyone interested in that land must sign a waiver. If cash rent has been paid, the owner must sign a waiver. Applicant may not borrow on one piece of land and also work another. The mortgage must cover all land he is to work and all owners must sign the waiver. Cotton acreage on all land worked will be limited to 65 per cent of cotton grown last year on that land. If the applicant did not grow cotton last year he cannot grow any in 1932 on government money. Property covered in the mortgage forms should list the number of acres of each crop to be planted and also list the garden. If the borrower changes his plans and does not plant as specified, he agrees to notify the Dallas office.

One dollar per acre may be used for any purpose the farmer may wish to put it incidental to crop production, such as buying groceries, but none of the money may be used to liquidate debts, to pay off notes to banks or other firms or individuals, under penalty. Sherrill, a former farmer and county agent and now a banker at Georgetown, prefaced his explanation of the terms upon which the government will loan money by remarking that Texas was in much better shape this year than last when farmers of 67 counties borrowed money from the government for crop production and farm rehabilitation purposes. Ninety per cent of this money has been repaid by West Texas counties, he said, and the national government has repaid 95 per cent of the money repaid by the counties. Advances may be made after the first advance, he said, and the interest on the advances carried out by the borrower. Maturity date is Nov. 30, but proceeds from sale of gaged crops must be applied to the indebtedness when crops are sold. Interest is deducted from the advance and when loan is repaid, unearned interest is returned to the borrower. Most of Sherrill's talk was taken up by a barrage of questions covering details of the act and recovery of the loan. Alamo county had its own representative to be explained, and administrator ready with answers.

RANGER PERSONS

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Garm Dallas visitors yesterday.

Mrs. Hall Walker left for El Paso, where she will be several months as a patient in Holmans sanitarium.

Dry rot costs lumbermen, says a scientist. Think how much it costs the States government.

THE SEASON'S EVENT ALFRED LUNT and LYNN FONTANNE

By the courtesy of the Theatre Guild, Inc., in a picturization of their greatest stage success.

Since proper hot cross buns are made with yeast, there are, of course, two good methods—the long process and the short process. Long Process. One and one-half cups milk, 1-3 cup granulated sugar, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 yeast cake, 4 tablespoons lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 egg, 1-2 cup currants, flour.

Scald milk and add butter, salt and sugar. When lukewarm add yeast cake, crumbled and dissolved in lukewarm water. Add 1-2 cups flour mixed and sifted with cinnamon. Beat well and add egg well beaten. Mix thoroughly and add currants and flour to knead, from 1-2 to 1 cup more. Knead until elastic and put into a large mixing bowl. Cover with a cloth and let rise in a moderately warm place overnight. In the morning
