tally we will say with all respect to the "smart" financial nation, that there isn't a skyscraper in New York, Maine, or even down to the one that wasn't built out of profits that were made out of farmers' products. Unfortunately the farmer hasn't seen the big skyscraper profits, he has furnished the material just as everything depends upon culture.

And when you promise, it can only come from the farmer, the stock raiser, the producer of the necessities that we pay for what he produces. Every prosperity will come from the farmer.

FORD POLICY ON BLUE EAGLE STILL AWAITED

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 1.—An announcement of Henry Ford's attitude toward President Roosevelt's national recovery program was expected today as the motor manufacturer and largest single industrialist without the blue eagle prepared for a council with the executives of his many enterprises. There was no inkling of what Ford intended to do in the face of the efforts of NRA officials to bring him within the automobile code.

Nations Seeking Tourist Trade

WASHINGTON—Keen competition among the European countries for the American tourist dollars is reflected in greatly improved motoring conditions on the continent, according to the foreign travel division, American Automobile association. This statement was made by the A. A. A. following a survey which showed that vacationists overseas are finding better roads, more efficient service, more suitable hotel accommodations and less red tape from year to year. The survey showed that: The average party spends four months abroad and covers virtually every important country, with preferences to those countries where good roads are available. Three members compose the average party making a trip abroad with their car. Approximately 6,950 miles are covered by the average party during the four months' stay—sufficient time to visit all the more generally known points of interest. The A. A. A. pointed out that late season travelers enjoy the advantages of less crowded steamers and hotels.

Elmer Hansen, her owner, decided three were enough and drowned the rest. Then he noticed one of the remaining puppies was "cold and stiff," so he put it in the bag with the drowned animals. He buried them in his back yard. Hours later, Katie was seen scratching and whining above the grave. Frantically she tore at the dirt, seeking to remove it. Finally, Hansen said, she reached the sack and shook it back and forth. He decided to investigate. Inside the bag he found the "cold and stiff" puppy revived. Kate grabbed the rescued child, carried it to her box, and bathed it lovingly.

Eastland Schools To Be Opened on Monday, Sept. 11

Monday morning, Sept. 11, at 9 o'clock has been selected as the time for the opening of the schools of Eastland, according to a statement given out by Supt. P. B. Bittle Thursday morning. The wards, the junior high and the high school will all open their doors for work at this time. Heretofore it has been the custom to register students at the high school during the latter part of the week preceding the opening date, but W. P. Palm, principal of the high school, announces that this will not be done this year. Registration will be cared for on Monday and Tuesday and class work will get under way on Wednesday of the opening week. Supt. Bittle has called for a general meeting of the faculty to be held at the high school building, beginning at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning, Sept. 9, and requests that all teachers coming into the system for the first time bring their certificates for registration. He also said that the assignment of teachers to their various positions will be made at this meeting; therefore, a complete list and lineup of the faculties of the various schools cannot be given at this time. The compulsory school attendance law will go into effect on the opening day, said Mr. Bittle. This law requires that all scholastics, between the ages of 8 and 14, attend school 100 days during the term, this attendance to be on consecutive school days unless prevented by sickness or some other unavoidable cause. Mr. Bittle calls attention to a change in the dividing line between the West Ward territory and the South Ward territory. Heretofore this line has been somewhat irregular, but this year it will follow Daugherty street entirely through the town from north to south. Children living west of this street will attend West Ward and children residing east of it will attend the South Ward. Any children living outside the city and not heretofore regularly assigned to a certain school should see Supt. Bittle before entering. The various janitors are now busily engaged in cleaning, repairing and otherwise getting the buildings in readiness for the opening day. Any attention to buildings or equipment necessary to put them in first class condition is now being given by those in charge.

Revival Continues

The Gorman Baptist revival will continue through next Sunday. Rev. F. G. Rogers of Spur is bringing some fine messages, and Rev. C. T. Aly of Brownwood is directing the choir. A whole hearted cooperation is being manifested. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

DEADLINE FOR CODES PASSED AT MIDNIGHT

Shakeup of NRA Officials Is Made in Office of Gen. Johnson. WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—President Roosevelt today was automatically empowered to impose upon lagging industries the fair competition codes authorized by the national industrial recovery act. Deadline for voluntary submission of codes expired at last midnight. Coincidentally the president's re-employment agreement, prohibition of child labor became effective today. Shakeup of N. R. A. executive personnel began as the code deadline was reached. The first change was accomplished by resignation of Dudley Cates, assistant administrator for industry. Cates parted from Administrator Hugh Johnson under circumstances of profound, if friendly, disagreement over coded status of organized labor. Cates' resignation produced a clear picture of the labor dispute within the N. R. A. organization. Cates complained against round-about recognition of the American Federation of Labor as the ultimate and only representative of organized labor. No summons was issued today to bring tardy industries before N. R. A. code hearings. It was indicated, however, that this phase of the recovery campaign shortly would receive attention.

GROCERS HAVE UNIQUE SURPRISE FOR CHILDREN

Game Books Are Offered to Kids

The children of Eastland have an opportunity to get a most unusual story book of games. Thousands of books here in the city are being distributed by the Kellogg company with packages of corn flakes.

There are four books in the series, each having four games. The games are interesting, instructive and will provide much pleasure for the little folks and the big ones, too. Book number one contains "Cinderella," "The Three Little Pigs," "Hansel and Gretel," and "Little Black Sambo"; book number two: "The Three Bears," "Jack and the Bean Stalk," "Rumpelstiltskin," "Hop O' My Thumb"; book number three: "Jack the Giant Killer," "The Sleeping Beauty," "The Seven Swans," "The Glass Hill"; book number four, "Little Red Riding Hood," "Aladdin," "Rapunzel," "The Flying Trunk."

The games can be played by two, three or four players. Full explanation of the games is given with the colored disc and metal indicator and spinning wheel attached. Individual directions appear under each game. In each book remember there are four games, and the story goes along with the games.

Nudism Makes Telescope Popular

PHILADELPHIA.—Though officially nudism has been banned here, there is many an eye for anyone satisfied with a long-distance appraisal.

This was learned recently when an unofficial inquiry was made into the sudden popularity of a powerful telescope atop the 36-floor Philadelphia Savings Fund society building.

The telescope is a dime-a-look affair. It is mounted on a movable platform has adjustable lenses and can be trained in any direction. Mostly it is trained upon three or four housetops where nudists have found their place in the sun.

Seldom is it seen pointing to any historic spot, of which there are many, and never does a visitor to the tower bother about looking via the telescope at such mundane things as League Island, the Delaware river, or Camden, N. J. Since the existence of the sun worshipers on near or remote housetops has been revealed, all other attractions have been overlooked.

W.E.C. Adjournment Cut Parliament Plan

OTTAWA, Ont.—The failure of the World Economic Conference has made it unnecessary for the Canadian Parliament to hold its regular Fall session. There will be no sitting of the Parliament until next spring.

Hopes that Prime Minister R. B. Bennett would bring back something from the Conference requiring immediate legislation have disappeared.

PICTURES OF SILVER

By BEULAH K. HICKS

1 Sam. 16:4-13, Psalm 78:70-72

David—a name that truly exemplifies true greatness; a name that brings back heroic stories loved by children and grown-ups alike.

Samuel, now old, knew that God had rejected Saul and had chosen one of Jesse's sons to be his successor.

During the visit we see Samuel as he views the stalwart sons of Jesse with their kingly appearance. But Samuel seemed puzzled and the Lord spoke to him, "Look not on his countenance or on the height of his stature; for the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance but the Lord looketh on the heart."

So the young son David, a shepherd boy of ruddy, beautiful countenance, was sent for. Coming in from the hills where he had learned to tune his soul to the infinite presence of God, who had prepared him in mind and body to be of the line from which our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, was to descend from, he portrayed a beauty and earnestness which Samuel recognized at once. Rising, he anointed him as selected of God to succeed Saul.

"But the Lord looketh on the heart," might be David's motto as he lives his eventful life. Always God was his first thought and he relied upon him fully for strength. His quietness, gentleness and the beauty of his songs had the power to soothe Saul in his fits of madness after God had withdrawn his power from him.

"It was in God that he trusted as he went out to meet the giant with his sling and pebbles; when Saul persecuted and tried often to kill him.

David and Jonathan, the great friendship, is the subject of many of his poems.

David as a king was great; close to God and loved of God, yet he committed two great sins, adultery and murder.

Again he remembered that the Lord looketh on the heart and repented in great sorrow and tribulation, fully acknowledging his sin to the Lord.

"David was a man after God's own heart, not because he never did wrong, but because when he fell down he got up again. He got up faced toward God and not away from him, faced away from the evil which had thrown him down and not towards a further advance in wrong doing," are the words of a noted minister.

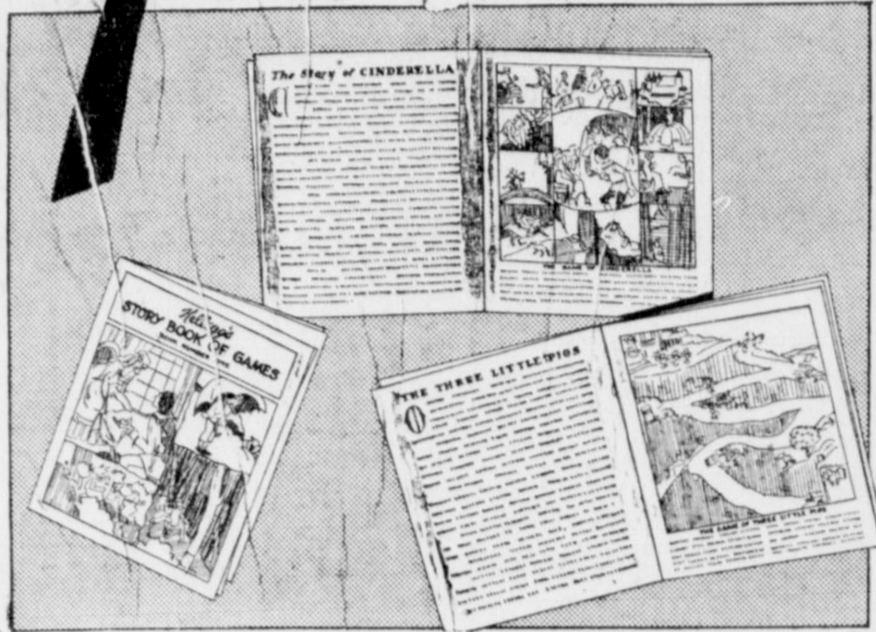

God was with him and forgave him and loved him.

How many problems, personal, political, social and religious could be solved if we would arm ourselves with the simple armor of our Lord and go forth to meet the giants, letting the Holy Spirit guide us in all things.

He chose David also his servant and took him from the sheep folds. From following the ewes great with young he brought him to feed Jacob his people, and Israel his inheritance.

So he fed them according to the integrity of his heart; and guided them by the skillfulness of his hands.—Psalm 78:70-72.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE FOOL: The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God. Corrupt are they, and have done abominable iniquity: God looked down from heaven to see if there were any that did understand.—Psalm 53: 1, 2.

A CODE OF ETHICS FOR BEER

There will be no delay in beginning the sale of beer in Texas, Sept. 15. Places still open at midnight, Sept 14, may then begin to serve beer to their patrons with what may pass in beer circles as a clear conscience. Beer is already sold more or less openly in the state, and that is bad for public morals and law enforcement. Such tactics, if persisted in after beer becomes legal, may hurt the beer business. It would be an excellent idea if the beer industry, as soon as the initial rush of opening up breweries and getting established on a more or less permanent basis is finished, would give some thought to law enforcement.

The legislature has already enacted regulatory provisions, which probably will have to be modified later on. But the sale of beer in this state, as well as in all other states that do not prohibit its sale, can be easily abused. If beer is made a public nuisance, the inevitable reaction will set in. In the flush of victory wets should not forget that brewers were held responsible for the existence of thousands of disreputable resorts in this country before national prohibition was adopted. The brewers opened saloons everywhere, or provided financial backing, so their own brands of beer could be sold in these places. The conditions thus created became intolerable. The lower class of beer saloons, which were much more numerous than saloons of the better class, were breeding places for crime and immorality.

There are to be no saloons, known by that name, under the new dispensation anywhere in the United States. Nevertheless, it will be necessary for the makers of beer, and perhaps a little later for the distillers of alcoholic liquors, as well as the thousands of persons engaged in the distribution of beer and liquor, to maintain a higher standard of ethics than was known in pre-prohibition days. The American people have already sealed the fate of the 18th Amendment, and, in effect, have voted for the return of all alcoholic liquors. But by that vote, the American people have not sanctioned a return of conditions that prevailed under the saloon regime.

OIL AND GASOLINE PRICES

Texas, using about one million gallons of tax-covered gasoline daily, uses only a third of the refined output of the state's oil production. But for that third, when the price of gasoline is raised a cent a gallon, as was done this week, Texas pays an additional $10,000 per day reward for the higher price of the oil.

That means that the one-cent increase in the price of gasoline out of Texas oil returns to the gasoline people $30,000 per day.

According to Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson's formula, the buyers of oil should be paying $1.30 per barrel for crude, before being justified in charging 13 cents plus tax (5 1/2 cents) for gasoline.

Reversing that formula, if they are paying 80 cents for crude oil, the justifiable price under it for gasoline would be 13 1/2 cents per gallon.

But, during the months when refiners were buying Texas crude oil at 10, 25 and 30 cents, who can remember any gasoline that was selling at 6 or 9 cents? What is a fair price for gasoline? and do the people who pay for the gasoline have a share in determining that price?

Some countries remain "on gold," many are "off gold," and a few neither on nor off. This is no place to guess why this happened, for nowadays guesses are subject to sudden and somewhat drastic changes. But our opinion—and it's no guess—is that most of us are not worrying about Gold Standard; we are wondering where we are going to get any kind of money to buy those things needed to keep us living.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT competition often makes more business. Stores that advertise are extremely competitive. There is no competition between advertised goods and non-advertised goods, because nobody knows about non-advertised goods and there is no demand for them. The competition is between different advertised goods because a demand has been created for them. Business concerns should link up their business to good advertising. There is something particularly pleasing about good advertising. There is a distinctive character to advertised goods. Advertising shows that the dealer and manufacturer have faith in their products and stand ready to back up their faith.

Professor, You Ain't Seen Nothin' Yet

ONCE . . . . . EACH DAY

By V. MARIE STEPHENS

We dropped around by the post-office the other day. It's an interesting place to drop.

"Good morning, Sophronie," we called to the girl in the next car, "and how are you this morning?"

She spared us one brief glance, a nod, and hurried back to the letter in hand. "Happy right now," quoth she.

No need to ask . . . 'twas from a man.

There was a cross between a boy and man . . . it's hard to tell about these freight passengers. Upon him were overalls, beside him a small bundle of clothes, in his hand a letter.

He frowned and grinned by turns . . . we hung around a bit to watch his reaction to the news-from-home. There was indecision in his walk as he left the office.

Not much doubt about it . . . mame had written.

Followed a business man . . . turning over a packet of mail for the firm, barely escaping collision with a center-post. Aha, a little gleam of interest . . . a personal letter.

Expectation, haste, a quick frown . . .

Nothing to it . . . just a dun.

Don't know who the girl was. But it was a long envelope with an official return stamped in the upper left-hand corner . . . we couldn't help seeing it.

And the girl was a little disappointed. Maybe it wasn't just what she expected. She registered a drooping mouth, sad eyes.

We're only guessing . . . it must have been the return of the contest entry . . . and no go.

And so people come and people go . . . and nothing ever misses the postoffice.

INHABITANTS DESERT SAINT HELENA

By United Press PARIS.—Returning travelers report that Saint Helena, the island where Napoleon died in exile, is being deserted. Only 80 European residents are left. Life is so monotonous there that when the bi-monthly boats arrive, the women rush for the liners to spend hours with the hairdressers and talking with passengers. A silent-film theatre is operated on Saturday night in an effort to relieve the monotony.

Dead Turtle's Head Strangled Chicken

By United Press HALLS, Tenn.—Mrs. John Hollway vouches for the following story:

Recently she killed a large turtle near a pond in the rear of her home. The head of the turtle, its mouth open, was thrown into the chicken yard. One of her hens began pecking at it.

The turtle head grabbed the chicken in a deathlike grip and strangled the chicken, Mrs. Hollway claims.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

IT IS HERE TODAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARL BARNES, advertising manager of Bibby's department store, marries DICK RADER, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.

SAM HOLERIDGE, an advertising man employed by another store, becomes infatuated with ARLENE SMITH, stenographer at Bibby's, but she fancies herself in love with GEORGE BLISS. Bliss has been vamped by MONA ALLEN, blond copy writer.

Eve begins playing the stock market without Dick's knowledge, she becomes worried because she does not explain several mysterious absences from home evenings. The theater on which she has been working is opened to the public and they attend the first performance.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIII

THOUGH Bibby's store had been featuring new spring apparel since mid-winter, the approach of Easter brought new merchandise and new activity to almost every department. Even in the housewares, rugs and draperies a special effort was put forth to interest prospective Easter brides.

And although this meant added work in the advertising office, Eve, Arlene and Marya enjoyed it. Even Mona showed some enthusiasm when a consignment of especially smart new hats arrived—one-of-a-kind hats bearing the magic names of famous designers on their lining bands.

One morning a dozen of these hats were sent to the advertising office so that Marya might select several to sketch. Eve looked them over. She smothered an exclamation and hurried to the mirror to try on a tiny black and white sailor. Marya cried out, "It's lovely on you, Eve! Oh, that should make a grand sketch!"

Eve tilted the hat this way and that to find exactly the most becoming angle. Then she turned for Arlene to approve the result. The hat was close-fitting and made of black straw. Its brim, entirely covered with tiny white violets, was set on to give the effect of a halo about the face.

"What a love of a hat!" Arlene exclaimed. "And it's perfect on you, Eve. Just perfect!"

"I do like it," agreed Eve. "It would be nice with that black wool crepe suit I had laid away for Easter."

She replaced the hat carefully in its tissue paper wrappings and returned it to its box.

The buzzer on Eve's desk sounded and she arose to answer Mr. Barnes' summons. They were in conference over the next day's layouts for a full hour and when Eve returned she found that the other girls had gone to lunch.

SHE slipped down to the main floor fountain and ordered a lettuce sandwich and a cup of tea. "Dick would think lunch like this one perfectly terrible!" she told herself. "But I don't care. What I save on lunches I can invest."

The little hat with the white violets refused to leave her mind for more than an instant. She was glad it was safe in the advertising office. Her spirits were gay as she went to the French room of the millinery department on her way back to the office. "I'll make a deposit on that hat and have it laid away until pay-day," she thought.

"What a difference a hat can make in a woman's life! A truly lovely model like that one would give anyone a new lease on life!"

But a moment later Miss Marchand, the hat buyer, was echoing, "The little model by Celeste—the one with the white violets? Oh, I'm sorry, Miss Bayless, but that is already sold! The blond girl from your office—Miss Allen—bought it not half an hour ago."

Eve smothered her wrath as best she could and went back to the office. Mona had not yet returned but Arlene was at work transcribing notes.

She glanced up as Eve entered and then stopped typing. "My word!" she cried. "What's wrong now?"

Eve told her about the hat.

"I might have guessed it!" Arlene moaned in sympathy with Eve. "When Mona saw the hat, she was still in conference at lunch time there was a look on her face that should have warned me. You know—the smile of the cat that has not only eaten the canary but licked up all the cream as well!"

AFTER the black and white sailor none of the new hats interested Eve and she did not select another until the Saturday before Easter when, without enthusiasm, she bought a black beret that she never cared for later. In the meantime, indignant though she was at Mona Allen, she had to forget this prejudice in the interest of her work. It seemed to Eve that she lived entirely for the future and foresight was her watchword.

Occasionally during these busy weeks Eve was obliged to work overtime. She would telephone Dick who usually arranged to meet her for a late dinner. Often he would drop in to see a five o'clock movie before coming to the store for her. Although he professed to get little pleasure from any of these movies, Eve resented the fact that he was being entertained while she worked. But when she was through at the office and met Dick patiently waiting in the roadster at the side entrance her resentment always left her and she snuggled by his side and lifted her eyes to his in a glad smile.

The Tuesday evening episodes still bothered Eve, however. Dick did not leave her every Tuesday but when he did go out alone it was always on that evening. What was he concealing from her? Why didn't he take her into his confidence? Once it occurred to her that she had never had an engagement with him on a Tuesday before their marriage. Now that she was Dick's wife wasn't she entitled to know everything that concerned him? There were times when she thought of following him but her serious illness of her niece. Mark Howell returned Sunday from Arkansas, where he visited relatives.

Judging by the experience of many farmers the hardest thing to raise on a farm is money.

"Just Make Yourself at Home"

It's an old expression, but it's typical of the warm, friendly atmosphere at the Crazy Water Hotel.

People get acquainted here, because so many of them come back year after year to drink Crazy Mineral Water and take a course of Crazy Mineral Baths. They enjoy meeting their old friends just as you will. . . . But more than that, you too can get back "in condition" for another year just through drinking Crazy Mineral Water and enjoying those baths under the supervision of trained masseurs.

This year all the facilities of the Crazy Water Hotel, including a large, comfortable room, all your meals, mineral baths, and all the Crazy Water you can drink served to you in your room or at the noted Crazy Water bar may be your for as low as $20.00 per week.

Children's Reading Month Terminated
 The children's free reading month is over for this year and another 12 months will roll around before they will possibly be extended this same privilege of the free use of the public library, the reading room and the books.

The children were enthusiastic over their free reading days, and expressed their sorrow that the privilege had ended for this year.

There have been from 115 to 150 children each free reading day, up to Wednesday.

It is interesting to note that the boys called for the adventure, on land, sea, and in air, stories, and the girls for light romances.

The smaller children asked for fairy tales and animal stories. The library was greatly benefited by having the free reading months, as it was the means of not only acquainting new children with library privileges, but brought their parents in contact with the library and what they could find there.

In the beginning some of the children were so timid that they would not go to Miss Haas, the librarian, or select their books from the shelves, but the gentlemanly manner of Miss Haas overcame this feature and the little children finally learned to make an intelligent selection for themselves.

The children were well behaved all summer, and not an unpleasant incident occurred to mark the routine of the library work.

 By United Press
 PARIS.—As a rival to Alain Gerbault, the lone mariner, Count Marie de Saint Front, law graduate, painter and naval officer, successfully sailed from Douranzon, on the French coast, to Fort-de-France, Martinique, in an 11-metre boat. He was alone for the 5,200-mile cruise with a halt at Madeira.

Border Children to Be Taught Spanish
 By United Press
 AUSTIN.—Free Spanish textbooks and instruction will be provided this year in elementary grades of Texas public schools along the Rio Grande, under a law enacted by the last legislature. Previously instruction in modern languages was confined to high schools.

Free instruction in Spanish in counties bordering on the Texas-Mexico boundary line is limited, however, to those counties having a city or cities of 5,000 or more inhabitants according to the census of 1920.

Roosevelt administration has ordered slaughter of 5,000,000 hogs to promote recovery. Rather drastic, but a lot better than the politicians' time-honored attempts to promote recovery by merely shooting the bull.
