EDUCATIONAL MEET HAS GOOD ATTENDANCE

Public school needs and proposed ways of meeting them, formed he keynote of the conference of local, county and state school of-ficials and representatives in East-land Wednesday night, called by county superintendent of schools, B. E. McGlamery for a discussion of school problems. The meeting was held on Connellee roof. It opened with a supper presided over by W. P. Palm, principal of Eastland High school.

Those present favored the rais-ing of standards of teaching and placing certification of teachers in the hands of the State Board of Education.

Members of the legislature pres ent were urged to consider re-or-ganization of the public schools of Texas, on the basis of county units with a single office of administration for each county. They also urged apportionment of state funds, on a basis of the average daily attendance in schools, in place of the present mode based on scholastic enrollment.

The majority present favored elimination of 6-year-old children in the scholastic rolls.

Legislature members in attendince pledged support of a constructive school program and ade quate state support of public

CONTRIBUTIONS OF AMERICAN PHILANTHROPISTS

According to a financial journal of New York more than half of the $54,500,000, given away by 102 American philanthropic foundations in 1931, $29,634,000 came from the Rockefeller fortune. This was revealed by the publication of the annual survey of the 20th century fund, Medicine and public health received $17,135,000; education, $13,579,000; social science and physical science, third and fourth, with $5,832,942 and $4,667,600 respectively. Now read this item which is most significant: "Prohibition received $100, the smallest amount of the 27 fields represented." John D. Rockefeller, Sr., the founder of the Rockefeller foundation, has given away upwards of $2,000,000,-000 since he closed his very active career to get a little enjoyment out of life before he touched the century mark. A large part of his collection he found preserved as hairlooms.

"It is surprising how much glass has stood the effects of time," Hoyum says, "Most of it is un-believably fragile, of uneven thickess and shot through with bub-les. In spite of that, I am continually finding perfect specimens in homes where they have been used for generations.
"Bubbles in old glass do not lessen its value. Rather, they indicate its authenticity. Another test is pontil marks which indicate the use of the pontil rod and mold employed by early American glass akers. These marks often add the value of glass."

Hoyum's collection includes ore than 100 lamps of many designs and shapes. Patterns known as Westward Ho and Bell Flower are found oftenest, he says. He also has collected examples of patterns known as Rose in Snow Blue Hobnail, Irish Honeycomb Milk Glass, Overlay and Thumb Print. Besides early American glass, he owns examples of 17th and 18th century Bohemian and Irish glass of varied colors and

THESE are the days when hearty luncheon dishes with a rich savoriness are most relished. The platter of thinly sliced cold meat cool salad and wafer-like bread and butter sandwiches that is s quickly and easily prepared for the hot weather luncheon is not for these nippy winter days. No busy home-maker likes to spend much time over the preparation of the noon meal. But at least one hot nourishing dish must be supplied for luncheon. School children will derive much nourishment from hearty soups and the cook will spend but a few and the cook will spend but a few minutes in their making. In fact they are worked into the morning's schedule without noticing the time given to them.
