A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LIFE AND GOOD DAYS: He that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile. —1 Yeter 3: 10.

NEW YORK DEATH RATE IN DEPRESSION YEAR

Wall Street is on Manhattan Island. New York is the financial city of the American world. Regardless of the depression and its ills, the New York City death rate for 1932 was the lowest in history. In 1931 the respective death and birth rates were 10.92 and 55.6. During the year just closed the general death rate was only 10.3 per 1000 population, and the infant mortality rate was 50.9 per cent per 1000 births. It appears that the so-called underfed are enjoying excellent health, and that the overfed in the years of prosperity may be lighter in pocket, but their physical condition tell the story that man should eat to live and not live to eat. In other words, prosperity causes overstuffing on the part of those who love to jingle their money in popular cafes of speakasies or the dining rooms of fashionable hostleries. Plan living, which means plain food, has its health advantages.

SOUTH DAKOTA TAXPAYERS TOLD PLAIN FACTS

Attorney General M. O. Sharpe of South Dakota has made a report to his governor in which he declared that the failure of the rural credit system in the commonwealth now being liquidated at an estimated $38,000,000 loss to taxpayers, should be attributed primarily to the administrations of Gov. Peter Norbeck and W. H. McMasters. He charged they were the "most politically infested and mis-handled administrations of a public trust in the entire history of South Dakota. However, he did not paint all connected as black as night. There is a white side of his report. He declared the audit an investigation conducted disclosed "that the failure is not due to any criminal larceny or embezzlement by anyone connected with the department of government for the rural credit system." Away back in World war times the South Dakota leaders invented "the rural credit system." Pay day came in with the crash in 1929. When pay day comes there is a yowling of human voices all along the line—while those who are the top shutters for relief systems in other years are the most chronic grumblers when their pockets are pinched.

HE WOULD CHLOROFORM THE AGED

Dr. David Weschler, a famous medical scientist of the Bellevue hospital of New York, pot-shotted the intellectual aged as the old year was passing out. He declared the popular idea that old men are particularly fitted by wisdom and virility for leadership was largely a myth—and this before the American Association for the Advancement of Science. This is his death warrant for the elderly: "The elevation of old men to high places in politics and positions of authority in intellectual fields has been specially detrimental. Most university professors could be retired with profit to science at the age of 50." Well, how old is David and where did he get it?

At present this country appears to be subjected to a wave of violent crime. Bank robberies and holdups are quite frequent, and if conditions do not improve the law-abiding citizen will find it necessary to pack a gun as a life preserver.

I note in an eastern city a movement to have weekly pay-days instead of monthly ones. In many sections the people would be glad to have any kind of pay-day.

The stealing of motor cars is a national problem. Every effort on the part of officers should be made to solve it as far as possible.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Every business man owes it to himself, to his business and to his community to take an active part in the building of the home city and the surrounding country.

Some people should think before they act. If they did they wouldn't lost much time in joining the home city builders.

The man who tries to get something for nothing usually gets nothing.

To think that a city can get something without co-operation is just a dream, and so long as that dream stays with them they will get no real development.

Nothing worth having can be secured without being worked for, traded for or bought and paid for.

A whole lot of people should think for themselves instead of having someone think for them.

Every community should in every way possible patronize, protect and encourage the business and industries they already have.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON.—The theory that private business is vastly more efficient than the government is not faring as well as it did in the days when large corporations were making money hand over fist. Argument as to that point is beginning all over again. The visit of President-elect Roosevelt and Senator Norris to Muscle Shoals, center of a long fight between advocates of government ownership and those of private operation, draws renewed attention to it. So do such developments as the report of the Committee on Social Trends with its suggestion of social-economic planning and the popularization of technocracy with its inevitable vision of a controlled economic structure. Several competent students have recently hurled spears at the notion that government is not to be trusted in any form of business, even to the point of insisting that the cost of operating the federal government itself is relatively low. EVEN the berated Farm Board, whose stabilization operations appear to have cost two or three hundred millions, is defended by comparison with private business in an analysis by William F. Schilling, one of its members. Schilling compares the young Farm Board with older, seasoned industrial groups, points out that the board ran head-on into the depression almost as soon as established and says that although it is contended the board's capital structure has been reduced 62.4 a list of 421 industrial stocks shows an average decline of 78.5 from the 1926 index in reports of the Standard Statistics Company. Also, he says, the board was forced by law to take a secondary position on all loans. So Schilling suggests it might be a good idea for the Farm Board to take over industries for operation. Then there's Judge George W. Anderson of the federal bench, former Interstate Commerce commissioner and U. S. district attorney, who suggests a 15 billion dollar government corporation to take over the railroads on the theory that they can be run more efficiently that way. COMES also Dr. Isador Lubin, a widely-known economist of the Brookings Institution, who contends that federal government would appear far less expensive and Treasury deficits almost nonexistent if the Treasury did not charge to current budgets investments of a permanent or long-time character. Public construction charges should be spread over the life of the projects, he says, and the loans charged on a separate investment account. Further, there is the analysis of David Lawrence, editor and writer, who proclaims that the real cost of the civil government of the United States is only $545,000,000 despite the 1933-34 federal budget of $3,500,000,000. The rest goes for the public debt, veterans, army and navy and the postal deficit which could be eliminated. The real point in that breakdown of expenses is that it shows that the actual cost of operating this government represents only about one per cent of the national income.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

THE STARS FORMING THE WORLD-FAMOUS CONSTELLATION "SOUTHERN CROSS" WERE LAST SEEN ON THE HORIZON OF JERUSALEM ABOUT THE TIME OF THE CRUCIFIXION. DUE TO THE PRESSION OF THE EQUINOXES, THE CROSS IS NO LONGER VISIBLE FROM EUROPE.

THE CROSS was used as a religious symbol by the aborigines of North and South America, as well as by the most ancient nations of the Old World. The Spanish found the cross used as an object of worship in Mexico. The Indians regarded the cross as a mystic emblem of the four points of the compass. TRY A WANT AD—IT ALWAYS PAYS

DERRICK SHADOWS BY V. MARIE STEPHENS

While America is preparing to adjust herself to a new administration, the land of Pat and Mike goes through all the trials of politics. Those Irishmen are determined souls, striving lustily while taking careful aim with rocks. It's enlightening to know we have co-actors in some field outside the limits of money. When you lose all interest in your home town and you decide it's very dull and dead . . . go west, kind reader, go west. And if friends and acquaintances call you some other direction, follow the call . . . and come home again proud of Ranger. We were just drifting about; four creatures discussing politics and religion and life and other trivial subjects. We knew the highway led somewhere, hail our destination. They brag about their city and think their buildings are fine, but there's something cold about the town . . . cold and ugly. It makes you want to begin a "home-town appreciation" campaign around the derrick.

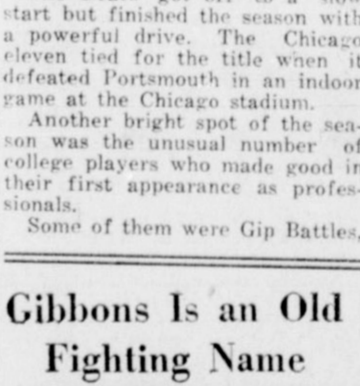

The missing Australian aviator must be a charming somebody. His friends attribute to him one of the most fascinating characteristics: the art of turning up suddenly where least expected. That put him in the front ranks of the interesting. The man who can always be depended upon to do things as planned finds himself to be every mother's son-in-law ideal and every daughter's joke. And most men, analyzed, prefer the daughter's verdict. His friends are reported unalarmed at the silence surrounding his disappearance; such a report being proof they are very anxious and wondering what might have happened. The wise public writes negatively, and the wise reader sees between the lines.

I happened on a bit of drama recently. I'm afraid I'm not such a good critic for the stuff, not being able to give the writer the benefit of the doubt. I was reminded of the Vermont schoolboy who wrote, "Elocution is the way people are put to death in some parts of the United States." Some of our most enthusiastic play-actors oooh and ahhh over the beautiful lines throughout the dramatic spasm . . . sighing patiently within and praying for sudden death to the actors. Intelligence hypocrisy.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By HENRY SUPER, United Press Staff Correspondent. Professional Football Shows Impressive Gain. The season which just ended was one of the best in professional football. The outstanding feature of play in the National Football league was the determination of the Green Bay Packers eleven. The title this year was split between the Chicago Bears and the Portsmouth Spartans. Eight teams started the circuit race and the league was evenly matched. Boston, the sole newcomer, got off to a good start in both attracting a large following and producing results. The Hub team finished fourth, the highest of any eastern squad, and furnished distinct signs of developing into a dangerous competitor next year. The Bears got off to a slow start but finished the season with a powerful drive. The Chicago eleven tied for the title when it defeated Portsmouth in an indoor game at the Chicago stadium. Another bright spot of the season was the unusual number of college players who made good in their first appearance as professionals. Some of them were Gip Battles,

SPOTLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY Sheila Shayne, 18, whose parents were well known vaudeville actors, is in New York looking for a job. Sheila is a dancer. In spite of the fact she has spent almost her entire life on the stage her ambition is to marry and have a home like those she has seen in small towns in which she has played.

Sheila darkened her lids with blue make-up and crimsoned her lips with gorgeous strokes.

a party he is giving but she refuses, knowing that after a day of rehearsing and the performance that night she will be too tired. She goes to the theater and there meets Phil Short, an old acquaintance.

Sheila worked on at the dressing table. Lottie's specialty came first and then Sheila's—with a wait between while the band, elegant in evening clothes, performed.

Her hair would do, though she was sorry there had not been time for a shampoo and wave. Now that the exchequer was about to be replenished, Sheila could afford that.

Sheila worked on at the dressing table. Lottie's specialty came first and then Sheila's—with a wait between while the band, elegant in evening clothes, performed.

During the dinner he explained other things. Upon leaving Ma Lowell's rooming house, said Phil, he had married. Yes, married. His face clouded a trifle as he said the word, and it was evident that the marriage was not, for some reason, a happy one.

Just now, with conditions as they were, Mildred was living with Phil's parents. Sheila gathered that the daughter-in-law—strangely enough—had a more desirable place in the hearts of the Short family than did the son.

The dinner was excellent, though hurried. Sheila ordered lightly, as Phil did also, for both had the performance to think of. The act would go on in three-quarters of an hour.

The young man was friendly, agreeable. It was nice to see Phil again. In show business one couldn't always account for sudden departures, failures to explain, omitted farewells. By the time she reached the dressing room Sheila felt rather friendly toward her old admirer and Back in the dressing room, the "arty dancers," as Lottie had somewhat scornfully dubbed them, had returned from a half hour's energetic posing, their scarfs trailing, their classic robes in pastel shades tossed about in confusion. They talked the great deal, completely ignoring the others.

Sheila stood in the wings. Roscoe waved his baton, Phil nodded and the band crashed into melody. Two bars. Three bars. How did it go? Oh—this way! Sheila ran on. Now she was dancing! Dancing to a full house, too.
