WASHINGTON.—It was hardly to be expected that the "Beer for Christmas" slogan would accomplish its intended purpose with the Seventy-second Congress in this last of the "lame duck" sessions. I doubt very much if the slogan-makers themselves had any real hope that such a rash promise could be fulfilled. With them, though, it was the proper caper as they viewed the political scene and the results of Prohibition referendum in 11 states, which swung into the Wet column.

New Jersey, California, Louisiana, North Dakota, Colorado, Arizona and Washington repealed their enforcement laws, while Wyoming and Connecticut voted for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. In addition to these, Michigan's advisory referendum for repeal carried, and Oregon discarded its law against liquor possession.

Nobody can doubt that the tide has been running high against the "Bible Experiment." The issue was so clear-cut as to leave no doubt that the 21,357,057 voters, who cast their ballots for Mr. Roosevelt (according to latest available figures) did so with the Democratic candidate's announcement favoring repeal clearly in mind. The pledge was so concisely stated that the victors have accepted the vote as a mandate for immediate action.

Consequently, Democratic Wet in the present Congress are rarin' to go, but nobody is silly enough to suppose that there will be much time available for proper repeal legislation to be drafted. As a matter of plain common sense, there are far more important questions demanding attention. Parched throats will suffer no irreparable damage if they are denied wait, but hasty repeal legislation carelessly drawn might result in no end of harm to the Wet cause.

With the new Congress preponderantly Wet, it is certain that budget estimates from the Prohibition Bureau for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act will be whittled down to such an extent as to make enforcement impossible. It will not be at all surprising if the incoming solons refuse to grant requested appropriations. Prohibition Director Woodcock has just asked for $10,000,000. He may get it from the present Congress, but it is predicted he will have no such good luck after March 4.

Bright, Fresher After Taking Black-Draught

"Seven years ago, I was troubled with constipation," writes Mrs. L. E. Williams, of Jackson, Miss. "My mother told me she thought it would help me to take Black-Draught. She had used it herself and it had helped her. I found it relieved me of this troublesome complaint. I suffered from sick headache and biliousness which made me feel dull and lifeless. I had no ambition to do anything. I felt bright and fresh after I took Theodor's Black-Draught. It is a splendid medicine for constipation. I take it dry, at night, followed by a generous glass of water." Get a package of Theodor's Black-Draught today. Refuse substitutes.

late campaign. Columbia Broadcasting System promptly stated after the election that its total receipts from this source had been $368,175, divided as follows: $6380 from the Socialists, $167,171 from the Democrats and $194,824 from the Republicans. To inquirers, the total received by the National Broadcasting company was "not available," but estimates placed the figure in excess of $1,000,000 on two major networks. Senator Dill, in an address on election eve, stated that a total of at least $2,000,000 was spent in chain and local broadcasting during the campaign.

The huge profits which private broadcasters have received from national party treasuries have given certain members of Congress a talking-point that may be turned into an agitation for a chain of federal and State-owned broadcasting stations. The plan as proposed is to have such a nationwide chain used at cost during campaigns by candidates of all parties, and at other times for the discussion of State and national problems by government officials.

In other words, those who have been discussing the scheme are frank in saying that they see no reason why political parties should have to dig up money by the hundreds of thousands of dollars so that a relatively few persons and corporations, holders of federal radio licenses, may reap a whirlwind of profits.

That the idea has possibilities is evident. Another suggestion has been made that a commercial chain of educational broadcasting stations, setting a definite educational need in other respects, could be utilized at minimum rates for political discussions, and thus eliminate radio as a commercial proposition from the political picture. As it is organized and regulated today, broadcasting has its basis in commercialism. Rules laid down by the Federal Radio Commission requiring stations to furnish 18 hours of continuous programs out of 24 have been criticized as placing too much of a commercial emphasis on broadcasting. It is this very emphasis which has been used to drive valuable educational stations from the air. Many of them have simply been forced into abandoning their licenses by the unwarranted demand that they be run as commercial stations are operated.

It is now proposed that important channels be set aside for States and State universities and that these stations be not forced as in the past to submit to regulations laid down for commercially operated stations. To this end, channels assigned for such purposes shall be clear at all times and used only at such hours of the day and night as the State and State university authorities shall select for their programs.

The argument is not without merit that candidates of all parties for presidential and gubernatorial offices deal with questions of momentous concern to the people, and that political parties should not be forced to pay financial tribute to commercial stations for the privilege of discussing such matters with the electorate. The claim is logical, but the commercial stations will not relish any proposal that would take away their private profits. Political campaigns furnish rich "pickings" for the broadcasting chains, as the treasurer of political parties will testify. They are obliged to raise contributions... and this year it was no easy trick.

That the Federal Radio commission is due for a shakeup and a complete reorganization is a foregone conclusion. Some of the more commercially-minded members appointed by the present administration will soon be retired. Colleagues of Representative Ewin Davis of Tennessee, I am informed, will press for his appointment to the commission. Mr. Davis was defeated in the recent Democratic primary when his old district was split up as the result of reapportionment and he was forced into a contest in territory where his opponent "had the edge."

Davis is the father of some of the best provisions in existing radio legislation. As House chairman of the committee on Merchant Marine, Radio and Fisheries in the present Congress he has been a bulwark against the forces which have been degrading broadcasting. He is the outstanding authority in Congress on radio and its problems, and a member of the Radio Commission would be a tower of strength to that body. His appointment by President Roosevelt would be a tribute to the veteran legislator for his untiring service to the public and would give him an opportunity to carry on as a commissioner the "clean-up" campaign he has conducted as a Representative in the interest of better broadcasting.

Kid Gleason Was Much Older Than That! THEY said Kid Gleason was 67 years old when he died at his home near the Philadelphia ball park. He was older than that. He lived 100 years during the baseball season of 1919 and 1920... and died a thousand deaths. He ruled with an iron hand the greatest ball club ever put together... the old White Sox that turned black... He had to have an iron hand... which made it easy for the gamblers to work on the boys... The Kid used to have a standing order to his member of the team... "If you want to fight, come to me" he used to say in later years. "I was no juvenile, but I could move in and go to work in any man's fight."

Joe Jackson, running a pressing shop now in Savannah, Ga., refers fondly to the Kid as "Mist' Gleason" and still declares his batting mark in the series proved that he had no hand in the throwing of ball games.

Bewilderment THE Kid sat in his little office in Comiskey park after the first few games of that 1919 series... "I can't figure out what's the matter," said he depondently. "My club isn't playing ball... the best team is losing this series."

Affectionate Assault COLLINS used to call him "Waldo"... and just for that he took plenty of cuffing around... and biting... have out on a run... still he couldn't believe that these men were crooked... the idea was too tremendously grotesque for him to accept.

The greatest ball club that ever was put together... and late for breakfast... the Kid positively proved they were trying to lose the pennant, they almost won it... the Kid went down in a heap during a 1920 series with the Yankees at the Polo Grounds... nerves, heart, and a thousand deaths... it is hard to believe that when the rookies gather in the south... the Kid won't be there.

Bronchial Troubles Need Creomulsion

Bronchial troubles may lead to something serious. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

HERE--- AND THERE

By Elvie H. Jackson

The average run of people, when they read the report of a club election, are prone to think, well, a compliment was paid that or the other woman, and let it go without further consideration.

But it does not mean just a compliment was paid, or that some woman or several women accepted election to offices in the spirit of a pretty gesture. Not by any means. It takes brains, patience, diplomacy, tact, kindness and a genuine Christian attitude to make a good and successful officer of great or modest degree.

Frequently a presiding officer faces a situation in club matters and conduct, that is delicate in the extreme, and requires the most exact adherence to parliamentary usage, to control the situation with justness, fairness to all, and poise on the part of the woman or man presiding. To be an executive officer in the fullest acceptance of the term, means loss of leisure, study of parliamentary usage, and incalculable amount of time and thought, given to little details of the work, in order that the cogs of the machine may be well adjusted, and work in perfect precision.

We have had some notable examples in the federated club work of women, of the fine political knowledge evidenced by those wonderful women who have been successful in the discharge of those duties, to which their sister clubwomen elected them.

Many such outstanding women here in Texas carry the banner of successful achievement with modesty, and with heads erect. The wonderful state club headquarters building in Austin is a fitting monument to past state president, Mrs. Lindsey, and a conclusive proof of what a woman or man can accomplish when imbued with an earnest thought of helping others, of an honest discharge of obligations, and of a sincere dependence on the teachings of our Savior.

Yes, to be a president of any kind entails its honorable and arduous application, loyalty to fine principles, respect for the rights of others, and respect for one's self.

The Newfangles (Mom 'n' Pop) By Cowen

SPOTLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
SHEILA SHAYNE IS, whose parents were well known vaudeville actors, is in New York looking for a job. Sheila is a dancer.
In spite of the fact that she has spent almost her entire life on the stage her ambition is to marry and have a home like those she has seen in small towns in which she has played.
On a few hours' notice she is hired to take the place of DAISY GLEASON, another dancer, who has accepted an offer. She goes to JOE PARIS' office in "Tin Pan Alley" to rehearse. There she meets TREVOR LANE and DICK
STANLEY, both rich. Lane asks Sheila to dance at a party he is giving but she refuses, knowing that after a day of rehearsing
and the performance that night
she will be too tired.
Sheila goes to the theater. The show begins and she wins applause with her dancing. Suddenly she discovers Dick Stanley in the audience. He writes for her after the show and again urges her to come to Lane's party.
Somewhat against her better judgment she agrees.

It was indeed a pretty picture.
One moment she was there, presing, smiling. Then she was gone.
Instantly everyone was talking.
Groups broke up and others reassembled. Kato appeared bearing a heavily laden tray. Trevor Lane separated himself from a girl who was hanging on his arm, urged her gently into a seat beside an all-too-willing and ensanguing youth, and hastened toward Sheila and Dick.
"Dick promised me that he would try to make you change
your mind," Lane said.
"Blind Timmy!" The words slipped out and Sheila flushed suddenly. "Please don't misunderstand," she said. "It may sound crude to call him that but it's his name—almost a honor in trade.
No one ever calls him anything else. I'd hardly remembered that his name is Davis."
"Blind Timmy. He seemed to be pleased that you were to sing. And he said that you had run through the songs with him
day or so ago."
That was true. Only the other evening at Ma Lowell's Sheila and Timmy had had an hour of singing in Ma's blatant old parlor with his paper flowers, dusty and faded,
its gilt framed pictures of ageless
ancestors and Ma's other treasures. How different from the room in which they now stood! And how different Timmy looked in his tuxedo. "A fine, outstanding figure of a man," as Ma would always say, with a sigh for Timmy's sightless eyes.
"That's fine. Yes, of course I'll sing. Maybe one or two of Timmy's own songs."
"Great. Perhaps you'll want to primp a bit—you look most charming but nearly everyone does—before facing the battery."
He directed a servant to show
Miss Shayne the dressing room from which she could emerge near the piano and save an embarrassing walk through the glittering rooms.
Smiling Sheila turned from Dick. To be sure this was what she had come for. She was an entertainer. It was true that Dick had called for her at the theater but very likely he was as glad now of the opportunity to escape
her. If after she sang he did not join her—
But Dick was still at her side
when she reached the dressing room door. "You aren't nervous?"
he asked.
"Nervous?" Sheila's low laughter rang out. She was exultant again. "Oh, but you forget that I was practically born on the stage.
I'm more nervous talking to you
than singing to a crowd."
"Then you're in for a lot of nervousness tonight," Dick laughed. "I'm going to talk to you a lot. That's a threat!"
Two girls on a nearby fifth floor. Dick then and he told him.
Bowing to Sheila, he was gone.
(To Be Continued)

SHEILA heard that ripple of laughter. She did not turn and so she did not learn the speaker's identity. But the words brought a chill about her heart. "Dick's girls are always pretty," the unknown woman had said. Of course such a young man as Dick Stanley must know many girls. He must be in constant demand at parties and dinners where there were beautifully gowned, beautifully groomed young women.
And say what you would clothes did make a difference!
Look at what they could do for a newly discovered movie star.
They had changed Norma Seabury
in one short year from a pretty, ordinary little Brooklyn girl to a suave, sophisticated beauty who knew how to walk and talk, to rise from a chair and sit down.
These girls who were Trevor Lane's guests were not like Norma. Their glamour was more natural, less affected. They had been born to this life of luxury.
Sheila looked about her at the blond, black and titian heads, the gleaming white shoulders accented against the trim black coats of the men. Some were dancing, some chatting. Laughter broke forth and trickled across the room in gentle, well-modulated ripples.
Then the brilliant rustle of voices
suddenly hushed.
"Here's a clever little girl for you," Dick was saying, clapping his hands. Following his eyes toward a Japanese screen which half concealed a door into another room, Sheila waited expectantly. She had not heard the announcement, which had prompted Dick's words. Another little dart of jealousy shot through her.
Here obviously was an entertainer
of whom Dick approved.
A hush fell and the girl stood before them. She was slender, not very tall, dressed in flesh-
colored tights and a jeweled bodice.
A silver fringe circled her waist.
Her dark eyes sparkled in the delicate, pinkish little face beneath a lovely plink silk wig. She looked almost like a small boudoir doll. It was Frances Barton, the eccentric dancer.

Frances was the best in her line—the originator of a dozen routines so difficult that only a few of her imitators could follow them. She had been in half a dozen Broadway shows and was in one now. Like Sheila, she had come to the party following the performance.
SHEILA saw Dick Stanley's eyes light and his smile flash. His gaze was as ardent, as eager as it had been when he had turned toward Sheila herself. Hotly she told herself that to Dick Stanley she was just another girl. How could she have been so foolish as to believe that he was interested in her? Just because he had taken the trouble to call for her at the theater?
"Here's a great, isn't she?" Dick was saying, unconscious of the tumult he had caused in Sheila's heart. "You must meet her. I know you'll like her."
"Do you know her well?"
Sheila asked.
"Know her? I should say I do.
Let's move forward. You don't want to miss this bit."
"I know her, too," Sheila said,
trying to keep her voice steady.
"And she is good, isn't she?
There's no one else on the stage who can touch her. Frances is in a class by herself."

CLAMOR of applause went up as the girl began one of the most intricate parts of the dance.
She was delightfully graceful.
Frances swayed like a lily on its stem, bent almost unbelievably and yet attractively too. She turned amazing somersaults, righting her slender body with agile grace. Presently, amidst clapping of hands, she finished
the dance, bowing graciously, bounding toward the audience on tiptoe and back again. Frances blew a kiss, light as thistle-down, pranced on her toes and fluttered out of sight.

FATE OF THE ROBBER: Behold at evening tide trouble; and before the morning he is not. This is the portion of them that spoil us, and the lot of them that rob us.—Isaiah 17: 4.

PIPELINES AND THE NEW ORDERS

There is something doing all the time in the petroleum world. In Texas owners and operators of pipelines receiving and transporting oil are ordered by the Texas railroad commission to make connections to wells in rotation as they are completed regardless of ownership. Preferences must be given to leases without any connection, and "connections shall be accepted and taken by the pipelines which by geographical location and least expense is the logical connection unless some other line is willing to accept the same." This will lead to more talk and perhaps additional litigation. Really the lawyers are the boys who are busy in the new year as well as they were in the old year.

WOMAN ELECTED SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

Mrs. Minnie B. Craig of North Dakota is in the picture. She became the first woman speaker of the house of representatives of that commonwealth. Indeed, she is the first woman representative ever elected speaker of any legislative body in the United States. She has served ten years as a representative from her district. She was national republican committeewoman for North Dakota in 1928, in 1932 and in 1928 directed the campaign among North Dakota women. All phases of government and politics interest her. She is the wife of a small town banker. She is interested in music and flowers. She was given a unanimous vote after a democratic rival received scattered votes. Some distinction—the first or only one of her sex in the nation to hold the office of speaker. Mrs. Craig is a native of Maine. She studied piano and voice in Boston. She has been married 25 years, and for a quarter of a century North Dakota has been her home state. She spends her summer developing flower gardens. She is a keen politician—a ready and fluent orator and she is said to know all the tricks of the political game.

A presidential election in the United States is always an exciting time and occasionally, for the rest of the world, an interesting one.

Men with a public spirit make better cities. Men without public spirit drag them down.

Technocracy Does Not Offer Plan To Help Mankind

Editor's Note—The following is the fourth and concluding article on technocracy, by Sidney B. Whipple, of the United Press, New York staff.
By SIDNEY B. WHIPPLE, United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1933, United Press)
NEW YORK.—Having led its followers to a mountain top of statistics and permitted them to view the precipice of world collapse, technocracy might be expected to point, in the distance, to some Utopian civilization. Instead, technocracy merely says, "Well, here we are, and what are you going to do about it. I got you up here, but you'll have to get down by yourself."
There have been vague suggestions society can reconstruct its measures and standards—that we should use the symbol for some unit of energy, like the "erg," for measurement of human values, instead of the dollar sign. But the technocrats stop right there.
In other words, when they are pinned down, they admit they have no solution for what they term the machine-age crisis. And they do not pretend to have any. Therefore, technocracy is not a panacea for the world's economic ills. It is not Communism nor Socialism. It has no blue-print for the future of civilization.
It is, briefly, merely "a plan for study," and not a method for operating society. It is limited, at least at present, to the gathering of figures, the analysis of statistics, the arranging of facts, which may or may not be valuable in charting trends of industry and economics—dependent upon the accuracy of the facts obtained.
Howard Scott, who seized upon the name "technocracy," and built around it his pseudo-science, defines it as: "A method of scientific procedure in operating a mechanism of a continental order of magnitude, and not one of political partisanship based either upon class antipathy or class dominance." That is an admission that technocracy has no political phase whatsoever. How it could be enforced—provided it developed the plan which today is lacking—is a matter of government, and technocracy will not concern itself with that.
Dr. Irving Fisher of Yale, says technocracy's only function in solving unemployment is that ment on unemployment "over-emphasized."

Dr. Dugald C. Jackson, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, says "we cannot truthfully ascribe the cause of cyclic unemployment such as that of today to invention and machinery." They have added immeasurably to the comfort and happiness of ourselves, and broadly, to the improved character and general stability of our employment."
When the sum total of the accomplishment of technocracy to date has been cast up, it comes to be this—"It has set the boys to thinking and arguing."
"That, in itself, may prove to be no mean accomplishment."

Olive Industry's Mother Dies at 93

OAKLAND, Calif.—Mrs. Freda Ehmann, "mother" of California's ripe olive industry, was dead today at the age of 93.
Thirty-six years ago, finding herself in what she described as straightened circumstances, with few assets, save an old olive grove at Orville and no market for her olives, she began home experimentation in pickling ripe olives.
This experimentation she carried on principally under the porch of her home here, where she perfected a process that carried her name around the world when her product reached the markets, and built the foundation for a fortune.
The ripe olive industry in California was regarded as having taken root with her first contribution to olive processing.
"She lived to see her business grow to a factory covering a city block in Orville, supplied by 500 acres of olives."

Texan May Be Named Governor of Hawaiian Isles

AUSTIN.—It is probable that Judge Sam B. Kemp of Honolulu, former practicing attorney of Austin and later county judge of Coke county, will be appointed Governor of the Territory of Hawaii by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, according to information received here from high political sources. Judge Kemp took up his residence in Honolulu about 18 years ago upon his appointment to a high judicial position in the territory by President Woodrow Wilson. Since his retirement from office he has been practicing law in the islands. He had much to do with the recent Democratic victory in Hawaii where he has taken a leading part in fighting the battles of the party. Judge Kemp's probable appointment as Governor of the territory is of special interest to the people of Austin for the reason that he was born and reared on a farm near here and was educated at The University of Texas where he received his law degree. His wife comes from a prominent family of Burleson county. Their daughter, Dorothy, took her pre-med courses at the University of Texas and is now a practicing physician of Honolulu. During her residence here she took an active part in sorority affairs and was popular in co-ed circles. She was a member of Alpha Chi Omega, where her mother served as house mother for one year.

Trying to "save the world for democracy" helped to get us into this economic mess. So it's not surprising there are so many conscientious objectors to "saving the world for technocracy" as a means of getting us out of it.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

It looks as though the men who are making rabid economy talks are killing, through fear, that lays the golden eggs instead of feeding it to its laying power.

In other words, they are cutting down the throat of the people through economy and fear instead of every effort to build up the buying power of the people through helping to develop better market prices for our agricultural and manufactured products America can go back to work.

The money spent in economy propaganda could be spent and do more good if it were spent in buying advertising space in every newspaper in the land and constructive talks.

The over-playing of economy is making both the rich and the poor poorer.

Governor Arthur Seligman, of New Mexico, says: "Did you ever stop to think that it is as much the duty of patriotic citizens to pay a just share of the cost of government in times of peace as it is in times of war? Life and limb and all property?"

"That money expended in support of government public works, reclamation and useful community projects finds its way back into trade channels and relieves communities of support of people who otherwise would be unemployed."

Some merchants seem to think that because the attractive places of business it is not necessary to advertise. They might as well say that we don't need milk because the stores sell canned milk.

"Whether you speed or not—get an oil that can"

TAKE IT from an old "engine doctor"—you need speed in your motor oil!
"Even if you never push your car past 40, you need Gulf Supreme—that 100-mile-an-hour motor oil! And there's no mystery why."
"Speed shows up oil. An oil that can do 60 may be fair enough. But an oil that can do 100 and like it, is a better, safer oil . . . at ANY speed you drive!"
"It gives you plus lubrication. Extra resistance. Extra richness. Extra defense against wear and repairs. It couldn't take 100-mile-an-hour punishment if it didn't!"
Twice Gulf Supreme has proved itself a "fighter" . . . First, by lubricating a motor at nearly twice the heat of the best speeding engine—for 14 solid hours!
Second, by lubricating a Duesenberg roaring around the Indianapolis Speedway. In this Official AAA test, Supreme performed perfectly at speeds nearly as fast as two miles a minute. An average speed of the one-hour, non-stop run of better than 100-miles-an-hour!
Take this tip! Change to Gulf Supreme now! It can take super-punishment . . . oil costs . . . spare-down repair bills . . . lengthen your motor's life!

GULF SUPREME MOTOR OIL

C. Funderburk, from last Friday until today.

This table seated Mrs. Bohning, Mrs. Funderburk, Mrs. A. H. Rhodes and Mrs. John Ducker of Ranger.

Club members present were Mmes. Theodore Ferguson, Carl Angstadt, Bryan Brelsford, Curtis A. Hertz, James H. Cheatham Jr., Alex Clarke, J. L. McMurray of Cisco, and Mrs. Russell, who served a delicious tea plate at close of afternoon.

Covered Dish Dinner And Delightful Evening

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Fiensy were home host and hostess Tuesday night to a group of friends, each couple contributing a delicious item for the covered dish dinner enjoyed at 7 o'clock about seven tables arranged by Mrs. Fiensy with attractive tally and place cards, marking covers for four places each, with tables centered in individual coffee services.

The house was prettily decorated with handsome ferns and bouquets of scarlet tone flowers. The menu included fried chicken, baked ham, creamed potatoes and peas, home-baked hot rolls, pickles, salad, and last course of ice cream and cake.

After dinner "42" was enjoyed at the several tables, by Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Duckett, Mr. and Mrs. M. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Robey, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Owen, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Rawson, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Maxey, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Young, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Beard, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Fiensy, Mrs. T. L. Amis, Misses Rena Page and Mabel Hart, and W. J. Fiensy.

The house hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Young and Mrs. Beard.

New Contract Club Meets in Evening

An evening class in supervised contract has been organized and held its initial session Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the supervisor, Mrs. James H. Cheatham Sr.

The club is composed of three tables, and will hold their session each Monday night.

This little organization is quite delightful, and provides a social diversion at this time, the dull season, with very little going on in social circles.

Those present Monday evening, and who include the personnel of class, were Mrs. Bludworth of New Orleans, Mmes. C. C. Terrell, W. E. Storey, J. R. Galbraith, A. H. Rhodes, W. W. Phillips, Fred Max-

EASTLAND Personal

Mrs. Bludworth of New Orleans nee Daphne Simmons, is making an extended visit of several weeks with relatives in Eastland.

Mrs. George L. Davenport has been confined to her home a few days with an attack of neuritis.

Mrs. Scott W. Key left for Austin Sunday for a two or three weeks stay.

Man's Repulse Of Bandits Brings Two Marriage Proposals

By United Press.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Thomas McMunn, 73-year-old bachelor who routed two robbers in a fist fight, won't even consider two marriage proposals he received as a result of his clash with the robbers.

"I'm not afraid of robbers," he said, "but I know a wife would hen-peck me." McMunn, who weighs but 150 pounds, knocked down both the robbers with his fist.

Two women who wrote they saw his picture in the papers said they were looking for a brave husband. McMunn threw both letters in the stove, answering neither.

Fatalities Among Hunters Reported

By United Press.

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Reports to the game commission show that 34 fatal accidents and 202 non-fatal accidents occurred among small game hunters during the past season, while 15 fatal and 39 non-fatal accidents are recorded among big game hunters for the big game season. There was only one fatal accident in hunting bear.

Though these figures are probably correct, a final official check-up may result in a slight change.

The figures show decrease in comparison with statistics for 1931. In that year there were 35 fatal and 292 non-fatal accidents in the small game season, and 37 fatal and 75 non-fatal accidents in the large game season.

About 530,000 hunting licenses were taken out this year as against 570,000 in 1931, but in spite of that the decrease in accidents is shown in percentage as well as in totals, officials said.

Law West of the Pecos' Featured in Pamphlet Just Issued

SAN ANGELO.—The country made famous a half-century ago by Judge Roy Bean, known as "The Law West of the Pecos," is subject for a 50-page booklet just published by chambers of commerce at Fort Stockton, Fort Davis, Pecos, Alpine, Marfa and El Paso.

Included in the scenic places listed by the booklet is Judge Bean's old saloon, commissary and "hall of justice" which was given the title, "The Jersey Lily," honoring the actress Lily Langtry.

Fourteen miles of the 75-mile Davis Mountain scenic loop have been completed, the booklet notes. When finished the loop will be the longest exclusively scenic road ever constructed, editors of the booklet say.

Bridge Mystery Still Puzzles Cops

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Mrs. F. Harry Long, 24, social matron of Memphis, left a bridge party at 5 p. m., two years ago, thus creating a "perfect mystery" that has baffled police.

Her whereabouts have not been discovered since she drove away from the home of Mrs. W. Cole Early, to go home and feed her two-month-old baby.

That was Jan. 4, 1931. Her disappearance is just as baffling to police now as it was when they first were called into the case.

Her husband, an insurance broker, has reconciled himself to the theory that Mrs. Long drowned herself in the Mississippi river—although he can think of no reason for such an act.

But Police Inspector Will Griffin, who has solved many mysteries, believes that some day she will appear. He has no evidence to support that belief—it is just a hunch.

When Mrs. Long failed to appear at her home that night to care for her baby son, her husband notified police. Some hours later, her automobile was found on the
