WALTER D. CLINE TO BE RANGER BANQUET GUEST

Livestock Body to Meet in Ranger Sat. Afternoon

Cup Is Offered As a Prize For Show Attendance

Word has been received in Ranger by C. B. Pruet and H. C. Anderson, members of the program committee of the joint banquet for the Ranger Retail Merchants association and the Ranger Chamber of Commerce for Walter D. Cline of Wichita Falls, stating that he would be in Ranger on February 9 to deliver the principal address at the banquet.

The Eastland County Better Livestock association, which meets Saturday at 2 p. m. in the American Legion hall in Ranger, promises to be one of the best meetings so far held by the association.

Word has been received in Ranger by the Chamber of Commerce that the request of that organization for a special train to carry the Eastland county delegation to the Fat Stock show in Fort Worth this spring was being given due consideration.

WALTER D. CLINE is a past president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and is now serving as chairman of the membership committee of that organization. Mr. Shepherd will have a part of the program, rendering several songs. He is noted throughout the northern part of the state as a capable singer.

At a meeting of members of the school boards of Ranger, Eastland, Breckenridge and Rising Star, held in Ranger on Thursday night, a round table discussion of the financial problems facing the respective cities was carried on.

Announcement was made today that the basketball game scheduled to be played tonight by the Eastland Mavericks, had been postponed until the night of Feb. 11.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD WILL PROVIDE: Take no thought saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed? But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matthew 5: 31, 33.

VALLEY FARMERS AND GAS TAX REFUND

Farmers in the lower Rio Grande Valley are organizing to defeat, if possible, a bill being urged in this session of the legislature which would eliminate the tax refund on gasoline burned in tractors and used in other ways on farms. They say that elimination of the refund would cost Hidalgo county farmers more than $92,000 annually. They have the official figures that show that Hidalgo leads the state in such refunds. Total refunds of $92,476.96 were made to Hidalgo county farmers during 1932. Refunds of $63,529.57 were made to farmers in Cameron county, or a total refund to farmers in these leading agricultural countries of the valley of $160,276.53. A reminder that 78,836 claims for gasoline tax refunds were made in Texas during the fiscal year in which $3,275,141.75 was refunded. Rep. F. C. Weinert of the Guadalupe district is an advocate of the repeal of the gasoline refund provision of the law. It is said that many representatives and senators agree with the Guadalupe veteran that the repeal should come before the adjournment of the 43rd legislature. Rep. Weinert has given his reasons why. Now the other side will be given an inning.

WIDOW COLLIDGE AND PENSION PROPOSAL

Widows of presidents are carried on the payrolls of Uncle Sam to the extent of $5000 annually. A bill was introduced to provide the customary $5000 for Mrs. Calvin Coolidge. Senator Robinson, republican of Indiana, is chairman of the senate pensions committee. He announced that there would be no action taken by his committee at this session. He said he favored delay for two reasons. First, he understood "there is no economic compulsion for action" for the very good reason that Mrs. Coolidge is well provided for. Second, he wants to see "what is going to be done about reducing" the inadequate compensation of veterans who do need the money." Calvin Coolidge left behind him the shortest will in the history of New England. Those who think they know say that the estate has a value of $500,000. Mrs. Coolidge inherited the entire estate. Regardless of this, it is customary to provide a $5000 pension for widows of presidents, so why make an example of the brilliant and popular widow of the thrifty New Englander who began at the lowest rung of the official ladder, climbed to the top and then retired to the shades of private life and the graveyard?

COL. JONES MAKES LAST MINUTE PLEA

Col. Jesse H. Jones made a last minute plea against making public Reconstruction corporation loans on the first five months of the existence of the corporation. Rep. Howard of Nebraska is a very aggressive democrat of the western brand. He is the author of a resolution calling for publicity. Colonel Jones appealed to Rep. Howard for modification of the resolution "so that only members of congress would be permitted to see the amount of the loans and their borrowers." Colonel Jones is one of the directors of the corporation. He explained to Howard and to the press representatives that he made his plea on behalf of those of the corporations who felt that making the amount of the loans and their borrowers known would do harm. "The gentleman from Nebraska" refused to modify. He is not of the modificationist type. Democrats are individualistic. They never work in harmony. They are all leaders. Like the standing arm in Mexico there are 10 officers to one rank-and-file. Perhaps F. D. will be able to hypnotize the brethren on and after inauguration day.

McGREGOR ASKS, "WHY SECRET SESSIONS?"

Rep. Temple Harris McGregor is a member of the house appropriations committee. He is in violent opposition to "sessions in secret" on the part of the committee. He submitted this argument to the court of public opinion: "There are only two bodies in this country that should be permitted to have executive sessions. They are the United States senate that deals with foreigners and the grand jury that deals with thieves." Copy making is one of the fine arts. As a copy maker Rep. McGregor is a versatile artist.

WHY NOT A RETURN OF THE CODE DUELLO?

In the good old days "gentlemen appealed to the code." In the good old days it was pistols and coffins for two, and a crack shot walked away with the prize. Rep. Lindham of the Oklahoma legislature has introduced a bill to repeal a statute against dueling. It is most appropriate that Oilton is given as the place of residence of the daring renegade.

Too many people prefer dabbling in theory rather than the facing of hard facts.

Blizzard Stalls 500 Autos in Mountains

Five hundred autos and their occupants, caught in a sudden mountain blizzard, were marooned for 48 hours in the deep drifts that blocked roads between San Bernardino and Lake Arrowhead, Calif. This telephone shows scores of the cars near Arrowhead, where their occupants had gone for a week-end of sport. Many of the autos were completely covered. The motorists suffered from the cold, but no serious casualties were reported.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Pictures of Silver

By BEULAH K. HICKS

The Sea of Galilee, or lake which is 12 1/2 miles long and eight miles wide and 150 feet deep, lay in its secluded beauty 600 feet below the level of the Mediterranean, on that mid-summer day of June, 28 A. D. Jesus, realizing that this was the second year of his ministry, also that he must have helpers, withdrew himself with his disciples to this secluded place of quiet and beauty.

Jesus, in all of his teachings, withdrew himself and followers from crowded cities to the mountains or sea. In places made beautiful by nature the hearts of his followers could be touched and taught the living word more easily. But the tranquility of this peaceful refuge was soon broken by the multitude, who had heard of his mighty works and had come from great distances to see the result of this marvelous power. Jesus, with his infinite understanding, knew that it was not time to declare his city. His enemies would kill him. He must first select and train a body of disciples who would carry on the work of spreading the word throughout the world. When the people pressed upon him; the sick, to touch him; the unclean spirits to fall before him and the curious to look at him, he boarded a small ship or boat and taught the people from there.

Great is our Lord, and of great power: his understanding is infinite.—Psalm 147:5. No doubt as Jesus stood on the boat, teaching and healing and discerning the wickedness in the hearts of his enemies, he grew weary and lifted his eyes to the mountain on the west side of the Sea of Galilee. Perhaps his soul chanted the words of the psalmist when he said:

I will lift mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth.—Psalm 121:1-2.

He left the sea and went to the mountains where Luke 6: tells us that he spent the entire night in prayer before appointing his 12 disciples to become apostles. A disciple is a believer and an apostle, one sent out.

I have chosen you, and ordained you, that you should go and bring forth fruit.—John 15:16.

Jesus, in selecting the 12, revealed an insight into human life that no earthly person could have in the selection of the inconspicuous and unimportant group of men to be his apostles. They were all Galileans with the possible exception of Judas. Their one point in common was teachableness. Although their political views, temperaments and lives were different, they united under that call of "Follow Me."

Through the centuries the call of "Follow Me" has been ringing with its resultant promises to all who will heed. Did you ever try to drive young turkeys from a pen? The gates may be wide open but they will flutter, gobble and run, making so much noise that they never see the gate until one accidentally falls out. How like these foolish turkeys we are. Jesus, who has given us all things, opportunities to serve and to grow in his likeness, stands at the open gate. We grasp at straws and run hither and yonder, making much noise and never see the beautiful gates that open into the peaceful, green pastures of service where true happiness is found. We might say with the psalmist in seeking to become better citizens in the spiritual kingdom: Lift up your heads, O ye gates; even lift them up, ye ever lasting doors; and the King of Glory shall come in. The Lord of Hosts, he is the King of Glory.—Psalm 24: 9-10.

This same Jesus, who stood on the shore of the Sea of Galilee, now risen and glorified, still calls to the hearts of men to be his disciples, if they would know the fuller and richer life.

War Vet Awarded Purple Heart Order

By United Press.

LAREDO, Texas.—Pedro Rocha, who fought in the American army in the World war, has been awarded one of the new purple heart orders and cited for a silver star medal in recognition of his activities in the Meuse-Argonne campaign.

The new purple order was given him for wounds he received. The citation was for his brave part in capture of two German guns which then were turned on the enemy. The latter feat was performed in company with members of two platoons.

Rocha now is janitor at the Laredo postoffice.

American Standards For Soap Met By White King Co.

Americans use more soap than any other nation—they are more critical of the quality they buy—they want good soap regardless of the price. The American standard for soap is one which cleans quickly and without injury to the most delicate fabric—must suds freely in cold or hot, hard or soft water—must be capable of dissolving grease and grime with practically no physical effort and in the shortest time—still it must rinse out freely and quickly.

That's some standard; a standard which the White King Soap company constantly keep before them in making their White King Granulated soap.

Starting soon, the White King Soap company will have advertising in this paper telling you why White King is now the leader.

If you would like to know how White King soap is made, write the White King Soap company asking for their booklet "The Romance of Soap."

Murder Charge Is Easiest To Beat Attorneys Declare

By United Press.

DALLAS.—A murder charge is one of the easiest complaints for criminals to successfully defend in Texas' halls of justice in the opinion of prominent jurists and attorneys of Dallas county.

Two recent verdicts here were given to support the contention. In one, a 49-year-old man was given a five-year prison sentence for admitted murder. In the second, a 19-year-old boy was sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment on a bank robbery conviction despite his plea of innocence.

Many good excuses can be presented for killing a person but it is difficult to show a jury any good reason for robbing, one prominent criminal lawyer said.

Judge W. L. Crawford, former district judge, estimates less than 10 per cent of those who commit murder in Texas ever serve prison sentences. Comparison is made with England's Scotland Yard which boasts apprehension of more than 90 per cent of the murderers and conviction of more than 90 per cent of those charged.

Explanation for the ease in evading punishment for murder is offered by District Judge Charles A. Ripper of this city.

state," he said. "If the killer doesn't have a real defense he will manufacture one to fit one of the countless justifiable homicides listed in the law books."

Fourteen justifiable reasons for homicides are listed in Texas statutes. They are:

WHEN you ask a Chesterfield smoker why that's his brand—generally comes right out flat-footed says . . . "It's because They're Milder"

So we're going to keep on doing everything we know how to keep it that way.

That's why we look for and buy the mildest and ripest tobaccos we can get. That's why we age them in our warehouses till they're mellow and sweet.

We believe that even the shreds of the tobacco . . . and the quality of paper it's rolled in, have a lot to do with the even-drawing, mild smoke people enjoy in Chesterfields.

You can bank on this . . . every method known to science is used to make Chesterfield a milder, better-tasting cigarette that satisfies.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON.—The internal revenue bureau held that automobile license fees are ordinarily taxes and are, therefore, deductible from gross income reported on income tax returns.

The bureau also handed down a detailed ruling on the deduction for tax on motor gasoline.

Business Gas
"Where the gasoline purchased is used for business purposes the tax may be added to the cost of the gasoline and deducted as a business expense; but where that is done, the gasoline tax cannot be deducted, separately under the item of taxes," the bureau said.

If an automobile is used for both business and pleasure, all of the maintenance and operating expenses connected therewith, which constitute allowable deductions for federal income tax purposes, should be allocated to the two uses on the basis of the time that it is used for each.

For example, if the total expense of operation and maintenance for the year amounted to $800, and the car was used three-fourths of the time for business and the balance for pleasure, the allowable reduction for federal income tax purposes would be $600.

Gas Tax Deduction
The bureau held that individual deductions for taxes paid on gasoline applied as follows:
"If a law which imposes a tax on gasoline shows that the tax is imposed on the consumer and not on the dealer, the consumer may deduct as a tax, for federal income tax purposes, the amount of the gasoline tax paid by him; but the taxpayer must have kept records of the payment of such taxes in order that the deduction may be substantiated."

"Swimming" of the Head
From Constipation

"I used to suffer from spells of swimming in the head," writes Mrs. Carrie Brown, of Meridian, Miss. "Everything would go round and round. When I stood upon my feet, I would be almost blind with dizziness. My stomach was upset. These spells, I believe, came from constipation. I suffered torture from the effects."

"My mother had taken Theford's Black-Draught for a long time, and she suggested to me that I try it. While I was feeling so bad, I took half a teaspoonful, put it in some water and took it. I found it was just the thing to relieve the suffering from constipation. Now I always keep it in my house. I take it whenever I need a laxative."

"I have used Black-Draught in my home now for twelve years, and feel it is a great help in keeping my family in a healthy condition."

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sheila Shayne, dancer, is discharged from a new play because Marion Randolph, the star, is jealous of her. Sheila searches for work and finally secures a part in a musical show soon to go on tour. Dick Stanley, rich and socially prominent, asks her to marry him but Sheila refuses. Her idea of marriage is a home in a little town far from Broadway.

The company departs on the tour and in a little midwestern city Sheila meets Jerry Wyman. He seems to be a hard working young man with little money. Sheila is not aware that Jerry's father owns the factory where he works. Jerry is attentive and Sheila falls in love with him. After she leaves, however, Jerry's affection seems to cool. He writes infrequently and this makes Sheila unhappy.

Back in New York again, she gets a job in a night club. Weeks pass and then one night while dancing she sees Jerry sitting at a table.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX

Jerry, wearing a dinner coat, looking assured and elegant, sat at a table close to the square cleared for the dancers. At his side was a young girl in a frothy white dress. A very pretty girl. Sheila could scarcely believe her eyes. Jerry here in New York! He knew her address yet he had not tried to reach her. Of course he had no way of knowing that she would be dancing at this club. She tried to think. Had Jerry recognized her? There was no time to speculate. The master of ceremonies was nodding to the orchestra, raising one hand to quiet the applause. Again the spotlight crossed the floor to find Ted and Sheila. Again they were dancing. The encore was an Apache number, requiring only the swiftest changes of costume. Ted had caught up a hat and Sheila a handkerchief which she tied about her waist. They circled the floor in perfect unison. Ted bent over Sheila menacingly but without touching her. Sheila evaded gracefully. Suddenly Ted seized her, swung her roughly this way and that. She slid across the floor, crumpled easily and waited. He caught her up again and they danced together. She swayed past the table where Jerry sat, paused, could have touched him but did not meet his eyes. Did he recognize her?

Only when at last the dance was ended and she and Ted ran forward to receive the burst of applause was Sheila sure that Jerry knew her. She sat at one of the tables, Ted Rodney opposite. Now the men and women who had been watching them were dancing. She saw Jerry excuse himself from the others at his table. He was making his way across the room toward her.

"But I did call you," he was insisting a few minutes later. "I called the minute I got in. They told me you were dancing here and that's why we came."

"Who is 'we'?"

"My sisters and my brother-in-law." He explained that Marjorie, the older of his two sisters, was married and the other man in the party was her husband. The girl in yellow was his sister, Jean.

Jerry added that he had re-arranged their plans for the evening, insisting that they should come to the Vlub Volens in order to see Sheila dance.

The situation was awkward. Then Ted Rodney saved the day. "Won't you sit down?" he said to Jerry. A few minutes later Ted drifted away. He and Sheila had danced their last number for that evening.

The girl looked across at Jerry. He had come to New York without writing her. This was the trip that had been planned so that he might see her, yet here he was with a group of friends, talking to her only because chance had brought them together.

She could not believe that he had telephoned. "I don't want to keep you from your friends," Sheila said, half-rising to end the conversation. Jerry rose too and stood beside her. He seemed relieved. Wasn't he going to introduce her to his sisters?

Apparently he was not. "It's been great to see you again, Sheila," he said. "I'll call you tomorrow. What time?"

She told him any time in the morning would do. As she watched him rejoin his party she was sure that he would not call. Well, she would save her face there. She would not be at home to miss the call!

Hurrying to the dressing room Sheila slipped a nickel in the coin telephone and gave the Sampers' number.

Tillie answered the call. Sheila asked shakily, "May I come up and stay all night? Something has happened. Oh, no—it isn't serious! I just don't want to be alone."

Tillie Samper said cheerily that they would be glad to have her. Was she afraid to come to the Heights alone? If so one of them would be glad to call for her.

"I'll take a taxi," Sheila said wearily. "I'm all in anyhow."

Two hours later she was crying herself to sleep in Tillie's bed.

"Why don't you stay here all the time, Sheila?" the sisters suggested. The suggestion seemed a good one. The following Saturday Sheila moved her trunk to the Samper apartment.

Jerry telephoned to Ma Lowell's rooming house twice. The second time Sheila was there and talked to him. No, she said, she wasn't angry. She had engagements, that was all. He should have let her know when he was coming.

"You are being silly," Jerry told her, laughing. It was not a serious matter to him. "Why not have dinner with me tonight?"

"You mean with you and your sisters?"

"Hardly! How on earth could we talk with them around?"

"When am I going to meet them?" she asked in a voice she scarcely recognized as her own.

"I don't know. Do you really want to?"

"Of course."

"Well, then I'll fix it up some time, but that's not the point. I want to know if you're dining with me tonight?"

"Call me at 6," Sheila told him. At 5:30 she slipped into a movie theatre, feeling very forlorn indeed. Thus she missed Jerry's call and wept because she missed it.

Sheila found that living with the Sampers was pleasant. The girls' father and mother were old-fashioned persons. They had lived in the same spacious apartment for years. Mr. Samper at one time had had holdings of considerable value on New York's lower East Side. Recently these had shrunk. He had retired and with the salary the girls earned the family lived as comfortably as before.

None of the sisters were beautiful but all were attractive. They had found themselves on the stage by unusual circumstances. Tillie, Clara and Evelyn, riding together on a Fifth Avenue car, thinking themselves the sengers, had been rather blinding. It was close harmony. It was Jake Tolman, a theater sitting a few seats behind them. It was not until he had reached Washington that he had convinced not a masher bent on a tation.

Even then they decided their names. Clara followed to their address. Mrs. Samper's favor, as by the Clara, who acted as their agent. They appeared on the stage as headliners. Clara was m would never have to lower rung of the ladder her home where they appeared. It is a musical show. They were an instant success. Mr. Samper, in a hired car, underwrote them to and from an operation at Thus they seldom met.

The five girls crowded Mrs. Arnold's home. This left the girls' parents in dates. Any one of them take a night off with a permission. "Why not have place and no one located here. and his wife wather Birmingham teachers in t. Thieves were busy in and near Olden the past week. One night they stole Joe Norton's cow and calf out of his feed lot. A night or two later, they entered the garage of W. A. McMillan and took four wheels and tires off of his car, a new Oldsmobile. Two of the wheels were mounted on the sides of the car and the other two were the rear wheels. The tires were of the new balloon type.

Word has been received that Mr. Ed Bellows, formerly of Olden but now living in Little Rock, O., was recently married there.

CAMAS, Wash.—The only injury in a football game here was to spectator George Wright. His right leg was dislocated.

89 out of every 100 TEXAS women... prefer White King cool-water washing because it insures longer life and beauty to their fabrics.

There is no Substitute for

WHITE KING GRANULATED SOAP

... It is condensed into compact granules to give you the best soap value you can buy.

A single teaspoonful contains as much real soap as several spoonful of the average uncondensed soap.

Try White King—compare it—you'll never want to change.
