FEDERAL JOBS IN TEXAS

Bascom N. Timmons is a widely known Washington correspondent. He is a Texan. He grew up on a ranch in Cottle county and was a range rider until he was 20. Then he broke away from the bronco, invaded the newspaper game, won his spurs in Texas and Missouri and then marched on to Washington. This some 15 years ago. He has let it be known that nearly 2400 federal jobs exclusive of postmasters in Texas are not under civil service regulation. These jobs will be available for hungry democrats early in the summer-time. A reminder that the major posts in Texas pay as high as $7500 a year. There are 756 presidential postoffices in Texas, and Correspondents Timmons predicts all these postoffices will have democratic postmasters.

This reminder from the pen or the typewriter of Timmons should interest the hungry patriot of the tribe of Jefferson: "The greatest portion of the patronage jobs will be filled jointly by Sen. Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally, but in most instances they will confer with the congressmen before making appointments. The postmaster-ships, however, will be left entirely to the congressmen. Then there is the national bank examiners. They receive $3600 a year." Frank Schofield will be on the job at the Austin state headquarters of the national committee for four years to come. He was the financial agent of the Farley committee and he was asked by Farley to be the Texas representative for four years or until it is time for another presidential election to take place. Those who are familiar with the political game say that Schofield raised $160,000 for the chest of the national committee in 1932. There is a large deficit and National Chairman Farley is hopeful that contributions will continue to roll in in order that the deficit may be wiped out before the inauguration of Roosevelt and Garner as president and vice president. Now is the time for democrats with fat purses to forward their contributions to the chest of the national organization.

ROOSEVELT AND HIS THREE POINT PROGRAM

Swager Shirley of Kentucky is a former chairman of the house appropriations committee. For many years he has been one of the outstanding democratic leaders of Kentucky. After a week's conference at Warm Springs with the president-elect, the Kentuckian headed for Washington "to open a clearing house for information to be gathered together." According to Warm Springs correspondents, F. D. said to S. S. "We want all the economy we can get." Indeed, these correspondents say that F. D. outlined a three-point program: First, reduction of government personnel. Second, consolidation of government agencies. Third, abandonment of unnecessary and overlapping government functions.

As for the lame duck congress and the lame duck president these public servants are resting on their oars. There will be no planning or enactment of legislation until the democrats come in. A reminder that the Texas legislature should adopt the slogan of the president-elect: "We want all the economy we can get." There are certain pledges given to the people of Texas. These pledges called for a reduction of 25 per cent in the cost of government. They did not call for increased taxation. Pledges given to the people promised a sweeping reduction in taxes and not a large increase in the tax load that all conditions and classes of men and business are carrying. Are these pledges to be redeemed?

Watchful waiting does not bring business. It takes advertising to turn the trick.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Boosters believe in their city and prove it by their loyalty.

The service they give is based on loyalty to the home city.

Real home city boosters always keep pace with the growth of the community.

Loyalty is a great virtue and brings many desirable things so badly needed.

Loyalty falls short of perfection when it does not include loyalty to the home city.

Home city boosters have always worked unselfishly for the community as a whole and are entitled to the support of every citizen.

Loyalty and fairness demand that every citizen support local business concerns in every way possible.

Too much praise and credit cannot be given to the home city boosters, as they pave the way to making the home city a better, busier and brighter place in which to live and prosper.

Time: Autumn 28 A. D.
Mark 4:1-10, 13-20
By BELLAH K. HICKS

"And he began again to teach by the sea side. It was a picturesque scene with Jesus and his disciples on a small ship, the shimmering blue waters of the Sea of Galilee, the bright yellow sands of the beach and the vast multitude in their colorful costumes. Jesus, the central figure, quiet and unassuming yet master of the situation, probably raised his eyes from the quiet beauty of the lake and waiting crowds to the distance where he beheld a sower.

This stalwart man, as was the custom in that day, walked through his unfenced fields and scattered his seed by hand. He could not always accurately gauge the distance so that many seeds fell on the hard trodden paths, on the thin soil with underlying rock strata, among the thorns which grew near sink holes as well as the land which had been well prepared.

The great heart of Jesus, which was ever open to nature, caught the message and his eyes returned to the waiting crowds, seeing in them the different soils of life. He began to teach them in parables using the distant sower as his subject.

The word parable comes from two Greek words meaning to throw beside. Its radical idea is comparison. Thomas Taylor in 1634 very beautifully explained it in these words: "Earthly things must remind us of heavenly. We must translate the book of nature into the book of grace."

Jesus, in a ringing voice which was carried distinctly to uttermost edge of the waiting multitude by the clearness of the autumn air, taught this parable of the sower and soils. He knew that the good soil in the lives of the people would understand that they like this sower would have to leave the sheltered safe life of the cities and go out into the fields to sow the seed that the master was now giving to them. It seems as though he saddened when he looked out over the uncomprehending crowd and closed his lesson with these cryptic words:

"He that hath ears to hear, let him hear."
When the crowd was gone, the disciples gathered around the great teacher and asked about the parable. "Know ye not this parable?" he quickly asked them. "The sower soweth the word." "The beginning of his clear and concise explanation of the parable.

The seed which fall on the hard packed ground represents truths "which goes in at one ear and out at the other." The pleasures of the world soon make them forgotten.

The story ground which is shallow soil with rocks underneath, will grow plants early but when the summer sun shines out, they wither away. This represents those who will not dig a foundation. They receive the word with gladness but will not study and soon their shallow minds are again occupied with things of the world.

The saddest is the thorn-infested soil. It represents a preoccupied heart, capable of appreciating and making much of the Word but so occupied with the things of this world that only a small part of their lives are invested in Kingdom work. The good is choked out by the growth of weeds.

The good soil is that which has been well prepared and receives the Word gladly, bringing an obedient spirit that seeks to follow over the teachings of the Master.

A pea vine was not climbing the trellis and had only a few pods on it. "The gardener stooped to examine it and found a weed grown up underneath that was holding the vine away from the trellis and at the same time sapping its strength. Reaching under the vine he pulled up the offending weed but found the vine wound so closely around it that it was necessary to break some of the tender runners and bruise others before the weed was disentangled from the vine.

We do not often lean on weeds and have to be chastened and bruised before we hear and take heed? We cannot reform the world but we can enrich the soils of our souls by uprooting weeds and planting beautiful truths that will blossom and fruit for the

Dickens Niece Is Bride of Consul

By United Press.
KOBÉ, Japan. — Miss Jessie Bancroft Payne, of New York, grandniece of Charles Dickens, the English novelist, and George Bancroft, famous American historian, is the bride of Bruce Lancaster, American vice consul here.

They were married in the American consulate at Higashi-machi on Dec. 21.

Mrs. Lancaster, a graduate of the University of Iowa, is the author of the novel, "Black Sheep," published in 1929. Lancaster is a graduate of Harvard, where he served as a football coach for several years. He has been vice consul here for eight years.

After all this bewilderment about technocracy, the Glass bank bill and currency inflation, it would be a relief to the ordinary fellow if Congress would get down to something like the 2-cent stamp.

Master. No one lives to himself and by taking heed, receptivity and responsiveness to great truths is deepened.

CORBETT STILL FIGHTS By Laufer

James J. Corbett is fighting his greatest battle at his Long Island home. An ailing heart—the same game heart that carried him through some of the greatest ring battles—is failing. "Gentleman Jim," a native San Franciscan, won the world heavy-weight championship in 1892, at the age of 26, from the grizzled veteran, John L. Sullivan, Twenty-one rounds did that brawl go in other epic ring battles, not the least of which was that fight in San Francisco, May 21, 1891, with Peter Jackson, one of the greatest negro fighters ever to step into a ring. Jim lost his title to Bob Fitzsimmons on St. Patrick's day, in 1896. His ring career ended in 1903, and from that time on, Corbett appeared on the stage, ventured into various business lines, and returned to the fight game as a promoter.

Our Tribute to a Great Man!

The passing years offer an acid test to greatness—a test the nation has nobly survived. Indeed, the years but serve to cast over memory an increasing aura of power and influence. It is in gratitude to his example, his power, his greatness, his heroism that we offer this small tribute. It is our hope that this institution may mirror in a way the sound principles on which his life was founded.

Which House is Safe?

Every night, somewhere, evil minds are planning crimes and wrong doings. Prevalent among the plots are those of house breaking.

A darkened home tells a complete story to the burglar—the folks are gone, it is safe to go in and leisurely ransack the place. So it is done and priceless possessions are gone forever.

Floods of light tell a different story—the folks are home, it is unsafe to enter. A thief has no way of knowing that the family is at the theater and have left their lights burning as insurance against this very thing—the cheapest insurance in the world against outlary and crime.

For a few cents a week you can protect your home against burglars—by leaving all lights burning when you are out for the evening.

BEGIN HERE TODAY Sheila Shayne, dancer, refuses to marry Dick Stanley, son of wealthy parents, who is in New York trying to learn to write plays.

She secured a part in a road show and in a little midwestern city meets Jerry Wyman, who seems to be a hard working young man with little money.

The tour ends and the company returns to New York. Sheila meets Jappy, a chorus girl, who tells her that Jerry Wyman has married a girl in his home town.

But her face was pale, her lips trembling. "I'm--I'm perfectly all right, Jappy." Her hands, beneath the table's edge, were gripped together.

Jappy nodded wisely. "Sure, I know. It's because of this idea of yours about leaving the stage. You thought Jerry Wyman was different because he came from a small town and worked in a factory."

They finished their coffee in silence, then rose, paid the check and went out on the street. It was the same street, familiar, now cluttered with little shops, old houses with grimy stone fronts that had at one time housed the city's social elite.
