Texas Bankers Plead for More Dead Bank Robbers and Will Continue Rewards

REPORT SAYS IT IS WAY TO CONTROL CRIME

Urged Bankers and Citizens To Shoot It Out With Robbers.

By United Press.

HOUSTON, Feb. 11.—A plea for bankers and citizens to "shoot it out" more often with bank bandits was sounded today by the Texas Bankers association, which endorsed the slogan, "The only good bank robber is a dead one."

The statement was prepared by the protective committee of the association and released by Melvin Ruff, president.

The association's war cry, "substantial money rewards for dead bank bandits—not one cent for live ones," was repeated.

"Unless bankers and citizens shoot it out more often with the robbers, bank attacks will continue to increase and insurance companies will not only drastically raise rates as has been done in other states, but will cancel burglary insurance," the statement declared. "Horse thieving was stamped out successfully in Texas in the early days by hanging every thief when he was caught. Killing a bank robber occasionally will aid greatly in stopping Texas bank holdups."

"We are prepared to pay for any number of dead bank robbers and we feel justified in fighting fire with fire. Again we say the only good robber is a dead one and we hope our bankers and citizens can collect on a few more 'good ones'."

The association announced three bandits had been killed in Texas and large money rewards paid since Dec. 22. A total of $8,300 was paid to citizens of Winnetka, Texas, where two robbers were slain.

Edwards Is Not Wanted By Texas County Officers

By United Press.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Feb. 11.—Edward G. Edwards, accused Texas murderer who gave himself up at San Francisco rather than face a bread line, was on his way home today to see his family here for the first time in 12 years.

Upon his arrival Edwards will report to authorities to learn if he is still wanted. He was convicted of killing a Cameron county deputy at Port Isabel and was sentenced to five years in prison. At a second hearing he was given a 20-year sentence.

He dropped from sight while at liberty under bond. Cameron county authorities have indicated they are no longer interested in the case.

Ranger Elks to Postpone Fights Until February 20

Jack Garner of Ranger received a telegram from Fort Worth Saturday stating that because of the unusually cold weather that prevailed throughout the state the past week no card would be presented on Monday night, as advertised, but a good show would be put on Monday night, Feb. 20.

Because arrangements could not be made for the show on next Monday, it was decided to put on a boxing performance Feb. 20, with boxing bouts added.

A good card has been provided and the addition of the boxing events will add much to the show that will be presented. Those who have secured tickets for the fight for next Monday or for the fight that was called off last Tuesday night should keep them and they will be honored at the athletic show on Feb. 20.

Clarence Darrow, right, famous criminal lawyer, is shown with Russell McWilliams, 18-year-old robber-slayer of a Rockford, Ill., street car motorman. Darrow is pleading in circuit court at Rockford to save the youth from the electric chair. Supreme court reversals twice have saved McWilliams from the chair. Overruled in his effort to have the youth's guilty plea withdrawn, Darrow now can only seek a minimum sentence.

SHOT THAT KILLED LINCOLN ECHOES STILL IN THIS OLD SOLDIER'S MEMORY

By NEA Service

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 11.—Of the half-dozen youthful blue-clad soldiers who carried the mortally wounded Lincoln from Ford's theatre to his death-bed that fateful night of April 14, 1865, one still lives—the tragedy burned deeply into his memory.

A grayed and weather-beaten old man now is Jacob J. Soles. Eighty-seven, he lives with his memories in a little house in Turtle Creek, waiting the "taps" that all good soldiers know they must answer. A mine accident has cost him one eye; his other, he admits, "isn't as clear as it might be."

"But if I live to be 100," he exclaims, "I'll never forget that night. I don't need eyes to look back on it!"

Soles, three comrades of his company and two other young soldiers were seated together in Ford's theatre in Washington on that eventful night to see "Our American Cousin." They were seated on the same side of the aisle, about 15 feet from the box where President Lincoln sat.

Recalls Tragic Moment

"He was with a party," Soles relates. "From my seat I could see him clearly and noticed him laughing at one of the comical parts in the show."

"Then one of the actresses took the center of the stage—can't say I ever know her name—but she was dressed in a long robe. I recall she kind of flirted with the audience."

"It was awfully still in the theatre at that minute. Suddenly the sound of a shot cracked in the darkness."

"Mrs. Lincoln, I think it was, was the first to scream. The president was shot," she cried. A man leaped from the box to the stage. It was John Wilkes Booth.

"We were at Lincoln's side in a second. We lifted him up. I remember he felt limp, as if all the fight had gone out of him."

Heard Lincoln Speak

"Guards cleared the aisles and we walked to the door and then directly across the street—the six of us carrying him as gently as we could."

"Mr. Lincoln spoke only once and then in such a whisper that he could hardly make himself heard. I think I caught the words, 'where are they taking me?'"

AUSTIN, Feb. 11.—The Ferguson administration will shortly take up a fight for reduced interest rates in the wake of a personal campaign for the sales tax, former Governor James E. Ferguson indicated before the Texas Taxpayers league meeting here today.

Interest as well as taxes must come down, he said.

"To the cry of 'pour it on, Jim,' he assailed merchants as trying to misrepresent the sales tax. Ferguson asserted that merchants and manufacturers are adding 58 per cent to original costs and crying that the 3 per cent sales tax is being 'pyramided' by taxing successive sales."

"If retail merchants aren't satisfied with 33 per cent, they ought to get out of business, shouted Ferguson."

"If you can buy silks, satins, automobiles, perfume and face powder, you ought to be willing to pay 3 per cent when the government is in distress," he declared.

"If the tax is defeated, he said, Confederate veterans will not get a third of their pensions."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Senate wets on the eve of consideration of eighteenth amendment repeal, were organizing today for an attempt to hamstring prohibition enforcement by cutting the dry fund.

The house sliced 10 per cent from the appropriation which Prohibition Director Woodcock and his agents endeavor to keep the country on a non-alcoholic diet. A senate appropriation sub-committee cut 10 per cent more from the $8,440,000 approved by the house, but was overruled.

"I will move on the floor to cut it all out and if I can't do that, I'll move to cut it in half," Senator Tydings, democrat, Maryland, told the United Press today.

"I want a record vote on spending the taxpayers' money in this way, when there are 12,000,000 people out of work and the treasury is accumulating a deficit of staggering proportions."

"It is ridiculous, anyway, to try to enforce an unenforceable law with the few thousand men employed by the justice department."

GOVERNOR BILL GIVEN PAY CUT

Oklahoma lawmakers say they are going all the way. They are beginning at the top. The Oklahoma senate cut the salary of Gov. William H. Murray $1125 a year. It was fixed at $6375 annually. Those who voted for the cut declared that the action was taken in consideration of the departmental money bill. Texans pay their governor $4000 annually. Many who have been called to the high office retired broken in pocket and thoroughly disgusted with the game called politics.

WAGE CUTTING IN CANADA

Officials of the Canadian railways have notified employees of a 20 per cent reduction in the basic rate of wages effective March 3. Engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, yard men and telegraphers will be effected. As for the new rate it is 10 per cent below that which the men have been receiving during the past 12 months, and 20 per cent below the basic rate. "Decreased earnings" was given as the main cause of the reduction in wage order.

New York craftsmen have furnished the latest sensation. They are manufacturing a mechanical cow to give milk and to be called "Miss Technocracy." Well, there is no telling what may happen.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

T. A. GREHAN, advertisement manager of the Dublin (Ireland) Independent Newspapers, Ltd., says:

"I hope that the editor of this newspaper will not take offense when I say, and say it definitely and from pure conviction, that from the point of view of truth, honesty, reliability, and even from the point of view of interest, and, if you will, romance, the advertisement side of the newspaper of today is at least as worthy as the editorial side.

"The editor's job is to collect the cream of the world's news, to polish it up and to so present it as to make it easy to read, to grasp and to assimilate. Also, it is the editor's job to ensure that the sources of his news are beyond reproach. This is granted. Any editor of a newspaper worth the name will entertain no other code of conduct for his paper.

"Well, every efficiently conducted newspaper sees to it that a like code of honesty obtains in its advertisement columns. That is to say, not only do these columns reflect worth-while activities in commerce, but that the recording of all such activities in the form of advertisement announcement is based on truth. Flowers of description there must be to put life and brightness into these announcements, but back of all there must be, and I am glad to say there is, that splendid thing—TRUTH.

"I have been addicted to reading newspapers for over 35 years, and the growth in honesty on both the editorial and advertisement sides during that period has been nothing short of glorious."

Recently I spent a couple of days at the Oklahoma Biltmore Hotel in Oklahoma City, noted the country over for its hospitality.

First impressions are the most likely to tell a guest whether he will or whether he will not enjoy his stay in a hotel. The doorman, on my arrival, greeted me with a smile. This was backed up again by the smiling clerk at the desk and afterwards by James E. Barrett, managing director of the Biltmore. So I knew I would enjoy my visit. I found at the Oklahoma Biltmore they know they cannot "check in" a guest like they check a hat, for the guest is human and the hat is not.

While in the city I interviewed J. F. Owens, president of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Owens is known as the state's greatest booster. As Oklahoma City is one of the best advertised cities in America, I asked Mr. Owens as to the part advertising had taken in the building of this great city.

"We firmly believe," he said, "in Oklahoma City and all Oklahoma. We know what we have and we know that if we can keep getting our messages across, there are untold thousands who will follow the thousands who have come, invested and become good citizens through the advertising of Oklahoma City. The advertising campaigns, direct and indirect, that have been kept up by Oklahoma ever since it was one of the youngest members of the Union have been tremendously valuable to our people, but the surface in this field has scarcely been scratched. It is our duty to see that everybody every place knows about Oklahoma City and Oklahoma, and one of the best ways of carrying out this purpose is through the advertising columns of the daily and weekly newspapers of America."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, — President Hoover's early plans for life as an ex-president are now fairly well worked out and it is understood that he doesn't intend to make any speeches, publish any writings or accept any job until at least nine months after he leaves the White House. Nevertheless, the impression has grown steadily that Mr. Hoover has no idea of renouncing politics for all time and that he expects to continue as leader of his party. Republicans who don't want him to continue in control have thus far failed to get together and do something about it and there is no assurance of a definite crystallization of the anti-Hoover sentiment even after March fourth. Many Republicans, after the manner of Hoover himself, prefer to wait awhile and see what happens to the Democrats before making any drastic reorganization. The understanding that the president will take Secretary of the Treasury Orden Mills along with him if he returns to California by boat through the Panama Canal, with a few days off for fishing en route, is taken to indicate that Mills—a political power in New York state and often suggested as the G. O. P. 1936 presidential candidate—is not likely to participate.

Oil Belt Student Activities At Texas University

While in the university students learn to do many things which they carry out into life with them, one of the most important is that of Resolving; at present many students are practicing the art by resolving to do better on this terms work, for the publication of the fall grades last week has made many of us master resolvers. The new term naturally brought many new students to the campus. Among the most charming new women students is Miss Marjorie Davison of Eastland, who came to the university from T. C. U. With the close of the examination period some 1200 university students established their eligibility to pledge a social fraternity. The list of eligible students issued from the deans office last Tuesday, included the following Oil Belt students: Malcolm Graham, Oliver Graham, Alex Spears, William Key, Saunders Gregg, Miss Francis Cunningham, and Miss Otie Frasier. The intramural basketball team composed of oil belt men students has proceeded undefeated to the finals of the basketball tournament. Miss Thelma Brewer, Eastland, student in S. M. Wet Bill Brings Out Poll Taxes

WACO, Texas.—Gibson Gayle, McLennan county tax collector, found a novel way to prevent the decline in poll tax payments—and in his fees—which normally would have resulted from the fact 1933 is an off-year for elections. Taking counsel with himself when the payments fell far behind, Gayle issued a statement. He called attention to the fact there is a bill before the legislature proposing a local option amendment and suggested purchase of poll tax would insure the buyer a vote if the amendment were submitted this year.

Mexico Pushing Its Road Work To Get Tourists

By United Press. NEW YORK.—Mexico, with its snow-capped mountains, tropical vegetation, picturesque villages and recently discovered archaeological finds at Monte Alban, will be on the tourist maps by June.

The work of gravelling the uncompleted sections of the international highway between Laredo, Texas, and Mexico City, is progressing rapidly and the Mexican director general of highways, Leopoldo Farias, anticipates that the work will be completed by then.

Farias points out, however, that even after the gravelling is finished there still will be plenty of work in bringing the highway up to the standard set for it.

The government's ambition, Farias has declared, is to make the roadway, leading from the Rio Grande to the Mexican capital, second to none in the Americas.

When completed it will be 20-foot wide highway paved and oiled from Laredo to Mexico City.

In the strip that is completed between the border and Monterrey, culverts and bridges are equal to any of those found in the United States and the strip is excellent for all-weather travelling.

In other sectors armies of workmen are blasting out the sides of mountains, constructing bridges, laying culverts and working day and night in an effort to complete the project on time.

The latest report on the work is brought back by William H. Furlong, director of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce highway department.

Furlong has made six trips over the new highway. His first trip was made six years ago when the project first was discussed. His last trip, completed in January, occupied 32 days and took him by auto to every section of Mexico.

Furlong, an expert road man, was astounded he said, at the rapid road progress being made.

"Nearly every state in Mexico suddenly has become road-conscious," Furlong said. "Governors are using good roads as an election propaganda. But they mean it. You cannot drive through any one of the states without finding road crews repairing and building highways."

Furlong held many conferences in Mexico City with Highway Director General Farias and received commitments from him on the completion of the gravelling work of the international highway by June.

"Mexico has just begun to realize the value of the American tourist dollar," Furlong said. "The government is concentrating on preparing the country for the influx expected when they perfect road conditions."

"The country will be a garden spot for tourists," Furlong said, "every climate is available. From sea level to Mexico City an auto passes through tropical, semi-tropical and temperate zone vegetation. The scenery is unequalled in any country. The picturesque villages, the gay colorful native costumes and the inexpensiveness of travel will make it a tourists' paradise."

Furlong has been in the east exhibiting motion and still pictures taken on his recent trip. They show the progress made on the road work in the land of the Montezumas as compared with highway conditions found on his first trip.

New I. C. C. Head Johnson Led In Fight To Change Rules of House

The new chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission is Patrick J. Farrell (above), a member of the commission for 32 years. He succeeds Claude R. Porter, who resigned, and assumes office on Jan. 1.

AUSTIN.—A. P. Johnson, Carrizo Springs, defeated candidate for speaker, led the fight resulting in amending the house rules as proposed by Speaker Coke Stevenson's rules committee. W. E. Pope was chairman of the committee.

The amendment goes half-way in establishing in the house the procedure outlined in the constitutional amendment under which a session of 120 days was authorized.

The change, as permitted by that amendment, limits the general introduction of bills to the first 45 days of the session. Thirty days was the limit set in the amendment, unless modified by four-fifths vote. The 45-day limit insures time for thorough consideration of the measures introduced.

Mrs. Sarah Hughes, representative from Dallas, in arguing over the house rules for this session told how Rep. Jack Keller of Dallas played a practical joke on the house and its rules.

The house had just passed the cigarette tax. The next day, despite a rule that a general bill could not be offered after the first 60 days of the session, which had expired, Keller got before the house a bill to repeal the cigarette tax.

This is how he did it: Speaker Fred Minor had adopted the custom when a bill was offered after the 60-day period of asking if there was objection. If there was, it was put to a vote whether the bill should be accepted. House members, unwilling to protest against a bill until they knew what was in it, seldom objected.

When Keller offered his repeal bill nobody objected. He only wanted to show how foolish the house procedure was and did not push the repeal bill.

President-elect Roosevelt is to have a swimming tank in the White House. Considering his reported penchant for "ducking" his playfellows we hope Huey Long is asked over real soon.

HERE... AND THERE

By Elvie R. Jackson

A transplanted rose: Vigorous, colorful, beautiful and always growing in fragrance and output, rich bloom, and the pleasure given to others. To see may be likened Emily Gleason Perkins, formerly of Gloucester, Mass., college graduate, trained musician, accomplished housekeeper, and successful club woman.

Soon after her marriage to Joseph M. Perkins, Emily Gleason and her husband moved to Oklahoma City, Okla., where they found many close friendships in their eight years of residence.

Here was a busy life there, as a member of the oldest club in the state; a member of the Philanthropic, honorary member of the Sunnyside, and officer in the largest music department, and a national officer of the Alpha Gamma Delta Fraternity, for which she was national secretary eight years, filling that office even after reaching Texas.

Eight years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Perkins located in Eastland, bought a handsome home, and settled in this city, to make their continued residence.

Sixteen years in the Southland have fitted Mrs. Perkins for any office to which she may be assigned, and which may be within the reach of her friends to give her.

Her usefulness in this city has been well proven along many diverse lines of activity. In both state, district, county, and local club work, in the Texas Federation of Women's clubs and Texas Federation of Music clubs. The present successful life of the music state federation is due so far as the sixth district is concerned to Mrs. Perkins' efforts, who organized the sixth district from barren possibilities, and was unanimously elected its president, bringing the district work in a few short months to a splendid accomplishment and large growth.

As publicity chairman for the sixth district of Texas Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. Perkins has brought to the district the most unqualified results both as state officer, who has given valuable suggestions to the work, and in her district connections in stimulating the use of musical pageantry for district convention programs.

The successful author of three pageants adapted for club use, her last effort in this line, arranged for an impromptu presentation, "The Old Chisholm Trail," was an outstanding feature of the recent sixth district convention.

In Eastland county work, Mrs. Perkins has been appointed by Judge Clyde L. Garrett, on the Eastland County Child Welfare board; she is county chairman for the Better Homes work, and the very successful president of Eastland county Federation of Women's clubs.

In this office talent has been brought to bear, on the needs of the county, and the work of the work has become closely associated through much of the effort of Mrs. Perkins, with the work and activities of the Eastland County home demonstration movement. Through this contact, Mrs. Perkins has brought to the county the best of the plan for bringing organized play into the life of the community and assisted Miss Ramey, Eastland county demonstration agent, in securing the services of a national vocational director, for his first visit in Eastland, two years ago.

Local offices in Eastland city that have been filled with success by Mrs. Perkins include president of the Thursday Afternoon club, president of the Music Club, president of South Ward Parent-Teacher association, and present presiding officer of the Eastland H.S. school P.T.A.

In this connection, when the need for the R. F. C. funds were suggested, Mrs. Perkins brought the idea to the executive board of the high school P.T.A. of having use of school grounds for graded, improved, and the building renovated, through the use of these funds.

The idea was developed further by the board which made immediate and formal application for this assistance. The result may be seen today.

Her connection in church work for many years has brought fine results. She is now president of the First Methodist Church of Eastland and superintendent of a Sunday school department. Her time has always been open to the young church life, who have enjoyed many evenings of hospitality in her delightful home. Several brilliant club entertainments and luncheons have been held under her chairmanship in Eastland, and attended by district, and state federation guest officers of both federated clubs of the state.

The sixth district art exhibit was graciously on view at her residence during the holidays, and the home was thronged with visitors, to this wonderful collection of district art.

Mrs. Perkins is a most accomplished housekeeper, does beautiful needle work, is a patron of the domestic arts, and a brilliant pianist.

As a conscientious mother she has been an unequalled success, as her three delightful children will easily prove.

In Mrs. Perkins' candidacy for the presidency of the sixth district of Texas Federation of Women's clubs she should receive the unqualified support of her friends and fellow clubwomen. She is honored for this office by Eastland Thursday Afternoon Club and Civic League, the only local clubs in the T. F. W. C.

SPOTLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sheila Shayne, dancer, refuses to marry Dick Stanley, son of wealthy parents, who is in New York trying to learn to write. Sheila's idea of marriage is a cozy little home far from Broadway. Although she has spent all her life on the stage she would be glad to leave the theater.

She secures a part in a road show and in a little midwestern city meets Jerry Wyman, who seems to be a hard working young man with little money. Sheila does not know Jerry's father owns the factory where he works. For 7 times Jerry is attentive and Sheila falls in love with him. Soon his affection seems to cool. He writes infrequently and this makes Sheila unhappy.

Back in New York, she gets a job in a fashionable night club. She sees Jerry there with some friends. He tells her he has tried to call her but she does not believe this and refuses to make an engagement.

She joins another road company and after several months they play in Jerry's home town. Each day she hopes to hear from him but no word comes. Finally she telephones and he comes to see her. Jerry promises to see her the following week but breaks this promise. Weeks pass and Sheila has no word from him.

The tour ends and the company returns to New York. Sheila learns from her friend, Jappy, a chorus girl, that Jerry has married a girl in his home town.

THE GIRLS GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI

Fate took a hand in Sheila's affairs with the abruptness that is often Fate's way.

She had been idle for weeks now. If anyone had asked, Sheila would have said she had plenty of money saved. But plenty of money minus $50, minus $25 and smaller sums will deplete any account if given time enough. And this had happened to Sheila's savings.

"Sheila," Tillie Samper said one morning, "you and I are going down town today! We're going to have permanent waves and we're going to buy new hats. There's nothing that sets a woman apart like a new hat."

Sheila eyed herself languidly in the mirror. "I suppose I look terribly," she said, "but I like to give my skin a rest when I'm not working." She rubbed one hand across her smooth, pale cheek.

"A little pale, that's all," diagnosed the resolute Tillie. She rose. "We'll fix that soon enough. Come on."

"I don't believe I have any money."

"What?"

"I don't believe I have any money to go shopping."

"Oh, we don't need to spend a lot. All the stores are offering wonderful bargains. You can pick up the cutest things—"

"Not if anyone is looking!" Sheila retorted. "I don't believe I have a single sou. Look in the book. It's in my handkerchief case."

The savings book, duly produced, told a sad story indeed. Not quite so sad as Sheila had forecast but sad enough. The balance was $19.46. Since the first of the month, barely three weeks ago, Sheila had made frequent withdrawals of sums ranging from $1.00 to $10.

"Sheila Shayne—you've been loaning money, haven't you?" Tillie said accusingly.

"I have. What else can you do? It's simpler than listening to sob stories. She sank wearily into a chair. "I didn't realize until this morning, though, that it was going so fast. Guess I'll have to go to work!"

"Say, in the mood you're in you couldn't get a job anywhere?"

"No, I suppose not."

"Then snap out of it, do you hear? Tillie's voice rose wrathfully. It was hard to be cross with Sheila, but it seemed to loyal little Tillie the one chance. "Listen! Get out and get yourself a job, and if I hear of you giving another cent to anyone—anyone—I'll tillie pushed in a frantic search for a fitting threat. She floundered badly. "I'll annihilate you! I will!"

"Tillie, I guess I don't care what happens to me."

"During" Pressed against Tillie's shoulder, Sheila sobbed as if her heart would break.

"You love Jim, don't you, Tillie?" she said when she was able to speak. "Could you stand it to lose him? Would you care what happened to you if you did?"

"I know," Tillie's voice broke sharply. "But, honey, it's hard to see, I know, but there are other things. There are other people—"

Half an hour later, smartly gowned, as serene as if nothing had occurred, the two girls sauntered forth to look for a job for Sheila. At Johnny Harrell's office Sheila faced the disgruntled agent with something akin to alarm.

"Going to listen to reason, are you?" he grunted. "Fine! Going to tell me you'll take a role I've just broken my neck to fill? Going to say you'll sign up now and take a good contract when I get it for you? Well, I haven't a thing for you. Not a thing! Hold on—wait a moment! Miss Rosenbaum, hand me that letter from Abbott, will you?"

Miss Rosenbaum, haughty, efficient and tailored, eyed Sheila as coolly as if she, too, had not shared Harrell's harassment in trying to find a substitute for Sheila.

"The position was filled this morning, Mr. Harrell. Grace Sawyer has the part."

Harrell frowned. "Well, then, that's out! Tell you what, Sheila, if you really want to go to work I'll have you in a show inside a week. Want a night club job to fill in?"

"If she can use her own routine," interposed Tillie. "She isn't up to filling in for someone else."

Tillie was high-salaried and Harrell bowed her with respect. "Well, Club Volens wants a single," he said. "You'll do fine. Toodle up there and I'll get Grady on the wire."

The two girls left. "He'll tell Grady he scoured the town to find you," Tillie giggled as they went down the dusty stairs to the street.

"That's all right with me," Sheila said wearily.

"She'll snap out of it when she hears the music," Tillie told herself. "She can't listen to music and not dance!"

The girls found Grady seated in the tiny office at the rear of the garish night club which in its midday aspect looked forlorn and cheap. Tables were placed on tables. Cleaning men were listlessly scrubbing the floor. An aproned waiter was gathering table appointments together on a tray.

"Yeah, Johnny phoned," Grady said, without taking his feet off the nearest chair. "I've got a spot that needs fixing. Danced here last year, didn't you, with Rodney? If you are as good in a single you might work in all right."

"She's better in a single," the faithful Tillie thrust in and Grady raised a sarcastic eyebrow.

"Am I doing business with her or you, sister?" he wanted to know.

"I'm very good in a single," Sheila hastened to say in her own behalf.

Grady grinned. "O. K. You take a 15 minute spot in the show at 10:30 and another at 11:45. Get in touch with Mack. He's the leader and see if you can work out something big. Ever plug a song?"

"Have you one you want plugged?" asked Sheila cautiously.

Grady grinned again. "You and Mack be down here for a rehearsal at 4:30," he said. "Mack has a song I want to work in for Blind Timmy. It's a peach."

Blind Timmy? She could earn money, fill in until a real job came along and help Timmy as well. Her voice was well adapted to

Wife Keeps "Gotten Man;" Girl Gets Hers With Valentine Vanda.
Sweethearts and wives (here's to them!) will not be in the least surprised at the latest reports on the much-discussed origin of Saint Valentine's day. Recent researches have discovered that the pretty practices connected with Feb. 14 started way back in heathen times, with Juno—who was Goddess of Marriage! The love-lorn maid sent her heartfelt "billets" to get her man and the already-wedded one cooked good things to eat, to keep her gotten man.

Valentines you can eat have always found their way straight to the male heart, by the traditional route. So, whether you insist upon honoring any one of the Saints Valentines (there happen to be seven such!) or whether you fancy the Juno legend, you won't change your methods much if you're clever.

You will continue to show your heart is in the right place, holiday or none, by sharing the works of your kitchen, be it at a party, the regular family meal, or when "the date" calls. These recipes, for dishes both heart-y and hale, will help you.

Rosy Hearts Mold
(A Raspberry Fruit Gelatine)
1 pkg. raspberry gelatine, 1 pt. boiling water, 1/2 cup nuts, 1/4 pkg. dates.

Dissolve gelatine in boiling water. Cool until mixture is of thickness of egg white. Add dates (sliced) and nuts (chopped). Pour into one large or six small heart-shaped molds which have been rinsed in cold water. When firm un-mold and serve with whipped cream. Make a "piping" of the whipped cream around edge with your pastry gun, and serve on lace-paper doilies.

Valentine Nougat of Cakes
Bake your favorite cake recipe in small tea-cake or muffin pans, or in paper cups. When cool frost sides with Easy Uncreaming Frosting which needs no creaming if made as follows:

Add 3 tablespoons of hot milk or cream, 2 1/2 cups confectioner's sugar. Pour in a teaspoon of maza and beat all until well mixed. The use of the oil makes it unnecessary to cream the mixture.

Divide into four parts and prepare as follows:
Buttercups: Add enough egg yolk to color a delicate yellow and a little orange rind to flavor. Put on some of the cakes and cover top with chopped shredded coconut which has been colored yellow.

Pink: Beat in a little raspberry or strawberry jam to color and flavor. Put on cakes and cover top with chopped shredded coconut colored pink.

Snowballs: Leave frosting white; spread on cakes and cover top with chopped shredded coconut.

Lavender: Flavor frosting with almond and cover with coconut colored lavender.

Serve on one large plate, on which a lace-paper doilie has been placed, and put sprigs of smilax or fern around the edge.

Lobster Love-Birds
Shredded lobster, tuna fish, crab meat or salmon may be used.
1 tsp. finely minced onion, 1/4 cup cornstarch, 1 cup milk, 2 tbsps. maza, 1 egg, pepper, 2 tbsps. water, 1/4 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. lemon juice, 2 cups chopped fish, 1 1/2 cups fine crumbs, 1/2 tsp. mustard, paprika.

Cook onion gently over low fire, in hot maza, three minutes. Do not allow to brown. Stir in cornstarch and cook two minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in milk gradually, add salt, pepper, paprika and lemon juice, and stir until thick and smooth. Boil two minutes. Mix one egg yolk, and one-half teaspoon mustard with fish and add to white sauce. Spread mixture on plate and chill. Form into shapes. Dip in crumbs, egg beaten with water, and then crumbs again. Let stand few minutes and fry in deep maza until light brown.

Valentine Sandwiches
Cut bread in heart-shaped pieces with cutter. Make a filling of cream cheese (which has been moistened with a little cream) and chopped pasteurized dates. Make a border around edge of sandwich with chopped maraschino cherries.
