A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

BE KIND TO THE ERRING: Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such a one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted.—Galatians 6: 1.

FREEZING THE FARMER

If the purpose of the Agricultural Credit corporation's loans to farmers is to provide the farmers a source of cheap credit not available elsewhere, as the intent of the law is interpreted, then the corporation, under the policies as understood here, is defeating its own purpose, and not only defeating its own purpose but threatening to bring an even worse condition than now exists.

Most of the farmers entitled to this relief already have their collateral mortgaged to the limit. The requirement that the government be given a first lien on collateral securing the corporation's loan means that the farmer must use the money obtained from the government to pay off the prior indebtedness, thus leaving his chattels and other collateral mortgaged to the government. Very few of the applying farmers—perhaps 25 per cent as indicated by the records of applications already made to the Eastland county committee,—are able to provide security for a loan large enough to amortize their debts to banks and merchants and have a surplus with which to make another crop. The most of them therefore will simply shut themselves off from future credit by paying the banks and merchants under a mortgage to the federal government. In effect this will be a transfer of indebtedness by freezing up collateral in a worse condition than ever.

Consider an example:

Bill Jones, a tenant farmer, after experiencing two successive crop failures, owes his banker $250 which is secured by a mortgage on his stock, his tools, his crop and other chattels. Perhaps he owes his merchant $100 secured by chattels not listed in the mortgage to the bank. The security he has to offer will guarantee a loan of $350 and no more on the basis of present market values. He applies to the government, secures a loan of $350 and pays the banker and the merchant, giving to the Agricultural Credit corporation a first lien upon all his goods. He has transferred his indebtedness, helped to relieve the banker and the merchant and has assisted himself to the extent of reducing the interest rate he pays to 6 1/2 per cent. But he has no money. He is faced with the necessity of obtaining a loan to make his next crop so that he can pay the government at least 50 per cent of the $350 plus interest he has borrowed.

Where is he going to get it? Would the banker, with no security available, advance him the money? His only source of credit may be what, on the strength of his character, he can purchase on open account from the merchant, but that will tend to relieve his condition little.

Unless the corporation's loan policy is liberalized to place its benefits primarily within the reach of the type of farmer above, who is the type for which the aid is designed, its existence is not warranted by any credit condition now existing. For the farmer who can avail himself of its benefits can, with equal ease, secure accommodation through the regular channels of credit. Most of our banks are in solid condition and can well take care of the 25 per cent. It is the 75 per cent that must be reached. Under the existing requirements the corporation loans will serve to thaw out the ice in one place and freeze it in another and more serious place. It will leave the majority of the farmers with neither opportunity for further credit nor the purchasing power which is not only essential to their operations but essential to the welfare of business.

There should be a forceful demand upon the part of business men, bankers and merchants in general that the policy of the government agency charged with the distribution of these loans be put in accord with the spirit of the legislation which created the agency. Otherwise we are to have the spectacle of the government defeating its own ends.

Three hundred million dollars loaned to the farmers of this nation will do more to relieve the distress of the public in general, than out frozen credits and release purchasing power than ten times as much loaned to the large corporations, banks, and other business enterprises. It will have a progressive influence that will gather magnitude in the point of expanding credit much out of proportion to the progression that starts at the top of the pyramid and trickles down, and an influence more spontaneous in its character and consequently more in accord with natural business operations.

Those who repose faith in the League of Nations—and they are in the great minority—are adamant in their refusal to accept a truth that has been apparent to the materialists ever since the inception of the League; namely, the League may give rulings and decisions on matters of international import from now until Gabriel sounds the last trumpet, but, without force to back its findings, it is impotent.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

GOV. PAUL V. McNUTT, of Indiana, says:

"There are certain obligations which the state cannot deny even in periods of greatest stress: The care of its wards and the education of its children. In the one, the obligation runs to the unfortunates themselves. In the other, the obligation runs to society as a whole.

"The hope for future prosperity and leadership lies in trained men and women. Children are born and grow up in periods of depression as well as in periods of prosperity. It is impossible to arrest their development. They have but one chance, which cannot be postponed. Roads and buildings may wait, but not the children."

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

By BEULAH K. HICKS
Mark 4:35-41, 5:1-8, 18-20

Jesus, weary and tired, pressed by the multitude, looked across the beautiful lake, on whose shores he had taught so many parables; which had brought truth to many hungry hearts, and saw that escape across the blue waters to the eastern side would bring him rest. Turning to his disciples he said, "Let us go over to the other side." They, sensing his weariness, took him just as he was into the boat to start the passage across the lake. Jesus went into the stern of the boat and lay down, probably on the steersman's bench which was fitted with a leather cushion and fell asleep; quiet sleep as "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most high shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."—Psalm 91:1.

While Jesus slept and the boat glided along, there arose a great storm of wind. Sudden and violent storms are common to this beautiful lake so favored and chosen by providence to be the fountain head of a living water that has quenched a thirst in souls of all conditions. While the tempest raged and the waves began to fill the boat, Jesus slept on; the disciples were frightened. They awoke him but their confusion did not disturb him. Calmly he arose to the supreme test of his deity, rebuked the wind and commanded the sea, "Peace be still."

There was a great calm; an uplifted heart in faith to the Lord of Hosts, who inspired him "not to fear though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea."—Psalm 46:2.

This miracle has been interpreted as meaning to show Christ's power over all creation, both the sea and the dry land, and that all might believe in him as the Omnipotent God. But, further, this tempest on the lake was a symbol of the trials and temptation which should come on the church in this world.

Christ came to destroy the works of the devil and he alone can do this. He is calling each person to service today. Go tell thy friends and members of your family, how great his mercies are to us. Yet we turn away, lured by pleasure, making money, keeping physical bodies fit while the spiritual body is worn and lean. He would have us ever remember and keep close the faith that grows as the mustard seed day by day.

"For I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have

Ages
Love of God with strength untold
Through the angry storms will hold
Blessed peace of soul I know
For I am anchored on the Rock of Ages?"

Landing on the east shore in the county of the Gadarenes, Jesus was met immediately by a man of unclean spirit, a maniac. This man was so possessed by the evil spirit that he lived among the tombs on the mountain side; night and day his cries could be heard as he cut himself with stones. Authorities had chained him but in his fury he snapped the chains asunder. He had seen Jesus from afar and the evil spirit recognized him as divine. He then tried to match the authority with which Jesus spoke, when he demanded to be let alone. But Jesus again proved his absolute sovereignty when he said unto him, "Come out of the man, thou unclean spirit." The man was changed, sane again at once, realizing that "The mighty God, even the Lord hath spoken."—Psalm 50:1.

The closing picture is clothed in the grandeur of simplicity, gratitude of the healed man, courtesy and kindness of the reply of Jesus, who was not too great or too busy to heed the little things of life: "Go to thy house unto thy friends and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee, and how he had mercy on thee," was the reply of Jesus to this man who would go with him. The man was faithful and preached to the people with such power that they marveled; bringing realization to the preacher that, "For thou hast delivered my soul from death; wilt thou deliver my feet from falling, that I may walk before God in the light of the living."—Psalm 56:13.

Christ came to destroy the works of the devil and he alone can do this. He is calling each person to service today. Go tell thy friends and members of your family, how great his mercies are to us. Yet we turn away, lured by pleasure, making money, keeping physical bodies fit while the spiritual body is worn and lean. He would have us ever remember and keep close the faith that grows as the mustard seed day by day.

Eight Teams Will Enter Eastland
Cage Tournam

Eight teams will be in Eastland tonight to begin the basketball season for the ninth Texas district. These teams will represent different counties and will win the championship in the respective classes in their counties. From this county will be Eastland, winner of the A division, and Morton, winner of the class B division. Breckenridge will represent the county and Parks Camp will represent the class B division. Coach Gibson is correctly informed the teams from the other counties will be as follows: Palo Verde, Mineral Wells; Erath, Phenixville; Hood, Granbury; Ervell, Glen Rose.

The first game of the meet will be called tonight at seven o'clock. Before this time representatives of each team will have drawn lots to determine the respective opponents in the matches and position on the schedule. Games will be played tonight and the winners of these contests will go into the semi-finals tomorrow, Saturday night the winners teams will play the game to determine who shall represent this district in the State public contests. The exact time of the semi-finals and finals will be announced tonight.

Since each team entered in this meet represents the best basketball talent in the six counties composing the district, some of the class basketball playing may be expected. The right to represent the district at the State meet will be at stake and each team will be putting forth its best efforts to win. All basketball fans are invited to attend and make as good showing for Eastland and land County as possible. Admission fee of 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for school children will be charged for the games tonight.

GOOD STYLE
is never extreme. If you look around at the people who dress in good taste, you'll see that there's never anything "flashy" about what they wear.

Come to think of it . . .

it's very much the same with cigarettes.

No cigarette should ever be "strong." That means that they should never be too rich or over-seasoned—not harsh or "bitey."

The taste of a Chesterfield is just as near right as we know how to make it.

Not tasteless or flat, not too highly flavored for steady smoking, but with just the right kinds of tobacco blended the one right way to satisfy. Chesterfields are mild. They taste better.

Sheila Shayne, dancer, refuses to marry Dick Stanley, a son of wealthy parents who is in New York trying to learn to write plays. Sheila's idea of marriage is a cozy little home far from Broadway.

She joins a road show company and in a small midwestern city she meets Jerry Wyman, with whom she falls in love. Jerry is at first extremely attentive but soon his affection seems to cool. He writes infrequently and when he comes to New York on a vacation it is only by chance that they meet.

A few months later Sheila joins another road company, this time as featured principal. The show plays in Jerry's home town but Sheila sees him only once. After that she has no word of him until the tour comes to an end. Then she learns that Jerry has married a girl in his home town.

To improve Any child's APPETITE

A sluggish appetite means a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup.

California syrup of figs is doing wonderful things for ailing, sickly children all over the United States. If your baby, boy or girl is bilious—pale-faced and dull-eyed from constipation—breath bad mornings, tongue coated all the time—don't give cathartics that weaken twenty feet of bowels! Instead, a little syrup of figs that doesn't disturb either stomach or bowels, but does act on the lower colon—where the trouble lies.

Nature never has made a finer laxative for children; they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California syrup of figs. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. Your child will soon be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

Children who get syrup of figs, now and then, keep well and avoid colds.

NOTICE: The bottlers of California Syrup of Figs respectfully warn mothers that the promises made here apply only to the genuine product in bottles plainly marked CALIFORNIA.

Sheila is broken-hearted. She is unable to get another part on the stage and her money is almost gone when she is hired as a model at Henri's fashionable shop. There she sees Dorothy Trevor, Dick Stanley's cousin. Dorothy invites Sheila to spend a week-end at her Long Island home. She goes. Dick is here and asks Sheila to marry him. She agrees but it is settled that the marriage will not take place for some time. Then she receives an offer to play the lead in a new play on Broadway. Sheila gives up her job at Henri's to begin rehearsals.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVII

It was a day when the rehearsals had been particularly tedious and tiring. No one could please Brady. He halted Sheila's dancing a dozen times, made her repeat, criticized brusquely. The chorus stood watching in awed silence. Sheila alone was unperturbed. She could dance and she knew it. The girls in the chorus were frightened because their turn was coming. If Brady found so much fault with Miss Shayne's dancing what would he think of them?

Sheila danced on. Her feet beat out the tapping rhythm, whirled, stamped and skimmed across the stage. There was a fixed smile on her face. The ringlets of her hair curled tightly on her damp forehead. Brady nodded his head to the rhythm. He was standing with one foot on a chair, one hand beating out the time. Some times he would go far back in the pit of the theater, watching Sheila. Some times he would shout approval, though harsh criticisms were more frequent. Sheila didn't mind. She knew Brady was severe because he demanded the best. She repeated tirelessly until he suddenly announced they were done for the day.

She went to her dressing room happily. Brady must be satisfied with her work or he would not have ended the rehearsal. That in itself was a triumph. It gave her confidence and there is no quality more precious to the actor or actress.

A chorus girl timidly offered condolence for Brady's harsh words, Sheila laughed. "I don't mind," she said. "Bill's all right."

She was weary, though. Every muscle seemed to ache. She must go on with this tireless work until she could dance without thinking about it, until the routine seemed effortless.

There were solo rehearsals and full chorus rehearsals daily. Then came full cast rehearsals. At last Mandrake announced, "We are ready for Atlantic City. The show looks to me like a flop." He always said that dolefully before his outstanding successes.

The company traveled to Atlantic City for the tryout week. There were more rehearsals there. Sheila endured loss of sleep, weariness, the electric restlessness that always precedes an opening night. There were wires for her from Dick. She had positively forbidden him to be present for the first performance.

"I can't do my best with you there," she told him. "Wait until we bring the show to New York."

The first night came and the show was not, as Mandrake had predicted, a flop. It was praised glowingly by the newspapers. Sheila's name was in the headlines.

The company journeyed back to New York and Sheila thought that she had never been so tired. "It's a good thing," another member of the cast told her. "We get so tired we don't care whether the show goes over or not."

Sheila did care. It was not for her own sake but for Blind Timmy. She felt that she must be a success for Timmy. And for Dick, too. She knew Dick would be proud of her. He had always praised her, believed in her ability. She visualized him in the audience, sliding from his orchestra seat to come to her dressing room between the acts. She could see him with Trevor, perhaps, or Dorothy, following every tap of her flying feet as she skimmed over the stage. Oh, yes, she wanted to be a success for Dick!

And so at last the opening night arrived. There was Sheila's name in the big electrical sign, "Sheila Shayne in 'Flying Flags'." There was her picture in the newspapers. Sheila Shayne starring in "Flying Flags."

Eye Samper came to see her late in the afternoon. Sheila had been in bed most of the day, resting in accordance with Mandrake's orders. Eye tried to relieve Sheila's worries.

"Just think tonight is another rehearsal," she counseled. "Pretend you're in Atlantic City again. You were a wow there!"

"I know. But New York is different."

"You won't be. You'll be a knock-out. Everybody says so."

Eye departed soon and Sheila tried once more to sleep. She could not. She lay with her eyes closed, thinking about Dick. She had not heard from him since morning. At 5:30 Sheila would arise, dress and eat a very light lunch. An hour later she would drive to the theater. Her maid would be there, putting about the dressing room arranging each cosmetic, each bit of apparel in readiness.

She was just leaving when the telephone rang. Sheila heard Dick's voice over the wire. "Scared?" he asked. "I was when I saw your name in front of the theater."

"Oh, no!" she told him stoutly. "Not a bit!" He would not know that her hand was shaking.

Once in her dressing room, the maid told her, holding out a stack of colored envelopes.

There were telegrams from friends scattered throughout the country. Almost all of them were actors and actresses, people she had known during her years of trouping. It was good to read their gay, encouraging messages.

There was a knock at the door and the maid answered. Mandrake came in briskly. "How're you feeling?" he asked.

"Scared," Sheila admitted. "That's fine! I've never known a successful star who didn't have stage fright before the curtain. But you've nothing to worry about. You're going to be a big hit, little girl. I'd stake my last dollar on it."

"Don't! You might lose!"

Lucy followed Sheila into the wings as the opening chorus began. In a cleared space Sheila began stretching, bounding, twirling, warming up for her entrance. Nobody paid her the slightest attention.

As she danced the tense look on her face disappeared. Sheila forgot to be frightened. She was thinking only of her dancing now. "Here came her cue!" She fluttered to Lucy's side, tossed a scarf across the maid's arm, smiled, and in another instant was gone.

Now she was on the stage and dancing as she had never danced before. The light patter of applause burst into an uproar. Leaning forward eagerly, the maid watched her. This was not the frightened, trembling girl she had assisted a half hour before. Sheila was a bright, bewitched, electrified, holding her audience spellbound.

Each time she appeared it was the same story. The applause filled the theater. Not only for Sheila's numbers but for the other members of the company as well. "Flying Flags" was a success.

Even before the last curtain, when again and again Sheila was called to receive applause, that fact was apparent. Mandrake appeared with her, bowing. The juvenile lead took a bow. Then the other principals. Then Sheila again, swooping like a gay bird toward the footlights. Blind Timmy was with her, flushed and relectant.

"Author! Author!" came the cry from the audience. It rose to a crescendo. Where was the author?

Sheila heard Mandrake's voice beside her. "Go with him, Sheila," the producer was saying. "Here!"

She turned. Amazed, unbelieving, she found herself looking up at Dick Stanley!

Youth Sold His Automobile for $3

MIDDLEBORO, Mass. — Automobile prices hit a new low here when a Canadian youth sold his car to a local man for $3.

The youth approached Police Chief Alden C. Sisson and explained that he was en route from Ontario to England to find work and had only 17 cents. He said he wanted to raise funds with which to get to New York, so he could board a cattle boat and work his trans-Atlantic passage.

After selling the car, the youth headed for New York with $3.17 as capital.

Census Shows British Hobo Ranks Increase

LONDON—Hoboes, unknown in Britain until recent years, have increased tremendously on account of unemployment. Vagrancy authorities fear many may resort to crime in their destitution.

The number of tramps alone has risen from a few thousand before the World War to more than 200,000, according to one expert. Three-quarters of them are boys between 15 and 18, he said.

During the latter part of 1932, it became clearly apparent that a new class of tramp has arisen, directly identical with the hoboes. The British hoboes about on foot and auto-trucks. Seventy per cent of the vinctial lads in a Dondon p. J. L. Wilcock, warden of the of St. Christopher, said today, there solely because during short term of vagrancy they cumbed to temptation."

Unemployment in Britain not actually increasing from month to month, remains within a thousand of the record high level. Youngsters are ing up to find it impossible to work, and if they continue to hoboes as rapidly and numeras during 1932, the governm sooner or later, will have to large the casual wards, or some emergency accommod for them.

BEGIN HERE TODAY JANET HILL is engaged to ROSE CARLYLE but they do not have enough money to marry. Janet is secretary for BRUCE HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine, and Rose works for the Atlas Advertising Co. Janet insists they must have $500 in a savings account before they can be married.

been so filled with overflowing joy that she failed to notice the look that crossed Rose's face. It was gone in an instant. Gazing across the table at him, Janet saw a young man whose casual observer would have called rather handsome.

CHAPTER II In another instant the girl in the fur coat and the young man beside her had disappeared. Janet had barely seen them, had heard her heart cry out, "It's Rolf!" and was still struggling with the shock when the door of the Coffee Shop closed.

Janet raised her face, glowing with happiness. "Kiss me," she whispered.

Smiling, reassured, Janet hurried along. A minute or two later she was turning into the doorway of Rooney's Cafeteria. Most of the noon-time crowd had lunched and departed. The long room with its innumerable little tables, all with gleaming tile tops, was not even half filled.

For a moment Janet stopped staring to push a strand of hair back from her face. She was warm and comfortable, watching the curls of smoke drift ceilingward.

A sharp rap at the door—Janet leaving the stove, risking ruin of the dinner to answer—a slim, tall figure and a booming voice in the shadows.

"Hello, honey." "Oh, Rolf!" It was a brief greeting. Janet hurried back to retrieve the cream sauce and the steak. The young man tossed aside his hat and topcoat indolently. Yes, it was a gray topcoat and a felt hat exactly the same shade as the young man who entered the Brewster Coffee Shop had worn.

Janet was too busy to notice that she had disappeared behind the screen that shut off the "kitchen" from the rest of the room. The young man, left to himself, dropped into an arm chair. He produced cigarettes, lighted a match, applied it to a cigarette and leaned back comfortably, watching the curling smoke drift ceilingward.

"Busy today?" Janet called. "So-so." Suddenly Carlyle noticed the table with its bowl of roses and its tall candlesticks. "Say, what's the idea? Looks like a party."

the balance of the entertainment, including Ruper Murphy and his orchestra, the three Girl Rhythmettes who sang so well and the excellent readings by Sammy Ruth Matthews, was enjoyed immensely. The American Legion post in Ranger should be complimented on their worthy efforts and the deserved success of their celebration of the birthday of our first soldier.

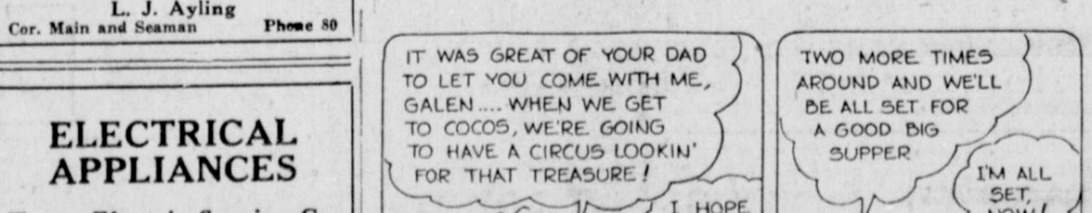

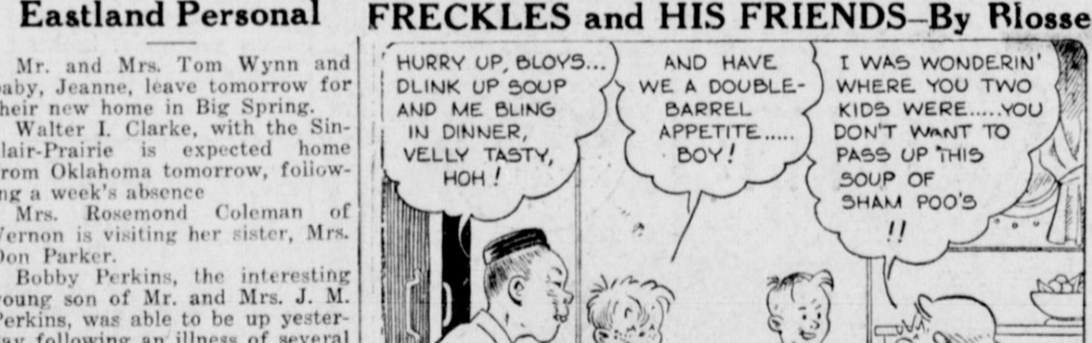

There are to be two special services at the Baptist church next Sunday. In the morning the services will be dedicated to the old folks. Every old person in the community is especially invited to attend this service. Those who have no means of conveyance may get in touch with J. H. Munn, who will arrange to provide a way for them. At 7:30 that evening a special service will be held for the young people, who are all cordially invited and urged to attend. Both these meetings will be conducted by Rev. K. C. Edmonds and will be well worth while.

Young people's choir practice is Thursday night at the Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Maxwell and son, Bernard, have returned from an extended stay in Levita, Texas. Mrs. H. G. "HAD CONSTIPATION SINCE BIRTH OF MY FIRST CHILD"

Then Mrs. King Discovered ALL-BRAN. We quote from her voluntary letter: "I have suffered from terrible constipation since the birth of my first child—9 years ago! I have tried everything and nothing had any lasting results. Very reluctantly I tried your 'ALL-BRAN' with no faith in it at all. Much to my surprise, I have not had to take any medicine since starting to use ALL-BRAN, 4 months ago.—Mrs. Doris Eyre King, 16 Abbey Road, Oxford, England.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things which overcome constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Certainly this is more natural than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron, red-and-green pigments, and kelp in bath.

ALL-BRAN WILL OPEN SOON

Gillian Buchanan to Present Piano and Violin Students in Patriotic Pageant Tonight

A program of unusual interest is in store for music lovers this evening at 7:30 when Miss Gillian Buchanan presents her seventh grade, high school, and junior college violin and piano students in a patriotic pageant, entitled "An American Phantasy," at the high school auditorium.

The following will take part in the pageant: Frances Harrell, Elizabeth Earnest, Mary Weaver, Norma Mills, Mary Gentry, Louise Vaughn, Neva Mae Richardson, Juliann Connelly, Mattie E. Montgomery, Fay Sanders, Wallace Ament, Lorene Harrell, Virginia Beach, Nancy Lynch, Robert Her-ring, Mary Weaver.

Mrs. Green Entertains Study Association

Mrs. E. R. Green acted as pleasing hostess to the Child Study Association No. 1 at her home, Pine street, Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. O. G. Lanier opened the lesson with the instructive talk on "Training Little Hands," followed with a paper read by Mrs. C. O. Bolen, "Our Children and Other People's Children."

After the program had been concluded and all necessary business called to the attention of members the remainder of the afternoon was transformed into that of a social directed by Mrs. Guy Earp.

Clever games and contests as "Historical Shake Up" and "Miniac" were features of the entertainment enjoyed by all.

At 5 o'clock Mrs. Green passed a delicious refreshment plate of molded salad and pecan pie with coffee to the program representatives and Mmes. Edwin George Jr., D. W. Nichol, Guy Earp, E. L. Fontaine, Brown Bradley, Doyle Lanier, R. A. Steele, John Hassen, and mother of Dr. Green and daughter of St. Stephens who are residence this week.

As a special arrangement Mrs. R. A. Steele played several piano numbers while refreshments were served as did young Mary Allen Lanier, talented piano pupil under the instruction of Miss Gillian Buchanan, prominent Ranger artist.

War Dance Furnishes Delightful Entertainment

"We wanted something different" in the form of entertainment and sure enough the chairman of entertainment, "Mickey" Sloan, and his group of social workers presented one of the most attractive and delightful dance affairs of the season at their Elks club-rooms last evening, introducing an entirely new mode of social diversion.

As one entered, the well arranged and well kept ballroom, to the left was seated "Red" Krause and his orchestra personnel very neat in "tux" and offering a decidedly favorable impression. Of course we just can't resist mentioning the accordion player who was such a sensation at a Ranger Country club dance not so long ago. Noted in the group of musicians was seen Ray Costilow, who needless to say was exchanging greetings with many Ranger friends.

Then a farther glance at the other end of the ballroom was immediately noticed the smiling face of Rupert Murphy and his greater-ine piece dance band. Folks, did

Mrs. Davis Hostess To New Era Club

In observance of the second program for the February schedule members of the New Era club met at the home of Mrs. Clyde H. Davis Wednesday afternoon and enjoyed the interesting program, "Literature in Texas Prior to 1890," under the leadership of Mrs. E. O. Samms.

During the business session it was voted to meet in the homes of members throughout the remainder of the study season.

Mrs. C. G. King opened the lesson when she capably gave the paper on "Early Texas Prose Writers and Poets."

"Characteristics of Cowboy Songs" was well given by Mrs. George Rogers. As the program drew to a close a social period was immediately entered into during which time a pretty and delicious refreshment plate of sandwiches, dessert topped with whipped cream and coffee were served carrying in an effective arrangement the colors of red, white and blue.

Members present included Mmes. O. Denny, O. E. Samms, Roy Fesmire, George Rogers, C. G. King, H. J. Barham, Elster Smith, and hostess, Mrs. Davis.

The next program will be held on the afternoon of March 11, with Mrs. O. L. Phillips leader. A Texas day program will be heard at this time.

Solons Disagree on Press Comment On Legislation

AUSTIN.—Newspaper men who are members of the state legislature take a varying view of press criticisms of the body.

An attack on bills to reorganize the state game department has brought a denunciation from Jack O'Brien, sports editor of the San Antonio Evening News, that caused a two-hour house debate.

The article was in the popular sports column style, "jazzed up" with fancy typography. In it "disbauchery," "rottenness" and similar terms were in the capital letters. Its substance was that plans to change the present organization were for political advantage.

W. E. Pope, author of one of the bills, is a former newspaper publisher and associate editor of one now being published. He told the house he would "take care" of the remarks so far as he was concerned but that the house ought to summon the sports writer and find it out for its information if his charges were true.

Homer Leonard, McAllen publisher member, says that editorial criticism by a newspaper is desirable. "But," he added, "it ought to be by an editor—not a news writer."

P. L. Anderson, world's champion linyper, a house leader says:

"In politics you have to take the bitter with the sweet. When they praise you, it's sweet. When they cuss you, it's bitter. A man taking public office must be prepared to take either."

Rep. J. O. Smith, Elgin, 40 years an editor, has this to say of vitriolic attacks:

"My son-in-law recently entered the newspaper business. I gave him this advice: Whenever you think any one should be chastised editorially, give him everything you've got. Then take the article home, keep it all night, read it in the morning, and you'll tear it up."

Ambrose Bierce in a celebrated little volume entitled "Write It Right," gave this definition of sports:

"What no sensible man writes nor reads."

SMART! FOR Spring

Fashion is very particular, this spring, that shoes harmonize exactly with the type of costume worn. If your costume is elaborate your shoes must be in key—if you sport a tailored outfit your shoes must be in keeping.

For the Man
The new Friendly-Five two-tone Sport Shoes have arrived and they are really good looking in black and grey, brown and smoked and black and white.

The New Friedman-Shelby black, high heel, young men's Oxfords only—
