Lions Vote Own Rationing Plan

Lions Club members voted themselves into a ration deal Wednesday.

Henceforth, the club will observe "Sandwich Day" once a month, using the difference between regular meat costs and the sandwich fare to apply to the Lions League of Texas crippled children's camp at Kerrville. Through this medium the club hopes to raise between $500 and $700 per annum for the camp.

Date of the football banquet, set originally for Jan. 23, had to be changed because DeWitt Weaver, Texas Tech coach and guest speaker, had acquired another engagement since winning the Gator Bowl. He probably will be here the evening of Jan. 30.

New members introduced were Doug Jones of Fashion Cleaners and Frank Stone, who transferred from the East Side Club in Tulsa, Okla.

John Kelley, program chairman, arranged for a showing of the Southwest Conference highlight films.

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) called a meeting of his Senate investigations subcommittee today and said moves to curb or surrender part of its Red-hunting powers "may be discussed."

He has described as "a lie" published reports that he has agreed, under urging from Eisenhower administration officials, to switch emphasis in his group's investigations from communism to other fields.

The main objective of today's closed door meeting, he said, is to act on his own requests for contempt of Congress citations against three hally witnesses in his recent investigations of alleged spying at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

He named the three as Corliss Lamont, wealthy New York writer; Albert Shawdowitz, who McCarthy said, refused to answer questions with the explanation that Dr. Albert Einstein had advised him not to cooperate with the subcommittee; and Abraham Unger, a New York City lawyer. McCarthy said Lamont refused to answer questions, and refused to cite in justification the Constitution's guarantee against self-incrimination. He said Unger "conducted a filibuster."

Flexible Farm Price Support Plan Outlined

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today outlined a farm program built on the principle of controversial flexible price supports, but freed of price-depressing effects of present crop surpluses.

Under such a plan, government price guarantees would be high in times of shortages to encourage production, and low in times of surpluses to encourage consumption and discourage over-production.

It would replace present war-born mandatory high level supports scheduled to expire at the end of the 1954 crop year.

In his message on the State of the Union, Eisenhower said, however, that present farm surpluses—totaling more than five billion dollars—should be "insulated" from the normal markets for "special uses."

Such sequestering of surpluses would permit a shift to the flexible support plan in 1955 with price supports continuing at least one full crop year at the present 90 per cent of parity levels for basic commodities.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices, declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay.

Some farm leaders in Congress have objected to use of flexible supports next year on the ground that present surpluses would pull price guarantees for crops like cotton and wheat possibly as low as 75 percent of parity next year.

The administration suggestion that the present surpluses be insulated from market supplies would allow a gradual lowering of price supports if future production tended to provide supplies in excess of normal needs.

The president said he would send his detailed farm recommendations to Congress on Monday.

He said the present farm programs had accomplished their wartime purpose of encouraging needed production. But in the post-war period, he said, they had piled up huge surpluses.

He said the nation faces two alternatives on a farm program: (1) use of rigid production controls or (2) use of a program that would permit the market price for farm products "gradually to have a greater influence on the planning of production by farmers, while continuing the assistance of the government."

The latter, "he said, "is a sound approach."

The president said new programs should provide for a gradual transition to a "modern" formula for determining parity prices.

Court Will Not Oust Judge Now

AUSTIN (AP)—The Supreme Court of Texas today refused to order immediate suspension of 79th District Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of Alice prior to a decision on removing him from office.

Suspension "without further notice" had been sought in the high court yesterday by the same 11 attorneys who had brought earlier court action to remove Laughlin from office.

The Supreme Court's overruling of the motion was without written opinion. It followed a brief early-morning conference of the appellate judges.

The petitioning attorneys had contended suspension pending the court's final decision on whether to remove Laughlin is authorized by the state constitution.

Such action, they added, would protect the people of the 79th Judicial District against possible continued practice of the acts for which the attorneys think Laughlin should be ousted from office.

Counties in the district are Jim Wells, Duval, Brooks, and Starr.

The 11 attorneys said suspension of Laughlin is justified by four findings of District Judge D. B. Wood, who was appointed by the Supreme Court as master to hear testimony during the month-long removal hearing last summer.

Those findings, they said, were the following:

1. That Laughlin showed partiality toward certain individuals or groups on several occasions.

2. Laughlin's acts constituted official misconduct on his part as district judge.

3. Laughlin's acts constituted a portrayal of such habits and conduct on his part as to render him unfit to hold the judgeship.

President Assures Congress New Tax Cuts Are In Offing

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today new tax cuts "can and will be made" as spending is cut and he told Congress America's defense plans are geared to the use of atomic weapons "if they are needed to preserve our freedom."

The President, in his State of the Union message, outlined a program he said would build the military might of the United States, bolster other free nations against communism, and maintain a healthy economy at home.

Proclaiming encouraging developments in the struggle for global peace, Eisenhower said in a 7,000-word address prepared for a joint session of the House and Senate:

"Slowly but surely, the free world gathers strength. Meanwhile from behind the Iron Curtain, there are signs that tyranny is in trouble and reminders that its structure is as brittle as its surface is hard."

In his address to an election year Congress almost evenly divided politically, the President also:

—Predicted a Federal spending budget of about $66,600,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1—about 13 billion dollars less than the original Truman administration budget for the current year.

—Called for legislation to strip U. S. citizenship from Communists convicted of conspiring against the government in the future.

—Disclosed that more than 2,300 employees now have been separated from Federal jobs under the Eisenhower administration's new security program. The previous total announced last Oct. 23 was 1,456.

—Sketched plans to combat any business recession or depression, but again declared the nation's economy is basically sound, and said his administration is determined "to keep it growing."

—Recommended a Constitutional amendment to give American youths the right to vote at 18 years of age instead of 21.

—Declared foreign military aid must be continued but that economic aid can be cut except in Korea "and a few other critical places."

—Confirmed that the special farm message he will send to Congress Monday will call for a new government price support program "with enough flexibility to attract the production of needed supplies of essential commodities and to stimulate the consumption of those commodities that are flooding American markets."

His support of a flexible price support program was certain to divide farmers as well as Congress members.

—Renewed his appeal for an increase in the federal debt ceiling now 275 billion dollars. The House approved his request for a 15-billion-dollar hike last August, but the Senate Finance Committee rejected it.

—Urged amendment of the Atomic Energy Act to permit sharing with "our allies certain knowledge of the tactical use of our nuclear weapons."

—Announced that during the next fiscal year the U. S. will spend nearly a billion dollars more for continental defense than during the current year.

—Called again for expansion of the social security program to cover 10 million more Americans and for a substantial increase in benefits.

—Urged extension of unemployment compensation to 6½ million workers not now covered.

—Described the controversial Taft-Hartley Labor Law as "basically sound" but in need of improvements he will recommend in a special message Monday.

—Advocated a system of "limited government reinsurance service" to permit private and nonprofit hospital and medical insurance companies now operating to offer "broader protection to more of the many families which want and should have it." He promised to elaborate in a special message Jan. 18.

—Appealed again for Congressional approval of the St. Lawrence Seaway as vital to national security.

—Urged Senate passage of the House-approved bill to grant statehood to Hawaii.

Eisenhower went before the legislators just 24 hours after opening of the second session of the 83rd Congress.

MESSAGE AIRED
His message carried to the nation by television and radio came at the start of a political year which will be climaxed by the November Congressional elections.

Republicans now hold only a slight margin of control at the Capitol and the Democrats are hopeful they can slip into the saddle. Meanwhile the administration must win some degree of support from the Democrats for any success in putting through the program Eisenhower said has one objective: "The building of a stronger America."

He told the legislators he believes "both of our great parties" can back it.

As for tax cuts in addition to the income tax reductions and expiration of the excess profits levy which were effective Jan. 1, the President said:

"Future reductions in taxes can and will be made."

But he conditioned reductions on the spending cuts he predicted. At another point he declared:

"Despite the substantial loss of revenue in the coming fiscal year, resulting from (Jan. 1) tax reduction now in effect and tax adjustments which I shall propose, our reduced spending will move the new budget closer to a balance."

The president said the tax revision program will be set forth in detail in his Jan. 21 budget message. Informed sources have predicted cuts totaling about 1½ billion dollars annually.

Calling today for a thorough review.

Senate Panel Okays Cotton Acreage Hike

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill hiking the 1954 national cotton acreage allotment to 21,379,274 acres was approved today by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Chairman Aiken (R-Vt.) said the measure will be rushed to the Senate for consideration Monday and that it will be substituted on the floor of the Senate floor for a measure passed last year by the House.

This would have the effect of sending the measure to a House-Senate conference committee as soon as the Senate acts.

The bill provides for a base acreage of 21 million acres, plus 315,000 acres as a national reserve, 59,374 acres to California and Arizona to keep them from being cut more than 34 per cent from their 1952 cotton acreages and 4,900 additional acres to Florida to meet special hardship cases.

It also provides, in effect, that an individual farm allotment may be the higher of (1) 65 per cent of the average planted to cotton the past three years or (2) 40 per cent of the highest area planted to cotton in any one of those years. However, no cotton allotment can be higher than 50 per cent of the total cropland in the farm.

Under another provision a farmer who doesn't use any or all of his allotment this year may surrender the unused portion to the county committee for re-allocation in the county. County committees likewise may surrender unused allocations to the state committees.

Commissioners Still Study Right-Of-Way

County commissioners continued their conferences today with owners of property from which right-of-way must be secured for widening and opening Fourth Street outside the city limits.

J. C. Roberts, district highway engineer; Clarence Res, resident engineer; and commissioners Wednesday discussed individual problems with several property owners. Members of the commission today said they believe trades can be made with virtually all affected property owners for the necessary right-of-way.

TIME NOT SET

Reds Agree To A-Pool Parley

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia were agreed today on starting preliminary atom-for-peace talks in Washington, but the important question of timing was still up in the air.

The Soviets announced the agreement last night in Moscow and the State Department quickly confirmed it.

Russia said its ambassador in Washington, Georgi M. Zarinin, would represent it at the talks to set a time, place and subject matter for full scale negotiations. No date was mentioned.

The State Department, within an hour, announced Secretary Dulles would "proceed at an early date to have the procedural conversations."

That was another goal to the Soviets to get the talks going. Time is short for Dulles, who is expected to leave two weeks from today for Berlin and the Foreign Ministers Conference there Jan. 25 among the United States, Russia, Britain and France.

Dulles has been pressing for early negotiations ever since President Eisenhower proposed, in his Dec. 8 address to the United Nations, that the world unite to strip the atom of "its military casing and adapt it to the arts of peace."

Under the Eisenhower plan, atomic materials and know-how would be pooled for peaceful purposes by the United States, Russia and other nations with a contribu-

MOD Heads Are Prepared

Organizations go to work Saturday for the March of Dimes.

The first of a series of four weekly street solicitations on Saturdays—scheduled this week, when members of the Senior Tri-Hi-Y take over downtown posts to encourage gifts to help conquer polio.

The Tri-Hi-Y group, led by Ann Gray, will be working under direction of Mrs. Robert Stripling. They will be on duty from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. to ask for "dimes."

Central operational point will be in front of Zale's Jewelry, where an "iron lung" will be on display. A public address system will be used in solicitation, and members of the Lions Club are to help man the microphone.

Mrs. Zollie Boykin is in charge of the Saturday solicitations. Since the public is not being generally canvassed in the business district for special gifts, MOD leaders are hopeful that the volunteer donations will be numerous and generous.

City Firemen Get Simultaneous Calls
Big Spring firemen found themselves fairly busy around noon Wednesday when two fires were reported simultaneously.

One was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan A. Ivey, 1805 Young. Firemen said the blaze was caused by the wall furnace, and that damage was centered on the wall.

The other fire was in a trailer house on a lot off West Highway 80. Firemen said the trailer was damaged slightly, and that the fire was started by children playing with matches.

Store Window Shot
Police received a report this morning that someone had shot a plate glass window at J. C. Penney Company with a BB gun.

Mrs. O. T. Mullins also reported that a dog belonging to Franklin and Ronald Mullins, who reside at Edie Homes, was poisoned Tuesday morning and died Tuesday evening.

PRESIDENT

vision of the entire tax structure, Eisenhower declared. "We should now remove the more glaring tax inequities, particularly on small taxpayers; reduce restraints on the growth of small business; and make other changes that will encourage initiative, enterprise and production."

On the other side of the picture, however, the President said again that corporation income taxes should be kept at the current rate of 52 per cent for another year instead of being allowed to drop to 47 and that excise taxes on such items as liquor, tobacco, gasoline and automobiles—also scheduled for an April 1 cut—should be maintained at prevailing rates.

INITIATIVE GAINED On the foreign policy and national defense fronts, where Eisenhower already has made an open bid for cooperation from the Democrats, he said America has gained the initiative during the last year in the struggle against communism—and means to keep it.

"American freedom," he declared, "is threatened so long as the world Communist conspiracy exists in its present scope, power and hostility." Referring to his Dec. 8 United Nations speech calling on Russia to join with the U. S. and other atomic powers in creation of an international atomic pool for peaceful use, the President said: "A truly constructive Soviet reaction will make possible a new start toward an era of peace, and away from the fatal road toward atomic war."

In his prepared text, Eisenhower took no note of Moscow's announcement last night of willingness to join the United States in discussion of the President's proposal in Washington.

Today's message was in three main sections dealing with protection of "the freedom of our people," maintenance of a strong, growing economy, and "the human problems of the individual citizen." In the first section the President reviewed the world situation and found it encouraging. He said the United States is prepared to meet any renewal of armed aggression in Korea that American bases in Okinawa will be maintained indefinitely, and that he will ask Congress to authorize "continued military assistance" to Indochina.

"We also shall continue military and economic aid to the Nationalist government of China," he said. The President again stressed the desirability of bringing the European Defense Army into being.

AIMED AT COMMIES Eisenhower's demand that convicted conspirators against the government forfeit their U. S. citizenship was aimed squarely at the Communists. "The subversive character of the Communist party in the United States has been clearly demonstrated in many ways, including court proceedings," he said. The President said Atty. Gen. Brownell soon will go before Congressional committees to recommend "needed additional weapons with which to combat subversion."

Sgt. Morehead Is Back From Korea

Sgt. Jimmy L. Morehead, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Morehead, was to have landed in the United States this morning after having been stationed in Korea for the past year. Morehead's parents said this morning that they have not heard from their son concerning his arrival here, but a radio report today listed him as being among those scheduled to dock at 10:15 a.m. in Seattle.

Mrs. Morehead said her son wrote that he expected to sail from Korea around Christmas, which would make the arrival date about right.

Sgt. Morehead has been overseas since Dec. 1, 1952, and has served in the medical corps in Prisoner of War camps. He was inducted into the service on Jan. 15, 1952. His wife, Charlie, and 19-month-old daughter Janet Lee reside at 811 East 14th Street. Before entering the Army, Sgt. Morehead was a student at Baylor University in Waco.

Arrest cards filed out on the latter two indicate that the vehicle driver will be charged with carrying a gun in his car. The other is accused of permitting the car to be operated unlawfully.

Wilson, who also told authorities his name is Johnny Springer, was to go before Justice of the Peace Cecil Nabors this afternoon for examining trial. He was brought to Big Spring Wednesday from Sierra Blanca by Deputy Sheriff Miller Harris.

The accused this morning told District Attorney Elton Gilliland that a man with whom he had become acquainted in El Paso had loaned him a car. He said he was arrested while in possession of the machine.

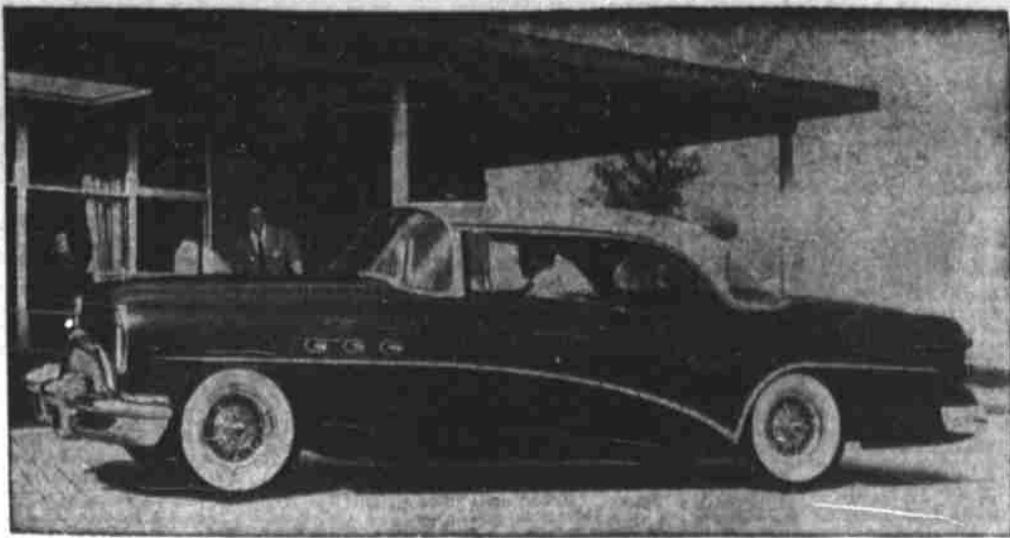

Tate reported theft of his car last Monday night.

Buick Riviera An Eye-Catcher

The rakish sports car styling of Buick's Super Riviera sedan makes it among the automotive beauties for 1954. It features the new panoramic windshield, a cut-down door belt line, full rear wheel cutout and refined sweeppear molding. This car is mounted on 127-inch wheelbase and is powered by a 182-horsepower V-8 engine. Wire wheels are optional. The entire new Buick line goes on display Friday, and new models will be seen at McEwen Motor Co., 403 Scurry.

TO BE SHOWN HERE FRIDAY

Revolutionary Style Changes Mark New Buick Cars For '54

Buick on Friday is presenting a completely new line of automobiles for 1954, studded with revolutionary styling changes. The new line will be unveiled locally at McEwen Motor Co., 403 Scurry.

The new Buicks come in four series with all new, roomier bodies, beautiful new exterior and interior styling, longer wheelbases, panoramic windshields that permit up to 19 per cent more visibility, and more powerful and efficient V-8 engines.

The Special Series makes its debut in the V-8 class in 1954 with a brand new 150-horsepower engine modeled after the valve-in-head V-8 introduced in the Roadmaster and Super Series last year.

Horsepower in both the Roadmaster and Super Series has been increased, with the Roadmaster boosted from 188 to 200, and the Super from 170 to 182.

New also to the Buick line for 1954 is the Century Series, designed to sell in the price range between the Special and Super. The Century, which features a 200-horsepower Roadmaster engine mounted on a 122-inch wheelbase, has a very high power-to-weight ratio.

Among the outstanding styling features are the new panoramic windshield, full rear wheel fender openings and sloping door line on all two-door Rivieras and convertibles, built-in sun visor and rain cove on four-door sedans in the Roadmaster and Super Series, new high crown front fenders which permit the driver to see the right fender at all times, and new instrument panel.

The new V-8 engine in the Special Series, new combustion chamber design which increases power and economy, new power brakes, new front end suspension which improves steering and provides better cornering ability, and cowl ventilation are among the top engineering advancements made in the 1954 models.

A finer, more artistic use of chrome trim is evident throughout the entire 1954 line. The sweeppear molding, so closely identified with Buick, has been resyled along the lines of last year's Skylark sports convertible.

The new panoramic windshield, which has up to 14 square inches more glass area, eliminates the traditional rearward sloping front body posts. These posts have been relocated about six inches back of the leading edge of the front door. On the Roadmaster and Super Series the front body posts are in a vertical position. On the Century and Special they have a reverse slant. This permits much greater visibility of cross street traffic with a resultant increase in safety.

A distinctive sports car flair has been given all two-door Rivieras and convertibles in the 1954 Buick line by slanting the door-belt line and opening the rear fender to fully reveal the rear wheels, similar to last year's Skylark styling. To add an additional sports car touch, wire wheels are offered as optional equipment on all series except the Special.

Interior styling has been enhanced by a new, double roll instrument panel, similar to the one

Americans, South Koreans Have Apparently Settled POW Rift

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
SEOUL (AP)—American and South Korean leaders meeting separately today apparently settled—at least temporarily—a rift on the tense problem of disposing of prisoners of war.

South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai dropped his threat of violence to free more than 23,000 unrepatriated prisoners of war while "new (Allied) arrangements" are tested.

Meanwhile the Communists failed to answer a repatriation commission request for their views on what to do with the prisoners after Jan. 22, the date set by the armistice for freeing them as civilians.

The U. N. replied earlier that they should be released according to treaty terms. There was no indication that the Communists would change their all-out opposition to the release before a Korean political conference meets.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th Army commander, flew to Tokyo for conferences with Gen. John E. Hill, U. N. commander.

An official spokesman said the two generals were "smoothing out a number of prisoner details and trying up some loose ends."

The spokesman added: "When you are dealing with different countries and peoples there are always loose ends to be tied up."

On Buick's experimental Wildcat. A new speedometer, unique in the entire industry, is featured on the Roadmaster and Super Series. The new speedometer consists of a red line that moves horizontally across a scale graduated from 0 to 120 miles per hour.

New styling also is featured throughout the interior with many new combinations of colors in nylon, brocade, cordaveen and leather.

The new V-8 engine in the Special has the same overall dimensions as the V-8 in the Roadmaster and Super. This permits the interchangeability of numerous parts to simplify servicing and maintenance.

The Special V-8 has a 264 cubic inch displacement and an 8.1-to-1 compression ratio in Dynaflow-equipped cars. In cars equipped with standard transmission the compression ratio is 7.5-to-1.

Pyun threatened Tuesday to invade the Indian custodial troops in the Korean neutral zone.

Taylor issued a cold, brief statement at Seoul Wednesday night that 8th Army troops were pledged to protect Indian troops against an attack.

Pyun had threatened to attack the Indians because of a roster check or headcount of anti-Communist prisoners, during which 135 POWs asked and were granted repatriation to Red China.

President Syngman Rhee met with Cabinet officers Thursday to consider the Taylor statement and afterwards Pyun said in an interview:

"We are now making new arrangements as a test and if the arrangements pass the test we do not have to use force against the Indians."

The arrangements, he said, were between Rhee and Taylor.

Pyun denied earlier rumors in Seoul that he had resigned his post after the Taylor rebuke.

Taylor's troops have erected barbed wire and steel barricades south of the demilitarized zone to handle anti-Red prisoners of war when they are freed.

The U. N. has insisted that the armistice calls for unqualified release of prisoners after midnight Jan. 22.

Korean POWs would be kept in South Korea. U. S. ships would take anti-Red Chinese to Formosa.

PANAMA, Panama (AP)—Six men were killed and eight injured in the flaming crash of a U. S. Navy photographic plane in a jungle area near the Trans-Isthmian Highway last night.

The four-engine plane was bringing a photo reconnaissance platoon to the Canal Zone area from Miramar, Calif.

Capt. William A. Thorn, commanding officer at the Coco Solo Naval Base, announced the casualties. Thorn said it appeared the plane had undershot by 2 1/2 miles its destination—France Air Force Base near Colon, on the Caribbean side of the Isthmus.

He said Levi Anderson and James Hyatt, two farmers living near the crash area, did "heroic service" in dragging several of the injured men to safety from the flaming wreckage. The survivors were taken to Coco Solo Naval Hospital with severe burns.

Names of the casualties were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

State GOP Still Urges Cross-Filing

DALLAS (AP)—Texas Republicans are still urging "conservative" Democrats to file in the 1954 GOP primary—although a Democratic leader says such filing is not legal.

Republican National Committee Chairman Jack Porter of Houston said here yesterday, "any conservative Democratic candidate is welcome to file on the Republican ticket."

The invitation was first issued last month in a resolution by the GOP state committee at Austin.

That prompted State Democratic Chairman Wallace Savage of Dallas to declare he thinks Democrats cannot legally become candidates in the Republican primaries.

Porter, in Dallas for a meeting of the Republican headquarters committee, said it's still his party's position that candidates may file in both primaries.

The committee will send out questionnaires to Republican leaders in each of Texas' 254 counties to determine their plans for a primary election, Porter reported.

"We are making preparations to carry on a campaign for a primary election for every possible county," he said.

At the session, state GOP leaders talked finances and made plans for a Lincoln Day dinner here at which Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) has been invited to speak.

Three Sentenced In Martin Cases

STANTON (SC)—Three defendants indicted for felonies at the present term of the Martin District Court entered pleas of guilty Wednesday and were sentenced by Judge Charlie Sullivan.

Wayne Earl Coffee, charged with robbery of the Burger Buggy Cafe west of here, was sentenced to five years; Ray Willard Murry, charged with burglary was given a five year suspended sentence, and Charles Edward Clark, indicted for forgery was sentenced to serve three years in the penitentiary, with this sentence to run concurrently with a sentence he is now serving.

Judge Sullivan set three more felony cases for trial Jan. 18. These are William Johns and Irvin Ross, both from California and both charged with a safe burglary at the Billington Motor Co., and Benjie Joe James, who was indicted with Coffee who was sentenced Wednesday. James is also indicted for the Burger Buggy robbery.

Both James and Ross have been indicted under the habitual criminal act, according to District Attorney Elton Gilliland.

While being arraigned Wednesday Johns indicated in open court that he might plead guilty when his case is called for trial.

It is estimated that the islands of the earth include about four million square miles.

Mrs. Ebright boarded a suburban bus at Holt, Mich., to come to Lansing. She was to meet her daughter, Mrs. Nettie Wood, 54, at Lansing's Main Street intersection.

Mrs. Wood was waiting on the curb when the bus discharged its passengers. When her mother did not appear, Mrs. Wood boarded the bus and found Mrs. Ebright dead in her seat.

Coroner Harry E. Leadley said she had died of a heart attack.

Mary Margaret McBRIDE SAYS

We literally stirred up a tempest in a teapot when we started that campaign to have hot dishes hot, cold dishes cold and tea, coffee and other comestibles served as they should be in public eating places.

So far eaters have done the complaining here, but now come blasts from the other side of the counter.

"The average human being will wait for his train, his bus, his birthday, even for love, but when he is hungry, he is the most impatient and unreasonable animal alive," complains restaurant worker Evelyn Brens of Mount Vernon, N. Y.

"Many diners want Waldorf-Astoria service but Bowery prices. A waitress is expected to greet them with a Sir and bow and recite everything on the bill of fare orally in spite of the fact it is written there on the menu in black and white."

Miss Brens also goes after the diner who looks up into the waitress' face and asks fabulously, "Is this roast beef good today?"

"Just what is a waitress supposed to reply to that?" demands Evelyn scornfully.

Also on her black list are diners with regal complexes who barely grunt a greeting, snarl about food and service, and leave a dime tip.

On top of this is an editorial from the Hotel World-Review, trade paper of public eating places, cautiously commenting upon our campaign and counter-charging that diners go on arguing or reading their newspapers while hot food turns to cold, cold to tepid.

"And at luncheons and banquets especially," adds Dick Huntington, executive editor of the Review, "they refuse to sit down at the time they are supposed to, and as a result, the wonderful food the chef has prepared so carefully sits on plates in an oven or on a steam table and gradually spoils. It is the guest's own fault if the food is not perfect when he has kept the entire kitchen and dining room staff waiting for a half hour or more."

Editor Huntington obviously tried to be fair. He even reminded me that I might have added to my list of gripes ice cream served on plates so hot that it melts before the waiter can get it to the table.

Maybe after this we'll begin recruiting hotel and restaurant staffs as well as consumers and try to bring about not only better food, better served, but politer, more understanding patrons. Could be that, united, we'll turn all the country's eating places into gourmet heavens with everybody on both sides of the counter happy.

She Has Perfume Tricks

Anne Kimbell, popular Allied Artists star who is featured in "The Golden Idol," passes on some useful tricks for the use of perfume.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

One's Own Fragrance Can Be A 'Trademark'

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Anne Kimbell is coming up fast in Hollywood. Her bosses at Allied Artists studio have plans which they anticipate will lead her to top stardom.

I was in Anne's dressing room the other day and just before she went out to face the camera I noticed she sprayed her hair with perfume.

When she returned we chatted about this. Anne explained that perfume sprayed in the hair was an effective way to use a pleasing scent.

"Do you wear one scent all the time?" I asked.

"No, I don't," she said. "But if I ever found a perfume I liked well enough I think I would wear it all the time. There is something glamorous about having everything you wear give off the same fragrance—the scent can develop as sort of a trademark. Just as you know beforehand how a rose is going to smell, so this particular fragrance would become identified with your personality and even when you were not around your friends would think of you whenever they smelled it."

"But at the moment I am having too much fun becoming acquainted with all of the different scents," Anne added. "And I'm developing my sense of smell. I mean you can educate your nose so that you improve your taste in perfume."

"That's good advice," I said. "It is so easy to be fooled by a fancy bottle. Perfume should not be bought with your eyes."

"I have some friends who collect perfume but it seems a silly thing because it spoils when exposed to the light," Anne commented. "After all, perfume is created to be worn, not to be looked at."

I mentioned that perfume always makes a nice gift.

"Yes, it does," Anne agreed. "But if I am given a new scent, before I open it I buy a purse size bottle and wear it to see how I like it and what other people think of it."

"If I get a lot of compliments, then I know this is not only a lasting scent but one which other people enjoy," Anne added. "But if I wear it and no one remarks about it then I exchange the bottle for one of my old favorites."

I had to agree that Anne's advice was sound.

CAROL LANE

Authority On Travel To Talk Tonight

"A mystery box" is not something out of a magician's show—at least, that's not the way Carol Lane, travel director for Shell Oil Co., defines it.

It's one of many tips she has for keeping children happy and entertained on long motor trips—and, incidentally, making traveling a lot easier on the children's parents.

Miss Lane will speak here at the Settles Hotel ballroom Thursday at 7:30 p.m. under the auspices of the Altruza Club. The public is invited to attend the talk, for which there will be no admission charge. A tea will be held preceding it. Her subject will be "An Open Mind for the Open Road."

The mystery box is simply a colorfully covered box containing toys, games and puzzles, which can be taken out for the child at intervals during the trip to prevent boredom.

Miss Lane's tips for travelers with children also include how to handle laundry and what pieces of equipment are especially useful for making a trip more comfortable.

Civil Defense Is Dramatized For P-TA

Vaughn, Mrs. Bill Griese and Mrs. A. C. LaCroix. The Mothers' March on Polio is set for Jan. 29, 7-8 p.m. Everyone will be asked to turn on his porch light or put a light in the window if he wishes to donate to the March of Dimes.

Mrs. E. A. Davis of Del Rio, whose daughter is a polio patient, will talk at a meeting Jan. 14 at 10 a.m. at Howard County Junior College on polio and the March of Dimes.

Pupils of Central Ward will present "Peter Rabbit," a play, Feb. 12 at the Senior High School Auditorium. It was announced. A P-TA membership of more than 1,600 in Big Spring was reported.

Mrs. Elvia McCrary, Mrs. Jack Irons and Mrs. J. H. Hanson were appointed to the by-laws committee. The importance of everyone paying his poll tax was emphasized.

Mrs. Dora Wragg of Fort Worth was a guest. Seventeen attended.

Drapery Valance Peep-Holes Are Charming Fabric Frames

Why not put some windows in your drapery valances? These little peep-holes in the valance board provide charming frames for drapery fabric.

Before having your board cut, sewing center experts suggest cutting a paper pattern the exact window width desired plus the corner returns at each end. That way you can try different depths and proportions. Valances are usually from one-eighth to one-sixteenth the length of the drapes.

Line the valance material and draperies with a solid color coordinated to room furnishings to that a quick change-over in decor may be achieved by reversing the pieces.

The valance is the width of the window plus 1 inch for seam allowance. Allow three times depth of valance board plus one-half inch seams for pleated valance. Lining is cut to the same size.

Stitch material and lining right sides together leaving one end open 8 or 10 inches. Turn to right side and press. Slip-stitch section left open.

To lay valance pleats work from top, making each pleat about 2 inches deep. The second pleat overlaps the first one, about three-fourths its depth. The third pleat overlaps the second and so on until the entire piece is pleated. Stitch across each end to hold pleats.

Reversible draperies involve little more yardage and sewing time than simple drapery lining but there is a slight difference in the making of the draperies. Here are suggestions recommended by sewing centers:

To measure the width of a pair of draw draperies, measure your window from jamb to jamb. Then allow the window width plus one-half for the pair of draperies. Measure the length of window from the curtain fixture to sill or floor (depending upon desired length). Add to the length measurement 1 inch for rod, 2 inches for heading and 6 inches for top and bottom hems. Cut reversible side to identical measurements.

Make heading using crinoline backing for both drapery and lining. Place right sides of drapery and lining materials together and pin lengthwise edges together with pins across seams. Stitch both edges together from top down. Clip seam edges every three or four inches to prevent drawing and press. Before completing draperies make pleats at top of draperies and also at top of lining. Finish heading by slip-stitching across the top to join the two draperies and also reinforce them by tacking lining to draperies just below crinoline.

Let your draperies hang two or three days before putting in lower hems, to allow for any give in the material.

THE GRUB LINE
With Franklin Reynolds

Martin County's first baby of the New Year is Marvin Standefor Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Standefor of Lenorah.

This makes the baby a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Standefor, Lenorah merchants.

Congratulations, folks.

Another Martin County candidate has announced. She is Mrs. Doris Stephenson, county and district clerk, who is seeking her second term in that office.

The word around Stanton is that all four of the commissioners are expected to seek re-election.

Bobby Carille and Malcolm Tunnel have been named general superintendents of the annual Martin County Junior Livestock Show and Sale scheduled for Jan. 21-22 at the Martin County Show Barn in Stanton.

The capons will be judged at 1 p.m. Thursday; the broilers at 2:30 p.m., and the sheep at 3:30 p.m.

The swine and steers will be judged Friday morning, with the sale starting promptly at 2 p.m. that afternoon. The auctioneer will be W. J. (Jay) Poyner, an insurance man from Odessa.

Thirteen lambs will be exhibited but only 10 of them will be sold. There will be from 25 to 30 pigs in the show, and about 250 capons and broilers, but not all these will be offered in the auction, however.

Each FFA or 4-H exhibitor may sell two lambs or two pigs. None of the steers will be sold. Only the top 20 capons in the single class and the top five pens in the trio class will be sold. Only the top 25 groups of five broilers will be offered to bidders, but each exhibitor may show two groups of broilers.

Department superintendents (all 4-H or FFA members) will be: Steer department: Jerry Cave and Juggy Britton.

Swine department: John Paul Cave and Chalmer Wren. Poultry department: Glenn Greenlee and Daytho Madison.

Sheep department: Vernon Holcomb and Kenneth Carmichael.

The show is being sponsored by the Martin County Chamber of Commerce and assisted by the boys with the event will be County Agent Ray Hastings and the following vocational agriculture instructors: Elbert Steele of Stanton High School; Robert Becker of Flower Grove High School, and Kenneth Noles of Courtney High School.

L. M. Hargrave, associate professor of animal husbandry at Texas Tech will judge the steers and hogs; Dub Day, county agent at Rankin, will judge the sheep, and Marvin Weber, poultry specialist with the Power Feeds of Abilene, will judge the capons and broilers.

Martin County 4-H Clubbers are taking four calves to the Fort Worth show, Jan. 29 through Feb. 7. Bobby Kelly, Sandra Kelly and John Paul Cave are taking one calf each, and the club is taking its calf—the one that Bobby Sale showed to the reserve championship at the Texas State Fair. There, this steer was bought by the Southland Life Insurance Co., and given to the Martin County 4-H Club of which Bobby is a very active member. The club hopes to win another championship with this steer, bred by Bobby's father, J. C. Sale. If they do they will sell him and use

Dairymen Avoid Own Product At Luncheon

WORCESTER Mass. (U)—Joseph T. Brown, Plymouth County agricultural agent, gave dairy farmers a hint last night on how they could help reduce milk surpluses.

Addressing the 37th annual union agricultural meeting, he said:

"The dairy farmers could help by drinking a little more milk. I couldn't help noticing that there was no milk served at the Purebred Dairy Assn. luncheon today."

Laniel Is Given New Lease Upon Office In France

PARIS (U)—Premier Joseph Laniel and his Cabinet ministers had a new lease on their shaky offices today. They are due to hang on to them at least until after the Berlin Big Four conference of foreign ministers.

France's badly split National Assembly got together last night to give Laniel a 319-249 endorsement so Foreign Minister Georges Bidault could go to Berlin Jan. 25 as spokesman for a real government.

Laniel who said he would resign if the vote went against him or wasn't big enough for him had been expected to get the Assembly approval. But the size of the endorsement—five more than a majority of the chamber's 627 seats—surprised most observers. The Assembly had sent the Premier to meet President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill at Bermuda with only a 275-244 endorsement.

Laniel reviewed his domestic policies at length and his foreign policies briefly before the Assembly yesterday, then called for the decisive vote on a procedural motion to postpone debate on his speech. Most of the ballots against the Premier came from the Communists, who oppose his whole program, and the Socialists, who are against his conservative domestic policies.

Laniel normally would have resigned in accordance with French custom after President-elect Rene Coty takes office Jan. 17. With the Big Four Conference due to open only eight days later, he feared a prolonged government crisis then, which would have left France with only a caretaker Premier to send to Berlin.

In his policy review, the Premier gave no indication of what position Bidault would take in Berlin on the No. 1 item of discussion the future of Germany.

Mrs. Luce Warns Italian Reds Slowly Gaining Power

WASHINGTON (U)—Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce has cautioned top officials here there is new danger in Italy of slowly rising Communist strength, it was learned today.

Mrs. Luce, who conferred yesterday with President Eisenhower, is reported to be urging continued American economic and military aid to Italy to bolster its pro-Western government.

Neither Mrs. Luce nor the Presdent, reliable sources said, believes there is any imminent threat that Italy's already powerful Communist party can seize power.

The ambassador is confident, it is said, that the current political crisis caused by Italian Premier Giuseppe Pella's resignation can be solved quickly without playing into Communist hands.

However, she is reported concerned about the long range threat posed to Italian democracy by the new, non-violent tactics adopted by Italy's Reds.

By exploiting Italy's serious unemployment problem and pressuring non-Communist unions to cooperate in strikes, the Red leaders are reported to have gained added influence and prestige in Italy during the past year.

This opens up the grim possibility, she is said to fear, that the Communists might actually be able to take over the country in a year or two if there is an unexpected worsening of Italy's economic and political plight.

As a demonstration of American support for Italy's present government, the State Department late yesterday announced it was drafting "a substantial program" of defense orders for Italian factories as well as a plan for limited economic aid.

Mrs. Luce has reported during her round of conferences here that Russia is pouring millions of dollars into Italy to back up its dream of turning it into a Communist state.

Texas Cutie Cotton Maid

MENPHIS, Tenn. (U)—A demure Texas college lass won the annual Maid of Cotton contest last night, topping 19 other beauties from the 12-state "Cotton Kingdom."

The new maid is Beverly Louise Pack of El Paso, a junior and "most beautiful girl" at Texas Western. She's the third Lone Star State entry to win the title in the past four years.

The blue-eyed brunette, who hopes to teach modern dance after graduation, was visibly shocked by the judges' announcement. "I just don't know what to say," cried the willowy 20-year-old.

Alabama's Hope White, of Uniontown, was chosen first alternate. And Missouri's Martha Garner, of Poplar Bluff, No. 3.

Miss Pack stands 5 feet 5 1/2, weighs 118. More intimate measurements are not made public in this sedate contest, which crowns on such standard procedures as swim suit parades.

The winner is chosen for beauty, poise, personality and family background—in more or less equal parts.

Her prize: A wardrobe especially designed by top names in the fashion field, a six-month tour of the United States, England, France and Germany, and a convertible auto.

The tour starts as soon as Miss Pack is outfitted in New York and completes a "cram course" in modeling technique. She'll leave for New York in a couple of days.

She's sure it will be great fun. "I'll love every minute of it," she said. "It's like something you dream of."

Mrs. Batchelor Hears From Son

CHICAGO (U)—Mrs. O. L. Batchelor of Kermit, Tex., visiting in Chicago yesterday received the first word from her son, Cpl. Claude J., who on Jan. 1 let a group of Communist sympathizers in a Korean prisoner of war camp.

Mrs. Batchelor said her husband had telephoned that her son had sent a cablegram. "He told us he had returned at last from behind the Bamboo Curtain and was happy and feeling much better," Mrs. Batchelor said. "He said he was looking forward to seeing us real soon."

Cpl. Batchelor is in Tokyo with his Japanese wife, Kyoko.

One-Time Train Robber Celebrates 50-Year Wedlock

TARZANA, Calif. (U)—Reformed bank and train robber Al Jennings and his wife have just celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Al is 60, his wife Maude, 73.

Jennings was leader of a gang that looted trains and banks in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas and Kansas in the '30s but one of his robberies failed and he and his gang were arrested. President McKinley reduced Jennings' life sentence and President Theodore Roosevelt later pardoned him and restored his civil rights.

Jennings often has said that he has been at odds with the law, but never with his wife, whom he met after his release from prison.

"I never was afraid of Al," she told newsmen. "He was the cutest thing, when I married him, and he still is."

The '54 BUICK's got it—
The BIG CHANGE you've been hoping for!

THE instant you see these 1954 Buicks, you'll know that something sensational has happened in automobile styling.

Here is vastly more than the usual model changeover. Here is vastly more than could be done just by warming over what Buick had before. Here is something accomplished by going far beyond artful face-lifting.

Here is that rarity of rarities—a completely new line of automobiles.

But Buick didn't stop with the bolder, fresher, swifter-lined beauty you see in raised and lengthened fender sweep—in the huge and back-swept expanse of windshield—in the lowered roofline—in the host more glamor features of exterior modernity.

They upped all horsepower to the highest in Buick history.

They engineered a new V8 for the SPECIAL—and in the process came up with new Power-Head Pistons that boost gasoline mileage in every engine.

They brought to market a sparkling newcomer with a famous name, the Buick CENTURY—a car with phenomenal horsepower for its weight and price—a car with more pure thrill per dollar than any Buick ever built.

And they did all this without change of the price structure which, for years, has made Buick the most popular car at its price in the world.

We invite you to inspect these great beauties, these great performers, these great buys. Then you'll see why the Detroit previewers are already saying, "Buick's the beautiful buy!"

Reports Would Indicate Diversion Of McCarthy From Red Hurts

Four major newspapers—the New York Times and Herald Tribune, the Washington Post and the Baltimore Sun—came up with identical stories this week regarding the activities of Senator McCarthy as the most spectacular of the Red hunters. The story is that the Eisenhower administration has been urging McCarthy to concentrate on investigating waste and corruption, leaving searches for subversives primarily to others, and that McCarthy has agreed. If so, the major task of ferreting out subversives would devolve in the Senate on its Internal Security Committee, headed by Senator Jenner (R-Ind.), whose methods have been less spectacular and more in the tradition of the team of Richard Nixon, now vice president, and Rep. Mundt, now a senator, who uncovered the Hiss case, by painstaking and conscientious methods that were devoid of circus tactics. As chairman of a permanent investigating subcommittee of the Senate, McCarthy would be free to probe into almost anything he chose from corruption to inefficiency. The reputed administration arrangement to divert McCarthy's boundless energy elsewhere, if true, seems to antedate the announcement of Senator Ellender (D-La.) that he would appeal to the Senate to "cut down to size" the spending budget of McCarthy's subcommittee. This is in line with Ellender's long-term contention that congressional committees spend too much money. He spoke of "this shameful waste of tax money, spending unnecessary sums for unconscionably large staffs." If the new arrangement is put into effect, McCarthy would still be free to go after Reds if occasion warranted. He said last week "digging out communism" was not the "primary purpose" of his subcommittee, and that he had been careful to check with the Jenner committee to avoid duplication. Should the newspaper stories be correct, the reported arrangement may reflect McCarthy's belief that he has wrong about all he can by way of political advantage and personal publicity out of Red-hunting, and is ready to turn to new fields of endeavor offering better opportunities to shine.

President's Talk Gives Pre-View But The Real Detail Coming Up

President Eisenhower has lifted the covers and given the public a faint glimpse of the heavier and more detailed oratory which may be expected in his State of the Union message. While he took some not-too-thinly disguised pokes at the Democrats, more than one remark might as well be taken as a thrust at some elements of his own party, the Republicans. The President indicated a continuation of more-or-less the trend established in the first 12 months of his administration. The keynote of the effort, he said, would be "help." This means "service that is effective, service that is prompt, service that is single-mindedly devoted to solving the problem." This, of course, got mixed reaction from both sides of the fence. Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the Democratic majority leader in the Senate said that the speech indicated the administration had adopted a basic Democratic policy—"the belief that our people need not suffer from a 'boom-and-bust America.'" While some Republican leaders privately shared a similar view, they took heart from the President's slap at "pie-in-the-sky" schemes and other devices by which a party might perpetuate itself in office. The address was mostly window-dressing and the main how to come with the State of the Union talk, followed by its twin budget message. Then comes the next and tremendously important question: "What will Congress do?" That may now be answered along party lines as the session unfolds.

These Days — George Sokolsky

Movie Code Has Served Well, And It Should Be Preserved

The motion picture code was devised in 1929 by Martin Quigley, adopted by the industry in 1930, and has since then served a very difficult consumers goods industry under the management of Joseph I. Breen. The code is designed to eliminate indecency from motion pictures. Its stamp of approval has usually been required for the exhibition of a picture in a regular theater. Howard Hughes, who manages RKO, has twice challenged the authority of the Breen office. In both instances, his actress was Jane Russell. In the instance of "The Outlaw," he was brought to boot. In the matter of his current production, "French Line," he is fighting it out. "The Moon is Blue" is another picture shown without the code's authority. Sam Goldwyn, wise in the ways of his industry, has proposed that the code be "modernized." The assumption is that the American people are more mature and therefore can accept more sophisticated than was true 25 years ago. As the principal attendants at movies are children and teen-agers, it is doubtful whether maturity and sophistication are very different today from 25 years ago. This matter becomes increasingly important as more television pictures are manufactured by motion picture studios. That means that the performance goes right into the homes. It means a wrangle between parents and children over what the child may look at. Belly-dancers, who make sex ludicrous, are not particularly elevating to the young. This nation cannot afford the debasement of its children by any industry. The big men in the motion picture industry realize what the problem is. They do not want the code to fail. It has been too valuable an asset to the motion picture industry. The difficulty is that they are beset by a rapidly rising number of so-called independents who must earn money swiftly if they are to survive. Some of these companies import pictures from France and Italy that are disgraceful. It is no secret in the industry that a large number of Americans, writers, directors, producers, actors, driven out of Hollywood by the anti-Communist movement, have settled in Italy and France, where they are producing pictures for the American market. Some of these pictures ought not to be shown in this country for any reason whatsoever. The Supreme Court decision separating the producing end of the industry from theater ownership was bad not only for the motion picture industry but for the United States. Now theater owners are bound by no code except common sense, threats of police intervention for indecency, and fear of boycott. Before the separation, theaters could not show pictures which lacked the approval of the Breen office. Today anything goes. Decent companies face destructive competition by indecent companies. The danger is not only that immoral pictures will be shown but that Communist and fellow-travelers will return to Hollywood. This means real trouble. Motion pictures and television are generally for children and teen-agers. Those who object to all forms of censorship are unrealistic. They themselves would not subject their children to the moral risks of indecent exposure and conduct. They themselves would not like to see their children teen-age delinquents, overwrought by stimuli which might result in permanent character damage. The motion picture industry would prefer to police itself, but it is powerless under the new type of competition particularly from abroad. It is powerless without public support. As long as indecent pictures can make plenty of money, the industry is going to be disturbed and just as bad money drives out good, so vice pictures can drive out good. Driven by stockholders, by bankers who hold mortgages on pictures, by the danger of going under, even the established companies will go in for so-called "mature" pictures. Then will come protests from parents, teachers, clergymen, public associations and the policing of this industry will come from the outside. Were only the principal companies involved, this problem could be solved. They would stand by the code. Nobody has yet improved on the Ten Commandments, even though that code is some 4,000 years old. The age of the code does not make it inadequate for today. What places the code in danger is that new, young, energetic companies want to make a fast dollar and pictures from Italy and France can flood this market with the moral equivalent of marijuana.

Hospitality Success

ADEN (AP)—Arab traditions of hospitality were used by a British official recently to trap a troublesome group of Aden Arabs. The Arabs were members of the Adufai tribes in revolt against their ruler Amir Abdullah Ben Mohsin. The Amir had appealed to British officials for aid. The British invited rebel leaders to the Amir's house for discussion of differences. Since Arab traditions prevent any guest from carrying a rifle on entering the home of his host the rebels arrived unarmed. The British officials arrested the unarmed Arabs and are keeping them as hostages.

The World Today — James Marlow

Eisenhower Can Justly Claim Relations With Russia Better But Only Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower could justly claim before Congress today that relations with Russia appear slightly better than when he took office a year ago, but only very slightly. Russia has agreed to talk about Germany and the atom. This time a year ago the United States and the Soviets couldn't agree to talk on anything. It's possible but questionable that some good will come of the talks. Under stiff prodding the Russians recently agreed to a Foreign Ministers' meeting in Germany. Last night they said they would start making arrangements here for talks on Eisenhower's atom proposal. The President went before the United Nations Dec. 8 with the suggestion the big powers discuss a plan for pooling some of their atomic materials and knowledge for peaceful use. He didn't offer a plan but suggested that talking might develop one. If the Russians, once the discussions start, follow the line they've mentioned recently, the two countries will probably wind up just as deadlocked as they've been for seven years. In 1946 the United States and Russia offered opposite ways of getting rid of the atom bomb. The United States argued that before the two countries could agree on destroying atom bombs, each must promise to admit inspection teams to prevent cheating. The Russians have balked ever since at the inspection idea. Eisenhower's suggestion was to seek a new road: if the big powers could just agree on a plan to make peaceful use of the atom, maybe then they could go on and some day agree on how to get rid of the bomb. World reaction to his proposal was so good the Russians could hardly refuse, although they delayed their acceptance, perhaps to find a way to put Eisenhower on the defensive, where he had pushed them. When they did reply they complained he hadn't said anything about outlawing atomic weapons. They asked consideration for their old bomb-banning plan, which meant agreement to ban first without agreement to inspect. Then last week Premier Malenkov suggested agreement not to use the bomb, as a preliminary to agreement on getting rid of the bomb. But mere agreement not to use the bomb in war wouldn't prevent either country from continuing to make bombs as fast as it could, just in case. And both probably would. Neither, on a simple agreement without inspection, could ever be sure the other wouldn't suddenly break its word with a bomb attack. At the moment the main military advantage this country can be said to have over Russia, and it seems like only a temporary advantage, is that it has more bombs. It's been making them longer. Eisenhower is so reliant upon them that he is cutting down the size of the armed forces. This also reduces expenses. Unless it were sure, through inspection, that Russia couldn't make a sneak bomb attack, this country couldn't very well stop making atomic weapons. That would mean a complete change in defense plans. And, without the defense of the bomb, this country and its Western allies would be at an immediate and huge disadvantage. They can't match in size the armed forces of Russia, the satellites, and Red China, because the latter have more men. throp was in the same spot I was, I'll bet he'd be just as big a sport about it. You always have to take the circumstances into consideration. Why didn't you leave me anyway?" "With no carfare and mother 300 miles away?" laughed Trellis Mae. "A girl has to be practical. I wouldn't leave you even if you made the same offer again today to give me half of everything we have in the bank." Wilbur looked at her suspiciously. "Is our account overdrawn again?" he demanded. Trellis Mae nodded. "I thought this conversation finally would lead somewhere," said Wilbur crossly. "Why can't you be more careful about your check stubs." "I will," promised his wife. Grumbling as he started to leave for work, Wilbur held out his hand for his usual two-dollar lunch money and cigarette allowance. Trellis Mae put only a single dollar in it. "A buck for lunch," griped Wilbur. "A mouse can't live on that." "My mouse can," said his wife. She kissed him. "G'bye, Bobo," he said. "G'bye, Winthrop."

This Day In Texas

By CURTIS BISHOP The No. 1 J. H. Burke well roared in at Corsicana on this day in 1923, and that Texas city—already steeped in lore of petroleum history—found itself swamped by men from as far off as Pennsylvania. The well was brought in by the Corsicana Deep Well Company at nearby Powell with a flow of 350 barrels daily from the top of the Woodbine sand, at about 2,970 feet. But the real boom was not there yet, just a flurry. The well choked with cavings. Two additional tests were drilled and wells on three sides of the No. 1 Burke test filled with salt water. Then an 8,000-barrel-gush discovered by the J. K. Hughes Development Company burst into flames, killing a crew of 14 men and raging for 11 days before it was brought under control. But undaunted oil hunters continued to seek the Woodbine in that area and by October the Powell field had 322 wells producing a daily average of 567 barrels. The daily reached its peak in November with a daily yield of 354,893 barrels. The production was a part of the "Mezia Fault Zone," which extended from Corsicana on the north to Luling on the south. Corsicana had known oil production almost a half century before, and it was there that the refining industry had its real beginning in Texas. But the early wells were shallow ones and their yield comparatively meager.

Bang-Up Experiment Plans Frowned Upon

DOLGEVILLE N. Y. (AP)—Police of this Herkimer County village have tossed a wet blanket over a youthful demolition team's plans for a bang-up experiment. Officers said they recovered most of a batch of stolen dynamite sticks and blasting caps from a group of five boys aged 13 to 14. The lads said they were planning to mix various chemicals with the dynamite chunks in an "underwater demolition team" experiment. Officers said they recovered most of a batch of stolen dynamite sticks and blasting caps from a group of five boys aged 13 to 14.

Fisher Elected Head Of Texas Delegation

Wilbur Generous With Dough He Doesn't Have

Wilbur lowered his morning newspaper until their eyes met across the breakfast table. "Dear," he said, "a wife's conversation is like a jigsaw puzzle—it takes a fellow some time to make any kind of pattern out of it. What are you trying to get at? I don't know any man who is holding on to his money." "Well, Winthrop Rockefeller is. I read it in the newspaper before you got up." "Is he? How does he do it?" "By refusing to give it to Bobo." "What's a Bobo?" "Oh, don't act so dumb. Bobo is Winthrop's wife," said Trellis Mae, who always spoke of famous people by their first names. "Why won't he give it to Bobo?" replied Wilbur, who was trying to read an article about the electric power problem in India. "Well, they are separated, and Winthrop moved to Arkansas to forget it all. Now he wants to settle six million dollars on her, but his lawyer says Bobo is holding out for ten million dollars. Isn't that a silly thing to quarrel over?" "It could be a matter of principle," said Wilbur. "And four million dollars is a pretty big principle." "If she takes the six million dollars," mused Trellis Mae, "it says she could invest it so as to get about 120,000-tax-free dollars a year. That's not so much, is it?" "Only about 325 bucks or so a day, including Sundays and the 29th of February during Leap Years," dryly remarked her husband. "But, of course, if she took it in silver dollars it would make quite a jingle in her purse." "Whose side are you on, anyway?" asked his wife. "I don't believe in mixing in family quarrels. I wish they'd kiss and make up—even if it puts 50 divorce lawyers in a breadline." "Well, I certainly think you'd be more generous than Winthrop. Remember what you told me when we had our first big quarrel and I threatened to leave you?" "No indeed," said Wilbur cautiously. "You told me I could have half of everything you owned." "Yeah, that was nice of me. But what did I own then?" "You didn't own anything. You were even overdrawn at the bank."

Chinese Led In Pearl Culture

If pearl oysters could think and talk, they might say to us: "Don't get the wrong idea about why we make pearls! We never produce them for the sake of ladies who want to adorn themselves!" That would be the truth. An oyster makes a pearl because it wants to save itself from trouble. When something gets on, or under, its soft covering, the oyster gives out a thick liquid to cover the object. The first layer hardens, and then other layers of the same substance are laid on. At length a pearl exists in the oyster. Experts say that the objects which get inside oyster shells are of several kinds. Grains of sand can start pearls. More often the objects are parasites—tiny animals which want to feast on the oyster's flesh. Often the parasites are "oyster fleas." Most oysters, even most pearl oysters, go through life without making pearls. Tomorrow: Birthstones.

Flying Saucers Have Been On Scene Over Two-Hundred Years

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note. If Russia is responsible for the "flying saucers" that get into the news every time a reporter runs out of something else to write about, then Russia has been at it for a couple of hundred years. That also applies to the "men from Mars" theory of the origin of the saucers. That's the gist of a report by Capt. Walter Karig of the Navy. Karig is in a position to know more than the average public official about flying saucers, or "unidentified flying objects" as the military has come to call them. The captain is deputy to the chief of information in the Navy. Karig points out that unidentified flying things have been reported at various times since Dec. 9, 1731, when "strange globes of light" maneuvered over Florence, Italy. His surmise is that if flying saucers are "real" today, they were real back in 1731, when the original was reported. The Navy officer discusses the Air Force and Navy program for studying flying saucer reports, which is conducted from the Air Technical Intelligence Center at Wright-Patterson Field, Ohio. A force of astronomers, meteorologists and aerodynamic experts investigates the saucer reports, and evaluates the material received. So far the group has found that 50 per cent of the reports are phony, 30 per cent result from weather balloons, blowing newspapers, etc., and that the other 20 per cent are "unidentifiable." Being unidentifiable, the "flying saucers" might be anything from a mirage to an "inversion," a dense layer of air that reflects light, radar feelers, etc. Karig lists these dates and places of earlier flying saucer reports: Nov. 2, 1761, Switzerland; Mar. 29, 1845, London; 1855, 1859, 1860 and 1864, other places in England; Sept. 7, 1877, Bloomington, Ind.; 1882, over the Yellow Sea; and 1904, in the Atlantic Ocean. Buzz Sawyer notwithstanding, some hot pilot is liable to fly through a saucer someday—and prove it's nothing but a lot of hot air. —WAYLAND YATES

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON (AP)—The partisan debate stirred up on the eve of the convening of Congress over the withdrawal of two divisions from Korea and reduction of forces elsewhere abroad is going on in a sort of vacuum with the really big question at issue being overlooked, or what would seem to be the really big question. Certainly it is a question the American people would like answered. It grows out of these developments in the public debate: Senator Russell's statement that the Korean withdrawal "smacks of appeasement," a statement the Georgia Democrat made while admitting he did not know all the facts. It is presumed he may be accepted as a qualified spokesman for his party since he is ranking minority member on the Armed Services Committee and its former chairman. He and other Democrats who have expressed skepticism are obviously talking in terms of manpower as representing our basic strength. On the Administration side the President, himself as well as Secretary of State Dulles and Defense Department officials, argue that instead of being weaker we shall be stronger. How and why? Well, in his public statement about the Korean withdrawal the President said that "our growing national air power possesses greater mobility and greater striking force than ever before." The Secretary of State mentioned both air and naval power as hereafter the principal reliance in the Far East, with less emphasis on infantry. But is this the whole story? Presumably not. For experts in military affairs are interpreting what has been said publicly in the last several days, implemented by their own information, as meaning that the real ingredient of strength is to be atomic weapons, and that they will fill the gap in manpower, or substitute for it in part. This conception has developed gradually without much fanfare, just a hint here and a hint there. It has slipped up on us who are not military experts until suddenly we get the impression that maybe we are at the threshold of the acceptance of some sort of atomic weapons as part of our arsenal. Maybe this is naive; but the idea does smack the novice in the face as a possible revolutionary change of policy. We have, of course, come to accept almost as routine the making of atomic and hydrogen bombs and cannon and missiles and the like. But there certainly has been a feeling among many people that atomic bombs and weapons were somehow in the forbidden category, as poison gas and germs have been recognized now for some years. If some atomic weapons, excluding the big bombs have become a regular part of the arsenal, shouldn't the American people be told so? Or is the threat itself one of our psychological weapons to deter aggression and as such can only be hinted at and no more? The withdrawal of some of our forces has been explained as part of an economy move by which we will save some $3 billion through a ten per cent reduction in personnel; but is $5 billions in savings worth all that might be at stake in letting ourselves take the lead in accepting atomic weapons as usual and normal, and becoming so known before the world? This seems a rather important question for the nation while, once again and boldly, has asked Russia and the rest of the world to make a start on control of atomic weapons through the "bank" of fissionable material for peaceful purposes. By questioning the withdrawal of two divisions from Korea and anticipated reductions elsewhere, Senator Russell and his Democratic colleagues have at least opened the way for exploring the whole issue of the place of atomic weapons in our defense system. That is bound to be explored also when Congress takes up the President's request, revealed at a recent press conference, to share information about atomic weapons with our Western European allies. This, he indicated then, would be limited to information as to their use, without including scientific data or weapons themselves, at least for the present. It is certain that Congress would want to know more about the place of atomic weapons in our defense system when it considers both this sharing project and any reduction of our forces abroad, and will want to weigh all that in relation to our double objective of national security and preservation of peace in the world. This could become, in the end, the over-weighing issue of the coming session.

Snowshoed Horses

VANCOUVER (AP)—Some horses have been taught to use snowshoes on northern British Columbia winter trails, and Morley Shier has produced snapshots of horses so equipped to convince doubters. Shier said he first saw a horse on snowshoes in 1919 when he was hiking from Steward, B. C. to Premier Mine. Later he saw several pack trains of horses with snowshoes and was given one of the shoes by J. (Bill) Crawford, Stewart merchant. Shier said at one time round boards were used. Now horse snowshoes are a circle of 3/4 inch pipe, 12 inches in diameter, with chains to the centre and clips for the toe and side. At first a horse is troubled, but soon learns the trick of putting one shoe over the other in walking on snow. When a shoe gets loose the horse will stop look back and wait for an adjustment.

Selection Extravagant

HARTLAND, Conn. (AP)—It would have been cheaper for this town to have had four selectmen than the usual three. Recently a run off election was held for two candidates who tied for the third selectman's post. Cost of the election, $200—cost of the selectman's salary, $50 annually.

Fire Helps Officers

KINGSFORT, Tenn. (AP)—Officers searching for whisky in a vacant lot burned the grass away. In the ashes they found four half-gallon jars and one pint of moonshine. Ten half-gallon jars got away — they exploded in the heat.

Chinese Led In Pearl Culture

Divers may have to open from 800 to 1,200 oysters before they find a single pearl worth market value. Lee Jin Yang, a clever man in China, decided that it was too much trouble to open so many clams or oysters to find a pearl. He figured out the reason a pearl grows, and decided to try to "raise" pearls. In their culture of pearls, the Chinese insert small, hard objects in clams or oysters. These objects may be pellets of mud or bits of bone, wood or metal. Within a few years, the shellfish are opened and pearls are taken out. The Japanese, also, are skillful in the culture of pearls. During the past 50 years, they have helped oysters to produce thousands of beautiful, round pearls. After placing tiny mother-of-pearl beads inside the shells of oysters, they wait for six or seven years before taking out the pearls. Tomorrow: Birthstones.

Texas' Newspapers Expect 1954 To Be Top Year In Ads, Service

By The Associated Press
Texas' nearly 700 newspapers, their circulation at record levels, expect 1954 to be a banner year for business and public service, President Ray L. Powers of the Texas Daily Newspaper Assn. says.

Citing the return of the buyer's market, Powers claims: "Newspapers actually prefer a competitive situation when advertisers compare the results of an advertising medium."

Powers speaks for some 100 dailies, but he's backed up by Arthur H. Kowert, president of the Texas Press Association, which represents 576 weeklies over the state.

"It is our feeling," Kowert says, "that newspaper service to a community, to its people, churches, schools and to its economy, is endless."

"It is the goal of TPA in 1954, its 75th year, to assist Texas dailies and weeklies in every possible manner to develop a bigger, better and even more bountiful Texas."

Powers, business manager of the Houston Press, says "the return of the buyer's market and highly competitive selling" has caused merchants and manufacturers to turn to newspaper advertising "and its proved ability to sell more goods at the least cost."

Few can speak with so much authority as Powers and Kowert, the latter publisher of the Fredericksburg Standard. But it takes a score of regional organizations covering news, business and production to fill out the broad scope of Texas newspapers.

In addition to various women's groups and special units, there is the Panhandle Press Assn., the South Plains Press Assn., the West Texas Press Assn., the Gulf Coast Press Assn., and the North and East Texas Press Assn.

There is over-lapping membership with the two big state organizations and each association serves weeklies and dailies in its region.

Another group is the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn., which holds its 43rd annual meeting Jan. 10-11 in Dallas. Col. N. Dwight Allison, managing editor of the San Antonio Light, is the Texas APME president.

Powers said television has helped newspapers. The development, he said, "puts new emphasis on the fact that the printed word has the most lasting effect."

"Newspapers have capitalized on TV by adapting themselves to it," he observed. "Editors quickly recognize that the American newspaper reader wants to read more than ever before a word description of what he has seen. Above all, he wants to read about it when he has the time."

Powers said great technical advances in newspapers were on the way. He mentioned improved color printing, cheaper production, improved picture services and said: "We may see the introduction of waterproof newsprint so that never again will you have to worry about rain spoiling your newspapers."

Bill Collins, editor of the Midland Reporter-Telegram and president of the West Texas Press Assn., expressed optimism for his area.

"Our dry cycle seems near its end," he said. "Newspaper circulation is up, but lineage has been down. This reflects general business conditions which are better than a year ago. Newspapers are meeting their problem, and they continue to improve their product for the public."

Texas' "farthest north" editor, Harold Hudson, claimed an upturn in general business conditions in the Panhandle. Hudson, secretary of the Panhandle Press Assn. and editor of the weekly Ochiltree County Herald at Perryton, said 1953 was not a bad year despite the damaging drought and its accompanying annoyances. He looks for better conditions in 1954 for the Panhandle's 112 daily and weekly newspapers, more than 100 of them weeklies.

The same note of confidence came from editors and business managers in Central, East and South Texas, where drought conditions during 1953 were not so bad or virtually non-existent.

Ex-Marine Rescues His Own Stolen Car

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Fred DeHass, former Marine, reported his car stolen last night while he was bowling.

Later, the 6-foot 4-inch, 230-pound DeHass walked out of the bowling place and saw his car moving in a slow line of traffic.

He dashed into the street, grabbed the driver's collar and ordered him to pull to the curb. The driver meekly complied.

Police held the man, James Price, 30, for investigation.

City Fathers Pick Two Mayors, So That Deadlock Ends

HAMILTON Ohio (AP)—The Hamilton City Council, deadlocked over the election of a mayor, worked its way out of the dilemma yesterday by electing two mayors.

Arthur Wilson of the People's party will serve during 1954 and Arthur Fiehrer of the Forward Hamilton will serve during 1955.

The deadlock arose as a result of a situation in which the People's party had three council members, the Forward Hamilton party three members and then there was Herbert Mich, elected as an Independent.

Votes taken Monday were 3-3-1 with Mich voting for himself. Yesterday, however, the Forward Hamilton members broke party lines and voted for Fiehrer to serve during 1955.

Mich refused to vote, declared he was a candidate himself.

E. H. Perrson director of law expressed belief the dual election was legal even though unusual.

Brownwood Service Cut Is Sought By Trans-Texas Airline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Trans-Texas Airways wants to cut its daily flights to Coleman, Tex., to one and reduce its service to Brownwood, Tex., only 30 miles away.

In an application to the Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday, the air line asked permission to overfly Coleman on all but one round trip daily and to overfly Brownwood on the one flight serving Coleman.

Brownwood has excessive service to and from Fort Worth-Dallas because it is a mandatory junction point on routes serving San Antonio and San Angelo-Fort Worth, Trans-Texas said.

The company said it plans, on the San Angelo-Dallas route, one round trip a day serving Coleman and Fort Worth, and one a day serving Brownwood and Fort Worth. It said it will continue to operate one round trip a day between San Antonio and Dallas by way of Kerrville, Brownwood and

Golfers Set To Tee Off At Los Angeles

Mangrum Heads Classy Field

LOS ANGELES (AP)—All is ready for the start of the 1954 tournament campaign for the nation's finest golfers, leading off tomorrow with the 28th annual Los Angeles Open with a purse of $30,000.

Lloyd Mangrum heads the lineup as the favorite to win the event for the fourth time and the second year in succession in a tournament that will be played in new surroundings for the first time since 1946.

Fox Hills Country Club in the rolling section of Southwest Los Angeles is the scene for the first time. Revamped and toughened for the Los Angeles Open, it measures 6,981 yards and has a par of 35-36-71.

For the past eight years the tournament was held at Riviera Country Club, which stretched out a little over 7,000 yards but had the same par figures.

Mangrum, whose 4-under par 280 won the 1953 event, has played impressively in practice the past week or more and appears to be on top of his game.

The same is true of Dr. Cary Middlecoff, who shot a practice round of 67 earlier this week. Mangrum himself said to "watch out" for Middlecoff and Jack Burke Jr. The latter was runnerup for the big prize of $2,750 last year, five strokes behind Mangrum.

Top money this year amounts to $4,000 and second will be worth $2,300.

Virtually every name professional, with the exception of the ailing Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Freddie Haas and one of two others, is on deck.

In addition, there are scores of players who are prominent in their respective localities but unknown nationally.

Mangrum won the tournament in 1949 with a total score of 284 and in 1951 with 280, the latter matching his 1953 mark.

Lew Worsham, whose spectacular eagle on the last green won the $25,000 first prize in George May's "World Championship" at Chicago last summer, is another gallery attraction. He has never been in the top money here.

Ben Hogan Named Athlete Of Year

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Golf wizard Ben Hogan seemed to get a genuine glow of pleasure out of his selection as America's outstanding male athlete of 1953, and in discussing the events of last year, unloaded a surprise.

Advised that he had been named the athlete of the year in the 23rd annual Associated Press poll, the third golfer in history to win the award, Hogan exclaimed: "That's wonderful—that's the biggest."

The 41-year-old Texan, as you know, scored a golden triple in '53 in capturing the Masters, the United States Open, for the fourth time, and the British Open.

Which "gave him the biggest boost?"

"The U. S. Open," Ben replied, without hesitation.

Not the British crown, in his first attempt, and in view of his previous United States victories? "No," Hogan continued. "If I times, I'd still get the biggest kick out of it."

"Understand, the British Open is a great tournament. But I just can't get it into my head that it is better than ours."

"The people over there think their is the best, and they should feel that way. Maybe I underestimate the world impact in winning

SEASON TICKETS FOR HAWK HOME GAMES STILL AVAILABLE HERE

Season tickets for home basketball games of the Howard County Junior College Jayhawks can still be had at a reduced rate.

The tickets are being sold to adults for $5 and students for $2.50. They are good for nine home games.

The purchasers not only realize a savings of $1.40 but insure themselves choice seats for all games, as well. A centrally-located section has been set aside for the season-ticket holders.

The Jayhawk play their next home game on Saturday night, at which time they host Schreiner Institute of Kerrville. They open their West Zone season a week from tonight, at which time they tangle with Odessa in Odessa.

The tickets can be reserved at John Dibrrell's Sporting Goods store or the college.

ORVILLE McDONALD (L) AND V. T. SMITH ... Planning An Energy-Uplift

TO MAKE VITAMINS

Ram Grid Great In Visit Here

Vitamin T. Smith, who has given many a football fan an uplift with his breathless running style, is about ready to lend his name to the manufacture of an elixir which, by more than coincidence, will be called "Vitamin Tea."

The piston-legged runner for the Los Angeles Rams, who recently completed his fifth season in the play-for-pay ranks, stopped in Big Spring Wednesday to expose his plans for the marketing of the energy giving liquid.

Accompanying the one-time Little All-American for Abilene Christian College was Orville McDonald of Dallas, a member of a public relations concern there, who will also have a working interest in the new business.

Though V. T. spent much of his boyhood in Ventura, Calif., he came East to enroll in ACC and there emerged as perhaps the finest half carrier the school has ever known. He later won a contract with the Rams as a free agent after he had been completely overlooked in the football draft.

Signing him proved one of the smarter moves the Rams made.

As a rookie in 1949, Smith led the National Football League in punt returns with an average rambuck of 27.4 yards.

Among other feats in pro circles, he turned in an 85-yard scoring run against Green Bay in Green Bay in 1949 and streaked 97 yards against the 49ers in Kezar Stadium, San Francisco, the following season.

He was a member of the Ram club that won the World Championship three years ago.

Smith says the Rams, under Hampton Pool, fielded a tremendous lineup in the NFL with the past season and, with a break or two, could have won the world crown.

The Coast team did knock over the reigning champions, the Detroit Lions, twice but lost on many occasions to San Francisco and yielded their chance to force the Lions into a playoff when they were tied by the Chicago Cardinals and lost to the Chicago Bears.

Who does he regard as the best all-around back in the NFL? He refused to commit himself there but said Don Walker of the Lions, Cleveland's Otto Graham, San Francisco's Y. A. Tittle and his own club's Norm Van Brocklin would be among the best, in his estimation.

The best blocking back? That would have to be Detroit's Bob Hornsmyer, but that man Walker would surprise you as a blocker, he adds.

A family man (he married an ex-Greenville girl who was living in Ventura at the time he met her), Vitamin T. now resides in Abilene. He's unsure whether he will continue in pro ball but he looks capable of going 60 minutes against the best of them.

McDonald was V. T.'s roommate at ACC. He is a brother to Chesney McDonald, the former Sterling City High School coach, who now ranches in that area.

Smith Says He Is 'Available' For Aggie Job

By FRITZ HOWELL

CINCINNATI (AP)—The coaches not the players were football's men in motion today as the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. neared the end of its 48th convention.

Hoping to line up one of nine or more head coaching jobs applicants were scurrying around to see various athletic directors before all head back to their home bases Saturday.

Dayton University filled its coaching berth last night by hiring Hugh Devore, former St. Bonaventure, Notre Dame, NYU and Green Bay Packer mentor, but still looking for grid chiefs were Toledo, Idaho, Texas A&M, Pennsylvania, Iowa State, Kansas and several smaller schools. Nebraska is seeking an athletic director.

He Armstrong, Minnesota athletic director, summed up the attitude of all the principals in the job-hunting sector when he said: "I'm talking a lot of people here. Some of them about the coaching vacancy, some about other things. I'm not naming anyone I confer with for it just wouldn't be fair. When we decide on a coach we'll announce it. Until then I have nothing to say about the matter."

Meanwhile it looks as if fans will get another game-a-week controlled television program next fall, with no regional broadcasts or small college games on the list; that the NCAA's move for a nationwide eligibility setup will be overwhelmingly defeated, and that the NCAA is worried a bit about the growing popularity of the professional game.

The 1953 television committee was to submit its report today along with a resolution relative to plans which a new group which takes over Feb. 1 will supervise.

Although Robert J. Kane of Cornell, chairman of the video committee, and Asa Bushnell, TV program director, declined to hint what would be in the report which goes into round table discussion today, some of it leaked out.

The resolution will be minus the 1953 mandate which restricted a college to a single scheduled appearance on the nation-wide hookup, and will urge the new committee to look into the possibilities of offering games via delayed television on film, live broadcasts to theaters, and through the various subscriber setups.

Wilkinson would not say whether he has made up his mind about the job if it is offered to him.

"I have not talked with anyone about it so I have nothing to say," he declared.

Wilkinson, a Minnesota graduate, has been mentioned most prominently for the Gopher job made vacant when Wes Fesler resigned.

Wilkinson To Talk With Ike Armstrong

CINCINNATI (AP)—Bud Wilkinson, coach of the University of Oklahoma's Orange Bowl champions, said early today he has a date to talk here with the Armstrong, University of Minnesota athletic director, about the Minnesota football coaching job.

Both men are here for the NCAA convention.

Wilkinson would not say whether he has made up his mind about the job if it is offered to him.

"I have not talked with anyone about it so I have nothing to say," he declared.

Hugh Devore Is Appointed Football Coach At Dayton

Wrestling Popular With The Public

By BARD LINDEMAN

Wrestling in Texas is big business. From September, 1952, to September, 1953, Texas paid $1,761,810.75 to watch wrestling, according to the State Department of Labor statistics. The state took back $47,952.00 of this in taxes.

There are 43 towns and cities that stage wrestling shows all over Texas. Thirty-one of these towns and cities hold weekly shows. The biggest wrestling city in Texas is Houston. For the second straight year promoter Morris Sigel guided the sport in Houston to its biggest box office year, according to the Houston Chronicle.

Sigel has been working at his trade some 35 years. He is called, by some wrestlers and promoters, "Mr. Wrestling, U. S. A." Sigel is president of the Texas Wrestling Agency which unanimously makes him "Mr. Wrestling, Texas."

The agency is the body which says who works where and when. It is closely affiliated with the National Wrestling Alliance which controls the sport on a nationwide scale.

M. B. Morgan, commissioner of labor statistics, thinks that wrestling's gross revenue from January, 1952, to January, 1953, will show a slight decrease, "due to the fact we have had what is commonly called a wrestling war going on in Texas this past year."

This report is not complete at present. Commissioner Morgan also stated, "the revenue for Dallas-Fort Worth for this year will show a considerable decrease over the previous year."

In 1951, Dallas was the state's top wrestling town. Ed McLemore, who was the only promoter in Dallas then, said a good year for him was "a quarter of a million." And a bad year? "There were no bad years," he said.

McLemore was an Alliance member until January, 1953. He was the Dallas promoter for the Texas Wrestling Agency. Then he broke from the wrestling ruling body, he says, over contract differences. He says, too, "I was no longer in accord with their principles."

McLemore now puts on two wrestling shows a week at his Sportatorium and the Texas Wrestling Agency promotes once a week at Pappy's Showland. McLemore admits he is not making money. He says that the scrap is hurting the business and that neither side is making money in Dallas. The opposition says it is making money. "That's absolutely true. We made money in 1953. We met our expenses, plus lawyer's fees, court fees and then made money."

The lawyer's and court fees, Clark explains, were to fight a suit brought by McLemore. Clark says, "He tried to keep us from televising. He said he had a contract for the exclusive television appearance of all the boys. But the court ruled we were right."

None of the wrestlers who worked for McLemore when he was with the agency and the Alliance work for him now. Clark explains it. "A wrestler can work for anybody—anybody in the Alliance. But he can't work against the Alliance. That's his bread and butter."

There are relatively few independent promoters operating today.

But there is one thing you can bank on—wrestling, like chili, is in Texas to stay. A business that makes a million dollars a year is bound to be popular with some people. If the fan can stand it, he'll get lots of wrestling in 1954.

Pete Jones Quits Post At Baylor

WACO (AP)—Former Baylor football star A. E. (Pete) Jones has quit as the school's athletics business manager and baseball coach.

He will go into private business, Jones said last night in announcing his resignation, effective Feb. 1.

It was reported he would become associated with his brother, Aubrey B. Jones, who owns a drive-in grocery chain at Beaumont.

"I have enjoyed very much my relation with George Sauer (Baylor head coach) and his staff," Jones said. "My many years in the athletics field have been pleasant ones, and I certainly treasure the many friendships formed."

Jones, who captained the 1928 Baylor football team, said his new opportunity "simply appeared too attractive for me to turn down."

Jones was an outstanding baseball player for Baylor and later played for the Texas League Dallas Eagles. He coached and taught school in Bryan several years, then served as athletics business manager at Texas A&M before coming to Baylor in 1946.

Stasey And Greer To Take Over Wichita Falls Club

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—The city council next week is expected to approve an agreement which virtually assures minor league baseball for Wichita Falls this year.

The agreement for use of Spudger Park was reached between the city parks department and Pat Stasey of Big Spring and Hayden (Stubby) Greer of Abilene. Stasey and Greer own the Roswell (N.M.) franchise of the Class C Longhorn League.

The two men now are expected to enter a Wichita Falls club in the Class C Red River League being formed by Howard Greer, Big State League president.

Other cities tentatively signed up are Paris, Texarkana, Greenville, Longview and Magnolia, Ark. Sher-

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

One of the most engaging personalities attending the Howard College Basketball Tournament here recently was Ed Kelly of the Lon Morris delegation.

Ed is a spastic, but he came equipped with a keen intellect and developed an ingratiating personality.

Such a handicap has licked many an individual. But it hasn't Ed, and isn't likely to. He mixes and mingles, likes people and is liked.

He's done quite a bit of sports scrawling in his time and the reports on his talent in that field are good, to say the least. Right now, he's serving as Coach O. P. Adams' right-hand man and he can fill you in on just about any detail on the Lon Morris team you care to know.

He's a firm friend of our town and its people, was thoughtful enough to take the entire Lon Morris delegation was grateful for the treatment they received during their stay here.

Billy Capps, the ex-Big Spring infielder, isn't so close to landing that Corpus Christi managerial job as he thought he was.

Capps was in the driver's seat but the party who wrote out the pay checks unloaded the club when it became obvious that there was a good chance to drop a bundle of boodle.

Capps is still being considered for the job, news dispatches from that area say, but he's just one of the few who has his hat in the ring.

Bob Mathias, Stanford University's famed decathlon man, may return to football next fall but it won't be for any college.

He enters the Marines in June and says he'll play football for some Devil Dog outfit, "if they'll have me."

A movie on his life goes into production in Hollywood next month. Mathias quit collegiate football before last season because of the "commercialization of the sport," as he called it. Later, he wrote a magazine article in which he scorched the endeavor.

If he plays, it will be for Quantico, Va., since that's where he'll be stationed.

There's supposed to be some friction between Baylor and the University of Texas over the fact the Raymond Downs went to the Austin school rather than to Waco.

Downs is the last who accompanied Del Mar's Vikings to the Howard College Invitational Tournament here last year but was used sparingly, due to a severe ankle sprain. He's regarded by some as a better senior college basketball prospect than Charles Christenson, the ex-Wharton wizard and Christenson was named the best all-around player in the first HC Tournament.

Downs, it is told, was having part of his expenses paid at Del Mar by parties interested in seeing that Baylor maintained its lofty position in collegiate sports.

However, when the Del Mar coach, Ed Kelley, returned to his alma mater as Texas freshman mentor, he took Downs along with him.

Y League Play To Be Resumed

Tonight's schedule in the YMCA City Basketball League sends Clark's out against Tennessee Milk, Coca-Cola against Hardesty Drug and the Dragons against Phil-Serve-66, in that order.

The first game is down for 7 p.m. Scene of action is the Junior High School Gymnasium.

On Tuesday night, Hardesty's Drug defeated the Dragons, 35-18, and Tennessee Milk turned back Coca-Cola, 46-21.

Eswenwin scored 14 points and Falkowski 11 for Tennessee Milk in the latter game.

Police Keeping Secrecy Lid On Reuther Case

DETROIT (AP)—Police kept a tight lid of secrecy on their movements today in the continuing investigation of the Walter Reuther 1948 assassination attempt.
A motive for the 5-year-old ambush shooting of the CIO leader also remained an official secret 24 hours after criminal charges of conspiracy and assault were brought against four men.
No positive signs were present of an immediate additional "break" to follow yesterday's sensation.
At the same time police were reported watching all Detroit's points of entry for the possible return to the city of the sole missing defendant—Santo (Sam) Perrone.
Perrone, 56, Sicilian-born big money dealer in postwar scrap convicted of labor racketeering, was reported from one source to be on his way here from an undisclosed city. There was no official confirmation, however.
Perrone, nearly illiterate as a witness before Senate crime investigators two years ago, was one of a motley group named in the charges.
Accused with him were his college-educated son-in-law, Carl Renda, 35, also a fortune hunter in scrap metal; Peter Lombardo, 51, inmate of Leavenworth Penitentiary as a carrier of counterfeit money; and Clarence Jacobs, 48, owner once involved in alleged alien smuggling.
The formal charges said the four men—and four "John Does"—did "feloniously, wickedly and with malice aforethought" try to kill Reuther at his home the night of April 20, 1948. A shotgun charge was fired at Reuther through his kitchen window.
The next year a similar attempt was made on the life of Victor Reuther, a co-official in the CIO

President's Auto Workers Union. Rewards totaling more than $200,000 are outstanding in both incidents.

Renda and Jacobs were arraigned on the charges yesterday—the former in Detroit and the latter in Windsor, Ont. Renda supplied $25,000 bond for his release pending examination Jan. 14. Jacobs was remanded to jail without bond.
Meantime, Wayne County Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien said flatly, "we definitely have a motive." But he refused to disclose it.
O'Brien also said he did not know whether the Walter and Victor shootings had any connection.
In the Essex County Court at Windsor a letter from O'Brien was read which said "Jacobs participated in the actual shooting (of Walter)."
Later O'Brien said, however, that he did not mean that Jacobs was the triggerman. He refused to say exactly what he did mean.
Jacobs pleaded ignorance of anything concerned with the case. He was arraigned on Canadian extradition warrant. He will be given an international extradition hearing Jan. 14.

Prejudice Claimed Against Yankees In Wichita Court

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—Texas prejudice against "people from the North" has been claimed as reason for requested removal of a trial from Wichita Falls.
The suit is by the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce against Ohio novelist-farmer Louis Bromfield and two associates. A 411-acre farm decided to Bromfield by the chamber in 1949 for a model experiment station is involved.
Last May the chamber sued Bromfield, R. F. Culler and Robert W. Hulse for $50,000 damages. It claimed the title to the farm was to have reverted to the chamber Jan. 1, 1953. The chamber also charged a lack of diligent operation of the project.
In a cross-action, Bromfield, Hulse and Culler asked $252,200 damages from the chamber, claiming the names of Bromfield and Malabar Farm were exploited. The farm near here is named Malabar Farm. So is Bromfield's model farm near Mansfield, O.
Attorneys for Bromfield have filed a motion to get the case out of Wichita County. During yesterday's hearing on the motion, Culler testified local prejudice against "people from the North" would make a fair trial impossible.

Sudan Leader Named

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—Ismail El Azhari, leader of a majority party favoring union with Egypt, has been elected the first prime minister of Sudan.
The formal charges said the four men—and four "John Does"—did "feloniously, wickedly and with malice aforethought" try to kill Reuther at his home the night of April 20, 1948. A shotgun charge was fired at Reuther through his kitchen window.
The next year a similar attempt was made on the life of Victor Reuther, a co-official in the CIO

Italian Talks Begin

ROME (AP)—President Luigi Einaudi today opened a series of formal talks with political leaders prior to calling a new premier to succeed Giuseppe Pella at the controls of Italy's sputtering government.

Evans Urges Cattlemen Not To Neglect Christian Development

While the American cattlemen have done a wonderful job in their work of developing finer types of cattle, there is a grave danger that they have neglected the Christian development of themselves and their families, they were warned last night by an old-time cowman, Joe Evans of El Paso.

Evans, who came to West Texas and settled in the Davis Mountain country in 1884, spoke to almost one hundred members of the Howard County-South Plains Hereford Association at their annual pre-sale banquet at the Settles Hotel last night. He was introduced by a friend of many years, George G. Morehead of Big Spring.

Nationally known as a humorist, author, cowman and religious lay leader, Evans related many of his experiences as an early day Texas rancher in a whimsical, homespun style that delighted his listeners.

He pointed out that the typical West Texas cow of 1848 weighed about 600 pounds at five years of age, while now two-year-olds weigh more than 1,000 pounds. And he warned ranchers against abuse of their ranges.

"More cattlemen have gone broke because they didn't have enough grass for their cattle than for any other reason," he said.

He told the ranchers that they can learn a whole lot about the successful operation of the cattle business by reading the Bible.

He said grass was created to hold the world together.

"God didn't get caught short on grass," the speaker commented. "First He created the grass and then He created the cattle to eat the grass."

Evans said he could sympathize with the cowmen beset with the drought. He related that at one time his family was running 15,000 head of cattle and branding 5,000 calves a year. After three years of drought they only branded 200 head. He urged his listeners to give more attention to their children and grandchildren than to their cattle.

"Everywhere I go," he said, "the worst thing I see about the young people are their parents." At another point he stated that while we have the finest cattle the world has ever known, "morally and spiritually we are at a low ebb."

J. H. (Jimmie) Greene, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce presided as master of ceremonies and introduced the officers of the association, both past and present.

Musical entertainment was provided by Miss Barbara Lewter who presented two piano selections, and Roy Scott of Webb Air Force Base who sang three solos, accompanied by Miss Lewter.

At a business meeting following the banquet Charlie Creighton of Big Spring and Alton Youngblood of Lamesa were re-elected directors. They were also re-elected president and vice president respectively. Loy Acuff was elected secretary-treasurer to succeed Leland Wallace, who has served in that capacity for several years and who asked to be relieved of the duties. Judge Tom Garrard of Tahoka was re-elected assistant secretary-treasurer.

Among the guests introduced were Don Tarver, fieldman for the Texas Hereford Association; Bill Wright, fieldman for the American Hereford Association, and Elmer Kelton, livestock editor of the San Angelo Standard-Times.

The association's 10th annual sale is being held at the Fair Association Barns at the Rodeo Bowl this afternoon.

Shivers Undecided On Calling Session

AUSTIN (U.S.)—Gov. Allan Shivers still has not decided about calling a special session or about his political future, he told a news conference yesterday.

He said a special session hinges on numerous factors, principal among them being the reaching of a compromise in the teacher pay dispute and willingness of legislators to settle it.

The governor's special committee of 25 studying the teacher pay problem is to meet here next Wednesday to consider a subcommittee's compromise proposal to give teachers a $402-per-year boost.

Attitude of the legislative members of that committee and other members of the Legislature would have a determining effect on any call for a special session, Shivers said.

He indicated he would not call a session before the U. S. Supreme Court decides on validity of Texas' new gas tax. "With one tax pending, we shouldn't add an additional tax until we know what's going to happen to it," he said.

Truck Driver Given Credit For Saving 11 From Poisoning

TOMBSTONE, Ariz. (U.S.)—A truck driver was credited with saving 11 persons from death by carbon monoxide poisoning yesterday.

Fletcher W. Sullins found the 11 unconscious in a panel truck, tried unsuccessfully to revive them by artificial respiration and rushed them to a hospital.

They were given emergency oxygen treatment and revived.

"I'm thankful to God that someone pulled us out," murmured Bernard Berman of Cleveland, Ohio, one of the 11.

Police said the near tragedy was caused by fumes from a defective muffler entering Berman's panel truck.

Brazil's Two-Headed Baby Is Doing Well

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (U.S.)—A two-headed baby girl born 23 days ago is doing well and gaining weight normally, reports from Belo Horizonte said last night.

Dr. Armando Achilles Tenuta of Sao Vicente Hospital was reported as saying the baby now weighs 9 pounds, 12 ounces.

The infant is the daughter of Mrs. Gerarda Francisca de Jesus, wife of a rural storekeeper. The hospital disclosed the baby has two completely separate hearts and respiratory systems, one digestive system, four arms and three legs.

Rayburn Says Demos Tired Of Accusations

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—Sam Rayburn says Democrats in Congress are "getting tired" of being accused of softness toward Communism.

The House Democratic leader from Bonham, Tex., spoke last night at the Women's National Press Club annual congressional dinner. It was his 72nd birthday and he was honor guest.

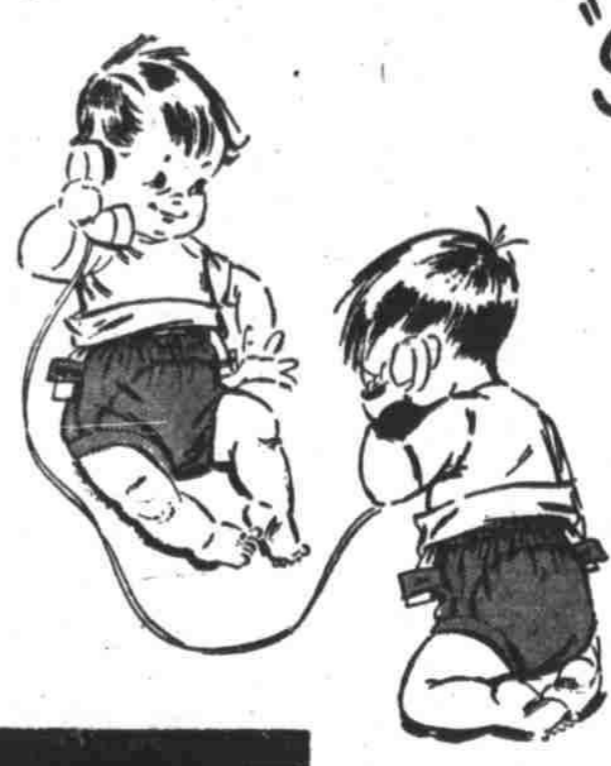

Rayburn said President Eisenhower will continue to get bipartisan backing for worthy proposals even if the backs of Democrats "are getting a little sore."

Use Of Natural Gas Increases

This chart shows the total industry sales of gas, with natural gas represented by the shaded portions of each column. Sales are expressed in billions of therms, a measure of heat content rather than volume. The figures, released by the American Gas Association, show increases in use of natural gas since 1941 in the U.S. (AP Wirephoto Chart).

IT HAPPENED

Strong For Clean House
BALTIMORE (AP)—An irate father told Magistrate E. Everett Lane Tuesday he wanted his 16-year-old son sent to jail because among other things he "dirties up the house."

"The madam gets the house clean," Joseph Watford told the magistrate, "and he comes and dirties it up."

The youth was put on probation without verdict on a charge of disturbing the peace.

WASN'T SHE ALREADY?
DALLAS (AP)—"I'd like" said a woman to deputy district clerk, Ed Buford, "a copy of the papers the judge wrote in my divorce case. I guess what I want is the order of dissolution."

Probably Telling Truth
JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Jessie Snider's pet parakeet, George, flew out an open window and perched in a nearby tree. Snider, 45, edged out on a slender limb to retrieve him. Just as he grabbed the bird, the branch snapped. He fell eight feet to the ground but held on to the parakeet.

Doctors at Silver Cross Hospital said Snider's condition was painful but not serious. George didn't even get a feather ruffled.

BLOWOUT NO BOTHER
CHANDLER, Ariz. (AP)—A little thing like a tire blowout didn't stop Al Martin as he drove home yesterday. Didn't even slow him down in fact. The tire was his spare.

Bird In The Hand
DENVER (AP)—Yesterday's Rocky Mountain News has this ad in the "Room and Board" section on the classified page:

"1331 Columbine. Single Room. Employed. Terrible food."

SHERMAN, Jan. 7 (AP)—Cal Williams had a newly painted house Wednesday. Didn't cost him a penny. Painter's mistake. Wrong house.

Politicos Face 1954

DEMOS:

By LYNDON B. JOHNSON
Written for The Associated Press

During the past five months, I have traveled the length and breadth of Texas—from Texarkana to El Paso; from the Panhandle to the eastern Gulf Coast; from Wichita Falls to the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

That tour has involved more than 225 meetings face-to-face contacts with tens of thousands of Texans; informal discussions with people from every walk of life. It meant traveling through all types of regions—industrial, commercial, crop farming and cattle one clear fact emerged from the thousands of discussions and talks. It is that Texans are taking their government more seriously than ever before.

Generalities are always dangerous. No one man can claim to know how everybody in Texas—or everybody in one section of Texas—feels on any issue. But on specific questions, I have found most Texans would agree on these points:

They favor a strong national defense.

They do not want any weakening of the farm program.

They believe the Taft-Hartley Act is basically sound and do not want to see changes which would in effect repeal the act.

They are seeking relief from oppressive taxes.

They are strongly opposed to any appeasement of Communism—either at home or abroad.

They rightly think that mutual security should be a two-way street—not a one-way obligation upon the part of the United States.

But those specific issues tell only a part of the story. Much more basic is the deep-seated and hard-to-express desire for peace and security—not just for ourselves but for our children and the generations that will come after we have gone.

Those, of course, are the real issues which are presented to this Congress. They are issues which will underlie every action that is taken—every act that is passed.

They are the real issues behind the debate over a long-range foreign trade policy; over the strength of our defenses; over the Taft-Hartley Act; over social security. They are the objectives which must be achieved if this Congress is to fulfill its obligations to the country.

As we start forward into 1954 let's talk about accomplishments—the vital and heartening accomplishments of the first year of President Eisenhower's administration. It will do us Texans good.

If the beginning of 1953 and the new administration perhaps was symbolized by a question mark in the eyes of many Texans, the approach to 1954 is positive. That is the Eisenhower approach, and its trend and direction are now firmly established.

But let's talk about accomplishments—about what Texas voted for in 1952 and has seen go forward in 1953. President Eisenhower and his team, in the first year, have done these things:

Stopped the war in Korea.

Developed a unified foreign policy, the first in years that makes sense—and the first that has succeeded in placing Russia and its satellites definitely on the defensive.

Reorganized the Defense Department, eliminating enormous waste.

Increased efficiency and achieved economy in government, getting rid of 150,000 unnecessary jobs and chopping almost $15,000,000,000 off the budget of the previous national administration.

Restored honesty and integrity and dignity to our government.

Laid the foundation for sound economic growth.

Vigorously pushed the Hoover Commission's governmental reorganization plans.

Gotten rid of nearly 1,500 Communists, fellow travelers, and their kind, which the last previous administration had left in office and denied were there.

Carried out its pledge to restore

At this point, I and my Democratic colleagues can take only one stand—watchful waiting. We will examine the administration's program as it is presented. That which we believe will serve the country will draw our support. That which we are convinced should not be passed, we will oppose.

But in no instance will our support or opposition be based solely upon partisanship. It will reflect our honest convictions as to the best course to serve the nation.

and respect the principles of states' rights in government. Nowhere has this fulfillment been better exemplified than in the restoration to Texas of its tidelands and the policy of the Department of Justice in defending that restoration to Texas of its tidelands and the policy of the Department of Justice in defending that restoration against the pending Alabama attack.

Another phase of this respect for states' and local rights is the new policy of the Army and the Department of the Interior in the purchase of land. This new policy, urged chiefly by the Republican party of Texas, provides for a minimum of outright purchase of land. This should materially reduce real estate costs to the federal government and, in addition, state and local governments will benefit by the increased amount of land left on the tax rolls.

Looking toward 1954, perhaps the most significant milestone of the Eisenhower administration is its real and sincere effort toward unity for the good of the country. This is an open and above-board approach, as typified by the President's decision to call in leaders of the opposition party to go over the administration program for this session of Congress.

It definitely is not a bid for what has sometimes passed for "unity" brought about by means of concession, connivance and convenience, as has so often been the case in the past.

The promise of Texas' emergence as a key force in the national political field by reason of its independent action in 1952 certainly has gone a long way toward achievement in 1953.

Thanks to what they saw could be accomplished in 1952, it is now deeply encouraging to note that Republican leaders outside of the South are increasingly aware of the fact that their greatest potential reservoir of new votes is in the South. They tapped that reservoir in 1952, and this is particularly true of Texas. There is no doubt that most of our Republican leaders now recognize Texas as the real key to that reservoir of Southern voting power.

There will be no Republican token slates of candidates in Texas in 1954. I mean by this that when you see a Republican name on the ballot for county, district or state office, the Republican party is convinced it is offering the best in the field with a real chance to win.

Men In Service

Jack D. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Miller, 410 Young St., has been promoted to airman first class in the Air Force.

Miller is stationed at Clark Air Force Base in The Philippines. He received advancement in grade while performing duties as a radio operator with the 1961st Airways and Air Communications Service Squadron, Military Transport Service.

He was graduated from Lindsay, Okla., High School prior to joining the service in April, 1952, and has been overseas for the past six months. His wife, Carole Ray Martin, lives in Los Angeles.

Withdrawn Books Are Being Put Back

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Between six and eight thousand books recently withdrawn from state library shelves are being restored for adult circulation only, says Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter.

Carpenter had ordered the withdrawal of books of "a salacious, vulgar or obscene character," but he said he believes state library officials were overzealous in carrying out his order. After the order there was an immediate statewide outcry of "censorship."

Benny The Buffalo Too Much A Rover

PHILLIPSBURG, N. J. (AP)—Benny the buffalo was too much of a rover. Rather than settle down with a buffalo named Beulah, he smashed out of a corral last Thursday.

Several civil air patrol planes had to join a search when ground parties failed to track him down. He was spotted yesterday and men from Lanark Stables, which owned him, drove up in a jeep and shot him.

Later they said that was all they could have done, since he was just plain wild and preferred roaming to staying home.

About three-quarters of the trailers being sold to Americans are more than 30 feet long although in 1948 more than 83 per cent were under 30 feet.

International Air To These Two Dishes

A hearty meat stew is just the dish to set before a hungry family on nippy winter evenings. Beef continues plentiful, with stew meat one of the thriftest meat buys.

Here's a tasty variation of the standard beef stew, known as Hungarian goulash. In this tested recipe, beef stew meat is simmered to fork tenderness in bouillon seasoned with a generous amount of paprika and a whiff of garlic. When the meat is almost tender, cubed potatoes are added to cook in the rich broth. Served with a simple fruit salad and hard rolls, Hungarian goulash makes a satisfying family dinner dish.

HUNGARIAN GOULASH

Ingredients:

- 1 pound beef stew meat
- 1 clove garlic
- 2 medium onions
- 2 teaspoons paprika
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 bouillon cubes
- 2 cups boiling water
- 2 cups diced potatoes

Method:

Cut meat into 1-inch cubes and brown in a little hot fat. Add minced garlic, sliced onions, seasonings and the bouillon cubes dissolved in the hot water. Cover and simmer 2 1/2 hours. Add 1 cup hot water and potatoes, cut in 1/2 inch cubes. Cook 20 minutes longer, or until potatoes are tender. Season to taste and thicken, if necessary.

SECRETS OF A GOOD STEW

If you'd be an expert stew-maker, follow these basic rules:

1. Use any meat desired—beef, veal, lamb or pork—and cut into cubes.
2. Dip meat cubes into seasoned flour and brown in a little hot fat over medium heat. For best results, brown only a few cubes at a time.

3. Add interesting seasonings, such as some celery tops, a few whole cloves and a bay leaf. Then add liquid to cover meat.
4. Cover and cook over low heat until meat is nearly tender.

5. Add the desired vegetables and cook until they are done. Favorite choices are carrots, potatoes and onions. Other interesting variations are peas, green beans, cauliflower, whole kernel corn, lima beans, kidney beans and cabbage.
6. Remove meat and vegetables to a hot platter and thicken liquid with a flour and water paste. Season gravy and pour over meat and vegetables.

Beef Stew Around The World
Beef stew is an international dish. Here's the tested recipe for a South-of-the-Border version of the versatile stew. Cubes of beef are cooked with tomato sauce and kidney beans. Then the mixture is poured into a cornmeal mush "crust" and baked.

MEXICAN BEEF PIE

Ingredients:

- 1 1/2 pounds beef stew meat
- Flour, salt, pepper, fat
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 1 clove garlic
- 2 teaspoons chili powder
- 1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce
- 1 No. 2 can kidney beans
- 1 cup cornmeal

Method:

Cut meat into 1/2 inch cubes, sprinkle with salt and pepper and roll in flour. Brown well in a little hot fat. Add onions, minced garlic, chili powder, tomato sauce and 2 cups water. Cover and cook over low heat until meat is tender, about 2 hours. Stir occasionally to prevent sticking. Add undrained kidney beans and heat thoroughly. Line the bottom and sides of a greased 1 1/2 quart casserole with cornmeal mush made by cooking the cornmeal in 3 cups boiling, salted water; fill with meat mixture. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes. 6 servings.

HUNGARIAN GOULASH

MRS. EARL FLATMAN AND EARL JR.

German Dish Easy As American Ones

Mrs. Earl Flatman, 404 Harding, a native of Breslau in what used to be known as Silesia but is now part of Poland, has caught on to American cooking but there is one dish that is part of her German heritage that she still likes to prepare.

The Rollade, which is described by her neighbors and her husband. Actually it is a rolled steak and is quite easy.

Mrs. Flatman's husband is Sgt. Earl Flatman of Webb Air Force Base. They have one son, Earl Jr., who was born in Big Spring.

Mrs. Flatman has been in the States a little over a year. She set a precedent for her sister because just a month ago she married a Webb airman too and is living in Big Spring.

When Mrs. Flatman's mother, Mrs. Brinke, arrives next month from West Germany, she will no doubt enjoy some of her daughter's Rollade.

ROLLADE

Ingredients:

- One piece thin, sliced, boneless round steak per person.
- Mustard
- Onion, sliced
- Sour pickles, sliced
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Garlic salt, if desired
- Bacon

Method:

Cover each steak with mustard, sliced pickles, seasonings and onion and place one strip of bacon on each. Roll up and fasten with toothpicks. Place in fat in skillet, cover and fry. When almost done add water, cover and steam until done.

Mrs. Flatman suggests that gravy be made to use over steaks if desired.

Go Creole With Real Shrimp Jambalaya

Here comes New Orleans! Yes, we've been cooking that wonderful Creole dish—Shrimp Jambalaya. We've been streamlining it a bit, too, so you can make it successfully for your next buffet supper.

One accompaniment to this Jambalaya we always like—a green salad. Use romaine or watercress and cucumbers, if they are available, for the salad; otherwise make do with what you can get. Just be sure your greens are chilled and crisp, and that the salad has plenty of French dressing on it. This Jambalaya is not a saucy dish—it cooks dry—and you need a salad dressed in dressing to go with it.

This recipe will make hearty servings for eight. But if you should not have that many, don't worry. Put the leftovers in a covered casserole in the refrigerator. Next day, stir in a little curry powder, dot with butter or margarine, and heat uncovered in a very hot oven. When we tried this, our taste-testers gave us compliments aplenty!

SHRIMP JAMBALAYA

Ingredients:

- 2 pounds shrimp
- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 1 1/2 cups diced smoked lean raw ham (sliced thin)
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 green pepper (chopped)
- 2 medium sized onions (chopped)
- 1 bay leaf (crumbled)
- 2 cups uncooked converted-type rice
- 1 cup strained court bouillon (to start with)
- One No. 2 1/2 can tomatoes
- Salt and pepper and cayenne to taste

Onion rings
Method: Cook shrimp in court bouillon. Shell and devein. Heat oil in 12-inch skillet. Add ham and brown. Remove ham from skillet; set aside. Add butter to remaining oil in pan. Add green pepper, onion, garlic and bay leaf; cook until onion is partly tender and lightly browned. Add rice; cook and stir constantly until browned. Stir in 1 cup court bouillon, tomatoes and reserved ham. Cover skillet and simmer, stirring with fork occasionally, about 20 minutes or until rice is cooked. Add salt, pepper and cayenne. If mixture becomes too dry before rice is cooked, add more court bouillon—you may need 1/2 cup extra. When rice is cooked, stir in shrimp; if shrimp are large, cut in two lengthwise. Turn into casserole; garnish with onion rings. Place in hot (425F) oven just long enough to heat shrimp—5 to 10 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

COURT BOUILLON FOR SHRIMP
Ingredients:
3 1/2 quarts water

- 1/2 stalk celery
- 1 carrot (sliced)
- 1 small white onion (sliced)
- Juice of 1/2 lemon
- 1 teaspoon salt
- A few peppercorns

Method:

Put water in saucepan. Add all ingredients and bring to boil. Add shrimp. Let water come to boil; simmer 2 to 5 minutes. Drain shrimp, reserving court bouillon.

Pecans, Dates Team Up For Pudding

Pecans and dates team up in this recipe for pudding.

PECAN DATE PUDDING

- 1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 package pitted dates (7 1/4 ounces)
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 cup broken pecan nuts

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut up dates into a mixing bowl, sprinkle soda over them and add boiling water; stir a few times and let stand. Cream butter or margarine with sugar; beat in egg thoroughly. Mix in flour, then date mixture, and nuts. Pour into greased 8-inch square pan and bake in a very slow (300 degrees F.) oven one hour. Cool in pan and cut in squares. Serve with pudding sauce or whipped cream.

Lamb And Veal

Although lamb and veal are on the market in relatively small supply (less than 10 per cent of the total meat produced), attractive buys are to be found in shoulder roasts and stew meat.

A good steer!

Murrell R. Tripp, who has headed an insurance claims service serving this area for several years, has organized a fire and casualty insurance company with home offices in Lubbock. It is the Western Fire and Indemnity Company and has $200,000 capital stock and $200,000 paid in surplus. He disposed of his claims business late last year, including the branch office in Big Spring.

All Kinds Of People Become Wrestling Fans

By BARD LINDEMAN
Associated Press Staff

A group of inmates from the Terrell State Hospital, a Boy Scout troop and fans of no recognizable denomination made up the wrestling crowd.

A man walked into the promoter's office up over the Dallas arena and said, "Those people from the state hospital are down front."

"Geez. Ordinary people go crazy down at these fights," the promoter said. "I hope it's all right."

"Oh, they're well behaved," the man told the promoter. "We've had them before. The guy who brings them says it does them a lot of good."

That's the way it is wrestling. It does some people a lot of good. Its appeal, if it is successful, reaches some entire families. They attend in a body, often go their own way when the rooting begins. The crowd on this night came early. They were busy running back and forth and eating much of the time. They bought pop corn, peanuts, french fries, beer, coffee, snow cones, hot dogs, soft drinks and went to the rest rooms. It was very busy and social—until the wrestling started.

Attention then was directed toward the well-lit ring and people were too busy yelling, hating, jumping and cheering for anything else.

An 11-year-old girl took sick. She was with her mother and grandmother. The women wrapped the child in a blanket. She lay across their laps in the box where the women sat. Her mother said she was shivering because she had a cold. "She'll be all right," the mother said. The tag match was coming up next.

A teen-age girl with a rabbit's foot around her neck became faint. She ran under the stands and got a cup of crushed ice from the beer stand. She watched the main event with the crushed ice pressed against her forehead. "I like to faint," she said.

A young mother and her small daughter walked up to a wrestler who wasn't working that night and invited him to Sunday dinner. He declined but opened a conversation. The woman offered to start a fan club in the wrestler's honor. He declined again. They parted friends—with at least the women thrilled by the experience. Wrestling is many things.

Wrestling, professionally, is a show. Most state athletic commissions call it "an exhibition." The means—not the end result—are what count. A wrestling match is not the same type of contest as the Oklahoma-Texas football game.

A wrestler is judged by his severest critics—the booking agent and the promoter—on his gate appeal, his pull with the fans. He does not have a batting average or a won-lost record. How he rates with the fans determines the salary he can command.

Wrestlers, like most performers have individual styles. Styles depend, to some extent, on physical equipment. Naturally if a man has a good body and a collar-ad face he becomes a hero or a "baby-face." The large, corpulent wrestler with a bald head is a "heel," the villain.

The villain gestures at the crowd, which automatically hates him, and cries persecution when things don't go his way. This is good theater.

A writer explaining wrestling has put it this way: "Almost every wrestling match follows the basic formula of drama, which calls for a hero, a villain and a conflict."

Promoters seldom agree on what brings people out to watch wrestling. Some say its psychological. The women turn out to see large men in short pants exercise. "It's romantic," one promoter says. Another lumps the appeal into a personal observation—"Women hate men." He thinks women like to see men beat each other up.

"Whatever it is," says Dallas promoter Ed McLemore, "wrestling fans are the most loyal and we all hope they never stop."

Many To Face A Tax Deadline On Jan. 15

Several hundred Howard County businessmen, farmers and high-salaried workers are facing a tax deadline.

They're the ones who must file declarations of estimated income tax. The deadline is Jan. 15. And by that date, farmers must have paid at least two-thirds of their 1953 income tax, while businessmen and others must have 80 per cent of their tax in the hands of the Internal Revenue Service.

Ben Hawkins, senior agent in the local IRS office, doesn't know just how many estimates are to be filed. But he figures at least 6,000 tax returns of one kind or another will be made by Mar. 15, the general filing deadline.

Generally, Hawkins says, about a fifth of any given area's population will file an income tax return each year. In the case of a person whose income is from sources other than wages, taxes are paid quarterly in advance on the basis of estimated annual income.

Returns based on estimated income are required of persons whose annual wages exceed $4,500 plus $600 for each exemption claimed. A declaration of estimated income tax also must be filed by any person with annual income in excess of $100 from sources other than wages.

The returns and tax payments for the last quarter of 1953 is due on or before Jan. 15. Those falling into the required category who have failed to file declarations at quarterly intervals during 1953 may file either a final declaration or an income tax return by Jan. 15. At the same time, they should pay any balance of tax owed the government on their entire 1953 income.

However, if paying the entire balance of the tax immediately proves difficult, the taxpayer may avoid penalties by paying at least 80 per cent of his total tax Jan. 15, and the remainder by Mar. 15. Such a procedure would involve filing both a declaration (Jan. 15) and a tax return (by Mar. 15).

Hawkins points out that tax officers then must process the returns involving refunds and "deficiencies." It is the policy, according to the tax agent, to first process the refunds and then turn attention to the returns showing deficiencies.

Iran Ready To Tangle In Loudspeaker Setup

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Iran is getting ready to tilt with her big northern neighbor, the Soviet Union, in a cross-the-border battle of loudspeakers.

For years the Russians, through big loudspeakers on Iran's northwestern border at Jolfa, have blared Moscow radio music and propaganda at their Iranian neighbors.

A Cabinet source said yesterday Premier Fazollah Zohabi's government has decided to set up its own string of frontier loudspeakers.

Repaired Dorm Unit To Be Re-Occupied At Hardin-Simmons

ABILENE — Hardin-Simmons University male students plan to re-occupy Ferguson Hall for men on the H-SU campus in the spring semester according to Frank Ju-nell, vice president in charge of institutional development.

While the dormitory is being remodeled, H-SU men have been living in off-campus quarters. At present Cowden-Paxton, athletic dorm, is the only housing unit for men on the Hardin-Simmons campus.

The dormitory repair work was contracted as part of an $859,500 construction program which included also the building of a new dormitory for men which is scheduled for occupancy next September.

A new feature of the remodeled dorm will be the spacious recreation center on the ground floor located on the site of the old courtyard. A kitchenette will be just off the reception centers.

Man Who Resisted Progress Dies At 93

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 93-year-old Columbus man who was so suspicious of electricity he used gas to light his small frame house has left an estate of $104,233.10.

Joseph Buff, a strong-willed man who condemned automobiles as "new fangled contraptions," was killed by one last Nov. 27. A bicycle rider until he was 90, Buff had refused an offer of an automobile ride home from a visit the night he was killed.

Buff, whose will was probated yesterday, left some of the money to a church and an orphanage, the rest to his nieces.

Mindszenty's Aide Named Parish Priest

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Imprisoned Josef Cardinal Mindszenty's former private secretary has resumed church offices after serving a 4-year prison term.

The Cardinal's aide, the Rev. Ondras Zakar, was included on a list of church appointments yesterday in Magyar Kurir, official organ of the Roman Catholic Church in Hungary. The publication disclosed he is now an assistant parish priest in Budapest.

The priest was one of six defendants sentenced along with Mindszenty in February 1949.
