SPEAKER RAINEY POINTS TO RAINBOW Speaker Henry T. Rainey of the house of representatives appeared before the general conference of the Tanagers' Council of America and made a remarkable declaration. He said that before President Roosevelt took office "the country had taken the longest step toward communism than any nation had ever taken except Russia."

Speaker Rainey, for many years, has represented one of the great agricultural districts of Illinois. He has ever been close to the farmer. He compared the measure empowering the president to expand currency, coin silver and reevaluate the gold dollar The Three Guns.

In closing he said "the nation had told the president: You are the general here are three 16-inch guns. Shoot one if you must and shoot them all if you are compelled to do so, but meet this unfair industrial war they have been waging against us."

He reviewed all that happened since the inauguration. President Roosevelt is using or will use his three 16-inch guns. In their making by congress and the president, the American people witnessed the most remarkable program of constructive legislation in history.

Incidentally, there will be no summer capital. President Roosevelt will not go to the Black Hills. He will spend his time in Washington and Hyde Park, N. Y., during the blazing period of the year. He has been on the job two months. He will continue to sit on the lid.

There will be no power behind the throne—"but the backing of the American nation."

HUGE SAVINGS PREDICTED BY SEN. REDDIT Sen. John Reddit of Lufkin is in the picture. He is said to be a close student of finance, taxation and the economic conditions. He has estimated that the state appropriations for the next two years will show a saving of 12 million dollars on the past biennium expenditures.

Senator Reddit is a member of the finance committee. He based his estimate on the figures of three appropriations bills decided on and the senate figures for the educational appropriations bill. In his calculation the senator from Lufkin took the average figures for the educational bill for $10,062,649. According to the capitol correspondents, this figure is somewhat higher than that figure in the house bill and probably will be reduced.

This is a prediction made by a capitol correspondent: "In all probability a compromise between the house and senate bills will be made, increasing the educational savings."

"It was a maxim of Thomas Jefferson's that a people the least governed are the best governed, and it was one of the tenets of his gospel of democracy that the cost of government should be kept within the income and that low taxation touching all concerned was the best form of taxation.

There are many critics of lawmaking or governing bodies. To be a critic, devoted entirely to the work of criticism, is easy work.

Yes, praise should be given lawmakers who kill bad bills—and there are a lot of bad bills introduced—as well as praise for the enactment of wise measures and keeping the cost of government within the reach of the pockets of the people of Texas.

ANOTHER HEADLINE AND PROSPERITY FOREWORD

New York and Chicago are in the picture, speaking of stock exchanges and prices. On May 10 stocks and wheat hit the highest prices in a year and a half and cotton prices hiked to the best levels since last September. This in addition: "The bond market and other staple products also joined the upward processor." A forcible reminder that the new deal administration has at least driven fear from the hearts of men and that the mass mind is changing from pessimism to optimism. Let us hope that there will be a continuance without another gambling craze capturing the minds of men and women.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

F. A. MILLER, publisher of the South Bend (Indiana) Tribune, says:

THAT the time for a parent to gain control of a child is in babyhood.

On that control in babyhood depends in large measure the success of a child's future.

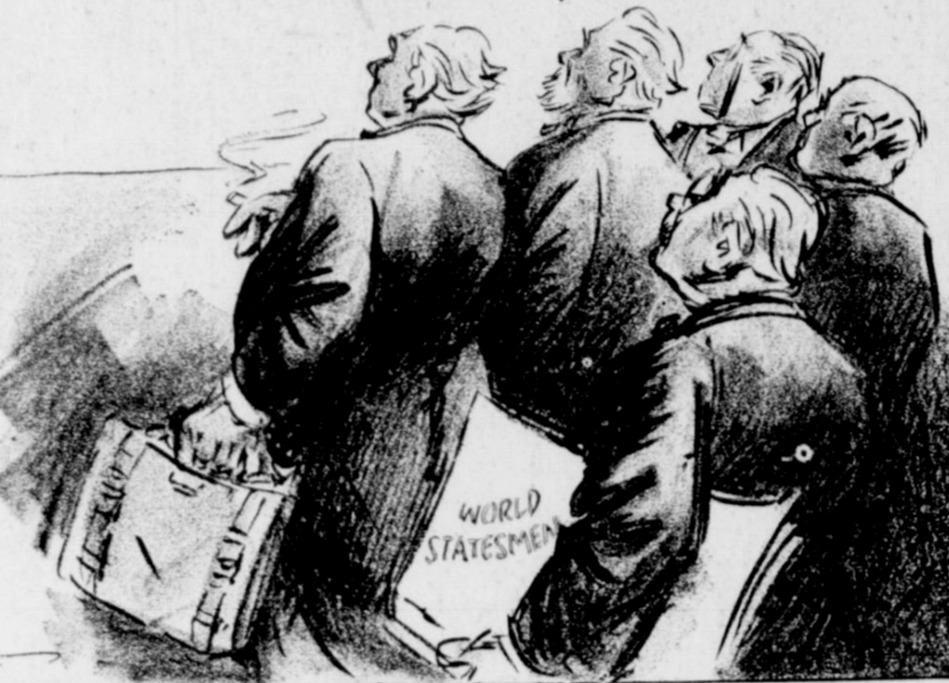

The utmost wisdom on the part of the parent is required in a child's growing years if its adult life is to be all it should be.

Parents who neglect early training of their children are repaid in sorrow.

A child is not responsible for its presence in the world and unless parents accept and appreciate their responsibility they should not hope for good results.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON.—The Republican party wants to know how thoroughly it has been Hooverized.

Just why this body should have been set up alongside the Republican national committee and the Republican congressional campaign committees is not clear unless the aim was to retain influence and control within the party for Hoover and this particular group of ex-office holders.

Famed Fullback Will Get Tryout On Yankee Farm

AUSTIN. When big Ernest Koy unpacks his bludgeon on some New York Yankee baseball farm he will start erasing the big question mark hung on him by admirers and sports writers.

Undoubtedly Koy is one of the greatest football players of all time at the University of Texas, sufficiently so to win the acclaim of his coach as the best fullback he had ever seen.

Some critics maintain that Koy is muscle-bound from football, handicapping his freedom of movement in baseball and injuring his playing form.

His play at the University of Texas in his sophomore year attracted wide attention and brought him offers of professional contracts.

Maggots Eating Up Berry Crop

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Maggots are reported eating the greater part of Pennsylvania's huckleberry crop, threatening one of the state's most unusual industries.

The huckleberries, or blueberries, grow wild in a zone of 100,000 acres, on the northeastern mountains of the state.

Late in June, entire families migrate to the berry fields and harvest the crop, which averages 2,000,000 quarts annually.

The berries are collected nightly by dealers, who transport them to metropolitan districts.

CRACKS IN THE DOME

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN.—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson's apparent decision not to seek re-election has centered interest on whether Speaker Coke Stevenson of Junction, will run for governor or for congress.

When Rep. T. H. McGregor, close political friend of the Ferguson, in the House of Representatives lauded Stevenson for governor, it could only mean the speaker is the Ferguson choice and that Mrs. Ferguson will not stand in his way by running again.

But whether Stevenson will run for governor is another question. It is a matter on which he remains uncommunicative. There was no doubt that when Stevenson launched his campaign for speaker of the 43rd legislature, the governor's chair was kept in view.

It includes all but one of the 10 counties that have been regularly returning him to the state legislature as their representative. The other counties in the congressional district are Sterling, Rannels, Coleman, Brown, Irion, Tom Green, Concho, San Saba, Mills, Lampasas, Gillespie, Llano, Val Verde, Uvalde and Kinney.

Stevenson is equipped to make his future political campaigns on horseback. Fellow legislators presented him with one of the finest saddles ever exhibited here. It is silver mounted and a beautiful piece of leather work.

Speed To Handle Firestone Tires, Texaco Products

With confidence in Eastland, and a happy medium of living in the metropolis city of Eastland county, Roy Speed completed all arrangements this week whereby he becomes owner and operator of the Eastland Gasoline company station, corner Senan and Main street.

Mr. Speed states that he has been appointed distributor for all Firestone products including tires, tubes, batteries and all Firestone accessories. In addition he will have a complete garage service in connection with his business.

There was no doubt that when Stevenson launched his campaign for speaker of the 43rd legislature, the governor's chair was kept in view. Since then there has been carved out a new Texas congressional district that fits Stevenson to a "T".

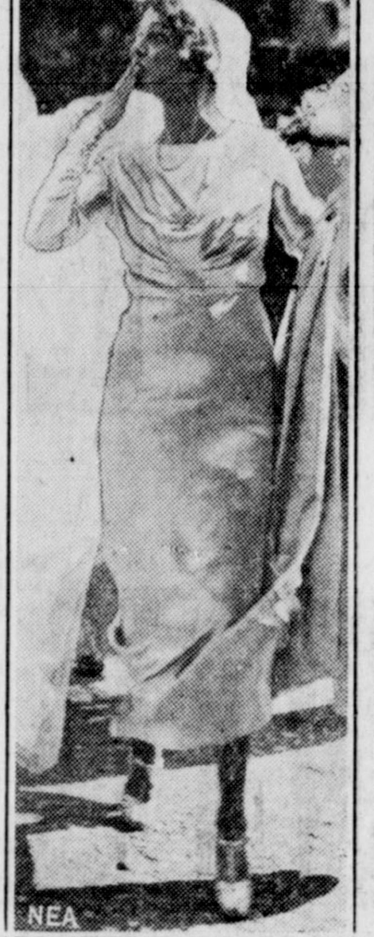

It includes all but one of the 10 counties that have been regularly returning him to the state legislature as their representative. Joseph Bennett Truly Is Dead
Joseph Bennett Truly died at his home in the southeast part of Eastland Tuesday morning at about 3 o'clock. Death came suddenly.

His wife, who was the only one with him, heard him make a peculiar noise and went to him, but he was already dead. Funeral services were held at the Eastland cemetery Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with Sam G. Thompson, pastor of the Methodist church, in charge of the ceremonies and the Hamner Undertaking company in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mr. Truly was born in Kaufman county Aug. 9, 1872. With his father and mother he came to Eastland in 1878 and made this home almost continuously until the time of his death. In 1902 he was married to Miss Maggie Hammons, who died within about four years, and later he married Mrs. Minnie Sheppard. No children were born to either union.

Surviving him are his wife; his mother, Mrs. Anna Truly of Eastland; four brothers, J. P. N. H. and Horace of Eastland and Paul K. of Los Angeles, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Helen Houston of Eastland and Mrs. Eunice Sellers of Abilene.

Close Observers Say F. D. Swings From Fergusons

By MERRILL E. COMPTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
DALLAS, Texas.—Insistence of the national Democratic party to inject its will in Texas affairs has caused many close observers to proclaim the Roosevelt administration is steering away from the Fergusons.

They made bold after the specially called meeting of the state democratic committee here where the national party said to hold sway over local maneuvering to replace Jed C. Adams, Dallas attorney, as member of the national democratic committee.

James A. Farley, national committee chairman, refused to accept Adams' resignation ignoring the readings that the newly appointed member of the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals was ineligible because of his quasi-judicial post.

Farley and the national committee rebuked Ferguson forces when they refused to accept Adams' resignation in the face of almost certain election of McDonald.

National patronage will come apparently by Adams' endorsement, certainly not counseled by the Ferguson forces. Adams, unfriended by Hughes, was the winner in another feud.

Editorial opinion following the meeting was frank. The Mexia Daily News admitted the break between the national party and the Texas democrats when it said: "The last minute withdrawal of his resignation as national committee member of the democratic party for Texas by J. C. Adams of Dallas demonstrates quite openly that the national party leadership is not ready to turn over Texas patronage to James E. Ferguson."

Quite the contrary was the viewpoint of the Fort Worth Press, which termed the whole turn of events at "petty" politics. "Whether one approves of James E. Ferguson or not, it is certain that such petty politics has not been played in Texas for a long time as was played in the effort to keep Mr. Ferguson's friend C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, from becoming democratic national committee man from Texas."

Balancing Budget To Be a Problem For June Brides

FORT WORTH, June 23.—June brides will find a lot of budget problems when they unwrap and arrange their wedding gifts in hundreds of new homes next month.

The word "inflation," forgotten in the rush of parties and wedding preparations, will have a new significance. The "new deal" has brought an advance of at least one-third in grocery costs, while the dollar and pay check remained behind. Therein lies the budget problem.

SOMETIME ago, Col. Matt Winn announced that the prize of $50,000 for the Kentucky Derby would not be cut. Other races on the spring program could be trimmed but the president of the American Turf Association insisted that the Derby be saved from the economic axe.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. John Harrison and received by Mrs. A. J. Campbell, president; Mrs. J. R. Laughlin, incoming president and Mmes. N. N. Rosenquest; W. E. Stalter, Joseph M. Perkins, R. L. Young and J. C. Day. Mrs. W. D. R. Owen presided at the registration table. Misses Fay Campbell and Ruth Rosenquest acted as ushers.

Mrs. Campbell welcomed the guests and presented Mrs. McLaughlin, program chairman for the afternoon.

Mrs. McLaughlin gave a resume of the origin and extensive growth of the Delphinians, whose ideal in giving something of high cultural value each year, was exemplified in the presentation of artists of such ability and charm.

The clubroom, beautifully decorated in black and gold, formed an admirable setting for the artists, Cora Mick King, voice; Betty Laseley, piano.

Mrs. King began her study with Dr. Drake of Kingfisher college, later studying under Hinshaw of Chicago Civic Opera company, Howell of Boston Conservatory, and Carlton Hackett of Chicago. She began her concert career as a student in Oklahoma, following this by appearances in Virginia and Texas. At present Mrs. King is choir director of the First Baptist church, Temple, and prominent in other musical activities of that city.

Mrs. King gave a program varying from the most difficult arias to a simpler group of "heart songs." Her interpretative power, exceptional diction and rich tonal quality were noted in all her songs. Her dramatic and coloratura vocalism, with smoothness and purity, held a magnetic influence over her audience.

Betty Laseley began study with her sister, Nancy Craig, now a teacher of piano at McMurray college, Abilene. In 1929 she won state Federation Music Club scholarship. After her graduation from Juillard School of Music, of New York City, Miss Laseley won the Steinway scholarship in Fontainebleau, France, studying there with Louis Phillippe. Recently she has studied with Ernest Hutchenon of New York.

Miss Laseley is a young artist of unaffected grace and charm, winning her audience from her first appearance and holding it until the finish. In giving the numbers in both groups, she played with marked brilliance and superb technique, executing the most difficult passages with ease, precision and confidence. Her interpretation of each number was so exqu岸itively done that her listeners were swayed into changing moods at the will of the artist. As an accompanist, Miss Laseley gave an unusually sympathetic and artistic support.

After repeated calls for encores, Mrs. King sang "Danny Boy" by Weatherly, and Miss Laseley responded with "Night Winds" by Griffes.

After the recital, Mrs. King sang "Danny Boy" by Weatherly, and Miss Laseley responded with "Night Winds" by Griffes.

Films Are Urged For Law Study

NORMAN, Ok.—Law students would learn their profession by discarding books and lecture methods in favor of motion pictures, under a new plan of instruction proposed by Floyd A. Wright, professor of law at the University of Oklahoma.

Killings, embezzlements, accidents, grounds for divorce suits and other potential lawsuit material would be thrown before the students in plain sight. Each would piece together his own set of facts from observation.

"Through use of the film the student would be taken into the various courts... to witness the procedure, trial argument of counsel and other matters," wrote Wright in an article explaining his plan.

"He would listen to judges rule upon points of evidence and law, charge juries and pronounce decisions."

Cost of making the various films would be the only present obstacle to realization of the scheme. Wright believes the cost would not be prohibitive even now in some schools.

Texas University Continues to Grow

By United Press

AUSTIN.—The 1932-33 school year saw continued growth for the University of Texas in graduation and enrollment numbers.

Enrollment statistics supplied by the university show, gained 317 over last year, advancing to 6,738 as against 6,421 for 1931-32. Candidates for graduation exceeded by nearly 200 the number awarded degrees last spring and by more than 200 the number of graduates in the spring of 1931. This year's crop totals 866, of which 564 are boys and 302 are girls.

Included among the graduates who will receive their diplomas June 5 are eight foreign students representing Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico, Egypt and the Philippine Islands, and 58 students from 20 other states.

Also in the list of growing colleges in the state is West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon, with an enrollment of 917 as against 866 last year. The number last year was 80. These figures do not include summer graduates.

Of the group slated to receive diplomas June 1, 57 are girls, 26 boys, "a very serious-minded, hard working group," according to school authorities, "who seem to have the right perspective in regard to teaching, the thing they are prepared to do."

Perhaps the most striking increase in enrollment among Texas schools was exhibited by Paul Quinn college, Waco. The number jumped from 80 last year to 208. Graduation figures, however, will not reflect the enrollment increase for some time to come, although steady advances have been manifested in that regard, too. The class this year numbered 27, as against 20 for 1931 and 21 last year.

Ex-Texas Students May Be Found In All Foreign Climes

AUSTIN.—Wherever you go, whether from Argentine to Ireland, or from Sweden to Singapore, you will run across "Texases," as former students of the University of Texas are familiarly called. Files of the Ex-Students association reveal that ex-students of the university may be found in 46 foreign countries and in numerous insular territories.

Almost every remote corner of the earth lists at least one ex-student among its residents. Turkey, Java, Alaska, Persia, Poland, Sumatra, Jerusalem, India, and Iraq are all included. Even in Singapore, called the most picturesque seaport in the world and the mecca of every adventurer, an ex-student is found in the person of Miss Gazelle Traeger, teacher in a mission school for girls.

Several ex-students now reside in China, among whom is Mrs. Henry J. Pehn, the daughter of Dr. J. M. Kuchme, professor of physics at the university. Mrs. Pehn resides in Shanghai. Charles Lamar Shanon, another ex-student, is now enlisted in the Chinese air force and is training Chinese aviators to be pursuit pilots.

Several ex-students live in Mexico and Canada. Many live in Central and South America, England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, and the nations of European continent are host to ex-students.

DARLING FOOL

BEGIN HERE TODAY by MABEL McCELLUOTT

MONNIE O'DARE is going abroad with Miss ANSTICE, an old friend of her father's, to try to forget DAN CARLSON. Dan's parents want him to marry SANDRA LAWRENCE who, while pretending to be Monnie's friend, has been trying to win him from her Dan has been in Wyoming with a party including his mother, sister and Sandra. When Monnie received a cool letter from Dan she decided to accept Miss Cory's invitation to go to Europe as her companion.

Monnie does not know that Dan rushed home to see her, arriving just after her train left. The night before sailing she and Miss Cory go to a theater in New York. A handsome stranger offers them his car for the ride.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXII

AS Miss Anstice said afterward, Arthur Mackenzie, who was the tall man of the theater advertisement, was "such a perfect gentleman." Miss Anstice had been a bit disturbed after she and Monnie had arrived at the hotel to realize they had driven across town "with a perfect stranger." And such terrible things happened in New York! But it had been the rain and the worry of getting her plum-colored wrap spotted which had plunged Miss Anstice into this daring.

And, after all, nothing had happened. Mr. Mackenzie, quietly assured, had told the chauffeur to drop them at the Splendobit and take him on to a place that sounded to Monnie like "The Firefly." She had read only that evening in the newspaper of a new night club of that name.

Cleverly, deftly Mr. Mackenzie had elicited from Miss Anstice the fact they were sailing on the morrow. He had smilingly wished them a pleasant voyage. Monnie, sitting demurely in one corner of the huge car, had caught a flash in the man's dark eyes when Miss Anstice mentioned the name of the boat. Their first trip? But how delightful! He wished he might have the—er—the pleasure of showing Miss Corey and Miss O'Dare his favorite haunts in Paris. They would love Paris, he said, in a quiet, assured voice that seemed to brook no contradiction.

The car slid under the dripping awning of the Splendobit and Mr. Mackenzie forestalled the action of the chauffeur in helping the ladies to alight. A tall, imposing figure in his gleaming black and white, he stood there. But it had been a real pleasure. He was assuring them. He had been charmed. He gave Monnie's slim gloved hand a quick pressure. Her fingers tingled afterward.

"Have you got all your things in order?" Miss Anstice was nervous. They would have to be up early she and Monnie. One of her pet horrors was the thought of missing a train or a boat. "I shan't sleep a wink," she prophesied. But later Monnie heard her deep and quiet breathing as she herself lay wide-eyed, listening to the rain on the windows.

The city lay below them, an only partially somnolent beast. The hum of traffic, of taxicabs skidding along the gleaming pavements, the hasty screech of brakes reached her ears. Why had she liked Arthur Mackenzie quickly, on sight she wondered? Was it because he reminded her of Charles? He wasn't the least bit like him, really. Why, he must be 40. But she was nice. There was something definitely attractive about this assured man of the world.

"He's the sort who gets what he wants, always," thought the girl shrewdly. It must be wonderful to go about with a man like that, to be petted, taken care of as if you were a valuable piece of porcelain.

FOR the first time since her decision to go with Miss Corey had taken form, Monnie was honestly glad.

"Maybe I can free myself from this obsession about Dan," she thought, dropping off. There had been days when she was certain she had conquered the wild, ungovernable anguish. But then a chance look, a word, a quoted line of verse, would set the old pain throbbing again. Well, she would put half a world between them and perhaps that would help.

They had an early breakfast and were ready a full hour before the time appointed, their bags strapped and waiting.

"The clerk says he's sending up some mail," Miss Anstice announced, turning away from the telephone. Monnie's heart gave a wild leap. A letter—the long-awaited letter might be among them! But there was only a bon voyage note from Kay and another from Charles Eustace. She had to throttle her disappointment. She had been hoping against hope that—

"Any news?" Miss Anstice looked up from her checkbook. "No news!" Monnie smiled valiantly to hide the hurt.

She stood on the deck a little later, watching late comers board the ship. Miss Anstice was in her cabin but she had sent Monnie out "to see the excitement." A slim wand of a girl in a coat of hunter's green, her amber eyes stary above the collar of deep brown fur, she drew many eyes. Porters struggled with trunks on the dock, leisurely men with briefcases strolled aboard. There was one bridal party, youthful and distinguished, dressed with careless elegance, making farewells. She had a long, pale, aristocratic face. She was wrapped austere in black caecum topped by a lei of silver fox. Monnie could hear her slow drawl.

"My dear, we'll see you in Biarritz next month. Don't look at Ronnie—those drinks last night were poisonous—"

Somewhat, Monnie thought, this girl didn't fit the picture of the happy bride. She looked cool, disdainful, far from radiant.

"Good morning, Miss O'Dare."

MONNIE wheeled, surprised to hear her name spoken in this meek, watching her with an expression of faint amusement on his weatherbeaten face, was her good Samaritan of the night before, Arthur Mackenzie.

"Oh, how do you do! You're seeing some one off?"

He shook his head, enjoying her amazement. "No, I'm sailing. Discovered I had some urgent business in Spain and thought I might as well make this boat. It's my favorite."

The girl in the silver fox glanced their way and Mackenzie bowed to her ironically. Her glances included Monnie and she said something in a low tone to her companions. There was a

Hitler Gives Farm Union Recognition

BERLIN.—Hitler is looking up the "forgotten man" in the rural districts—the farm hand.

Through political differences of opinion and a certain independence of thought, the farm hand remained at odds with the Republican governments, although cooperation of all workers' organizations was sought by the post-war regime. The farm hand organized, but remained on the outside because he refused to be swallowed up in the trade unions. His resistance has brought recognition from the new government.

Hitler has fully as difficult a task in fulfilling his promise to the farmer as Roosevelt has, but, like Roosevelt, he is making an earnest beginning. One of the first gestures toward the farm was the recognition of the "Farm Hands' Union," which has existed since 1919, but which was unimportant, due to its conflict with the trade unions. Now, with Hitler's promise to do something for the "forgotten man on the farm," the Union may become an important factor in any relief measures which affect the farm hand, the small tenant farmer and the small landholder.

The Union was founded by a farm hand returned from the front—Johannes Wolf. As far back as 1911, Wolf had the idea of a farmers' union, including laborers, small landholders and tenants. His ideal was an organization including both employers and employees. He realized this ideal in a small way when the first group, comprising all who belonged to the "profession of the farm" was founded in Brunswick in 1919.

MONNIE thought she saw a flash of amusement in the tall girl's smile as she drifted away.

"See you sometime, Arthur," the girl's voice floated back. The lean, bronzed young man who had been at her side rejoined her.

"Is that Corlith Candell who just married Harris Faneway?" breathed Miss Corey who always read all the society sections of the newspapers.

"Yes. Lovely, isn't she? Her father's my partner."

"Very pretty. Very pretty," Miss Anstice raised the forgotten she had been training on Bevedere society for 20 years. Privately she thought that Monnie with her delicate, wild rose coloring and stary gaze was much more delightful to look at than this Faneway girl had style.

"All ashore," called the uniformed man coming toward them. "All ashore," echoed the men below.

There were the usual prolonged farewells. Handkerchiefs waved from the dock. All at once, with a clamor of bells and a throb of engines, the great ship began to move.

As the trio watched a messenger boy came trotting down the ramp, waving a yellow slip.

"Some beggar's missed his message," commented a fat man beside Monnie. She listened dreamily to the harbor sounds, watching the piers slip past. She was on her way at last to adventure. The messenger boy and his tardy telegram meant nothing to her. How was she to know that Dan had sent her a wire at the hotel and that it had been forwarded to the boat?

Dan had said, "Forgive foolish letter. Waiting to hear from you Love."

Court To Rule On New Oil Orders

By United Press
FORT WORTH.—Fairness of the state's present production order for the East Texas oil field, allowing an output of approximately 750,000 barrels daily, will be examined by a three-judge federal court here, May 25.

All attacks filed by operators since the order went into effect are to be heard by the tribunal, composed of Judges J. C. Hutcheson Jr., James C. Wilson, and Randolph Bryant.

State railroad commissioners who drafted the order believe the present allowable will stand the test of court fire. It was drafted along legal lines drawn by a federal court in the last major litigation over validity of the state's oil curb.

Operators, however, are not satisfied with the order. Many believe that the huge output, credited with causing the recent debacle of East Texas crude prices, is robbing the field of its pressure.

Already pumps are being ordered for many wells. Nearly the entire field will go on the beam unless the state's allowable is lowered, according to current predictions.

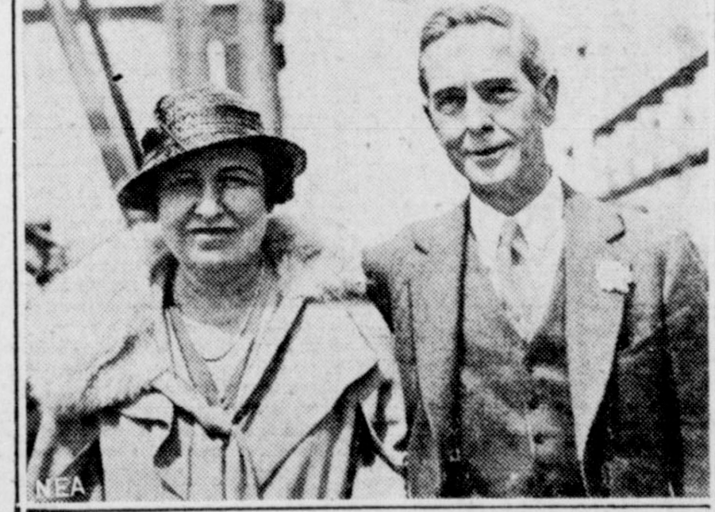

Among the attacks on the current order are those of the Hunt Production company of Tyler, and Rowan & Nichols, independent operators of Fort Worth. The former seeks an injunction against perpetuating orders of the commission. The latter claims the order is unfair and discriminatory.

The three-judge tribunal will hear all formal complaints this week. An immediate ruling, however, is doubtful.

United Store At Ranger Is Moved Here, Put on Sale.
Combining two complete stocks in one The United Dry Goods Stores, Inc. have moved their stock from Ranger to Eastland and will stage beginning Thursday the biggest sale in their history. Mr. George Bloomberg, district manager for the United says "After careful consideration we have decided that Eastland being the metropolis of Eastland county and being centrally situated where we can be of service to the entire county in the merchandising of merchandise we decided to close our Ranger store entirely and move the stock to Eastland where we expect to be permanently located. Naturally with two big stocks on hand we have too much merchandise for this season of the year. In order to reduce it quickly we are staging our great consolidation sale. In doing so we have not overlooked the fact that real values were necessary to acquaint new customers with our store as well as giving our many regular customers the advantage of getting their merchandise at the lowest possible prices. Our big four page circular and double page advertisement in this paper tells the story. We only hope that every body can make arrangements to come and get real values."

"Mr. Arthur Goldenberg of Galveston, will have complete charge of the sale. Our store is closed all day today getting ready for the big opening Thursday morning at 8:30."

We call attention to the double page ad in this issue of the Telegram and our readers are no doubt acquainted with the value able service that the United has rendered during the several years they have been in business in Eastland. It speaks well for the city that they have selected Eastland for their main store in this county.

Forester Canned Roses After Freeze.
FORT WORTH.—City Forester Raymond Morrison has added canned roses to the curious assortment of canned fruit, canned music, and canned biscuit.

A severe freeze last winter killed rose bushes in city parks here. Spring came and it was too late to replant. Morrison went to a nursery, procured a supply of "canned" roses, treated the tin pots and set them out. The cans will rust away, allowing the rose roots to expand in the new soil.

"Never again such a Bargain"

NO NEVER AGAIN!

Any time you let a ridiculously low price or big promise induce you to buy some packaged product which you have never used or even heard about, you run the risk of disappointment.

Even though you are told the product is "just as good" as the one you like and always ask for, it pays to be careful. Many unfamiliar packages urged upon you today contain cheap merchandise!

Not all manufacturers are guilty of producing it. The blame rests on a few, who, in an over-ambitious attempt to make your dollars buy more quantity, have sacrificed quality in their goods.

But in spite of today's bewildering array of "would-be" bargains, it is still easy to buy wisely and get your money's worth.

Now, as always, you'll find the real bargains among the brands you know—by your experience, through their advertising, or by the reputation of their makers. Many manufacturers of these dependable brands have recently announced worthwhile price reductions—honest reductions based on lower manufacturing costs, not on lower quality.
