WALLACE PERRY AND HIS GRAND REVIEW

Wallace Perry is the editor of the daily Herald-Post, a very enterprising and very influential newspaper of El Paso and the upper Rio Grande territory. He journeyed from "The Pass To The North" to the capital city and had a close-up of governors, ambitious men who would like to be governors some day and the lawmakers and their records.

Wallace Perry is strong for the adoption of the home rule amendments to the state constitution. He advises that "if the voters of Texas this summer adopt the amendments to the state constitution and enough of the 254 counties adopt home rule charters to lift any considerable portion of the state off the legislature's hand that will go far toward relieving legislative sessions of their myriad grists of loca bills."

Indeed this is positive that "we have got to have a systematic reorganization of state government if we expect to get real efficiency at Austin."

In the pages of the Herald-Post he pays a tribute to the senator from the El Paso district and the representative from El Paso county.

For instance: "I want to say now that neither El Paso county nor the 29th senatorial district has any reason to feel ashamed of its representatives at Austin. They have done some effective work on bills in which their constituents are directly interested—particularly on College of Mines appropriation—and their judgments on general legislation usually have been sound. That is especially true of Rep. Will Clayton and Sen. Ken Regan. Every man I talked to concerning El Paso's delegation conceded that Clayton is a comer, if he stays with his legislative job."

Speaking of the senator from the 29th district, Editor Perry is responsible for this personal tribute: "Regan's record stands out in unusual relief because of its contrast of that of his predecessor. He seldom makes speeches. He had enough sense to realize that it wouldn't be altogether becoming and profitable for a new member to seem to push himself forward amidst senatorial dignitaries of veteran service. But he doesn't hesitate to express himself when he has something to say and he probably has more influential friends on the floor of the senate than other members, notwithstanding the brevity of his service. So when he wants anything done, he seldom has trouble in getting results."

All of which is only another way of saying "flowers for the living" if the living are deserving.

AID FOR TEACHERS IN STATE SCHOOLS

Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson signed the bill authorizing school trustees to issue interest bearing warrants in payment of salaries of employes. A reminder that the interest must not exceed 4 per cent per annum. William Eilers, who gave 50 years to advancement of the rural schools and then lost his job because a new state superintendent came in, is responsible for a new provision in the rural aid law to enable all schools in Texas not yet equipped with libraries to provide them with financial aid from the rural aid fund. It is said that under this provision all schools not having over four teachers and not having heretofore received the regular state aid can obtain ten dollars a teacher for library books from the state aid fund, "if this amount is matched from a local fund." There is no local tax requirement for this aid.

TOM CONNALLY STICKS TO HIS TEXT

Sen. Tom Connally declined to accept an appointment in the delegation of six to the London conference. He felt that he could serve the nation to greater advantage at home—meaning at his post. He declined to accept an invitation to be present at the Baylor commencement. Congratulations. A man cannot serve two masters. He cannot serve in two jobs at the same time and do justice to both. Connally is needed on the senate firing line on the banks of the Potomac river.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

It is said that an Egyptian monarch when informed that he had only a few years to live, established an elaborate system of lighting and proceeded to turn night into day, thinking that for all practical purposes it would double his days of enjoyment.

Something similar seems to be happening today. Already there are lighted air-ways, white ways and flood-lighted fields for baseball and football, and no knowing what electricity will be used for next. It seems that in the new order of things the fall of night has ceased to impose a check on sports or business.

In the business world today the stores that have the best lighted display windows and use continuous newspaper advertising are the ones who do the greatest business.

It is said that we are living in an age when the strongest voice, the loudest bray and the biggest brag commands the best audience.

Power Experts To Meet in Stockholm

By United Press STOCKHOLM—Late this month Scandinavia will be the meeting place of engineers and business men from the entire world, specializing in the power problems of industry and transportation. They will attend the sectional meeting of the world power conference. About 175 papers, dealing with the power question in all its phases, have been published beforehand and will be discussed. There also will be visits to generating plants and other industrial concerns in Sweden, Denmark, Finland and Norway. The conference will be attended by official delegates nominated by the permanent national committees in the various countries and by government delegates, especially invited by the Swedish government. About 10 independent international bodies will send delegates, such as the associations of electricity producers, gas works, railways, tramways, etc. The official opening will be June 28 in the new Concert hall here, and at the same time the first international congress on large dams will be inaugurated. H. R. H. Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden will act as the conference patron and will deliver the opening address. The conference meetings will be held in the Riksdag house, and during and after the discussion, visits to Swedish industrial plants will be made.

Wren Compared With Gen. Coxe

By United Press MASSILLON, O. — "General" Jacob S. Coxe, of Coxe's Army fame, doesn't stay out of the news very long at a time. Just now, a tiny wren is bringing visitors to the Coxe home. The wren, says the "General," is every bit as militant as Kansas City's famed Cock Robin. Each day it demonstrates its ability as a shadow boxer by attacking its reflection in a window of Coxe's home. Coxe now is Mayor of Massillon.

That Reminds Me

(Continued from page 1) during the 54 years of the organization. A few charter members still exist. To them is charged the beginning of a great organization. To those who have carried on and will carry on belongs the badge of glories achieved and to be achieved. There is a responsibility surcharged in every member. May they never deviate from the path of good journalism. They are the watchdogs of the local, state and national government procedures. They should let the people know.

Even though it is a little dry, you'll have to admit that it is beautiful weather we're having. For everything, harvesting. While the eastern cities are suffering in the grasp of a sweltering heat that is causing many deaths, Eastland is enjoying cool breezes, and necessary to cover nights. That's something to speak of, and we're proud we live in Eastland. Of course you are too, or should be at least.

Just what the federal control of the oil industry will do to it, we are loath to say. What it will mean to West Texas is our chief interest. But even that would be hard to answer. It is all problematical, but one thing, when the boom started, and over night three cities sprung up in Eastland county almost to the extent of metropolises. There wasn't any government control, and nobody wanted the government to mess with it. Many millionaires were made in Eastland and Stephens counties during those days, and many land owners who had heavy mortgages hanging over their heads, had them lifted, and are enjoying the fruits of the liquid gold that God placed there.

Those that kept on speculating throughout the boom, are probably hanging on a limb now by a shaggy shirt tail. But those that stayed on the job, living their regular lives as in the days before the boom are solidly entrenched in a happy home, and letting the rest of the world go by.

We just dont know what federal control will do. They made a failure out of the railroads during the war, they made a failure out of prohibition, and the federal food control was a farce, but perhaps they have learned something by now. But failures are an expensive experiment, much more so than to leave some things alone, unless more time to study the need has been made than has been made in the instance of federal oil control.

Politicians after all are not business men. They are supposed to be good judges of who are good business men and hire them to run the thing. Sometimes they make a mistake in that. But let us hope that whatever happens, that it will be right.

Checkroom Girls Get Queer Things To Hold For People

HOUSTON.—Strange things show up in the check rooms of a large city's theatres—things few persons would suspect.

Most checkroom operators are so hardened they wouldn't be surprised at a request to take care of an elephant. People already have gone to the other extreme and checked fleas and baby chicks.

The fleas were entrusted to Miss Elizabeth Hutchins, one of the girls on duty at one of the largest of the local theatres.

"Their owner said they were live fleas and he didn't want them to get out of the box," she said. "They didn't."

Miss Hutchins suffered a more trying experience when a bearded man handed her a large suitcase and hurried into the theatre. She thought nothing about it until the bag began making a ticking noise.

With thoughts of a bomb plunging her mind, Miss Hutchins took a chance and flung open the suitcase. Inside, ranged neatly row on row, were dozens of alarm clocks. The man was a clock salesman.

Around Easter it is common for people to check chickens and rabbits. Sometimes they escape.

They run back of telephone switchboards and hide among wires and old rubbers, adding to life's complexities.

"One afternoon I had a rabbit and four pair of roller skates on the floor at once," said Miss Loren Sheeran, who divides her time with Miss Hutchins. "Trying to catch the rabbit, I stepped on a skate. Then I caught my arm in an umbrella."

Recently a man entered a show with a rope of garlic under his arm. He handed it over and asked that it be held until he returned. This proved impossible, so it was given a room of its own in the basement.

The most curious article ever received by Fred Nahas, checkroom operator, was a full-sized bicycle belonging to a cross-country tourist. At the same time it was checked Nahas had a carton of eggs, an officer's pistol and a Mexican hairless dog on his hands.

Nahas would rather check dogs, bikes or wildcats, however, than handle a holiday offering of children's balloons.

"You feel so silly," he said, "chasing balloons all over a check room."

The summer motif, the fragrance of flowers and dainty beauty of arrangements marked the charming luncheon and bridge tendered by Mrs. F. M. Kenny Thursday to her popular house guests, Mrs. Gordon Roberts and Mrs. Worthington Renshaw of Decatur, who have been the honorees of many informal and delightful affairs, given by friends of the hostess, during their ten days visit.

Five small tables, maderia linen covered, centered with crystal baskets of sweetpeas, had four luncheon places each, indicated by the attractive garden motif place card, and tallies combined, of simulated flower basket lid, with a curved handle entwined with artificial sweetpeas, alternating with those tables marked with the cards bearing yellow blossoms.

The luncheon plate, a summer variety, had a wild rose of petals of baked Virginia ham with center of grated cheese; a daintily tinted poppy, a vegetable salad, in a lettuce cup; a pyramid of disks, of beet and tomato, with dressing; hot buttered rolls and iced beverage, minted and chilled with speed iced cubes.

The last course of ice cream with cherry topping, was served with small frosted tea cakes, with a rich marshmallow dressing.

The entire home was prettily decorated with garden flowers and the garden motif was carried out throughout in all appointments.

At end of an interesting game the high score favor, a nest of covered porcelain ice box dishes, in floral design, and colors, was awarded Mrs. B. M. Collier. The honorees were each presented a double decked set of cards, in hand floral embossed cases, with silk tassels, the gift of their hostess.

Mrs. Kenney was assisted during the luncheon hour by Mrs. E. Roy Townsend, and Mrs. O. E. Harvey. Other guests were Mmes. J. R. McLaughlin, W. B. Collier, W. K. Jackson, J. F. Little, W. E. Chaney, Joe H. Jones, W. B. Pickens, M. J. Pickett, A. D. Dabney, Grady Pipkin, J. B. Leonard, D. L. Kinnaird, Milton Lawrence, M. L. Keasler, B. M. Collier, James Horton, O. E. A PLANT tendrill exhibits almost human tendencies. As it reaches out for support, the tip slowly circles about in the air, attempting to find some solid object around which it may twine. On coming in contact with a support, the tendrill is attracted to it and, by some curious law of nature, begins to wind itself about the object in snake-like fashion.

Mark 15:22-39 By BEULAH K HICKS... And they bring him unto the place Golgotha, which is, being interpreted, the place of a skull...

Golgotha, is the name given a bare, skull-shaped hill north of Jerusalem... Christ with all power locked up in him, even to the raising of the dead...

As they raised the cross, an emblem of shame, and let it fall into the socket with a cruel wrench...

Refusing the wine mingled with myrrh, a sedative prepared by wealthy women in Jerusalem...

When his body became so weak and fevered, he spoke the words of physical suffering, "I thirst."

Then Jesus spoke the word of achievement, "It is finished," one word in Greek: It has been called "the greatest single word ever uttered."

The rendering of this great veil that hung between the curtain that shielded the Holy place...

Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world, —John 1:29.

take away the sin of the world, —John 1:29. The world today "worn from toil and strife," needs to vision again "the old rugged cross" and to place a hand in "the nail-scarred hand" realizing that He is able to keep to the end of time.

Washington Circus

WASHINGTON.—Another circus is in town, and it looks as if it is going to turn out to be the biggest show on earth. It is the two Houses on the Hill in the shade and, for the time being, at least, the White House off the front page.

What interests your Uncle Dudley is the magnificent lineup of big politicians. Those invited to get in on the ground floor all backed Brother Morgan 100 per cent and took the favors, no questions asked. That Alleghany Corporation is the Van Sweringen brothers' holding company. These boys gobbled up the Missouri-Pacific railroad, borrowed 20 million dollars from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, used most of the money to pay off notes held by Morgan, Kühn, O'Leb & Co. and the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, and then eased the old road into bankruptcy. There's a high-diving act for you.

Newton D. Baker, the little rascal, was once a Cleveland reformer fighting the traction monopoly there. Got tired of reforming, turned corporation attorney for the Van Sweringens, became a preferred client, grabbed off 2,000 shares of Alleghany, became the chief counsel for the National Association of Broadcasters, and the other day was elected to the board of Radio Corporation of America. That's feeding peanuts to the monkeys, eh, wot?

And there's our old friend Owen D. Young again. He's always getting in on these preferred lists. Was in, too, on Insull Preferred, Ltd. (Looted?) Anyhow, he keeps bobbing up. He bobbed off the board of Radio Corp. the other day because the government said he couldn't hold that seat and the one on General Electric. So he got off Radio and Newtite got on. . . . Giddap . . . Whoa—a-a.

Talk about playing the horses! Them ponies from Wall Street sure are taking the Big Boys for a ride down here these days. There's William Alibi McAdoo from Cawleefornya. He's explaining again. An old hand at this explainin' business. Explained how it was he happened to be drawn a fee from old Prospector Doherty when Tom Walsh blew the lid off of Teapot Dome. Just can't keep your eye on him, he's that clever on the trapeze. Was doing a bare-back ride on a camel until last spring when he suddenly switched to a deep-sea diving act and got wet all over. . . . Pee-co-RAH thinks the alibi's all wet, too, by this time.

And there's Old Spring-is-in-his-heart-again, the bandmaster, trala-la. When the news reached the Senate that the secretary of the treasury was down for a 1,000 shares of Alleghany, Bellowing Bill from Idaho said it was time to get rid of Caesar's wife. . . . "How did she get it, and what's the matter with her?" asked Willie.

Don't let 'em tell you this isn't a good show. It's an all-star cast. . . . Look at 'em. They got everybody in except Norman Thomas, Madame Queen and old Doctor Munyon. The 3.2 per cent here down here is too weak to give 'em pleasant dreams, since the elephants staped and the boys are now calling for judges of Peruna. According to one of the Morgan partners, the loan of $10,000,000 to the late Charlie Mitchell was made "to help the general situation" in 1929. Another general got in a little later when Pershing invested some of his hard-earned pension of $21,000-a-year in Standard Brands. Then along came General Motors Raskob. . . . Was Johnny pleased? He said J. P. would never know how tickled to death Johnny was, and he hoped the future would "give me a chance to reciprocate." But the future didn't gimme a-tall.

Canada Pushes Trade Reforms For the Empire

MONTREAL, June 6. — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce is spreading its appeal for lower government taxation and improved Empire trade relations throughout the whole Empire. The campaign, started some time ago, rapidly is being taken up through Canada. Heartened by the success, the chamber now has forwarded a communication to the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire, urging that other Dominions take up the crusade, and offering a series of suggestions which, it believes, would improve Empire marketing conditions. It is expected that government taxation and methods of improving discussion when delegates of the Empire trade bodies gather in London for their annual meeting. The suggestions made by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to improve trade include: 1. Encouraging of orderly and consistent marketing of goods.

Germany to Seek Tariff Aid At London Meeting

BERLIN.—Germany, at the forthcoming world economic conference, is expected to demand facilities for German exports to overcome tariff walls. One of her main arguments, it is understood, will be that her service on foreign debts will be most seriously endangered unless such facilities are granted by foreign nations, especially by her creditors.

Germany's foreign trade dropped to about one-third during the depression. In 1929, imports and exports amounted to 13,447,000,000 and 13,483,000,000 marks, respectively; in 1932, to 4,667,000,000 and 5,739,000,000 marks, respectively.

This reduction partly is explained by the slump in world market prices. The quantity of goods imported and exported did not fall as heavily as did the value of exports and imports. Thus, in 1932, Germany still imported 70 per cent of the goods she bought abroad in 1929, but she paid for them only 34.7 per cent of the sum spent in 1929; this means that the prices of products imported to Germany were halved during the depression. On the other hand, proceeds from exports were 57.4 per cent lower in 1932 than in 1929, while the quantity of exported goods dropped only by 40.6 per cent.

Gloomy as foreign trade statistics are, many patriots see one bright side, namely, the elimination of food imports. The country, they claim, tends to be self-supporting as far as foodstuffs are concerned; it spent only about 2,000,000,000 marks for foreign foodstuffs in 1932, as compared with 5,573,000,000 marks in 1928. Despite the shrinkage of her foreign trade, Germany was able to maintain a highly favorable trade balance during the depression. During the last two years, she has been able to meet all her obligations, and even pay back a part of capital borrowed abroad from the proceeds of her exports.

Exports in 1933 exceeded imports by 2,870,000,000 marks. The favorable balance dropped to 1,070,000,000 marks in 1932. This surplus of exports, however, was sufficient to assure the payment of annuities. Later, however, the trade balance has shown an unfavorable development. During the first three months of 1933, exports exceeded imports by only 112,700,000 marks. This is insufficient to assure the payment of interest on foreign credits.

Admitting Women Brought Disaster

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — After catering to men only in the restaurant and hotel here for many years, Herbert's let down the bars and admitted women. The very first day the feminine sex was admitted, trouble developed. While the restaurant was filled with women, eager to see the sacred bachelors, fire broke out. The feminine diners had to flee before they had even tasted their first dinner in the renowned Herbert's.

PRISONER PAROLED WAUPUN, Wis. — After 25 years served in the Wisconsin State Prison here, Paul Kraus, 59, returned to his native Germany. He was paroled to his sister in Hamburg. Kraus had been in the United States only a short time when he was sentenced.

cedure with a view to improvement and modernization. 3. Recognition of the desirability of periodical trade conferences and of more frequent trade missions. 4. Elimination of the necessity of purchasing Empire goods through agencies established in foreign countries. 5. Participation of Empire countries through displays in the fairs and exhibitions of one another's countries. 6. Bringing about of still greater standardization of products for Empire sale and purchase. 7. Greater use of British transportation facilities in Empire commerce.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—The momentum of the prohibition repeal movement continues a jump ahead of even the men and women who have made it their business to nourish and promote it.

The vets have been in an almost constant state of pleasant surprise for the last three years and even at this late date they still regard themselves in the position of chasing a snowball rolling down hill. A couple of months ago they had privately given up hope that the requisite 36 states would ratify the repeal amendment before the end of 1934. Now they think there's an excellent chance this year. An unexpectedly overwhelming sentiment has developed for getting this issue out of the way, according to reports here. State legislators and officials all regard repeal as inevitable. They recognize that liquor is plentifully available everywhere and that its control will offer a rich field for taxation when one is badly needed.

THE 3.2 per cent beer has opened many eyes to the revenue possibilities and the fact that such facilities are granted by foreign nations, especially by her creditors.

President Roosevelt has given the repeal movement impetus by pointing out that repeal will eliminate the necessity for the new income taxes and ratification has become a part of the administration program since Postmaster General James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, started sending letters to thousands of Democrats, urging prompt action. Huge repeal Construction of the type specified, with its flat concrete foundation, is so rigid that according to Mr. Harding, "a ship, driven ashore by the gale, could butt the house out of position without doing any serious damage to it."

Hurricane House Defies the Winds

Strength to withstand the impact of hurricanes, plus equipment to meet the hazard of low air pressure present at the heart of a hurricane, feature the "hurricane" house designed by Ward Ward Harding, architect, for construction in sections visited by destructive wind storms. This house, the result of first-hand experience in hurricanes, was planned in every detail to overcome the dangers of severe winds. Structurally it's a unit, reinforced concrete being specified for the whole house—foundation, walls and roof. Architecturally, simplicity has been capitalized to produce an attractive, livable and economical house.

One of the most dangerous aspects of hurricanes is the hitherto overlooked in construction—is the low air pressure area in the heart of such disturbances. The lack of breathable air becomes a threat to life, just as it does at very high altitudes. To meet this condition,

If you feel that it takes too much precious time to roll and cut out cookies in order to prepare your cookie jar, then try a shorter method. You can save from one-fifth to one-half the time and make no sacrifice of quality.

One short-cut method of cookie making is to shape the dough into a roll, chill it thoroughly and slice it with a sharp knife.

Rolls Oats Cookies
These cookies are spread in the pan and cut after baking.

Use one cup brown sugar, 2 eggs, 3-4 cup shortening, 1-2 cup sour milk, 2 cups rolled oats, 2 cups flour, 1 cup seeded and chopped raisins, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon salt.

Cream shortening and beat in sugar. Add eggs well beaten. Mix well and add rolled oats. Mix and combine with raisins. Add soda to milk and stir until dissolved. Add at once to first mixture. Mix slightly and add vanilla and remaining dry ingredients. Mix until smooth and spread on a baking sheet which has been oiled and floured. Bake fifteen minutes in a moderate oven. Cut in squares when cool.

Drop Vanilla Cookies
One-half cup butter, 1-2 cup granulated sugar, 3-4 cup flour, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons chopped almonds, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

Cream butter and sugar, until

'Hello Sister' Comes To Lyric Theatre

The world's most famous thoroughfare, playground for millionaires and the millions, formed the setting for the drama unfolded in "Hello, Sister," new Fox production, featuring James Dunn and Boots Malloy, and opening at the Lyric theatre Sunday. James Dunn, as Jimmie, savings-bank salesman, and Boots Malloy, petty ash-blond screen import from New Orleans, as Peggy, are the principals in the romance that motivates the plot.

Supporting them, in three widely different characterizations, are ZaSu Pitts as Millie, homely girl; friend; Minna Gombell as Mona, hardened lady; and Terence Ray as Mac, typical Broadway wiseguys. Briefly, the plot thread runs as follows: Peggy and Millie go for a walk down Broadway hoping to attract companionship. They meet Jimmie and Mac, who have the same intention.

Conflict enters this introductory setting when Jimmie and Peggy frankly avow their preference and enter into a whirlwind romance. When Peggy makes known to Jimmie the fact that they will have to hasten their wedding, Mac insists that she is lying.

The result is a misunderstanding leading to a bitter quarrel between the sweethearts. Peggy makes known to Millie and to her friend, Mona, that she is to have a baby, thus climaxing this tangled romance that began as an innocent walk down Broadway.

The drama has been heralded as one of the talking screen's highest achievements in realism. Exports for the quarter totaled 112,103,000 rubles and imports 88,401,000. The corresponding figures in 1932 were 144,536,000 and 192,120,000.

The American share in Soviet foreign trade fast is approaching zero, although purchases in the United States still exceed sales there. For the three months Soviet imports from the United States amounted to 3,928,000 rubles, while exports thereto totaled 2,462,000 rubles. The corresponding figures for the same months last year were 9,337,000 rubles and 3,077,000 rubles.

HOOKS and SLIDES

SIX years ago in Dallas Espinosa was one up on Hagen, one to play for the P. G. A. championship. He lost the 36th and 37th holes.

Cooper's Downfall
SOME years ago Harry Cooper won the Los Angeles Open, then a $10,000 event. He went on to score an overwhelming triumph over Walter Hagen at Dallas. The Open that year was at Oakmont, and Cooper was being congratulated as the winner when there was a hubbalo outside—and it was announced Tommy Armour had tied with 74-73-75, enough to win by one stroke, with Hutchison, Vardon, Dinkel and Jack Burke tied for second with 296.
