May Be Hawaii's Next Governor

Retention of Maj. Gen. Briant Wells, above, as head of the Hawaiian department of the U. S. army for another year lends weight to rumors that General Wells may be the next governor of Hawaii. The officer's term was to have expired this year. It is thought he is being held over to establish the three-year residence required for appointment as governor.

STOCK PRICES ARE ERRATIC ON EXCHANGE

By United Press
NEW YORK, July 22.—Highly erratic price movements prevailed on the stock exchange on the short session today in volume that ran at times at a 4,000,000-share rate. A smart recovery came before the close as shorts covered commitments, fearing to remain in the market over the week-end when "anything might happen." However, the close was irregularly lower. Tickers fell behind and confusion reigned in brokerage offices and on the floor of the exchange. In the first hour volume was at a rate of 10,000,000 shares for a five hour day. The cotton market firmed after an early break of more than $2 a bale and prices rose to net gains of about 50 cents a bale.

A "Fun Visit"—With Romance?

Mrs. Curtis Dall, sister of Elliott Roosevelt, may have arrived in Chicago at the same as her brother and his "friend" Ruth Googins just for a "fun visit," as she explained, but part of the "fun" consisted of chaperoning the two young people who deny an impending wedding. The photo shows Roosevelt driving his sister, center, and Miss Googins to their hotels after a swim and dinner at a Chicago club.

SENATE FEE INVESTIGATION TO CONTINUE

By United Press
AUSTIN, July 22.—A senate committee of seven members, empowered to investigate fee graft, tax delinquencies and the expenditure of public funds by any state department, will convene in Austin Monday. Tax delinquencies which have contributed to deficits, probably will receive first attention. It was not certain to what extent the senate investigators would use their powers to summon witnesses and compel the production of records and documents. A similar senate committee, created with restricted powers by a former legislature, is accredited with causing the arrest and conviction of many fee officials and of saving the state nearly $1,000,000 in fees. Members of the new committee are Senators Beck of DeKalb, Martin of Hillsboro, Purl of Dallas, Poage of Waco and Redditt of Lufkin. Senators Walter Woodward of Coleman and Grady Woodruff of Deatur are ex-officio members of the committee.

Heads U. S. Power Commission

Frank R. McNinch, above, who has been a Democratic member of the Federal Power commission since Jan. 1, 1931, is the commission's new chairman, succeeding George Otis Smith, Republican, who resigned the post but will remain on the commission.

WIRES STREAM INTO OFFICE OF HUGH JOHNSON

Indicating Nation Taking Up Roosevelt's Plea For Co-operation.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Roosevelt's re-employment drive surged forward today on a wave of support from all parts of the country. Telegrams streamed into the office of Recovery Administrator Hugh Johnson at the rate of six a minute, pledging co-operation in the drive for an universal voluntary agreement to spread employment and increase the wages of millions. Elated by initial response, Johnson hoped the program would put back to work 6,000,000 of the men and women now idle. President Roosevelt also received a flood of communications and offers of help. In many cases employers pledged themselves to sign voluntary agreements shortening working hours and fixing minimum wages. The president today ordered Secretary of Interior Ickes to undertake the expenditure of $25,000,000 in the transfer of miners and others from over-populated industrial areas to subsistence farmers where they may find new means of livelihood.

Racketeering In Detroit Dropped Off to Almost Nothing After Reaching Peak in Days of Old "Purple Gang"

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series on the status of rackets in American cities.
By C. C. NICOLET
United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright 1933 by United Press)
Detroit has proved a metropolis can exist in America without kidnappings, payroll holdups, bank robberies and kindred crimes of the organized underworld, but the racketeers are as busy there as elsewhere. Since the fall of 1930, when vigorous prosecution broke up the old "Purple Gang," Wayne county has been free from the kidnapping terror and from major thefts of the marauding gang type. The profits from racketeering, which amounted in the wealthy motor city to $5,000,000 or more a year in the boom days, have dropped to a $500,000-a-year pace now, but with the revival of business the racketeers are stepping up their demands. Harry S. Troy, prosecuting attorney, discovered the beginnings of the racket boom early in June. At his request, a one-man grand jury was called into session and secret investigations were begun. The one-man grand jury went into session June 5. On June 9 the first warrant resulted, and on June 26 Alexander C. Davis was convicted of attempted extortion against shoe repair men. The one-man grand jury uncovered within a month a racket in federal building contracts; a waste paper racket; an attempt to obtain a monopoly on distribution of legal beer; a new cleaning and dyeing extortion scheme; an arson racket and attempts of racketeers to corrupt legislators. The one-man grand jury, Prosecutor Troy said, is always available on short notice to hear testimony of victims before they can be "reached" by the racketeers. "Legitimate business execu-

They said they hoped to reach New York in about 34 hours. After resting and overhauling their plane they planned to take off from America for Bagdad, Mesopotamia, trying for the long distance, non-stop record. They said they hoped to be back in England within seven to 10 days.

Elliott Roosevelt Married Saturday

By United Press
BURLINGTON, Ia., July 22.—In the romantic setting of a flower garden overlooking the Mississippi River, Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the President, and Miss Ruth Googins, Fort Worth society girl, were married here at 6 p. m. today. A double ring ceremony was used with the Rev. Naboth Osborne, retired pastor of the First Congregational Church, presiding. Immediately after the ceremony the couple planned to depart unaccompanied for the Pacific coast.

New Group is to Assume Relief Duties August 1

The new county set-up for administration of state and federal relief will become effective Aug. 1, it was determined at a meeting of the new and old committees at Eastland Thursday, called by J. J. Boley, field representative of the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission. Present at the meeting to express the thanks of the commission for the services of the retiring group was Harry Tom King, Abilene, a member of the state commission. Duties of the new group, involving some distinction from former policies, were outlined by Mr. Boley in a prepared statement. The new policy was explained as in keeping with the interpretation of the federal policy by the national relief administrator, Harry L. Hopkins, who has laid down the principle that federal relief funds shall be administered by responsible public agencies and not by private relief agencies with no responsible connections with the governmental set-up. The meeting, a main purpose of which was to organize the new committee, elected only one official and postponed other organization until a second meeting to be held next Thursday at Eastland. W. W. Gilbert of Carbon was elected county administrator or relief officer. His duties, F. E. Harrell of Cisco, a member of the new committee, said this morning, have already begun although the new committee will not function officially until Aug. 1. Responsibility for the relief and approval of projects rests entirely with the relief officer, who is responsible to the Texas commission, it was explained. The county committee will act in an advisory capacity. This represents a change of policy to the extent that, under the former system, responsibility

Tropical Storm to Hit Texas Coast

By United Press

Wiley Post Headed For New Record

By United Press
EDMONTON, Alta., July 22.—Wiley Post shot his monoplane eastward from Edmonton today on one long final flight for New York and a record in his journey around the world. Leaving Edmonton at 10:41 a. m., E. D. T. Post started the 2,200-mile flight to his final goal, 20 hours and 23 minutes ahead of the Post-Gatty record. His backers expected him to reach New York about midnight tonight.

Nations Agree On Silver Control At Secret Meeting

LONDON, July 22.—Nine nations, producers of silver or holders of silver bullion, signed a four-year silver control agreement at a secret meeting late today in the suite of Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, American silver expert, at the world economic conference. The signers were Canada, Mexico, Bolivia, Peru, Spain, India, Australia and China. The agreement is to run for four years from Jan. 1, 1934. The necessary ratification before the agreement can be binding on the government must be deposited at Washington not later than April 1, 1934.

Chamber Commerce Plans Discussed at Meeting Friday

At a meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce which was held Friday afternoon the proposition of carrying on the work of the chamber was discussed fully and the decision reached that the affairs go along as they are now for another month or two and then put on a drive that will put the chamber in first class condition. Due to the fact that the county fair is just ahead and that time and money must be given to it the directors were in accord in the opinion that the Chamber of Commerce affairs be passed over until after the fair. At that time the recovery program will probably be in full swing and the work of the chamber can then be taken up and carried forward to a successful conclusion. The president, C. J. Rhodes, said that the work of the Chamber of Commerce would be kept going with all the vim possible and no one had any thought of giving it up because the city had discontinued the financial support as has been the custom in past years. He expects the work to be up on a solid basis by the business interests of Eastland. A committee composed of Earl Woody, O. E. Harvey and Hamilton McRae was appointed to assist like committees from the Lions, Rotarians and other organizations in selling tickets to the business men's smoker to be held Tuesday night. Those attending the meeting were President C. J. Rhodes, and directors Hamilton McRae, K. B. Tanner, Frank Castleberry, O. E. Harvey, Earl Woody, G. M. Harper and Milburn McCarty.

Mexican University Plans Anniversary

By United Press
MEXICO CITY.—The medical school of the national university will celebrate its centenary in October. The building occupied by the school once served as the Holy office of the Inquisition in Mexico. Many of its rooms were used as cells for heretics condemned to death. The national university, now almost 400 years old, is the oldest in the western hemisphere.

Woman, 75, Saw First Motion Picture

By United Press
ROCKVILLE, Conn.—Although Mrs. Sarah Wilson, 75, enjoyed a motion picture, and had a good time at the graduation exercises of the grammar school, she has no intention of letting such amusements become a habit with her. It was her first movie and the first public entertainment she had ever attended. "I enjoyed the evening very much," Mrs. Wilson told friends, "but I prefer merely to attend church and lead a quiet life."

Freak Calf Attracts Lots of Attention

By United Press
LEOTI, Kan.—Normal only in its frisky playfulness, a calf born on the William McMillen farm north of here is attracting considerable attention. It has three eyes, two noses, four nostrils, two tongues and an extra big mouth. The third eye is between the two in the usual places. The oversized mouth is used to good advantage, as the calf takes a milk ration far above normal.

Roosevelt Away on Week-End Trip

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Roosevelt today planned a week-end cruise down the Potomac river, during which time he was expected to draft the text of what his advisors said would be one of the most important announcements he has made. The pronouncement will be made in a speech at 9:30 p. m. Monday. While the nature of his remarks were not known, it is believed they would deal with his program for domestic recovery. He will remain on the yacht until shortly before dinner time Sunday night, when he will return to the white house.

Texas Beer Act Is Declared Valid

By United Press
AUSTIN, July 22.—Validity of Texas' beer enabling act taxing and regulating beer sales, enacted by a legislature anticipating legalization of the brew Aug. 26, today was upheld in an opinion by First Assistant Attorney General Elbert Hooper. There had been some questions raised as to whether the measure could be valid inasmuch as it had been passed prior to the August election.

Sail Boat Carries Bait for Fishermen

By United Press
BOISE, Idaho.—Joseph Jenkins, a Boise fisherman, has perfected a novel plan to carry his fish bait into remote spots of lakes. Experimenting on Lake Howell, Jenkins attached a line to a one-foot toy sailboat. The small craft carried the line far out into the lake. "When the fish takes the bait," Jenkins explained, "all I have to do is reel him in." Jenkins confessed he has yet to catch a fish in this manner but insists his system is practical.

Central Texas Has Much Wealth In Commercial Stone

By United Press
AUSTIN.—A wealth in rocks lies along the stream beds and rough hillsides of Central Texas, a preliminary survey by geologists and engineers of the University of Texas has revealed. In an area of 4,000 square miles, including 150 localities, rocks were examined by experts. Their tests showed each locality is capable of becoming a commercially profitable quarry for building materials. For 50 years the area has produced small quantities of stone, mostly granite. The recent survey revealed scores of other kinds of stone and samples of good quality blue-gray and green-gray slate.

TALMADGE OF GEORGIA WINS HIS FIGHT FOR CONTROL

Governor Talmadge of Georgia declared martial law in his state. He ousted certain members of his state highway commission. Ousted commissioners sought to end the martial law and get their places back on the board through a federal court order.

By taking charge under military rule Talmadge prevented interference by state board.

Forgetting all about the dogma of states rights the governor fought the federal court injunction. He won. United States District Judge E. Marvin Underwood dismissed the suit for injunction brought by the dismissed road directors. In other words, he sustained the contention of the attorney general of the state that the 1931 legislative act of Georgia legislature reorganizing the state government gave Governor Talmadge sole control over legal matters for all departments.

There is a state government reorganization scheme in the offing for Texas. It is known as the Graves-Woodruff plan. How many jokers are concealed in the very voluminous report and plan?

A WAVE OF PROSPERITY SPREADS OVER NATION

According to the heavy editorial writer of that noted financial magazine Dun & Bradstreet Review broadcast this cheerful little earful is a foreword:

Major events in the business and trade situation during the past week indicate that the upturn is continuing in a vigorous way and reaching all parts of the country in its inclusiveness. The momentum with which general business has rebounded from its all time low levels of three months ago, doubtless it without parallel in the history of the country."

Senate majority leader Joseph Taylor Robinson of Arkansas appeared before the Rotarians of Boston and warned the beans-and-brown-bread-fed Bostonians that "should the London conference end in failure the economic war now being waged would become fiercer and more disastrous and international commerce likely will continue to diminish and the depression may be prolonged indefinitely."

What is the matter with Arkansas? What's wrong with the very dignified and eloquent Joseph?

He chimed in with the European pleaders for the stabilization of the American dollar. He said, "in common parlance the purchasing power of the American dollar had become too great." Well, why worry? Its high purchasing power has paralyzed the statesmen and the traders of France and Great Britain and Holland and one or two lesser nations.

Why not give the dollar of Uncle Sam a run for the money and a race for supremacy on the other side of the world?

Admittedly there is small temptation to spend money in fixing up the home or yard during such times as these, but every dollar spent not only adds to your comfort but helps to keep somebody off the unemployment list and helps to bring the time of prosperity a little nearer.

The old saying that the best way to keep peace is to prepare for war has not as yet been proved false.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

A change is again taking place day by day in the politics of America. Let us hope that it is a step forward!

This does not mean that we have as yet entered upon an ideal period in the management of our political affairs. There is far too much confusion at present for that.

Factions will grow in numbers and a difference drawn between one faction and another also will appear personal ambitions and a desire by far more people to lead than there are vacancies for leaders.

By this we by no means impute a lack of patriotism to those active in American politics. On the contrary, we are perfectly certain that love for their own country and the true understanding of the necessities—if its future is to be prosperous and happy—are in the hearts of our politicians now more than they have been for a long time.

Rocking Chair Led To Broken Bones

By United Press

TILTONVILLE, O.—Using a rocking chair is not listed on an insurance company casualty records as being a hazardous occupation, but it would be hard to persuade Mrs. Charles M. Johnson of that fact.

Mrs. Johnson had to be taken to the hospital for several broken ribs suffered when she "waltzed" her rocking chair off the front porch of her home here, falling to the ground several feet below.

TAX ASSESSORS RAISED VALUATION

By United Press INDEPENDENCE, Mo.—Two deputy assessors called recently at a home here. A second-hand car with a new paint job was sitting in front of the house. One of the assessors casually suggested the car was valued at $60. The homeowner became indignant contending it was worth more. They compromised at $150.

Advertisement for Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Mich. Text: 'Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels. It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced. Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars. But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost. For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense. We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change. We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body —nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us. Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed. Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933. In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak. The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you. By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable. Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it. The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.' Signature: Henry Ford, Dearborn, Mich. Date: July 21, 1933.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

Signed letters to this paper will be carried in this column, but names will be left off where requested. No anonymous letters can be printed, however. These letters express the views of the writer and may not be construed as the policies or beliefs of this paper.

Hon. Thomas L. Blanton, Abilene, Texas. Dear Sir: I am in receipt of a copy of the speech which you delivered in the house of representatives on May 26, and note that the copies which you sent to your constituents were "not printed at government expense." However, I further note that you sewed the district down with copies of this speech, by means of your franking privileges, while the rest of us are paying 50 per cent increase in postage rates. I further note that you say that the testimony before the committee on banking and currency showing that "J. Pierpont Morgan and his 19 multi-millionaire partners paid no income taxes whatever to the government in 1931 and 1932," and that this fact makes your blood boil. I agree with you that this is sufficient to make anyone's blood boil but I think the blame should be placed where it belongs—on congress and not on J. Pierpont and his partners. If you put a calf in a lot and leave the gate open, it is useless to cuss the calf because he walks out. The fact that J. Pierpont and his partners failed to pay income taxes during 1931 and 1932 is due to a defect in the income tax law, which I understand, you had a hand in passing. You will recall when this testimony was brought to light before the committee, President Roosevelt's son stated that the loop-hole was in the income tax law and that Mr. Morgan and his partners were not to blame, as they were within the law. If Mr. Morgan and his partners were not within the law, why have they not been indicted for evading our income tax law, as was Al Capone? The fact that Mr. Morgan and his 19 multi-millionaire partners paid no income tax during 1931 and 1932, probably makes your blood boil, as you stated in this speech, but what should make your constituents' blood boil, is the fact that you and other members of congress sat idly by, urging points of order, etc., and left a loop-hole in our income tax law, which brought about this condition. The trouble, as it appears to the boys up the forks of the creek, is a lame congress and not with Mr. Morgan and his 19 partners. The defect in the law is making your constituents' blood boil. Since you broadcast this "blood boiling" speech over the district, through your franking privileges, I am taking the liberty of handing a copy of this letter to the local press.

Yours very truly,
F. J. COUGHLIN.

the moon. Now the terrace was bathed in silver, now black. The lights of the village pricked the ebon curtain to the north. The soft air was in the air that comes before a tempestuous, southern downpour. Leaves trembled, and somewhere a shutter swung. From the nearest house, a half acre away, came the hushed strains of the latest, sentimentally appealing waltz. Some blossoms proclaimed themselves and the fact that the moon had been hot by losing a heavy, sweet odor.

Barrett wanted to be beyond reach of the house, beyond a point where a keenly listening ear could catch even so much as a chance phrase. Drawing her arm through his, he led her to a balustrade that guarded a terrace from a dramatically beautiful drop.

"This is a charming place," he murmured a trifle thickly as she withdrew her arm.

"He leaned against the balustrade against which she too, was leaning. He found it difficult to begin.

"Cigaret?" he asked. "No, thank you." She watched his face as he held a lighter with a wind guard to his cigarette. Something had made him rather nervous, she saw. Long lines were pulled at the sides of his lips, which were stiff, yet uneasy.

"How long can you stay?" she asked. "As long as you want me to," he answered. He snapped the lighter shut, slipped it into a pocket. She felt that his eyebrows were drawn close although just then the moon was kept from shedding light by a dense bank of clouds.

Was he already regretting his gentleness, she wondered. A keen-bladed knife seemed plunged into her heart and drawn slowly out again as she considered the question.

"I want you to stay as long as you want to," she said with a coolness of which she was proud. "I want from you only what you can give—without regret."

"I shall regret giving you nothing," he said quickly, "if you will remember our bargain."

"What bargain, Barrett?" "We agreed, you remember, that neither of us was to indulge in a flirtation during this year."

"But, Barrett, I never have," she answered. "I couldn't! I never did—before our marriage."

FOR a few minutes he could not trust himself to speak. Did she think him a complete fool? he asked himself.

"Elinor, I know you are very attractive. You must have had love affairs," he managed to say at length without betraying the deep anger that shook him.

"But I never appealed to men, Barrett. That's a brutal fact. I don't like to admit it; but it is the fact."

The moon had shaken herself free from the mask of clouds. "Older men?" Barrett questioned slowly. "I've heard they liked you?" He was looking down at her, his eyes narrow.

"Yes," she admitted and smiled. To him her smile seemed cynically and cruelly amused.

He drew a deep, rasping breath. One great storm cloud slipped

Manchoukuo Is a Puzzle to One Correspondent

... By MILES W. VAUGHN ...
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 (Copyright 1933 by United Press)
 HSINKING, Manchukuo, July 19.—Japan already has succeeded in the first stage of her effort in Manchuria. Manchukuo is a real state—entitled to a place in the family of nations.
 That is Japan's view of the present situation in Manchuria. Manchukuo is a "puppet" of the Japanese army. Its officials are figureheads. As a state it rests purely on the sword and the bayonet.
 That is the general Chinese view of Manchuria today. Manchuria is in a state of flux. It will be years before any prediction as to the future of the state can be made.
 That is the opinion of a small but highly intelligent group of Chinese, Japanese and Occidental observers.
 It is all but impossible to get accurate information about the broader trends in Manchuria. Experts disagree, facts are in conflict.
 In the temporary quarters of the imperial Japanese embassy Field Marshal Nobuyoshi Muto, military and diplomatic representative of the emperor of Japan, pursues his way in the calm certainty of success.
 In the headquarters of the Japanese Wangan army lieutenant general, Kuniaki Koiso, chief of staff, performs prodigies of hard work as he prepares for what he admits will be a crucial summer.
 In the calm of an ancient Chinese Yamen Henry Pu Yi, one time boy emperor of China squares his shoulders and prays for strength to lead his Manchu banners to the glories they once enjoyed.
 In the streets thousands of Chinese coolies work night and day hurrying the construction of new buildings, roads, a sanitary system and the other improvements which must be completed to make Hsinking worthy of the name of "capital city of Manchukuo."
 In government offices Japanese and European business men hunt for concessions and exhibit vast paper schemes for railways, gold mines, petroleum fields, and industrial establishments.
 Hsinking is enormously active and confusing. But in the background General Koiso works endlessly, driving forward, he at least is sure of the foundations of Manchukuo.

Plan To Restore Sam Houston Home

By United Press
 HUNTSVILLE, Texas.—Steamboat House, the strange dwelling which Gen. Sam Houston built and which was the scene of his death, may be restored and made a shrine of the Lone Star state.
 J. E. Josey, publisher of the Houston Post and former resident of Huntsville, has started a movement to restore the historic home, which still stands on a hillside near the Huntsville business district.
 Houston, liberator and first president of the Texas republic, built the house in the shape of an old-time steamboat—hence its name. Houston's favorite room was in the "texas," or pilot-house.
 The general died in the house shortly after the Civil war.
 His only surviving son, Col. Andrew Jackson Houston of La-Porte, born in Steamboat House, is helping Josey with the plans.

A New Highway To Open Scenic Route

By United Press
 MISSOULA, Mont.—A new highly scenic and shorter route from this city to Portland, Ore., will be opened up with construction of a highway between Lolo and Kootsia, Idaho, according to plans announced here.
 J. H. Stommer, Idaho state highway commissioner, was said to have agreed to devote Idaho's total appropriation of $4,652,000 under the federal public works bill for construction of roads thru national forests and public lands to completion of their route.
 Known as the Lewis and Clark highway from the fact it follows a route taken by the early explorers, the road will shorten distance between Missoula and Portland some 75 miles. It will cost an estimated $4,000,000 to construct, since it passes through a heavily timbered, mountainous region.

Washington Faces Hard Repeal Battle

By United Press
 OLYMPIA, Wash.—Hundreds sought to be among the first to file as candidates for the convention, Oct. 3, when the state will vote on the 22nd amendment.
 The repeal election will be held here Aug. 29. Wets feel they face a harder fight here in comparison with most states. They pointed out that Washington will elect delegates by legislative districts and not by popular vote, as in most states. Thus the heaviest wet majorities in repeal counties would be useless in their fights in the counties.

Missionary Writes Of Work In Japan

The following letter has been received from Joe J. Mickle Jr., of Japan, by the Joe J. Mickle Jr. Circle of the Woman's Missionary Society of Eastland: Dear Friends: Ever since Mother told me that you had been so kind as to give your missionary circle my name I have been intending to get a short note of greeting and thanks mailed to you. But the days and the months have slipped away (they always seem to go more rapidly in the spring than any other time) without this being done. Perhaps it is yet not too late to let you know how much the honor is appreciated. Mrs. Mickle and I celebrated our twelfth wedding anniversary yesterday and within a few months we will be able to say that it has been 12 years since we first came to Japan. And though the Japan of today was in the making 12 years ago, the changes that have taken place in this time have been great and far reaching. No one can adequately understand Japan who does not realize that she, although an Oriental nation in methods of thought and action, is being remade by western influences. Her one compelling desire is for westernization. Her nationalists and super-patriots may deny this, but Japan's whole program of military expansion is simply the nineteenth century program of western nations carried over into the present twentieth century. In other words, Japan simply finds herself some 75 years behind in some matters. She is determined to catch up. A good part of the world seems to have gone mad, and if political and military nationalism has not seized upon some nations, there are none that are not guilty of an attempt at economic nationalism. I feel that the United States faces her full share of the guilt in this matter. Japan has, as you know, gone the way of Italy and Germany. There is in Japan today a military mindedness which does not tolerate freedom of critical expressions. It is going to take years of patient tolerance and education in order to get her past this very critical stage. On last Monday night I came back through Osaka railway station, (Osaka is the largest industrial city of Japan, population 2,500,000) and one would have thought that Japan was engaged in a major war—soldiers everywhere with thousands of others giving their "banzai" as the trains pull out. But this situation cannot go on indefinitely. Give them enough rope and they will hang themselves. These things come and go by waves. I note with a great deal of satisfaction the growth of the peace movement among English and American college students. They are saying some things about the war system which shows that they have seen through the false front which has made war possible in the past. Selfishness, greed and lies—dressed up in high-sounding words and carrying the flag to the tunes of a military band, this is the method in all countries. The military party in one country thrives upon the military party in another country. There is no

MANICURING has entered the field of big business at the World's Fair, judging from this photo of Julia Lyons who is engaged in keeping Tyrannosaurus Rex, King of the Tyrant Reptiles, in shape for his daily battle with his ancient foe, Triceratops, at the Sinclair Dinosaur Exhibit. greater falsehood than the one which says that military preparedness prevents war. Military preparedness only gives the war party in another country the opportunity it wants to get more money for their own program—and so the whole world goes on in its mad race, no one having the courage to face the matter squarely and throw the whole thing overboard. This is the reason that I wish the peace movement in the U. S. A. all success. Because I know it will stimulate similar movements in other countries and at the same time will do more than anything else to knock the foundation from under the military parties. They will no longer have an excuse for their wild programs. I feel it is at this point that the women of America can do their bit in the world situation. Whatever helps improve the broad international outlook and peace-mindedness in one country will eventually react on all other countries. Perhaps Mrs. Mickle could really write a more interesting letter to the ladies than I. Next time I shall ask her to try it. Again thanking you for the honor which you have done me, I am, Most cordially yours, JOE J. MICKLE JR. June 7, 1933.

Al Williams Will Give Radio Eye View Of Balbo Flight

With all America thrilling over the daring achievement of General Italo Balbo and his Italian air armada, Captain Al Williams and Ted Husing will collaborate in giving Sunday's radio listeners a vivid description of the arrival in New York City, over the Columbia Broadcasting System. The noted American flyer is particularly competent to offer his version of the sensational event since he officially welcomed the Mussolini sky fleet in his famous Curtiss Hawk over Manhattan Island. This program will be a sustaining 15 minutes over a national network. Ted Husing will ask questions and Capt. Al Williams will answer. In addition, Al Williams, who has held the world's air speed record for eight consecutive years, will give a brief story of his sensations at the time of the arrival. This program will be a follow-up of the 15 minutes devoted by the Columbia Broadcasting System to the arrival of Italy's trans-Atlantic air fleet of 24 seaplanes, last Wednesday. On this occasion, Capt. Al Williams was introduced to the radio audience as the "man who welcomed and flew in with General Balbo." Mention also was made of the fact that the holder of the distinguished flying cross is now manager of aviation sales for the Gulf Refining company. —FILLERS . . . on 88 Morgan (. FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

"My new model electric refrigerator runs for less than a nickel a day" is the story we hear from women who watch these little items of the family budget. And while the operating cost is low, the advantages of electric refrigeration are so great that the few pennies spent each day for electricity are quickly absorbed by the dimes and quarters saved by trouble-free electric refrigeration.

With electric refrigerators priced below $100 and the operating cost so low, you can't afford to be without a modern electric refrigerator in your home.

*This statement was made by the owner of a popular make of electric refrigerator within the $100 price range. The operating cost of larger models is slightly higher.
