Bill Clayton, Speaker of the House of Texas Representatives and Bob Price, Texas Senator from District 31, will be special guest speakers before School Boards and Superintendents of several schools at the Muleshoe High School Cafeteria Monday night.

Neal B. Dillman, Muleshoe School superintendent, said 26 school boards and superintendents have been invited to the meeting which will be on taxation, school finance, school legislation, local control and state rights.

Two Muleshoe High School FFA students exhibited winners at the Junior Livestock Show at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas last week.

From a field of seven Berkshires, Bryce Holmes was second in the 200-215 pound class. Johnny Puckett was fourth in a field of 18 in the Berkshire Division in the 216-230 pound class.

Gil Lamb, of KMUL, who recently underwent open heart surgery, has been back at work and his familiar voice is being heard again on the "Mule Train News."

Bailey County Sheriff Dee Clements, who has been out of his office since April, and has undergone three surgeries, has been back to the office some during the past week, for short periods of time.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said gross receipts taxes on mixed drinks earned the state $16.7 million.

Larry Winkler said to his knowledge, this was the first time for buffalo to be processed in Muleshoe. At mid-morning, the plant was bustling, as the buffalo were being worked through the killing and processing operation.

Porter said he started with buffalo several years ago as more of a hobby, but with the purchase of a bull and two cows, the herd started to grow, and he now sells a part of his herd each year.

He explained that buffalo is delicious meat when properly prepared, and said that buffalo sells for more than $1.80 on the hoof and a prime buffalo steak sells for more than $8.

According to Porter, the six buffalo, who were processed in Muleshoe, were

New Owners Now Operate City Cleaners

After being closed for the last several months, City Cleaners has re-opened with new owners.

A good crowd was on hand for ribbon cutting ceremonies conducted Friday morning by Muleshoe Mayor Ken Henry and members of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

Operating the cleaners will be Mrs. Jesse Anzaldúa. She and her husband have been residents of the county for several years. He also has a sheet metal business and is the head cotton gin for the Lariat Gin in the fall.

Also on hand for the ribbon cutting ceremonies were Father Tim Schwertner of Immaculate Conception Catholic Church, who blessed the operation and friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Anzaldúa.

GRINDING OUT YARDS...Jeep Shanks keeps a tight hold on the ball as he grinds out some of the 138 yards he racked up against Littlefield Friday night. He made two of Muleshoe's three touchdowns as he rambled across, around and through the Wildcat line.

Farm Demonstration Celebrates 75th Year

Extension's technique for teaching people—the farm demonstration method—which began in Texas on the Porter farm of Kaufman County in 1903, is being used in much of the world today, according to Bailey County Agent Spencer Tanksley.

He said it was just after the turn of the century that Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, a U.S. Department of Agriculture educator and special agent, came to Kaufman County to set up a farm demonstration to improve general crop conditions in northeast Texas. The Walter C. Porter farm near Terrell was the site selected for the demonstration which was designed to show farmers how to use scientific methods to increase yields and income, said Tanksley.

He added that Knapp's "teaching by demonstration idea" was highly

It's Time To Change; Fall Back

Did you wonder why no one was there when you got to church this morning? If so, you may be among the thousands of people who forgot to move their clock back at 2 a.m. today (Sunday) for the twice a year time change.

By doing so, you could have slept an hour later this morning, and still made it to church on time.

Although unpopular, the Daylight Savings Time, which went into effect on the last Sunday in April has changed back to Central Standard Time for the next six months.

A rule of thumb to use to know which way to turn your clock has been devised. It is 'Spring Forward' and 'Fall Back.'

When you turn your clock back an hour, you will actually be sleeping an hour later, and going to bed an hour later at night.

Many persons have objected to the changing back and forth of the clocks twice each year, but most states have traditionally gone along with the change.

Only a small handful of states and U.S. possessions have never turned their clocks.

So, hope you had a good night of sleep on Saturday night, and didn't forget to turn your clock back for the next six months.

successful and spread rapidly to other states. The U.S. Congress passed the Smith-Lever Act in 1914, which paved the way for an Extension Service concerned with agriculture, home economics and related subjects in each state.

"The idea of farm demonstration work continues in Bailey County even today, and has played an important role in bringing about change and improvements to local farmers," continued the county agent.

"One of the first demonstrations I know about in the county was Reese Wilderding, who was also the first Bailey County judge. In the late 1920's or early 1930's, he applied phosphorus fertilizer to alfalfa hay and he did observe a difference," he added.

"After the mid-40's, Bill Millen, a local farmer to-

Baptists Plan 'Great Day In Morning'

"Great Day in the Morning" is the Sunday School emphasis for Southern Baptist Churches in the state of Texas on Sunday, today. A high attendance goal of 678,000 people in Sunday School has been set by Texas Southern Baptists today.

In support of the "Great Day in the Morning," emphasis, the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe and its mission, Templo Bautista, have an attendance goal of 481.

The Rev. J.E. Meeks, pastor of the First Baptist Church, says: "It is the highest attendance goal for Sunday School attendance our church has ever attempted. The people in our Sunday School classes and departments have set the goal."

"Our Sunday School members are aware that having a goal does not ensure the achieving of it. But how much better to set a goal and strive for it, than, as is facetiously said, 'to aim at nothing and succeed.'" By faith and visitation, our Sunday School Director, Sam Harlan; our Mission Pastor, Ynes Aleman and I believe the goal is attainable."

Chief Asks For Safety On Halloween

Tuesday night will be traditional 'Trick or Treat' night all across the country, as little ghosts and goblins take to the streets, knocking on doors seeking all kinds of 'goodies.'

However, Muleshoe City Police Chief Johnny Richards commented late last week that 'trick or treat' is vastly different to what it was in past years.

He suggests that if you do take your children out, and he does suggest that parents take their trick or treaters out in person, that visits be limited to persons you know.

He said that someone needs to be with young children at all times, supervising their activities and know where they are at all times.

Chief Richards added a plea for drivers to be extra careful during the early evening hours, as young, excited children do not always watch carefully where they are going as they attempt to cross streets.

He added that extra officers will be on duty in an attempt to make Halloween safe and sound for everyone.

A Halloween carnival, especially designed for the younger persons will be conducted from 6:30 - 9 p.m. at the Bailey County Civic Center and Coliseum. Lots of booths and games will be available to entertain the young people. It is sponsored by the Muleshoe PTA and all parents are encouraged to have their children at the carnival for several hours of games and entertainment.

3-Way Eagles Slammed Hard By Cotton Center

Playing at Cotton Center Friday night, the Cotton Center Elks maintained their unbeaten status as they slammed the Three Way Eagles, 58-8.

Six of the Cotton Center TDs were with Quarterback David Castilleja and halfback Alvin Garcia. Alvin Garibay, Jimmy Safeser and Johnnie Davis also scored for the Elks.

Duo Injured...Carl Fuqua of Lazbuddie was the driver of this car which was in a collision with a pickup driven by Jack Finley Smith, just south of the Lazbuddie School Friday night around 10 p.m. Both Fuqua and Smith received head injuries in the accident. Neither was believed to be seriously injured.

Mules Now Leading District 2-AA Action

It was a cool, clear night, and a perfect night for football when the Muleshoe Mules took to the field to take on the Littlefield Wildcats. Last year, the Mules defeated Littlefield by a score of 13-6, but in a three way tie for district honors, Littlefield won the toss and represented the district in play-offs.

Friday night, the Mules gained a decisive victory over the Wildcats, sending them home with a 21-7 loss. It became the third time in history the Mules had defeated the Littlefield Wildcats, and one step closer for the Mules to the elusive district title.

Although the 'Cats took the initial kickoff, they failed to gain much headway and punted to the Mules. The entire first quarter became a defensive standoff as the quarter ended on a 0-0 note.

Twin fumbles in the second helped the Mules gain their first touchdown of the game. Littlefield recovered a Muleshoe fumble on a good drive, but on the very next play, fumbled it back to the Mules, who quickly took advantage of getting the ball back.

With 10:11 on the score board in the second, Jeep Shanks broke loose and twisted and turned and galloped downfield on a 41

'Sweetheart' Fran Berryhill Gives Program

Presenting the program on the Muleshoe High School Speech Department for the Muleshoe Kiwanis Club Friday morning was Sweetheart Fran Berryhill. She explained some of the different aspects of the speech department and told of some of the tournaments they would enter.

"We are very proud of Fran and the Muleshoe Speech Department," said the Kiwanis reporter. "We think that Kerry Moore has done a wonderful job in instilling into the young people to put their whole heart and soul into their work. This is what makes winners, and the Muleshoe Speech Department is a winner."

Kiwanis President Terry Bouchelle installed one new member Friday. He is C.J. Feagley, a local farmer, and was officially welcomed by the club.

Lazbuddie Duo Escape Bad Injury

Two young men narrowly averted tragedy in a two vehicle accident just south of the Lazbuddie School Friday night shortly before the Lazbuddie - Amherst football game was over.

According to officer reports, Jack Finley Smith was backing from his driveway when his pickup was struck by a car driven by Carl Fuqua.

Smith was brought to Muleshoe for treatment and Fuqua was taken to a hospital in Friona. Both received head injuries, which required sutures, but neither was seriously injured.

As Smith's pickup was partially blocking the highway, the vehicle had to be removed so heavy traffic leaving the football game could manipulate around the accident scene.

Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home dispatched an ambulance after receiving the call about the accident, but one of the injured was reported to have been taken to the hospital by private vehicle.

THP Troopers Royce Keck and Ronald Gribble, from Friona, checked the accident.

The wreck occurred as Lazbuddie fell to the Amherst Bulldogs in a squeaker, 10-7.

Wage, Price Control Looms In Future

DRIFTING TOWARD CONTROLS

For weeks the White House has been laying the groundwork for a Phase 2 anti-inflation program. With each new piece of bad news of how badly Phase 1 is faring, the news media report the Administration in Washington is inching nearer the likelihood of so-called voluntary wage and price controls.

The tempo of this drum-beating in advance of a new battle plan picked up when President Carter spoke to a steelworkers' union convention in Atlantic City. The President spoke obliquely of "restraint" and "sacrifice" and new proposals that would be both "fair" and "tough."

Meanwhile, his chief inflation trouble-shooter, Robert Strauss, says: "We are not getting at the fundamentals of inflation yet. We must do more."

When wholesale prices for September surged upward 0.9 percent, setting off a new price shock wave, the unofficial word became even more specific: Reporters said a program of guidelines imposing a 7 percent cap on wage increases and a 5.75 percent cap on prices was under consideration.

The drift toward some form of federal controls seems unstoppable, according to a chronology of events by Dr. Richard L. Leshner, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which along with the AFL-CIO opposes wage-price controls.

Dr. Leshner, noting that White House rejection of controls in January had turned soft by mid-summer, as inflation worsened, observed: "There is a consistent pattern of wage-price controls in the policies of the Carter administration."

Polls show many business executives expect to see mandatory federal controls--and a repeat of their disastrous results in 1975--within the next year or two.

Dr. Leshner, says those favoring controls "are tempted by what looks like a simple solution: Pass a law against higher prices. 'But it won't work.' He adds: "inflation is too much money chasing too few goods. There are only two ways to reduce it: 1. Cut back on production of new money, which is controlled by government, and 2. Produce more goods and services more efficiently." Americans should ask: Why should controls, which admittedly would not work against inflation in January, work any better today when inflation is worse?

When the government borrows huge amounts of money to finance budget deficits, it tends to drive up interest rates and to dry up sources of money, mainly at the expense of business seeking capital funds to invest in new jobs.

In a recent message to its national membership, the chairman of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Shearon Harris, made the point that not much can be done to curb inflation if the government continues to move "in the opposite direction" by running repeated deficits, even in good times.

"There is no question," he says, "but that government is the main inflationary force...through excessive spending that breeds huge budget... through tax policies that discourage saving and investing, and stifle the productivity improvements necessary to restrain inflation...and through runaway regulations that impose ever-increasing costs on business."

"To illustrate the size of the problem, the federal government's tax receipts in 1950 averaged $260 per capita. By 1977, the average rose to $1,634. That tells you something about the rapidly growing government scale in our society.

"It's not surprising, therefore," says Harris, "that inflation has become such a plague."

Inflation averaged barely more than 1 percent in the 1960's but soared to an average of almost 7 percent in 1970-75. In this year, it may run as high as 8 or 9 percent.

If you haven't noticed, the federal debt--a product of deficit budgeting -- is rapidly moving toward the trillion-dollar mark. It soon will be an estimated $850 billion. In 1900 the National debt at the end of the fiscal year was $1 million.

In 1978 it is estimated that the national debt for the fiscal year will be $776 million. It sure tells a sad story. Where will it end? Taxpayers can only ask.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:
The difference between Senator Tower and Bob Krueger became clearer to me following the recent vote on D.C. representation. Mr. Krueger voted in favor of giving the District of Columbia two U. S. Senate votes while Senator Tower voted against it. I commend Senator Tower for taking the more thoughtful position on this issue, for it is clear that an objective look at this matter demonstrates that the District should not be given such votes.

My first reaction to giving the District of Columbia voting representation in Congress was maybe that it is not a bad idea. After all, who can oppose giving any American such representation in Congress? Mr. Krueger is obviously hoping that most Texans will not look into this issue beyond this first reaction. What Mr. Krueger and other proponents have failed to acknowledge is that the District is already represented, and in fact, has a special status that gives it a unique advantage over all States and cities. Although Washington, D.C. ranks 14th in population among U.S. cities, it receives more federal aid than any other city, except New York City. This has resulted from a federal gray train from a House Committee and a Senate Subcommittee that do nothing but devote their efforts to giving federal money (our money) to the District. No other city or

State has this favored treatment, yet the constitutional amendment now being sent to the States would not alter this status at all. I see other problems with giving D.C. congressional votes, including the question of giving other American entities votes as well. What about Samoa, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, the Canal Zone? Americans living in these places should not be forgotten, but the Congress is comprised of representation by States only and does not include territories. If Americans in the District of Columbia and those in our territories feel so strongly about achieving voting status in Congress, they should either move to one of the fifty states or initiate efforts to make their own entity into a State. You can't retain your unique status over other states and demand votes to boot. They don't call this country the United States for nothing! Signed, Thomas S. Freeman (s)

Sudan Fire Prevention Week Contest Winners

The Sudan Fire Department has demonstrated for the grade school students and held a poster contest in conjunction with National Prevention Week.

The Sudan Fire Department held a fire demonstration for the grade school students of Sudan, on October 17 at the school playground.

A pipe Christmas tree, which is supplied by propane fuel, was lit and the firemen used a fog pattern of water from a 2-1/2 inch line to put it out. This operation was to show the children how hot a propane fire can be, and the safest way to put it out. Mrs. LaDelta Vernon, third grade teacher and Tommy Lacwell, grade school principal, went into the fire with the charged lines with the firemen and put the fire out on the Christmas tree.

The second demonstration was using the straight stream nozzle connected to 50 foot of 2 1/2 inch line from the pumper truck. Over 400 gallons a minute of water was pumped through the nozzle.

The third demonstration for the school students was a fan shield that was connected at the end of 50 feet of 2 1/2 inch line. This showed the fan pattern that the water made. This type of equipment is used to put into a burning building, that the firemen are unable to enter because of the heat.

On October 20, a group of members from the Fire Department went to the Sudan Grade School to judge Fire Prevention Posters that the students made. The posters were judged in three divisions, primary, intermediate and Junior High.

Winners in the primary division were Kyle Maxfield, Keith Damron, and Jacob Lowe.

Intermediate division winners were, Bill Gardner, Anna Ramos and Jeff Gordon.

The winners in the junior high division were Verna Wimberley. Each winner received a cash prize.

Scott Williams Writes Poems As Hobby

SCOTT WILLIAMS

Scott Williams, a fourth grader at Mary DeShazo, is our feature this week because of his poetry. Scott did not start writing poetry in school but started as a hobby. He says that he can find adventures in writing poetry and show his feeling to other people. He feels that it is also good for his mind. Scott plans to be a poet someday and wants to attend college in Lubbock. He writes poems about animals, people and feelings.

Griffiths Elevator where he works. He also helps his father with their farm. Scott was born and raised in Muleshoe. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Williams and has two sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Rozell of Amarillo and Mr. and Mrs. Smitty Alsworth of Canyon and one brother Randall Williams of Muleshoe. Scott's favorite subjects in school are spelling, art and dictionary work. Here is one of the poems that Scott wrote titled "Friendship".

FRIENDSHIP
Friendship is a funny thing.
It's like when you run and like to swing.
Everyone should have it your and me.
That's the way life should be.
Be good friends people say,
That will brighten up the day.
People should always want to be friends.
That's where love always begins.
Sometimes angerness enters thy heart.
That's where enemies start.
If people learned to love each one
Love has already just begun.
People should always want to be friends,
That's the start where life begins.

BILL CLEMENTS WILL CUT TAXES AND GOVERNMENT SPENDING

Texas was built by men with the vision to look ahead and the grit to get things done. Bill Clements is the man to keep this tradition alive for the future of Texas.

Bill Clements will bring a strong, fresh and tough approach to our government in Austin. He is a businessman, not a politician. Bill Clements started with nothing and built a successful, worldwide company with hard work and the skill to manage men and money. And now Bill Clements wants to preserve the future of our state and he wants the working people of Texas to have the same opportunities he had.

With his proposed "Taxpayers' Bill of Rights," Bill Clements is committed to protecting Texans from excessive taxation and runaway government spending. He is pledged to cutting taxes and returning that money directly to the taxpayers. As former Chairman of the Southern Methodist University Board of Governors, Bill Clements knows how to make education in Texas the best in the Nation. He's for discipline in the classroom and "back to basics" quality education. As the son and grandson of farmers, Bill Clements knows the frustrations that an indifferent government can cause people who make their living off the land. He will use the strength of the State Government to fight burdensome Federal restrictions.

"I believe that Texas has always had more promise than problems, but the balance is more delicate each year. We need to get to work now."

BILL CLEMENTS A GREAT GOVERNOR FOR TEXAS

Paid political advertisement by the Bill Clements for Governor Campaign Committee, Tom B. Rhodes, Treasurer, 1901 N. Akard, Dallas, Texas.

 a year and a half old. He said buffalo requires little attention to produce a good carcass.
 Buffalo do not need to receive shots, as they carry no disease, and need no supplemental feed. He explained that he had sold three of the buffalo that were being processed, in Muleshoe, and was having the other three head processed for himself.
 Porter said that although his family uses the buffalo, he provides a head of beef each year for a married daughter, who said she does not like buffalo meat. "She does eat buffalo when she comes home to visit," he laughingly commented.
 He and his son farm and have the buffalo operation and explained that only young buffalo makes a really good eating type meat. And, properly prepared, many people prefer buffalo to the traditional beef.
 The producer did warn that improperly cooked buffalo, which must be cooked for a long time over low heat, is not good. He said buffalo cooked over high heat is almost inedible. It must be removed from the fire while it is still 'red' and it will then turn brown, showing that it is ready to eat. Most people cook buffalo until it turns brown, and at that time, it is too tough and stringy to be good.

 By processing the six buffalo, Porter said he still has a herd of 11 on the farm north of Clovis. When asked if he plans to expand his herd, he said he did not, as there is not a sufficient outlet for buffalo in this part of the country.
 He told of an operation in Wyoming, where at least 3,000 head are produced yearly. He said the operation in Wyoming even includes a packing plant and established outlets.
 Careful skinning of the animals was being conducted by Shorty Aguirre, an employee of Winkler Meat Co., to preserve the buffalo hides. Winkler indicated he would be using at least one of the skins himself, to make a buffalo rug for his home. Other skins were expected to be used the same way.

 Don't expect everyone to agree with you; variety of opinion is what makes the world interesting.

 Thinking of the Harvest," will receive its premiere showing in the area.
 Many other observances of Farm Demonstration Month are being held throughout the state. A special statewide salute was held October 12 in Dallas and at the Porter farm.
 Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, a former president of Iowa State College and a special agent for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, went to Terrell in 1903 at the request of area citizens to set up a demonstration to "improve farming methods."

Knapp asked them to find a demonstration site and a farmer who would farm precisely as he recommended. Local citizens selected Walter Porter from several volunteers and also quickly raised $1,000 to cover any losses that might arise from farming with "the new methods." But, the money was not needed.
 The farm demonstration was a financial success, and the technique spread rapidly to other areas. Soon, farm demonstrations were evident in many counties. And they are still popular! There were 4,300 established in Texas last year, including every county in District Two.

 Bailey County received a check for $427.71 as their 15 percent remittance of the reported taxes of $2,851.38.

 to wipe the goose egg off the scoreboard. Richard Soria added the extra point and at 35 seconds before the half, the 'Cats were within seven points.
 No score was made in the third, although Soria missed a 30 yard field goal for Littlefield at 4:42 of the third.
 Defense, defense and more defense was the battle cry for both teams in the fourth as they waged a see saw battle back and forth on the field. Penalties were hurting the Mules, who gained 56 yards in penalties during the game, one which wiped out a 25 yard run by Zeke Pecina, and another which set up Littlefield's sole touchdown.
 However, with the scoreboard clock at 5:01 in the fourth, and after a steady march downfield, Jeep Shanks barreled his way through the middle from the eight yard line, hurtled over a couple of would be blockers and into the end zone. Sudduth's toe made it a 21-7 game.
 Statistic wise, Muleshoe had 16 first downs to 15 for Littlefield; Muleshoe had 56 yards in penalties to 20 for Littlefield. QB Northcutt completed two of seven passes for 67 yards and QB Gregory completed eight of 13 passes.

 Each team fumbled twice and neither quarterback was intercepted.
 Muleshoe had 386 yards on the ground to 175 for Littlefield. Jeep Shanks led with 138; followed by Northcutt with 134; and Zeke Pecina with 111.
 Littlefield's strong runner Rudolph Smith had 141 yards and 29 carries; compared to 34 yards for other carriers including Ruben Torres.

CENTER DEDICATED
 The $1.5 million Texas 4-H Center built at Lake Brownwood in 1975 will be formally dedicated on Nov. 8, points out a 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the parent organization of the 4-H program. Dedication ceremonies will feature state and national officials along with a "burning of the note" indicating final payment on the center and the unveiling of a special plaque. Purpose of the center, built solely from private funds, is to provide a setting for training both youth and adults in a wide range of areas but centering primarily on leadership.

Mrs. Mary Furgeson, Cindy Harris and the newly installed officers were each presented a long stemmed rosebud. Victor Leal was given a red carnation boutonniere.

After the ceremony, refreshments were enjoyed by everyone present.

Little Mules Defeat Friona Team, 14-12

The Little Mules proved again last week that guts and determination can win ball games, especially if it is aided by a few breaks. One of those 'breaks' came as Johnny Ybarra intercepted a Chieftain Aerial in the end zone as the final buzzer rang ending the ball game. Also getting into the turnover picture were Trent Kirvin, Ronnie Angeley, George Vela, Joe Don Fabella, Israel Del Torro and Larry Norman.

The first drive of the game was capped off on a 3 yard power play that had Kirvin taking the hand off. Monty Hysinger's extra-point attempt was no good.

Then, just before the half, with neither team able to consistently move the ball, Kirvin skirted right end on a reverse, cut back across the field and scored after carrying the ball 57 yards. This countered a scoring run by the Friona fullback of 37 yards and broke a 6-6 deadlock. The PAT kick was faked and Hysinger tossed the ball to Max Bachicha for two points which proved to be the difference in the game.

The defense again did a good job in holding the opposition to inconsistent yardage. After the chiefs last score they held on the try for two points but were called for being offside. The next attempt was from one and a half yards out and again the defense held strong.

Good Job Little Mules.

Friona's first score was set up by a blocked punt at our 20. This was the only score until late in the game. With 30 seconds left to play, Friona intercepted a pass and ran it in to make the final score 13-6 Friona. Our Defense played very good giving up only one big play during the game. The offense only scored one touchdown.

A Texas-Style Senate Race Discussed

By Albert R. Hunt
(from the Wall Street Journal, Oct. 16 issue.)

A big is in the U.S. Senate race here is a signature. It is a big bold, cursive signature, and it belongs to Sen. John Tower.

The three-term incumbent Republican uses the signature in all his messages to underscore that he forthrightly "Stands for Texas." Specifically, he declares that he stands against the power grabs of George Meany, the Democratic-dominated federal government and the Russians.

But it is also used by the Democratic candidate, Congressman Bob Krueger. A widely shown Krueger TV commercial simulates the Tower signature while declaring, "After 17 long years, there still is not one piece of major legislation called the John Tower bill."

The great signature war is turning into one of the most bitterly fought and expensive elections of 1978. Both national parties consider it one of the most important of this year's Senate races.

The 53-year-old John Tower is a political phenomenon in Texas. Elected by a fluke in 1961 to take then-Vice President Lyndon Johnson's seat, he has been handily reelected twice. Sen. Tower remains the only Republican to win a statewide race here in 100 years. All this in Texas from a former political science professor who is only five-feet, six-inches tall.

Bob Krueger, 43 years old, meets this state's expected height requirements, standing six-feet, three-inches. But there the stereotype ends. He is a Shakespearean scholar and former English professor and dean at Duke University, he returned to his family home in New Braunfels, Texas, and was elected to Congress in 1974. His speech is more replete than down home, and his appearance is more formal than folksy.

Mr. Tower and TV
As of now, the race is rated exceptionally close, encouraging most Texas Democrats to believe this is the year they finally will knock off their GOP nemesis. "Any time an incumbent is running even four weeks before an election, he has had it," ventures one politician here. But another top Texas Democrat warns it is a mistake to underestimate Sen. John Tower: "Tower uses TV better than anybody in this state; he has got that deep voice, and you can't tell he is so short."

Whatever happens, it is going to be a rough-and-tumble, Texas-style finish. Ideologically, the two men aren't that far apart. John Tower tends to be staunchly conservative while Bob Krueger is moderately conservative. But the two ex-professors are not engaged in an academic debate. Indeed, they downright dislike each other.

"The difference is I have a political philosophy and he does not," asserts Sen. Tower. Charging that his foe is "uninhibited by the truth," he adds: "Krueger is so driven by personal ambition he will do anything."

Bob Krueger feels just as strongly about his opponent. "John Tower always has thrived on fear and division; he is a fear monger," he charges. What's more, Mr. Krueger maintains, Mr. Tower isn't an effective Senator: "He's a nonachiever in a state of achievers."

The two are spending enormous sums of money to deliver these attacks. Although unopposed in the May Republican primary, Sen. Tower still spent over $1.4 million and overall is expected to spend more than $4 million in his effort to get reelected. Rep. Krueger probably will spend around $2.5 million, coming closer to matching Sen. Tower than the GOP Senator's previous opponent.

Nowhere is campaign money more essential than in this huge and diverse state. Texas has 17 major media markets, 61 television stations, 350 radio stations, 101 daily newspapers and more than 600 weekly papers. The geographical dimensions for a political campaign are awesome: There are 254 counties, and it is farther from Brownsville to Amarillo than it is from New York to Chicago.

So the two candidates are relying on the media to get their messages across. One bloc is getting special attention: the Mexican-Americans, who constitute about 12 percent of the vote here. Sen. Tower is advertising heavily on Spanish-speaking radio stations. He stresses his support for bilingual education and minority business and notes that his administrative assistant is a Mexican-American. He expects to get up to one third of this vote, which would be critical in a close race. The incumbent, however, is making little effort to attract the black vote, which is about 10 percent of the electorate.

Rep. Krueger, who has a solid pro-civil rights record, is confident he will get the lion's share of the Mexican-American vote and the black vote. He assails as "disgraceful" Sen. Tower's votes against civil rights bills, the voting rights acts and a proposed constitutional amendment to give the District of Columbia representation in Congress.

The overall campaign efforts for both candidates consist largely of charges and countercharges. Based on their advertisements, press releases, speeches and interviews, here is what they are telling Texans:

Bob Krueger, according to the Tower campaign, is a pawn of big labor; he voted this year for the so-called labor-law reform bill, which passed the House but which was killed by a Senate filibuster. One ad shows John Tower manfully resisting a big bulldozer driven by AFL-CIO President George Meany, who has a piece of paper in his pocket saying, "Krueger's vote." The Senator even dismisses Rep. Krueger's efforts to deregulate natural gas: "Krueger made a miserable showing in the House. He was only interested in covering himself with glory."

Moreover, the two-term Democrat is depicted as an "overly ambitious millionaire" with an atrocious absentee record. In one Tower radio commercial, a scatterbrained woman purporting to be a receptionist in the Congressman's office tells an inquiring caller the lawmaker didn't vote on bills relating to gun control, agriculture, tuition tax credits or the military. But she adds he did vote for the labor-law bill—"You know, the AFL-CIO bill."

On the other hand, Sen. Tower paints himself as a man of principle who stands up against the Panama Canal treaties, against big labor and for a strong military. He frequently notes that U.S. News and World Report magazine has rated him one of the five most influential Senators.

Rep. Krueger also stresses the issue of Mr. Tower's influence, or rather what he says is the lack of it. Although the Senator is the ranking GOP member on the Armed Services Committee, his opponent charges that 11 military bases have closed in Texas because "John Tower was not tending to your business." He dismisses the incumbent's seniority in the Senate: "Seniority only means something if you are in the majority party."

On issues, he criticizes Sen. Tower's support for a big GOP-sponsored tax cut as "dishonest" because the plan isn't accompanied by comparable spending cuts. And he says John Tower has been "insensitive" to minorities, the elderly and farmers. "John Tower has operated a closed shop for 17 years," Rep. Krueger argues. "We can't have a Senator whose door is open only to big business and big cities."

By contrast, the Democratic lawmaker says that he sees all sorts of diverse groups and has been an independent and effective advocate; specifically, he says natural-gas regulation started moving seriously through legislative channels only after he started pushing it. "Texas has an opportunity for national leadership (in the Senate) such as we have not had in recent years," he declares.

Most of the rhetoric is more emotional than edifying.

Mr. Krueger's Record
In reality, Bob Krueger is a hard-working and highly regarded lawmaker. His attendance record in the House has been poor this year only while he was home campaigning in a tough primary and in the current campaign. He did play a key role in the gas deregulation fight, although the final bill to gradually phase out price controls isn't supported by either candidate.

Moreover, Bob Krueger hardly is a George Meany lackey; he voted against several labor-backed measures, and he usually champions business interests on regulatory and tax issues. He has forged a fragile coalition, appealing to conservatives with his pro-business record on economic issues while attracting liberals due to his civil-rights stance and his intellectual background. But he is also a politician every bit as calculating as he is independent. Some colleagues say his vote for the labor-law bill was largely aimed at winning the AFL-CIO endorsement for this election. And it was only a few weeks ago, after Republicans started charging he was a liberal, that he endorsed a proposed constitutional amendment to require a balanced federal budget.

John Tower is not one of the five most influential men in the U.S. Senate, but neither is he the legislative slouch that Mr. Krueger suggests. As a senior member of the Armed Services and Banking committees, he is a shrewd advocate of conservative positions. He has brought far more defense-related largesse to Texas than has left; seniority counts in the Senate for Republicans as well as Democrats. As head of the Senate GOP policy committee, he plays a major role in shaping party strategy. But he also hasn't been the rock-ribbed man of conservative consistency that he claims. Under Presidents Nixon and Ford he caved in to White House pressure and backed wage and price controls, federal aid for New York City and a "bailout" of Lockheed Corp. And he played little role in this year's natural-gas deregulation fight. As for the charge that he hasn't authored a "John Tower bill," that is not a very valid benchmark for congressional achievement—especially in Texas. Ray Hutchinson, a former Texas GOP chairman, notes, "A lot of Texans send someone up there to kill legislation."

The National Association of Businessmen Gives Award to Bob Krueger.

Tower doesn't make cut.

Recently the National Association of Businessmen gave its annual "Watchdog of the Treasury" award to Democrat Bob Krueger. Krueger was commended for his 85% record in cutting federal spending and his efforts to balance the federal budget.

John Tower's 60% record was one of the worst in Texas.

October '78 Registrations Are Now Due

It is time for a last minute checkup. Look at your automobile registration plate.

Does the validation sticker expire in October, 1978? If so, you have until October 31 to get a new validation sticker for your vehicle.

R.W. Townsley, director of the Motor Vehicle Division of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, reminded motorists today that they should have received October renewal registration applications by mail.

If you do not have the new three-part registration renewal card, you must take your most recent registration receipt, car title and the registration fee to your county tax assessor-collector to obtain a new validation sticker. Many county assessors-collectors will not accept checks and require cash or money orders with the application.

Under the new year-around registration law, about 700 thousand vehicle registrations expire each month. They must be renewed for one year during the month of registration, since the last of the short-term transition registrations expired in September.

The staggered registration system was conceived to eliminate long lines at the last minute when more than 10 million registrations were filed in two months. You can make the short lines shorter still by promptness in registering your vehicle.

George Bush for Congress

"The farmers here in West Texas are in a real bind. Their costs of production are going up—yet they are required to sell at wholesale prices.

"That's not right. As your congressman, I'll fight for increased export markets. I'll fight to reduce high inflation, high taxes, and high interest rates that run up the cost of production.

"I can't guarantee the weather—but I can guarantee that I'll work hard for the West Texas farmer."

day, planted eight varieties of wheat for a demonstration with the local county agent. From the demonstration "Triumph" wheat was discovered as being the most adaptable to this county.

Another local farmer, Gordon Murrah, who farms in the Progress community planted the first cotton variety demonstration in cooperation with J.K. Adams, a former Bailey County agent. Also, Jack Little, who farms in the West Camp community, was the first farmer to plant hybrid grain sorghum. In the late 50's, he planted an acre to see how it would be adaptable to the county, added Tanksley.

One of the big developments that has helped this area grow into a very diversified area for crops was the development of the car engine for irrigation purposes. It is believed that this was accomplished around 1932.

The county agent said, "Today, across the state of Texas, demonstrations continue in counties. These demonstrations are a 'show and tell' situation, that continue to bring about changes in different farming situations, according to the area of the state where the demonstrations are conducted."

"Each year in Bailey County, we put together a result demonstration handbook that contains results of these trials and distribute the handbooks to farmers."

"A number of demonstrations are being conducted in Bailey County this year and numbers and types are as follows:?"

CORN

Jim Crawford has done a plant population study on varieties; a yellow and white corn variety test and a trial on herbicides affecting seeding corn.

Jack Little and Tommy Little have conducted a corn variety test and two water tests on center pivot circles.

Vic Coker has conducted a white variety corn test, concerning varieties that Valley Grain Corp. was recommending.

Calvin Meissner, Robert Hunt and Terry Wheeler have conducted furrow row irrigation tests in corn.

John Young has conducted an automated control center pivot irrigation system.

Ted Harrison conducted a cotton variety test as well as a beef cattle performance trial and an alfalfa phosphorus application test.

OTHERS

Lloyd Williams conducted a tomato variety demonstration and a pepper variety disease demonstration. J.K. Adams did a wheat grazing variety test and alfalfa variety demonstration.

Jeff Smith conducted an alfalfa irrigation demonstration and Claunch Bros. conducted beef cattle performance tests, cotton variety demonstrations and harvesting techniques.

"Farm demonstrations work includes working with commercial seed companies and private consultants to gain information from these people to assist all farmers," added the county agent. "In my opinion, it is a very rewarding work from a county agent's point of view to go out to a farm involved with demonstration work and check with the farmer on information that will help farmers understand and solve their problems."

"I am supported by a county field crop committee who helps make recommendations and suggestions of the type of demonstrations that should be conducted in our county," he continued. "In a nutshell, these farmers, who work without any financial reimbursement, and who provide the land, and all the work to produce the test crops, helps people solve problems they can identify, no matter what area of farming the problem may involve."

He also said, Texas legislators accepted provisions of the Smith-Lever Act in 1915, creating Extension as a part of the Land-Grant University System, where it continues to function forcefully today as a part of the Texas A&M University System. Under the dynamic leadership of Director Dan C. Pfannstiel, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service now had educational programs in more than 72 different subject matter areas that reach into each community, not only in Bailey County, to "help people to help themselves" through the application of relevant knowledge from research.

Tanksley concluded, "As Texans join in observing the 'Diamond Anniversary of Farm Demonstration Work,' they will also pay special tribute to the informal education system known as the Extension Service, which has served to improve the level of living of many citizens and provide consumers with high quality foods and textiles for three-quarters of a century."

When crocheting with light yarn, put the ball in a plastic bag, punch a small hole and thread the yarn through the hole.

SURE HANDS OF THE SURGEON

A child walks... an arm is straightened... a growth is removed... these and many other things are the result of the fine work of the surgeon. This is an occupation and a labor worthy of appreciation.

A star... a new born baby... the world itself... these and many other things reveal God to us. "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork."

Psalm 19, 1

God has wrought a great work. Let us show our love and appreciation by worshipping him in Church

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
