13 AUTOMATIC PISTOLS ALSO PART OF LOOT

Entrance to Building and Supply Room Gained By Prying Locks Off Doors

Sometime between three and four a. m. Tuesday morning burglars broke into the National Guard Armory on Rusk street, Ranger, and took four Browning sub-machine guns, 13 .45 calibre Colt automatics and between 20 and 25 clips for the machine guns.

The robbery was discovered by Patrolman Jack Roach at 4 o'clock when he made his regular rounds and discovered the front door to the armory building broken open. He notified Captain Wayne C. Hickey, who made a preliminary examination of the premises and immediately wired the adjutant general of Texas, notifying him of the robbery and asking that instructions be wired him as to what he should do.

Entrance to the building was gained by prying the lock and hasp off the front door with a pinbar. The thieves evidently broke into the orderly room first, as the hasp was broken from the door to that room and the lock left lying where it fell just outside the door. Nothing was missing in the orderly room as far as a hurried check disclosed, though there were typewriters and other office equipment in the room.

Supply Room No. 2, where uniforms, canteens and other equipment is kept, was also broken into in the same manner and a preliminary check reveals that nothing was touched in that room. In Supply Room No. 1, where rifles, pistols, sub-machine guns and ammunition are kept, the thieves made a pretty thorough haul.

After gaining entrance to the room by prying off the lock, which was left near the door, along with the bar used in opening the four doors on which locks were broken. Inside Supply Room No. 1 a rack containing seven Browning automatic rifles commonly known as sub-machine guns, was broken and the four newest guns were taken. Two of these guns had seen considerable service and one was in bad order. These three guns were not molested, but the four new guns were taken.

The rack containing 13 .45 calibre Colt automatic pistols was also broken and all these guns were taken, though the ammunition bin, which was nearby, was not disturbed. Four .22 calibre rifles, belonging to the American Legion Rifle club, were on a table nearby, but these were not removed, nor were the Springfield rifles, with which the company was equipped.

The value of the loot of the robbery was estimated today by Captain Hickey as around $1,000 at retail prices. Ranger officers have looked over the scene of the robbery in the hope that some clues might be found, though no report of their findings was made public.

One Texas Ranger arrived in Ranger this afternoon from Fort Worth and began aiding local officers in their search for clues, and the department of justice at Dallas telephoned today and indicated a federal agent might be sent to Ranger if he was requested by officers and Rangers now on the job.

WALLACE BAKER OF BANKHEAD CONTROL PLAN

Is federal control of the output of agriculture on the way? Secy. Henry A. Wallace of the department of agriculture is said to have given formal approval to the Bankhead bill to limit cotton marketed in the 1934-35 season to 9,000,000 bales. Washington semi-officially made the announcement that the approval by Wallace of the Bankhead measure apparently assures its passage by congress, "as the President already has given tacit support to its principles," but "the secretary of agriculture, although asserting he would be guided by the wishes of the grower has been dubious about compulsion measures."

Sen. Smith of South Carolina, known to fame as "Cotton" Smith, is a large planter and a spokesman of the Palmetto state cotton producers. Senator Bankhead is responsible for the statement that the results of the questionnaire recently circulated among cotton growers shows the South "Strongly favors federal control of the fleecy staple" in a marketing sense as well as in acreage reduction sense. Planting time is coming. There is a season, a real season, in the ground. There should be employment for a large number of handworkers who have been on the relief rolls or who have been given temporary employment by the relief setups of the New Deal administration.

CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY GIVEN A DRASTIC CODE

Americans are fast travelers. Now the construction industry, "second largest in the nation and one of the hardest hit by the depression," has a code designed not only to stabilize and spread employment but "to eliminate labor discord." Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, lovingly referred to by his critics as "Crack-Down" Johnson, believes that the industry is capable of putting half of the remaining unemployed back to work. This code has been signed by the President and will be effective Feb. 27. A national adjustment board and regional sub-boards are to negotiate agreement on hours and wages and other labor difficulties.

Perhaps some day that ancient guardian of personal honor, the code duello, will be revived or restored in the commonwealth of Louisiana. Then it will be possible for Battlers Huey P. Long and Semmes Walmesley to do all their strutting on their own political dunghill. In ancient days Louisiana and South Carolina were the famous dueling states. Now the militant warriors use their tongues as weapons instead of the hair trigger, weapons of bygone ages. Of course, it makes lots of copy for the newspapers but never swells the population of the nearby cemetery.

SEN. CONNALLY AND TEXAS WOOL GROWERS

Texas is a leading producer of wool. Texas is the banner producer of mohair. There is an investment of many millions in the twin industries. Sen. Tom Connally has asked the federal tariff commission to increase the duty on felt hat bodies "if it were consistent to do so." In his appeal to the commission the junior senator said wool growers in Texas and elsewhere are anxious for an increase in the tariff. There is a reason why: Felt hat bodies are imported principally from Italy and are in competition with domestic wool.

Another growl from Mussolini is on the way. He continues to be one of the marvelous men of the ages. Indeed, Mussolini is Italy. He is the voice of the people. He is the voice of all industries. He is the press. He is the lawmaking body of Italy. Marvelous man. What will happen when the invisible snuffer of the candle of life sends Il Duce to his long home under the sod?

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT every community should look to the future and take necessary action at once toward getting more good roads.

Roads are needed that can be used the year around. They should forestall tie-ups on account of bad roads. Bad roads often mean loss of much money to a community.

Development and better business go hand in hand with good roads.

Some people object to good roads because they are afraid of increased taxes.

It would pay these people to look before they object, and then step lightly.

It is up to every citizen to take an interest in public improvements.

It is also up to every man in public office to do his best to see that all year round roads are built and maintained.

ret, for heaven's sake." "Ghastly affair, simply ghastly," whispered another. She looked absolutely shattered, but she kept renewing her complexion with fingers that shook a little.

tomorrow won't it?" he asked coldly. Gypsy's eyes flew to his face. Why was he taking it this way—he could see her asking herself the question.

THE summer night was dead still. Heat lightning flashed somewhere, far off to the north, and indoors the clink of crystal could faintly be heard, mingled with the sound of light, careless voices.

HUNT interrupted. "Look here, Weaver, you mustn't talk to her that way."

"Perhaps," said Tom in a tone icy with anger, "perhaps all this is none of your affair."

Perhaps not 30 seconds had passed, although to her these seconds ticked past like hours, before Hunt's tall form was silhouetted against the light and Hunt's agreeable voice said carelessly, "How're tricks, you two?"

The telephone rang and he answered it in a cold, dispassionate voice. It was Gypsy and she was excited. Her voice sounded as though she had been crying.

"I hate to—" He took her hand reluctantly, glanced at Tom with irony. "Sorry, old man."

Lila had risen. Her face was chalk white above the black shadow of her gown. Marko's pearls lay on her throat.

Presently he heard her key but he did not move. He continued to stand there, in the half light, sulking. But his ears were alert.

"I thought you were working tonight," she flared at him. She had flung her little velvet wrap aside and stood revealed in all her desirability.

CHAIRS were pushed back, voices gabbled. Gypsy noticed duly that someone had overturned a glass of wine and that the stain was spreading over the face of the runners.

"Lord, you'd think the fool would have sense enough to go home now," Tom thought grimly. He went out into the hall, caught at a disadvantage after his sojourn in the dark.

"She was working," he said thickly and angrily. His choler almost choked him. "Who said I wasn't?"

Highest, Widest Bridge Is Built By Department

WACO.—The widest and highest bridge ever built by the Texas highway department spans the Brazos river near here.

The bridge, nearly half a mile long, was completed and opened for traffic several days ago. Hundreds of autoists and pedestrians awaited on both banks of the river for Division Engineer E. C. Woodward to announce the span ready for use.

A temporary holdup of all traffic will be put into effect over the week-end and early next week, however, to enable workers to complete final improvements on shoulders of the roadway leading to the bridge on either side of the river.

The structure of steel and concrete was built at a cost of $278,000. It has in it 1,600 barrels of cement, 20,000 tons of gravel and sand and 500 tons of structural steel, more than a million and a half pounds of re-enforced steel, and a total of 10,800 cubic yards of concrete, contractors said.

Pouring of concrete began exactly a year ago at the time the final section of handrail was poured Tuesday, Feb. 13.

All that remains to be done on the bridge is the polishing of the handrail—a process of rubbing the concrete smooth—and painting of the steelwork beneath the actual span.

Contractor's equipment, consisting of 150 tons of cranes, derricks and hammers, is being moved from the construction site, preparatory to the advent of landscape experts for beautification work.

The bridge will be accepted by state highway authorities when Resident Engineer Randle B. Alexander pronounces it completed and Division Engineer Woodward makes final inspection.

The bridge has a 24-foot roadway and a five-foot sidewalk on the west side. The roadway can be made 40 feet wide in the future, engineers said, without increasing the width of the foundation. Piers sunk into the riverbed were constructed large enough especially to take care of this possible future necessity. Exact length of the bridge from pier to pier is 2,432 feet between elevations.

Manufacturing . . .

Economical Methods . . .

Skilled workmen at the lathes and furnaces of Western Electric Company, turn raw materials from the far corners of the world into the 100,000 delicate parts and appliances needed for the telephone service. . . and sell them to the 24 operating companies of the Bell System at a cost below what they would have to pay in the competitive market.

Four thousand workers in Bell Telephone Laboratories, the research organization of the telephone service, search constantly for scientific short-cuts and inventions that will give better service at a low cost. They are the reason you now may talk across continents and seas, that most telephone wires are underground, that a single long distance line may carry four simultaneous conversations.

Staff experts of American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the parent organization of the Bell group, develop economical operating methods for the system, furnish advice on accounting and other matters, and through the financing facilities of the parent company obtain the funds needed for extensions of telephone plant at substantial savings to the operating companies.

THIS specialized group of organizations exists for one purpose only . . . to give you good telephone service at a fair cost.

Back of this fundamental policy is our belief, based on business judgment, that in an organization planned, like the telephone service, for the long pull, what is best for the telephone user becomes in the end the policy that will bring us the sounder, more certain success.

SISTER MARY'S
KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
A Service Staff Writer

EVERY housewife takes infinite pride in her household linens
but the lifelong beauty of all linen is dependent on its care. Correct methods of washing and ironing are vastly important. Careless handling, strong alkali soaps and bleaching mixtures destroy the natural luster of linen and the heavy satin texture of damask.

Use very little bluing in the last rinse water for linens. Linen absorbs much more readily than do cotton fabrics.

Iron Damask Carefully
The final finished beauty of damask lies in the care with which it is ironed. It must be quite damp and ironing must be continued until it is perfectly dry.

Many women make the mistake of not ironing their damask dry enough and not having it damp enough to begin with. Too hot an iron is another common fault. It takes time, patience and delight
in the finished article to iron damask properly.

Iron monograms and embroi-ery on the wrong side over a heavy pad. Some experts suggest a bath towel as a pad but the rough weave is apt to leave its imprint on the plain linen. Heavy flannel makes an excellent pad for embroideries and laces.

Even in the "best regulated families" accidents will happen to table linens, so some knowledge of how to remove stains is a great help in preserving the beauty of napkins and table- and lunch cloths.

Chocolate stains are hard to remove if you don't know how and
ordinary washing may "set" the stain so it's almost impossible to remove it. First sprinkle powdered borax over the stain and
soak in cold water for 20 minutes.

Lemon juice and salt will remove iron rust. Cover the stain with salt and moisten with lemon juice. Then put in the sun. Repeat until the stain disappears.

Removing Beverage Stains
To remove coffee stains, stretch linen over a bowl and pour boiling water through it. For tea stains first pour on glycerine and then pour boiling water through the stain.

Chocolate stains are hard to remove if you don't know how and
ordinary washing may "set" the
stain so it's almost impossible to
remove it. First sprinkle powdered borax over the stain and
soak in cold water for 20 minutes.

Then stretch over a bowl and pour boiling water through it.
Egg stains should be washed in cold water until they completely disappear.

Candle wax can be removed from table linens by placing a clean blotter over the spot and pressing with a hot iron. Slip the blotter often to keep a fresh place over the spot.

Lemon juice and salt will remove iron rust. Cover the stain

juice. Then put in the sun. Re-

Three Sensational
Murder Cases
Will Be Tried

By United Press
EDINBURG, Texas.—Three of Hidalgo county's most sensational murder cases will be called for trial in widely separated district courts of South Texas during March and April, according to District Attorney Sid Hardin.

Hardin returned this week from San Marcos, where he conferred with County Attorney Fred Blundell of Hays county concerning prosecution of Maseo Cuellar and Julian Ybarra, confessed slayer
and confessed accomplice, respectively, of Claude E. Kelley of Wes-laco in March, 1929. Kelly, a son-in-law of County Judge E. C.
Couch of Hidalgo county who was then a candidate for the office he now holds, was wounded fatally when struck on the head with a hatchet in a midnight attack while sleeping at the Couch home in Weslaco.

The two Mexicans will go to trial on March 12 before Judge
J. C. Jeffreys of San Marcos.
Hardin and Blundell will prosecute the defendants, while the law firm of Brubaker & Edwards of San Marcos has been appointed to defend the men by Judge Jeffreys.

Also charged in Kelley's death are Cam E. Hill of El Paso, former Hidalgo county clerk, and George C. Beck, Dallas peddler and former Edinburg resident. Both are now at liberty under bond.

Statements in the hands of state's attorneys, signed by Beck and Ybarra assert Hill hired Beck to secure a man to kill Couch, who was running for office in opposition to Hill's associates. Beck allegedly secured Ybarra, who in turn hired Cuellar, former Wes-laco street sweeper, to carry out the plan. Kelley, sleeping in Couch's home, was struck with a hatchet when he discovered Cuellar prowl about the house while seeking Couch's room. Cuellar fled without seeking to find Couch.

Charles H. Fortson, former district clerk of Hidalgo county, is scheduled to go to trial in Sinton
on March 5 on a charge of murder in connection with the shooting to death of his brother-in-law, Otis
Pelt of Edinburg, in November, 1932. The shooting occurred in the ground-floor corridor of the Hidalgo county courthouse during

Agreement Reached
On Opening Bridge

By United Press
BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—United States and Mexico finally have reached an agreement on hours of keeping the international bridges
open.

The solution was reached after officials decided to keep them open all the time.

For 20 years, ever since the United States started closing hours,
there have been controversies over the bridges.

American customs officials ordered the Texas end of the bridges closed early, then Mexican authorities retaliated by not opening the Mexican end of the bridges the next morning.

A sudden change of heart occurred on the American side of the river and the bridges were ordered open for full 24-hour periods. Mexico added to the differences by closing them at night.

On recommendation of Harry L.
Sexton, American collector of customs, the bridges later were permanently opened on the American side, but not on the Mexican side.

Autoists could cross to Mexico up to midnight anytime and could return anytime, but they could not enter Mexico between midnight and 7 a. m.

Complaints were numerous. Finally Mexican officials announced their sides of the bridges would be kept open the full 24-hour period.

Even the Germans believe that

RELIEF MAY REPLACE GIN IN CAMPAIGN

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Tex.—Relief is promising to shoulder prohibition out of the way as the big issue of the 1934 political campaign in Texas.

Leading drags and wets alike indicated a disposition before the state legislature this week to relegate the liquor question to 1935. Enthusiasts for earlier action met little response.

On the other hand relief gripped attention. A growing movement to end this summer was plainly discernible.

"It's not primarily a question of the amount of money we are spending," fiery little Earle P. Adams of the State Relief Commission told a legislative hearing, "it's a question if we are going to build up a permanent state system."

Adams says relief demands have grown steadily despite improved conditions and increased number of jobs.

"It looks like the better conditions became, more people got poor," he told senators.

He convinced many that if the relief administration is not ended this summer, it will become a permanent state function. Communities, he declared, have abandoned local efforts. "It's so, and we might as well say it. They have been in a scramble to get all they could for their communities believing that if they didn't get it other communities would."

None of the issues raised by the candidates in their announcements and addresses, so far, seems to have aroused any great public interest.

With questions reaching the high courts in which the law is so uncertain that even the U. S. Supreme Court makes four or five rulings, unusual interest may be expected this year in the race for Associate Justice of the State Supreme Court.

Already there are a number of aspirants to succeed Judge T. B. Greenwood, Palestine, who has announced he will retire. Judge John Sharp of Ennis, member of the supreme court commission and James W. McClendon, chief justice of the Austin Court of Civil Appeals and former member of the Supreme Court Commission, are among them.

McClendon's court through its location has had to pass on many of the leading state issues that eventually reach the Supreme Court. Judge Frank Roberts, Breckenridge, and Judge F. O. McKinsey, are likely to be candidates from the territory west of Fort Worth. McKinsey, an assistant attorney general for many years was on the District Court bench at Weatherford. Roberts was a district judge when the United States entered the World War. He left the bench to enter the military service.

Judge J. E. Hickman of Eastland, chief justice of the Civil Court of Appeals there, ran third in the last Supreme Court race, and may again be a contender. It is thought Judge Hal Lattimore of the Fort Worth Court of Civil Appeals also is a likely candidate. He is the son of Judge O. S. Lattimore of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

District Judge C. A. Wheeler, Austin, formerly of Texarkana also is expected to enter the race. He was an assistant attorney general when Dan Moody was attorney general.

By Krenz No Prime Minister But Wisecracks Relieve Tension

AUSTIN, Tex.—Gov. Ferguson wants it distinctly understood there are no "prime ministers" in her regime.

Ed Hession, Houston, and Carl Estes, both members of the Texas Relief Commission, were talking to each other during the last commission meeting here.

"When the two prime ministers get through, I would like to make a motion," said Commissioner M. N. Chrestman of Dallas.

Gov. Ferguson, ex-officio chairman of the commission, rapped sharply for order.

"There are no prime ministers" she said.

Estes keeps the commission in good humor. Recent divisions have made some of the meetings rather tense. Estes at such moments throws in a homely simile that makes them all smile.

He also uses phrases that are remembered.

One is much quoted about the capitol. It was: "We made a mistake when we kicked Lawrence Westbrook upstairs." Its meaning was that the failure to give Westbrook greater commission backing resulted in him being promoted to a Federal post.

Speaker Coke Stevenson also uses phrases to keep the House of Representatives in good humor. The other day when the governor sent up a series of messages and prepared bills, some of the bills were not immediately offered by any member.

"We've got some bills here without any papa," remarked Stevenson. Foster parents resulted.

Texas Will Have First Big Time Boxing Exhibition

By W. WINSTON COPELAND
United Press Staff Correspondent
FORT WORTH, Tex.—Whether Texas is a "big-time" prize-fighting state will be determined here this spring when Barney Ross of Chicago defends his world junior-welterweight title against the Texas product, Tony Herrera.

The fight, to be held here during the spring horse-racing meet at Arlington Downs, is the first world title bout for a Texas city and the first really major battle since prize-fighting was legalized last spring.

Answer to the question will depend largely on the way Texans turn out for the fight. The $5,000 cash guarantee made to Ross represents a huge figure in the light of past purses and attendance here.

A gross gate receipt of $25,000 or $30,000 will be necessary to finance the fight, believes Dick (Dandy Dick) Griffin, the tiny Fort Worth promoter, who succeeded in outbidding the Pacific coast, the midwest, the east and Florida for the fight.

Ringside seats will sell for a top of $15. That is another question: whether there are 400 people in Texas willing to pay $15 to occupy that number of close-up seats. Other seats will range down to $1.

Previous first-rank fights here have been only fairly successful, but boxing authorities believe a championship match with two stars as Herrera and Ross has every chance of succeeding.

The principals in the fight are well-drawn and it is the first meeting between them. The bout is one that has been sought by many promoters for several months.

Ross is a high-classed fighter, ranked by some as the master boxer, the greatest perhaps since Benny Leonard. He won the title from Tony Canzoneri.

Herrera, a Scotch-Mexican from El Paso is highly rated. The plucky youth is also an artist in boxing technique.

He has sought a try at the title for two years. He was never able to get a bout with Canzoneri and repeated earlier attempts to get a bout with Ross failed. Herrera considers the approaching bout the chance of his fighting career, and undoubtedly will put forth all his effort.

Both fighters are to go into

Invent Plan To Cool Concrete In Boulder Dam

BOULDER DAM, Las Vegas, Nev.—Although many innovations in engineering and construction have been made on the Boulder Dam project, Bureau of Reclamation officials say the scheme of artificially dissipating the chemical heat generated by the setting of the 3,026,000 cubic yards of concrete in the dam structure tops them all.

Experts agree that without artificial cooling it would require 100 years for the mass of concrete to reach the ultimate annual mean temperature.

To accomplish this artificial cooling it was decided to pour the concrete for the dam in separate blocks which could be keyed together. Series of thermometers were placed at various points within the dam to record temperatures inside the structure.

The concrete is being cooled through a system of one-inch tubes, placed in horizontal layers five feet apart in the concrete and through which refrigerated water is circulated.

When the main structure of the dam is completed, there will be approximately 3,000,000 feet, or 568 miles, of the one-inch pipe running through the concrete.

The cooling plant is capable of producing 2,100 gallons of water per minute. Refrigeration is accomplished by an ammonia compression system not unlike that used in the manufacture of ice.

Before this refrigerated water is run through the pipes, pre-cooling water is circulated at the rate of 6,000 gallons per minute.

Lines between the plant and the dam for refrigerated water are covered with a two-inch cork insulation to prevent variation of the temperature of the water in summer and winter.

Temperatures are taken regularly to check the progress of the cooling. As soon as cooling in any particular loop of pipes has been completed, circulation through the loop is stopped.

When the cooling has been completed in a 50-foot grouting lift, grouting of contraction joints is begun. The eight-foot slot is filled with concrete before grouting.

This operation, combining cool-

Why Doctors Favor a Liquid Laxative

A doctor will tell you that the less use of strong laxatives is more harm than good.

Harsh laxatives often drain system, weaken the bowel and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is returning to laxatives in liquid form. The dose of a liquid laxative is measured. The action can be regulated to suit individual needs. "double dose" a day or two later.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps the average person's bowels to regularity. Why not? Some pill or tablet may be convenient to carry. Municipal Cost Cut Being Urged

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has issued an appeal to women's clubs throughout the country to start a campaign for reduction of the expense of local government.

"A large portion of American tax money is spent in city, county, township and village governments," she states in her department. "I often have wondered, of women throughout the country really made an analysis of the way the tax money is spent, whether they might not find certain things that they would eliminate."

"Throughout the country," she says, "we find unsatisfactory conditions in the schools. There are a million more children in the schools than there were in 1930. This is partly the normal increase, and partly the result of the fact that with great numbers of people out of work we are trying to keep children longer in school in order that they may not enter the competitive industrial world.

"Education is the one subject that we cannot afford to neglect, no matter what happens to public and private finances."

Old Car Good Enough ?

Say, just ride in a '34

YOU'LL change your mind about holding on to the old car the very first time you get behind the wheel of a Nineteen Thirty-Four. Are these new jobs smooth and smart and comfortable? And can they "travel"?

Even if you aren't going to buy at present, you should read the automobile advertisements appearing in this newspaper. It's an excellent way to keep up to date on what the spring salons are showing. There are important developments in styling and engineering—features pictured and described—which contribute to new riding and driving ease, new safety, beauty, and e-c-o-n-o-m-y.

ECONOMY is an important point in these messages from leading automobile manufacturers. . . . Exceptional values, long life, unusual freedom from repairs, low fuel and oil consumption! ECONOMY is the reason they advertise in this newspaper, for here they can reach you and many other logical and intelligent car buyers at a minimum cost per person.

Read the advertisements in this newspaper as an ECONOMY MEASURE. They save time energy, money . . . and even now are pointing out that owning a luxurious, up-to-the-minute motor car is often more economical than maintaining an old one.

FORD TO BUILD HUGE EXPOSITION AT THE 1934 CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR

A GREAT Ford Exposition, portraying the tremendous part the arts, sciences and virtually every other industry plays in the manufacture of today's motor cars, is planned by the Ford Motor Company for the 1934 World's Fair.

The Ford Exposition will be housed in a giant building 600 feet long to be built in the heart of the fair grounds on an 11-acre plot bordering Lake Michigan and flanking the main fair boulevard. Construction of the building will start March 1.
In the dominant central building will be housed Henry Ford's "Drama of Transportation," depicting the development of wheeled vehicles from the chariots of ancient Egyptian kings to modern motor cars. Every model of Ford car made since 1903 will be included.
In the smaller building to the left will be housed some of the priceless historic exhibits from the Edison Institute at Dearborn, Mich., including the one-story brick workshop, complete with the original tools, where Mr. Ford in 1893 built with his own hands his first motor car. This first car will be displayed inside the shop.
The main exposition building will display an imposing array of exhibits, most of them in action, show raw steel, aluminum and other metals, soy beans, corn, wool, cotton and other farm products and the products of myriad industries are converted into car parts. The building also will house displays of cars and a big movie theater. Along the east side will be an open-air balcony equipped with chairs and lounges where hundreds may relax.

Across the drive fronting the lake will be a big Ford Park, beautifully landscaped and also fitted with seats and other comforts for fair crowds.

TRY A WANT-AD!

Each year Turkey and Greece ship us thousands of bales of fine tobaccos—

But why send 4,000 miles for tobacco?

... because spicy, aromatic Turkish is the best seasoning there is for a cigarette. It adds something to flavor and aroma that no other tobacco can give. Chesterfield uses Turkish tobacco—from Samsoun, Smyrna, Cavalla and Xanthi.

Then it blends and cross-blends them with various kinds of choice home-grown tobaccos in the right balance to give you a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better.

A leaf of Turkish tobacco—smaller than the palm of your hand—800 or more to the pound. There are many thousands of these leaves in each of these bales below, ready for shipment to America.
