APPEARANCE OF CAPITAL IS EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—A heavy flow of investment capital into the country's business enterprises with the appearance of signs of monetary stability is expected by important administration officials, the United Press was informed today. If several billions of dollars of timid American capital can be coaxed out of hiding in various short term securities, government officials believe that the financing of the recovery movement gradually can move back to private hands and thus relieve the government financial burdens. The government now has taken a stand that banks and individual investors should begin to do their part in financing of the recovery program now that they have assurance of a relatively stable dollar.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

WALKING WITH GOD: The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord; and he delighteth in his way. Though he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down: for the Lord upholdeth him with his hand. -Psalm 37: 23-24.

COL. LAWRENCE WESTBROOK GIVEN A NEW POST

Col. Lawrence Westbrook of Texas has been handed a tough job by Federal Administrator Harry L. Hopkins. He has been called to Washington where he will be given his instructions. This is the foreword to the story as carried by The Austin American: "Plans are being made by the federal emergency relief administration to move thousands of persons on relief to other sections as a result of the unlikelihood of the communities in which they are living to supply them with work in the future."

It has been estimated by the civil works administrator there are at least a million people in this situation. These idlers may be sent to work part of the time inside the national forests as large numbers of men are required for rehabilitation and replanning of the forest reserves.

In war time and boom time and gambling time a vast army of young men and women invade these cities and industrial centers. They were given high wages. They were kept busy. All the time the inventors were busy and the machine became the mighty driving force of this mechanical age. Then came the crash. Now the governmental plan is to take these idlers from the cities and to provide employment. It is a Herculean task. There is room for all in the country and the first mission of man is to feed himself and his dependents as well as to provide shelter and garments to cover their nakedness.

Really on the surface of all it is the machine or the man. Which will win? Science never sleeps. Its devotees are ever planning, they are ever inventing, and the chemists in their laboratories are ever moving onward—never backward. It is either adjust the machine to man or man to the machine.

TEXANS HANDED ANOTHER FAT ROLL BY UNCLE SAM

Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins has passed on a fat wad of $400,000 for civil works service and relief employment away down here in Texas. Speaking of the coming cotton bonus, H. H. Williamson, Texas extension service official at College Station, predicts that a total of 3,000,000 acres will be signed up by Wednesday night. Money talks.

REP. SAVAGE'S 14TH LEGISLATIVE SESSION

Rep. H. W. Savage of Dallas county should be classed as a veteran lawmaker. He is an active participant in the 14th session he has attended, this counting regular and special. Really the genial Savage should write a book, "Lawmakers I Have Known and How They Performed." There are old and new faces in the lobbies of the hotels and in the corridors of the capitol. The more the merrier. It is a sworn duty of a gay and gallant American to contribute to the gaieties of the commonwealth and the nation. Man must have a little fun as he ambles down the highway of life.

Some cities would be better off if they would chase out the dead ones and bring in more live ones.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT the civic spirit of a city is the sum total of the spirit of its citizens.

A citizen is part of a city and it is up to each one of them to display their own civic patriotism in their individual lives.

The future growth of a city depends entirely upon the part that its citizens take in its every day life.

To assure better business (and it is by better business that a city grows) a high spirit of loyalty to the home city must be developed and maintained.

As civic patriotism is the cornerstone of loyalty, cooperation among the citizens for the benefit of all must be had. Cities grow in direct proportion to the way its citizens work together.

All citizens should support the city that supports them.

A great need in many cities is for a lot of grouches and tight-wads to come alive and try to be good neighbors and good citizens. If they would get together and boost together they could do wonders.

If the business men of some cities would spend as much time fighting for business as they do fighting among themselves, each individual business would be in better shape, as well as that of the entire city.

THAT FIRST SHOT

Married Flirts

By MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY GYPSY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married on the same day as LILA HOTALING and DEBEK BLISS, but Lila expects to live in luxury while Gypsy keeps her job teaching in a settlement school. Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income. Another problem is Tom's jealousy of wealthy MARKO BROTUGHTON, a former admirer of Gypsy whom they met at the Hissas' home. When Gypsy learns she is to have a baby she gives up her job. The baby is born in September and is christened DAVID. Debek Bliss wonders of the social whirl in which he and Lila live. This annoys Lila and she encourages Marko Broughton's attentions. Tom spends more and more evenings away from home. A friend tells Gypsy about seeing him at lunch with a pretty girl. Gypsy suspects it must have been VERA GRAY. She tries to banish her suspicions but cannot. Gypsy tells Tom that she intends to divorce Marko and marry the man who has been flirting with her. Tom overhears the talk and misunderstands.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVIII

"CAN we talk somewhere, away from everybody?" Gypsy asked Tom. He looked oddly grim. "I'd like that." They drove away in the little car in the bright sunshine. "Now, dear," she began when Tom had parked in a small hollow, sheltered from the wind, "I want to know what this Vera Gray business is all about." "I don't know what you mean." Her tone was polite, was indignantly weary. "I think you do. She's been in town. You've been seeing her, haven't you?" "Oh, as to that!" Gypsy felt a spasm of anger. Tom was in one of his stubborn moods. "If you'd only try to understand," she said with patience, "that I'm trying to clear this whole thing up. I've just been sick over it. I want you to tell me, Tom, how important it is. Then if it means lots to you, if you want to—finish things on account of her, why, I say, all right. I'll say, 'goodbye, my dear, and I'm sorry and all that,' but I don't want to go on fussing and fuming. It's not decent, it's not right." He had listened to her in complete silence, not a muscle in his handsome face moving. "I don't know what this is all about," Tom said in the pause. "Just because I see one of my old friends occasionally why all the fuss? You do the same." "I?" She lifted her eyes. "Why, I have the same old round, day in and day out. The baby—the apartment. What are you talking about?" "I'm talking," said Tom coldly, "about Marko Broughton." "Ah!" Gypsy caught her under lip in her teeth, staring reflectively at the interlocking branches over her head. This is absurd, she reminded herself, all of it is quite mad. "What about Marko now?" "Doesn't he," Tom wanted to know, "send you flowers?" He reproduced her voice. "The flowers were wonderful." Gypsy said, "Ah," again in a lower scale. "What does that mean?" "Oh, lovely, of course." "Beautiful, girl," her father contributed in the pause. "How's her husband?" "We haven't been seeing them much," Gypsy said lightly. "We don't move in the same circle." Tom interposed, rather bitterly for him. "We don't seem to be able to keep up with the Joneses." "Why, son?" Mr. Morell said in his easy drawl. "I didn't know you people wanted to do that kind of thing." "We don't. Tom's just joking," Gypsy told him. "Well, I'm glad of that. Very silly thing for anybody to do," the older man offered. "For that matter, no matter how much you've got you can always look around and see somebody with more money, a bigger house, a better car. I wager Lila isn't satisfied with what she has right now." Gypsy was silent. "You kids have the right idea," proceeded Harvey Morell. "Work and save while you're young. Buy a little house in a year or two, maybe. That young man of yours won't like the city pavements when he starts to stagger around. Count your blessings. You've got everything—youth, good health, each other." "NEITHER would meet the other's eye. This was dreadful—it was worse than anything they'd been through yet. To listen to this fond, kindly man and feel in their hearts such burning, bitter discontent—it was difficult to bear. "Well, I'm turning in. Will you see that the hall door's locked when you come up, Tom?" Harvey Morell left them. The little homely had been as good as a sermon. When Tom came up to their room, after making certain that all lights were out and all hinges fast, he found Gypsy sitting forlornly on the side of the bed. "Tommy, I feel such a beast . . . He sat down beside her without saying a word but she knew that he, too, had been touched by her father's words. "Everything he says is true. We're both fools. What is the matter with us?" "I don't know." He was stroking her tumbled curls now, the bleak look had left him. "You started to pick on me today. I didn't want to fight with you. Honey, you know I never do." Suddenly the light in his arms had faded to half-crying. "I'll tell you just how much I've had to do with Marko lately. Tom—absolutely nothing. That horrid old man . . . " "Never mind. I know he doesn't mean a thing. Honestly, Vera gives me rather a pain. I don't care a scrap about her." "I can't help it; when I think of you lurching with her and all that it makes me see red. I hate being jealous but it's like a disease." "You've got to fight it, darling. It's spoiling everything. That and being poor." "Hah!" She tossed the hair out of her eyes. "Being poor doesn't really matter. It's just thinking maybe you like somebody else better—that's what kills me." "Well, don't be a goose. I won't ever take her to lunch again if it'll make you feel any better." Gypsy took this as a solemn promise. "I'll glare at her when she comes near. I'll put a Scarlet Fever sign in my buttonhole." "Oh, you idiot!" "Tell you what! I think the boss is going to have her sent back to Boston anyway. That cheer you up?" "We-e-h!" It was silly she was just as silly as she could be but the world seemed brighter for the now. (To Be Continued)

“SELLING CALLS FOR HEALTHY NERVES, TOO—MR. MARKSMAN”
Kenneth B. Logan, Salesman, of Scarsdale, N. Y., says:
“‘The selling game calls for healthy nerves just as much as being a wonderful marksman. Meeting people all day long... trying to turn prospects into customers... the life of a salesman certainly tells on the nerves! I smoke most of the time—but I smoke only Camels, and I’ll tell you why I say only Camels! Camels don’t upset my nerves—and no cigarette can match Camels on flavor, either.’”

Mrs. R. W. Patterson will entertain the "42" club of Cisco, and a number of Eastland friends, at her residence Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, honoring her house guest and sister, Mrs. A. C. Davis of Spokane, Washington.

Program For Junior High P. T. A.

The Parent Teacher Association of the Junior High school, will observe "Founders Day" in a special program, arranged for their meeting tomorrow, Tuesday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock in the school music room.

The thirty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the Parent Teacher Association will be celebrated in a candle lighting ceremony.

The program opens with a story of the Parent Teacher Association by Miss Lois Nelson. Voice solo, "A Little Child Shall Lead Them," Miss Wilma Beard. "A Tribute," Mrs. Frank Crowell.

A social hour will follow, and refreshments will be served.

Every member of the Junior High P. T. A. is requested to attend by their president, Mrs. W. Fred Davenport.

Martha Dorcas Bible Class

The Martha Dorcas Bible class heard a splendid message from their class teacher, Mrs. C. C. Robey, at their meeting Sunday morning in Methodist church opened by their president, Mrs. H. O. Satterwhite, in assembly song service, "Savior More Than Life to Me," and "Break Through the Bread Line."

The business session brought a report from the "Country Store," held Saturday by the class, which showed $50.00 taken in, with some expenses to be met. The sale or store was held again all day today.

A charming letter of thanks was received from Mrs. D. C. Hawley, for the flowers sent her when ill at the hospital.

New members were introduced in Mrs. E. L. Huddleston and Mrs. J. A. Anderson, both of Olden.

A prayer by Mrs. E. R. Stanford prefaced the lesson, based on the sixth chapter of Matthew, and having for theme, "Putting First Things First."

The session closed with the class prayer in union, by Meses. June Kimble, J. S. Little, J. Atchley, Milton Newman, A. J. Treadwell, D. J. Jobe, Jack Noel, Fred Hale, Fred Foster, Joe Adams, Howard Brock, W. A. Keit, W. B. Harris, L. A. Cook, Ora B. Jones, C. H. McBea, Mack O'Neal, Guy Quinn, O. M. White, W. C. Marlow, C. L. Fields, Frank Pierce, W. H. Mullings, J. Harkrider, F. B. Ruberson, J. W. Greathouse, M. B. Griffin, W. Van Geem, R. G. Porter, J. L. Roper, Albert Fauth, J. M. Beale, W. A. Hart, Ed T. Cox Jr., E. R. Stanford, H. O. Satterwhite, C. C. Robey; Misses Loretta Morris and Ila Mae Coleman.

An Omission

In the report of the Poet's Day program presented by the Thursday Afternoon club, in Sunday's Eastland Telegram, the voice solos "Canterbury Bells" and "By the Bend of the River," very beautifully sung by Mrs. Grady Pipkin, with piano support by Miss Margaret McLaughlin, was accidentally omitted.

These numbers closed the program of reading. We are glad to make this addition to the afternoon's entertainment, and regret that the mistake occurred through the loss of notes taken for the report.

Booster Class Party Tuesday Night

The members of the Booster Bible class of the Methodist church, will entertain with an evening party tomorrow, Tuesday night, at 7:45 p. m., at the home of Mrs. T. M. Collie, who will have as co-hostesses Mrs. Neil A. Moore, Mrs. M. H. Kelly, Mrs. P. L. Crossley and Miss Aline Walker.

The husbands of the women members and wives of the men members are especially invited.

It has been requested that all those intending to go, will please notify Mrs. Collie to that effect.

Informal Barn Dance

A jolly crowd of 32 boys and girls of the younger set enjoyed a "barn dance" Saturday night, held in a vacant garage near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chance, and hosted by Misses Lewal Chance, Carolyn Doss and Benny Kate Wood, assisted by hosts, Alex Clark, Jr., and Ralph D. Mahon, Jr.

The building was cleverly lighted with oil lanterns, decorated with harvest foliage and dancing was to victrola music.

Chaperones were Misses Lesbia Word, Oneita Russell, Doris Powell and Mr. Chance.

Refreshments of ice fruited punch and small cakes were served during the evening.

The Booster Class

The Booster Bible class had a number of guests at their meeting Sunday morning in the Methodist church, and several new members.

The session opened with the president, Mrs. D. S. Eubanks, in charge, and Miss Jane Ferguson as pianist.

The meeting of the Booster class on Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. T. M. Collie, when husbands and wives will be guests, was announced.

Visitors introduced were Mrs. Morgan Myers, Miss Belle Booner of Hobbs, N. M., J. A. Johnson of Sherman, and Joe Blalock of Bonham.

New members presented were Mrs. Cecil Hibberd, and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Fry Jr.

Preceding the wonderful lecture by Judge W. P. Leslie, Miss Jane Ferguson gave a delightful piano solo.

Judge Leslie spoke of "Putting First Things First," the high light being unstable conditions and depression, could not be cured by purely material things, for prosperity must be based on personal integrity.

PERSONAL . . . And Otherwise

Among the visitors from Gorman, Saturday were Clara Mae Underwood, La Rue Dean, Sara Joe Moorman, Hallieth Seales, Dorothy Jean Eppler and Frank Capens.

Miss Lesbia Word of Fort Worth, of the faculty of Central High school was the guest of Mrs.

D. L. Childress, Saturday to Sunday evening. Mrs. Bailey Badgett of Marshall and house hostess Mrs. Art H. Johnson, spent Friday in Graham, guests of friends.

Porter McGee, former resident of Eastland, but now of Dallas, is visiting friends in Eastland.

Mrs. H. C. Davis, on receipt of news from Tahoka, of the death of a relation, left Saturday for that city.

Marian and Betty Campbell, who have of late been employed by Agricultural and Mechanical college, College Station, and the federal government in an investigating and statistical capacity of inspecting farm houses in the vicinity, left Saturday for Breckenridge.

A charming letter of thanks was received from Mrs. D. C. Hawley, for the flowers sent her when ill at the hospital.

New members were introduced in Mrs. E. L. Huddleston and Mrs. J. A. Anderson, both of Olden.

A prayer by Mrs. E. R. Stanford prefaced the lesson, based on the sixth chapter of Matthew, and having for theme, "Putting First Things First."

The session closed with the class prayer in union, by Meses. June Kimble, J. S. Little, J. Atchley, Milton Newman, A. J. Treadwell, D. J. Jobe, Jack Noel, Fred Hale, Fred Foster, Joe Adams, Howard Brock, W. A. Keit, W. B. Harris, L. A. Cook, Ora B. Jones, C. H. McBea, Mack O'Neal, Guy Quinn, O. M. White, W. C. Marlow, C. L. Fields, Frank Pierce, W. H. Mullings, J. Harkrider, F. B. Ruberson, J. W. Greathouse, M. B. Griffin, W. Van Geem, R. G. Porter, J. L. Roper, Albert Fauth, J. M. Beale, W. A. Hart, Ed T. Cox Jr., E. It has been requested that all those intending to go, will please notify Mrs. Collie to that effect.

Informal Barn Dance

A jolly crowd of 32 boys and girls of the younger set enjoyed a "barn dance" Saturday night, held in a vacant garage near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chance, and hosted by Misses Lewal Chance, Carolyn Doss and Benny Kate Wood, assisted by hosts, Alex Clark, Jr., and Ralph D. Mahon, Jr.

The building was cleverly lighted with oil lanterns, decorated with harvest foliage and dancing was to victrola music.

Chaperones were Misses Lesbia Word, Oneita Russell, Doris Powell and Mr. Chance.

Refreshments of ice fruited punch and small cakes were served during the evening.

The Booster Class

The Booster Bible class had a number of guests at their meeting Sunday morning in the Methodist church, and several new members.

The session opened with the president, Mrs. D. S. Eubanks, in charge, and Miss Jane Ferguson as pianist.

The meeting of the Booster class on Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. T. M. Collie, when husbands and wives will be guests, was announced.

Visitors introduced were Mrs. Morgan Myers, Miss Belle Booner of Hobbs, N. M., J. A. Johnson of Sherman, and Joe Blalock of Bonham.

New members presented were Mrs. Cecil Hibberd, and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Fry Jr.

Preceding the wonderful lecture by Judge W. P. Leslie, Miss Jane Ferguson gave a delightful piano solo.

Judge Leslie spoke of "Putting First Things First," the high light being unstable conditions and depression, could not be cured by purely material things, for prosperity must be based on personal integrity.

PERSONAL . . . And Otherwise

Among the visitors from Gorman, Saturday were Clara Mae Underwood, La Rue Dean, Sara Joe Moorman, Hallieth Seales, Dorothy Jean Eppler and Frank Capens.

Miss Lesbia Word of Fort Worth, of the faculty of Central High school was the guest of Mrs.

Says His Air Mail Bid Was Refused

Declaring that his airplane firm was forced out of existence by a concern in which the Mellons were interested, Theodore Toney, formerly of the Pittsburgh Aviation Company, told the Senate committee investigating air mail contracts that his low bid for a contract that would have saved the government $835,215 a year, was rejected Tuesday.

University Has Received Many Peculiar Gifts

AUSTIN—If all the gifts received by the University of Texas since 1883 were piled in one spot, there would be an odd assortment of scholarships, kettles, buildings, spearheads, bird eggs, meteorites, football sweaters and iron benches.

Those objects do not nearly exhaust the list of gifts, according to a compilation by Helen Hargrave, a graduate of the university, made after extensive research. The list required nearly 100 pages.

The list may soon include the Codex Sinaiticus from Russia if the efforts of former State Senator H. L. Darwin are successful, although a cash outlay is needed.

The Codex Sinaiticus is one of two existing fourth-century manuscripts of the Bible. It belonged to the late czar Nicholas. The Soviet government, which holds scant reverence for religious documents, sold it to England. The English have objected.

Even to the Daily Texan, university campus daily here, "to talk of paying $500,000 for any single written document, however important in the history of religion, verges on the ridiculous."

The university now has a different codex. The Codicis Justiniani, two volumes, were donated by R. L. Batts, a learned Austin attorney.

The first gift to the university was by Elizabeth Ney, noted sculptress, who lived here. Her gift was a plaster bust of Gov. O. M. Roberts, virtual founder of the university.

Since that first gift Sept. 14, 1883, thousands have followed. Pictures were given by Miss Jessie Andrews, the first woman to enter the university, to receive a degree, and to become an author, according to Miss Hargrave.

William Jennings Bryan, contributed $250, proceeds of a lecture given here in 1897, as a prize for the best annual essay on the science of government.

The royal headquarters guidon of Maximilian, Emperor of Mexico, was given by Mrs. Mary Iglehart Crosby, Austin. It was secured from an old soldier who bore it on the emperor's campaigns.

Another gift was a tiny figure commonly buried with the dead in Egypt as a substitute for slaves killed in an earlier period. Frank Hamilton, Austin, donated sweaters for the football squad in 1893. Miss Hargrave pointed out, while Lewis Maverick, San Antonio, gave one of five old Spanish guns buried outside the walls of the old Alamo enclosure.

Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the university, a mathematician, astronomer, poet and naturalist, himself contributed a collection of Texas bird eggs valued at $1,000.

Perhaps the most important recent gift was the estate of W. J. McDonald, Paris, bequeathed to the university regents to aid "in erecting and equipping an astronomical observatory." The state amounted to approximately $800,000. The observatory now is under construction.

Some of the gifts to the university cannot be located. An example is the 38,000 volumes and manuscripts of Chinese lore supposedly given by Tank Kee, a Chinese lecturer. Apparently the gift never has been received.

Decorators and painters have been busy for days getting Rainbeau Garden ready for the opening of the exposition. This is a new entertainment feature of the show. It will include a floor show and dancing immediately after each matinee and night rodeo. A nationally known dance orchestra will be engaged and professional entertainers from some of the leading night clubs of the country will be here to add to the fun in this hall of merriment.

Rev. C. Q. Smith of Cisco held services at the Methodist church last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Poole of Romney spent Sunday night and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burns.

Lynn Alford is attending Daniel Baker college, Brownwood.

Several people of the Long Branch community attended singing here Sunday afternoon.

Gene Jones of Pioneer was visiting here Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Womack Haygood and Miss Vesta Hilton of Knox City were visiting here this week.

Mrs. Edgar McCollum is ill.

Mrs. Ernest Adams has returned from East Texas, where she has been visiting her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Varner and Mrs. George Varner were business visitors in Eastland Tuesday.

Paul Winston Hill, who is ill with pneumonia is better.

Positive Relief For Smarting Itch
