Witnesses Tell of Seeing Doy Arnold Kill Wife

TESTIMONY IS DAMAGING TO THE DEFENCE

Barber Relates Conversation Between Arnold and Wife Before Slaying.

BAIRD, Mar. 14.—Testimony greatly damaging to the defendant was on the court record today at the trial of Doy Arnold, charged with murder in the brutal slaying of his wife, Zelma.

Mrs. Arnold was killed on a Breckenridge street in September, 1932. Her head was crushed with a stone and she was stabbed.

R. E. Pierce, Breckenridge barber, testified that shortly before the woman was killed he heard Arnold say, "Yonder comes that woman. I ought to cut her head off and throw it in the street." The barber said Arnold stopped his wife and asked her if she had made up her mind to do what he wanted her to do and then, Pierce testified, when Mrs. Arnold replied in the negative and declared she was through with her husband, he said:

"I have got my mind made up to do what I told you I was going to do."

Pierce said a customer entered the shop at this juncture and he was unable to listen further.

Albert Ewing, Breckenridge real estate dealer, carried the state's story from there, however, telling how he saw Arnold hit the woman with a rock.

Additional state witnesses were being heard today.

STOCK QUOTATIONS ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE SHOW HOW BUSINESS HAS IMPROVED

A comparison of the prices of stocks, as listed on the New York stock exchange, which is considered a good barometer of American business, will show the upward trend of business during the past year.

One year ago the stock market was closed on account of the banking holiday declared by President Roosevelt, who had just taken office, but, for the sake of comparison the market quotations, as listed in this paper on March 1, 1933, are used.

On March 1, 1933, American Can was selling for 52% and on March 13, 1934, it was listed at 100%. United States Steel, another leader in the market, sold for 24% on March, and for 53% on March 13 of this year.

Some of the greatest advances were made by Fox Film, which rose from 1 1/2 to 16 during the year; Chrysler, which showed a gain of 9% from 9 1/2 to 18 1/2; Underwood-Elliott, which rose from 9 1/2 to 47 1/2. Other stocks up and down the list have made similar gains, the average being between something like 500 and 600 per cent.

Only one stock on the list carried only a slight gain. It was United Corporation, which was one of the stocks that was brought up for questioning in the senate stock market investigation and in which J. P. Morgan & Co. and some of the customers of the firm were alleged to have formed pools. On March 1, 1933, it was selling for 6% and on March 13, 1934, it was selling for 7 1/2, an increase of only three-quarters of a point, or 75 cents a share.

Precautions Taken To Prevent Robbery Of Ranger Bank

A representative of the Aetna Insurance company was in conference Tuesday with officials of the Commercial State bank of Ranger, discussing plans for protection against a bank robbery. The frequency of bank robberies in Texas in the last few months has prompted insurance companies operating in the state to co-operate with banks in safeguarding funds.

The plan agreed upon, which is the same as that now in effect in many of the banks in the state, is simple and at the same time more effective than any system used by banks heretofore.

The bank will be open for business from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. each day except Saturday and from 9 a. m. to noon on that day. Anyone desiring to do any kind of business with the bank before 9 o'clock or after 2 p. m. must telephone the bank and notify one of the employes and he will be met at the door and allowed to enter the building. At all other times, except during banking hours, the doors of the building will be locked.

During banking hours only enough cash to take care of the current banking business will be kept outside the safe and all other cash will be kept under time lock. At certain hours the safe will be opened to take out or to put in cash. In that way the safe will be opened several times during the day for short periods and at all other times the major portion of the cash will be securely locked up in the safe. Anyone wishing to cash a check of $1,000 or more will, therefore, have to notify the bank beforehand and they can get the cash out of the safe at the next period for transferring funds to or from the vault.

In this way no one will have to wait more than a short time before cashing a large check and at the same time the money will be carefully guarded.

Employes of the bank are using other precautions which will make it very difficult for the bank to be robbed without the public being notified.

The insurance representative said that the same plan had been worked out in connection with a number of other Texas banks and it was thought that it would not only cut down bank robberies but would materially reduce the amount of loot in case a bank is held up.

Plans For New Bank Progress

Albert Taylor of Austin, who was in Eastland last week discussing with Eastland citizens the possibility of opening a bank in Eastland, and at which time the proposed purchase by Mr. Taylor of the assets of the defunct Texas State bank, was also discussed, returned to Eastland Monday at the request of the committee appointed by the Texas State bank depositors to go further into the matter with the committee.

Monday and Tuesday the committee, which is composed of P. L. Parker, Jess Williams and J. A. Beard, had a number of conferences with Mr. Taylor and his attorney, but definite announcement has not been made.

Mr. Taylor left Eastland Tuesday for Austin. He expects to return here early next week to take up the matter under discussion with the depositors' committee.

Measles Cause 56 Deaths at El Paso

EL PASO—Measles has claimed the lives of 56 El Paso children since Jan. 1, Dr. T. J. McCamant, city-county health officer, reported.

The current epidemic is the worst since 1928. More than 2,500 measles cases have been reported to the health department.

WALKS WITH BROKEN LEG

SPRINGDALE, Mont.—When Edward Bonebright, farmer, broke his leg he improvised a crutch from a shovel and hobbled three miles for medical aid.

Federal Grant For Irrigation of Valley Asked

HARLINGEN, Texas.—A $4,600,000 federal grant has been asked for the construction of a gigantic network of canals and ditches to drain 2,969 square miles in the "Magic Valley" of the Lower Rio Grande.

The drainage program calls for 491 miles of ditches, of which 351 miles would be in Hidalgo and Willacy counties. The complete project would affect also Starr and Cameron counties.

Counties have agreed to furnish right-of-way and maintain the drainage system, including ditches, siphons, flumes and bridges, if the federal government can be persuaded to finance construction.

Cameron county alone, through which many canals would lead surplus water to the gulf, approximately 200 acres will be needed for the 140 miles of ditches. Engineers have estimated the annual maintenance cost there at $14,000.

The project contemplates digging series of master ditches throughout the valley, into which lateral or feeder ditches would empty. Siphons or flumes would be used to conduct the waste water over or under existing irrigation canals.

The system would require the excavation of more than 19,000,000 cubic yards of earth, according to present plans.

Irrigation and drainage district directors have estimated that right-of-ways for the ditches will average $100 per mile.

The state legislature appropriated $15,000 for preliminary surveys and negotiations for federal aid. Of that sum less than $3,000 had been spent up until March.

Much of the area involved in the drainage project was wrecked by hurricane and typhoons from the gulf last fall. The drainage system will avert similar disasters in the future, it is believed.

The huge portion of Texas annually supplies thousands of carloads of citrus fruits and vegetables to the metropolitan districts of the industrial north and east. A large cattle raising industry flourishes on the uplands.

The Lions Play 'Crashing Thru,' Opening Tonight

Tonight is the first night of "Crashing Thru," the comedy drama, that will be put on by an amateur theatre under the auspices of the Lions Club, and for the benefit of their charity work.

The first act in 1898, leaps a gap of thirty years and presents action of scene 2, and then another spring for the last act in the interesting future of 1928.

Choruses include "Minuets and Shadow Waltz," "Gosh Darn," "Whistle and Blow Your Blues Away," "Singing in the Bathub," and the familiar "Petting in the Park."

A bevy of pretty girls and manly youths put on these songs and dances and you will not be disappointed in their gayety and frolicsomeness.

Miss Mable Clayton is pianist, and Miss Corinne Hyman director of the production.

MUNICIPAL RELIEF LEGISLATION SAID TO BE ON THE WAY

This is a fast moving world. There are fastmoving lawmakers under the big dome on the banks of the potomac river. The judiciary committee of the United States senate, "by a surprise vote of 8 to 5," approved the municipal bankruptcy relief bill as passed by the house of representatives last session. There are drastic provisions to be found in the bill. The measure would permit cities and other state taxing districts in default on their bonds to petition the federal courts for a scaling down or an extension of their debts, "providing creditors holding 30 per cent of the debt consented."

And now the rail brotherhoods of Oklahoma in convention assembled have asked the congress to a six-hour day without wage reduction for members of the four brotherhoods of rail employes. These rail heads of organized labor passed on to Washington a seven-point program in which they urged congressional approval. This program includes a uniform retirement or pension plan and establishment of a national adjustment board as well as rules governing hours, minimum train crews and maximum length trains. Well, the President has issued a new challenge to the industrial world. He has called upon business to increase employment and to do so without delay. He promises protection to the "little fellows, meaning small business." In other words, he insists that it is the immediate task of industry to re-employ more people at purchasing wages and to do it now. He calls for a revision of the codes. Indeed, he said "The essential provision of the codes should check or reverse competitive methods by which the small business man was or is being squeezed out." In addition to all this he made it plain that labor should be given the right to organize freely as provided for by the recovery unit in the general plan of the code. Is congress to remain in session until the fall months of the year?

TEXAS HARBORS AND CHANNELS VOTED MILLIONS

Rep. John J. Mansfield of Texas is chairman of the rivers and harbors committee of the house. An expenditure of more than $2,000,000 for maintenance of Texas gulf coast harbors and channels during the fiscal year has been recommended in the war department appropriation bill. Not a Gulf port was overlooked—not even the New Orleans-Sabine river section of the Louisiana-Texas inter-coastal waterway, the sum of $235,000 on the Sabine river to Corpus Christi section having been recommended by the congressional powers that be. This is a democratic administration and for the first time in 60 years Texas and Texans have been given "proper recognition by a national administration."

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

BEGIN HERE TODAY PABLITO a handsome 17-year-old youth, works at the principal Florida house of entertainment. ESTELLE When Estelle's daughter, ESTELLE, arrives he falls in love with her almost at sight. Pablito knows nothing of his own name or where he came from. He is a servant girl. As a child he ran away from ANTELLA, the cruel aunt who had taken care of him. Since then he has lived with ANTELLA in a small town. He has a murder charge before him. ESTELLE JEFFERSON a guest at the Florida house. Estelle recognizes him and there is a tender love scene between them. As Pablito leaves he sees a man mistaking a child and strikes him. The man falls unconscious and Pablito thinks he has killed him. A man and girl—thieves who have attended the party to take money to escape to Cuba. Pablito knows he is in a trap. He sees a man with a gun and directs Pablito to head the boat for Cuba.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII PABLITO watched the compass—clear in the strong white moonlight—and kept the boat headed for Cuba. The girl nudged low on a side seat, watching Pablito narrowly, steadily. The man called Beau slept fitfully, now and again waking to mutter but any "funny tricks" would mean one less bullet in the chamber of his repeater. "Aw, shut up, Beau!" the girl advised after he had said this four times. "The bird's come to his senses. Ain't you?" she asked softly. Pablito nodded. Again the man slept and the girl edged toward Pablito, sitting closer to him. The wind was keen and strong from the north and he saw that she was shivering. "They're givin' a storm up north, I guess," she hazarded. He could not bring himself to speak, remembering what he had done. "Feelin' sick, dearie?" the girl questioned gently. Pablito turned to her miserably and on his face he read the answer. "The first murder's always the hardest," she said. Pablito covered his eyes with his hands. "Dearie," she said warmly, "it wasn't like you did it fer yourself. Things ain't ever so bad if you do 'em fer someone else. It was just that kid beat that that got you. Poor little kid. Gawd, my mother, she used to rest me! I hope she's in hell—"

Pablito dropped his hands, staring ahead. He said nothing. "Gawd, it's cold," the girl muttered next. After a moment she crept closer and crept on the boat bottom against his knees. "Do you mind this here?" she asked scarcely above a whisper. "No," he answered. Nothing could matter ever again, he felt for now could he go back to Estelle now? He never could. That was done—over—his felt the girl pressing closer and knew, staring low at her stupidly through the haze that gripped him, that she must be suffering from the cold she was dressed lightly. He tried to slip from his velvet acket but she stopped him. "Watcha doin'?" she asked roughly. "I want you to put it on. You must be cold," he told her. SHE looked at him wonderingly for a moment. Then she smiled, not quite steadily. "Keep your shirt on, brother," she ordered, adding, "My God, that was white of you, I ain't used to it. Honest I ain't!" She patted his hand and he looked at her dully. After a time she slept, crouched against his knees. Pablito had no wish for sleep or so thought of it. He managed the boat and watched his compass half unconsciously as memories of the night, early and late, came back to him. Always in the background was a vision of a man's figure lying across the sandy road and Pablito himself looking down at it.

Once he felt for the little gold heart tied in the handkerchief he had tucked under the edge of his broad, red sash. Feeling it, he drew his hand away sharply. He was a murderer now. He saw again the man in the roadway and the child, the glitter of the camp, Estelle as she had raised her face to his. His misery was a tangled mania. He had never needed Noyes as he did then. Before his thought had been always that Noyes might need him. When he spoke the girl at his feet shifted a little, groaned and shivered. He slipped from his velvet jacket and put it around her. Beau moved, changing the tempo of his snore. To Pablito the night was a year of hell—hard hell, Puritan hell. At three o'clock the wind died to a feeble whisper and the stars began to dim. At five came a gray, late dawn and a spectacular, short rain storm. Lottie groaned in her sleep and Beau awoke to curse her. Awake, he rubbed his eyes, yawned, stretched and set to planning. They would have to land carefully. They had had other clothes packed and ready to take with them but a cluster of servants had made a barrier they could not pass. Now they'd have to make a careful landing, steal some clothes and burn their costumes. They would have to keep away from Havana, hide in the bushes until night, then rob some clothes lines and, as Beau said satirically, "start a new life." Pablito heard all this dully. He didn't care what they did nor—much—what happened. He wondered whether he would ever care again, whether he would ever know again anything but this deep, numbing pain. THE rain passed away and the day became bright and dazzling. Presently Lottie woke Pablito, who had the eyes of a seaman, made out a hair line of darkness on the water that was tinted by the glory of the sky. "Cuba," he said heavily. Beau strained his eyes but saw nothing. Loudly and with some humor he invited Pablito to "go on!" Lottie said she could see it too and Beau grinned. "Sure you do, sweetheart," he remarked genially. "I'll bet you see anything he sees and believe anything he says. Boy," he shouted with a meeting Monday afternoon, held in the Methodist church. These studies of foreign countries and children increase in interest at each meeting.

Home and school life have already been studied, and Monday's lesson brought the kinds of holidays, besides school vacation, that children hold and enjoy, and the days on which our American flag is used and why.

Flags of nine other countries were shown and explained. This educational feature included holidays in Denmark and Jugoslavia, with little stories of happenings, among children of these countries.

That "holiday" mean holy day, was brought out and the feast of Polish boys and girls, at their Christmas tide, the loveliest of all holidays.

A story of Christmas eve in Poland was related, and the carol, "Away in a Manger," was sung, reminding the children that this is a German carol.

The Bible verse, Luke 11:8-14, was read by one of the children.

The reading of a carol from Poland followed.

The primary group illustrated these stories with holy figures, and the juniors made clay figures, in illustration.

Rotary Club Hears Bank Statement

The Rotary club heard a most engrossing and informative statement by the guest speaker, E. Hinrichs, of the Eastland Daily Telegram, who explained how, and why, a bank was needed in Eastland, that co-operation only would pull this over, that the town was losing money, when people cashed checks in other towns, which meant they probably spent some money from the check in that town, and gave some pertinent suggestions, anent co-operation; the power that must blow the mine, that will dig Eastland out of the ground of slumber.

Hinrichs, ex-Rotarian of Breckenridge, was presented by the program chairman for the luncheon, Grady Pipkin and Julius Krause, the latter singing two voice numbers. "The Old Refrain," and "Have You Ever Been in Texas in the Spring," well suited to the singer's rich voice.

Frank Judkins was a guest of President F. V. Williams. Other guests were Ray Newnam, Odell Bailey, L. R. Pearson, C. E. May, of Ranger; R. L. Ponsler and E. P. Crawford, Rotarians, of Cisco.

Rotary songs led by Krause, with Miss Clara June Kimble at piano, opened the program. There was a large attendance of Eastland Rotarians.

McGlamery, Mrs. D. S. Eubanks, and Mrs. Willman, the speaking parts reviewing the work in Brazil, and the missionary's opportunity.

Gas Refrigeration Is the Newest and Most Outstanding

Gas refrigeration, newest and most outstanding recent development in gas burning appliances, has materially altered the trend in automatic refrigeration sales in the past few months, according to F. V. Williams, local gas company manager, who announced the beginning of the 1934 air-cooled Electroflux shipments to Texas in January were 3,000 per cent greater than for the same period last year, and February shipments were 30 per cent greater than January, he said.

Popularity of the gas refrigerator has spread rapidly since the new air-cooled type came on the market last spring, and Mr. Williams expects 1934 sales to out-strip 1933 because of the many desirable features found only in this new gas refrigeration. A tiny gas flame replaces and does the work of approximately 200 to 300 pounds of moving machinery necessary on other types of automatic refrigeration, eliminating wear and consequent repairs and replacements. It functions silently, and there is no vibration, no irksome oiling of parts, and no radio interference, Mr. Williams pointed out. Operating cost, he said, is less than three cents a day. New 1934 features include interior lighting, rubber cube grids, and vegetable fresher.

The simplicity of operation which produces constant, steady cold is amazing to the layman and fascinating to technicians. Vaporized by the tiny gas flame, a refrigerating fluid absorbs and removes the heat from inside the refrigerator. This leaves the interior devoid of heat and brings the temperature below fifty degrees where it remains constantly.

A committee composed of junior chamber leaders over the state was appointed to direct the educational campaign which will be conducted during the week beginning March 19. Every avenue to public contact will be employed in an attempt to sell delinquent taxpayers on the necessity of paying back taxes to forestall additional levies when the next legislature meets in Austin, Victor Bouldin of Mineral Wells, chairman of the junior chamber tax committee announced.

The governor has been asked to set aside the week of March 19 as "Delinquent Tax Week" and every mayor in the state will be requested to issue a proclamation in his city asking citizens, where possible, to meet their unpaid tax obligations. Persons financially unable to pay their taxes will not be included in the special request, Mr. Bouldin said, but those citizens who are able, and who have neglected to send in their checks, will be appealed to for assistance to the state and local treasuries.

The chairman pointed out that there are over 120 million dollars in delinquent taxes in Texas today. If this were paid, he said, the state and local governments could operate for a whole year without levying any ad valorem tax.

"Unless some are paid up it appears certain that our next session of the legislature will see greater tax burdens placed upon us in an effort to make up for the loss of the past few years," he said. "The Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce realizes that something should be done immediately to reduce the outstanding tax debt and has adopted this method of showing the public why back taxes must be paid to save Texas from a situation that will endanger the future welfare and development of the state."

He pointed out that the program would not touch on reform measures and that the junior chamber would not take part in any political movement for collection or assessment of taxes.

Members of the state committee which will direct the campaign include: Mr. Bouldin, chairman; T. S. Cyrus, Corpus Christi; Roy W. McDonald, Dallas; H. A. Metcalf, Denison; Melvin Adler, Fort Worth; Sam Cobb, Harlingen; Lewis W. Cutrer, Houston; W. R. Curtis, Longview; W. P. Abernathy, McKinney; Charlie Measels, Mexico; J. O. Gillham, Pampa; Bailey Peyton, San Antonio; Warren McDonald, Tyler; R. E. Mason, Vernon; Lud J. Lincoln, Waco; Don T. Haynes, Wichita Falls; Roland Welsh, New Braunfels, and Monte Wolford, Branger.

'Stop Tax Levies And Pay Back Taxes' New Slogan

FORT WORTH.—"Stop additional tax levies by paying back taxes now" was the slogan adopted here at the outset of a statewide program to encourage liquidation of delinquent taxes, which is to be sponsored by the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce.
