'A VERY REAL IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS

Francis M. Law is the president of the American Bankers association. He is watching "the fur fly" on the banks of the Potomac. He had an audience with the President. He told F. D. R. that "there's a very definite and very real improvement in business." He stressed that banks are returning to a more normal lending policy and he placed it in the record that the banking structure "is very strong and that it has helped to restore confidence." In conclusion he said, and said it with a smile: "Business men are attacking their problems with renewed confidence and looking forward to profits this year."

Whenever a banker discovers recovery on the way it is safe to wager a dollar of a dime that there are rainbows in the heavens. American bankers have been on the rack for four long years. They have had a heavy load to carry. Now "they are damned in they do and damned if they don't," but business is business.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT the building of a city should be handled as carefully as any big business proposition and in a commonsense way.

A city must have a healthy growth, for in this turmoil of modern business and development a city must stand up under stress and disappointment and always go forward. Cooperation on the part of all must be had.

Those who enter into the fight for a bigger, busier city will discover that never before have they had presented to them a proposition of equal magnitude and attractive

All can materially help the home city if they begin right now to make the coming months ones of production

It would be difficult to find one citizen who cannot in some manner help to increase the prosperity of all.

Everyone can, without detriment, inconvenience or expense, at least remember that the home city is their city and act accordingly to the end that harmony and prosper-

THE ROMANTIC RUNAWAY rospects Bright

FIELD.

The son of a titled Englishman and a servant girl. Pablito knows nothing of his parents. When Syears old he ran away from ANGELA, the heartless old crone in whose care he was left. Since then he ans lived with NORRIS NOYES, a mysterious individual who has seen better days.

Fleid's estranged wife and their daughter. ESTELLE, arrive at the Florida home. Pablito see Estelle and almost at once falls in love with her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV the door of his wife's rooms

Field paused and knocked A maid he remembered admitted him and, as she saw him, her face grew hard and chill. He heard her murmur something about seeing if Madame could see him and he ting room. In a few moments Norma appeared and settled her self in a low chair. Field pulled another close to hers and dropped

"I wanted to tell you. Norma that I appreciate your attitude to Estelle about me."

She answered in a level undertone, her eyes on the rug at her feet. "I want to preserve for her as long as possible," she said, "all the illusions that make life hap pler. Then, too, you were not there-and I was. I couldn't very well say anything ill of you."

He did not fully understand this. She saw it and smiled a trifle wanly.

"You don't see much logic in that, do you?" she questioned. "I see what you're getting at all right," he answered honestly, "but I think it's bunk!"

PHAT afternoon Pablito took Estelle and Jim Field for the hrst of their many rides together in the "Silver Dart." Estelle was stirred to silence by the riotous olor, the salt languor of the air he blazing yellow and the utter greenness of the shore.

"I think," she said slowly, "that I have never seen any place so beautiful!" As she spoke her eyes rested upon Pablito and, seeing him, she knew suddenly that she had never seen a young man who was so fine in form and face. She did not mention this. She could only wish, with a new hunger that they might be friends. She was sure this youth with the blue eyes and straw colored hair would be a friend worth having.

The men in the boat saw her nothing and no one else Field watched her steadily with a slight smile lifting and softening his some times cruel tips. Pablito's eyes followed her with a breathless awe. At other times with the faint showing of a soft trustfulness, she was sweetly young. Appallingly young, Pablito thought, knowing Field.

"She knows everything of good." he decided tenderly, "and nothing of evil." And for a moment his heart turned cold as he wondered what lay before her.

Estelle's soft brown hair blew and color came into her cheeks which were a little thin because could not help watching her almost steadily. And again and again he found her face turned The hum of the motor and the Asparagus is one of the very few regetables which do not need to be planted every year. When asparagus is properly planted and cared for, it will continue to bear for ten or fifteen years. I have an asparagus bed in my garden because it is one of the early producing veegtables, starts in the spring long before other crops can be planted, stated Mrs. J. R. Morrow, garden demonstrator of the North Star club, near Rising Star.

One-year-old plants are the best for starting the bed. It is advisable to buy plants, as asparagus seed are exceedingly hard to germinate. Only large vigorous roots should be used. Nothing is gained by using two-year-old roots, and they are usually more expensive than the one-year-old. The Mary Washington variety is the best for
