BULLDOGS TO PLAY TEMPLE NEXT FRIDAY

The Ranger Bulldogs will take on one of the most outstanding teams in the state next Friday afternoon when they play the Temple Wildcats at Temple in a post-season game.

Curtis took a canvass of the players to let them decide which of several offers for games should be accepted and the unanimous decision was "if we play anyone, let's play the best team we can find."

The Temple Wildcats were considered almost certain finalists in the state race before it was discovered that two players were being used unknowingly in violation of the eight-semester rule.

Temple was forced to forfeit games to Cleburne, Hillsboro and Corsicana of District 11 after winning top-heavy scores. Temple was supposed to play Waco Thanksgiving but since the other three teams had gained victories in a district committee room, Temple considered it the sporting thing to do to forfeit also to Waco in order that all the team profit equally by Temple's misfortune.

Temple had a great team this season and it did not need the two players found ineligible to win the strong District 11 race. In each game, however, the entire squad was used so nothing could be salvaged.

Temple's record for the season to date is as follows: Temple 6, Beaumont 7; Temple 51, Brackenridge (San Antonio) 0; Temple 59, Austin 0; Temple 80, Belton 0; Temple 14, Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio) 6; Temple 47, Cleburne 0; Temple 45, Hillsboro 6; Temple 26, Corsicana 0.

The Wildcats had seven exceptionally fine backfield men before Ted Lewellen was lost from ineligibility. They will have six against Ranger. They are Vernon Forrest, an all-state back if there ever was one; Johnny Riola, a brainy quarterback; Jodie Marek, brilliant blocking back; Bud (Blue Blaze) Woods, a fast stepper; Pee-Wee Montgomery, a mighty mite, and Fred Rodgers, an end runner de luxe. Five of the six can pass and kick.

A fast charging, tough line make the backs look good. Bell, husky skyscraper pass catcher and deadly tackling Jackie Driscoll are at the ends. At tackles will be Blackie Casimer and Red Birchum, 190-pound tackles. Tom Fowler, another big tackle, was the other ineligible. Captain "Honey" Wren, all-district man, is at one guard, while Joe Anthis is usually the other regular although Pope, Brindley and San Miguel all likely will see action. Ki Aldrich, a brilliant defensive player, is at center. No touchdown has been punched through the line this season. The Temple offense has appeared unstoppable in all of its games. Only once, in its first game of the season at Beaumont, did it fail to function. Fumbles on the goal line kept the Wildcats from winning. Temple features everything in the books in both running and passing attacks.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON — The public works money — $3,300,000,000 — will be doled out before Christmas, except a few millions for administrative expenses and loose ends.

The gents in charge of the world's greatest spending spree are glad it's about over. The strain was terrific. They had to be sure the money was well allocated. And they couldn't be sure about a lot of it.

All that remains is to see that the states backward in asking for money get their share. Those that got most still are yelling loudest for more, their appetites barely whetted.

Pacific Coast and northwestern states rushed in ahead, taking all the money they could get, while conservative states, such as those of New England and the south, held back.

CIVIL works, the great employment program, is the baby of Relief Director Harry Hopkins, who had millions of people to feed and nowhere near enough money. Hopkins sold it to Public Works Administrator Ickes and they both sold it to Roosevelt.

The PWA has turned over many non-federal projects to Hopkins for his consideration. But it won't tell which ones. Anything Hopkins approves represents a 50 per cent grant instead of the 30-35 loan-grant arrangement of PWA. This fact makes lobbyists for states and cities that much more eager. Hopkins asked Ickes to keep

MONTGOMERY WARD

T. M. C. WILL HAVE HEAVY TEAM TO PLAY RANGERS SATURDAY

MAY PROVE TO BE REAL TEST FOR RANGERS

Coach Ward To Start Same Lineup As In Tarleton Tilt Against Visitors.

The Ranger Junior College Texas Rangers take on one of their toughest assignments of the year Saturday afternoon at Lillard Field, Ranger, when they meet the big Texas Military College team from Terrell at 2:30.

T. M. C. leading the Central Texas conference, is bringing to this section the largest team of any junior college in the state with a starting lineup that averages around 180 pounds and a backfield that runs around 185.

Graham, who is slated to start full for T. M. C. is one of the outstanding players of the team, weighing 201 pounds. He is reported to be able to run 100 yards in 10 seconds, flat, which, with his weight, makes him one of the most dangerous opponents the Rangers have faced this year.

Other stars of the team are Lofland, 175-pound tackle and co-captain of the team, Bolton, 161-pound guard; Rogers, 182-pound half back, Bill Smith, quarterback and lightest man on the team, who weighs in at 155 and Red Smith at the other half position, who tips the scales at 195 pounds.

Several new plays were used with success throughout the game, long runs and repeated gains by Gray and Briley, aided by Anderson, who was suffering with a sore leg and was not used as often as usual keeping the Buckaroo defense crossed up throughout the game.

Cole at quarter called a good game, using the plays at the time when they were calculated to do the most good and showing good field generalship.

The line showed up well and the backfield clicked as a smoothly running machine, checking up 20 first downs to nine for the Buckaroos.

Only two Bulldog passes were attempted in the game, one being completed for a gain of 25 yards, while the Buckaroos attempted 14, completing three for 45 yards and having two intercepted.

The game marked the return to the lineup of Exell Bryan at tackle, who has been out with a broken leg since the Central game early in October and he showed up better than he did earlier in the season. He was one of the mainstays on the defense.

Rankin Britt, as usual, showed up as a star, though he received a head injury and was forced to retire from the game for a rest, but came back strong as soon as he had a short rest. Payton proved to be developing material for a first string berth next year, though he was a little over-anxious when sent into the lineup. Westbrook, despite his size, proved to have the kind of fighting spirit that enables a little man to hold his own against superior weight.

While winning from the Buckaroos the Bulldogs proved to the many fans who attended the game to have more power and versatility on the offense and a stubborn defense that clicked well when needed.

At the time Ranger was downing Breckenridge Abilene was winning from Cisco by a score of 20 to 0 to gain the district title, aided by a forfeiture; Brownwood was losing an inter-sectional clash with Temple by a score of 58 to 0, and Vernon was winning from Eastland in another inter-district game by a score of 26 to 13.

Next week the Bulldogs go to Temple to take on the Temple Wildcats, who were rated as contenders for the state title until ruled out because of ineligibility.

Al Smith calls it the "baloney dollar," and he's opposed to slicing it any further.

Frank Cogdell, captain of the team, snatched two passes tossed by Johnny Brookshire and raced across the enemy goal to score two touchdowns. Fumbles deep in their own territory by Cisco gave the Eagles another opportunity to score within two minutes with Brookshire carrying the last yard for the score.

The largest crowd of the year witnessed the game. By virtue of their win over Cisco the Eagles will play Pampa at Pampa Saturday, December 9, in the bi-district game. Site of the game was decided upon at Abilene last night by toss of a coin.

VERNON, Texas, Dec. 1.—Unleashing a savage last half attack that netted three touchdowns, Vernon's High School Lions closed their 1933 gridiron campaign with a smashing 26-13 triumph over Eastland's Mavericks of the Oil Belt district here Thursday afternoon.

Eastland scored in the opening quarter when Kelly blocked Rogers' punt on the Vernon 14 and Chick recovered over the goal line.

BULLDOGS WIN FROM BUCKIES BY 7-0 SCORE

The Ranger Bulldogs became the uncrowned champions of the Oil Belt district at Breckenridge Thanksgiving Day when they defeated the Buckaroos by a score of 7 to 0. It was the first win for the Bulldogs at Breckenridge since 1927 and it was the second consecutive defeat the Buckaroos have suffered at the hands of the Bulldogs.

By winning from the Buckaroos the Bulldogs ran their string of conference games played without a defeat to nine, the last conference game lost being the Thanksgiving game of 1931, although the Brownwood Lions tied the champions of the Oil Belt in 1932.

Brilliant playing by the entire Ranger team showed them to be superior to the Buckaroos and should have had a larger score except for the ending of the half when the Bulldogs were within the shadow of the goal. On another occasion a stubborn defense by the Buckaroos stopped the Bulldogs barely short of another touchdown.

The Buckaroos threatened once when a pass to the goal line was knocked down and the ball went over.

The Bulldog score came in the first quarter after a few minutes of play when the Bulldogs marched down the field to push over their one touchdown with Anderson plunging for the marker. Anderson also booted the ball over the goal posts to convert for the extra point.

Several new plays were used with success throughout the game, long runs and repeated gains by Gray and Briley, aided by Anderson, who was suffering with a sore leg and was not used as often as usual keeping the Buckaroo defense crossed up throughout the game.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

THE UNKNOWN BLOND By Laura Loo Brookman

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his apartment? DAVID BANISTER, a former newspaper reporter, undertakes to find out.

Police are searching for an "unknown blond" who visited King shortly before his death. Banister has seen the girl, but she has since disappeared.

HERMAN SCHEACH, who wrote King a threatening letter, is in jail. He declares his innocence. AL DRUGAN, friend of King's, says the orchestra leader has been having trouble with JOE PARROTT, his former vaudeville partner, and accuses Parrott of the murder. Police learn that MELVINA HOLMES, middle-aged spinster, had a "flirtation" with King and his cat killed her cat.

APTAINE McNEAL, of the detective bureau goes to see Miss Hallister and her brother, MATTHEW. When he leaves, he declares, "Those two will hear watching. Next morning Banister learns that the blond suspect has been arrested. He goes to see her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

THE girl who had called herself Juliet France arose from the cot on which she had been sitting and came forward. If Banister had expected to find her weeping he was mistaken. The gray eyes he had seen filled with tears met his own steadily, disdaintfully. There were no tear marks on her cheeks. The girl's whole attitude was defiant.

"So it's you," she said. "What a surprise!"

"I just heard you were here," he told her. "Yesterday when I went back to the hotel I couldn't find you."

"No, I suppose you couldn't. I wasn't there. She laughed then and Banister was sure the defiance, the cool aloofness was a pose. The laugh wasn't convincing. This girl was not hardened; she was frightened. Once more Banister felt his better judgment leaving him.

"I came," he said, "to see if there was anything I could do."

"But there isn't! Nothing at all. And why should you do anything? This is such a pleasant place. The girl laughed again and this time her lips trembled. "Perhaps I should apologize for my appearance," she went on. "The accommodations and the service here—"

"Don't!" Banister said shortly. He didn't want her to go on like that. She was still wearing the green suit. She had taken off the jacket and he saw that her blouse was of the same shade. It was a silk blouse, made with a bow beneath the chin that gave her a childlike look. Her lovely, honey-colored hair was not as smooth as it had been yesterday but it gleamed and glistened. Banister thought of Denise Lang's crisp, metallic ringlets. The way this girl wore her hair, he thought, was much more attractive.

"What happened?" he asked. "How long have you been here?"

"Since last night."

"Last night?" You mean you were here in the cell—"

The girl nodded. "Oh, yes," she said. "The lady on your left there snores. There was one here last night who was worse. She kept shrieking the most terrible things. They took her away awhile ago. Oh, there's been plenty of excitement. The detectives keep asking me questions and they've taken my finger prints—"

Her fingers, where they rested against the cell bars were white and gracefully formed.

"See here!" Banister interrupted. "There must be something I can do. Someone to get in touch with!"

Chicago university is going to conduct a research on sex. But, whatever the profs discover, the girls will continue fooling the boys just the same.

The white ant produces 84,000 eggs a day, says science. Still it doesn't worry about an NRA code, at all.

STATE TROOPER ROBBED
By United Press
MERCED, Calif.—State Highway Patrolman Don Halterman went out today with a borrowed revolver, badge and belt, and with blood in his eye. He sought a burglar who robbed him of the insignia of his office by "prowling" his bedroom.

AT THAT she whirled. "Oh," she exclaimed. "I'd forgotten! Please don't tell them my name. I'd forgotten that I told anyone. You're the only one who knows it. Please don't tell them!"

"But they must have asked you?"

"I wouldn't tell them," the girl said stiffly. "I wouldn't tell them anything at all. They'll never be able to make me!"

He tried to reason with her, to persuade her that it would be much better for her if she would talk to the detectives freely.

"I can't!" the girl insisted stubbornly. "I can't do it."

"But don't you see that so long as you don't they'll keep you here?"

"Then I'll stay."

The woman in the blue uniform was making her way toward them. "Visiting time's up," she announced. "You'll have to go, Mister."

The woman waited beside him and there was nothing for Banister to do but to leave.

"I'll come back," he promised over his shoulder. "And I want you to think about what I've said."

Then he was outside and the heavy door bolted behind him. Slowly Banister made his way back to Captain McNeal's office. What a mess this whole thing was! Tracy King's murder was as far from solution as it had been when his body was found. The police were going around in circles—getting nowhere. That girl back there—Banister swore softly. He couldn't believe she was a murderer. And yet there was so much to prove it. She had been in King's apartment, had admitted it. If McNeal knew about the revolver—!

Banister swore again. By this time it was altogether possible that McNeal did know. He might even have the gun. If he did, and the ballistics expert could prove that the bullet that killed the orchestra leader came from that revolver! It would be over. The girl he had just left wouldn't have a chance. She'd get life at least. Refusing to talk, to say anything about her self, made the situation worse. She was a pretty girl but in spite of that no jury could overlook such overwhelming evidence.

OVERWHELMING was what it was. Then it occurred to Banister, piecing out the damaging facts and marshaling them before him, that his testimony and his alone could convict Juliet France. He had seen her come from the hotel, had seen the revolver in her handbag. It was to him that the girl had confessed going to King's apartment. Yes, those facts—everything that was circumstantial—were enough for a conviction. McNeal had been hanged for less.

Suddenly Banister stepped forward more briskly. Maybe they would succeed in making a case against the girl but he was certain of one thing. What he knew about Juliet France he would keep to himself. If she was a murderer, time would prove it. He didn't want to believe it and he wasn't going to yet.

He thought of Jim Paxton then and his promise. Banister had agreed to turn over to Gaine everything he learned about the murder so that Gaine could write it for the Post. Well, he would keep that promise but he would keep it later.

In the wing of the headquarters building reserved for the detectives' offices Banister encountered the young man who had given him the information about Juliet France, the young man who had been whittling his pencil.

"My name's Fleming," a stranger volunteered. "Understand you're with the Post?"

"Yes," Banister told him. They talked for a few minutes and Banister learned that his new acquaintance was a reporter on the opposition evening paper, that this was Fleming's day-off duty but he was "hanging around," spending a bus man's holiday.

He learned further that McNeal had intended keeping secret the apprehension of his blond prisoner but that someone had "spilled" it. That was why there had been no mention in the morning newspaper of the girl's imprisonment.

Gaine appeared a few minutes later, eager to talk about the case. He and Banister spent the rest of the morning at headquarters but the time proved fruitless. At 11 o'clock Gaine left for the office. Banister drifted out for lunch and presently was back.

Thus it happened that at 1 o'clock he was present when a surprising thing took place.

point. Place a pan of cold water close to the pan, cooking syrup and wipe off crystals as they form.
Cover pan and let boil two minutes. Remove cover and swab off crystals. Boil uncovered until a soft ball is formed when a few drops are tested in a saucer of cold water. The candy thermometer should register 238 degrees F.
When syrup is cooked enough, immediately put the pan into a large pan of cold water and let stand undisturbed until cool. Beat with a wooden spoon until creamy.
When too stiff to stir turn onto a large platter or marble slab and knead until soft. Put into a bowl brushed with olive oil, cover with a dampened cloth and then cover the bowl tightly and let stand several days before using. Flavor when ready to form into shapes.

Butter Creams
One cup fondant, 4 tablespoons butter, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.
Work butter into fondant. Add vanilla and beat until thoroughly mixed. Put into a bowl, cover closely and let stand in a cold place until chilled and firm. Form into marbles and dip in chocolate.

Peppermint Wafers
One cup fondant, 2 or 3 drops oil of peppermint.
Make fondant into a flat cake and drop peppermint into the center. Work with a wooden spatula or the fingers until smooth and thoroughly mixed. Make into flat shapes about the size of a half-dollar and coat with bitter chocolate.

Wiping Down Crystals
Be sure to wipe down crystals from the sides of the pan when making fondant. A pastry brush dipped in water or a bit of clean cheese cloth wrapped around the tines of a fork, dipped into water and the excess pressed out, either can be used. If the sauce pan is covered for a few minutes of the time, the crystals should be wiped down as soon as the cover is removed. The wiping down should be done before the candy starts to boil and frequently during the cooking period.
Another precaution is to be sure to let the candy cool before beating it. This applies to all fine grained candies such as fudge, fondant and peppermint.
A round-bottomed, aluminum pan is best for cooking candies.

Fondant
Two cups granulated sugar, 1-8 teaspoon cream of tartar, few grains salt, 2-3 cup boiling water.
Mix and sift sugar, cream of tartar and salt into a smooth sauce pan. Add water and stir until mixture is melted. Put over a low fire and bring slowly to the boiling

Welcoming a Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Cox are welcoming a fine daughter, Sylvian Ann, who weighs eight pounds, and was born Monday afternoon. The young parents are being heartily congratulated by their friends.

Tuesday Afternoon Bridge Club

Mrs. Francis M. Jones entertained the recently organized bridge club, at her pleasant home this week.

Two tables were charmingly appointed in tallies and score books, of Thanksgiving turkey designs, also noted in the snappy, decorated paper service of tea cloths and napkins, at the tea hour.

High score favor in auction, a miniature cedar chest filled with imported bath salts in pastel colors, was awarded Mrs. James Harkrider.

Second high score, playing cards in modernistic design, went to Mrs. Carl Garner.

The favor for 80 honors or a grand slam, a miniature cedar humidor, was awarded Mrs. Gerald Wingate, and Mrs. Joe C. Stephen received the high guest favor in game, a chinele floor rug.

A dainty tea plate was served of cream cheese sandwiches, potato flakes, olives, marguerites, caramel parfait and coffee to club members. Mmes. James Harkrider, L. V. Simmonds, Veon Howard, Homer Norton, Gerald Wingate, and hostess; and guests not members, Mmes. Joe C. Stephen, Carl Garner, and Dec W. High.

The club was formally named at this time and christened the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge club.

Pretty Party Honors Birthday

Mrs. Mack Hennessie entertained at the family home with a lovely afternoon birthday party the last of the week, that was given in honor of her daughter Lillian's ninth birthday.

The registration table was presided over by little Doris Hennessie, and interesting games were led by Mrs. Artie Liles.

An informal program in reading, music and dancing was given by the various little guests, each vying in having the prettiest number.

The birthday cake, iced in white and topped with nine pink tapers in school holders, centered the dining table, laid in lace over pink silk.

Fall pink candles in crystal holders, twinkled at the four corners.

Plate favors were pretty pink nut cups filled with candies, and a fruited jello with whipped cream topping was enjoyed with the cake, by Frances Beskow, Merlene Ross, Julia Lawson, Marjorie Harper, Freddie Michael, Ardery Lee Mead, Juanita White, Jamesetta Little, Loris Hennessie, Billy Ruth and Marilyn Harris, Florence Ann and Mary Virginia Harris, Johnnie Lou and Emmalee Hart, Betty Sue and Margaret Ann Bourland of Ranger; Caesar Hennessie, Cooper Kilbourn, and mother guests, Mrs. Loen Bourland of Ranger, and Mmes. Richard Jones, and Johnny Hart.

The little honoree received many lovely gifts from her small friends.

Home Makers Class Party

Mrs. Morgan Myers was at home to the Home Makers class of the Baptist church Sunday school, entertained by Group 3, under chairmanship of Mrs. Artie Liles, captain, in a pleasing social affair, the monthly party.

The attractive home was decorated in pink and yellow rosbuds, these colors being carried out in all appointments.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. L. G. Rogers, with prayer offered by Mrs. L. J. Lambert.

An interesting reading was given by Mrs. Barrett. Several new games were led by the hostess group, who served refreshments of devil's food and angel food cake, and hot chocolate with whipped cream topped at close of an interesting contest to Mmes. L. G. Rogers, Ben E. Hamner, Bert Peyton, W. P. Morgan, L. J. Lambert, Claud Maynard, P. O. Adair, W. E. Weatherford, T. L. Amis, William Shirriffs, B. E. Carter, Wortham Seale, L. R. Heath, Barrett, V. W. Cornelius, C. T. Lucas, B. D. Chetham, R. L. Slaughter, Artie Liles, H. R. Breazeale, and Mrs. Morgan Myers, house hostess.

Beautiful Service Of Thankfulness

The Union meeting of all churches for the Thanksgiving service held in Baptist church, Wednesday night, was attended by two hundred or more people.

The choir was composed of eighteen singers drawn from various churches and directed by the choirster, Mrs. O. B. Darby.

Choir numbers brought the Doxology, the invocation, and the hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers," by the choir.

Scripture reading by Rev. Rosmond Stanford followed. A closing number of the choir was "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." The balance of program was given as published in the Eastland Telegram.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with potted plants and handsome vases, contributed by the Parker Floral Co.

Mrs. D. J. Jobe Hostess to Club

The "32" club spent a delightful day this week with Mrs. D. J. Jobe, and at noon, enjoyed a genuine Thanksgiving turkey dinner, a covered dish affair, that included vegetables, salads, and a rich dessert.

Members were busily engaged with their hand sewing, and the hours passed swiftly for Mmes. Fred Michael, P. R. Cook, Don Parker, W. C. Marlow, George E. Cross, and Mrs. Jobe.

The club will meet again Dec. 8.

Readers Luncheon Club Entertained

The Readers Luncheon club was charmingly entertained this week at the home of Mrs. J. M. Perkins on South Seaman street, a veritable garden of roses, in the beautiful bouquets that filled the room with their fragrance.

Luncheon was served about one long table seating eight and a smaller one for four, rose centered and with place cards found as the copy paper in toy miniature typewriters, plate favors, the guest identifying herself by the aptitude of a fictitious title.

The luncheon of grape fruit cocktail, and second course of individual T-bone steak, stuffed-baked potatoes, cheese, hot rolls and third course of Asheville salad, and last course of ice cream with small cakes and coffee.

A current literature discussion was led by Mrs. J. E. Hickman, president of the club, following the luncheon, attended by members Mmes. T. J. Haley, Horace Conley, Carl Springer, M. L. Keasler, W. B. Collic, James Horton, Leslie Gray, B. M. Collic, W. H. McDonald, Grady Pipkin, J. E. Hickman, and hostess.

Intermediate R. A. and G. A.

Miss Della Webb, president of the above group of young people of Baptist Young People's Union, presided over the Wednesday afternoon session which opened with songs, ensemble, "He Keeps Me Singing," and "I Choose Jesus." Prayer by their director, Mrs. J. L. G. Rogers, and minutes by secretary, Miss Geraldine Terrell, prefaced the business session, when plans for the Christmas tree were made for Wednesday, Dec. 20 at 4:15 p. m., with L. J. Lambert Jr., social chairman, in charge.

The program along the line of ball games, "Playing the Game in Japan," brought, "Batter Up," Curtis Terrell; "Neesima Wins," Dora B. Williams; "The Handicap Victor," Miss Geraldine Terrell; "Boys of Seinan Gakuin," (a village in Japan) Mrs. L. G. Rogers; Song, "The Old Rugged Cross."

Those present: Misses Alice Mae Sue, Faye Taylor, Wanda Latsater, Jane Ray, Fern Lee Frost, Dora B. Williams, Della Webb, Geraldine Terrell, Frances Norton, Marzelle Wright, Beulah Drake, Curtis Terrell, Chester Alfred, Earnest Webb, Frank Shepherd, and a new member presented the group, Miss Angeline Meredith.

Ward School Assembly Programs

The South Ward school assembly program this week, was given to a Thanksgiving theme, observed in every classroom, in individual programs, each with the mother guests attending, and an assembly of the 4th and 5th grades in a formal program, opening with a Thanksgiving reading by Rosalie Jobe.

Nancy Seabury told an interesting Thanksgiving story, and Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, a recital of the history of New England Thanksgivings in the past, the story of Plymouth Rock, and real stories of those pioneers that intensely interested the children.

Julia Brown was pleasing in a reading, "The Thanksgiving Quarrel." There was a number of mothers in attendance.

The West Ward school assembly, in the afternoon, had a large attendance of guests present for the Thanksgiving program presented under direction of Miss Hendricks, and given as published with an added number, a beautiful "Thanksgiving Song," by Mrs. Hunter's Glee Club.

Mrs. Eubanks Entertains Kill Kare Kard Klub

The Kill Kare Kard Klub enjoyed a delightful afternoon at this week's meeting with Mrs. D. S. Eubanks. All appointments were in the Thanksgiving design, in the furnishings of the two tables for bridge, surfaced with hand-painted covers for the game, and re-laid in madeira linens for the tea hour.

High score favor, a velvet table scarf with fringed ends was awarded Mrs. Valson Jones, and second high in game, a pair of dainty vases, went to Mrs. O. A. Rhoads of Ranger.

The tea plate of cranberry salad, cheese wafers, olives, pickles, potato flakes, had second course of fruit cake with whipped cream topping, and cherry garnishment, and coffee.

Plate favors were individual nut cups, filled with pecans. The home was beautifully decorated in artistic arrangements of autumn leaves and rustic baskets of glowing fruits and foliage centering the table and buffet.

Those present: Mmes. Morgan Myers Valson Jones, R. A. P'Pool, J. D. Blankenship, John Burke, Jimmy King, E. D. Freeman, O. A. Rhoads of Ranger and Mrs. D. S. Eubanks.

Christian Church Pageant Sunday Night

A pageant, preceded by a program, will be presented at the Christian church at 7:30 o'clock this Sunday evening under auspices of the Women's Missionary society, and as their offering for the "Woman's Day" annual program. The pageant is in the interest of foreign and home missions and presents some unusual and attractive features.

The characters will be in costume and incidental music throughout the presentation will be given.

Mrs. D. J. Fiensy is chairman for the program, and Mrs. James A. Beard for the music. Several prominent men and women of the church will take part.

A full program will be given in Sunday's issue. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Church of God Auxiliary Meets

The Church of God met with Mrs. E. F. Ganow on 210 East Hill street Monday afternoon at 2:30. Scripture reading by Mrs. J. S. Burkhead, prayer offered by Mrs. E. A. Parson. Business session conducted by the president, Mrs. D. K. Williamson. A menu was planned for lunches to be served cafeteria style this coming Saturday and Sunday to those attending the young people's convention on the south side of square in the Stubbfield building. The public is also invited to eat with us. Lunches will be served in the noon hour and evening.

The afternoon was spent making a rug and finishing a quilt. Those present were S. A. Harrell, William Jessop, H. A. Perry, J. S. Burkhead, High, D. K. Williamson, E. A. Parson, A. W. Williamson and hostess.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. S. Burkhead on 413 South Daugherty street.

Don't dream about warmth... have it with HANES!

HERE'S as comfortable underwear as you ever buttoned over your chest! Take hold of HANES and crush it in your hand—feel the heft of the heavy ribs—smooth your palm across the downy fabric. Then try it on and get out in the wind and snow. You'll think the thermometer's lying!

You won't need to hold your breath and squeeze into HANES. It's always the size the label says. It goes on like a second skin—but there's enough "give" in the springy knit to let you bend and twist any way you want, without rubbing or snubbing! Buttonholes, cuffs, and seams are sewed to last the life of the fabric. Stock-up now for a warm Winter with HANES Wonderwear.

P. H. Hanes Knitting Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

There are all sorts and sizes of HANES—shirts and drawers as well as various suits. The Heavy-weight Champion is illustrated.

HERE ARE THE PLAIN, UNVARNISHED FACTS

STEP RIGHT INTO BARGAINS!
There is always one store in each town that undersells all others. Why? He is not bossed by owners and told what to sell his goods at, he only asks a legitimate profit and it is very low. That store in Eastland is widely known around this vicinity... IT IS NO OTHER THAN...

J. H. COLE STORE

ON EAST SIDE OF THE SQUARE THE STORE THAT SELLS FOR LESS ALWAYS!
