COMMR. WALKER SOUNDS A WARNING

Land Commr. J. H. Walker knows his Texas. He is a veteran of the land department of the commonwealth. He has reminded Texas senators and representatives, speaking of the oil control bill, that Texas as a state owns 2,000,000 acres of mineral lands and approximately 10,000 leases, on which are 700 producing oil wells, many of which are on small areas.

He has reminded the national solons and their constituents these wells were all drilled under existing state laws and regulations as to acreage, spacing and production. He has reminded the national representatives or lawmakers that Texas became one of the United States by treaties under which it retained the ownership and control of its lands.

He has reminded all concerned that when Texas entered the oil business it subjected itself to its own rules and regulations prescribed for that business and to such interstate regulations as might apply to movement of its product. Now what is the attitude of this very able and bright public servant of the people as to the Thomas bill? Read it: "I fear the Thomas bill as written would impair the rights of many lessees under their contract with the state and seriously affect its royalty receipts for its public school and university fund."

All of which is a reminder that the powers given the administrator under the bill would permit unitization of areas heretofore drilled under the regulations of the railroad commission and Texas law as interpreted by the supreme court and would authorize the administrator, or his representative, not only to fix for each area and each well, which quotas need not be uniform but would be subject to the will of the federal official in charge. Well, this was the conclusion: "There is no way to estimate the possible loss to the school fund by unitization but I am sure it will run into millions. The property rights acquired by drillers and operators in many instances might be destroyed." Of course, he referred to the bill as introduced which "for a time seemed to be riding through without any amendments."

This is the hour for the people of Texas to be government minded. This is the time for all the people who believe in the rights of the state and a fair deal for all its people to realize that the voice of Texas should ring out against features of the Thomas-Disney bills which have aroused the opposition of thinking men and women everywhere in the Lone Star state. Washington advices are said to be very encouraging. Representatives of Texas in and out of the halls of legislation are very hopeful that justice will be done to all the interests involved and that the property rights of the commonwealth (including its immense natural resource wealth) shall not be taken from the hands of the duly elected servant of the commonwealth by the enactment of oil legislation which would inflict incalculable injury to the empire state founded by Stephen F. Austin and won by the sword of Sam Houston, the conqueror of Santa Anna on the historic field of San Jacinto.

RAIL BUSINESS SAID TO BE PICKING UP

According to Washington advices, the loading of revenue freight for the week ended June 9 totaled 615,565 carloads. This was an increase of 37,024 cars above the preceding week. It was likewise an increase of 46,403 above the corresponding week in 1933. Really, the people of the ancient republic are showing remarkable signs of coming out of their trance since the son of the Iowa blacksmith went out of the White House and the son of the Knickerbocker Dutch pioneers caught the reins of government.

DONNA of the BIG TOP by BEULAH POYNTER

CHAPTER XLVIII DONNA had waited so long for Bill's telegram, asking over and over again if a message had come for her, that when at last it was put in her hand she was afraid the printed words were a delusion. There were only five words. "Come home first train. BILL." She had unpacked only a few things from her traveling bag. In less than 15 minutes she had them all back, had snapped the lock, paid her bill and checked out of the hotel. It made little difference to Donna whether she had an hour or five minutes to wait at the station for a train. Once her ticket was in her purse, she would feel that she was on her way back to Bill. Fortunately she did not have long to wait. There was just time to buy the ticket, telegraph Bill when the train would arrive, and then scurry through the gates. On the long trip she rehearsed over and over in her mind how she would tell him her story—how she had deceived him about the real Madeline's death and the purpose of Con David's visit to Lebanon. Of one thing only was she positive. Bill had not believed that she had eloped with Con. He might have thought she had been married to Con, but never that she had run away with him. Why had he waited so long to send for her? It must have been on account of the will! Bill had read the will and knew that the property was hers now. The train wheels spun around and around, carrying her nearer to the climax of the drama. Bill met her at the depot. He had become an austere, grim-faced stranger who took her luggage without a word of greeting and then walked briskly to the little car, permitting her to get in with out assistance. His rigid lips and uncompromising attitude gave Donna no help in starting her confession. Twice during the ride over the snow-caked road she tried to tell him how grateful she was because he had sent for her, but the words stuck in her throat. She managed at last to say, "Of course Grandfather is buried." "Yes." MISS PERKINS had gone and the door that led into the room where Grandfather had lain for so many weeks was closed. Everything else seemed the same. Minnie rushed to meet Donna with open arms and burst into tears as she kissed her again and again. "You shouldn't have went, Miss Suddal! You shouldn't have went! My lands, but I'm glad you're back!" Bill's grin. "That will do, Minnie!" sent the girl back to the kitchen. When the husband and wife were alone in the little sitting room Bill said "Sit down. There's an explanation I want from you." "You know," Donna choked, "that I wasn't married to Con David—ever!" "Yes, I know that. I also know that, in spite of the fact that every- thing points to it, you didn't run

St. Petersburg is Having Land Boom

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—St. Petersburg is suffering from the growing pains of another mounting real estate boom, as realtors enjoy their best business in more than four years. From Jan. 1 to May 31, property valued at $2,575,800 has been sold here. Few business buildings and hotels are listed in this turnover, the great majority of sales being confined to winter homes and apartment houses. Every 10 years for four decades, St. Petersburg has launched into a heavy real estate boom, the first getting under power in 1894 when the first railroad was built through the heart of the then fishing village. Another got under way in 1904. The World War breaking in August of 1914, nipped a roaring land boom and the third coming in 1924 and lasting into 1926 made and broke millionaires. The present furor started in the gulf island village of Pass-a-Grille, 14 miles southwest of St. Petersburg, spreading northwards to Treasure Island and Madeira Beach, then leaping across Boca Ceiga bay to the mainland. Prices on down town properties within three months have risen 25 per cent over distress values as every available skilled workman has been absorbed in making repairs and improvements in remodeling the older structures and in building new homes and apartments.

L. A. Woods without an opponent. A. M. Blackmon of McCamey, who contemplated the race, had previously withdrawn.

Apathy of the governor's campaign promises to be broken soon. Taking a cue from Tom Hunter, who has forged to the front by sharp attacks on Attorney General James V. Allred, other candidates may be expected to get less polite and more antagonistic.

A. W. Von Struve, managing the Hunter campaign, admits that Hunter's hammer and tongs discussion has been a factor in his success.

Whatever the reason, Hunter has the campaign record for "unmade" crowds. Exclusive of "open-ended" as well as Allred are to be "attended to" as the election nears.

Polis are being taken weekly to guide Hunter's campaign. These, Von Struve said, back up Hunter's claim that he now is out in front.

Sharp contrast is seen in the only two statewide judgeship races. W. C. Morrow, presiding judge of the court of criminal appeals, at no time had announced opponent.

The place on the state supreme court, vacated by Judge T. B. Greenwood, developed one of the hottest races. It is a three-cornered one. Judge Hal S. Lattimore of the Fort Worth court of civil appeals is on the ballot for the place as "H. S." Lattimore.

The effect of Jefferson T. Baker's changing his name to George B. Terrell before running for state treasurer is dubious. Congressman George B. Terrell has denounced it and his many friends may agree that such "legal legerdemain" ought to be stopped.

Use of nicknames on the ballot is prohibited. J. J. Jack Patterson, Dallas, is listed as a candidate for comptroller.

OUT OUR WAY

date for comptroller. It was ruled two years ago when he ran for railroad commissioner that he could not run as J. J. (Jack) Patterson but could use the full name without a parenthesis on showing that it was his true name.

Dennis B. Waller, taking the place of his brother, Rex Waller, who was killed while he was a candidate for state treasurer, announces his campaign to vindicate the name.

Decision of the state democratic executive committee to take no action on negro participation in the primary probably means a large negro vote. Much of it is in counties friendly to C. C. McDonald's candidacy.

Troop 8 on Hike. Scouts of Troop 8, Brownwood, with Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Lewis Winebrenner, hiked to Boyesen's Cut Tuesday afternoon for an all-night camp.

Eagle Badges Received. Eagle badges for Scouts Rex Lanford, Troop 35, Blanket; J. Herbert Ragsdale, Troop 1, Brownwood, and Howard Adams, Troop 32, Olden, are now in the scout office and will be presented at next court of honor held at these places.

Safety First. This is the swimming season. Last week a scout received a severe head injury from diving into water that he had been misinformed about.

Ice Cold Lake Holds Fortune in Gold

TONOPAH, Nev.—Unusual recovery of gold ore from mine tailings at the bottom of May Lundy lake in Mono county, California, is contemplated by local men.

C. L. Cooper and O. H. Kirkwood reported that to get to the tailings—from which they expected to extract $5 a ton in gold—they will have to dredge the ore from the ice cold waters from a depth of 20 feet.

The May Lundy mine, from which the tailings were extracted, has not been worked since 1912. The mine buildings cling precariously to the face of a precipitous mountain.

W. C. T. U. Snipe War Called a Failure

HAMILTON, Ont. — A unique campaign of the Women's Christian Temperance union chapter here to curtail smoking has failed, for the time being at least.

A few days ago chapter officials announced they were training their junior members to go about the city streets searching for discarded cigar and cigarette butts. In this way, they said, the habit of smoking would be curtailed, as persons depending on the gutters for their smokes would be foiled.

The campaign was progressing nicely, the officials, said, when Alderman Dr. Thomas White stepped into the picture. He claimed was defeating its own from the sight of all who might be tempted to smoke them was highly unsanitary.

The W. C. T. U. Dr. White claimed, was defeating its own ends, making children tobacco-conscious, while endangering their health, as the butts may have been discarded by diseased persons. He ordered the practice stopped and officials of the W. C. T. U. chapter received a second order from the board of health and the board of aldermen, also ordering the practice discontinued.

Officials of the chapter expressed amazement at the order. They pointed out that the children had destroyed more than 3,065 butts when the order to discontinue the campaign was received.
