7,500,000 Rats Killed as Result Of CWA Projects

WASHINGTON.—More than 7,500,000 rats were destroyed as a result of Civil Works Administration projects carried on from Dec. 15 to March 29 in Georgia, Alabama, and Texas, reports the Bureau of Biological Survey, U. S. Department of Agriculture. The rats were killed through poisoning and trapping operations supervised by the biological survey in a cooperative campaign for control of typhus fever conducted with the Bureau of the Public Health service of the Department of the Treasury, and the state health departments.

The effect of the campaign in controlling typhus fever will not become apparent until late in the year, but biological survey officials estimate that the rat riddance alone represents an economic saving of more than 12 times its cost. "Rat damage to produce and property," says James Silver, regional supervisor of rodent control, "is conceded to average $2 a year per rat in many cases where complete results were obtained during the CWA campaign, a number of years may elapse before reinfestation occurs, but on the average seven months of rat riddance may be relied upon. The destruction of 7,500,000 of these rodents, resulting in freedom from rats for an average of seven months, thus represents an economic saving of approximately $8,750,000.

The prime object of the anti-rat campaign, officials point out, was to control typhus fever. To this end it was necessary to eliminate rats, which serve as hosts for fleas that carry the disease organism. These rodents become infected from fleas and develop symptoms of typhus fever, but they rarely, if ever, die of the disease. Rats in turn infect other rats, which remain capable of transmitting typhus fever to other rats and to man.

Rod Squill Used for Poison

The CWA workers, explains the biological survey, first treated all premises in the typhus-fever areas with baits containing red squill—an effective rat poison that does not seriously menace the lives of other animals. This raticide, perfected by the Department of Agriculture, is objectionable to most animals and in addition acts as an emetic, but rats eat it readily when it is mixed with a suitable food and, as they are unable to vomit, it causes their death.

Using red-quill baits, the work-

It's Safe to Let This Man Ride

A new era of more rides for hitch hikers and more safety for motorists is heralded by the sign which Wilson Jennings, Paris, Tenn., advertiser, bears here. When he left Memphis for San Diego, Calif., he soon learned that motorists mistrust hitch hikers. So when he catches a ride, he enters the car handcuffed and tenders the key to the driver, to allay any fear that he's a robber.

ers treated 355,133 premises in 70 counties of Georgia, 279,801 premises in 21 counties of Alabama, and 112,674 in 45 Texas counties. They distributed more than three and a half million rats in Georgia, more than two million in Alabama, and nearly one and a quarter million in Texas—a total of approximately 6,904,000 rats poisoned.

"This estimate," says Mr. Silver, who has had long experience in rat control, "is very conservative. We first made a calculation based on the number of poisoned rats actually found in one county of Alabama and this calculation was cut practically in half to arrive at the final estimate quoted."

The workers also conducted trapping operations, but almost exclusively to clean up premises where rats remained after poisoning. By actual count it was found that 623,000 rats were thus

Istanbul Noises Are Still Oriental

ISTANBUL.—Though Istanbul has been Europeanized in many respects to the eye, it still remains an Oriental city to the ear.

The Muezzin's call from the Minaret is less heard, but the "cries of Istanbul" outdo all traffic noises.

The street cars clatter and the chauffeurs make great use of their horns, but the street vendors surpass them all. With the corks, who do their little part in the symphony, the water vendor arrives in the small hours of the morning. Practically all houses receive the city's water supply. But nobody of any standing will drink water from the tap although it is quite healthy.

For internal use they will take nothing less than water from one of the famous 23 springs which flow in the suburbs of the metropolis.

The sale of this water is an important business and the water vendor is a prominent figure in the city's life.

There are two types of them. Most of the vendors carry their barrel of water on their backs, while the more prosperous have a cart.

Their call is a deep mono-syllabic bapso.

Next come the vegetable dealers, who call out their different wares. Simultaneously the fruit men arrive, closely followed by the hawking butchers.

The chorus is in full swing when the newspaper boys, as lively as their colleagues on Broadway, make their noisy appearance with the first evening edition of the "Aksham."

By this time the sellers of sweetmeats, of all kinds of household goods are hawking their wares.

Hen Quit Laying And Began Crowing

Dewey said the hen now is three years old.

The fowl has developed a double comb and other characteristics of a rooster.

Promptly at 4 a. m. and 4 p. m., the hen jumps on the fence and crows lustily.

OMAHA, Neb.—The inventor with a mouse trap and with gadgets ranging from golf tees to stratosphere balloons, guaranteed to get you from Ypsilanti to Timbuctoo between dawn and sunset, were on hand when the annual National Inventors' Congress was opened here today.

While the world has not yet beaten a track to the door of the mouse trap man, he is confident it will do so. So are all of the other 300 persons exhibiting their new inventions for the first time.

The mouse trap man is from Des Moines, Iowa. His trap really isn't a trap at all—it's a mouse-frightener guaranteed to put the famed Pied Piper Piper of Hamelin town to shame. It is the printed figure of a cat on a postcard illuminated by a luminous radium paint and perfumed with peppermint—which is more obnoxious to mice than poison.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE

NEA Service Staff Writer

LITTLE BRIDE, you may as well learn first as last that there are three factors which must be measured accurately every time a meal is prepared or a cake is baked. Time, temperature and ingredients all determine the goodness of the finished product. A reliable recipe will tell you how much of each ingredient to use, how long and at what temperature to cook the concoction. And remember that those cooks of long standing who tell you that they "never measure, just take a big spoonful of lard to a pie" DO MEASURE. They know just how much to heap up the "big" spoon and if they lose that particular amount accurately, they will. Repetition has taught their eyes and hands to gauge the quantity with comparative accuracy.

Get Standard Measurements

You will need standard measuring cups and spoons to measure the ingredients. An ordinary coffee cup or teacup should never be used because there is an appreciable difference in the capacities of the various cups and that difference may mean the ruin of a recipe. A tablespoon means a standard measuring spoon level full, while the difference between that and any other tablespoon may seem slight, it counts.

It is time-saving to have two measuring cups, one for liquids and one for dry ingredients. The sets of cups are specially convenient in measuring fractions of cups because it's much easier to stroke off the amount accurately than to measure half or whatever the quantity in the cup according to the marks.

Flour is sifted before measuring. It should be piled lightly in the cup and the cup tapped lightly to fill the air holes but it should not be packed down.

All dry ingredients such as sugar, salt and soda should be sifted to free them from lumps. Brown sugar should be rolled before sifting.

To use a measuring cup, fill and level it off with a spatula or the back of a case knife is drawn across the spoon, consisting of the teaspoon, 1-2 teaspoon.

If you are baking or broiling steaks and doing this precaution, heat your hot before putting in the oven. The time element is so difficult to settle arbitrarily many things such as condition of ingredients and materials enter into this question.

Twin Canaries Are Hatched From Egg

KOKOMO, Ind.—When a mother canary hatches a tiny little babe it usually brings "ohs" and "ahs" from the household, but the cheery songs which announced the birth of twin canaries at the Roscoe Roe home here recently are due to catch the attention of the ornithology world.

The twin birds, hatched from the same egg emerged from the shell, each independent of the other and perfectly formed. A day later three other eggs, which the little bird had been keeping warm for several weeks, hatched.

Ornithologists report that twin canaries in the same egg are rare, and that in most instances the birds are dead, or are deformed.

To the Citizens of Eastland County, the 106th Legislative District: My Friends and My Neighbors: I have lived among you for 15 years; have tried at all times to help in every worth while cause that meant for a better community. If you approve of the kind of citizen I am and feel that I am capable of representing you in the State Legislature, I will be profoundly grateful for your support and will do my best to be of service to Eastland county. In asking for this office, I am not unmindful of the fact that the law-making body of the State is one of the most important offices in the State and should be filled by capable men who have the interest of all the people at heart. I am 55 years old, was reared on a farm in Grenada County, Mississippi. Am now, and have always been a Democrat. I have lived in Eastland county 15 years. Am a property owner and taxpayer in Ranger. I hereby give you my views on some matters that I consider most important at this time. I favor fewer laws and better obedience of the ones we have. I favor the reduction of taxes by reducing the cost of government; abolishing unnecessary offices and reducing the number of employees to what is necessary to do efficient work. I favor an income tax for the support of public schools and take some of the burden off of real estate. I favor the exemption of homesteads up to $3,000.00 value from all ad valorem taxes except for school and city purposes. I favor an old age pension of $15.00 per month for needy people above 65 years of age. I favor the continuance of $16 per capita of school apportionment and adjustment of teachers' salaries in order that no teacher should receive a salary of less than $60.00 per month. I favor a flat rate of registration of automobiles of $3.00 on light cars and $5.00 on heavy cars, and all car and truck money to go to the county for the building and maintenance of county roads. I favor the Federal and State government using its credit to help every American citizen to own their homes; lending them money at low rate of interest and allowing from 20 to 25 years for the repayment of same. I believe we should provide more work for the unemployed thereby, taking them off of Direct Relief. I believe labor should be paid wages that will enable them to properly support their families. I favor a law that will enable counties, cities and school districts to adjust their present bonded indebtedness to what they are able to pay and that they never be allowed to bond themselves for more than 10 per cent of their taxable value. If elected your representative, I promise to be on the job at all times and to do my best to be of service to Eastland County. E. A. RINGOLD. (Political Adv.)

DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS

WHEN you allow Headache, Neuralgia, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic or Periodic Pains to keep you from work or pleasure. You can't go places and do things when you are suffering—and the work or good times won't wait for you. Why allow Pain to rob you of Health, Friends, Happiness, Money? DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS have been used for the relief of pain for more than forty years. They taste good, act quickly, do not upset the stomach, nor cause constipation, leave no dull, depressed feeling. Thousands have used them for twenty, thirty, forty years; and still find that nothing else relieves pain so promptly and effectively. Why don't you try them? Once you know how pleasant they are to take, how quickly and effectively they relieve, you won't want to go back to disagreeable, slow acting medicines. You too may find quick relief. Why wait forty minutes for relief when Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will relieve you in ten to twenty minutes? At a household remedy I have never found anything that equalled Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. I have tried many about them and I find they are all using them. I have been using Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for years. I keep them on hand all the time. I can certainly recommend them for pain. Miss Audra Seybold, 2417 W. 2nd St., Dayton, Ohio. STUDENTS GO OUT AND COME IN

More than 700 graduates of the University of Texas left the walls of that institution Monday with the challenge of service to state ringing in their ears.

First, Dr. Gorge W. Truett Sunday night in his baccalaureate sermon emphasized that "the business of life is unselfish service to the community" and again Monday, Dr. H. Y. Benedict, University president, challenged the graduates to meet the new changing conditions through individual service.

As these graduates enter the workaday world, several thousand other students—most of them teachers who have already rendered service—are entering for the summer school to perfect their training to enable them to give still higher service.

One procession of students inexperienced going forth to earn their spurs in service—the other seeking further training in order to attain a higher rung in the ladder of service.

The students go forth at a time when there is still unemployment and stress and each community in which they enter a hopeful they may make a distinct contribution in the program of recovery.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

The lack of interest on the part of many citizens holds back the development of many cities.

Whether or not this lack of interest is to continue is up to them.

Where a portion of the business men show a lack of aggressiveness, a tendency to stay in the same old rut, and an idea in their heads that business will be good without any effort on their part, just helps to kill all business of the home city.

They will find many of their fellow citizens getting the habit of going to some other city to trade.

Most of this out-of-town trading is done because of the lack of effort on the part of the home merchants.

The cities who sit tight and take only what business that is coming to them usually haven't much coming to them and don't get much.

The cities that succeed are the ones that are up and doing all the time—reaching out after business and building for the future.

In these modern days you can't wait for business. You must go after it!

Your home town needs you just as much as you need it. Your success depends upon its success.

USE OF A B C'S. The use of the vitamin as important a part as the letter alphabet. The alphabet is a spelling. The garden following vitamins: the anti-infective necessary for health and good appetite, is found in mustard greens. The anti-beriberi which protects the body from diseases, promotes digestion and growth, is found in peas, rice, carrots and the anti-scorbutic which protects the body and keeps teeth and gums in good condition, is found in lettuce, onions, spinach, celery and strawberries.

THE cheapest of all to health, is obtained by sunlight and air. The anti-sterility found in lettuce, beans, peas, and tomatoes.

OWN Garden Seed of a superb kind of that has been "in the market" for forty years. It is a seed that has been saved and it is highly prized. It is prolific and has an average yield of 100 bushels per acre. It is true that the seed is expensive, but the saving of seed and the saving of seed are worth the cost.

Some gardeners in Texas have a considerable quantity of their neighbors who have a particular strain or variety of seed.

Peas. Mark a few plants, allowing the seed to mature. When the seed is matured, harvest and treat the seed with carbonyl disulphide. A barrel will treat a barrel of peas or beans in 24 hours. Pour the high-life into a barrel and place the peas or beans in the barrel. Use the barrel while fumigating the lid on the barrel for 24 hours, open and ventilate the beans or peas, in the hull, in a dry place.

Beans and Squash. Select desired characteristics to ripen fully on vine. Ripen fruit, scrape out the pulp and wash seed until free of the refuse and seed. Spread out in a shallow pan in the sun. Seed will dry in 2 to 3 days. Seed are dry before storing.

Cut tomatoes in a barrel and allow to sit for two days. The seed to the bottom and rise to the surface. Stir twice daily. On the third day pour off pulp and wash seed out and dry.

Beet Pickle. Foster, farm food supervisor of the Flatwood 4H club, used and likes the following recipe for pickling beets. To get the beets before they are large and stringy. The beets should be young, tender, free from cracks, peel with defects trimmed, uniform in size and color. Sort the beets into uniform bunches. Cut the tops leaving two inches of the stem roots on, until after cooking under fifteen pounds of steam for twenty minutes until skins will slip off. Dip and drop while hot in vinegar which has been prepared and hot.

Spiced Vinegar. Solution of four per cent vinegar, sugar and five tea-spoons of spices. Mix sugar, spices and vinegar. Let simmer half an hour for the spices to drop. Drop hot beets in and three minutes. Remove sugar jars with beets and hot vinegar. Seal immediately and place where they will keep. Poor color may be due to: 1. Lack of color in raw beets. 2. Steam at low temperature. 3. Slow handling from the time of picking to sealing cans. 4. Slow cooling.

Texas Leads Nation In Road Building Under Federal Aid

HOUSTON, Tex.—Texas led the nation in the number of men employed directly on federal aid highway projects at the close of May, according to a report received here from Public Works Administrator Harold Ickes. The number totaled 18,875 during the month.

At the end of May, the bureau of public roads reported, Texas had 506 public works highway projects advertised for contract. Of this number, 494 had been awarded contracts.

Of the projects advertised, $21,121,000 or 87.1 per cent represented PWA funds allotted the state under the NRA, the report revealed.

The estimated total cost of the work advertised for contract was given at $23,651,000. Of the 494 Texas highway projects awarded to contract, $20,669,000 represented PWA funds, or 85.3 per cent.

Further check of public works highway building progress in Texas by the bureau showed 282 projects under construction and 177 completed.

Work under construction represented $15,016,000 of PWA money, while projects completed represented $3,864,000 from that agency.

The estimated total cost of work under construction was placed at $16,374,000, while total cost of completed work was estimated at $4,758,000.

The federal aid highway program, including work under way and completed in the entire country involved 90 per cent of the $400,000,000 PWA road fund at the close of the month, the report showed.

DONNA of the BIG TOP by BEULAH POYNTER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DONNA GABRIEL, circus performer, falls from the trapeze and is injured. To please her partner, MADELINE SIDDAL, Donna goes to Madeline's home to recuperate, pretending to be the other girl. She is ashamed of the deception but keeps it up, even when BILL SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, asks her to marry him. Bill and Donna are married. MISS PLANTER, housekeeper discharged by Donna, is her enemy.

AMOS SIDDAL, Madeline's grandfather, has a stroke. Meanwhile Madeline, who has married CON DAVID, the animal trainer, is killed. Con knows of Donna's deception and decides to blackmail her. He comes to the nearby town and Donna agrees to meet him. Mrs. Planter learns of this and sends Bill an anonymous letter. When Donna reaches home after meeting Con she says she has been at a neighbor's. Bill knows she has not.

Next morning he goes to see Con who shows him the certificate of his marriage to Madeline. Bill thinks his wife has committed bigamy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIV

DONNA awakened with a feeling of impending disaster. For a few minutes she lay on the couch, conscious only of a crushing sensation and a bewilderment that she should not be in her own bed. It was still dark and deathly quiet. The wind had ceased to moan through the trees and the snow to flutter against the windows. In the stillness she missed something—the audible breathing of her husband.

That frightened her and she slid from the couch and went into the bedroom. Bill was gone but the bed had been slept in and Bill's work clothes were missing. She looked at the clock and saw that it was almost six. He must be outside, attending to the cattle.

While she was dressing there was a knock at the door. "It's Miss Perkins. Are you awake, Mr. Siddal?"

Donna opened the door. "My husband has gone out," she said. "What is it?"

"Your grandfather is breathing strangely. I can't rouse him. I think we had better send for the doctor."

"Telephone him," Donna said with a catch in her throat. "I'll dress as quickly as I can. Mr. Siddal must be out in the stables. I'll see if I can find him."

She left the door open and she heard the nurse going down the stairs. Heard her voice as she called for Dr. Freeman.

Miss Perkins was back in the sick room when Donna reached the lower floor. "I got Dr. Freeman on the phone," she whispered, "but it will take him an hour to get here. He" (nodding toward the motionless figure on the bed) "is just the same. It—looks like a coma to me."

Donna pressed her hand against her mouth and battled with the sobs that rose in her throat. "I wonder if Dr. Freeman can never make it out here in the snow! Telephone him again, please, and find out. If he hasn't a sleigh I'll send Bill after him."

SHE bent over the old man long enough to whisper his name and to realize that it was useless to try to get him to speak. Then she wrapped a heavy shawl about herself and ran out of the house towards the barn. She called Bill's name several times but received no answer. The path, cut through the drifts, and the cows, munching peacefully in their stalls, informed her that Bill had completed his chores though he was no place to be seen.

Bewildered, anxious, she returned to the house. In the kitchen Minnie was getting breakfast. "Miss Perkins asked I should make her some coffee. Grandpa Siddal is worse," she said.

"Yes. Has my husband come in?"

"No. And there's no milk. He must be milking the cows."

"No, he isn't. Give me some coffee, Minnie. I'm going after Dr. Freeman. My husband must be somewhere on the farm but we can't wait for him."

She swallowed the coffee so hot it burned her throat but she did not feel the pain. Her thoughts were leaping from one tragic event to another. It was ominous that Bill was not to be found.

When she discovered that the bobbed was gone she was stunned. Bill must have gone to town before 6 o'clock. That could mean but one thing—he had learned of her meeting with Con David!

Standing there in the snow, she wrung her hands and sobbed bitterly. But it was only a short time before she regained control of herself. Dr. Freeman must be telephoned again.

DONNA wiped her wet cheeks with a fold of the shawl and ran back to the house. "Mr. Siddal has gone to town," she said breathlessly. "All we can do is ask the doctor to come in his car. How is Grandfather?"

Miss Perkins shook her head. "No better."

Donna knelt beside the bed, resting her cold cheek against the withered one. "Grandpa, can you hear me? You mustn't leave us now when we are in so much trouble. I need you! You'll never know how much I need you. You know, don't you, that I love you? Bill will never forgive me, but you will. You'll understand. You said intentions—and my intentions weren't wicked. I was just a coward—afraid of hurting you and Bill and losing the only love I have ever known! Oh, Grandfather, you mustn't die! Not until I can explain everything. Not until you do the right thing by Bill and until I know you forgive me!"

She thought she saw his eyelids flutter, and continued murmuring words of love and contrition. Tears were rolling down her cheeks. Again and again she pressed her trembling lips against the shivered ones, unconscious that the nurse had returned.

"Mrs. Siddal," the nurse shook her gently. "Mrs. Siddal!"

Donna raised her swimming eyes.

"Please get up. He can't hear you. He's dead."

Donna moved from her embrace walked unsteadily to the window and pressed her face against it. Grief over losing the kindest, dearest friend she had ever known banished thoughts of self and future. Her sense of loss obliterated everything else.

A LONG time she stood there, seeing nothing, too deeply moved for tears. She knew when Dr. Freeman arrived but she did not answer when he said, "I'm so sorry, Madeline, though there was nothing I could have done if I'd been here. You have the consolation that he suffered no pain and that his death was a quiet, peaceful going to sleep."

Sleep, a long, long sleep. Donna thought of Amos Siddal's beautiful confidence that he would join his loved ones on the awakening. He knew now what she had done. He knew the guilt she suffered, but he could do nothing to help her.

Suddenly great wracking sobs tore at her slim body. She tried to stifle them, but they escaped. When Miss Perkins again put her arm about the girl and led her from the room she made no protest. "Take this, dear," the nurse whispered and put a glass to her lips.

Donna lay down on the living room sofa. The door rocked with her. She seemed to be floating in the air. Her lids drooped and she slept.

She heard a mumble of voices. At first they seemed far away. Then she opened her eyes. Through a hazy veil she picked out three figures standing in the doorway. A woman and two men. The woman wore a white uniform and the men were in overcoats. One coat was a dark raccoon and there was a cap on the man's head, pushed far back from thick dark hair.

Bill had a raccoon coat and a cap like that. But Bill had gone away. No—Bill was standing there. They were telling him that Grandfather was dead.

"We tried to find you," Miss Perkins said, "but there was nothing that could have been done. You mustn't blame yourself."

Donna raised herself on one elbow. "Bill!" she said.

He turned and looked at her. There was hatred in his eyes—a bitter, scathing scorn that seemed to penetrate through her clothing and sear her very vitals. She shrank back, covering her face with her hands. But her hands could not blind her to the expression on his face.

"Leave me alone," he said crisply to the others.

Then he crossed to the sofa. "I know the truth," he said slowly. "I know all about Con David."

"Yes," she could not look at him.

"You know it's the end between us?"

"Yes, I know it."

"After the funeral I'll be getting out."

(To Be Continued)

GOOSE SPREAD RELIGION WILLIAMS BAY, Wis.—A wild goose, one of the winged missionaries used by Jack Miner, Kingsville, Ontario, naturalist, to spread the Gospel, was found here recently by Walter L. Everson. A tag on the bird's leg dated in the spring of 1930 bore Miner's name and address and the scriptural message, "With God all things are possible." Miner informed Everson that he attaches similar tags to hundreds of fowl that visit his sanctuary.

Another tragic effect of this long drought is that there won't be very many double headers toward the end of the baseball season.

No one could have done better keeping those Canadian quinquets alive than old Dr. Dufoe, says his brother specialist. Turning down that $50,000 World Fair contract was a heroic deed in itself.

WORLD FAMED PLAY "WONDER BAR" TO OPEN HERE SOON

Out-doing all previous sensational combinations of stars and spectacles, First National's long awaited international musical drama, "Wonder Bar," will be shown for the first time locally at the Lyric Theatre on Monday.

Kay Francis plays the leading feminine role opposite Al Jolson, who portrays the proprietor of the "Wonder Bar." Ricardo Cortez and Dolores Del Rio have the coveted parts of the two dancers, while Dick Powell and Henry Kolker have the roles of the American composer - orchestra leader and the husband of Kay Francis, respectively. Hal LeRoy, the sensational Broadway player, plays the role of himself in a thrilling dance sequence.

Guy Kibbee and Hugh Herbert play the two American tourists with Ruth Donnelly and Louise Fazenda as their wives, in important character and comedy roles. Robert Barratt has the part of the army officer, who drives his auto over a cliff and unconsciously covers up a murder. Pifi d'Orsay and Merna Kennedy will be seen as the two flirtatious hostesses in the fashionable Parisian night club.

As "Wonderbar," this unique musical proved an international sensation a few years ago. It played for months in all of Europe's capitals and was brought to this country as a stage starting vehicle for Al Jolson. He took it on the road after a season in New York and no production since "The Miracle" has been so generally and generously welcomed. A few months ago First National acquired the screen rights to the production and proceeded at once to make extensive plans for its presentation as the greatest film spectacle of modern times.

It is said that the screen version of "Wonder Bar" returns to some extent to the European production. This increases the importance of the roles played by the long list of stars assigned to the picture.

Busby Berkeley, creator of the musical numbers that featured "Gold Diggers of 1933" — "42nd Street" and "Footlight Parade," created and staged the special musical spectacles on a scale never before attempted even in these previous successes. Berkeley's ability for sensational departures from the ordinary in camera work has made screen history in the past year.

For months critics have been predicting that Spencer Tracy would soon emerge as a full-fledged star. All that was needed, they said, was a part strong enough to bring out his latent dramatic talent.

That part has come at last in the role of Murray Golden in the Fox picture, "Now I'll Tell by Mrs. Arnold Rothstein," which opens at the Lyric theatre on Sunday. Winfield Sheehan, who produced the picture, came to that decision when filming was about half completed and announced that Tracy would be starred in this and future pictures.

The film is a cavalcade of New York's sporting and night life. The city's most exciting years, from 1910 to 1932, are lived again in this powerful story of a woman's great love for a strange man. It's a story that has never been told before, revealing intimate details of a fascinating life, and the dramatic events that led up to its tragic, mysterious death.

W. C. FIELDS LAUGHS WAY INTO STAR ROLE IN FILMS

The fact that Tracy won stardom on the strength of his portrayal of Meray Golden is a good advance tip on the power of his performance. In the picture as in real life, Golden's credo was "to live every minute I'm alive and die when I'm dead . . . to get all the fun there is out of life . . . be the head of the parade." This is the stuff from which Tracy creates a great characterization.

Helen Twelvetrees plays the important role of Virginia, the wife of Murray Golden. She is a girl of refinement who marries Golden and, because she loves him, overlooks his vices until she learns he has been unfaithful.

And the blonde charmer with whom Golden carries on a secret love affair for several years is portrayed by Ruby Vallee's sweet heart in George White's "Scandals." As a night club entertainer, she sings "Foolin' With the Other Woman's Man."

Others in the excellent supporting cast are Robert Glecker, Henry O'Neil, Hobart Cavanaugh, G. P. Huntley Jr., Vince Barnett and Shirley Temple. Edwin Burke of "Bad Girl" fame wrote the dialogue and also directed the picture under Mr. Sheehan's personal supervision.

W. C. FIELDS LAUGHS WAY INTO STAR ROLE IN FILMS

W. C. Fields, stage and screen comedian who has been a featured player for many years, has at last laughed himself into a starring position. His first starring picture, "You're Telling Me," is coming to the Lyric Theatre today.

Featured with Fields in this Paramount film are Larry "Buster" Crabbe, Joan Marsh and Adrienne Ames. Erle Kenton directed from the screen play by Walter DeLeon and Paul Jones.

As a rattle-brained inventor whose greatest problem is trying to find a way to keep from working, Fields doesn't provide much peace and happiness for his family.

Living across the tracks, on the cheap side, his daughter and his wife have hard times trying to make "uptown" friends.

They almost land in society when Larry "Buster" Crabbe, the banker's son, falls in love with Joan. But while his family is meeting the poor family, Fields comes in with his tipsy pals and ruins everything.

Always doing the wrong thing, Fields spoils his chance of selling his one good invention. Discouraged and practically outcast he accidentally gets into a drinking bout with a royal princess.

She takes sides with him, and the manner in which she and Fields high-hat the town and bring to two lovers together furnishes an amusing climax to a laugh-packed picture.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

Let everyone who is not attending Sunday school elsewhere meet us at the Nazarene church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Preaching, 11 a. m.; N. Y. P. S., 7 p. m., and preaching at 8 p. m. Mid-week prayer service each Wednesday Evening at 8 o'clock.

Held as the ax murderer of his brother, Robert, 14, left, and his mother, Mrs. Carrie L. Payne, center, Louis R. Payne, 21, right, is watched closely in his Los Angeles county jail to prevent suicide. The bodies, terribly mangled, were found in th family's luxurious home after the youth, rushing into a police station, admitted the killings, blaming 'dizzy spells.' The father, Lucius F. Payne, utilities executive, rushed by plane from St. Louis to the scene of the tragedy.

Hurricane Season Watched by Folks In South Texas

McAlLEN, Tex.—The hurricane season on the Gulf of Mexico has come again, with its annual threat of death, injuries, and property damage.

Until November the destructive winds can be expected any time. Shippers keep an extra close check on weather predictions. Merchants and residents along the coast keep boards ready to put over windows. Farmers look anxiously every morning to see if storms are threatening their crops.

September is the most dangerous month, although hurricanes occur any time from June to November.

Last year's big storm, which killed 44 persons, injured 1,500, and caused property damage estimated at $12,000,000, took place in September. The 1900 hurricane, which swept over Haiti and Cuba, struck the Texas coast at Galveston, and traversed the midwestern states, St. Lawrence Valley, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Iceland, also was a September storm.

Hurricanes, utterly uncontrollable, generally "run wild." A few characteristics are common, however, to all Gulf hurricanes.

All hurricanes are vast whirlwinds, circular in shape, which rotate counter-clockwise. In generally developed hurricanes there is an "eye" or center, usually from 5 to 25 miles across, in which there is absolute calm. Around this calm, however, whirls a terrific wind, which may develop a speed of 140 miles an hour. No storm is called a hurricane until the wind exceeds 75 miles an hour.

While the winds are whirling about the center of the hurricane, the entire storm area progresses at a rate averaging around 12 miles an hour.

Weather bureau records show Florida and Texas to be the chief victims of hurricanes, with Florida leading.

During the half century from 1878 to 1928 Florida had 32 hurricanes, Texas 24, and Louisiana 16. During the same period a total of 127 hurricanes struck the coasts of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas. Fifty-one of these blew in September.

Florida has an average of one hurricane in every 1.3 years. The Texas average is one in every 2.1 years.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Matthew 28:1-20
THE GREAT COMMISSION

A radiant early Sabbath dawn; a group of sad-faced women with spices and oil began the slow ascent of the hill to the new grave where the body of Christ had been placed the previous Friday by Joseph and Nicodemus. This was April 9, A. D. 30.

They converged in low tones among themselves as to how they might complete the embalming of the body of Jesus, a process left unfinished by the men as the Jewish Sabbath came on at sunset on Friday. Misery crept into their voices as not only Christ but all of Christianity seemed to be dead and laid in the grave with Him. Then who would roll the great stone away from the door of the sepulchre for them?

Awe-inspiring surprise greeted them. An angel of shining countenance and white raiment had rolled the stone away "and sat upon it." "He is risen" was the glad message he gave them and which still rings down through the ages in the hearts of men who believe. "Come, see the place where the Lord lay" were the words which convinced them that truly Christ had arisen from the grave.

"And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy and did run to bring his disciples word." As they ran they met the risen Lord and He spoke kindly, "Be not afraid." Then as

Kansas Finds Its Land In Demand

DODGE CITY, Kan. — Every available acre of grazing land in the Blue Stem region of Kansas, known as the largest summer cattle pasture in the country, is under lease this year, according to cattlemen. Drought conditions in other parts of the country largely were responsible for heavy rentals.

Formerly known as the Flint Hills before the name was changed three years ago to give a more appropriate connotation, the pasture extends along a strip 75 miles wide, 150 miles north from the Oklahoma boundary.

The grass stand is considered the richest in the United States. Last year more than 300,000 head of cattle, bred under precarious conditions in Texas and New Mexico, were fattened on it.

Every year in April and May thousands of lean cattle are rounded up in the southern states and transported by rail to the region. In late summer another round-up is held and the grass-fattened stock is shipped to market, usually in August and September.

The section is sparsely populated, although along its borders towns and farming communities are numerous.

The blue stem grass begins spreading its green over the Flint Hills in April and quickly develops into pasture growth. Unpastured, it frequently grows knee deep and in sloughs often grows stirrup high.

The 1934 Oklahoma Campaign Taking On Circus Trend

By FRANK McNAUGHTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
OKLAHOMA CITY. — Oklahoma's 1934 political campaign would have been worth millions to P. T. Barnum.

Combining all the elements of jazz, slapstick comedy, oratory good and bad, weird economic theories, and bizarre campaign tactics, the political sideshows are presenting a hilarious entertainment for the people.

For weeks, Gov. W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray has been "off the reservation," touring the country.

In Don Quixote fashion, he has tackled a score of political adversaries, launching his own ticket for major state offices.

Lieut. Gov. Robert Burns, enemy of Murray, has a blaring, 130-piece band to do his trumpeting in the gubernatorial race and Corporation Commissioner J. C. (Iron Jack) Walton has revived his brass band of 1922 fame for his campaign.

Attorney General J. Berry King, another gubernatorial aspirant, uses a phonograph mounted on his automobile and several records of jazzy, crowd-gathering tunes.

Dr. George Long, Tulsa dentist-brother of Louisiana's Kingfish, has a sound truck, and camp outfit to tour the state in whirlwind fashion. His party sleeps in a tent while on the road.
