HOUSTON COTTON EXPORTS FOR THE PRESENT SEASON

Men and money made Houston a deep water port. Men and money created a channel for ocean-going vessels from the Gulf to the headwaters of the Buffalo bayou. This bayou city item is interesting: "Cotton exports from Houston passed the 2,000,000 bales mark for the present season when the West Cobalt sailed today for Liverpool and Manchester with a cargo of 4600 bales for English consignees."

Houston is a sure-enough deep water port. Houston has the largest exporting cotton concern in the world. Houston brought tidewater from the Gulf of Mexico to its own docks, and Houston, which ranked third in population in the not remote past, won first place in population in 1930. Now Fort Worth and Dallas progressives are doing their level best to induce Uncle Sam to canalize the Trinity river fro mthe Gulf of Mexico to the headwaters of the Trinity at Fort Worth where inland docks are to be built. Of course, the prophets of the Twin Cities upstate predict that an inland waterway will place Fort Worth and Dallas try from the east to the new Cay- structures for Highway 137. on an equal basis in the export shipping trade with Houston and Galveston. JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

The Olden High school Junior-Senior banquet, held in the roof garden of the Connellee hotel in Eastland, Thursday night, April 26, was one of the prettiest and most appreciated affairs of the season. The three tables including two arranged parallel and seating 18 couples each, and the speakers table seating six were decorated in a color scheme of black and white and gold. Black and white being the senior colors and black and gold the high school colors. On the center of each table stood a French doll about 20 inches tall dressed in black cap and gown and gown and holding a diploma tied in black and gold. Around the hem of her gown yellow roses twined, and a graceful spray of fern and yellow roses extended in gentle curves from the center to each end of the tables. Place cards were small baskets of yellow roses with gold wrapped handles, the gold bow at the top holding the name cards. Favors wee black caps with yellow candies on gold lace doilies. Programs were in black ettering on white and with the silhouette in black of a lady in cap and gown.

Judge Hickman, the guest of honor, Mrs. Hickman, Superintendent Collins, Mrs. Collins, Thompson Pickens and A. B. Gibson sat at the speaker's table. Judge Hickman made an excellent talk which was greatly appreciated and enjoyed. A. C. Gibson. president of the junior class and toastmaster, introduced the speaker and called on various ones for toasts. The program was as follows: Invocation, S. J. Smith; "The Flowers," A. C. Gibson; "The Buds," Sidney Supulver; "The Garden," Superintendent Collins; "The Gardener," Thompson Pickens; song, "An Old Fashioned Garden," ensemble; address, Judge Hickman; remarks, Freshmen, Sophomores and visitors; prayer, Clyde Hunter. A lovely threecourse dinner was served consisting of half Texas grape fruit supreme, celery hearts, broiled minuet sirloin steak maitre d'hotel, new peas in butter, baked potatoes, head lettuce and tomato salad with thousand island dressing, strawberry sundae and coffee. Following the banquet most
