Army Planning Massed Flight to Prove Its Ability

Smarting under criticism heaped on it while it flew the air mail, the Army Corps is planning spectacular massed flight from Washington, Nome, Alaska, to "prove its flying ability."

Detail plans have not been drawn up but the flight will have three primary objectives:

1—To demonstrate massed flying ability of Army Air Corps pilots, who had only a modicum of success in flying the air mails.

2—Good will promotion between the United States and Canada.

3—A test of the efficiency of the 12 Martin bombers to be flown.

EASTLAND PROFESSIONAL AND BUSINESS MEN QUICKLY RAISE FUNDS FOR USE IN BANK PLAN

At a hurriedly called meeting of Eastland business and professional men on the roof garden of the Connellee Hotel at 11 o'clock this morning the $500 necessary to send an attorney to Washington and Austin to carry out the plans heretofore presented to the depositors of the defunct Texas State Bank in organizing a new bank, was raised in five minutes.

To the Business and Professional Interests of Eastland, Texas: This partition is an agreement between the Depositors Committee and the undersigned. In the event that a Charter for a National Bank for Eastland is granted and a plan is accepted that the agreed amount of $500 contributed for attorney's fees will be returned to the donor in full.

The committee feels that inasmuch as $165,000 has been signed up by more than 500 depositors and although it is not enough at this time but the project is almost assured and that it is time to get into action at Austin and Washington in order that there will be as little delay as possible.

We now ask the cooperation of the business and individual interests of Eastland to carry on to the necessary completion of the project. J. P. Dreibebis of the firm of Locke, Locke, Stroud & Randolph of Dallas, who has had vast and previous experience in organizing banks under the plan as presented and has direct connections with both the State Banking Department and the officials at Washington will represent the depositors of the Texas State Bank and the stockholders of the proposed new national bank.

The following named persons and firms subscribed to the above: Eastland Telegram $100.00, Texas Electric Service $50.00, Community Nat'l Bank $25.00, Hoffman & Page $25.00, Earl Bender $25.00, Pigley Wigley $25.00, Butler & Harvey $25.00, W. WAS TAKEN FROM OFFICERS AND HANGED

NEWTON, Texas, June 21.—A 38-year-old negro, charged with attacking a young white girl here, was lynched last night by a mob of 200 armed men who overpowered two deputy sheriffs, taking the victim to Orange for safekeeping.

The nude body of the negro, John Griggs, was found at 2 a. m. today in front of a box factory, where he worked. He had been hanged.

The deputies were halted on the highway 27 miles south of here. The officers were disarmed and a noose was thrown around the negro's neck as he sat in the officers' car.

The negro was jerked from the car. The officers were told to "get going." They said they drove away immediately.

Deputy Sheriff D. W. Smith and W. E. Davison were ordered by Sheriff T. S. Hughes to take the negro from the old Newton county jail last night, when a howling mob of men and women gathered outside.

"We told the negro the jail was about to be stormed and that we were helpless," Smith said. "We asked him if he wanted to attempt to slip away and go to Orange with us."

BUSINESS RECOVERY SHOWS BID LEAD IN SOUTHERN SECTOR

Speaking of business conditions the nation over the Mobile Times tells its readers that nationally collective figures "show the South leads in the speed of recovery."

Early in June this paper gave space to a review of the Blue Book special of the Manufacturers' Record. In that review it was shown that in "payrolls, number of persons employed and agricultural income, the South leads in percentage of gain."

Also in the textile industries in the increased number of bales of cotton of the American crop that had been consumed in southern mills since the inauguration of the New Deal set-up of government. Dun and Bradstreet issue a weekly trade survey. In its issue of June 15, the review declared the seasonal recession in trade has been less pronounced than it was in some of the years immediately preceding "and in most divisions sufficient momentum has been gained to prevent a serious interruption of the general recovery movement."

Looking forward, the review declared "apparently a period is being entered in which business will be held to a steadier level until crop prospects will have been more definitely ascertained. A sudden spurt in building activity was reported, following the inauguration of the home modernizing campaign sponsored by the home owners loan corporation, and gains were based on reports contributed almost entirely by industrial centers and the farm areas in the South and the Southwest. Mid-summer is on the way and mid-summer is ever a dull season, speaking of July and August, the nation over.

SEN. SHEPPARD CALLS FOR "OLD WINE IN A NEW BOTTLE"

Sen. Morris Sheppard has introduced a resolution to re-establish national prohibition. His newest proposal would not prohibit alcoholic beverages but would permit congress either to restrict or prohibit the liquor traffic.

It is said that anything can be proved by figures and there is no doubt but that they can be manipulated by means of suppression or exaggeration to yield some curious results. This is found frequently in political controversies when representatives of opposing parties draw widely different conclusions from the same official returns.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

J. H. McDevitt, editor of the Durango (Colorado) Herald-Democrat, says: "The hired political 'worker' who drops into your home just before election and advises you how to cast your vote is quite as likely to influence you against as for the particular party or person or issue he has been paid to advocate. You don't know such worker, you didn't invite him to your home and he has no credentials showing mutuality of interests. You only know that for hire he is imposing on your time and that his opinion isn't worth a great deal or it wouldn't be so cheaply peddled around."

"On the other hand, your friend and daily associate whose regular visits throughout the year you cordially welcome, the friend whom you respect and whose interests you know, through years of experience, are bound up with your own has considerable influence with you in matters political. You know who he is and where he stood last week, last month, last year. You know he will be right there tomorrow and next year to stand responsible for the things he may say to you in conversation, casual or otherwise, today."

"This same difference between the hired healer and your invited and welcome friend exists between your newspaper and a handbill thrown in your front yard, or between your newspaper and a 'phone message or radio club. The newspaper comes to you because you want it. You enjoy it—just as you enjoy a friend—for its many sides. Any issue presented in it receives your respectful consideration. There is a dependability, a responsibility, a permanent entity behind what you read in your regularly subscribed for newspaper. You know that in this day and age advertisers simply don't lie in the newspapers. The responsible advertiser always chooses a responsible medium. When he isn't afraid to have you remember what he said, he says it in your newspaper."

Deal Faces
 Test in F. D. R.'s
 Home District

By United Press
 PARK, N. Y.—The New Deal is being subjected to its most severe test in President Roosevelt's home district—where he has been elected to a second term. His political career as a spokesman for New York State is being put to a severe test. The test appeared certain to be a special election called by Governor Herbert H. Lehman to fill a vacancy in the State Senate. Mr. Roosevelt's ancestral home district along the shores of the Hudson River. President Roosevelt is understood to have great interest in the special visit to the summer home when informed his district might become a factor in the local campaign. The "New Deal" will be tested at the very polls which sent Roosevelt to the Legislature in several months in advance of the national election. The all-important congressional election will show how much the President's popularity has changed in New York State since the Presidential election. Normally Republican because the district normally is Republican. Democratic leaders are hoping for a smashing victory, but they believe would aid the "Deal" tests at other elections throughout the nation. Republican leaders, however,

Interstellar Bandits Found

By United Press
 WASHINGTON.—Dr. P. W. Merrill of the Carnegie Institution's Mount Wilson observatory, and Sir Arthur Eddington of the University of Cambridge, are agreed that interstellar space is an excellent, but not a perfect vacuum, according to statements released by the pair. "A few lonesome atoms—one or two hundred per cubic foot—roam restlessly about attacking passing light rays and robbing them of certain favorite vibrations," Dr. Merrill observed. There are two kinds of known interstellar "bandits," calcium atoms and sodium atoms; the former steal violet light and the latter yellow light. Although their demands are not heavy, the effect of the petty thefts is so cumulative that in the spectra of certain distant stars the losses appear plainly visible as dark lines. A most interesting fact is that the intensities of these interstellar lines are used as measures of the distance of the stars in whose spectra they appear. Sir Arthur, in corroborating Dr. Merrill's observations, added that the most tenuous region in space is that where the sphere of one nebula sheds off into that of another. However, there is always some residual density to the extent of about one atom for every cubic inch.

Pick and Shovel Men Find Indian Fossil Bonanza

By ALFRED BERTHINET
 NEW YORK.—Paleontologists and geologists, those historians of the pick and shovel, have discovered a fossil bonanza in the central provinces of India. Neither the Gobi Desert, nor Wyoming, have any monopoly on dinosaurs, for according to the general report of the Geological Survey of India, Dr. C. A. Matley in charge of the Percy Sladen Trust Expedition has unearthed two broken ribs of a dinosaur and a portion of a scapula of antitrosaurus, another type of dinosaur. Both of these 20,000,000-year-old finds were obtained at Bara Simla, near Jubbulpore. In the Ghandra District near the village of Pjindra, Dr. Matley has secured many fossilized remains of reptiles hundreds of thousands of years old. These consisted of several fragments of dinosaurs' jaws, 85 vertebral centra, a number of ribs and broken limb bones. Giraffes do not live in India today, but the fossil evidence dug up by the scientists indicates that thousands of years ago they were to be seen here. The skull of one of the most perfectly preserved of our types of fossil giraffes, has been removed from the rock matrix, cleaned and has been developed, resulting in greater anatomical detail. A number of new species of gastropods from the limestone beds of Quilon, Travancore State, have been collected. In northwest Baluchistan, Captain Bomford discovered fossil corals, and in Jahalpur fossil remains of fern-fronds were found, the latter proved to

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

CHAPTER I
 "No, I'm not going with you and you know you don't mind." Jane very slyly and pink and delectable, hung over the banister at the top of the stairs and threw the words down at her waiting aunt. "They invited you and you accepted. What will I say?" Miss Terry offered this question slyly, mean while fitting new white gloves on her plump white hands. "Say I've got lots of pleasant things to do than go to their old dump." "What, for instance?" "Well Mrs. March that I'm right in the middle of 'Ann Veronica' and can't bear to stop. She won't let Louise read it." "I'm to tell Mrs. March that although you said you'd come to her you are reading a book she disapproves of and couldn't bear to stop." "I don't care what you tell Mrs. March," Jane said angrily. "She's an old cat, and I won't go there to be looked at the way she looks at me and then picked over afterward. Who is she to make the rules for the young people of this town anyway? If she'd keep her nose to her own business Louise should have plenty to do instead of watching the rest of us." "You're peevish because she told you you went off with Henry Beryn at that last beach picnic and stayed from nine to eleven-thirty and were part of the chaperones when they spoke to you about it. It was silly. You knew perfectly well you'd be talked about." "I don't care if I am. I don't care what anybody says about me in this dump." "If you don't care what people say about you, Jane, you can be very sure that people won't care what you say. And in a little city like Marburg where social circles are small and intimate everybody's always under observation. It can't be helped. The only places where you can do conspicuous things and not be conspicuous are desert islands or big cosmopolitan cities." "You've said that before." "I'll probably say it again. Don't think that I mind if you talk to Henry Beryn for two hours and a half steadily, though it must have been a chore. He's such a funny boy. I know perfectly well you wouldn't have done it except you thought it would shock and bother the chaperones. You're too smart to enjoy being with Henry but you're not smart enough to see what a losing game it is to do something you don't enjoy for the sake of appearing odd and different and making people notice you and disapprove of you. It's just a form of vanity, my dear." With the last word Miss Rosa opened the front door and was on the other side of it before an answer could catch her. Jane came dashing furiously downstairs but Miss Rosa had walked fast and as she reached the pavement she was fortunate enough to meet two ladies whom she knew also dressed up and on their way to the March tea, so she proceeded on with them, triumphant, having managed to read Jane a lecture on the beach affair and escape without a scene. Miss Rosa Terry detested scenes, just as she detested a hard bed, a badly cooked dinner, a poor partner at whist, and scratches on her furniture; but in the 15 years since she had taken her brother's orphaned daughter to live with her—Jane was then a lovely, dimpled, willful five-year-old—she had never, not once, tried to correct or admonish Jane without drama. Through the old-fashioned ruby glass side panel of the door Jane watched Miss Rosa out of sight angrily. "Old people are horrible," she thought confusedly. "They don't want anybody young to be happy." She had expected that her aunt would urge her to go to the tea and really she wanted to go and show off her new organdy, a startling black and scarlet which she'd insisted on having though Miss Rosa and the dressmaker had begged her to choose either pale yellow or Nile green. Of course she could skip into the dress and appear late at the March's but then Aunt Rosa would say, "Oh, I knew you'd come," and that would be unbearable. She picked up her book and read on with a sense of being tantalized and cheated, not only at the March tea but about her whole life. Marburg wasn't even a county seat, just a nice old sprawling college town with a few factories at the west end to give a faint flavor of commerce. And Marburg College was just a nice old sprawling college with only one claim to distinction, that great biologist Professor Benjamin Eliert, whose name and work were known where
