None of the 500,000 who watched the running of English Derby at Epsom Downs got a bigger thrill than the two New Yorkers shown here. Miss Alma Many (top), a former Follies girl, won $152,000 on Windsor Lad, the winner. Fred Krakenberg, mail carrier, is shown (below) as he announced that before the race he had sold for $50,000 his ticket on Colombo. That's just the sum he would have won anyhow when Colombo finished third.

NO CUSTOMERS OF LONE STAR TO BE ON JURY

By United Press
AUSTIN, June 9.—No patron of Lone Star Gas company will be on the jury to be selected here Monday to determine if the natural gas rate must be reduced.

The jury will be struck from a regular civil panel in District Judge Charles Wheeler's court. Two thirds of the panel are from rural communities without gas service. Others reside in Austin, which is not served by the Lone Star company.

Approximately 700,000 persons who are supplied with gas through 200,000 meter connections in other parts of Texas will be affected by the decision of Travis county jurors.

The specific matter jurors will decide is whether a reduction from 40 cents to 32 cents a thousand cubic feet should be made in the price the company charges for delivery of natural gas from its pipe lines at city and town limits.

If the state wins the contention that the lower rate is fair, it still will be necessary to determine reasonable distribution charges levied against consumers within patron towns.

BLAST IN NITROGLYCERIN TRUCK BLOWS BODIES OF SEVEN TO BITS

Their bodies blown to bits and scattered 300 yards across a field, seven men died near Norman, Okla., in a terrific explosion in their nitro-glycerin loaded truck, the shattered wreck of which is shown here. The blast occurred in a storm and its cause may never be known, one theory being that it was struck by lightning and another being that contents of the truck were touched off when the machine struck a bump in the road. The victims were members of an oil exploring party.

GOV. McNUTT DISAPPROVES OF THE IDEA

Says There Will Be No Dickering With Criminals

By United Press
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 9.—A proposal to have John Dillinger surrender in exchange for a "square deal" was disapproved today by Gov. Paul V. McNutt.

The governor said the proposal had not been suggested to him but added: "There will be no dickering with criminals."

Negotiations for the surrender of Dillinger, however, received another setback through outside interference, Al G. Feeney, director of the state safety department, revealed.

At the same time Feeney said it was he, instead of federal agents, who had communicated with the outlaw's father, John W. Dillinger, Mooresville farmer, for the surrender.

Feeney communicated with the elder Dillinger several days ago, promising a "square deal" for the desperado if the surrender could be arranged.

"Negotiations were progressing until an outsider talked with Mr. Dillinger and frightened him," Feeney said.

BUYING POWER STILL NEEDED FOR RECOVERY

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 9.—Need for increased public buying power to stimulate further business gains was reported today by the American Federation of Labor as the Department of Commerce noted "some" irregularity in business.

The labor federation in its survey said production this spring again outstripped the buying power, but not as much as a year ago when an abortive rise in business collapsed in July.

The commerce department in its survey of current business reported that despite a further rise in April in employment and payrolls the manufacturing expansion was checked during May.

The federation survey reported that business observers "generally" feel a decline slightly more than seasonal may be expected and that it will last until late summer.

Oil Districts Change Orders Been Rescinded

CISCO, June 9.—An executive order which was issued as of May 1, requiring certain administrative changes in the Abilene and Eastland conservation districts of the oil and gas division of the state railroad commission has been rescinded, and the organization and personnel of these districts have reverted to the status of prior to that date.

The announcement was made by W. J. Carden, of the Abilene district I. J. Killough of the Eastland district, and Luther Belew of Eastland. These three are deputy oil and gas supervisors.

The rescinded order, they said, affected other conservation and proration districts of the state, also. It never went into effect, however.

Oil operators, they announced, will therefore send to Mr. Carden at Abilene such papers as relate to conservation phases of the oil and gas administration in the Abilene district and to Mr. Killough at Eastland such papers as relate to conservation regulations in the Eastland area.

Eighteen Men Have Strike Situation Up For Approval

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 9.—Eighteen men, their hands calloused, their tempers fired by hot blasts of steel furnaces, today held the answer to war or peace in the steel industry.

Association in the 18, representing the more warlike factions of the Amalgamated Steel, Iron and Tin Workers, can bring peace by accepting a neutral, three man arbitration board to adjust grievances which have brought threats of a bloody strike.

The iron and steel institute, representing the mills, has accepted the plan.

M. F. Tighe, president of the Amalgamated, is believed ready to give his consent.

Ringold's Name To Be On County Democratic Ticket

E. A. Ringold of Ranger, who filed as a candidate for representative from the 706th district with Democratic County Chairman Earl Conner Jr., after June 4, was with his legal rights and his name will be included on the democratic ballot, according to County Chairman Conner.

Conner stated, however, that since there was some protests being made that Ringold filed too late, he was asking the state democratic executive committee for a ruling on the matter and that possibly it would be taken to the attorney general's department for a ruling.

By United Press
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 9.—Sterilization of habitual criminals and congenital mental patients, under a well regulated system, was approved today by Gov. J. M. Fretwell and it appeared that Arkansas would become the next state to enact the law.

With the governor's sanction a movement toward enactment of a sterilization law gained new ground.

It is possible, it was said, the question would be introduced in the January legislature.

PASSING OF FREDERIC TAYLOR CONNERLY

Frederic Taylor Connerly has passed on to his reward. He was the clerk of the supreme court of Texas for many years. Indeed, he had served since 1888. He had as wide a list of acquaintances as any citizen of Texas. He was known to thousands of lawyers, who are living or dead. He knew all the public men in the life of the southwest for decades. He was prominent in various avenues of endeavor, speaking of the social and political and fraternal life of the Friendly City. He was one of the noted sportsmen of the Southwest. He was a hunter, a fisherman, a golfer and a crack shot. This fame as a sportsman was nation-wide in days gone by. He knew the history of Texas as well as the biographies of its earliest and greatest sons—all down the line. He was popular, he was lovable, he was patriotic and he was ever a man of his word.

Born in Alabama, Connerly was brought to Texas by his parents at the age of 14. He was educated in Texas. His active life was spent in Texas. His achievements were registered in Texas. He was only 19 when he received his first job in the office of clerk of the supreme court and when the messenger of death called him he had served 46 years of continuous service in that office under the big dome of the Texas capitol. His family will mourn him; his friends will mourn him; the bar of the state will mourn him; his associates will mourn him for the very good reason that when he closed his eyes the soul of a real man with the human touch has crossed the borderline to his maker in that world invisible.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

JOHN GARLAND POLLARD Says: "Success in government depends largely on the selection of officials with the will and ability to perform great tasks."

"Government is not automatic. "It must be run by human beings. "Its plan may be perfect but if administered by the inefficient men, it will fail. "Good government, therefore, is largely a matter of personnel. "It is well that we should be giving our attention to improving the mechanism of our government, but all our work will come to naught unless efficient men are chosen for office. "The government will never be any more efficient than the men who administer it."

Scrubbing Boards Best Dirt Removers

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — The old fashioned scrubbing board still sends the whitest shirts to the clothes line in the back yard. Penn State co-ed found in the study of home economics. Ironically, the result of the investigation was reported by Dr. Pauline Berry Black at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Laundryowners association. The scrubbing board method took out 77 per cent of the dirt in shirts, it was found, but the texture of the cloth suffered severely, its strength being reduced 27.8 per cent in 50 washings. Each shirt was scrubbed 50 times, 15 minutes each time, to reach the average for dirt removed.

A CHALLENGE TO CHASTAIN

Sweetwater, Texas, June 8, 1936. Mr. Oscar Chastain, Eastland, Texas. Dear Sir: Just above your picture, you head your campaign folder "If It's Knowledge You Want" followed by "Read What the Friends of Chastain Think." Then without quotation marks you print what purports to be an endorsement of you, praising your great knowledge, but not one name is signed to it, yet you assert that it was signed by 1,000 citizens of Eastland county.

I challenge your assertion. I demand that you produce the names and addresses. A reliable Cisco citizen asserts that you had this purported endorsement circulated in Cisco and could get only a few signers. I understand that you have a daily newspaper in Eastland, and I now challenge you to publish in it the names and addresses of the 1,000 Eastland county voters who claim signed your said endorsement. I contend that you haven't got them. I am sending a copy of this to your newspaper during it to print same as an open challenge to you.

You brag about practicing law some, and teaching school some, and being in the legislature some, and that you have taught in Bryan, Stephenville, Thurber, Merkel, and Stamford. Don't these frequent changes indicate that you couldn't make good. I challenge you to tell why you had to change schools so often, and why you have not been able to over us voters a single thing that Elanton has not already done for us.

Very truly, J. H. FREEZE.

WEDDING AND GOLDEN WEDDING By United Press ALTOONA, Pa.—Two couples, married in a double ceremony here in 1884, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary together. Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Mathieu and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heinzman were married at a double ceremony in St. Mark's Catholic Church on May 13, 1884. Mrs. Mathieu and Mr. Heinzman are sister and brother. They were born in Baden, Germany, and came to this country in childhood.

BUSY DAY FOR PREXY GREENCASTLE, Ind.—June 11 will be a busy day for Dr. G. Bromley Oxman, president of De Pauw university. After presiding at De Pauw's commencement exercises at 10 a. m., Dr. Oxman will take a plane for Columbus, O., where he will deliver the graduation address at Ohio State university at 5 o'clock.

A student sued his college for wasting his time, but he lost. Good thing, or he would have been encouraged to sue his parents next.

Perhaps the closest parallel between the ideas of Margaret Sullivan and those of the heroine in "Little Man, What Now?" is found in their attitude toward love and marriage. She never fails her husband. Throughout the book and the picture, the romance between Lammechen and Pinneberg, her husband, is distinguished by its faith, tenderness and beauty.

HER INDEPENDENT SELF IN "LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?"

Margaret Sullivan received a shock when she examined a script of "Little Man, What Now?" the picture playing Saturday night and Monday and Tuesday at the Lyric theatre, which marks her first appearance on the screen since her sensational debut in "Only Yesterday." The script called for her to play the role of a girl whose ideas coincided with her career on Broadway and in Hollywood, was a role which fitted her almost too well. It was actually self-revealing.

This role which Margaret Sullivan found so true to her own feelings is that of the immortal "Lammchen" in Hans Fallada's best selling novel, "Little Man, What Now?" Carl Laemmle Jr. gave her the role because he felt it offered sufficient depth for her unusual talents. But even he did not realize what it meant to her in a personal way.

Lammchen, as those who read "Little Man, What Now?" will remember, is a young girl of today struggling valiantly to overcome the handicaps imposed upon her by the economic depression. She and her young husband, portrayed on the screen by Douglas Montgomery, represent the modern couple, in that they have barely enough money to live on, have a child to care for and meet one disaster after another. Their future looks hopeless.

Together, however, they contrive to find happiness. Lammchen retains her independence and sense of humor. She will never give in or admit defeat. Head up, always, she meets each problem with the same unflinching courage and eventually succeeds in finding a hopeful solution, as many women in real life are doing today.

The way she looks at life is the way Margaret Sullivan does. Independence, courage, keen humor are qualities which the actress believes are necessary to happiness and the attainment of any desired goal. They have brought results in her own career. On the three occasions when she defied the objections of her family and ran away from her home in Norfolk, Va., to go on the stage; during the three seasons of rigorous training with a stock company at Cape Cod; and on through her conquest of Broadway and Hollywood, she has exhibited a spirit which would "never say die." As a matter of fact she comes from fighting stock; her grandfathers were officers in the Confederate army, and her earlier forefathers were among the first settlers of Virginia, who pioneered their way through hardships. She has the same spirit.

She never fails her husband. Throughout the book and the picture, the romance between Lammechen and Pinneberg, her husband, is distinguished by its faith, tenderness and beauty.

CAGNEY CAST WITH BETTE DAVIS FIRST TIME IN SAME FILM

James Cagney and Bette Davis head an exceptionally talented cast in the Warner Bros. picture, "Jimmy the Gent," which comes to the Lyric theatre on Sunday. This is the first time in which the fiery, red-headed Jimmy and the tall, willowy and blonde Bette have played opposite each other as screen lovers.

It is notable that Jimmy, while he is plenty rough with other members of the cast, never once lays his hands on Bette. It is she who does the socking in the picture, Jimmy being on the receiving end of two smart blows to the jaw, planted just as hard as Bette's tiny fist can plant them.

Cagney's more recent pictures include "Lady Killer," "Footlight Parade" and "The Mayor of Hell." Bette at the same time was appearing in "Fashions of 1934" and "Ex-Lady."

Alice White, who appeared with Cagney in "Picture Snatcher," in which she is the recipient of a knock-out punch, is another member of the cast of "Jimmy the Gent," but this time she escapes any mauling. Together with Allen Jenkins, her sweetheart, she supplies no end of "mushy" comedy.

Others in important roles include such well known players as Arthur Hohl, Alan Dinehart, Philip Reed, Hobart Cavanaugh, Mayo Methot, Rufe Hawড়ে, Philip Faversham and Nora Lane. The picture is a lively comedy romance based on the story by Laird Doyle and Ray Nazarro, and reveals a strange racket in which money heirs are dug up to collect large estates left unclaimed.
