WILLIAM L. CLAYTON AS A "PROPHET William L Clay OF DISASTER" William L. Clayton of Houston is rated as one of the world's largest cotton factors. He has broadcast an article world's largest cotton factors. He has broadcast an article on "our national cotton policy" in which he discusses the on our national cotton policy in which he discusses the various governmental schemes being tried to raise the parity price in cotton. He has sounded the warning (running true to form) that these governmental plans "a likely to bring disaster rather than improvement in the condition of the cotton growers of the South." He submits his facts and figures. There are 51 cotton producing countries. Forty per cent of the world's cotton acreage is under American skies, and the remaining 60 per cent is har-- ested by the other 50 cotton growing nations. The United States exports about 60 per cent of its production, "but this 60 per cent comprises only about 40 per cent of the consumption of cotton outside of the United States." Hence he argues that the price of cotton is fixed on the basis of supply and demand in the world markets and cannot be he tells of "the real troubles" facing the cotton industry, speaking of the producers as well as the exporters, "Blocked channels of trade, caused by tariffs, war debts, untstable ed channels of trade, caused by tariffs, war debts, unstabte currency and quotas are responsible for the plight of the cotton farmer. The situation can only be put right by clearing away the barriers which now stand squarely in the cotton growers' road to markets."
Of course, the plain English of this is that the ports of the world are closed to American cotton. Mr. Clayton is an exporter, as has been stated and one of the largest in America. He would tear down tariff barriers. He would give the cotton farmer the benefit of the domestic allotment plan as provided in the agricultural adjustment act
"free of any condition of acreage reduction," and it is viewpoint "this would give the farmer parity prices for the domestically consumed portion of his crop and leav the domestically consumed portion of his crop and leave him to follow his own inclination in the matter of producing cotton for export at the world price." His conclusion is, speaking of foreign marketing of the fleecy staple, "It cannot be sold for export at anything over the world price
.. All experience should teach us that we can only hold our export market on a basis of quality and service and product." All of which is a reminder that the marketable crop of American cotton of the yield of the year of 1934 is limitof American cotton of the yield of the year of 1934 is limited to $10,000,000$ bales with a possible carryover of 12 ,bles. There is no foreign market today for his large su plus or carryover. He furnishes the land, the seed, the labor, and does the sweating. A bumper crop of cotto makes his pockets lean. A lean crop of cotton makes his the tariff laws. They are the real beneficiaries. Cotton states by the toiling hands of women and children.

It is strange that a newspaper man should be compelled to solicit advertising. It is stranger still that he should have to offer any reason why a business should be advertised. The business man who thinks newspaper advertising does not pay needs the services of a brain specialist and needs him right now.
