STATE CHANGE IN PETITION IS RECEIVED

Amended Petition Accepted and Lone Star Has Time For An Answer.

AUSTIN, May 25.—Texas railroad commissions effort to force a reduction in natural gas charges in North Texas was back in court today after being on the ropes yesterday.

District Judge Charles Wheeler held today that an amended state pleading removed objections he found valid yesterday.

A request for dismissal on that ground was therefore overruled.

The Lone Star Gas company was given until Wednesday to make changes in its answer, which attorneys said would be necessary because of changes in the state pleadings.

After hearing further argument Wednesday on pleas in abatement and other objections to the suit, Judge Wheeler will set the trial on the facts for June 4, if he finds the state has a cause for action, he informed the lawyers.

Attorneys differ about the status. First Assistant Attorney General Albert Hooper said that the state amendment only made clear is original intention to regulate intrastate business.

Hooper said the state still contends that use of a small percentage of Oklahoma gas in Texas does not make the business interstate, and so beyond state control.

The Rev. F. D. O'Brien and the Rev. H. N. Baldere, of Colorado city, and the Rev. O. T. Hunt, of Olden, conducted the services.

Mr. Hart was born in Georgia, April 28, 1860, and came to Texas with his parents while a small boy, settling at Bastrop. He was first married to Miss Katy Brown, of Lampasas, Texas, and settled in Bell county where the family lived until moving to Eastland county in 1898.

Several years after the death of his first wife on Jan. 14, 1908, he was married to Mrs. Allie Gardner of Eastland county. No children were born to them, but three of Mrs. Hart's children by a previous marriage survive with her.

Since moving to Cisco to make his home, Mr. Hart had continued in active charge of his farm, directing its operation year by year. He had been engaged upon a threshing in preparation for harvesting grain before death occurred.

Surviving children are Mrs. Mary Norris of Mexico; Sam G. Hart, near Cisco; John S. Hart, Eastland; Miss Rosa Hart, Cisco; James A. Hart, Staff; L. N. Hart, Jr., Cisco; Mrs. Alma Matthews, near Eastland; Mrs. Katy Thompson, San Angelo; Gus Hart, Cisco, and Josh Hart, Cisco. The two children who died were Tom C. Hart, who died in 1920, and Mrs. Bessie Matthews, who died in 1918.

Children of Mrs. Hart who survive are Clayton and Willie Gardner, near Anson, and Mrs. E. N. Greer, Cisco.

A large number of grandchildren also survive.

A large crowd attended the funeral and the floral offering was unusually large and beautiful.

RURAL FAMILIES ON FEDERAL RELIEF ROLL

According to the high aces of relief distribution out of the 50,000 rural families on Texas relief rolls some 20,000 are without a cow. The Texas relief commission is said to be moving to make cows available to them but a large per cent, probably 10,000 families, are without land on which to pasture a cow or to raise feed for a cow.

Away back in the days of prosperity, in war time and then in the great gambling era that followed in the wake of the war, there were thousands of Texas families in rural districts without cows, without swine, without chickens or poultry of any breed. Money was plentiful. There was land for all. In those flush times Cullen F. Thomas was preaching the gospel of giving "manless land to landless men."

According to Harry Hopkins' figures, "there are around 600,000 farm families on the relief roll of the nation." This is his viewpoint: "I don't believe that these 600,000 families are going to acquire an independent economy merely by the work on the land. I believe that along with that there has got to be an opportunity to earn cash incomes and that means planned public works."

Close contact with the folks at home seems to have had quite an effect on some of our lawmakers. In fact, this contact seems to have tamed some of our most ferocious politicians, especially those who voted for the Economy bill. American people will stand for a lot of things, but not long for any neglect or abuse of their disabled war veterans.

It is said that New York was made the greatest city in America because men dug the Erie Canal, and not because it happened to be located at the mouth of the Hudson river.

weekly Sunday School Lesson

THE LAST JUDGMENT

Text: Matt. 25:31-46
 The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 27

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance

JUDGMENT is a great word and a great idea in the Old and New Testaments. It is what marks the greatness of both Old Testament religion and New Testament religion; for there can be no greatness of religion where there are not high and exacting standards.

The failure to understand that sometimes has led to slackness, to the promulgation of religions that have not required much from those who believed in them and followed them.

Sometimes the exactions of religion have been so formal and have had so little to do with moral or spiritual reality that there has been a strong reaction, and from being apparently too strict people have come to make a sort of religion of lack of strictness.

The late Dr. George A. Gordon of Old South Church in Boston, once preached a great sermon on judgment, in which he represented judgment as the supreme thing in the life of an earnest and honest man, the one great goal toward which he was moving.

SURELY this is true in every sphere of honest life and labor. The artist does not wish to produce something cheap or worthless. He values judgment upon his work and he is anxious to satisfy the critics who know. The honest workman wants his work to stand the test. He does not resent the discovery of some flaw, because he wants to make his work perfect.

What was the idea that Jesus had of judgment? He thought it was inevitable for man, and he pictured all life as moving toward the great last judgment. We do not know how much the portrayal in our lesson is symbolic, but at any rate it is symbolic of a real fact.

It is not surprising that men should fear judgment, as much as they seek it. They want judgment to be fair and reasonable. They do not want to be in the hands of some arbitrary judge who will be swayed by prejudice or by hate.

JESUS taught that we are to be judged by a God of love, who understands all that enters into the judgment. Yet he indicated that this judgment would be stern, if it was also loving.

It would reveal all sham and pretense in life. It was a judgment in which little deeds of kindness and gentle words would outweigh all profession of righteousness where there had been no sincerity of kindness in act or word.

So we have this striking portrayal of some of those who progressed the most being turned away in spite of their claims, while those who had given a cup of cold water, in the name of Jesus, to a thirsty woman were approved by Christ, though they felt their own unworthiness.

The teaching of the lesson is so clear and plain that words can add hardly anything to the reality of Christ's great picture. All life moves toward the judgments of an exacting, but a just, righteous, and loving God.

Multitude of Problems Is Bothering Citizens of Sunflower State

Editor's Note: Some rather unusual things are happening in Kansas where sunflowers grow and prohibition has flourished for half a century. Some of the travails of this commonwealth are sketched in the following article.

TOPEKA, Kan.—Kansas, whose neighbor states are inclined to raise their eyebrows, and wink knowingly at her traditional morality, is getting restless again.

A multitude of problems seem to be bothering Kansas. Citizens of the Sunflower state are asking themselves whether their stern commonwealth is about to cast aside the veil of sobriety and go in for a fling at gambling, drinking, nudism, free spending and experiment.

Nudist colonies are reported springing up on sun-baked prairies. A state senator who tossed his 10-gallon hat into the gubernatorial ring, has urged that Kansas repeal its 52-year-old bonedry law this fall. The state's legislative council considered a state lottery.

One of her young men perpetrated a $1,500,000 forged bond fraud with a resultant scandal that brought two high state officials before a senate impeachment court—the first since 1892. They were acquitted but the young Kansas Ponzi, Ronald Finney, faces 600 years in prison.

Club women are forsaking bridge for old-fashioned stud poker. All of this, compounded with common problems of depression, recovery and the new deal, has given Kansas food for thought. No prophet, however, predicts what form the mass expression will take. No "sockless" Jerry Simpson, son of the populace, uprising four decades ago, and no Carrie Nation of hatchet and barroom fame, has appeared.

Some state leaders believe nothing of importance will come of this "crisis." Justice William A. Smith of the state supreme court and Frank J. Ryan, secretary of state, hold this view.

"It is all a momentary hysteria," Justice Smith said. "Of course, propaganda has some effect but it's rather like the middle-aged woman we all have known, having ridged her children and been a model wife and mother, suddenly started meeting the piano tuner and now is around the corner. But in most cases she stopped it almost as soon as she started."

William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, who finds most perplexing the economic application of the new deal in Kansas, observes: "When Kansas gets her full quota of corn-bog money and adds to that a bonus for cattle we will horn out Texas (No. 1 recipient of government benefits) and stand out as the bright and shining leader of the whole galaxy of American states. So Kansas will be hand-out queen of the union. Certainly we are getting our Wall Street money."

"Maybe this good business we are experiencing here and now is started coming out of the top of cases she stopped it almost as soon as she started. Possibly it as she started and was even more virtuous in her conduct. "That's what will happen in Kansas. She always has paddled her own canoe and I believe she will continue doing so." Leslie Wallace, editor of the Larned Tiller and Toiler and "Sage of Western Kansas," would like to use spurs and seek what happens. He analyzed the state of mind of his fellow-Kansans and concluded this was not the time for him to run for governor but he hopes the impending battle over repeal will be a real scrap. "I would want to tell the truth about the wet and dry issue," Wallace explained. "But I do not believe that in Kansas we are ready for frankness in politics, which is another way of saying that we are not ready to be honest. We still prefer to stick our heads in the sand and pretend that things do not exist. We still like to believe in fairy tales."

"Most other countries and states know that prohibition is not the solution to liquor problems, but we haven't found it out. In this respect we are the most backward of states. Only Tennessee surpasses us. We lose needed revenues, we multiply lawbreakers, we teach our children that hypocrisy is respectable and desirable. "This is so eternally true that those of us who have lived in Kansas more than 25 years shudder at the thought of expressing our sentiment, even though we prevail in our neck and call the coldest logic, the iciest reason. I have been schooled in the theory that we in Kansas are different from people given in most states and that in our state black is white, and, as I say, this form the mass expression will take. No "sockless" Jerry Simpson, son of the populace, uprising four decades ago, and no Carrie Nation of hatchet and barroom fame, has appeared.

Some state leaders believe nothing of importance will come of this "crisis." Justice William A. Smith of the state supreme court and Frank J. Ryan, secretary of state, hold this view.

is water from the well-pring of commerce, from the bottom of the pump. But prosperity is trickling out of the spout—whether from the pitcher or the well, Heaven knows! But here she is!"

Lafayette's Chateau Is Open to Public

PARIS.—The Chateau in which the Marquis de Lafayette lived from 1830 to 1834 now is open to the public. It is the Chateau of La Grange Bloncau.

Arrangements have just been made by the Historical Home Association with the Count Louis de Lasterie, former Minister of Finance, and now the owner and resident of the chateau.

Dark ivy covers a group of massive 14th Century towers, while the moat surrounding the castle gives it an impressive feudal aspect.

Lafayette's study still stands as when he used it. His writing table and his card table are both there. The chateau also contains many paintings of the hero, including a portrait by Ary Scheffer, and a bust by David d'Angers.

Pastor Outlines Tests For Long Marriages

EUGENE, Ore.—Successful marriage must meet five tests, Rev. Bryant Wilson, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, believes.

These tests are: 1—Love; 2—Adjustment; 3—Wise economic planning; 4—The giving of well trained children to society; 5—Faith toward God. "The Christian conception of marriage love is embodied in the fifth chapter of Ephesians," according to Dr. Wilson.

DESIGN NEW THREE-LIGHT BULB

CLEVELAND, O.—A new "three-light" bulb, designed to give three levels of illumination through filaments of different wattages, has been perfected by the incandescent lamp department of the General Electric company, here. In appearance, the bulb differs little from an ordinary 100-watt except that it is larger in diameter and uses what is known in the trade as a three-contact mogul screw base, which is larger than the ordinary base.

SPORTS FAN IN BED 20 YEARS

WILKES BARRE, Pa.—Although illness has forced him to remain in bed for the past 20 years, Danny Conwell was recently elected as an honorary member of the North End Athletic association of this city. Despite his handicap, Conwell follows all sports activities with interest.

Gelbert Hopeful For Ball Career

ST. LOUIS.—Remember Charley Gelbert?

That sensational young shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals whose baseball career was blasted in the fall of 1932 when he shot himself through the leg in a hunting accident?

Just go out to Sportsman's Park sometime about an hour before the game when the second stringers are warming up and you'll see him. You won't find it easy to recognize Gelbert by his fielding, for he lets the fast ones go by. But when he scoops the ball up and rifles it to first with that familiar whip motion, you can't mistake him, that is if you ever saw Charley snap a ball to first.

A six-inch open wound in Gelbert's left leg is protected by a metal guard. It never troubles him, Charley says, or causes him any pain except a slight soreness in the bottom of the foot after a workout. And he believes moderate exercise will eliminate this.

Gelbert spent nine-weeks in a Philadelphia hospital after his accident which occurred in the Pennsylvania woods, during which time several operations were performed on his leg. He looks at his injury in a philosophical light rather than the morbid one that his playing days were cut short just when he seemed on the verge of a great career.

"If that shot had gone into the heel, I might be hobbling on one leg today," he said. "I'm lucky to have a foot."

Charley will not say that he's through. In fact the word is not mentioned in his presence. He is out there fighting to obtain the full use of the injured member with hopeful eyes on the future.

His spirits would touch bottom, Gelbert said, when last summer he would go on his crutches to the Cardinals camp at Philadelphia. "I'd get low and stay that way for two weeks after the boys had gone," he said.

If the great powers stop the shipment of munitions to fighting Paraguay and Bolivia, they'll have so much more to use among themselves, see?

Young Bridegroom Studies Arithmetic

By United Press BELGRADE.—Europe's youngest married couple are Mustafa Bashitch, 11, and Brisha Kasapovich, 17, of Bosnia.

Although a full fledged husband, the young bridegroom has to go to school every day and his bride helps him with his lessons. He is in the third grade.

Early engagements are no rarity in Banovich, which is a Moslem community. The above couple, however, break all records. In the village of Rasnu recently a young couple 13 and 12, respectively, became engaged. Both were in the same class at school. The bride-to-be's father, however, decided that the marriage should be postponed until they both finished their schooling and the groom-to-be had become apprenticed to a carpet-weaver.

PAUL MUNI COMING TO LYRIC THEATRE IN HIS FIRST SCREEN COMEDY

"A newspaper story that's different. That is the report preceding the Warner Bros. production, "Hi, Nellie!" starring Paul Muni, which comes to the Lyric theatre next Sunday.

One of the "different" features of "Hi, Nellie!" is its star. No previous film with a city room background has featured a player of the theatrical importance, both on stage and screen, of Muni.

For Muni himself, "Hi, Nellie!" is a departure, too. Following the powerfully dramatic but somber characterizations he has contributed to the screen in "I Am a Fugitive," "Scarface," and "The World Changes," his role in this fast-moving, lightly handled and breezy story is said to represent an amazing contrast.

For the first time in his motion picture career, the star essays comedy, in a fast action picture that combines thrills and hilarious laughter. As the hard-hitting managing editor of a big New York daily, he finds himself suddenly in the "dog house." He has failed to handle a sensational story as his publisher commands. The "dog house" in this instance is the "Heart Throbs" column of the paper. He has to turn out daily reams of "lovelorn" copy—and the cruellest cut of all is his by-line: "Nellie Nelson."

But this case newspaperman holds his creed. While he writes balm for broken hearts, he still keeps working of the hard-boiled reporter whose low that is, on his theory of the story—which has to do with the sensational disappearance of a public figure. His solution of the case and his restoration to the publishers' esteem provide the swift and dramatic climax.

Glenda Farrell, in her first assignment as a straight leading woman on the screen, is seen opposite the star. She plays a girl reporter whose long feud with the ace newspaperman ends in romance. Other well known players in the past are Ned Sparks, playing a "dead pan" reporter; Donald Meek, as a 50-year-old office boy; Edward Ellis, Kathryn Sergava, Bertone Churchill, Dorothy LeBaire, Douglas Dumbrille, Robert Bryant, Hobart Cavanaugh and George Meeker.

Saves His Cash From Dillinger

Kirk Roland, cigar store owner, above, showed rare presence of mind when bandits, believed to be the Dillinger gang, robbed a Flint, Mich., bank of $25,000 and fled. Roland, cashing checks, shoved the money back to a teller when the outlaws entered, then lay on the floor, his checks safe, as the bandit leader stood on his ankles. Roland was positive the leader was Dillinger.

Kids Together At the Circus

Huge Metal Ball To Carry Couple Into Stratosphere

MIDLAND, Mich.—A metal ball in which two army balloonists will set up stratospheric lighthouse keeping nearly 15 miles above the earth, is nearing completion here.

The silvery, Dowmetal sphere being made from brine here will be the home of Major William E. Kepner and Captain Albert W. Stevens, while they study conditions and collect scientific data on their stratospheric jaunt this summer.

The air-tight ball will be the control cabin, pilot house and airborne laboratory for the expedition, sponsored by the National Geographic Society, U. S. Army Air Corps, and will be lifted by the world's largest free balloon.

The alloy used in building the gondola is 95 per cent pure magnesium. Aluminum is half again as heavy, and steel is nearly four and a half times as heavy.

The gondola is a huge hollow ball, eight feet, four inches in diameter. It has been built by welding together eight sections shaped like pieces of orange peel.

The shell is slightly less than three-sixteenths of an inch thick. The shell, as it stands weighs 450 pounds.

Numerous small port holes have been cut in the shell and more will be provided. Some will be covered with glass and will serve as observation windows; in some lenses of cameras will be mounted with air-tight fittings; and in others scientific instruments will be placed.

The opening in the bottom of the metal ball will be reserved for a large aerial camera which will make photographs of the earth. Shot for Ballast Another important opening will be only an inch in diameter. It will be near the bottom of the gondola and through it will pass more than three tons of lead shot—ballast that must be released in navigating the balloon.

the balloon by a sort of sling, or cradle. The bottom member of this cradle will be a broad metal hoop fitting closely against the shell. To this will be riveted ten metal bands extending upward, and also fitting close to the shell.

Well above the equator line a second hoop will circle the gondola, this time a metal tube. The bands will pass under the tube and end in loops to which will be attached ropes from the balloon.

WILL ROGERS IN "DAVID HARUM" OPENS HERE SOON Fox Film's latest release, "David Harum," starring Will Rogers, will make its appearance on the screen of the Lyric theatre on Monday. Because of the nation's friendly interest in the humorist-philosopher, letters pour into his home regularly, suggesting a particular story or theme or character for his next picture. More suggestions urging him to play "David Harum" were received than all others combined. It was virtually in response to the command of the theatre-going public that Fox Film produced this story.

Its typical American theme deals with a shrewd horse trader. Because of the coldness with which he barbers, and his uncanny method of outwitting people in business dealings, his reputation is none too good in the small town in which he lives. A young man who has come to work in the bank owned by the horse trader, learns that his employer really has a soft heart, and that his hardness is only for those who deal unfairly. The young man has fallen in love with a wealthy girl, but hesitates to propose marriage because of his poor financial standing. The horse trader, who is interested in the boy, tries to help the romance along, but gets nowhere. When the young girl comes to him and requests him to enter her horse in a forthcoming race, he advises the boy to place all his savings on the horse. The hilarious method by which the horse trader brings the horse home a winner is said to bring the film to a happy and amusing conclusion.

The large cast in support of Will Rogers displays an array of impressive names that include Louise Dresser, Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor, Stepin Fetchit, Noah Beery, Roger Imhof, Frank Melton, Charles Middleton, Sarah Padden and Lillian Stuart.

James Cruze directed from Walter Wood's screen play, which was adapted from the novel by Edward Noyes Westcott.

TRACTION COMPANY SAVED OLD ELM BRIDGEPORT, Conn.

Rather than destroy the George Washington elm tree that has stood on Old Mill green for more than a century, a local traction company laid a single track for two blocks when installing a two-way trolley line.

case, his thin, colorless face turned toward the window. Donna tiptoed across the room, bent over the old man and gently touched his forehead. It was moist and warm. She drew a deep breath of relief. His withered eyelids lifted, his blue lips parted. There was an effort and a croaking whisper issued from his throat, "Mad-die!"

"You old hedger! You're jealous because you think maybe there was some other man I cared for before I did you!" "Admitted, I've wanted to ask you but never had the nerve." "I've never asked you about any women," she said. "You didn't need to. I think every girl I ever spent half an hour with has been stuck on a pin and put under a microscope for your minute inspection. But you've told me so much about the circus and your travels but you've never mentioned a single man in whom you might have been interested."

Donna started up in the darkness. Her heart was beating furiously and there was a queer, smothering sensation in her throat that made the weight of the bed clothes unbearable. Careful not to disturb her husband, she pushed the blankets from her and slid her feet to the floor. There she stood, listening to the patter of rain on the eaves and shivering, as the wet, icy air from the open window wrapped around her lightly clad body.

What had awakened her? Of course she had been dreaming when she had thought she heard her name called and felt as though something had borne down upon her, crushing the life from her body. What a horrible dream! So vivid she was still in its grip. She found her fannel robe, slipped into it, and noiselessly crept across the floor.

"What is the matter, Honey?" he asked, sitting down beside her and taking her hands in his. "Have you been working too hard or are you sick? Or just bored?" "Bored! With you here?" "Winter is coming on," Bill said, glancing through the windows at the gray, murky sky and the trees dripping raindrops. "You remember what winter is on a farm—long nights and short days. And with Grandfather ill—I wouldn't blame you if you did feel restless."

"But I don't," she interrupted. "And even if I were restless I'm happier here than I've ever been before in my life." "Happier than when you set the crowds on their toes with thrills, and all the applause and—"

"DON'T!" She pulled her hands from his, put her arms around his neck and pulled his dark head down until her cheek rested against his. "I've worried about Grandfather, of course, and sometimes I'm tired. I'm so inefficient I do a lot of unnecessary work, but there isn't anything else, Bill. Honestly there isn't."

"You aren't sorry you married me?" "What a question! Of course I'm not sorry." She looked at him earnestly. He flushed. "Well, once in a while when you see me sitting so quiet as though your thoughts were a thousand miles away I've wondered if the pull of the circus wasn't tugging at you. I'm jealous of your old life, sweetheart. Might as well confess it."

"Bill!" she twinkled at him. "Isn't the circus you're jealous of, you old hedger?" "You're jealous because you think maybe there was some other man I cared for before I did you!" "Admitted, I've wanted to ask you but never had the nerve." "I've never asked you about any women," she said. "You didn't need to. I think every girl I ever spent half an hour with has been stuck on a pin and put under a microscope for your minute inspection. But you've told me so much about the circus and your travels but you've never mentioned a single man in whom you might have been interested."

SUDDENLY, Donna wondered with a spasm of fear, if it had been Grandfather Sidal's voice that had awakened her. He had not spoken for weeks, but suppose the night— She stood, hesitatingly, on the threshold of his room, gaining courage to face what might be death. Then she entered. Amos Sidal lay just as he had for so long—motionless, his snowy head scarcely less white than the pillow

Hershel Harbin is still confined to his bed from a prolonged case of pneumonia.

A LITTLE FLY TRAVELS 2 OR MORE MILES PER DAY Flies are great travelers, and it has been proved that a fly can cover as much as two miles a day in his comings and goings. Thus we realize that he is a busy carrier of germs. He is also a pest. He is passing from garbage and filth to the home and food supply. His body is covered with fuzzy hairs which pick up and hold filth and disease germs, and he comes into your home a menace to you and your family. In fact, it is well known that insect-borne diseases kill more people in this country annually than are lost through all accident and violent deaths combined. In an effort to free the home of these pests, the Rex Research corporation working through the Mellon Institute of Pittsburgh, developed Fly-Tox, which is a well known destroyer of insects in the home. A fine mist sprayed from this liquid into the air is all that is needed to eliminate flies and other insects such as mosquitoes.

ONLY THE LOT WAS LEFT By United Press FAIRFIELD, Conn. — When Santo Sciortino moved to New Brunswick, N. J., three years ago he owned a lot, house, garage and chicken coop here. Returning recently he discovered all but the lot missing, and solicited the aid of police. Investigation disclosed the dwellings had burned to the ground shortly after he left town. Sciortino paid his taxes on the property regularly while he was away and now wants a rebate.

Mrs. Jumper
 Mrs. B. M. Pangburn and Mrs. R. H. Phillips were co-hostesses to a recent daintily appointed shower, tendered Mrs. R. S. Jumper.

An afternoon of games, led by Mrs. Hilton Kuykendall, terminated in a treasure hunt, when a charming pink basket heaped with pink and blue ribboned tissue paper gifts, was found in the garden under a rose bush, the gift for the honoree.

Refreshments of ice cream, chocolate cakes and mints were served. Mmes. H. R. Breazeale, O. M. Hunt, G. W. Massegale, William Jessup, R. R. Gann, T. W. Jumper, C. T. Evans, Ted Ball, John Edward Chambers, E. R. Thomason, Owen Hamilton, Gerald Crossley, Hilton Kuykendall; Misses Mary Lou James and Ruth Pangburn, and honoree, Mrs. R. S. Jumper.

Mrs. McGlamery and Mrs. Hickman Hostesses

The charming home of Mrs. J. E. Hickman, was attractively decorated with smagrogans, nasturtiums, sweet sultan, phlox and larkspur, on Wednesday noon for the occasion of the luncheon, tendered high school seniors, who are members of senior department of Sunday school and league of the Methodist church, by Mrs. B. E. McGlamery and Mrs. Hickman, hostesses, assisted by Robert McGlamery.

chosen flowers centered the tables laid in yellow linen, and seating the guests with plates indicated by hand-made cards of miniature graduate caps.

The menu of breaded veal cutlet, new potatoes in parsley sauce, green beans, hot rolls, sweet pickles, had second course of carrot-coconut salad, and last course of purple fruit frappe and gold cake, carried the chosen colors.

Between courses a cross-word puzzle was solved and after luncheon, the guests drew a name from a number of slips of fellow guests, and made an original scrap-book depicting the main event in the life of the person whose name was drawn.

The affair was very original and attended by Misses Doris Fields, Thea Lea Roper, Ella Mae Taylor, Messrs. Marshall Coleman, Billy Doss, Fred Davenport, Hiram Childress, Wendell Seibert, Parker Brown, Tom Harrison, R. L. Perkins Jr., R. D. Mahon Jr.

Girls' Auxiliary

Mrs. S. A. Green hostess to the Girls' Auxiliary of the Baptist church, at their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon, directed their program opened by their president, Dora B. Williams, with a hymn service, led by Miss Wanda Lassater, with Miss Geraldine Terrell at piano.

Following the usual business routine, a story, "Prayer Partners," taken from the World Comrade, was pleasingly told by Miss Frances Harrell.

Miss Joa Frances Thomas was greeted as a new member, and others present were Misses Joy Coplen, Faye Taylor, Alice Mae Sue, Dora B. Williams, Wanda Lassater, Geraldine Terrell, Frances Harrell, and Mrs. Green.

Wednesday Bridge Club

Miss Bessie Marlow entertained the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge club, substituting for Mrs. Walter Green, the announced hostess.

The tables were prettily appointed in floral designs, and bouquets of sweetpeas adorned the rooms.

High score favor, a rose tinted powder book, was awarded Mrs. James Harkrider, and second high, cased playing cards, went to Miss Nell Caton.

Refreshments were served of congealed salad on lettuce, and sandwiches with lemon minted iced tea to Mmes. Weldon Graham, W. D. Cooper, R. L. Ferguson, James Harkrider, Misses Nell Caton, Agnes Odum, Edith Wood and Bessie Marlow.

Spring Flower Show and Style Revue

The Civic league opens the second and last day of the spring flower show, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, for an all-day exhibit, terminating at 10 o'clock Saturday night in a style revue.

The style show, Saturday night, under direction of Mrs. A. H. Johnson, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Dave Wolf.

Arrangements have been made for the seating of 150 patrons about the long aisles cleared for the modeling of 50 styles by 25 charming young women, to the light music provided by George Harner.

Program will open with a reading by Miss Betty Perkins; tap dance, Miss Maxine Francis.

High school male quartet, directed by Miss Wilma Beard, in selections; reading, Miss Kathleen Cottingham.

Little Mary Jo Collie will be the flower girl, scattering petals in the path of the models, and page the style announcement, to be portrayed by Miss Joan Johnson, Miss Ouida Sanderson, Miss Maifred Hale, Mrs. James Harkrider, Miss Josephine Martin, Miss Jo Woods, Miss Marguerite Wilcox, Mrs. Homer Norton, Miss Bessie Marlow, Miss Barbara Ann Arnold, Mrs. C. H. O'Brien, Miss Doris Powell, Miss Nell Caton, Miss Lucille Brogdon, Miss Marjorie Spencer, Miss Betty Perkins, Miss Jean Mitchell, Mrs. Elliott Olden, Miss Oneita Russell, Miss Faye Hock, Miss Billie Harris, Miss Ivy Lou Hinrich, who enter in above order.

Blue Bonnet Club Pleasant Meeting

Mrs. Joe Kraemer Jr. was hostess Wednesday afternoon to the Bluebonnet club, entertaining in a setting of fragrant roses for decoration, and with playing tables dressed in apple blossom appointments.

High school club favor in game, a green velvet scarf was awarded Mrs. Howard, and high score guest favor, a rose scarf went to Mrs. Hatcher.

The cut-for-all, six dainty tea coasters fell to Mrs. Blowers.

A delectable plate was served of fruit whip, cream topping, angel food cake and grape juice to Mmes. E. R. O'Rourke, Yeon Howard, Roy L. Allen, Bernie Blowers, James Watson, J. M. Beale, Carl Johnson, Guy Patterson, W. E. Brasher, Miss Ethel Fehl, and guests, Mrs. Arthur Hatcher of Plainview, and Mrs. N. C. Daugherty.

Brilliant Reception Honors Miss Vivian Brown

The assemblyroom of the community clubhouse resembled a flower garden in its dress of lovely blooms artistically arranged on consoles, and tables, with softly lighted lamps, and the house party and Thursday Afternoon club members, the assistant hostess group, in airy organdy frocks, in colors blending with the roses, so gracefully employed.

Guests were received by the hostess, Mrs. A. H. Johnson, and presented the honor guest Miss Vivian Brown of New York city.

Mrs. Johnson was charming in shell pink, and Miss Vivian Brown outstanding in delightful frock of green white and black organdy, with black patent ribbon trimming, and rose corsage.

A most charming program opened with the welcoming of the guests by Mrs. Johnson, who then introduced the prize winning students in recent piano and violin contests, in a wonderful musical program, opening with a piano solo, "Sois Bois," brilliantly played by Olivette Killough.

The magnificent Prelude, piano, Clara June Kimble. The Drago octet, Margaret Hart, Jo Earl Uttz, Alma Williamson, Clara June Kimble, violins; Jane Ferguson and Olivette Killough, pianists, in a double number, "Alia" and the swift tempo, "Tennis Players."

This group was in uniform of white organdy, with cape collars and red sashes.

Mrs. Johnson prefaced the presentation of Miss Brown with statement of having heard the honor guest in several district convention addresses in Texas, and determined to give the Thursday club and other friends a chance to hear her.

Miss Brown has a charming manner and opened her brief talk with an appreciation for the Thursday Afternoon club's work for Eastland and her pleasure in being their guest, told of her studies in the Paris and other hospitals on scholarships awarded her by two New York colleges.

Hospitals in France were described, as being far behind modern trend, with dietary cooking done in earthenware vessels; Germany's hospitals were par excellence, due to every person being taxed for hospitalization, who makes $70 or less a month, but that the doctors are starving on this account.

Vienna hospitals were wonderful and outstanding, a headquarters for the American tourist, but that the city was shot to pieces and had not recovered from the late war.

The musical program was resumed with a violin solo by Miss Margaret Hart, "Liebestraum," wonderfully interpreted and piano "Valse" by Miss Jane Ferguson, brilliant in technique.

Mrs. Johnson presented Mrs. Kenny, president of hostess club, who extended a gracious invitation for the social hour. Dainty refreshments were served of iced tea, French cakes, and delicious candies, to the large assemblage that filled the clubrooms.

Thinking Tests Given Students

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The Phi Kappa Phi Society of the University is conducting a survey to discover whether college students think.

The society hopes to learn what about. Among the questions which will be asked in the survey appear the following:

- "What do you think best for the United States—Communism, Fascism, Rooseveltism, Rugged Individualism, or Socialism?"
- "Would you rather get an 'A' in a course, but not know what it is about, or get a low mark and understand the subject?"
- "What is the cure for war?"
- "Would you send your son, if you had one, to the University of Pennsylvania?"
- "What is your favorite newspaper?"
- "Who is your favorite actress?"
- "How much income do you think you need to get married?"
- "If you were stranded on a desert island, which would you rather have, a carton of cigarettes or a set of Shakespeare?"
- "What is most important: Intellectual superiority, financial success, or marital happiness?"

SWEDISH EX-PRINCES WILL MAKE MOVIES

By United Press
 STOCKHOLM—Messrs. Lennart and Sigvard Bernadotte, former Princes of Sweden's royal house, who gave up their titles and their rights to the throne to marry commoners, will be on the payroll of a newly started film company here, known as the Nordic Film Studio. Sigvard will direct and Lennart will crank the camera.

OLD FRANC PIECE FOUND

MADISON, O.—A silver five-franc piece, minted in France in 1812 and bearing a reproduction of Napoleon's head, was found by C. F. Cheney while he was spading a garden near here. The coin appeared to have passed through many hands before it was lost.

BATH ROOM SETS STOLEN

By United Press
 WINCHESTER, Mass.—The old theory that they'll take anything that's not nailed down, was discounted here recently. Thieves, who perhaps were plumbers, stole two complete bath room sets and a kitchen range, valued at $450, from a house being constructed by Gerald Friel. They carefully disconnected the pipes and fittings so as not to injure them.

Chance For Oil Is Good In Texas

By United Press
 AUSTIN. — Three-fourths of Texas' 170,000,000 acres have possibilities of oil, according to the bureau of economic geology of the University of Texas, but striking oil still is a gamble.

After the best efforts to pick places where the oil should be, a third of the wells turn out to be "dry holes."

Drilling records have been kept by the state railroad commission since 1925. These show 26,168 dry wells and 29,712 plugged wells during that period. In the same time $1,110 permits to drill were issued.

How many of the plugged wells would have been profitable producers is not known. Since the discovery of the East Texas oil field, where oil is almost sure to be struck wherever a well is placed, the proportion of dry holes has dropped. In 1933 there were 7,757 permits to drill and only 1,834 dry holes.

A geological map showing dry holes in a territory approximately 100 by 140 miles has just completed by Keith A. Spitzer Tyler, co-operating with the University of Texas and the Geological survey. It represents five months' work.

PLAYED WHIST 23 YEARS

By United Press
 WORCESTER, Mass.—E. Wednesday night for 23 years without a single break, a group of Worcester women have met to play whist. And not once during the period, boasts Mrs. Eliza Faughman, one of the players. There has been any casualty such might result from trumping partner's ace.
