Rev. J. Frank Norris Summoned by Grand Jury

What minds me... Relief is in the limelight and very much so... it has been an internal and dissent among the members continually. The indictment against the end-up is that men could not been appointed on the state who would work together in the interest of the thousands of people who are in distress in the state of Texas rather than their time to casting one relief money that the proposed and set-up for the benefit of those who needed relief.

SOCIAL WORKER IS AT HEAD OF RELIEF WORK

By United Press AUSTIN, April 10.—Miss Marie Dresden, former social worker in Milwaukee and Chicago, today directed Texas relief work. She succeeded Adam Johnson, "fired for inefficiency, lack of sympathy and understanding of relief loans," after a Travis county relief board was sustained over Johnson's call for their resignations.

114 Votes Cast For School Trustees

One hundred fourteen voted were cast Saturday in the school election which resulted in the addition of W. K. Hyer and J. Frank Sparks to the Eastland school board. The newly elected will join Milburn McCarty, Frank Crowell, Grady Pipkin, K. B. Tanner and John Mouser at the next meeting. An unusual incident in reference to the school election and the recent city commissioners' election is the fact that an identical number of votes were cast at each.

The Men's 9:49 Bible class had an attendance of 70 members Sunday. President D. J. Jobe was in charge. Singing was led by A. E. Herring, followed with prayer by T. M. Johnson, and a reading by Miss Oneita Russell.

Cabinet Closeups

HAROLD L. ICKES Secretary of Interior

HAROLD L. ICKES

By WILLIS THORNTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON.—Even in the pre-New Deal days, the secretary of the interior had more extra jobs than most cabinet officers. (Continued on page 2)

MISCELLANY

Ambitious Were two former high school students who extended commencement invitations to former President Herbert Hoover and Governor Ross Sterling a few years ago. Surprising is the fact that one received a courteous reply from the president which stated that due to his activity he would be unable to attend the exercises. Reports have not reached us as to the reply of Sterling.

Localities

Terrell Coleman, "phone tester extraordinaire," states that Charles L. is in a "spot." "Barkis," a pseudonym of a local youth, says to V. and L. W., "It's your move." P. M., how is your "dog"? One young man in a rather insignificant job at the present held an important position with the Assoc. P. in the east some years back. Hallucinations! Two young men in Eastland refused $150 a month jobs Sat. F. O. "can't take it."

White Cross Seals Go on Sale Here

Superintendent of Eastland public schools, P. B. Bittle, is in receipt of 1,100 white cross seals which have been distributed to local schools for children to sell and aid in the campaign for the care, cure and education of crippled children. Playing Baseball, The National Game Eastland's Pastime

With spring has come the urge to exuberate one-self and play—baseball, it seems in Eastland. Can't you just see those baseballs being thrown to and fro? Ah, this baseball is an incomparable game. Soft balls and hard balls, the people of Eastland just must play the national game. There is the team of L. E. Spalding, some eight or nine civic clubs and various organizations teams and eight soft ball teams at the high school which have been playing since March 9. Football, thy name is forgotten, at least for the present, baseball is the thing. Would-be Ruths are running unrestrained through the streets playing—baseball. This year the officials of the school were in a quandary as to the type of physical education for the boys to indulge in. In order to comply with the state laws anent physical education, horsehoes, which the boys had been playing, was certainly not in the category of the proper physical endeavor. The officials wracked their brains and "thought." The boys who weren't coming out for spring football drifted to the conclusion to organize eight ball teams, naming each for a prominent American baseball nine. At the present the Indians, Pirates and Yankees are in the lead with a percentage of .834. Wednesday the Yankees and Indians play a game, the winner of which will play the Pirates for the mid-season championship.

NRA IS BEING RE-ORGANIZED ON ARMY LINES

By United Press WASHINGTON, April 10.—Reorganization of the National Recovery Administration along lines of the United States army were affected today as the recovery administration appeared to be moving into another crucial period in its stormy career. The reorganization was given out by administrator Hugh S. Johnson before he departed for Florida for a brief vacation and a return to Washington with the president. The renovation of the NRA came as labor troubles were again crowded to the front. It was believed administrator Johnson would acquaint the president with the situation on their return to Washington. Although the Detroit situation was eased somewhat by settlement of one troublesome strike, others remained and the American Federation of Labor issued a statement claiming large corporations were obtaining the lions share of recovery gains. The federation said 75 per cent of wage gains had been nullified by higher prices and that 372 corporations had increased dividends in the last three months.

Gorman Teams Win In Grade Debates

Gorman won first in the sixth and seventh grade debate contest in which seven schools participated in Eastland, Monday. Cisco and Pioneer tied for second position. The contest was one sponsored by various schools to create interest of students in grammar schools in debate. It is thought that the contest and other similar ones will improve to a great extent the quality of debaters when the children graduate to high school. R. N. Cluck of Cisco was the director of the event. Each school which participated was represented by four teams, these schools were: Rising Star, Gorman, Seranton, Pioneer, Eastland Junior High, Crocker and Cisco Grammar.

Patterson attended the meeting held in Dallas first of the week for the purpose of discussing plans proposed by the federal government to aid dairymen. The program is known as the Dairy Production Control program. More than 500 dairymen from Texas and Oklahoma were in attendance.

Little Victim of Rare Malady

The doctors and nurses who little Roma Garret has invited to her party for her fifth birthday next month fear it shall never be. For Roma, shown here at the Grassland Hospital, Eastview, N. Y., with her pet doll, is suffering from a rare blood disease likely to prove fatal before her birthday. She has one chance in a hundred to recover the physicians said.

LAUGHS GREET DR. WIRTS "RED PLOT" EXPOSE

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Dr. William A. Wirt today named Lawrence Todd of the Soviet Tass news agency as the person who referred to President Roosevelt as the "Kerensky of this revolution." Todd has no connection with the brain trust of the federal government. He was correspondent here for the federated press before joining the Tass agency. He is an American citizen. The Todd revelation came after Wirt had named six lesser brain trusters—three of them women—as present at a party last September at which the revolution charges were brought out. Designation of Todd appeared to bring the Wirt red scare to an anti-climax after an hour and 25 minutes of testimony by the Indiana educator. The hunt started by a statement written by Wirt that one of the Roosevelt brain trust had compared the president to Kerensky, who was the forerunner of the communist revolution. Wirt's revelation of the name brought laughs from the crowded room. None of those named could be considered in government key positions.

'WHITE COLLAR' ARTIST FOUND AFTER SEARCH

By United Press FORT WORTH, April 10.—A three weeks search for "White Collar," anonymous Fort Worth artist, whose drawing so pleased President Roosevelt that he asked the artist be found, ended today. The wife of W. G. Rhodes, 56-year-old former oil company employee, but who has done odd jobs through three years of depression, today revealed her husband was the artist. The drawing was entitled "O'er the Grim Night of Chaos Shown One Bright Star." It showed a number of kneeling men looking off at a star. The star was labeled "NRA." Rhodes sent the drawing to the White House. The picture so attracted the President he asked relief agencies to find the artist. "Shucks, I never drew a serious picture in my life!" Rhodes said today. "I was sitting at my desk one evening. The first thing I knew I had drawn a group of men on their knees looking at a bright star."

Narrowly Escapes Death In Cave-in Of Deep Cellar

George Parvin, 909 South Bassett avenue, Eastland, narrowly escaped what would have doubtless been certain death when the cellar at his home caved in Monday. Parvin returned home from church Sunday morning to find that a quantity of dirt had fallen in his big cellar in which he had a quantity of canned fruits and vegetables stored. He donned overalls and worked for some hours removing the cave-in, stopped for a rest before finally finishing the job of repairing shelves torn down by the falling dirt. It was while he was temporarily out of the cellar that the top, made of heavy logs and tons of dirt, suddenly caved in completely filling the whole cellar to a depth of four or five feet. Had Parvin been caught underneath this it would have been impossible for him to have survived long enough to have been rescued. The Ft. Worth pastor was credited with saying in an address Sunday the sheriff's office in Dallas was aiding the notorious desperado in escaping arrest by keeping him informed of movements of officers and that the district attorney's office had failed to cooperate with officers in their search for Barrow. Dr. Norris was ordered to bring with him to Dallas any records he may have to substantiate his claim or give to the grand jury the facts on which he based his statements. In the talk Dr. Norris reportedly said information was obtained from Texas Rangers even long before the recent hunt for Barrow was begun.

Bishop Cannon Is Before Court On Campaign Charges

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Frenzied politics of the 1928 presidential campaign in the South was paraded through the district supreme court today as Bishop James Cannon, Jr., battled charges of violating the corrupt practices act. The divine of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and his secretary, sat at the counsel table taking notes while their chief attorneys, Robert H. McNeill, made a speech to the jury. McNeill insisted neither the bishop nor his secretary had done any wrong in accepting $65,300 from a New York insurance executive for use in their campaign against Alfred E. Smith.

Threats Against President Charged Against A.L. Savage

NEW YORK, April 10.—Alfred L. Savage, wealthy Fishkill, N. Y., insurance broker, was held in $1,000 bail today for a hearing on April 18 on a charge of uttering threats against the life of the President of the United States. Savage denied the charge. The threat against the life of Mr. Roosevelt was alleged to have been made in Florida on March 14. The complaint was signed by an agent of the United States Secret Service.

The sentences are to run concurrently. Welling was charged with the same filling station robbery near Woodson in which Hilton Bybee was sentenced to 25 years in prison yesterday.

MUST EXPLAIN STATEMENT HE MADE IN TALK

DALLAS, April 10.—A Dallas county grand jury today summoned J. Frank Norris, widely known Fort Worth Baptist pastor, to appear before that body and explain charges he purportedly made to the effect that Clyde Harrow was being aided by officers here. The Ft. Worth pastor was credited with saying in an address Sunday the sheriff's office in Dallas was aiding the notorious desperado in escaping arrest by keeping him informed of movements of officers and that the district attorney's office had failed to cooperate with officers in their search for Barrow. Peace Is Menaced By Armament Race Nations Are Told GENEVA, April 10.—A warning peace is menaced by a general armament race was given to the world today by Arthur Henderson of Great Britain, president of the world arms conference in opening a meeting of the steering committee. Henderson appealed to the delegates to facilitate framing a treaty to check the movement. "A new race of armament has begun, although it has not yet gathered much momentum," he said.

WILL OF MELVIN TRAYLOR ADMITTED TO PROBATE

Chicago reports that the will of the late Melvin A. Traylor, disposing of an estate estimated at more than $500,000, has been submitted to probate. Value of the estate was unofficially estimated at $400,000 exclusive of insurance. A reminder that the famous banker carried a million dollar insurance policy on his life which will be passed on to his widow and daughter and son. He was only 53 when he passed out. He was born in a log cabin in Kentucky. He went on his own at Hillsboro, Texas, before he was 20. His first banking adventure was at Malone, a little town in Hill county where Bohemian wealth makers of the soil were in evidence. He was a fast traveler to the top of the ladder, nationally and internationally in finance, after he had scored a remarkable success in a Texas village of less than 1000 inhabitants. In other years men created their own opportunities in this ever-changing American world.

FEDERAL JOB HOLDERS MAY BE BARRED AS CONVENTION DELEGATES

Rep. Hutton W. Summers of Texas is the chairman of the house judiciary committee. The senate judiciary committee has voted to report favorably a bill making it a crime for a person holding a federal appointive office to be a delegate, alternate or officer at any convention called to nominate a candidate for president or vice president. It is predicted by Washington correspondents that the senate will pass the bill on to the house for quick action. Then it will be up to Chairman Summers "to push the cause along." There are hundreds of Texans who are holding down federal jobs. Why should officeholders, federal or otherwise, be sent as delegates to a national or a state convention. Their salaries are paid by all the people and they should punch the clock every morning when they report for daily duty.

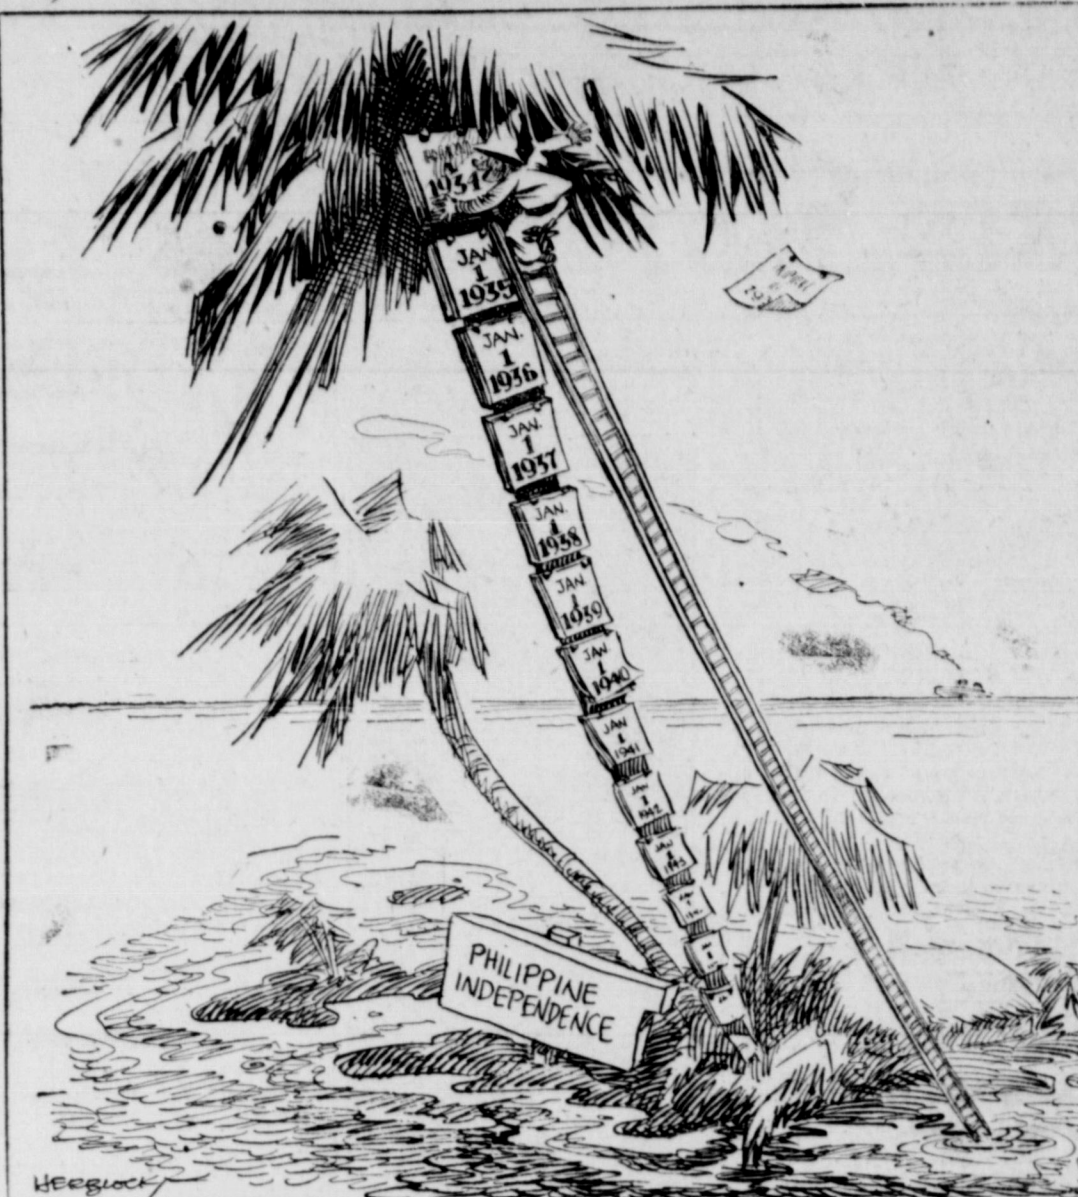

The cry for improved methods of manufacture and mass production, the adoption of which reduces the number of workers to produce a given unit, continues unabated.

In every city there are a lot of men who should stop doing things they ought not to do and start doing the things they should do.

Today, the incumbent, Harold L. Ickes, holds almost as many jobs as Mussolini. He has all the jobs that previous secretaries have added to the regular portfolio: The Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, Patron of Howard University (colored), Smithsonian Institution, and National Forest Reservation Commission. He is chairman of the Federal Oil Conservation Board, and a member of the District of Columbia Permanent System of Highways Commission and five other commissions relating to the roads and buildings in the capital. He supervises the government of the Virgin Islands and all affairs of the Alaska Road Commission. His department has control over public lands, reclamation, Indian affairs, national parks, the Geological Survey, the Office of Education (with its Board for Vocational Education), and a long list of hospitals and similar institutions.

But because of special trust and confidence in Ickes held by the president, several of the key administrative jobs in the New Deal lineup were also handed this short, stocky, solidly built man.

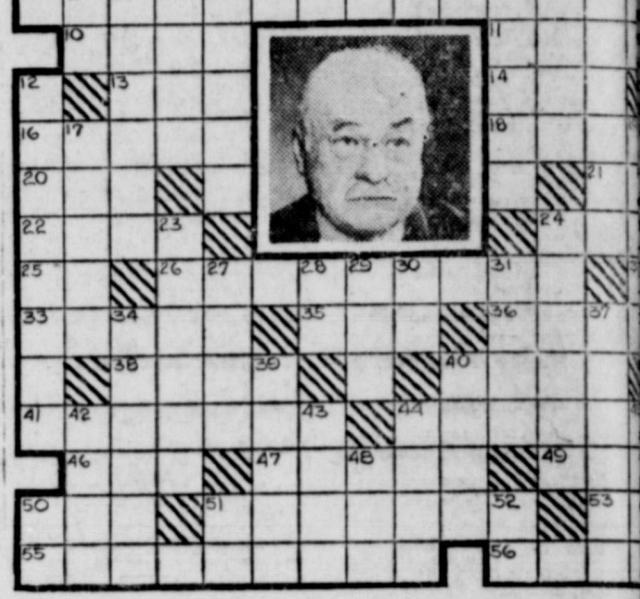

He is Federal Emergency Administrator of Public Works, and as such is in charge of the tremendous program of government spending for public improvements. He heads the Public Works Emergency Housing Corporation and the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation, two other great agencies.

When you add the fact that Ickes carries also the regular cabinet assignment to the Executive Council, the National Emergency Council, and the Council of National Defense, you begin to get the idea that there is no personal jealousy problem for him. Devoted to his home in Winnetka, Ill., where he and Mrs. Ickes reared four children, Ickes lives in a small suburban Maryland community just outside Washington while here. He's 60, and doesn't look it.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

BEGIN HERE TODAY
PABLITO, a handsome youth, becomes a fugitive when he flees from Key West to Havana with Billings and Estelle. He has been accused of a murder he did not commit. MARCIA FIELD, a socially prominent, could prove he is innocent but she is in love with Estelle.
Pablito is in love with Estelle Field, daughter of rich Jim Field, who lives in Havana. He has been accused of a murder he did not commit. Marcia Field, a socially prominent, could prove he is innocent but she is in love with Estelle.
Billings, a titled Englishman and Pablito's father, is searching for his son, employing Jim Field, New York detective. Three years pass and then Pablito sees Estelle again. They admit their love for each other and meet secretly until Estelle's father hears of it. He tells her she must break off with Pablito or he will turn the young man over to the police on a murder charge. Estelle agrees.
Meanwhile Billings, convinced Pablito is Sir Aubrey's son, sets to work to prove him innocent of the murder charge.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXV
PABLITO, returning from town that afternoon, raised his eyes from the dusty road to see an Englishman who appeared to be wandering aimlessly.
"Are you looking for the gymnasium?" he asked.
"No, I'm waiting for a friend who is doing a bit of sparring. Are you (the Englishman eyed the young man intently) Juanito? I mean Senior Juanito?"
"I'm Juanito," Pablito answered. He liked the appearance of this stranger. He had never seen any one quite like him before at the gymnasium. Nevertheless he was rather surprised to hear himself adding, "Would you care to come to my rooms to wait for your friend? I'd be glad to have you."
"Thank you," Sir Aubrey answered. "You're most kind."
"I live over that shop," Pablito explained with a wave of his hand. Together they crossed the road and went up the long stairway. At the top Sir Aubrey looked about. "Snug place you have here," he said approvingly.
"A little bare," Pablito answered. "Ah, well, a man's castle. I hear you go in a bit for boxing?"
"A bit," Pablito answered, smiling. Then he asked, "Will you have a drink?"
Sir Aubrey murmured, "Ah, thanks awfully! That would be good, you know!"
Pablito rang a small hand bell and a slovenly criada appeared. "What is it?" Pablito asked Sir Aubrey.
"Eh? What?" the other questioned.
"I mean what'll you have?" Pablito translated.
"Oh, I see. A whiskey and soda?"
"I'll have one with you," Pablito agreed. "It will be a rare dispensation for me. I take a drink only about once a year. Have to go slow to keep in training, you know."
"Oh, quite!"
Pablito felt suddenly warmed for the first time since he had received Estelle's note. The man, Jean Englishman's eyes were fixed on the youth unmovingly. They were frankly, almost pitifully affectionate eyes. Pablito was conscious of a strange feeling that most people have known at one time or another—a feeling that makes it seem as if, living, we have stepped into an unreal dream.
"Hang it!" he thought. "What's come over me?" To the stranger he said, "Is this your first trip to Cuba?"
"No, I've been here once before. Like it here?"
"No. To be frank, I don't like it much. Have you ever been in England?"
"No," Pablito answered.
"Ah, you must come! You must come!" The criada appeared as Sir Aubrey was speaking, bringing glasses, a syphon and a squat brown bottle on a tarnished tray. She set the tray on the table and disappeared from the room. There was the bubbling spurt from the syphon and Pablito tendered Sir Aubrey his drink. He was surprised to note that the older man's hand shook. He had thought him to be "in good shape."
GLASS in hand, Pablito motioned Sir Aubrey to a chair and then sat down himself. Sir Aubrey began to speak of England—the hedges, the lanes, the order and quiet. He spoke of houses which grew more beautiful as they were lived in year after year; of great trees; of all that was to him most beautiful in the land of his fathers, the only land where he could do more than exist.
"I think I'd like it," Pablito said as Sir Aubrey's voice dropped away. "Some times it seems to me that all my life I've been hunting for a sort of permanence which is always just out of reach. I haven't had much to go on."
He saw Sir Aubrey's eyes fill and was surprised and embarrassed by the sight.
"You must come— whenever you're over there—to visit me at my place at Lower Gittings," Sir Aubrey said with a shaken eagerness. He set his glass on the tray again because the increased trembling of his hand did not permit him to hold it steadily. This boy was his son! This splendidly strong, tall youth with the steady, even look. He wanted intensely to lay his arm across Pablito's broad shoulders. Instead he must sit and sip his drink. Some day, however—if God was kind—some day—
"Refreshing," he said as he finished the whiskey and soda. "No end refreshing. Thanks awfully. You—enjoy living here?"
"Oh, I guess so," Pablito answered slowly. He added with more energy in his tone, "I like Cuba."
"You know, I'm keenly interested in Cuban houses—"
"Want to look over this apartment?" Pablito offered.
"Oh, I say, that's no end kind of you—if you don't mind!"
"This is my sleeping room," Pablito said a few minutes later. Sir Aubrey paused at the doorway. A little later he and Pablito stood at the door of the gymnasium to meet the perspiring and anguished Billings. Seeing Billings, Pablito smiled for the first time since the ache had settled in with 13 meters amidship, the Surcouf has a surface speed of 20 knots and will have an undersea speed of 11 knots, the fastest of all submarines. Its effectiveness lies principally in its ability to fire a salvo of 14 torpedoes. Eight of the 14 torpedo tubes are in the bow, two in the stern and four are on the beam, giving the ship an immediate range on its target, regardless of position.

The Surcouf is listed as a defense submarine, despite its offensive character. With its battery of four 5.5 guns and its powerful anti-aircraft rifles, the ship is armored heavily on its exposed deck and is virtually invulnerable to aerial bombs, or light caliber fire from cruisers or destroyers. The Surcouf is almost double the size of the famous German U boats. In its recent plunging tests off Brest it descended quickly to 80 meters, bruised along at 10 knots and rose as quickly.
Equipped with Diesel engines, the ship has provisions for long cruises, insuring normal surface air, drinking water and supplies. The interior is a model of mechanical ingenuity and almost every known safety device is included in the protective apparatus. The deck even carries a small airplane.
The V-4, which is the nearest approach to the Curcouf in the American navy, displaces only 2,890 tons, and the best British submarine is the X-1 of 2,525 tons. It is probable that a second giant submarine of the Surcouf class will be constructed as soon as the credits can be provided for the naval budget.

Employment Is Increasing In Texas

AUSTIN.—Employment conditions in Texas show a marked improvement over a year ago, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. For the week ended March 17 the total number of employees in 2,723 establishments was 29 per cent greater than during the corresponding week last year. Moreover, the number of employees in these firms during the March period was 1 per cent greater than in the comparable week in February.
Total payrolls in these firms were 17 per cent above those of the same firms in March a year ago and 1.4 per cent above those of February in the current year.

Why Doctors Favor a Liquid Laxative

A doctor will tell you that the careless use of strong laxatives may do more harm than good. Harsh laxatives often drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys. Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you needn't take a "double dose" a day or two later.
Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gently helps the average person's bowels back to regularity. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is little "convenience" in any cathartic which is taken so frequently, you must carry it with you, wherever you go. Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome, a delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. All druggists, ready for use, in big bottles. There is still the question of a bank to be settled in Eastland. If you believe in prayer and we all should, let's keep praying. Eastland must have a bank and it is a beautiful thought that every person no matter what they do or where their business is, in Eastland, we don't care where it is located. That's a wonderful spirit and as said before assures the operators the whole hearted cooperation from the very start. Eastland must have a bank; no city offers a greater opportunity. That Reminds Me were tied there and the water continually dropped on one spot he would soon go crazy. The man was trying to raise funds to purchase a cow and some chickens to start to work. That was his story; his sincerity of course is something that we cannot judge. Any way he had to eat and yet he was getting to the point of where he couldn't hardly stand it any more in dealing with direct relief in the same boat.

We may be dumb, but somehow we cannot get it into our head the policy of when some one is capable to do some work, wants to do it, and yet get the kick-back "No we can't give you any work, and the funds are so limited that we can only give you something canned, a piece of bacon and maybe a pound of butter." (That's a H— of a ration for anybody). Yes, it's true that "beggars should not be choosers" and that a hungry person should eat almost anything, but we are of the opinion that if the government has set up a relief program, which they have, and have done it voluntarily that every consistent and reasonable operation should be maintained in order to see that it is done in a dignified and balanced manner of diet.

In the first place there has been too much selfishness injected into the work of the thing by the workers themselves from the State Administrator down, and in the second place the money that it takes to operate the thing is ten times too much, and any business that would attempt to operate the thing on the basis that relief has been operated on would fail in a day if it had a capital of a million dollars all paid in to start with.

In the third place we believe that the local county committee should be vested with the full authority to oversee every department of the Relief in the county instead of just being merely a figure head in the deal. This county committee should have full jurisdiction over all those who serve the county and should make the necessary recommendations to the State Relief Headquarters as to who should administer the affairs of relief. This county committee are surely in better position to judge as to who to select more than any one else. In the past the thing has been done in a county committee, they have not had a word to say about the whole works. That is wrong and should be remedied.

We are far from expressing these opinions as a matter of unkindness to any one, and we do not condemn those who have been sent here as officials or otherwise from other sources, but we are of the frank opinion that we have within our own ranks men and women just as capable and who would gladly do the things necessary from a charitable and unselfish standpoint.

WOOD SCRAPS USED TO MAKE A VIOLIN
By United Press
HOUSTON.—Scraps of wood in the hands of W. J. Parker, 54, cabinet maker, turned almost magically into a violin with a tone that brought praise of musicians. Parker insists the instrument is a fiddle.

An hour each day for three months he deftly turned out the intricate pieces that were to make his instrument. He fashioned the finger board, the sides, the keys and the bridges from scraps of maple; the neck was carved from a piece of oak; the back was made of birch; the front was of white pine and the apron of wood fibre.

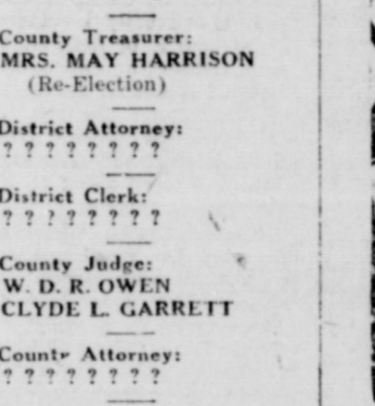

A Rice Institute professor and a local musician agree that the violin had a "surprisingly excellent tone."

The strings Parker uses had been on another violin for 20 years.

Time Tested and Proven ELECTRIC Refrigerators are built for Texas Climate

Texas, with its variable climate, has been a natural testing ground for Electric Refrigerators. Back in 1924, manufacturers knew that if their Electric Refrigerators functioned properly during the hottest days in Texas, they would also meet full requirements in other sections of the country.

So the Electric Refrigerators of today are specially designed to cope with the hottest Texas weather. They have excess freezing capacity that is needed through many months of the year—always ready to protect your foods with temperatures below 50 degrees regardless of how hot the weather may be.

This superiority didn't come all at once. Years of testing, coupled with actual experience of users, are back of the Electric Refrigerator of 1934. No matter how hot the weather is, you can be sure that an Electric Refrigerator will come up to expectations.

Your Refrigerator Dealer has new 1934 models on display as low as $100, and will be glad to show them to you.

WOOD SCRAPS USED TO MAKE A VIOLIN
By United Press
HOUSTON.—Scraps of wood in the hands of W. J. Parker, 54, cabinet maker, turned almost magically into a violin with a tone that brought praise of musicians. Parker insists the instrument is a fiddle.

An hour each day for three months he deftly turned out the intricate pieces that were to make his instrument. He fashioned the finger board, the sides, the keys and the bridges from scraps of maple; the neck was carved from a piece of oak; the back was made of birch; the front was of white pine and the apron of wood fibre.

A Rice Institute professor and a local musician agree that the violin had a "surprisingly excellent tone."

The strings Parker uses had been on another violin for 20 years.

Texas, with its variable climate, has been a natural testing ground for Electric Refrigerators. Back in 1924, manufacturers knew that if their Electric Refrigerators functioned properly during the hottest days in Texas, they would also meet full requirements in other sections of the country.
