

Work Relief Projects to be Started Monday

That reminds me...

Now there is a lot of excitement about nepotism in state offices... the list of kin-folks on the government payrolls from local up to the highest living like calling out figures on an army payroll. Just what can be or is going to be done about it remains to be seen. Suffice to say that it is interesting to say the least. We for one however are not in such a bitter mind about it providing that the jobs they hold are necessary ones and those in on the job are efficient. There is no more reason why a kinfolk hasn't a right to make an honest living as well as any one else, so we're not kicking. Of course if a competent person who formerly held the job was "kicked" out to make room for kin-folks that is different, just the same if it is against the laws of the state for kin-folks to work on state payrolls.

Lots of work ahead as far as the bank for Eastland is concerned. Everybody can well make it their major interest to take hold and see that we have one. Nothing could be more irritable than to think that a town like Eastland must go on and one continually doing their banking in other cities. There are possibilities here in Eastland undreamed of as far as putting the business angle of it on a profitable basis. We don't mean that we have any idea of making a tremendous big city out of Eastland, the fact of the business is we wouldn't want it that way, but above all we could make what we have more secure and at least add more business firms in our city to take care of the increased demand for them which would surely be a part of the new deal if we have a bank. Every business in Eastland is losing sales and contacts every day just because many of our people who would be glad to do business in Eastland with the Eastland merchants find it necessary to go elsewhere for their banking connections and naturally pass us up. Thousands of dollars are leaving our immediate community every month just because to this one item. We must have a bank.

Now comes the statement thru the press that the new relief set-up will not start until April 24 as first scheduled. We are wondering just when it will start, and we are joined by hundreds of people who are unemployed. We sincerely hope that when it does start that the thing will be worked out to such an angle that they will know this time what they are doing and not keep everybody "scared to death" that the thing will be all off any minute.

Beautiful weather, beautiful country and signs of business picking up should make everybody feel like a different person, and with the season we have had in this immediate section the harvest should be the biggest ever. It's great to live in this nation and better still to be a part and parcel of your town and our town.

From all the earmarks of watching the boys in action, the Eastland end of the New Deal league shows promise to bring home the "bacon" when the season ends and the big pennant will fly from the breeze at Welch field. There never was a more greater inspiration to make baseball players do their best than a full house grandstand and bleacher row. This is one time that Eastland citizens can well afford to get out and watch real players play this popular American sport. Every player is working for the team, and they are loyal to the core. Those in charge of the management and sponsors of the team are highly enthused over their beginning and their optimism knows no barriers as to what the outcome will be. L. E. Spaulding is thinking baseball night and day, because he loves it and as a good deal of the responsibility of keeping the schedules lined up as manager of the team, he is leaving nothing undone to bring to Eastland an entertaining and winning baseball team. Buy your season tickets and by all means go and see the games that are played at home.

ROOSEVELT IS CONFERRING WITH LEADERS

WASHINGTON, April 14.—President Roosevelt, in fighting trim, was ready today to call in democratic leaders of the house and senate and urge the completion of the administration's legislative program.

Cheered by favorable economic reports of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Mr. Roosevelt was anxious to consolidate and hold these gains, by close adherence to the schedule outlined when congress convened.

His views were communicated, first to party lieutenants in the senate, who met with him at the white house this afternoon. Tomorrow night house leaders will have their inning.

In each instance the entire legislative picture was to be surveyed and the importance of each problem weighed carefully.

It was agreed that the president would turn thumbs down on the McLeod bill which would guarantee payments to persons having deposits in closed banks. It was understood he felt passage would open the door to federal payments to insolvents in other lines.

Seeks to Force Ross to Keep His Agreement

AUSTIN, April 14.—State Boxing Commissioner Charles Poe today telegraphed Ed Foster, president of the National Boxing association, asking that Barney Ross be required to carry out his contract to meet Tony Herrera at Fort Worth, April 20.

Poe's appeal said it appeared from a wire to Promoter Dick Griffin that Ross, junior welterweight titleholder and his contract manager, were attempting to postpone the match indefinitely "without legitimate cause."

"We appeal to you as a member of the National Boxing association for any action you can take forcing Ross to comply with the terms of his contract," Poe telegraphed. Immediate action was urged.

Viking's Relics Are Shown By Museum

NEW YORK.—Funeral urns, in which ashes of Vikings' ancestors have rested since placed in Denmark some 3,500 years ago, form part of a collection of Stone and Iron Age implements now on view at the American Museum of Natural History.

Oddly enough there are in the collection approximately 3,500 implements among which figure—weapons with which these primitive men fought and amber with which their wives and daughters adorned themselves. Even earlier tools that belonged to their ancestors 5,500 years before are exhibited.

Consisting of daggers, spear heads and scrapers of primitive planes for smoothing rough wood or bone the oldest implements in the collection are of flint. Razors, molded on much the same pattern as the modern ones came later and were on bronze, dating about 1,500 B. C. Pottery also is represented and often is decorated with simple designs of zigzags, checkers, triangles and dots. Occasionally lime has been rubbed into the pattern to lend emphasis.

In refuse heaps referred to as "kitchen middens" left by these ancient people were found broken bits of pottery, tools, weapons and bones of dogs and of deer and other wild creatures.

These bones indicate, according to Dr. Nels C. Nelson, curator of Prehistoric Archaeology in charge of the presentation, that the dog was the first animal associated with early man.

Efficiency of the Early Stone Age tools was not far behind our modern mechanical improvements. As a test, Dr. Nelson, felled a four-inch maple tree with a flint ax in six minutes. A Danish landowner, several years ago built from his own timber a block house, necessitating the felling of 25 eight-inch trees. When he had finished felling them with a flint ax the flint was undulled. Made entirely with Stone Age tools, the building was completed in 66 days.

Chicago Plans An "Animal Fair"

CHICAGO.—An "Animal Fair," with a central setting of a smoldering volcano over which 1,000 monkeys will disport, will be one of the stellar features of the amusement center at the 1934 Century of Progress, according to an announcement by Fair officials.

A zoo, assembled in winding caverns lined with cages, will be built under the synthetic mountain and will include a comprehensive collection of zoological specimens and a number of animals seldom seen in captivity.

Among the strange creatures will be the most ferocious and brainless of brutes; an iguana, or Chinese dragon; a pigmy hippopotamus from Africa; ant-eaters, ocelots, armadillos and sloths.

Besides the general run of zoo denizens in the collection there will be a Chinese lemur, a tiny monkey which weighs about 18 ounces and has a face about the size of a half-dollar.

Eighty species of snakes will be shown in the reptile house. One of this colony will be an Australian Bushmaster, a highly poisonous snake, which, according to its owner, can crawl faster than a trotting horse.

Ohio Solon Tells Governor He's Broke

AKRON, O.—Declaring frankly he was without funds to attend the special session of the state legislature when it was to reconvene in Columbus, State Representative Gus Kasch said Governor George White, of Ohio, would have to "put him up" in the executive mansion in the capital.

Kasch said the long session of the assembly had exhausted his pay for the term and offered to "eat in the kitchen with the servants and sleep any place handy" in the governor's home.

Governor White declined to take Kasch seriously and denied the request.

IS CONTINGENT ON AVAILABLE FUND IN TIME

Wage Scales To Be Decided Upon, With Part Pay In Groceries.

AUSTIN, April 14.—Five hundred work relief projects throughout Texas today await qualified indigents who will be transferred from direct relief to work relief projects.

Inauguration of the new work relief program, to be substituted for CWA, is conditioned on the availability of funds.

Relief labor will begin next Monday only if "funds made available to the several counties of the state are sufficient to take care of payroll requirements for the weeks ending April 19 and 26," relief headquarters here advised.

The contingency, it was explained, is due to the temporary shortage of relief funds in the state incident to the routine delay in obtaining cash from the sale of Texas relief bonds.

Workers for the relief projects will be selected only from lists of persons certified by the social service division as eligible for relief.

Persons must be in direct need to be eligible for relief, Director Marie Dresden emphasized. The headquarters staff here was unable to estimate the number of persons eligible for work relief beginning Monday. At least 75,000 persons want jobs.

Relief workers will be paid under wage scales recommended by county wage scale committee, providing they do not conflict with state and federal regulations.

The minimum wage scale prescribed by federal regulation is 30 cents an hour. In all rural communities and cities under 5,000 population, relief workers will be paid two-thirds in groceries and one-third in cash.

In all other areas the method of payment will be determined by local relief boards.

Mrs. Brawner died suddenly Tuesday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. W. Burkett at Sweetwater. ## "LADY FOR A DAY" HAS TEN STAR CAST AND SUPERLATIVE PRODUCTION

"Lady for a Day," the first picture on the Columbia Pictures schedule for the new year is now showing at the Lyric theatre. It has been heralded by all who know it as one of the best talkies made.
Story, adaptation, cast and direction were all of the finest quality; extra efforts were put forward by all hands, and the result is said to amply justify the pride the Columbia studio is taking in the finished product.

"Lady for a Day" appeared in the Cosmopolitan magazine a few months ago under the title of "Madam La Gimp." It was written by Damon Runyon, who has been called the "O. Henry" of 1933," because of his humorous and dramatic tales of Broadway night life and its "dames and guys." There are plenty of both in this picture although it revolves mainly about "Apple Annie," a haggard, old fruit vendor, who is transformed into a "lady for a day."

Runyon's story was made into a screen play by Robert Riskin, a consistently good scenarist, who has been responsible for many of the Columbia Studio's hits. "American Madness" is one of his recent artistic and box office successes.

Frank Capra, ace director of Columbia, and one of the star directors in the industry, who made "The Bitter Tea of General Yen,"
"American Madness," "Platinum Blonde," "Dirigible" and a score of other hits, guided the filming of "Lady for a Day." He worked with one of the finest casts assembled for a picture.

Warren Williams, handsome and popular star of many a recent picture, plays "Dave, the Dude," a typical Runyon character—a big-shot gambler, straight, likeable and picturesque. That grand old veteran of stage and screen, May Robson, plays "Apple Annie," and as a result of her excellent portrayal of this colorful character, has achieved stardom. Others in

LYRIC SUNDAY

Madge Evans and Spencer Tracy in "The Show-Off"

"THE SHOW-OFF" WITH ACE CAST HITS HIGH MARK

Built for comedy, studded with laughs, yet rich with an undercurrent of pathos, "The Show-Off," screen version of one of the smash hits of the modern stage, opens today at the Lyric theatre.

"The Show-Off" is everything there is in believable comedy.
Never broad in its treatment, making no effort to reach out for comedy effects, it is human and lovable—and very, very funny. It is a slice out of life.

The story revolves around Spencer Tracy, who plays the modern-classic character, J. Aubrey Piper.
He is a blow-hard. He struts and boasts. He tells the president of his company how to run his business. He tells his wife how to bake her pies. He tells his brother-in-law how to perfect his invention. He knows everything, and has no shyness about telling the world how good he is.

His fast-talking wins the heart of Madge Evans over the protests of her family, every member of which considers her sweetheart a pest. But he wins Madge and marries her, and then their troubles begin. When she finds out he's just a "show-off" she tries her best to break the falls that result from his bragging, but doesn't succeed very well. Therein lies the pathos.

But it all comes out well, as everyone hoped, and in the meantime the audience, including this reviewer, nearly laughed themselves sick.

Outstanding supporting roles are played by Lois Wilson, remembered as the star of countless hits of the silent days; Henry Wadsworth,

NO INSECT CAN FACE P.D. AND LIVE!

1,000,000 PAMPERED FLIES die every year to prove it!

Two cans of insecticide bearing the same label often vary in strength—one may kill while the other only dopes. But not so with Sinclair P.D. This insecticide is subjected to the only test which proves absolutely that every drop has power to kill flies, mosquitoes, moths, bedbugs, cockroaches, ants and fleas. Every batch of P.D. that leaves the factory has killed 1,000 flies under conditions more severe than those in your own home. Only flies 5 days old are used in these tests because flies at this age have more resistance than any other household insect. P.D. is stainless, harmless to humans or animals and sweet with the clean odor of cedar. Ask for Sinclair P.D.
