Rain Breaks Drouth in Many Texas Sections

What
hinds me...

Clint Small, fifth of the candidates for governor to speak to the people of this community, spoke at 2:30 Thursday afternoon to one of the largest crowds gathered together in many a day at such an hour of the day. Favorable comment was heard on all sides that if people were interested enough to come out and stand in the sun, as hot as it was, they must have been interested in the speaker and what he had to say. And Clint Small did not disappoint them. He not only placed his candidacy before the people in a clear cut example of the kind of man they would have to vote for, but also that he knew what he was talking about and that everything he advocated was for the best of the citizenship of the state in general. Clint Small has been a worker and has demonstrated by his past record that his ideas were constructive and beneficial. He knows how to shape up legislation, and he knows how to get it passed and how to execute it. He makes no wild promises, and frankly appeals to the common sense of every person that it does take money to run the government, which means that the "vote-getting" idea of eliminating the tax of taxation is all hokey. The money to run the government must come from taxation otherwise where would it come from, and that being the case if it wasn't forthcoming we would have no government.

Naturally there are many kinds of taxes that are unjust and can be eliminated without destroying the foundation to properly run the government. Clint Small has demonstrated that he has made a careful study of every need of the state. He has advocated the idea that created boards of regulation should be self-sustaining from the sources that receive the benefit of the regulations. Although Clint Small is a West Texas product, he has won the privilege of adoption by all the state as his services in public life have had a state-wide effect. He has not been confined to West Texas alone. There isn't a political candidate for the governor's office nor any other office that understands the problems of the oil and gas sections of the state, better or more intelligently than Clint Small. Our immediate section of the state depends almost entirely upon revenue from this source. His past work in the interests of the oil industry impress the necessity of having a man like Clint Small as governor of Texas. His constant and valuable work as has already been accomplished is the seriousness of business of seeing that such a man is elected to the office. It was gratifying to see the crowd that came out to hear him and more so in the attentiveness of the audience while he was addressing them.

Interesting activity is noted in the gas situation from a local standpoint. There are times when sudden flurries of problems that are best for the citizenship can be properly thought out for the good of all concerned. The city commissioners should go slow, like the people. When the thing is boiled down to facts, whose right is it, is it of a competitive nature to enhance the interests of a private corporation or is it one in which the citizenship itself will receive everlasting benefits from the results. We are for anything that benefits a community, but it must be shown that there is a definite reason for such a thing to open. Now is the time for everyone to look on this gas situation with perfect calm and good judgment. Heated arguments won't get us anywhere. No citizen should allow themselves to get involved in a private competitive "scrap." We elected our city commission to look out for our rights and at all times to serve the people honestly and conscientiously for the people's best interests. It is up to the city commission to work out the problem. We believe that the people have enough confidence in them to act in their defense. If the city commission deems it necessary to grant a franchise for another gas company to serve this community we are going to back them up. If they in their good judgment can work out a problem (Continued on page 6)

CITY COMMISSION PRESENTS ATTITUDE ON GAS FRANCHISE

The Eastland city commission, in a signed statement, presents its attitude on the present gas rate controversy in Eastland. Following is their statement, which is signed for the commission by Mayor D. L. Kinnaird as chairman of the board:

"Having read the articles recently published giving an account of the two meetings of the city commission the early part of this week and having come to our attention the petitions are being circulated on the streets relative to the gas franchise situation, we feel that we should present to the people of our city our attitude in this regard and that we should at the same time correct certain matters which have been published and which demand correction.

"In the outset we wish to state emphatically that we do not propose to take any part in the apparent strife between Lone Star Gas company and the Hickok subsidiary which has recently applied for a gas franchise in this city. We do not propose to be unreasonable in our requirements of the Eastland Fuel corporation nor on the other hand do we propose to grant a franchise which will not bind the grantee as well as the city of Eastland nor do we propose to grant a franchise to any person to be used solely for the gain of that person without any resultant benefit to our city.

"We realize that some of the erroneous statements and reports as to our actions are perhaps prompted by the zeal of those persons who are employed by Hickok Oil corporation or its subsidiaries and we feel that our judgment, being entirely free from any monetary or mercenary influence, is more impartial than could possibly be expected from those who might profit from the granting of a franchise which might possibly never be carried into operation. In any event, we present to you a history of the Hickok franchise. About the middle of June this year arrangements were made for representatives of this organization to appear at a meeting of the city commission on June 18 to lay before the commission their proposition. The commission remained in session from 7 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. waiting for the Hickok representative to appear. They did not appear nor did they show the courtesy of informing us that they would not be present and we felt that they had abandoned their purpose or that their interest in their purpose was only lukewarm. Hence when the matter was presented at the last two meetings of the city commission we think it only fair to state that on the first night our mayor was in Austin filing one of the required reports in his campaign for representative and on the second night he was filling a speaking date which had been prearranged. We have been assured by Mr. Kinnaird that on no occasion has he ever assumed to act for the commission and that he has never stated to Mr. Conley or any other Hickok representative that the commission were in accord with the Hickok proposition. Mr. Conley's statement that he was convinced that our mayor was avoiding the issue and his inference that the balance of the commission was doing likewise, demands that we make it plain to the public and Mr. Conley that we do not issue and we feel that our mayor's past record will conclusively bear out the fact that he is fond of meeting all contingencies flat-footed.

"The history of independent gas franchises has been that where they have been granted without an actual contract signed by the proposed distributor and without a bond to guarantee performance of the contract, the franchisees die from non-user. We have had such an occurrence in the past several years in our own city. Our neighboring city, Cisco, made the fatal error of granting a franchise to the present applicant and though considerable time was passed, the city of Cisco still has no contract, no bond guaranteeing that the franchise will be actually used and no assurance that a gas plant will be established; so that the city (Continued on page 4)

Blanton Ends the Fourth With a Speech at Albany

Special to the Telegram.

ALBANY, July 6.—Congressman Thomas L. Blanton delivered his fourth speech for July here Wednesday night in the town in which he began practicing law 30 years ago.

Before a large and appreciative crowd he re-asserted his belief in economy in government, and pointed to his record as evidence of his efforts to bring about reductions in expenses whenever possible. He did not mention his opponents.

Before his address here Blanton spoke at noon at Mineral Wells where he was heard by the large crowd in that city for the occasion of the annual July 4th celebration. At 3:00 p. m. he addressed a large audience at the Cisco July Fourth celebration. From Cisco he went to Moran where he spoke before the Brooks family reunion.

At each of these places he was greeted by large and enthusiastic audiences. His speech here were much the same at each place.

The Palo Pinto Blanton-for-Congress club and the Albany Blanton club pledged him a large majority from each county in the July polls.

Chastain Had a Busy July 4th

O. F. Chastain, candidate for congress from the 17th district, was among the speakers at the Cisco July Fourth celebration. His speech there was the third one for the day. He spoke first at Mineral Wells.

Mr. Chastain stated that he had covered the district twice. He attacked the federal reserve system in his speech at Cisco, advocated the abolishment of the federal postal savings system; said if elected he would do all in his power to outlaw nations owing the United States and debts and not paying them. He also advocated the issuance of money with which to pay the soldiers' bonuses.

He cited his record as an educator and in the Texas Legislature as fitting him for congress.

Great Britain and United States Not Agreed On Navies

LONDON, July 6.—Great Britain and the United States in three weeks of naval negotiations, have failed to bridge their differences, it was learned today.

Indications were the negotiations might be adjourned until August and agreements reached then to place the battleship limit at 35,000 tons.

The tonnage is the principal point of disagreement.

Marie Dressler Is Still Unchanged

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 6.—Marie Dressler, veteran film and stage star, today continued her fight for life with doctors reporting her condition as unchanged. They hold no hope for her recovery.

Anglin Resigns In Oklahoma Race For Governorship

By United Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 6.—The new deal today was real in Oklahoma.

Speaker Tom Anglin, reactionary democrat and Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray's crown prince chosen to carry on Murray's policies, withdrew in the face of Rep. E. W. Marland's 50,000 vote lead in Tuesday's primary before tabulation of votes was completed. He said he had no money for a run-off campaign.

His action, without precedent in Oklahoma's political history, handed the nomination and the governorship to a disciple of President Roosevelt's new deal who entered politics two years ago.

VIOLENCE IS CONTINUED BY LONGSHOREMEN

By United Press

Violence in the two months old longshoremen's strike at San Francisco resulted in the death of two men, wounding of scores and brought troops to the scene today to curb disorders.

The strike, which had tied up West Coast shipping since May 9, broke into serious rioting when an attempt was made to open the port by unning the strike picket blockade.

On the Atlantic coast disorders occurred at Bridgetown, N. J., where several hundred farmers faced striking employees of the huge Seabrook farm. Four men were hurt in the clash.

At Milwaukee where violent rioting occurred recently, trouble arose out of charges employees were not living up to terms of a truce which ended the strike.

In East Texas 500 rig builders went on strike for wage increases of $2 a day which would bring salaries to $12 a day.

County Singers To Meet Sunday With Okra Class

President Roy Moore of the Eastland county singing convention announces that the regular quarterly meeting will be held at Okra with the Okra class next Saturday night and Sunday.

A splendid program has been arranged and a large crowd of singers and lovers are expected. Many of the best song writers and leaders of this section will be present and have a parting program.

There will be dinner on the ground Sunday with an all-day program.

Threatt to Speak Saturday Night at 8:00 In Eastland

E. M. Threatt, candidate for the legislature from this, the 106th district, will speak in the interest of his candidacy from the west side of the Eastland county courthouse Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

He will discuss the "Austin lobby" which is being widely discussed by various candidates at this time. Also he will discuss the effect of state regulation of business and how it has increased taxes and destroyed the value of estate and almost destroyed our banking system. He will suggest a remedy for these evils.

He also proposes to discuss the public school system and show how schools can be operated for full terms.

Two Youths Die In Gas Chamber

FLORENCE, Ariz., July 6.—To the dirge of prayers and wailing of 16 members of their families, two Mexican youths, their hands clasped in a final brotherly farewell, went to death in Arizona's lethal gas chamber in the first double execution of its kind.

The boys died for the murder of a Needles, Calif., prospector, who was robbed of $35.

THOSE WHO REFUSE WORK WHEN OFFERED THEM TO BE REMOVED FROM THE RELIEF ROLLS, IS RULE

H. E. Driscoll, county relief administrator, has issued the following statement, concerning persons who are offered employment, but who refuse to work and who then apply for direct or work relief through the local or county relief offices:

"There has been and is great complaint from the citizens of Texas that the services of farm laborers and household servants are most difficult to secure and it is believed that persons on relief rolls have been offered and refused such employment but have continued on the relief rolls.

"The Texas Relief commission at Austin has instructed all county administrators to give proper publicity to the fact that persons physically able to work who are offered employment at the prevailing wage scale in the locality wherein the work is to be performed, and who refused to accept same without good cause, shall not be furnished relief. I desire to advise the public in this matter and request persons who offer employment to others to advise this office when the employment offer is refused, such advice to include the name, address, employment offered, and the wage offered, and to be furnished this office in writing.

"When any person has been offered employment and has refused it under the conditions stated above the county relief board of this county is prohibited from giving any person refusing such employment either direct or work relief.

"We have endeavored in every way and manner to cooperate with our clients and have only asked in return they cooperate with us. We accordingly ask the kind cooperation of the public, not registered for relief, in materially assisting us by furnishing this office with the information requested in order we may continue our relief, both work and direct, to those worthy and discontinue direct and work relief to the undeserving."

Olden Revival is Drawing Crowds at Services Each Day

Large crowds are attending the Baptist revival being conducted at the tabernacle of the Olden Baptist Church by Rev. K. C. Edmonds, pastor of the church. Particularly are the crowds noticeable in view of the fact that the Fourth of July holiday came in the middle of the first week of the meeting.

Ten additions to the church have been received in the first few days of the meeting, which has promise of being one of the most successful in the history of the church.

Excellent singing marked the services, as three excellent singers are furnishing special music and three pianists are aiding in the musical services. Ernest and Walter Ripstone and Roy Baughman are leading the singing, while Misses Pauline Gullett, Katherine Stanton and Alice Locke, the latter from Dublin, are furnishing special music and accompanying the singers.

Prayer groups meet each evening at 7:30 with the song service starting at 8:15 each evening. The morning services start every morning at 10:30.

The meeting will continue through next week and the public and members of other churches are cordially invited to be present at any of the services. The services are held in the open air tabernacle, with plenty of seats to accommodate a large congregation, and the tabernacle is much cooler than a church, so those who attend will be comfortable throughout the services.

Olden Girls Form A 4-H Club at a Meeting Tuesday

A group of Olden girls met with Miss Ruth Ramey July 3 at the home of Miss Lucile Robertson for the purpose of organizing a 4-H club.

There was a very interesting meeting in which the following officers were elected: Miss Florene Reaves, president; Miss Bettie Gray Nix, vice president; Miss Doris Stanton, secretary, and Miss Margie Lou Fowler, reporter.

The work for the day was to make cup towels.

Those present were: Misses Doris Stanton, Beatrice Young, Bettie Gray Nix, Florene Reaves, Nadine Norton, Mary Lilly Young, Lucile Robertson, Doris Williamson, Christine Holt, June Edwards, Doris Langston, Mary Lois Robertson, Ruth Ramey and Mrs. Vermillion.

The next meeting will be held July 17 at the home of Miss Bettie Gray Nix.

Texas Theatre Man Kills His Wife, Two Children, and Self

VERA, Tex., July 6.—Hollis McGuire, motion picture theatre manager here, today shot and killed his wife and two children and then took his own life.

After shooting his wife and children, McGuire, believed crazed by a long illness, raced in his car to Seymour, and shot himself fatally in front of the home of his brother, Roy McGuire.

The theatre manager's brother and his father, J. H. McGuire, heard the pistol shot. When they reached the car the man was dead. They immediately notified persons at Vera. In company with others, Roger Wilson, Vera merchant, drove to the McGuire home. It was locked. They opened a window and found the bodies.

Lawyer Denounces His Fellow Lawyers

FORT WORTH, July 6.—President Earle W. Evans, of the National Bar Association, today denounced as a "ghastly joke" the low estimate which he said the public has placed on the legal profession in the United States.

Evans, a Wichita, Kansas, attorney, was speaker at the second day of the Texas bar association convention here.

Four Men and a Woman Held In Night Club Holdup

MINERAL WELLS, July 6.—Four men and a woman were captured at Bennetts in Parker county today after they allegedly held up Jim Butler, proprietor of the Paradise tourist park and beer garden just inside Palo Pinto county.

Palo Pinto county and Mineral Wells officers, who made the arrests, said the woman remained at the driver's seat of the car with one of the men while the three other men entered the place and ordered Butler to "stick 'em up."

They took money from the cash drawer and a slot machine.

NRA COUNSEL RAPS BORAH'S RECENT TALK

FORT WORTH, June 6.—Donald Richberg, general counsel for the NRA, combined a glowing description of the national recovery administration with a bitter attack on Sen. William E. Borah in an address last night before the Texas bar association.

"There ought to be some figures as well as facts even in a Fourth of July oration," he said in assailing Borah's stand.

"Senator Borah called upon the people to abandon this program and revert to the old methods," Richberg said, referring to a speech Borah made in Washington July 4th.

"Borah claims liberty is menaced by bureaucracy, which is simply the name you give an organization to do what you want. Borah says this bureaucracy taxes and starves the people to death."

"Who is being taxed to death by this program?"

Lyric is Winner Of Two of Three Soft Ball Games

The Lyric theatre soft ball team made it two out of three when the two teams met on the Olden soft ball diamond Friday morning. Lyric winning by a score of 9 to 7. The Arcadia won the first game, played in Ranger, while the Lyric team won the last two.

The three-game series was started three weeks ago, with the team winning two games out of the series and the right to be guests at a free feed at the expense of the losing team. No announcement has been made as yet as to when the pay-off banquet will be held.

Lyric connected for 13 safe hits to account for their nine runs, while Arcadia was getting 12 hits in making their seven runs. All three of the games were closely contested throughout.

Ferguson Answers Moley's Article About Pardons

DALLAS, July 6.—James E. Ferguson, former governor, was on record today in vigorous defense of the Ferguson pardoning record.

The ex-governor's gray locks fairly bristled when he was shown a magazine article written by Raymond Moley, former Roosevelt brain trustee, and Edgar Sisson.

Texas, the writer said, has become a shelter for gangsters at the end of a crime corridor and in this state prison clemency has become a political football, with pardons and paroles handed out as political favors.

"That's the usual lie they have been telling for years," Ferguson said. "In all the pardons issued there haven't been six pardons attacked on their merits. We have issued few pardons in notorious cases. Nearly all of them have been to minor criminals."

WEST TEXAS TO GET RELIEF FROM HEAT

DALLAS, July 6.—It frusted last night at Wilson, N. D., and by the same token hot and thirsty Texas may get some relief from heat and drouth today and tomorrow.

The "high" which caused Wilson's light frost extended from the Dakotas into Central Kansas and resulted in cooling winds to Amarillo.

Meteorologist Joseph Cline predicted scattered showers and cooler weather for East Texas today. Continued cloudy weather with showers here and there in the south and east portion of East Texas are forecast for tomorrow.

Local showers also were predicted for West Texas tonight or tomorrow.

WEATHERFORD, July 6.—Heavy showers fell today in various sections of Parker county breaking a two months drouth and reviving watermelon, cantaloupe and other crops. It rained 30 minutes here and heavier downpours were reported in other sections of the county.

FORT WORTH, July 6.—Thunderstorms fell today, breaking a 43-day stretch without rain, the longest dry period in the city's history. The previous dry record, 42 days, was equaled last midnight.

A 40 minute rain fell at Lake Worth while Handley had a 20-minute rain. Rain fell in Mineral Wells for more than an hour today.

Bedaux Seeking A $150,000 Thrill

EDMONTON, Alta.—Charles E. Bedaux, multi-millionaire French man, likes his thrills so well he is going to pay more than $150,000 for one this summer.

Bedaux and his party has left Edmonton for Jasper, where he will undergo a two weeks' "training period" prior to attempting a tractor dash across 700 miles of unexplored wilderness in northern British Columbia.

With a party of 30, including three women, he plans to leave Fort St. John on July 6, and hope to arrive at Telegraph Creek on Oct. 15.

The party includes several exploration experts of international reputation and numbers among its equipment five specially built caterpillar tractors.

Nothing has been left to chance. Supply bases have been established along the route and its equipment will be carried. Should anything unforeseen happen that makes outside aid necessary, help will be summoned by radio and sent by airplane.

The three women are Mme Bedaux, wife of the leader; Mme Alberto Chiesa, wife of a famous Cannes and Paris sportsman, and their maid.

Bedaux said the trip primarily is for adventure, but he expects to find mineral deposits, important fossil remains and some new tropical valleys, formed by his springs.

Defeated Mexican Candidate Missing

LAREDO, July 6.—The whereabouts of Antonio Villarreal, defeated Mexican presidential candidate variously reported to have been arrested at Monterrey and to have escaped into the United States, remained unknown to authorities today.

Unconfirmed reports said Villarreal was seized July 4. Arrival of two of his supporters in Laredo yesterday led to rumors a revolutionary plot had been frustrated. Villarreal's aides here profess not to know of his whereabouts.

REP. DIES READY FOR OIL INVESTIGATION

Rep. Martin Dies of the Beaumont district has been named as special counsel for the house committee named to make an investigation into the needs of additional legislation to stop illegal oil production. Rep. Dies has prepared a questionnaire to be sent to every refiner, producer and pipeline operator in Texas, "asking a wide range of questions on the existing situation and a definite expression of what each thought about the necessity of new legislation." Speaking of the survey to be made of the Texas field, Dies said to a Washington correspondent of the A. P.: "This survey ought to show the real feeling of the individual operator without respect to many conflicting aims that have been made by associations. We want to know each oil man in Texas thinks. Thus we can pull aside whatever curtains of propaganda that have been erected and get our information directly from the men who ought to know." He added that a personal inquiry would be confined to Texas since Texas is at the heart of the problem, but would be broadened later to other states if necessary. He will open an office at Longview about July 8 and will meet the special house committee at Houston about July 18. The youthful congressman from the Beaumont district has a program that will keep him busy until late in the fall. Think of it: "We want to know what each oil man in Texas thinks."

FINANCIAL AID FOR SMALL INDUSTRIES OF THE NATION

President Roosevelt very promptly signed the industrial loan bill. Now it is said loans on adequate securities totaling at least a half billion dollars can be made in the next six months "to stimulate business enterprises." At least, this is the viewpoint of the officials of the R. F. C. and the Federal Reserve board. They stress, "because of a limitation restricting loans to $500,000 each," loans are expected to be confined largely to the smaller industries.

It is made unlawful for anyone to give or receive a fee or bonus for obtaining a loan. In other words, the political pull of "the middleman" has been damned or doomed by the national lawmakers with the approval of the President.

Quite a number of small cities in England make it a practice to levy charges for parking automobiles in public streets. This is one method of raising money that our law-makers evidently have overlooked. They might try it out, as about everything but the air we breathe is now taxed.

The only way to get money ahead is to save a part of what you earn. The way to save is to buy where you get the most for your money. You can do this by reading the advertisements.

ROB ROY SPARR
A BRIEF REVIEW
OF HIS LIFE
By Miss Belle Wilson

On Oct. 30, 1913, a blue-eyed baby with sunny hair came to bless parents who eagerly awaited his arrival. As the young mother rocked her babe she was consumed with a prayerful yearning that she might be able to set his feet on the path to noble and lofty heights. The father also dreamed the parents envisioned this babe as a man equipped mentally, physically and spiritually to battle successfully in life's great arena.

The years glided by with the parents wrought diligently at the task of helping the baby fulfill their vision. How well they wrought, we who watched, from his infancy, the progress of Rob Roy Sparr well know.

Rob Roy's school days began at the age of 7 in the South Ward of the Eastland School system. He had great admiration and love for his first teacher, Miss White. In fact love and respect for his teachers was one of his abiding characteristics. Very early he demonstrated an unusual amount of ambition and ability. While in the third grade he represented his school, and won in the declamation contest of the County Inter-scholastic League; however, he was later ruled ineligible on account of not being old enough.

At the age of 12 1/2 years he entered Eastland High. Again and again he represented E. H. S. in various events. For three successive years he represented her in extemporaneous speaking, winning honors; at one time he barely missed first place in the district. He re-entered the extemporaneous speech contest the next year and won first place. Not only in the county but in the district; thus he represented the district at the State meet. He represented Eastland in the oratorical Home-Town contest his last year in E. H. S.

But literary activities did not bound his interests; he was very desirous of developing physically as well as mentally. Although in early years he was somewhat handicapped by a weak body, like Franklin D. Roosevelt, he consistently went to work to overcome this handicap. In the last two years of his high-school life he lettered in track, representing the school in track events and winning medals. He was eager to play football; but, as his mother was opposed to his playing, he yielded to her wishes in the matter until his senior year, when she finally agreed that he could defer his graduation until the next year in order that he might play football; and he had the pleasure of lettering in football the next season.

Rob Roy was a bundle of energy and ambition and although he graduated from high school in the dark, gloomy days of depression, he determined that he would continue his education. Always anxious to shoulder part of his expenses, he worked at selling papers, odd jobs, and finally as a clerk. He set forth the next autumn, after graduating from E. H. S., for Weatherford Junior College.

Here he availed himself of the splendid opportunities for improvement, and made a wonderful record. The President of the school took time from his many duties to write Mr. and Mrs. Sparr a letter in which he paid a glowing tribute to the character and ability, both intellectual and athletic, of their son, who was then finishing his second year of college work.

Entering the oratorical contest, which is staged annually by a number of schools at Weatherford College, Rob Roy won second honors. The dramatic club honored him with its presidency during the first year at Weatherford College. The next year he was elected to the presidency of the Fritz Lanham Debating society and the vice presidency of the Dramatic Club. At the same time he was a member of the editorial staff of the college paper.

from his devoted parents and a friend, he was able, by clerking 23 hours a week, to make another year's progress toward his goal.

In Teachers College he pursued his studies zealously and yet found time to participate in athletics. Because he entered school late, he missed a place on the regular football string, but he was placed on the Freshman first string team, where his work as halfback elicited favorable criticism from his coach and the fans.

He was a member of the regular-college track team and for his work won the gold eagle. He was a member of the relay team that won in the college conference. Entered in the Border Olympics, he won a bronze medal in the mile relay. "When his strength gave out, he ran on his courage," said one of his teachers.

At Teachers College he completed all the physical education courses requisite for a college coach.

That he was popular among his fellow-students was manifested by the fact that he was pledged to the "Talons."

Despite the fact that he had two attacks of serious illness in Denton, he persisted in staying with his studies and his other various activities although his mother strongly protested.

His life-long ambition was to be a lawyer. Perhaps he inherited the tendency toward this profession, for three members of his family on his maternal side have been lawyers. After graduating in Teachers College he intended to study law in the state university. He was promised financial backing for his law course by a staunch admirer and friend in Denton.

Although Rob Roy was not quite 21 years old, he was intensely interested in government and economics and was taking steps to organize a Young Democrat's club in Eastland. Some of the political candidates he solicited him to speak for them this summer.

In the midst of his activities and his eager plans for a life dedicated to the service of his fellowman, he was stricken by a fatal illness, and after a few brief days of pain, he was forced to give up his gallant fight for life at 7:10 on June 30, 1934, his courageous spirit passed to the Great Beyond.

Several times in his brief illness he said, "I am not afraid to die, but I do want to live." Yes, death held no terrors for this young man, for at the age of 9 he gave his heart to his Maker and was baptized into the Methodist church by Roy Langston. Rob Roy presented the unusual example of a lad developing his spiritual possibilities along with the mental and physical. While he was still in high school, he was president of the Young People's department of the Methodist church. He held this same position in the Methodist church at Weatherford and at the same time was also student representative on the Board of Stewards. Last summer he a class of boys in the intermediate department of the Sunday school in his home church. He was sincere and unassuming in his Christian life and happy to do whatever he could toward the advancement of the Master's cause.

Though extremely ambitious he never stooped to gain advancement by unfair means. He was known among men and boys as a "Square Shooter."

He was that rare specimen which we seldom have the pleasure of meeting—an only child unspoiled, kind, sunny, and democratic by nature, he numbered his friends by the score among the young and the old, the great and the lowly. He was a loyal, sympathetic friend, a "pal" to his dad, and the pride and comfort of his mother.

The entire town feels the shock of his passing. On every hand we hear a bewildered questioner: "Why should the brilliant span of his life be cut so short by the Grim Reaper?"

"Peace, peace! he is not dead, he doth not sleep—'Tis we, who lost in stormy visions, keep With phantoms an unprofitable strife, . . . He has outsoared the shadow of our night; Envy and calumny and hate and pain, . . . Can touch him not . . . From the world's stain— He is secure."

"SCANDALS" AT LYRIC TODAY

At the Lyric Theatre today, Fox Film will have the distinction of presenting the first and only motion picture edition of the famous George White's "Scandals." The entire production was conceived and staged by George White himself. The film is reported to be as elaborate and as spectacular as any of White's previous successes on the Broadway stage. With the advantages offered by recent developments in talking pictures, White was able to produce a film that he says he could not possibly contemplate duplicating on the stage.

When White left for Hollywood he took with him his staff of song writers, dance directors and technicians. He also transported his gorgeous galaxy of original "Scandals" girls. The staff has been associated with White in his previous successes, and it was from them he anticipated the success that the film is said to be.

The song writer, Jack Yellen, Irving Caesar, and Ray Henderson, all hit composers, have created ten melodic songs for this production. The dazzling dance in the eight revue numbers were directed by George Hale, past master at creating ultra-modern routines. Besides the song hits and revues, the film is enriched with fifteen comedy blackouts that give promise of being the high points of the production.

Interpersed with the song numbers, revues and blackouts is a romantic story involving the principals of the show. At one time, the romance threatens to ruin the show, but the clear thinking of the producer, who is George White himself, saves the show and brings happiness to a pair of lovers.

The cast with which White has surrounded himself is large, and is studded with an array of scene, stage and radio personalities. Among the most prominent are Rudy Vallee, Jimmy Durante, Alice Faye, Adrienne Ames, Cliff Edwards and Gregory Ratoff. Produced by Robert T. Kane for Fox, the film was directed by Thornton Freeland and Harry Lachman. George White and Samuel Shipman wrote the story, and William Counselman was responsible for the screen play.

commission of Cisco and numerous of the citizens there feel that the franchise was granted too hastily. Fort Worth during its three or four year controversy has found that the granting of franchises without requiring the grantee to be firmly bound by contract and bond, were in vain, we have been advised that it is within our power and discretion to grant a franchise conditioned upon the grantee having a contract and bond that by the same token we are not required to consider the matter of a franchise until the applicant shows his good faith by satisfying us that he has a contract and bond which will guarantee to us performance if a franchise is granted. In this attitude we are merely being businesslike as we feel you would have us; we are asking no more of the applicant for a franchise than the grantee be bound as firmly as in the city of Eastland. We do not feel that we have subjected ourselves to criticism but that you will approve our caution and reasoning in the handling of what may be quite vital to our city and its fuel users.

"Our mayor assures us that before the matter was ever presented to the city commission, he in conversation with Mr. Conley of the Eastland Fuel corporation, stated to Mr. Conley that he personally would not deem the proposition worthy of consideration unless it was presented along with a suitable contract and a bond guaranteeing performance.

"As stated in our newspapers we have been told by representatives of the local gas distributing company that if an independent plant was located at Cisco, that Eastland would be accorded the same rates which the independent concern would apply in Cisco. If there is to be an experiment we sincerely believe it would be well to allow our neighboring city to take the lead in the experiment and bear the brunt of the confusion, expense, inconvenience and unpleasantness which is incident to any price war, particularly since we are so situated that we will profit by whatever Cisco gains and bear none of its losses. We believe that by remaining neutral in a price war and in competitive franchises our city has all to gain and ought to lose, yet if the representatives of the Hickok organization will meet the reasonable conditions which will evidence their good faith, we shall be glad to consider the matter thoroughly and endeavor to determine whether the proposition to help the citizenship of Eastland, which is ever our purpose as your duly elected public servants serving without remuneration or gain for the advancement of our city.

"The recent successive rate reductions are conclusive of the fact that by thoughtful handling and discussion of our problems in a reasonable fashion with utilities organizations, results are secured more easily and with less expense and costly friction in our city. We feel that such conduct meets with your approval and we hope we may continue to give you a common-sense non-partisan administration of our city government.

10-YEAR-OLD GIRL KILLED IN ACCIDENT

The body of ten year old Mary Fincher of McCamey who died at the Payne and Lovett Hospital in Eastland at 6 o'clock this morning following her injury resulting from an auto accident in Eastland late yesterday were sent this afternoon overland to Fort Worth where funeral arrangements will be made.

The child who her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fincher, were enroute to Fort Worth when their car was struck by one driven by Mrs. E. W. Barnett, University Heights, just west of the Eastland city hall as the Barnett car attempted to pass the truck of Frank Castleberry which was stopped on the right side of the highway. According to accounts the car of Mrs. Barnett side swiped Fincher's car and the impact of the blow caused the overturning of the McCamey car. The child was thrown through the windshield of the car she was in and landed on the ground where the car turned over and pinned her underneath it.

Bill Mead, Eastland city policeman, who was in the vicinity of the scene of the wreck, came to the scene and extracted the badly bruised form of the girl from the wreckage and rushed her to the hospital.

The injured girl was given medical aid for her injuries, which included a badly lacerated arm, a deep gash across the forehead, broken ribs and internal injuries. After an eleven hour fight for recovery the young girl succumbed.

The child's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fincher of North-east 29th street and Harris Lane, Fort Worth, and two of her aunts, Miss Clory Fincher and Mrs. Charley Harrison, were notified soon after the accident and drove immediately to Eastland.

Motherless Fawn Thrives On Diet

PENN YAN, N. Y.—A motherless fawn, found near here has been placed on a special diet and apparently is thriving.

The diet consists of one teaspoonful of cream with eight ounces of raw milk and one teaspoonful of lime water and an occasional bit of molasses, fed to it in a baby milk bottle. The fawn, found near here in a weakened condition, is fed every three hours. It is believed the mother was either killed or driven away by dogs.

young people Wednesday night, and arranged for dancing to radio and victrola music, and the spacious law was brightly lighted, and set with many tables and chairs for informal cards.

It was a pretty scene, the young girls in their attractive light summer dresses, and the boys nattily attired in white.

Iced fruited punch and delicious small cakes were served informally throughout the evening from a lace laid table decorated with roses.

Guests were received by Mrs. Horton and her son, Horace, in an informal and charming fashion. Personnel, Misses Lewai Chance, Kathleen Cottingham, Carolyn Cox, Joan Johnson, Carolyn Doss, Mary Frances Hunter, Edith Rosequest, Bennie Kate Wood, Clara June Kimble, Jo Earl Utz, Mary Frances Street, Doris Fields, Maxine Coleman, Katherine Garrett, and Jean Kitley of Troup, Texas; Clyde Chaney, Parker Brown, Roger Arnold, Raymond Pipkin, Bobby Dwyer, Richard White, Curtis Terrell, R. SMALL SPOKE THURSDAY P. M.
IN EASTLAND
Senator Clint Small, West Texas candidate for governor, brought his campaign to Eastland Thursday, speaking from the east side of the courthouse.

Senator Small arrived in Eastland shortly after noon and was the guest of several business and professional men at a luncheon at the Connellee hotel. Local men at the luncheon included Dr. Poe Lovett, Scott Key, County Judge Clyde Garrett, Senator W. B. Collier, R. N. Grisham, Carl Springer, C. W. Hoffman, Perry Sayles, E. Hinrichs, Frank Jones.

"Four years ago," Small said, "I ran third in a field of candidates both larger and more impressive than the list in the current race. I was then a newcomer to Texas politics but I polled more votes than veteran campaigners like Barry Miller, Tom Love, Earle B. Mayfield, and Jim Young."

"Texas gave me 140,000 votes and I carried 91 counties, Mrs. Ferguson carried 95 counties and Mr. Sterling, the successful candidate, carried only 50 counties. But West Texas counties are not so thickly settled as the ones in East Texas. I carried more square miles of territory than any of my opponents but those miles just didn't have quite enough people in them."

"This year, I came back to seek the governorship after four more years of hard work in the senate, during which time I have made friends throughout East Texas and that section of the state this year is going to give me a splendid vote. My home territory is going to give me the same fine vote it did four years ago, when I received about seven of every 10 votes cast."

Small declared Senator Small made a straightforward-shoulder talk on the issues of the campaign. He told his audience frankly that it could expect little material reduction in the cost of government during the next two years, regardless of who is elected governor.

"The last legislature cut expenses to the bone and there is a point beyond which we can not go without impairing the efficiency of the operation of our government. From my experience as senator during the past six years, during which time I have studied the financial condition of Texas, I would be telling a falsehood if I told you the cost of government during the next biennium can be materially reduced. I know it can't be done."

The paramount issue of the campaign, Small said, is law enforcement. He took Jimmy Allred to task for his failure to enforce the liquor laws of the state.

"He says he is dry and favors the existing law yet he fails to take any action against the elaborate saloons that run wide open in all our larger cities and in many of our smaller ones. I remember when the attorney general would have used a padlock to remedy such a situation."

The senator also declared the gambling laws of Texas are being flagrantly violated and asserted that bookmaking establishments operating in the wake of the racing meets at the various cities of Texas are weakening the state economically and morally.

"We can't gamble our way back to prosperity and I believe the attorney general ought to do something about running this type of gambler out of the state."

Small took up the ad valorem tax, said he favored abolishing it, but again warned his hearers that it will take four or five years to remove it entirely. He said he believed 25 per cent of it could be removed now and said he will urge that, either as governor or as senator, during the next regular session of the legislature.

The candidate said he is against a sales tax and is also opposed to a state income tax.

He recalled legislation he has sponsored as a state senator, much of which he said had been helpful to West Texas. He reviewed his bill which diverted one cent of the gasoline tax to counties for the retirement of road bonds. This one bill alone has been a tremendous aid to Eastland county, it was pointed out.

Other legislation affecting West Texas was the famous Small land bill and the river bed bill.

Senator Small was introduced by County Judge Clyde Garrett.

which will react to the benefit of the people and even they refuse to consider any proposition for the franchise. We are going to back them up in that judgment as long as it is honest. Above all this is one time that we can all hold our temper and not get all excited and fall out with each other.

Which all brings us back to the bank situation which is highly important to get together on and stay that way. Had a business man say today that it was costing him around $125 a month to do business with outside banks. Take about several hundred other business firms who have to do the same thing and there one has the answer as to whether we need a bank or not. That's about all that can be said about it this time.

The man who had to be told to mind his own business now would be glad if he had a business to mind.
