operation is the keynote of understanding. The Community Gas company are to be commended for their cooperation in bringing about the statement of the gas rates which were in force before the unusual high rates were established by the city and the Community Gas company were at the heads, both of them were making demands that neither saw fit to submit to, it goes to the point that everybody was mad, and under those circumstances nothing worth while could be arrived at and hence it cost the city, the community gas company, and the consumer unnecessary increase in money.

terminating a series of sane contacts where everybody was in a mood to readjust the matter for the best interests of everybody concerned, both the city officials and the gas company finally arrived at a decision that will not save the people of Eastland several thousand dollars a year but will create a condition where the gas company and the people of Eastland will work together for the sake of prosperity rather than tearing everything to pieces every time something is suggested or Mayor Donald Kinnaird and the members of the city commission have really accomplished something for Eastland and they, too, deserve praise and commendation for their efforts in bringing about the saving for the citizens. It seems that they are men who plan their work on a constructive basis with that class of attack on the problem which affects the interests of our people, they usually accomplish the task they go after. The thing to do now for the citizens to think carefully in the future before they become aroused over any controversy that may come before them.

ment and vicious attitudes towards an individual, political organization or corporation only end in unpleasant and expensive disaster for everybody, even those that took no part in the argument. The time to let well enough alone when everything is healthy and prosperous. Its when the thing is sickly that things have to be done. The proper medicine is understanding and a bit of common sense.

And a most romantic background, the ladies of the Methodist Missionary Society staged a unique pageant on the south area of the courthouse Thursday evening at 8:30. The subject of interest was the modeling of the wedding gowns of those who had married in the years gone by. Models bean in the 80's and included the bridal gown of the most recent bride in 1934. Miss Wilda Drago and her violinists accompanied the musical numbers of the occasion. Mrs. Grady Pipkin sang two solo numbers and led a final chorus song which was selective for the event and beautifully rendered. Her voice blended inspiringly with the sentiment of the period. Mrs. E. W. Willman, seemingly dressed in colonial attire, gave the history of the dress-making and the names of the modeling them. Her glowing delivery was for the success of the entertainment.

levying the next state taxes will be thrown in gear early next month. By July 15, county tax assessors are to file with the state comptroller their estimates of the county tax valuations. The state automatic tax board is to meet July 20 to compute the tax rate. Usually the meeting recesses from July 20 until later, but this year there is little prospect of any tax rate less than the constitutional maximum of 77 cents being levied, so there may be no wait. The state intangible tax board expects to complete its hearings in July and report a valuation for common carrier pipe lines, which for the first time will be placed under an intangible assets tax. The state board of education will meet early in August to set a state school apportionment. A continuation of the present $16 per scholastic is likely. J. W. E. H. Beck of the production investigating committee and scholastic census error cost of $100,000 were checked. The report could be $20 per pupil.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

W. T. ANDERSON, editor of the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph and publisher of the Macon Telegraph and The Macon Evening News, says:

"It is an accepted fact that advertising pays, and this is interpreted by the unthinking that all advertising pays. All of it does not pay. Good advertising is like good fish, and the reverse is as true of one as the other. After we leave the distinctly bad advertising, the other kind is good in varying degrees. Novelties are of very little value, because if the novelty is any good at all the merits of the novelty completely obscure the advertising that is on it.

"Billboards cost a lot more than is justified by the results achieved, and this is said regardless of the cost.

"Circulars have very little value, because nobody vouches for them except the one whose name is signed and, as he has a strictly selfish interest, his statements are discounted almost to the point of killing the advertising value altogether.

"Radio is much like the old picture show advertising. This was popular at first, but either the picture people saw that to thrust advertising in the faces of their patrons who had paid for and demanded entertainment was bad business, or the advertisers themselves discovered there was no value in it. Radio is the only kind of advertising bought on blind faith and hope, not to speak of charity—from the standpoint of circulation. The novelty of it makes this possible. Imagine what the advertising rates on radio would be if there were an audit bureau of circulations, which check up newspapers and other publications, to ascertain the actual number of listeners in on the advertising.

"Newspapers are different. They have dates with prospective buyers every day of the year. There is no better time on earth in which to sell goods than when an appointment can be arranged with the prospect. And the buyer or reader pays the newspaper in subscription money to make this date. The newspaper has to have character behind it or it cannot continue to publish. It is the newspaper's job to see that fake and swindling advertising is kept out of its columns just as scrupulously as it has to guard its news and editorial columns against misrepresentation and false statements. The buyer knows this. He relies upon the newspaper for truth and accuracy more than he relies upon the advertiser."

It seems that little, if any, money has been spent in an effort to get rid of the slums of many cities.

Slums have a habit of increasing constantly as houses fall into disrepair and squalor, and they are always filled with poor people who cannot afford to pay for anything better. Nevertheless, they are entitled to something better and for their own sakes and for the sake of the communities to which they belong, through better housing these people will find a self respect and a sense of well-being which they have never before experienced and it will result in a vast improvement in their health and happiness.

Since the World War billions of dollars of public money have been spent in this country on public works and developments that are intended to compete with private business. Many of those who have participated in the art of burning up public money in the expensive scheme of their own designing are still on the job. A huge project, for instance, has no significance for people who, through no fault of their own, are compelled to live in the slums of our cities. The cost of these big projects leaves these people indifferent because thinking in millions is a practice they have never acquired.

It is on the efficiency of the masses that prosperity depends, and efficiency cannot be obtained unless it is backed by good health, contentment and pleasant, if modest, surroundings.

No longer are hard surfaced roads a luxury.

They are now a necessity in all lines of business. Today the automobile, the truck and the tractor are vital factors in every community.

The truck is employed extensively in nearly every line of business.

The tractor has helped in farming, in road work, in hauling and has helped and increased the business of the business farmer and the city business man.

The business man depends upon his automobile for work and for pleasure.

Both in business and pleasure, good roads are used the year around.

— what it means

—to blend and cross-blend mild ripe tobaccos to "weld" them together

THERE are a great many different kinds of tobacco grown in this country and abroad. No two kinds are quite alike.

Every variety has a different taste and other different qualities all its own.

Some have more natural sweetness than others—some add a rare spice and a rich aroma—some burn more freely than others.

To get a milder better taste we take the right amounts of the right kinds of home-grown tobaccos, then add aromatic Turkish.

When these tobaccos are blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way—balanced—each kind of tobacco helps to bring out the best smoking qualities of the others.

That's what blending and cross-blending means to Chesterfield—milder better taste. And that's why They Satisfy.
